Woman Loses Arm In Highway Accident

A questionnaire is published today on this page for the purpose of canvassing farmers of the area on their ideas about controlling cotton production.

Governor Sterling wants to know how they feel and The Herald will pass whatever information it gathers on to him.

To call the legislature into special session with a majority of members already opposed to legislative control of acreage or production would be foolish.

If farmers throughout the state do not favor such a method their representatives in the legislature will not. Of course a few would favor it if their constituents did when it came to a showdown, because of innate political prejudices or just natural conscientious scruples against the plan.

Whether any legislative action on any reduction plan is taken depends in the final analysis upon the farmers. Let us hope the cotton growers of our section will speak out and let the government know how they feel.

Fill out the questionnaire and mail it to The Herald. Say what you think, unvarnished.

When! Cotton and oil. Cotton and oil!

Speed the day when we'll have something else to worry about.

Hawks Start Hep Back To New York

PORT WORTH, Aug. 25 (AP)—Capt. Frank Hawks left at 7:30 a. m. today following the regular passenger ship carrying his mother, Mrs. Ida Mae Hawks, to New York. He was to meet his mother at each stop. Hawks' plane is much faster than the regular transport ship. He is attempting to set a record from Port Worth to the coast.

Mrs. Ida Mae Hawks, mother of Captain Frank Hawks, premier speed aviator of the world, stopped briefly at the local airport Monday at 6:30 p. m. enroute for Port Worth where she was to meet her noted son.

Mrs. Hawks escaped the crowd by standing near the ship for some time before going into the terminal for a bite to eat. Following this she wandered in the direction of the hangars, apparently bent on exploring the place. She was summoned again to the building where a phone call awaited her.

Her facial features are much the same as those of her famous son. She is gray haired and of medium height. The air ride did not bother her, she said, for she was accustomed to make journeys through the air.

DON'T be FOOLED by Tricky SALES TALK

DON'T be misled by challenges—guarantees—laboratory analyses—price comparisons—claims of 25% savings—made by distributors of special-brand tires.

A recent example of a grossly misleading and extravagant statement by a distributor of special-brand tires is—"Mount one of our tires on one wheel of your car and a tire of any other make on the opposite wheel. If our tire does not give you equal service at a saving up to 25% in price, we will give you a new tire free."

Firestone don't ask you to run test cars for them—they have twenty-nine test cars of their own, running day and night, on which they test Firestone Tires and other makes, including special-brand tires, and we have the proof of the safety, quality and extra values of Firestone Tires before you buy.

Modish School Miss Scorns Crinolines, Does Pert Tricks With Wool For Fall

By DIANA MERRWIN
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)
PARIS (AP)—Campus tog for the college girl follow lines of colorful simplicity.

Despite a mode of plumed hats rich velvets and crinolines predicted for the modern matron, fall clothes for the modish miss in school cling to designs of pert practicality.

School skirts are four inches below the knee, waistlines are normal, hiplines flat and fitted, while novelty wools and simple silks are the stuffs of which designs are made.

Campus coats are made of heavy rough wools designed with belts and snug close-fitting collars. Many school coat collars are made in scarf design to tie about the throat, while others are fur-lined.

One of the smartest school costumes is of brown and white striped spongy wool. A suspender skirt is worn over a white knitted wool blouse and the whole is topped with a brown and white striped wool coat designed with intricate diagonal piecing in the back and collared in brown Indian lamb.

Another coat is of dark red wool with a crossing scarf collar and lower sleeves of black astrakhan, while a third is of rough green wool belted snugly at the waistline and collared in brown fox.

The smartest frock for school wear will be of lightweight wool in trim tailored design, contrasting with last winter's sport model line. These tailored frocks are fashioned with close-fitting bodices, semi-high necklines and fitted flared skirts finished with bright hued belts of brick-red, golden yellow and grass green. Dark browns, reds, greens and brilliant blues are the favorite colors.

LAURA INGALLS, PLANNING OCEAN HOP, WORKED WAY THROUGH FLYING SCHOOL

NEW YORK (AP)—Laura Ingalls, who worked her way through flying school because "anyone seeing a woman flying will think it's easy," is tackling a flying job which hardly looks easy to anyone.

Within the next few weeks she hopes to carve her niche in history as the first woman to fly the Atlantic alone.

At Roosevelt field here, she is making her last tests in preparation for a hop to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, and thence to Europe, following virtually the same route as Ruth Nichols when she crashed at Harbor Grace.

Miss Ingalls is preparing for her task thoroughly. She believes that her sex has a great opportunity in aviation to "create a reputation for safety and careful flights," and she is overlooking no precaution to safeguard that reputation.

The vaudeville stage lost a good Spanish dancer when Miss Ingalls took to the air. Finding a secretarial position in the office at Roosevelt field here, she arose at dawn and stayed at the field until dark studying flying before and after office hours.

Her ground training finished, she transferred to St. Louis, where she was graduated in 1930. Out of a class of five she won the highest grades as a transport pilot.

Within a month of graduation she had set a woman's record for consecutive loops with 34, and three weeks later she raised her own mark to 90.

The same year she established a barrel-roll record of 714, at the time surpassing any similar feat achieved by either man or woman fliers.

She was the first woman to fly eastward across the United States, setting a woman's transcontinental record with her flying time of 25 hours, 35 minutes.

Stamina, coolheadedness in emergencies—these are some of the assets that may help Laura Ingalls fly the Atlantic alone. No woman has ever accomplished this in a solo attempt. She gained her first knowledge of flying while working in an airport office.

ed no fright or thrill, she said, when a wing tank ran dry and her motor stopped during one of her stunt flights.

Physical stamina demanded in aviation exploits also is hers. She was "not tired" following her record ocean-to-ocean flight, she asserted, while at the end of her barrel-rolling marathon she landed "feeling fine."

Miss Ingalls, admitting that flying is "a man's game," believes women ought to go at it "very quietly, very earnestly."

She is confident women can fly

Household Hints

BY MRS. J. M. CHOATE
To Remove Grease from Glass
Finger marks, or grease, on looking glass, window-panes, etc., can be removed, if a little ammonia is added to clear water. Never use soap. A little alcohol and water rubbed on quickly and wiped dry will leave window panes bright and shining.

To Clean Paint
Put one tablespoonful of ammonia in one quart of hot water, dip a flannel cloth into this and wipe off the work. If cleaned in this way, no scrubbing will be necessary.

To Brighten Matting
Take one pint of salt, dissolve in one-half pail of water, wash the matting twice during the summer with this and dry quickly with a soft cloth.

To Brighten Oilcloth
Rub all over with a cloth dipped in milk after it has been washed in the usual way. Avoid strong soapuds, as they remove the varnish.

To Clean Grease from Carpet
Use ammonia almost pure, cover the spot with white blotting paper and iron light, or rub spot with a white flannel, dipped in turpentine.

SPORTSIANTS By Alan Gould

It's still a trifle early to sound the war whoops for college football, although the bundle of advancing dope mounts with each incoming mail. Nevertheless, our scouts report a few sidelights that are at least interesting this far in advance.

Not the least is the information, that, in general, what Mr. Benjamin Friedman, the professional gridiron star and former Michigan All-America quarterback, says at Yale's coaching sessions this fall will prevail.

Mal Stevens nominally remains the head coach of the Elis for Yale's football season as "Little Boy Blue," but Friedman, who is, has been given a free hand in shaping tactics, whether a lot of the old grads like it or not.

Benny's say-so, it seems, will be more authoritative than that of Alan Walsh, the one-time captain of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen and the man who was believed a year ago to have the inside track for the next job as head coach.

There is no question about Friedman's coaching ability. His handling of the professional New York Giants in the past year or two has been a treat to the eye and the gridiron technician.

SCATTERED VOICES From another ancient strong hold, Harvard, comes the advance information that Eddie Casey, the new head coach, plans to base his deception on simplicity.

"Casey will use only three formations, all going out of a huddle that will almost be a shift," writes our scout from Boston. "One will be a kick formation and the other two will resemble the Warner - simple and double wing-back spread. It is going to fit all of his plays to these three starts, with the idea that the opposition will be rattled trying to employ three different defenses at the same time."

Army, Texas, Virginia, Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Yale are welcome to this advance tip for whatever it may be worth. University of California, at least, is getting away early to an optimistic start under the new regime of William A. (Navy Bill) Ingram, former head football coach at Annapolis.

Navy Bill, perhaps, is going on the theory that the first thing to do is build up the morale that was so severely shattered by the troumaging administered to the Golden Bears by Stanford and Southern California last season. He has made a number of cheerful speeches, praised the material and the prospects, visited Florida, Frank E. Wright hears that the "little 170-pound guard, Don Forsyth, who stood like the Rock of Gibraltar for four successive downs when Georgia had the ball on Florida's two yard line last fall, is getting himself into 'good sitting' condition for the 1931 football season, as a life guard at Larchmont, N. Y., and should be a mainstay for Coach Bachman's line this fall."

At Wisconsin, Glenn Thistlethwaite, the head coach, has invited an advisory committee, consisting of the track, baseball and basketball coaches, to help him shape the prospects of the 1931 football team. Illinois, after a study of the football report, listing 91 candidates for Bob Zupke's squad, finds 71 are from the home state, 20 others from 14 different states. And in case you have overlooked it, we have fresh confirmation from the professional publicists that Yale is going to play at Chicago October 17 in honor of the "grand old man" - Amos Alonzo Stagg.

Three week cruises to the Lesser Antilles or Windward Islands and to the Virgin Islands are scheduled for August 26 and September 3 on the Steamer Dominica by the Furness-Bermuda line.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 25 (AP)—Holding the St. Louis Browns to five hits, Leroy Mahaffey hurled the Philadelphia Athletics to a 5 to 1 victory here and chalked up his fourth straight victory of the season.

Dunagan Wins F. Merrick Hangs Up Record; Webb Tennis Match Loses To Barbers

Seeded No. 1 Wades Thru Barnett, 6-4, 1-6, 9-7; Matches Today

H. B. Dunagan Jr. waded through the initial match of the first round of the city tennis tournament Monday afternoon after a closely contested match with Miburn Barnett. Scores were 6-4, 1-6, 9-7. Dunagan, No. 1 in the seeding, eliminated one of the strongest contenders for the crown.

Dunagan won the right to be just in the seeding Sunday by defeating Curtis Bishop in straight sets 6-2, 6-1. Bishop is consequently shoved into second round while Joe Davis is rated third with George Dabney ending the singles seeding with fourth honors. Incidentally he is conceded by many the best chance of coping the title by virtue of his newly found power.

This afternoon Bishop will play John Stripling in the second match of the first round. The next match will be between Joe Davis and Harold Harvey, with subsequent matches between Bill McCarthy and Bob Uley, Howard Smith and John Walcott, Cecil Shockley and L. A. Wright, George Dabney and Fred Townsend, and Harry Jordan and Le Roy Merrick.

Bishop and Dunagan are seeded No. 1 in the doubles department while Barnett and Dabney are accorded second place. Howard Smith and Joe Davis will meet Bishop and Dunagan in the first paired match, with John W. Walcott and L. A. Wright coupling to play Harvey and McCarthy. Barnett and Dabney will meet Uley and Townsend, while John Stripling and Harry Jordan are due to jangle with Cecil Shockley and Le Roy Merrick.

All matches will be played after 5 p. m. each afternoon. An effort is being made to bring the tournament to its final stages by Sunday afternoon.

He also led the field in the single game honors, getting 219. Webb rolled consistently to aggregate a sum of 499 pins during the contest.

INSIDIOUS SUGGESTION VERSUS TRUTH

How many thousands of times in recent years has a single expression repeated in newspaper advertisements and reproduced on thousands of billboards been accepted by the public, not as a result of inquiry or investigation but merely because of its multiplied repetition and reiteration.

This method, so successful in commercial advertising in the past, has been hit upon by the interested advocates of beverage intoxicants backed by vast financial resources which makes possible an unprecedented campaign of publicity to divert the attention of a thoughtless public from the real merits of the case, in the interest of greed.

Carefully avoiding anything that would direct the attention of the people to the nature and effect of beverage alcohol, the promoters of the campaign to bring back beer have attempted by cleverly devised indirect suggestions to make their appeal to prejudice, passion and appetite.

Why should advertising agencies and agencies deal with the real merits of the alcohol problem as long as there remains even the slightest hope of covering the public mind by the insidious repetition of unfounded and misleading suggestions such as "the law cannot be enforced," "there is no alternative under present conditions," "you can make men good by law," and a score of other similar expressions?

One must not fear or be misled by the organized opposition to prohibition now being suggested to take into account that they are still in evidence organized industrial forces on the other side which are determined to keep the public mind the fundamental questions involved and which stand upon emphasized the truth about the individual and social consequences involved in the various uses of beverage alcohol, as well as the social movement.

After a decade of legislative, executive and judicial action, the law is now being carried on by the executive branch which millions upon millions of people have been trained in the hope of turning back the prohibition tide. It means that the law is being carried on by the executive branch of this government, a government of instruction to police, the Eighteenth Amendment and the National Prohibition Code, stand without a single legislative modification and with a complete increasing effectiveness in the implementation of the law.

The logic of events and the trend of public opinion that are daily evidence that even the powerful weapon of insidious suggestion is not able to cope with fundamental truth which has been so substantially presented in public thought to be eradicated or submerged even by the most extensive and intensive publicity of falsehood which the modern world has ever known.

ERNEST H. CHERINGTON.
IS PROHIBITION A SUCCESS?
Reprint of an article by Chester H. Rowell in the Los Angeles Express.

"Is prohibition a success?" asked a contemporary, referring to the many arrests for drunkenness and drunken driving.

"Is prohibition a success?" Of course not. Who ever said it was? Certainly not its advocates. But is that any reason for giving it up?—especially when the constitution compels us to see it through, anyway, to final success or failure, whether we like it or not.

Democracy is not a success, either, yet every nation has recently given it up in disgust, but no real American would surrender it. Capitalism is not a success, but is no reason for giving bolshevik Christianity. Has not Christ made the life of even the Christian nations, but they have not thought it necessary to go to heaven. Even our material civilization is not being given up by its producers, but nobody proposes to give back to the barbarians any. Nationalism is a success, but even the communists have not given up their nationalism.

Why the reason a nation is not a success is not the fault of the nation itself, but the fault of the human race which makes it. Why then, that prohibition is doing nothing because it is not a success? Has the reason a nation is not a success? The reason a nation is not a success is not the fault of the nation itself, but the fault of the human race which makes it.

Why the reason a nation is not a success is not the fault of the nation itself, but the fault of the human race which makes it.
