HANSFORD REPORT

by JAMES JARRETT

It's beginning to appear as if we're going to have to r. name this column from the Hansford Report to the Mistake Apology Listing.

In Sunday's story on the Spearman Lynx-Memphis Cyclone game, we inadvertly reported Brett Davis as Brent Davis. Naturally, everybody else in Spearman knows the young man -- obviously everybody except us, of course.

Anyway, we have the name engraved in our minds and that mistake won't happen again. As someone once said, "I don't care what they say about me as long as they spell my name right."

I believe the last part of that statement. But I don't hold much truth with the first part of it. Still, I don't think I'll test it out.

Gruver's Buddy Etling just returned from yet another excursion -- as if deep-sea fishing weren't enough for the wheelchair-bound Hansford county resident, he has to go flying off to Japan. He seems to have enjoyed the rip pretty much and, invariably. there are always things which though commonplace in the foreign country -- bring a chuckle to the American mind.

While on a sight seeing tour there, Etling and his group were treated to a visit to the ranking Catholic Cardinal of Japan, a devoted man whose last name is Sure enough, in traditional-Japanese custom is a sign above the Cardinal's dwelling which states simply, "Welcome to the house of Sin'

Sometimes, translation leaves something to be desired. here the translation is literal and complete. It's not the Cardinal's fault his Oriental last name means what it does in English.

By the way, it doesn't mean the same in Japanese.

In this edition, you'll find a cartoon done by J.P. Doodles. At first glance, it's humorous. But, after careful consideration, it's actually a sad statement of the way life is now.

Hergert is director of nursing

Her duties are wide and varied and include the often mundane responsibilities of day-to-day work activity all the way up to and including that of public relations.

Perhaps that's where Carol Hergert -- director of nursing and resident services at Hansford Manor -- shines, when she's busy explaining the advantages of the Spearman-based nursing home.

It's obvious she believes in what she's saying when she points to one feature, then another. And that conviction comes from a long and gratifying relationship with the Manor.

Energetic and effevescent, the Manor director of nursing is at once a walking, talking advertisement for the Manor and a stalwart defender of residents rights and

'It's automatic grounds for dismissal if a resident is abused either physically or mentally," she declares, brooking not argument on that subject. "I want all our residents to feel at home here, that's important to me."

Perhaps that, along with her nursing avocation, is inbred in the personable Hansford county resident who, even as a child, knew she wanted to become a nurse.

'I wanted to be a nurse from the time I was seven," she remembers. "I probably inherited that from my mother."

Hansford Co. Library

Her mother, LoRee Booth, is now an LVN at Hansford Hospital. Surprisingly enough, however, she was not a nurse at the time Hergert was in her formative years.

"My mother presented nursing to be in a very positive setting,' she says. "Then, after I was older, she went into nursing herself."

Later, Hergert made a commitment to herself that she would get a college degree no matter what.

When she discovered she could get a degree in nursing, the two goals became one and, in 1976, she graduated from Texas Christian University with a BSN degree.

With that firmly tucked into her creditials, the RN went to work at St. Joseph's Hospital in Ft. Worth where she had been asked by the director of nursing there to do a couple of weeks of in-service training.

Later, on a trip back to Spearman to visit her relatives, the car she was driving "fell apart", as she

"I look back now and it's kind of funny how things turned out," she smiles. "We went to Hergert's to buy a car and that's when I met Donnie."

Meanwhile, she had taken a job at Hansford Hospital in order to

Hansford Manor hosts Open House

A special open house of the newly remodeled and expanded Hansford Manor Nursing Home will be held Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 p.m. announces Carol Hergert, director of nursing and resident services at the Manor.

The open house details the new additions and rennovations to the 5-year old complex which was expanded from 39 beds to 84 under a $2.5 million improvement project approved by voters almost one year

Members of the Spearman Chamber of Commerce will be on hand to assist in ribbon cutting ceremonies and members of the Manor's Auxilliary personnel will provide refreshments for the 2hour open house.

Auxilliary members will also present residents of Hansford Manor with corsages and boutonnieres for the special occasion.

The open house earmarks the culmination of a 2-year long expansion project which began with a bond election the latter part of 1985. Ground breaking on the new facility was held in September

Lynx, Bulldogs clash in interstate gridiron game

The Spearman Lynx will be looking to make it two in a row when they travel to Hooker, Ok. to take on the Bulldogs in an interstate football clash between the two ballclubs.

Game time for Friday night's gridiron tilt is slated for 8 p.m. in Bulldog stadium in Hooker.

Hooker, meanwhile, will be looking for their first win of the year after giving up a grudging 12-6 loss to Clayton, N. Mex., last Friday night in Clayton.

The Lynx will be going into this week's contest fresh off their season opening win over Memphis - that 25-12 game in Spearman.

"Our scouts report that Hooker looks better this year than he's ever seen them look," reports Lynx head football coach Don Mullins. "They're playing excellent defense and look strong offensively, too."

The Bulldogs return 18 letter men from last season 6-5 ball club and have a host of 3-year starters on their senior-entrenched team.

'There's a lot of playing experience on the field for Hooker," note Mullins. "They've got six offensive starters back and five defensive starters back."

SPEARMAN QUARTERBACK BRETT DAVIS [with the ball] is backed up by Jeff Gustin as a Memphis Cyclone defender zeroes in on him during last Friday's football game held in Lynx stadium.

The Spearman Music Booster Club is making plans for a special "Get Acquainted with the Directors" meeting which will be held later this month, reports Helen Melton, president of the group.

Meanwhile, the Lynx gridiron machine continues to gain polish this week as they prepare to take on the Bulldogs.

That season opening win against Memphis proved not only a satisfying start to their 1987 season, but a morale booster for the Lynx as

"It erased a lot of doubts," declares the Spearman head coach. "The kids have found they can win.'

While the Spearman football team is still hobbled somewhat by minor injuries, those are improving and within the next few weeks the Lynx will be moving ahead at full Looking back at last week's clash with Memphis, Mullins gave defensive accolades to sophomore defensive tackle John Hughes.

The 6-0, 214 pound defensive lineman graded out with 47 points in the coach's complicated scoring system, giving him the highest point total of any Spearman defen-

"Memphis ran right at John all night long," notes Mullins. "And he handled himself well.'

Offensively, junior tackle James Tindle graded the highest for Spearman as he paved the way for the Lynx backfield. Tindle is 6-1 and weighs in at 215 pounds.

"As a team we had a 68 percent average," Mullins says. "That's what we need in order to win.'

AIDS group offers free AIDS testing

The Panhandle AIDS Support Organization will be offering free, confidential AIDS testing on a regular monthly basis the first Tuesday of each month, reports Neil Hawkins, president of the Amarillo-based organization.

To take advantage of the free testing, one must call the group at 372-4557 giving a first name -which may be a pseudonym -- and a telephone number.

The call will be returned and the information as to the time and place of the testing will be given.

Kevin, who is in the Marines had been stationed in Okinawa for 31/2 years. His next assignment will be in Hawaii.

Flower club has meeting

The Gladiola Flower Club met this week in the home of Ann Flowers. Vice-president Wanda Brown presided at the meeting.

Fay Holt gave members an update on the club's annual Home Tour while reports on wild flowers were given by Rose Cummings on the golden rod, Betty Davis on the Texas blue bonnet and Jo Larson on the Queen Anne's lace.

Hostess flowers took top honors in pot plants while Dorothy Buzzard's home grown arrangement of assorted lavender flowers and greenery took that catagory.

Margaret Evans won first in the borrowed division with an edible flower dish. She gave a demonstration in a program entitled "A Feast of Flowers'

Scents for All Seasons The next time you want to give a gift to a woman in your life, you may consider it "scentsible" to present her with a provocative fragrance.

Perfume can make a "scentsational" gift at any time and now, perfume manufacturers have added scented product extensions to their lines. For example, Les Passions du Bain, is a collection of perfumed bath products with the essence of the Paloma Picasso fragrance. These include: Creme Satinee Parfumee/Smoothing Perfumed Body Creme; Voile De Lait Parfume/Perfumed Silkening Body Lotion; Poudre D' Or Parfumee/Perfumed Golden Body Pow-der and Gel De Bain Parfume/Perfumed Foaming Bath and Shower

Designed to intrigue and impassion, Les Passions Du Bain may make your rendezvous with the bath a pleasure.

NO MORE TRUCKERS?

A division of the American Trucking Association -- The Maintenance Council -- met recently in Dearborn, Mich. It's pretty hard to get excited about subjects like trailer wiring, instrument panels, and tire disposal but I sure couldn't complain about the food. We had every gourmet meal that could be chicken fried. The Hyatt Regency restaurant had people coming off the freeway in droves when they saw all the trucks in the parking lot exhibit. Standard issue for the bellhops was uniform, luggage cart, and tire However, this was not your typical truck driver crowd. These folks were high-level managers of the trucking industry. They wore three piece suits, all three at the same time. These people were well educated, well heeled, and well . . . confused.

Source of the confusion was the prediction that we aren't going to have any truck drivers, as we know and love today, in the next decade. Why? Because they weren't born. The majority of truckers are drawn from the male age groups of 25 to

A -- Yes. Veterans whose service-connected disabilities are rated at 30 percent or more are entitled to additional allowances for dependents. 40 and there was a very low birth rate that many years ago, which translates into a severe shortage soon. We have to blame this low birth rate on women and Chinese food. Girls back then were more interested in Egg Fu Yung than Sum Yung Guy. So how do we face the problem?

The predictions are that unless something is done, two out of three trucks on the road will be without a driver. One of the golfers said he didn't see any need for anything larger than a 9-iron anyway. The industry leaders made a startling projection that truckers of the future would be young women and retired people. They'll be known as Yaps and Recaps. Collectively, they will be referred to on the CB radio as the "Walkie-Talkies." I can hear it all now, "Breaker, breaker. This is T Texas Tillie, a 15 wheeler rollin' down Interstate

"Negative, I've got one rollin'

"10-4, honey. Remain calm, I'm only 2 miles away. I should be there in an hour.'

"That's a big ol' 10-4. I'll just strip down and cool off in the creek.

He replies, "Boy . . . if I were only 80 again." Yes, the trucks will keep rolling but some changes will be made. Drivers will be the very young and the very old. Truck stops will have to adapt, too. In the future, don't be surprised to see lots of cribs and rocking chairs with cruise Control.

Good attendance marked the annual Labor Day reunion of the R.E. Martin family on Saturday and Sunday. More than 125 registered at the county barn where the gathering was held. Some of the places represented were California, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Dallas.

Jo Ann Tolivar from Buena Park, Cal., came the greatest distance. William Martin was the only member of the original family present as the other, Chip Martin is still confined to the hospital. All present were pleased to learn that he and Mrs. Martin are improving.

The youngest member present was one month old Blaine, daughter of Donna Harris of Amaillo and granddaughter of the James Mar-

Newly Remodeled and expanded . . .

Hansford Manor is culmination

When the Hansford Manor celebrates its Open House this Sunday, it will mark the culmination of a community dream -- a goal realized of quality nursing home care with special attention to the individual who is a resident of the intermediate skill nursing

The special Open House will run from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday with staff, volunteers and residents on hand to guide their friends and guests through the over 33,000-square foot facility which features aspects not normally found in a nursing home.

It's unique concept in nursing home care and one which a proud community set as its goal in acknowledgement of a growing area problem -- quality care of those who need nursing home care.

Owned and operated by Hansford County Hospital District -- which in turn is a public tax-supported institution -- Hansford Manor can offer higher standards of nursing home care for the same dollar a resident would pay in a for-profit institution.

Because of this, the Hansford Manor is unique, not only in concept and design, but in its basic approach to nursing home living for those who do become residents.

To fully understand and appreciate the special concepts which are being utilized at Hansford Manor, a brief look at the history of the still-young institution is in order.

Today's Hansford Manor is a new, improved and expanded version of the nursing home which was built in 1982 with a 39-bed capacity.

That first structure was just shy of 18,000 square feet and was opened in April, 1982 with a waiting list which -- within its first year of operation -- had the Hansford County-based facility to capacity . . . with yet more waiting to get in.

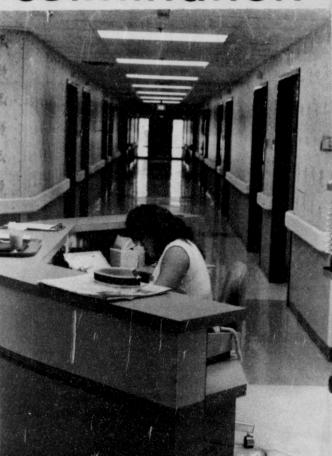

Hansford Hospital directors quickly realized the need for additional space and, after careful and organized planning, took a special bond election to the voting public.

In November, 1985, Hansford County voters had okayed the sale of $2.5 million in revenue bonds to enlarge the Hansford Manor and, in September of 1986, ground was broken on the addition.

Another 15,300 square feet was added to the Manor, bringing total square footage to 33,208 and more than doubling its bed capacity -- from 39 to 84 -- which includes eight private suites with some 400-square feet of residential living space.

What makes Hansford Manor Nursing Home different from other intermediate care nursing facilities? It's a combination of factors, running the gamut from small details to innovative concepts and it's all under one roof at the nursing home many residents refer to simply as "home".

"Probably one of the comments we hear most often is the fact that it (Hansford Manor)doesn't smell like a nursing home," reports Carol Hergert, director of nursing and resident services at Hansford Manor. This is no accident. Cleanliness is the order of the day for the Manor's staff with the ratio of employees to residents higher than that normally found at for-profit nursing home institutions.

"We spend more on keeping our home clean than others do and I think it's beneficial, not only for our guests who come to visit, but for those living here as well," notes Hergert. "It's a little thing, but we don't skimp on the details . . . we don't cut corners in order to cut costs."

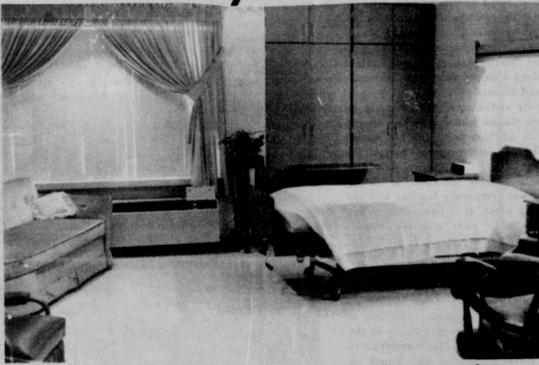

Another aspect is in quality of life where Hansford Manor excels. Geared toward individual independence rather than dependence, the Hansford County nursing home facility stresses activities for their residents which keep them busy without tiring them.

It gets them into the "mainstream" of resident living while providing the professional care which is so vitally necessary in a nursing home facility.

In short, it becomes a true "home" for the residents of Hansford Manor rather than a living they must endure. Individual attention is given residents through a highly qualified staff.

Looking at the new facility on a point-bypoint basis, residents and their guests will find many unique advantages which are offered by the Hansford Manor nursing home activity room and a special laundry room for those who wish to handle their own cleaning.

Along professional lines, Hansford Manor now has a special isolation room to help contain any infectious diseases which might crop up along with a private exam room for patients and doctors.

The newly added residents wing has its own nurses station which is staffed around the clock in addition to the nurses station which is located in the original part of the facility.

Built with careful attention to detail, unless one was completely familiar with the 1982 nursing home, it is impossible to tell where the "old" ends and the "new" begins.

It's Schoenhals' responsibility to prepare some 200 meals a day with careful attention to the dietary requirements of individual residents. In addition, she outlines meals which are enjoyed on a daily basis by guests Echoing a refrain which runs through every department at the Manor, Margy states, "We don't cut corners on our meals.

From nutritious meals . . .

We offer a meat, potatoes or substitute, vegetable, salad, dessert and home-made hot or sliced bread each meal."

The Manor maintains a $4,500 food inventory at all times with a 7-day supply of staples and a 2-day supply of perishables for the staff cooks to work with in preparation of daily meals.

While some nursing homes may utilize melon, for example, and count it as both salad and dessert, the Manor serves both a salad and dessert no matter what may be on the menu for each, notes the dietician.

It's an arrangement which residents seem to enjoy. In addition, residents have the choice of their entree at least three days a week and, of course, substitution privileges at every meal, in keeping with whatever dietary restrictions they may have.

As a change of pace, Schoenhals assists with an outdoor cookout which the residents hold about once a month. And, she assists with a Christian-sponsored buffet which county churches provide on a monthly basis as well.

Our volunteers really help make things worthwhile around here," notes Manor director of nursing and resident services, Hergert. "Without their help, a good number of the activities enjoyed here by our residents wouldn't be available."

Meals are served to residents by volunteers and staff and may be enjoyed in the privacy of their own rooms or in the spacious dining room facility of the Manor.

The Manor cooking staff has four employees at all times working toward fulfilling the dietician's menu plans. Between the different shifts, those employees include Davaleen Schroder, Willene Hughes, Rose Isenhower, Carolyn Ring, Anna Sanchez, Sybil Vera, Ernestina Salgado, Carolyn Vasquez, Kay Beeson, Tammi Arjona and Norma Robledo.

About a third of all meals prepared in the Manor kitchen are therapeutic -- that is, physician prescribed diets. With 200 meals a day on a 3-meal per day schedule, it's easy to see why Schoenhals job is important.

LIVING QUARTERS

"We want our residents to feel like they're at home here, not in an institution," declares Hergert. "Residents are allowed to bring in whatever furniture they like from their home into their new home here... even their beds if they want."

There are three types of living quarters available to residents of Hansford Manor. These include semi-private rooms which are shared with another resident, private rooms which are available to those who enjoy their privacy and even suites for couples who wish-to make the Manor their home.

The suites are 400-square feet of living area which includes a private bath area, a sink with cabinets and a small, personal refrigerator. Amenities include sofa and side tables, easy chair and whatever else the resident cares to bring into their new home.

Private rooms are a scaled-down version of the suites but include all the comforts of a home bedroom. And the immaculate semi-private quarters are second to none in any nursing home facility across the state.

The new expansion added nine private, 10 semi-private and eight suites to the Manor's capacity. With a current census of 53 residents, the population is growing daily, up by 14 residents just since it became operational in late July of this year.

Visiting hours are posted to encourage visitors to leave at 8 o'clock each evening in order to allow residents to get their rest.

"But our doors are always open," notes the director of nursing and resident services. "There are always special circumstances and we try to work with everyone as best we can, especially with out-of-town guests who find it difficult to make regular hours."

Yet the rooms are only a small part of what has given Hansford Manor a Superior rating by the Texas State Nursing Board. It's the little things . . . and they all add up to a unique quality of life which has seen Hansford Manor provide a few new wrinkles for nursing home care.

PET THERAPY

It may be a dog's life, but it has proven extremely beneficial -- not only to Patches

Grace Bennett and friends and friend, but to the residents who have come to call Hansford Manor home. Patches and friend are a pair of "Heinz 57" dogs who have been adopted by Manor residents. And it's hard to tell who's enjoying the situation the most.

Patches is the oldest member of the animal staff at Hansford Manor. She was joined just a few weeks ago by a new member who has yet to pick up a name . . . but who has picked up several new friends.

Perhaps the most avid resident to utilize the friendship offered by Patches and the new dog is "Aunt" Grace Bennett, a resident from Gruver who calls the Manor home, plays with the dogs every chance she gets.

"The state has really become interested in what we're doing here with the animals," Hergert says. "They've even come up with a name for it . . . Pet Therapy."

No matter what it's called, it obviously works and works well to the betterment of both the residents and the two "unofficial" members of the working staff.

The dogs live in an area which is set aside as a patio and lawn setting for the residents of the Manor. Besides making outdoor activities possible, it also provides the area for the monthly outdoor cookouts which the residents enjoy."

ACTIVITIES

The patio is just off the activity center room and the view to the outdoor area is open from that room, providing a cheery, open air-like setting for the activity center.

The Manor activity center is probably one of the most heavily utilized portions of the nursing home facility next to the living quarters. Jody Harnish, a certified nursing home activity director, is in charge of overseeing resident activities.

"Morale is an important aspect of any nursing home and it's our goal to get our residents interested in something outside of their own problems as quickly as possible," she notes.

This is done on a daily routine which runs seven days a week and includes things which run the gamut from driving around in the Manor's private van to shopping sprees for the residents.

Again, quality of life is the important thing stressed, even in the activities area. One of the programs available to residents is a special beauty salon with licensed stylists coming to the Manor on a regular schedule.

"We charge back our costs to the residents as they can afford it," notes Hergert. "But we only charge our cost, no profit is made. The stylists charge out so much per hour and we provide the supplies."

It may be that the old saying "you feel as good as you look" may have special application for Manor residents. Especially for those who can't go out to take advantage of outside beauty care.

Special geriatric exercises, a Wednesday Bible study, arts and crafts, games, movies, and more. Residents even have a special ceramics kiln available to fire their own ceramics which they make in house.

From beauty shop to whirlpool. .

This provides Manor residents with a special comfort many nursing home institutions which are often located across town from existing emergency medical care. Doctor's clinics are just across the street from the hospital with physicians within walking distances of the front door of either establishment.

To sum it up, there's a good reason to look toward Hansford Manor for the most up-to-date facilities, dependable and professional nursing home care with a special touch and much, much more.

From it's covered entrance -- which, by the way has a specially heated drive to keep down ice build up during the winter -- to its spacious and well kept facilities, Hansford Manor provides a truly unique alternative to more traditional nursing home institutions.

It's something residents have come to know and appreciate. That's why the first Manor, built only five years ago, filled so quickly with a waiting list which forced HCHD directors to entertain the thought of expansion.

Today's Hansford Manor, enlarged by a $2.5 million expansion, continues to be the leader in nursing home care in the Texas Panhandle -- no small feat for a rural facility, but one which is guarded jealously and which staff and employees work diligently to

The bonds which constructed the original Hansford Manor were paid off this past fiscal year and now the Hansford County Hospital District begins working on the task of paying off the revenue bonds which make the new Hansford Manor possible.

Community views with pride . . .

These bonds -- all purchased in a block by one investor -- will be paid off in a series with the final payments due in 1996. Who knows. . . by then the demand may once again outstrip the supply and Hansford Manor could be looking at another expansion program.

Meanwhile, it's no wonder that members of the Hansford County community look toward the new nursing home facility with pride . . . and a special comfort in the knowledge that one of the State's Superior rated nursing home facilities is just around the corner.

It all makes for a unique situation -- a nursing home which is second to none in the state of Texas, and residents who come to enjoy a quality of life not found in traditional nursing institutions.

If Hansford Manor has indeed become an innovator in Texas nursing home facilities, it speaks well for the county community who cared enough to provide it and for the staff who is dedicated enough to continue the excellence of care.

Hansford Manor . . . the culmination of a proud community's dream and a boon to those who utilize its services.
