Operation Christmas Greeting 1987

With Christmas Day only hours away, the Operation Christmas Greeting 1987 project is winding down its usual holiday run with its sponsors, the Hansford Hospital Auxiliary well pleased with the response from area residents.

In its 12th year, the special Operation Christmas Greeting project is handled under the auspices of the all-volunteer group who utilizes the fund to purchase needed equipment and furnishings for both the Hansord Hospital and Hansford Manor.

Response this year is indeed gratifying with five more names recorded so far this year than in previous years while dollars totals are remarkably close despite the

Merry Christmas

And a Merry Christmas it will be, thanks to the abundant generosity of readers of the Sperman Reporter, Hansford Plainsman and Gruver Statesman who reached out to share the joy of this special holiday season by donating to the Hansford Manor Empty Stocking Fund and the Hansford Hospital Auxiliary's Operation Christmas Greeting project.

The annual features are community projects of the three county newspapers and have been featured items through the holiday season. Area response to the two funds have proven more than gratifying to the two hand sponsors.

"Response such as we've seen this year makes for a truly bright Christmas," one fund sponsor declares. "It's a true display of the Christmas spirit and it will mean a lot to those who benefit from the funds."

The Operation Christmas Greeting project is utilized as the only fund raising project of the year for the hospital auxiliary and money there will purchase needed equipment for both the hospital and nursing home.

The Manor Empty Stocking Fund is used to purchase items which the budgets of some nursing home residents -- already stretched by housing and medical costs -- simply won't allow, but which are ordinary everyday menities such as undergarments, socks, sweaters and the like.

It will be a very Merry Christma in 1987, thanks to readers' response. Charles Dickens summed it up best with Tiny Tim's declaration, "God bless us all, everyone."

Manor empty stocking fund helps elderly

The tree is loaded and there'll be more than one happy smile Christmas Day at the Hansford Manor Nursing Home, thanks to the generosity of newspaper readers who have swelled the Manor Empty Stocking Fund to near the $3,000 mark in 1987.

Contributions to the all-important fund have come from as far away as Waco and response ensures not only a Merry Christmas, but guarantees some of life's simple pleasures for these elderly souls after the New Year as well.

"Our Christmas tree is just full of gifts," notes Manor director Carol Hergert. "A bottle of hand lotion or a pair of warm socks may seem kind of petty to us, but it really means a lot to these folks

It's those simple things in life -a new sweater, a lap blanket, maybe even a fresh hair cut -which the Manor Fund provides, both at Christmas and throughout

A final wrap up of the Manor fund will be made in the first paper of the New Year.

Tradition of holly is from British history

The association of holly Christmas is derived from the Druids of early British history. The plant was considered sacred (named for the word "holy") and it was thought the sun never deserted the holly tree. In many parts of Europe, sprigs of holly were later used in decoration to commemorate the birth of Christ.

Early Europeans believed holly repelled all evil spirits and was a protection against lightning. In parts of England, it was considered unlucky to leave holly in your home after New Year's Eve. Others believ-holly must be removed before Shrove Tuesday and burned in the same fire in which pancakes were then baked.

In more modern times, holly leaves and bark were used to cure various ailments. American Indians brewed holly tea to restore good appetities and keep warriors heathly in battle. Indian women wore sprigs of holly during childbirth to ease pain and assure delivery of a healthy infant.

Tree legend told AFDC program There is a legend of the Christmas Tree. The legend comes to us from early days of Christianity in England. In those tmes there was a Holy man named Wilfred. One day, surrounded by a group of his converts, he struck down a huge oak tree. The oak had been a object of worship to these people. As the oak fell to the earth, it split into four pieces and from its center there grew a young fir tree.

will be delayed

The Texas Department of Human Services announced that the checks to the recipients of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program will not be mailed from Austin until the first working day after the federal funds become available to the state, which will be January 4. Based on past exeperience, mail from Austin takes about 5 days to reach some addresses in the Panhandle. It is conceivable that the checks will not reach the AFDC recepient families until January 11.

The department is concerned that many of the families who depend on these payments will be unable to pay utility bills and rent in time to avoid disconnection of services or eviction from their homes.

Community agencies and groups who provide emergency services are also concerned because there is not enough funds to assist the number of families who may need help due to the delayed payments.

The department is asking utility companies and rental agents to take this delay into consideration and allow some additional time for

Santa evolved from real life man

"Twas the night before Christmas and all through the

So begins one of the most famous poems in the English language, one that has influenced American tradition greatly. For it is because of Dr. Clement Clarke Moore's "The Visit of St. Nicholas' that we enjoy our concept of Santa today.

In his classic poem, Moore described St. Nicholas as having "A broad face, and a little round belly that shook when he laughed, like bowl full of jelly. He was chubby and plump -- a right jolly old elf.'

This picture of a jolly and plump fellow is a far cry from the stately St. Nicholas of Europe, where the tradition of a holiday gift-giving actually began.

Little is known about St. Nicholas other than that he was born in Asia Minor and eventually became a much loved archbishop of Myra, where he died in the year 324.

After his death, numerous legends sprang up about his charitable deeds, especially in regard to children. he became the patron saint of boys and girls, and his feast day, Dec. 6, became the occasion for giving children small gifts of toys or gingerbread. The association of St. Nicholas with gifting probably came about through a legend that credited him with bestowing money upon a penniless nobleman who had three daughters to marry off, but no dowries with which to do so.

The Church, seeking a way to Christianize pagan customers, turned to St. Nicholas for assistance. For the giving of presents during the winter months is an ancient tradition. The Romans exchanged gifts during their Saturnalia festival in December, and the people of Northern Europe had the god Woden, who brought gifts to them in the middle of winter, as well as Berchta, the hearth goddess, who paid visits to homes in December.

Thus, St. Nicholas became the Christian replacement for both Woden and Berchta, although vestiges of the latter are still in evidence with the Italian Befana and the Russian Bobouschka.

Accordingly, a new ritual came into being; on the eve of his feast day, St. Nicholas was supposed to ride across the sky on a white or pale grey horse, justas Woden and Berchta had done in pre-Christian lore.

For the good child, the saint brought gifts; for the naughty youngster, there were rods and switches. Retaining aspects of Berchta, he was still associated with the hearth in various ways. Either the children's shoes or stockings would be placed there, or hay or grain would be left there for his horse. And, he was accompanied by a decidedly pagan-like creature. Sometimes this small, ugly elf or dwarf was given the task of sliding down the chimney, a feat too undignified for the good saint.

With the reformation, St. Nicholas began to be supplanted by the Christ Child as a gift-giver in Protestant Europe. And, with the demise of St. Nicholas' Day, gifts began to arrive on Christmas Eve.

But, in Holland, St. Nicholas still retained his popularity, for which our modern-day Santa can be thankful. For it was the Dutch who brought St. Nicholas to the New World in 1624. They called him Sinter Claes.

In 1809, Washington Irving vivdly described St. Nicholas as the patron saint of the Dutch colony of New Amsterdam. He wrote of the saint's annual ride over the tree tops in a wagon filled with gifts.

We can only surmise that Dr. Moore had read Irving's popular history containing the ac-count of St. Nicholas. For instead of describing the saint as tall and stately, Moore echoed Irving's description of him as a sturdy Dutchman who smoked a pipe.

Moore was also probably inspired by an illustration published in 1821, showing St. Nicholas in a sleigh pulled by one reindeer.

Moore's poem was published in 1823 and many years later, Thomas Nast, the well known illustrator, gave us his version of St. Nicholas, based on Moore's poem. However, he called the jolly gent Santa Claus.

Through the years, successive illustrators have added other dimensions to Santa's

Although their appearance may differ greatly, Santa Claus and St. Nicholas do have several traits in common; They both love children and they both love to give presents!

Century old wise men initiate gift giving

Through the centuries, the wise men or Magi became associated with the giving of gifts to children. In some countries today, it is on Three Kings Day -- Jan. 6 -- when gifts are distributed, rather than at Christmas itself.

The story of these colorfully garbed potentates following a star to the birthplace of the Infant Jesus to bestow him with gifts is one which captures the imagination and which has been described in song, paintings and even opera.

And, although we know little about the three mysterious travelers, we know that they must have indeed been wise -for wise men seek Him still.

Bethlehem is city rich in history

"O little town of Bethlehem, how still we see thee lie. . ."

Bethlehem! The very word calls to mind an image of verdant pastures and sheep grazing under shepherds' watchful eyes . . dusty streets trod by donkeys laden with water jugs . . and whitewashed dwellings clustered about the village well.

Here it was that Ruth gleaned barley in the fields belonging to Boaz. It was here that the young David tended his father's sheep and where he was anointed king of Isreal.

In the time of Jesus, Bethlehem was just a small village in the province of Judea. yet the prophet Micah foresaw its future eminence. Had he not prophesied, "But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah, though thou be little among the thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be ruled in Israel; whose goings forth have been from of old, from everlasting."

This prophecy and the Star of Bethlehem led the Wise Men to the place where Jesus lay. Today, the towers of many faiths dominate the landscape, just as the star must have on that night almost 2000 years ago. And, instead of Three Wise Men, thousands of pilgrims will descend upon the town where the Savior was born.

But, instead of a humble stable, they will find a basilica built over the cave where Mary and Joseph are said to have found shelter. A silver star marks the exact spot where Jesus is believed to have been born. Fifteen lamps surround it, donated by various Christian communities, demonstrating that here, in the land of Jesus' birth, differences fall away before a common faith.

Most pilgrims to the Holy Land will also travel to Galilee, where the town of Nazareth lies. Although the distance between the town is short by today's standards, in the time of Mary and Joseph, the journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem must have been a hardship for them -- especially for the young woman, heavy with child. As it was, Jews resented the census greatly; it was a humiliating reminder of their subservience to Rome.

When Jesus lived in Nazareth, the countryside was composed of wooded hills, each with its little plain. Galilee was one of the most beautiful of the provinces. In fact, Galileans were suspected of being too easygoing and not strict enough in observing the laws; perhaps this was attributed to their pleasant surroundings.

Here, in Nazareth, the growing Jesus would become familiar with such common-place sights as the fig trees, the mustard plants, and fields of grain, all of which he would draw upon later in his parables.

Since it was the practice for sons to follow in their father's trade, undoubtedly Joseph trained the young Jesus to be a carpenter, like himself. He probably taught Jesus the Sh'ma: "Hear, O Isreal, The Lord our God is One Lord; and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your soul and with all your might."

As the Bible reveals, Mary and Joseph were devout Jews following the traditions of their ancestors. In accordance with Jewish custom, they traveled to Jerusalem every year at the Feast of the Passover.

What an impression that city must have made on the young Jesus! It was the holy city to all believing Jews, and city that God Himself had chosen as the place for His worship. Here was the Temple, the center of Jewish tradition. The psalmist describes the feelings of pilgrims as they went up to the Temple:

"I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord.

Our feet shall stand within thy gates, O Jerusalem.

Jerusalem is builded as a city that is compact together;

Whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord, unto the testimony of Israel, to give thanks unto the name of the Lord.

For there are set thrones of judgment the thrones of the house of David."

Today, only the Western Wall, the Wailing Wall, remains of the Temple. But, visitors can still see the pool of Siloam, where the blind man washed his eyes to regain his sight as Jesus had told him to do. And, from the Mount of Olives, travelers can look down upon the Holy City, just as Jesus did.

Although Nazareth is no longer the humble village it must have been when Jesus lived there, its narrow, roofed streets and colorful market-place evoke Biblical times, and today's Galileans still harvest their wheat in much the same manner of their ancestors. Along the shores of the Sea of Galilee, fishermen still cast their nets into the lake, just as Peter, Andrew, James and John must have done.

There have been many changes in the land where Jesus once walked, but the thoughts of Christians will be turning back to that wondrous event that took place there in another time, in a small Judean town called Bethlehem.

Nativity plays reflect multi-ethnic origins

In a small town in South Dakota, the nativity pageant is reenacted in a real barn; hundreds of miles away in historic Williamsburg, a colonial Christmas is recreated.

Let's begin our Christmas tour in Los Angeles, where a large Mexican-American community has kept alive the tradition of Las Posadas. Here, Mary and Joseph's search for lodging is reenacted for 9 successive nights.

Far to the north in Alaska, Eskimo boys and girls carry a brightly colored star from home to home all during Christmas week. After they have sung a few carols, they are invited in for treats.

To the south, in Florida, the palm tree replaces the traditional evergreen as a symbol of Christmas. Recalling the palms of the Holy Land, Floridians decorate their palms with lights and other adornments to great effect.

In Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, the "Christmas City of America" the central event of the season is the Love Feast that is celebrated in the Moravian church on Christmas Eve.

In New York City, the plaza at Rockerfeller Center is famed for its illuminated tree and its ice skating exhibitions. The whole city takes on a festive mood, as department stores outdo each other with elaborate, animated displays.

Symbolic of the Christmas spirit in America is the lighting of the Christmas tree on the White House lawn.

Texas consumers list ad likes

Texas retailers worried about next year's economy (1988) are being given some mighty helpful information from their own customers who have just participated in a unique statewide survey.

That survey was to determine what Texans "like and dislike about advertising today." Sample highlights of that survey include:

- (1) Texas consumers favor newspapers by a 3-tol margin over all other brands of media for receiving news and information from retailers. An un usually weak regard for radio and TV commercials was voiced strongly in writing by consumers from throughout the state;
- (2) More than 1-of-every-2
 Texas consumers prefer reading advertisements printed as part of the newspaper, instead of those in mailed circulars and other type publications, and
- (3) Texas consumers have such strong opinions about the media and advertising that almost 1400 wrote their opinions, and mailed them to an Austin address. Each return was checked for authenticity and accuracy.

Such findings came from one of the most unusual surveys to ever be conducted about the reading and shopping habits of Texans.

That survey, which was prepared by the Texas Newspaper Advertising Bureau (TNAB), included the publishing in 135 Texas newspapers of a questionnaire touching on 20 topics about media and advertising. The general public was invited to complete and return the form.

Making the survey additionally unique was the fact that every response had to be returned by mail and in the handwriting of each respondent.

"The results subsequently provided confirmation of newspapers' overwhelming number one role in the lives and reading and shopping habits of Texans," explained TNAB Director John Taylor.

TNAB operates as an affiliate under the umbrella of the 108-year-old Texas Press Association (TPA), which is headed by Executive Vice-President Lyndell Williams.

Williams pointed out:

"Comments by so many consumers saying approximately the same things offer solid proof that no other medium comes close to threatening the leadership role of the newspaper in the community.

"As go newspapers, so go the community and our state."

Everything necessary to achieve anonymity of the survey was done to obtain objectivity and accuracy, "even including the placing of newspaper subjects in latter positions in the published questionnaire itself."

Responses to the survey, including those from the hundreds who wrote their opinions about the media and advertising today, were studied and cross-checked for possible error. So overwhelming were the responses, in fact, that six full pages of excerpted commentary were included in the published report of the survey results.

Newspapers were chosen for publishing the survey questionnaire, because most previous studies by other agencies revealed newspaper readers to comprise a majority of today's voters and principal customers of retailers.

Other highlights of the survey included:

- 75 percent prefer that retailers publish their advertising in local newspapers, as compared with 10 percent who chose TV, and 12 percent who selected radio;
- 52 percent read and retain ads the longest when they're printed as part of the newspaper, as compared to 35 percent who like ad inserts in the newspapers, and 17 percent who like ads mailed to them as circulars;
- 92 percent read ads when they're printed as part of the newspaper, as compared with 58 percent who read ads in newspaper inserts, and 50 percent who read circulars;

- 71 percent redeem coupons from the newspapers, as compared with 64 percent who redeem them from circulars:
- 88 percent who read newspapers also vote in elections, and
- * 52 percent obtain the most information about elections from the newspapers, as compared with 32 percent who listed TV, and 13 percent citing radio.

This survey is believed to be the only current study in which respondents submitted their responses in writing.

Meanwhile, results of a second survey will soon detail the public's opinion about today's political elections and election campaigns. Results of the political survey, which was conducted in 60 county seat newspapers throughout Texas, will also provide information about the public's declining interest in election campaigns and voting.

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the

Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse; The stockings were hung by the chimney with care, In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there.

The children were nestled all snug in their beds While visions of sugarplums danced in their heads; And Momma in her kerchief, and I in my cap, Had just settled down for a long winter's name.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter.

I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter. Away to the window I flew like a flash, Tore open the shutters and threw up the sash.

The moon on the breast of the new-fallen show Gave a lustre of mid-day to objects below, When, what to my wondering eyes did appear, But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer.

With a little old drive, so lively and quick, I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick. More rapid than eagles his coursers they came.

And he wihistled, and shouted, and called them by name.

"Now, Dasher, now, Dancer! no, Prancer and Vixen! On, comet! on, Cupid! on Donner and Blitzen! To the top of the porch! to the top of the wall! Now dash away! Dash away! Dash away all!

As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly, When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky, So up to the house-top the coursers they flew, With the sleigh full of toys, and st. Nicholas, too.

And then, in in a twinkling, i heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof,
As I drew in my head, and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.

He was dressed all in fur, from his head to his foot, And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot; A bundle of toys he had flung on his back, And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.

Some 175 Hansford county youngsters were treated to a free movie and sacks of candies and nuts courtesy of the Spearman Moose Lodge #2212 this past Saturday.

The special Christmas treat is an annual event sponsored by the Spearman group, reports Harry Stumpf, governor of the Spearman

He also reports that a Matlock, Iowa man, Jim Meendering, was the winner of the 20-gauge shotgun which the lodge recently awarded.

His eyes, how they twinkled!, his dimples, how merry! His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry! His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow, And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow.

The stub of a pipe he held tight in his teeth, And the smoke it enchircled his head like a wreath; He had a broad face and little round belly, That shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.

He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf, And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself; A wink of his eye and a twist of his head Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.

He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work, And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk, And laying his finger aside of his nose, And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.

He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle, And away they all flew like the down of a thistle. But I heard him exclaim ere he drove out of sight, "Happy Christmas to all . . . and to all a goodnight!"

Answer to girl's question lives on

"... is there a Santa Claus?"

It was 1897. She was a girl of eight, curious, and weighted by a problem of her day - a problem which today still pertains to girls of that age: Is there a Santa Claus?

She was Laura Virginia O'Hanlon, and she confided to her father her doubts about the existence of Santa Claus. Dr. O'Hanlon advised his daughter to write to the New York Sun, for she could be sure that the great newspaper's answer would be the truth.

And so, in a round schoolgirlish hand, Virginia O'Hanlon wrote:

Dear Editor: I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, 'If you see it in The Sun then it is so.' Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?''

Francis Pharcellus Church was a superb, though sardonic, editorialist. On almost any subject, except politics, he was able to swiftly turn out a cogent statement of the newspaper's policy.

When his editor handed Church the child's letter and asked him to write an editorial, Church is said to have "bristled and pooh-poohed" the idea. But it was an assignment and he responded with his usual integrity.

His editorial became a classic. It made Virginia O'Hanlon's query into a question of the ages. Church wrote:

"Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe exept they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds.

All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias.

There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We would have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The external light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies. You might get your papa to hire men to watch all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if you did not see Santa coming down, what would that prove?

Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor man can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there.

Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes all the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart.

Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! He lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay 10 times 10,000 years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

But the editorial appeared when Virginia was a girl of eight. She died in 1971, at the age of

As he stepped from the buckboard, he was really a sight, With his beard and mustache so curly and white.

As he burst in the cabin, the children awoke And both, so astonished that neither one spoke. And he filled up their boots with such presents galore That neither could think of a single thing more. When Buddy recovered the use of his jaws He asked in a whisper, "Are you Santa Claus?"

"Am I the real Santa? Well, what do you think?" And he smiled as he gave a mysterious wink. Then he leaped in the buckboard and called back with a drawl

Greeting cards European custom

One of the most cherished traditions of the Christmas season is that of sending greetings to freinds and family -- yet Christmas cards did not become popular in the United States until the latter part of 1800s.

A German immigrant named Louis Prang produced the first Christmas cards in this country in 1874. Prior to then, Christmas cards were known primarily in

The English artist John Horsley designed the first card in 1843 at the request of Sir Henry Cole. The illustration on the card depcited a family celebrating the season and bore the message, 'Merry Christmas and a happy new year to you." Side panels depicted the poor receiving gifts of charity.

This design was eventually lithographed, hand-colored and sold for a shilling a copy. Not more than 1000 copies of the first Christmas card were sold.

The second Christmas card was not designed until 1848, by W.M. Egley. In England, at that time, the custom was to write to friends and family during the holidays, exchanging good wishes. There were sheets of writing paper decorated with christmas motifs available for such mestime that promoted Sir Henry Cole to have a Christmas card made up for his holiday correspondence.

Thus, by the year when Louis Prang designed the first American card, the English mails were already flooded with cards at Christmas time.

Prang sent his first cards to England, but the following year to began to produce them for domestic consumption.

Prang's cards reflected the tastes of the Victorian times. Franciful animals, cherubs, flowers and romanticized children were popular subjects for his

As the Christmas envelope idea caught on, Victorian women and men began to include Yuletide messages and wishes with their "calling cards" and placed both inside their Christmas en-

Sir Henry Cole, director of the Victoria and Albert Museum, wanted to express his greetings with more than an envelope.

So, in 1843 he commissioned an artist by the name of John Calcott Horsley to create a postcard depicting a cheerful family celebrating a cheritable Christmas and toasting good health to the season.

Twenty years later, advertisements for Christmas stationary began to circulate and Britain established a "penny post" which allowed greetings to be sent anywhere for a penny.

By 1879, the postmaster general was already overburdened with mail during the Christmas season and in 1880 he was requesting that people mail

A Christmas prayer . . .

Cowboy wants peace and good will for all

I ain't much good at prayin', and you may not know me, Lord --

I ain't much seen in churches where they preach Thy Holy Word,

But You may have observed me out here on the lonely plains, plains,

Remember Christ our Savior,

was born on Christmas Day.

It's our privilege to have you as our customers.

A lookin' after cattle, feelin' thankful when it rains,
Admirin' Thy great handiwork, the miracle of grass,
Aware of Thy kind spirit in the way it comes to pass
That hired men on horseback and the livestock that we tend
Can look up at the stars at night and know we've got a Friend.

So here's ol' Christmas comin' on, remindin' us again Of Him whose coming brought us good will into the hearts of men.

A cowboy ain't no preacher, Lord, but if You'll hear my prayer,

I'll ask as good as we have got for all men everywhere.

Don't let no hearts be bitter, Lord; don't let no child be cold.

Makes easy beds for them that's sick, and them that's weak and old.

Let kindness bless the trail we ride, no matter what we're after.

And sorter keep us on Your side, in tears as well as laughter.

I've seen old cows a-starvin', and it ain't no happy sight, Please don't leave no one hungry, Lord, on Thy good Christmas night --

No man, no child, no woman, and no critter on four feet -- I'll aim to do my best to help You find 'em chuck to eat.

I'm just a sinful cowpoke, Lord -- ain't got no business prayin' --

But still I hope You'll ketch a word or two of what I'm saying;

Merry Christmas

We speak of Merry Christmas, Lord -- I reckon You'll agree There ain't no Merry Christmas for nobody that ain't free. So one thin more I'll ask You, Lord; just help us what You can

To save some seeds of freedom for the future sons of man. S. Omar Baker
