Local Scouts to participate in food drive Saturday

Arts and craft show set Nov 12

The local Boy Scout troop 551 and Cub Scout troop 578 will participate in the national "Scouting for Food" drive to go along with the same Boy Scouts of America drive.

The Scouts will be going from door to door on Saturday, Nov. 12 collecting non-perishable foods. This year the Scouting Program is asking for an emphasis on donations of nutritious foods such as peanut butter, baby formula, packaged meals, canned meats, soups, as well as canned fruits and vegetables.

The Scouts will weigh and count the food they collect and deliver it to Judge R.L. McClellan's office for local distribution. It will be distributed in Christmas packages and to the local needy families throughout the year.

The Spearman Study Club will host its Eighth Annual Antiques Show and Sale on Nov. 12 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The show will be held at the Spearman High School Cafeteria located at 403 East 11th Street.

Persons interested in purchasing a booth for this show should contact Claudine Hardy at (806) 659-3440 after 5 p.m. or Donna Trantham at (806) 659-2046 after 5 p.m. Center spaces will rent for $15 and wall spaces for $20. Tables will not be provided.

A concession will be available. The public is invited to attend the show. There is no admission charge.

Residents vote for choice of Roundup location

The Spearman Chamber of Commerce Roundup Committee is conducting a survey to determine the location of the 1989 Roundup activities. On page three of this edition of the Hansford Plainsman you will find ballots that may be signed and returned to the Chamber Office at 211 Main to cast your vote between the locations of the Swimming Pool Park or the Courthouse square.

Those favoring the Swimming Pool Park suggest that it has more room for children to play in and that it has a building on site that Jaycees could prepare the barbecue more conveniently.

Those favoring the Courthouse Square location suggest that more people will involve themselves in the celebration because it is more centrally located with the other happenings of the Roundup, including the carnival and other business promotions. Also the 'Oldtimers' would feel more a part of the celebration because of where they usually meet for the festivities.

Full house crowd attends Holiday-Style show

The Holidays-Spearman Style Show sponsored by the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce last Saturday, Nov. 5 seemed to be a big success. All of the tickets for the "first annual" style show were sold.

Those attending saw fashions modeled from J.G.'s, ChaLor's, Kids' Stuff, Lady Fair, the Bunkhouse, Horse Creek Boutique, and creations made from fabric and patterns of Country Stitches. Fuller's and Hickerson's Jewelers provided jewelry for the models to add as accessories to their fashions. Three door prizes were given away at the show. They were provided by Prairie Garden Flowers, Adela's Flowers and Kari's Bloomers. They were won by Linda Latta, Glenda Guthrie and Mona Beth Windom.. The $300 Spearman shopping spree was won by Elvonna Davis.

Carolyn Collier was the emcee for the occasion. There were many talented models from the area, showing off the fashions. Proceeds from the event will go to the purchase of Christmas decorations for Spearman.

Cindy Blackman is modeling this fashion at the Holiday-Spearman Style Show. Those attending also enjoyed the beautiful floral and Christmas decorations at the First United Methodist Church where the style show was held.

Veterans land board offers new program

More than $10 million worth of land is now being marketed exclusively by Texas real estate agents through a special program of the Texas Veterans Land Board (VLB).

The 551 tracts of forfeited land are being offered through an extended Real Estate Agent Pilot Program, said Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who chairs the Texas Veterans Land Board.

"This public/private sector partnership was proved successful with a similar sale in August," said Mauro, who chairs the VLB. "Because of the response we received from real estate agents, we have extended the pilot program for an additional 180 days."

The 180-day Real Estate Agent Pilot Program has been extended until February 28, 1989, and will market tracts in 123 counties across the state. All of those tracts have previously been offered exclusively to Texas veterans.

The Texas Veterans Land Board will finance the entire loan amount of all bids. No down payment is required. Eligible Texas veterans will receive an 8.75 percent interest rate while the interest rate for others bidding on the tracts will be 10.25 percent. All loans carry a 30-year fixed rate term with no penalty for early pay-off.

Mauro stressed that the pilot project does not involve a listing arrangement and there are no arrangements between the board and any agent. He emphasized that real estate agents participating in the program are in no way considered agents for the state and must comply with all Texas Veterans Land Program guidelines.

Buying an efficient washer & dryer can be as easy as buying the clothes to put in them

When buying clothes, you look for certain features — features such as size, style and color. Buying an energy-efficient washer and dryer isn't that different. The features just change.

When buying a washer, look for energy-saving features such as water level controls, water temperature controls with warm and cold water options, and cycle options that range from short to heavy.

With dryers, thermostatic sensing and moisture sensing are just two of the features that can help you save energy.

For more facts about choosing an energy-efficient washer and dryer, call or visit your local Texas-New Mexico Power Company office today.

Project named to aid rural revitalization efforts

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service in partnership with the Texas Bankers Association is launching a three-year economic "self-help" project to help revitalize rural communities.

The project is supported by a $300,000 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, Mich. It is aimed at helping rural communities with policy options and strategies for adjusting to poor economic conditions brought on by the depressed energy and agricultural industries.

"Many of our Texas communities have undergone severe economic stress in recent years, and there is major concern about their long-term growth and, in some cases, survival," said Dr. Ron Knutson, an economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Yet these communities can offer economic opportunity and an attractive quality of life for Texans.

"Various levels of government have a role in helping rural communities adjust to change, and we will be examining those roles and the consequences of various policy options. We will also be identifying policy and program needs as well as specific community problems that should be addressed," Knutson said.

He said that while past development programs have focused mainly on urban areas, there has been relatively little study on rural development policy options.

"We will be preparing a handbook of policy 'tools' to explain and evaluate policy initiatives that might be pursued by rural communities," Knutson said. "In addition, we will be developing a planning and analysis framework to help rural community leaders with their decision-making."

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation, established in 1930 to "help people help themselves," has distributed more than $1 billion in support of programs in agriculture, education and health. Areas of emphasis within those broad fields include adult continuing education; community-based, problem-focused health services; a wholesome food supply; and broadening leadership capacity of individuals.

The Foundation is among the largest private philanthropic organizations in the world, supporting programs in the United States, Latin America, the Caribbean, and southern African countries.

More than 200 booths laden with paintings, sculpture, toys, dolls, games, jewelry, woodcrafts, quilts, baked goods, frames and needle crafts will be on display at the Satellite Arts and Crafts Festival Nov. 19 and 20 inside the Expo Center in Perryton.

All items are handmade by artists and craftsmen from a six state area. Many of the art show patrons do their Christmas shopping at the show, picking up unique items that can be found only at an Arts and Crafts Show.

The Satellite Center a sheltered workshop for adults with mental retardation, keeps 10% of the total table sales from each exhibitor. The funding collected from this year's sales will help support the workshop activities.

Food and refreshments will be served by Wheatheart Shrine Club. REACT will watch the booths at night, and the Lions Club will perform accounting and clean-up chores. The 18th annual version of the festival will be open to the public from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Nov. 19 and from 12 p.m. to 5 p.m. Nov. 20.

There are 117 "Oldtimers" in this version of the show and 90 new exhibitors from 24 Texas towns and five other states, including Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and California.

New program helps farmers

Consumers should benefit from a new Texas Agricultural Extension Service (TAEX) program that will help farmers and ranchers produce leaner, meatier animals.

Called the TAEX Livestock and Carcass Evaluation Service, the program focuses on helping producers nationwide evaluate the muscling, fatness and quality of animals in their herds and flocks.

"This new program will help livestock producers develop the type of meat products that meet the needs of consumers and their changing lifestyles," said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, Extension Service director. "Consumers today are concerned about diet and health more so than ever before, and that means they are highly selective in their choice of food products. Farmers and ranchers must tailor their products to meet those demands."

He said, "To do this, they must be able to identify animals within their herds and flocks that are superior in carcass merit from both a quality and cutability standpoint. Few producers have the technology equipment and time to do this, so this is where our new program comes into play."

According to Carpenter, the Livestock and Meat Evaluation Service will provide producers with opportunities to obtain three types of information.

One will be on-the-farm data from ultrasound testing, the measuring of outside fat thickness and ribeye area in live animals. Producers also will be able to obtain quality and yield grade information for carcasses slaughtered in commercial packing plants. The third information type will be on taste and tenderness of cooked lean meat as determined by a panel and a Warner-Bratzler shear (tenderness) test.

Besides ultrasound and carcass data, information for the new program will be derived from feeding trials for bulls, steers and heifers, which will enable producers to obtain growth and feedlot performance data. Data will be collected not only in Texas but across the nation, Carpenter said.

Cancer program to be held for teachers

Area health teachers and school nurses will be introduced to a cancer prevention curriculum in a special program Thursday, Nov. 17, 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. at the Harrington Cancer Center. Panhandle Project Choice is open to all interested health care professionals and health educators, involved with students from kindergarten through college levels. The purpose of the program is to expand the role of these professionals in local cancer control efforts.

The curriculum defines the nature and scope of the cancer problem in this region. The program focuses on cancer pathophysiology, risk factors, prevention and detection, current treatment and symptom management. The newest technology and research will be presented in each subject area.

The curriculum project was developed at the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center in Seattle, with funding provided by the National Cancer Institute. Sponsors for Panhandle Project Scope are Region XVI Educational Service Center, Harrington Cancer Center, American Cancer Society, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center-Amarillo, Texas Cancer Council, Oncology Nursing Society, and the Comprehensive Health Education Foundation of Seattle.

Farm-City week slated to observe partnership

Farmers and urban residents depend on each other for products and services that are essential to modern businesses and lifestyles.

They work together as partners in processing, marketing and consuming food and fiber products. That partnership is the basis for the annual observance of Farm-City Week; this year slated for Nov. 18-24. The observance is supported by Kiwanis International and numerous other groups that focus on the impact of agriculture to an area.

Movement of food and fiber from the farm or ranch in Texas to the supermarket and family table provides jobs and income for almost a fifth of the working force, said Dr. Carl G. Anderson, economist-marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"One out of every 40 Texans is a farmer or rancher, and about 20 percent of the state's retail trade business is directly associated with agricultural production and selling of food and fiber products," Anderson said.

The economist said that many businesses, financial institutions and individuals are involved in providing supplies, credit and services to farmers and ranchers, and in processing and marketing agricultural commodities.

"Nationally, one of every five jobs in private enterprises is tied to agriculture," Anderson said.

With $9.1 billion in cash receipts from agricultural commodities in 1987, Texas ranks second nationally behind California, he said. And those receipts have a total economic impact of more than $30 billion.

"Texas is traditionally number one in the sales of cattle and calves, cotton, sheep and wool, goats and mohair, cabbage and spinach," Anderson said.

Texas' farm real estate assets for 1988 are estimated at $62.1 billion, compared with $64.6 billion a year earlier. With 160,000 farms in Texas, assets average $401,000 per farm, although many commercial size, full-time operators have far more than a million dollars invested in their farm or ranch businesses, Anderson said.

"Producing an abundance of high quality food and fiber is Representative of Social Security to be in area inherent to American agriculture. Americans spend far less of their take-home pay on food than people in other countries of the world," said the economist. "Today, that averages about 15 cents of every dollar of disposable income, with 5 cents of that spent on food eaten outside the home.

"Together, farm and city people make the best food and fiber team in the world. This gives America the capacity to feed its own people and to export for economic gain as well as for humanitarian purposes," Anderson said.

In the U.S., about one of every 40 persons resides on a farm or ranch. The proportion of U.S. residents living on farms has fallen from about 30 percent in 1920 to 2.5 percent today. That compares with about 70 percent of people living on farms in India, 36 percent in Mexico and 14 percent in the Soviet Union, Anderson said.

"Friendliness" . . . number one attraction for tourists

The latest survey of visitors to Texas proves that "The Friendship State" is more than just a slogan.

The highway department's Auto Visitor Survey for the third quarter of 1988 shows that friendliness is what visitors enjoy most about Texas, followed by scenery and good highways -- in that order.

Don Clark, director of the department's Travel and Information Division, said the comprehensive survey is needed because "the tourist dollar is critical to the Texas economy."

"The data on visitors gives the tourist industry the facts necessary to compete for the Texas share of a multibillion-dollar business," Clark said.

Dallas, San Antonio, and Houston were the most popular cities visited by respondents, and the Alamo topped the list as the most popular attraction. A majority of the visitors traveled to Texas for a vacation or to visit friends or family, while 15 percent came for business and conventions. Oklahoma, Louisiana, and California led the list of home states of Texas visitors. The average travel party consisted of two to three people, who spent an average of $465 during a five-day visit.

The most popular activity was shopping, followed by touring historic sites, visiting museums, taking photographs, and camping. Birding ranked eleventh out of 30 activities listed, and attending rodeos came in 22nd. Fishing and visiting theme parks fell near the middle of the list.

Travelers who stopped at Texas tourist bureaus filled out the 17-question survey. The 12 bureaus, operated by the highway department, provide routing information and travel material. These bureaus serve as Texas' front door and are the first to extend the legendary Texas hospitality to these out-of-state visitors.

Free copies of the report are available by writing Auto Visitor Survey, Travel and Information Division, 11th and Brazos Streets, Austin, TX 78701.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

A major mystery facing Americans concerns the fate of KAL 007, the Korean airliner shot down by a Soviet fighter on September 1, 1983. There is no evidence that the ill-fated airliner crashed into the sea. There is a great deal of evidence to suggest that its passengers and crew survived.

On recent TV interviews of families of the victims of the brutal Soviet assault on KAL 007, there was much to suggest that the families believe their loved ones may still be alive. Upholding their belief is a comprehensive survey of numerous reports about the incident made by author Robert E. Lee.

Among the documented facts that caused Robert Lee to suggest that the plane was "forced down rather than sent plummeting into the sea" are these facts:

1. KAL remained airborne for 12 minutes after being hit by the Soviet missile.
 2. Its pilots sent no "Mayday" signals.
 3. The Soviet Union sealed off the alleged "crash" site and would permit no rescue attempts.
 4. Very little debris was found; and none was recovered that would have been from the cargo hold.
 5. Radar trackings followed KAL 007 TOWARD Sakhalin Island after the attack, a direction opposite its flight path.
 6. A confirmed FAA report stated that the jet was tracked to a landing site on Sakhalin Island.
- Author Lee and other Americans are calling for a special US congressional investigation to get answers to many questions still unanswered about the disappearance of KAL 007. Citizens everywhere are asked to support their call for Congress to investigate this matter involving the possibility that there are survivors.

Sincerely,
Jack Moss,
Amarillo, Texas

Foundation alerts public to Reye's Syndrome

The flu and most flu-like illnesses are viral infections, and as such, warrant our special attention because a swift and deadly disease is associated with them. The disease, Reye's Syndrome, usually affects people from infancy through late adolescence; however, no age group is immune. It can develop 3 to 5 days after the onset of chicken pox, an upper respiratory infection like flu, or other fever causing illnesses. It affects the liver and brain, is non-contagious and is often misdiagnosed as encephalitis, meningitis, diabetes, poisoning, drug overdose, or sudden infant death.

After a viral infection has seemingly run its course and the person is beginning to feel better, the following symptoms should be treated as serious and as possibly the first indication of Reye's Syndrome. Watch for these symptoms usually occurring in this order:

Relentless or continuous vomiting.
Listlessness (loss of pep and energy with little interest in their environment),
Drowsiness (excessive sleepiness),
Personality change (such as irritability, slurred speech, sensitivity to touch),
Disorientation or confusion (unable to identify whereabouts, family members, or answer questions),
Combativeness (striking out at those trying to help),
Delirium, convulsions, or loss of consciousness.

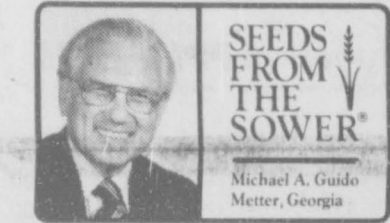

A person's life can depend on early diagnosis. Reye's Syndrome should be suspected in anyone with flu or chicken pox who vomits repeatedly. Phone your physician immediately if these symptoms develop. Voice your concern about Reye's Syndrome. If your doctor is not available, take the person to an emergency room promptly. Two liver function tests (SGOT, SGPT) can be done to determine the possibility of Reye's Syndrome. There is a 90% chance of recovery when the syndrome is treated in its earliest stages by physicians and nurses experienced in the treatment of Reye's.

If you have a flu-like illness or chicken pox, you should consult your physician before using any drugs, particularly aspirin or anti-nausea medicines. Recent studies have shown a link between the use of aspirin and the development of Reye's Syndrome. Anti-nausea medicines may mask the symptoms of Reye's Syndrome. Epidemiologic research has shown an association between the development of Reye's Syndrome and the use of aspirin for treating the symptoms of influenza-like illnesses, chicken pox, and colds. The National Reye's Syndrome Foundation, the U.S. Surgeon General, the Food and Drug Administration, and the Center for Disease Control recommend that aspirin and combination products containing aspirin not be taken by anyone under 19 years of age during fever causing illnesses. Aspirin is another name for acetylsalicylate; some drug labels may use the words acetylsalicylate, acetylsalicylic acid, salicylic acid, or salicylate instead of the word aspirin. There is not data as to whether other forms of salicylate than aspirin may be associated with the development of Reye's Syndrome. Until further research has answered this question, the NRSF recommends that products listing any of these substances should not be taken by people of this age group during episodes of these illnesses.

The NRSF is a non-profit, tax exempt organization with chapters and representatives in 45 states. The NRSF has pioneered the movement to disseminate knowledge about the disease in an effort to aid in early diagnosis and also provide funds for research into the causes, cure, care, treatment, and prevention of Reye's Syndrome.

A man was sick, awfully sick, and he consulted his doctor. After a careful examination, the doctor said, "The best thing for you, sir, is to give up smoking and drinking."

"What's the next best thing?" he asked.

The greatest enemy of the best isn't the worst, it's the next best. Be your best for God every minute of the day, every day of the week, every week of the year.

Give God all there is of you from the top of your head to the tip of your toe. You supply the grit, He'll supply the power.

You give God your best, and He'll give you His best!

Homeowners advised to check insulations

When that first "Blue Norther" blows through Texas, you may feel it indoors as well as out, especially if your home caulking and weatherstripping isn't doing its job.

"Caulking and weatherstripping don't last forever, yet homeowners often assume they do," said housing expert Dr. Susan Quiring.

"Settling that causes doors or windows to shift slightly or inexpensive caulking that has lost its bond are just two causes of air infiltration," she said.

Quiring, a specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, advises homeowners to inspect all caulking and weatherstripping annually.

The exterior areas of a house most likely to require periodic caulking include around the chimney flashing, door frames, inside corners formed by siding, joints between chimney and siding, joints between masonry or concrete parts and the main part of the house, and all window joints.

According to the specialist, the least expensive oil-base caulking lasts only about 1 to 2 years. Acrylic latex caulk, designed primarily for interior use with latex paints, lasts about 5 to 7 years.

Butyl rubber is more expensive than oil-base caulking but also lasts 7 to 10 years. Silicone caulking compounds are the most expensive, but when properly applied will give top performance for up to 20 years.

"There are many types of caulking compounds on the market. Since each type has been designed for a specific purpose, it's important to get the right kind for your home maintenance job," Quiring said.

Weatherstripping around all doors and any wood casement windows also merits inspection.

"Pliable gaskets of vinyl or rubber can become rigid over time and the felt gaskets may compress or deteriorate so that the seal is ineffective," said the specialist.

The weatherstripping made of metal and applied with screws or nails will be the longest lasting.

Quiring said homeowners often have weatherstripping around the sides of a door but neglect the bottom. Special threshold weatherstripping kits are available at most home improvement stores.

When inspecting for adequate weatherstripping, Quiring cautions homeowners not to neglect interior doors between heated and unheated spaces.

"If you have a door leading to an attached garage, the weatherstripping needs to be every bit as good as that on outside doors. Weatherstripping the ceiling trap door leading to the attic will also help cut down on heat exchange," she said.

Caulking and weatherstripping are two of the least expensive home energy-savers available. Typically, the cost of installing them will be paid back in energy savings within a year.

by Helen Fisher

Hanging another little stocking at Christmas, will be Judy and Ray Martin.

Stuart John Martin, son of Dr. Scot and Julie Martin, arrived on Nov. 6 at Littleton, Colo. He weighed 8 pounds, 6 1/2 ounces.

He has a brother, Garrett, who is nearly three. Grandparents in addition to Judy and Ray are Juanita and John Japp of Casper, Wyo.

Great Grandparents are Jane Meek, Mildred and Elvin Martin of Spearman and Mrs. Japp of Gillette, Wyo.

It is just barely possible that Judy and Ray will squeeze in the time to go inspect him in the near future.

and Pat Northcutt of Amarillo hosted a dinner to commemorate the 55th wedding anniversary of her parents, Hollie and Earl Riley, at Ivy's Hungry Cowboy Banquet room. The dinner was held on Saturday evening, though the actual anniversary is Nov. 16.

Hollie and Earl were married in the Methodist Parsonage in Spearman by the late Rev. H.A. Nichols. Helen Fisher, who is the last surviving witness to the ceremony, was at the dinner.

The evening was spent in humorous reminiscences. Earl passed on some of his hard-earned wisdom in making a marriage last 55 years. Learn early how to get the last word in an argument -- it is "I agree."

He doesn't agree with the sentiment that marriage is for the "birds" but does admit it changed him from a night owl to a homing pigeon. He believes in the saying that a blue bird will bring happiness, but he knows it is the stork that brings the tax exemption!

Hollie advised young couples that they will sure need two books - a cook book and a check book.

Those enjoying the dinner and camaraderie and wishing the couple another 55 years, in addition to the Northcutts, honorees and Fisher, were grandsons Tim Smith, Amarillo, Tab Smith, Houston, Guy and Idros Shields of Satanta, Kan., Gwen and Jack Reed, Amarillo and from Spearman Willis and Idela Randall, Don Maize, Pearl Pierce, and Maurine Garrard.

An important ingredient in the success of the Twentieth Century Arts and Crafts Show and Sale to be on Saturday, Nov. 12 was assured on Sunday when Mrs. Mary Davis arrived with her handiwork. Mrs. Davis, who is 89 and the mother of Mrs. Pauline McGee, has displayed her crafts here for several years, and enjoys making and showing them.

She lives at Hollis and Mrs. McGee went after her on Friday. She plans to be here through Thanksgiving.

New residents of Spearman are Sue Johnson and her nine year old son, Bryan Robinson.

They moved here last week from Perryton where she lived most of her life. She is a licensed L.V.N. at Hansford Hospital and is in the Respiratory Therapy Department.

In addition to her work and homemaking, she enjoys relaxing activities such as gardening, walking and reading.

Bryan is in the 4th grade and expects to get involved in some of their activities.

They live at 806 S. Roland, No. 10, and their church preference is Baptist.

Mrs. Maxine Banister attended the funeral of her step-sister in Amarillo on Saturday. Mrs. Fay Osborne passed away early in the week but the services were delayed until a son could arrive from Germany.

Ila Mae Buchanan returned Saturday from two weeks in Redonda Beach, Calif. where she was a guest of her sister, Mrs. Fay Schweitzer. They had to miss their usual sight-seeing and entertainments due to the illness of Fay.

Lorene McGuire returned recently from several weeks visit in Brownsburg, Ind. Both her brother, Leo Bellows, and sister, Ann Ford, in whose homes she visited, lived in Spearman at one time.

Another of her brothers, Jim Bellows and his wife, Jo, brought her home and stayed here from Saturday to Wednesday. They returned to their homes in Bonham. They are also former residents.

Gwen and Mike Burnam have moved to Spearman from Guymon. Mike is originally from Gruver and is employed by Enron at Guymon.

Gwen is employed at Brown, Graham and Company. Since they have been married only six months, they are still in the process of getting settled and at the present have little time for outside activities.

They live at 1100 S. Barkley and their church preference is Baptist.

Virginia and Garland Head came home on Sunday from a ten days vacation. On October 28 they went to Lubbock and met their son, Ronnie, and his girls there and had an enjoyable weekend, especially as Tech won the football game.

Ronnie and the girls returned to their home in Artesia, and the Heads left Monday to drive to Las Vegas, Nev. They were accompanied by old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Irons.

It was Virginia's first trip and she found the scenery and all the sights to be most interesting. Garland, strictly from a spectators viewpoint, also found some interesting activities.

Seems that he used to follow the horses until he found that the horses he bet on did the same thing!! It is reported that though he took his realistic survival kit (his wallet) he came back with it practically unused.

Mrs. Nellie McDonald is back in the home of her son, Mrs. and Mrs. Bart McDonald after a short stay in Northwest Texas Hospital last week.

Dr. and Mrs. Tom Latta visited their daughter, Julie, and Tim Stedje a few days last week. The Stedjes are students at Tarleton University at Stephenville.

Over the weekend Linda Christiansen and a friend from Texas Tech visited with the Lattas.
