Five Meet Death By Drowning In Red River

Home Town Talk
The California public was urged early this month by the principal oil companies to refuse to do business with cut price gasoline stations, on the basis that this kind of competition brought the general oil market in the oil industry to the point where the oil companies were making no money and the economic recovery of business generally on the Pacific coast was thereby suffering.

"Give a thought to what the price-cutter means in your business," Mr. Reader, the Standard of California's newspaper advertising put it.

The public was told that conditions in the oil industry there, described as "disastrous," could be ended only.

If the producer who has not come into the crude curtailment program now joins with the great majority of the industry.

If the dealer in gasoline ceases price cutting.

If the public itself takes a stand against the price-cutter, thus making his operations unprofitable.

So, you see, other states are having their grief over conditions in the oil business.

Has anyone counted the number of times they've read "Special Session News" in the past thirty days?

The industry would be a lot better off if it could make and keep a curtailment agreement with them in it, thus preventing necessity of further legislation to control the situation.

Things get bad and then public opinion steps in and forces a showdown and some improvement from some source.

Our friend, A. M. Rippe, returning from El Paso, where he has been on the Texas engineers' board, reports that the Texas engineers are looking for a curtailment agreement with the oil companies, and that the road is trying more than three-fourths of the total fuel movement from Arizona and California.

The Big Spring Rotary club broke into Rotary International's magazine, "The Rotarian," this month with a statement by Stine Phillips of the local club which was made at a recent program of the club at the Settles.

In a symposium of comments on a recent article in "The Rotarian," entitled "Is the Rotary Wheel Wobbling?" Phillips findings were reported thus: "I asked a young man of this city, who is twenty-four years old, to ask ten other young men what service club they would like to join. Of the ten, three said they could see no use of having any service club of any kind. Three were against all service clubs. Nearly one-third, in other words, were against all service clubs.

Three said they liked what they had heard of Rotary pretty well. One of them was the son of a Rotarian, but he said he had never been to the club with his father. Four said they would like to join, but they could see no use of having any service club of any kind. My analysis of the situation is this: Unless we as Rotarians can put some pep into our local clubs, unless we can make them attractive for young men, unless we can show these young fellows that we are going to do something besides sing and eat, then we had better bury our ambitions of Rotary, with us as the next generation will not need them.

These observations are of interest to all service club members. Like other organizations prominently identified with community life in this section of the country, service clubs often are subjected to unjust, uninformative criticism. Their purposes are worthy. There is more unselfish effort by such organizations than most any you can find.

But, periodically, all service clubs suffer lapses in interest—attendance drops, programs lag, membership drops out.

This may be due to any of several things but most often it is caused by poor programs. Poor programs are caused by uninterested members. Decline of efficiency and benefit to members and the community, therefore, always reverts back to the entire membership. It is very rarely the work of one or a few members.

The basic method of ingraining numbers with faith in the purposes of such an organization is to school them thoroughly in the principals. Once that has been done if a member is not sold on the organization he will get out, or ought to. If he is sold he will stick and be useful.

Gold Thief In Raids On Two More Offices

Dr. Happel And Dr. Hardy Lose Quantity Of Precious Metal

Thieves in the city continue to prospect for gold. Friday night they made a raid on the office of Dr. C. D. Boxley and obtained a quantity of the yellow metal valued at $85. Saturday night the robbers again went "prospecting." This time they visited the offices of two other dentists, Dr. E. H. Happel in the West Texas National building and Dr. Wofford Hardy in the Petroleum building. Dr. Happel had feared such a move and secured his valuables in a better place. However he did not take the entire stock of his gold and the thieves were successful in "panning" a meager amount of the "pay dirt."

In Dr. Hardy's case he was dug for about $10 in gold and an additional sum of three or four dollars in stamps. The old thing about the job was that the thieves only made off with the gold scraps Dr. Hardy had in his laboratory. The "gold diggers" overlooked a key in the stamp box that would have given them access to the store room and a rich strike.

Two Men Carry Same Name; One Is Barber The Other A Plumber

One of those instances where two men have the same name came to light here Monday when the Herald was asked to say that Fred Campbell, who was given a discharge of a complaint charging burglary, when examining trial was held before Justice of Peace C. C. Collins several days ago (about Fred Campbell, local barber, but Fred Campbell, a local plumber.

The plumber's attorney also informed the Herald that inaccuracies existed in the brief report of the dispositive published last week. The door to an apartment in which Campbell's personal property was located was not "broken down," as said. A bar nailed across it was torn loose and a key in Campbell's possession used to enter the place, he said.

State To Put Truck Law In Effect Soon

August 23 Date Set After Opinion From Appellate Court

AUSTIN, June 29 (INS)—With an opinion from the state court of criminal appeals to back them up, the Motor Transportation Division of the State Railroad Commission today made ready to start enforcement of the new truck laws next August 23.

The court in its opinion cited that the bill was effective under the 90-day clause, making it to have effect as a law on August 23, according to Walter Gates, assistant director of the division.

After that date, Gates said, all persons of firms operating as Class B carriers under the old law, and desiring to continue in business, must file an application for a certificate to continue as a motor carrier. This application must be filed within thirty days from August 23.

Gates also stated that all Class B operators failing to file an application will forfeit their privilege to operate after Sept. 22, and all persons operating under other permits must make new applications. Temporary Class A permits cease on August 23, he stated.

The court's decision was in the case of May vs. State of Texas, which was a trucker arrested for violating the law. The court, holding the law not effective as an emergency measure, ordered his release.

Passenger Revenue Of Railroads In Texas Declines 31.6 Per Cent During First Three Months Of 1931

AUSTIN, June 29 (AP)—The railroad as a medium of passenger transportation is steadily losing favor in the eyes of the public, according to a recent report of the Texas railroad commission, which showed that during the first quarter of 1931 passenger revenues declined 31.6 per cent over the revenue for the same period in 1930.

Increased use of the private automobile and inroads by bus transportation were given as the major causes for the decline in rail passenger traffic.

Opposite views on the advisability of reducing passenger rates to meet competition of buses and private automobiles were entertained by railroad executives. Recently one railroad, the St. Louis-San Francisco, received authority from the railroad commission to return to its old rate, slightly in excess of three cents per mile, on the basis of two cents per mile.

It was claimed the reduction in the fare did not result in sufficient increase in business to warrant continued loss of rates. It was admitted the attractiveness of lower rates increased the volume of passenger traffic considerably but not enough to justify continued operations at a two-cent per mile.

The Texas and Pacific railroad however, reported business it had recovered approximately 83 per cent of its lost passenger business through use of the two-cent rate, with officials entertaining the hope that improved facilities for rail travel would permanently commit a major portion of the recovered trade to the use of trains.

No figures were available on the success of the two-cent fare on the Texas-Mexican railroad. The Southern Pacific has the lowest fare in operation on a short stretch of line to make the fourth Texas railroad experimenting with the rate.

Survey Terms Lee Sadners War Debt Plan Resigns Post With Airways

Effective Tuesday Lee Sadners, who has been manager of the Big Spring airport for American Airways, Inc., several months, will leave the service of that company to accept a position as operations manager of a new air transport operation being organized in Florida and Georgia, he announced Monday.

He has been with American Airways for the past two years, as terminal or division manager, having come here from Atlanta, eastern terminus of the air mail and passenger line on which Big Spring is a division point.

The actual economic significance of the war debt is a controversial subject. The survey continues. Some authorities point out that the yearly service charges on account of the debt constitute a relatively small item in the international balance of payments, while others maintain that the tax burdens and transfer problems arising from the settlements are much more important than their actual magnitude would suggest.

The most important immediate effect of the proposal is psychological. It has served to revive hopes for economic recovery and political stability where widespread doubt and pessimism were acting as deterrent influences without much regard to actual facts or real values. The economic effects of a re-statement of confidence will be great, even if the process of readjustment move slowly and actual business improvement does not come rapidly or in appreciable volume.

It would be a mistake to over-emphasize this proposed debt adjustment as an economic factor in itself, but as a stimulant to constructive effort and thought, both here and abroad, it carries great weight and may well mark the change in business attitude which precedes and helps to vivify business recovery.

The publication of the government plan was followed by sharp advances in values in all the great financial markets of the world. Prices on the New York Stock Exchange rallied strongly in the immediate trading in several months, and similar movements were reported from the financial centers of Europe. The condition on the Berlin Bourse was described as a buyers' stampede. Optimism in this country was reflected also in commodity markets. This day's advance in prices of four major farm products was estimated to have added $300,000,000 to the aggregate value of these crops. Export sales of copper at New York reached the highest daily total reported so far this year.

Preliminary estimates by United States Treasury officials placed the total amount of German payments at approximately $40,000,000.

1,000-Mile Gas Pipe Line To Chicago Nears Completion

By HARRY BERGMAN
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

CHICAGO, June 28.—One of the greatest engineering feats of modern times—a natural gas pipe line nearly 1,000 miles long—is nearing completion and will furnish Chicago factories and homes with the subterranean fuel within the present year.

"We hope to have natural gas in Chicago by the fall or winter of this year," was the statement made to International News Service by a high official of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

Up hill and down dale, over plains and across rivers, the great pipeline, longest in the world, is being constructed from the rich gas fields of Amarillo, Texas, to the Chicago metropolitan area. A contract for the construction of the last section of the line from Rockford, Ill., to Joliet, where it will be connected with the city's system of pipes, calls for completion of the work by July 1, 1931. This last leg will stretch over a distance of 135 miles.

"The construction is proceeding as rapidly as can be expected," said the Peoples Gas official, "but we cannot at this time make any definite statement regarding the date of completion."

Representing an investment of approximately $100,000,000, the line is being constructed of 24-inch steel pipe, especially built to withstand the terrific pressure of natural gas. More than 800,000 tons of steel were purchased for the project. Besides the main line, approximately 1,000 miles of pipe of smaller diameter is being laid for auxiliary lines. Across rivers as many as three emergency lines are being constructed so that the flow of gas will not be interrupted by accidents to the main line.

Completion of the gigantic project is expected to result in lower prices and enhanced efficiency to the gas consumer. It is planned to mix the natural gas with the artificial product.

"This mixture," said an official of the company, "will prove of greater efficiency than the product now in use. Other than that, we can make no definite statements at this time regarding our plans and expectations. The entire project is still in a formative, experimental stage and the best we can do is to await developments."

Anticipating the introduction of natural gas in the Chicago area, the company about a year ago filed an application with the Illinois state commission, requesting that the company be permitted to alter the basis on which the consumer is charged.

The proposed basis for charging would be the heat unit, instead of the volume. In the petition to the commission, it was pointed out that the nature of manufactured and natural gas would result in more heat per cubic foot of gas. Thus, if consumers paid for heat unit instead of for cubic foot, they would benefit by a reduction in the cost of gas.

George F. Mitchell, president of the company, said: "Reduction in the level of rates, consequent upon the introduction of natural gas must await more exact information than is now available to the company. Meanwhile, the step proposed is a constructive one in the direction of adjusting the community and the company to the anticipated change in conditions."

It is understood that the company will institute a campaign to encourage use of gas for domestic purposes, particularly for house heating, but the scope of this activity has not yet been determined.

The immense pipe line project is being sponsored by nine large oil and utility companies, including the Doherty interests, Inshell and Company and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. This combination, one of the most powerful ever formed, represents assets aggregating more than $4,000,000,000. To supervise and carry out the details of the monster project the Continental Construction Company, a Delaware corporation, was formed, with headquarters in Kansas City.

Along the pipe line, building has also gone forth on several gas compressor stations, with a capacity of between 75,000 and 100,000 horsepower. These stations will pump the gas through the pipe. It is estimated that 300 million cubic feet of gas will be delivered into Chicago daily by the pipe line.

The mileage of pipe lines now conveying natural gas from the fields to cities in the Middle West and West is estimated at in excess of 55,000 and more miles to this vast network are being added daily. The industry now is estimated to represent an investment of $1,000,000,000.

ONLY ONE COFFEE IS ROASTED UNDER SCIENTIFIC CONTROL

Hills Bros. Use Radically Different, Patented Process to Develop Finer Flavor

The housewife who cooks food in small quantities to insure perfect results will instantly recognize the value of Hills Bros.' patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting—as a means to develop the utmost flavor in coffee.

Instead of the rare blend of fine coffees being roasted in bulk which is the ordinary method, only a few pounds at a time are roasted. These small quantities pass continuously through the "Controlled Roasters" in which heat and speed of operation are automatically controlled. Because of this accurate control of the flow of coffee and the heat every berry of the blend is roasted evenly. None are over-roasted—none are under-roasted. This uniformity is demonstrated in the cup of coffee eventually made. It has a flavor other coffees cannot equal because they are not roasted the same way. Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere by grocers. It comes to you perfectly fresh because it is packed in vacuum. This process extracts air, which destroys the flavor of coffee from the can and keeps it out. Ordinary tins, even if airtight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Kansas City, Missouri. ©1931

Comments And Rules For The Art Contest

Prizes Given By Texas Federation of Women's Club Annually

The best known award in the fine arts class, which the T. F. W. C. makes at its annual state meeting, is probably the $500 prize awarded to the artist submitting the best oil painting of a Texas subject.

The $500.00 Cash Purchase Prize offered for the best oil painting of Texas subjects cannot be too highly prized. This award will be made at the State Convention which meets at Lubbock, November 1, 1931.

It is the incentive needed by our state artists whose inspiration and development depends much upon encouragement and recognition.

Artists from every section of the state are congratulating the Texas Federation for this act which they declare means an art gallery for permanent headquarters of the very best of the Southern artists, or still better the United States.

A number of artists have entered the contest. The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs from its very beginning, has been a most important factor in the development of art interest in Texas and has done probably more than any other cultural organization in the raising of the standard of public taste for better art. One of its first achievements in art development during the early years of pioneering was the establishment of a Traveling Art Gallery. This consisted of a small collection of paintings by Texas artists that was carried about in buggies, the only way of over-land transportation at that time.

Study courses in art for a better understanding of the subject in its various phases and its value in every day life; art exhibits to give a more intimate acquaintance with beautiful paintings and other treasures of art have always been important features of the Art Program of the Texas Federation.

Each administration has made outstanding contributions to the Art Program, but perhaps the crowning achievement is "The Art Endowment Fund" established at a meeting of the Board at Austin, Feb. 3, 1931, and provides for a permanent annual competitive prize in art, the first prize to be $500.00 in cash.

The prize picture will become the property of the Texas Federation and will be placed in the Art Gallery of the new club house at Austin.

The following rules governing the award of the $500.00 cash purchase prize were prepared by Mrs. R. F. Lindsey, President of the Texas Federation and Mrs. Alexander Adams, Chairman of Fine Arts and should be read by all club women. Every district art chairman was requested to explain the Art Endowment Fund, and to present the plan for this award at their spring convention.

Episcopal Young People Have Charge Of Sunday Services

The eleven o'clock services at Saint Mary's Episcopal Church yesterday were of special interest.

The work of the young people in the Summer Conference held each year at Lubbock, was presented by Mary Louise Gilmour, Louise Hayes, Otto Peters, and Frederick Koberg.

These four were outstanding in the group of young people who were gathered in Lubbock from the eighty counties of the Episcopal District of North Texas.

Their presentation of what they received from the course of study and the special lectures by members of the faculty of Texas Tech was most interesting and inspiring.

At the close of the conference Louise Hayes was recommended by the faculty and the conference for the award of the Scholarship in the Episcopal Provincial Camp which will begin at Winslow, Arkansas July 23.

Kid Stuff Doesn't Appeal To Mitzi; She Wants To Be 'Character Actress'

Little Mitzi Green, 10-year-old talkie star, objects to being a "screen kid." She is a "character actress" and takes her work seriously. At the left you see her in character.

HOLLYWOOD UP—A character actress at the age of 10—this is what Mitzi Green is and what she prefers to be. She doesn't want to be just a "d" in motion pictures; she says she is plenty of them. A appearance Mitzi is 10 years old, but she discusses such topics as the parts she plays, measles, other children, bicycle riding and Hollywood like one of twice her years. "I don't ever want to be just a regular kid in pictures," she says. "I've never been a real, sweet child but once and that was in 'Tom Sawyer' when I was playing Becky Thatcher. "But even then, Becky wasn't an ordinary sweet girl. She was smart and had a lot of character. She was the only daughter of a former little league, Joe Kono and Green, Mitzi grew up in the theater, almost constantly in contact with grown-ups. At the age of three she began impersonating actors and actresses she met. About a year later her parents allowed her to make a public appearance. And at six she was a vaudeville headliner. "While Mitzi was appearing in a Los Angeles theater a year and a half ago, a director who was looking for a precocious young lady for a picture saw her and hired her. Her contract was renewed the other day at a big salary increase—Mitzi gets $750 a week now. "Kid stuff," in films or in real life, doesn't appeal to Mitzi, who was named after the Hungarian star, Mitzi Hajos. "Oh, yes, there are some children living at the hotel here," she says, "but I really don't have time to see them much. You see, they are busy with school, dolls and one thing and another, while I have to spend a great deal of time learning my parts. "I go to school three hours a day, which may seem like a short time, but our work in class is really very complete. I'm in seventh grade now, but soon I expect to be in eighth. "Mitzi wonders if folks have the idea that she doesn't think up her ideas for impersonations. "I have heavy ideas on impersonations, and a theory that people have to have apparent peculiarities before you can mimic them. That's why some actors are hard to impersonate. It sounds like a slam, but it isn't. "Some stars are great actors, but they just don't do obvious things an impersonator can overemphasize. "Yes, she's really only 10 years old.

Champion Orator Preacher's Son

By BESS FURMAN
 WASHINGTON—(AP)—A boy who was born to a background of words eloquently spoken, has become champion high school-age orator of the United States.

He is Robert Gibson Rayburn, son of the Rev. and Mrs. James T. Rayburn of Newton, Kan., Presbyterian evangelist.

From a praise team of 11,034 inhabitants came Robert, to triumph over orators trained in large city schools—New York, Chicago, Washington, Birmingham, Spokane.

The judges ranked the young orators on the basis of prepared oration and extemporaneous speech.

Robert's extemporaneous speech on a subject handed him only a few minutes previous to his delivery.

To the son of two evangelists, who has watched father and mother prepare new speeches for every night in the calendar, with a few mornings and afternoons added for good measure, becoming almost technically perfect in extemporaneous speaking appeared no impossible task.

And the musical training this area hand-in-hand with the spoken word added to his. An accomplished pianist at 15, he hopes to make music his life career.

"My parents want me to be a preacher," he says, "but so far I can't see it that way."

All his pre-school years, Robert says, were spent traveling from

Ju-Ju Strongest Thing In Africa, Says Doctor

EL PASO, June 29 (AP)—Ju-ju, an enchantment, is the strongest thing in Africa, says Dr. P. M. O'Hara, physician for a rubber company operating far in the interior of that continent. He was in El Paso recently.

Because of the natives' belief in the power of medicine men to bring about their deaths by placing enchantments on them, according to Dr. O'Hara, they often allow wild beasts to kill them, or commit suicide.

"One of my principal duties, prevention of tetanus infections, meets with much opposition from the witch doctors," he said. "They are accustomed to place a ju-ju on a man whom they have good reason to believe has become infected and then stand aside and watch him die."

"I have gotten around that by inoculating a native with anti-tetanus serum and letting the witch doctors get the credit for the cure."

Other observations by Dr. O'Hara were:

"That the book Trader Horn is a joke in Africa.

"That the country never will be civilized. Some tribes have only 50 words in their language, and generations would be required to civilize them.

"That the lion is not justly termed 'King of the Beasts.' The elephant, the rhino, the python and the gorilla can lick him in a fair fight.

"That American girls, since his last visit to the United States, have grown more interesting and better looking, but are far too aggressive."

Adventure Stories Soldiers' Favorites

EL PASO, June 29 (AP)—Who does a soldier like to read in his spare time? Westerns and adventure tales.

Cactus Pete, who bullets always move in straight lines to their intended marks, and the ex-sticking human tarantula have equal fascination for him, but women's magazines? Never.

"This information was broadcast here by Y. M. C. A. officials in an appeal for magazines to be distributed among Fort Bliss soldiers. A reading room will be opened at the Dona Ana target range, where the soldiers will be stationed from July to late August."

Chas. Quarau, of San Antonio is in town for a few days visiting with friends.

Celery Latest Item On Smugglers' List

EL PASO, June 29 (AP)—Good American stuff! Just brought across the river! It's celery, the latest item to be set down on smugglers' lists in this vicinity.

Since a recent order of the Mexican government, banning importation of celery from the United States, price of the plant in Juarez, opposite El Paso in Mexico, has jumped 25 per cent, and the celery bootlegger has become a problem for the authorities.

Diners in Juarez who like celery have continued to demand it, and, despite the dangers attendant on smuggling, the smugglers and their representatives have undertaken to supply cafe owners, since only a small quantity is grown in Mexico.

The plant was banned, along with beets, several flowers, straw and ribwort, according to Manuel Alcazar, chief inspector in charge of agricultural defense in Juarez, because of the European corn border.

A gas compressor station under construction at Frith, Tex., will have 12 units of 1,250 horsepower each.

Additions to the corps of inspectors, recently authorized, are expected to increase Kansas cigarette tax revenues $300,000 yearly.
