County resident visits China, learns about culture

Above is one example of the sights Faye Cluck, a Gruver resident enjoyed while visiting China. This is the 'forbidden city' in Bejing, China. While in China, Faye got to experience such things as Chinese opera, Chinese circuses, and she witnesses acupuncture in one of the Chinese medical clinics. Some of the other culture she 'tasted' included a 25-course meal she was served, complete with hot tea.

By MELYN JOHNSON

Americans hear about China from the time they are preschoolers. Generally young children try to tunnel to China. That was my first introduction. I dug but never made it. This summer Faye Cluck did arrive in China. Rather than tunneling Faye went on a tour and has many interesting memories about "the Far East.

Faye's first impression was "China is a beautiful country. I have seen Alaska, Europe, Israel, and Hawaii, but the beauty of China is different from all of them.

Beautiful mountains, lakes, rivers, and it is bounded by two seas. The trees and flowers are gorgeous. The peony is the national flower. And lotus blossom's are everywhere. The Fragrance from them is unbelievable." There were so many people and so many bicycles. The streets are very wide. In the center are five traffic lanes and on each side there are three lanes for bicycles. The people were very friendly, reserved but polite." If all the people in the world were to line up single file, every fifth person would be Chinese.

Because China has such a large population with the Eastern culture, Faye learned many things. Because of a strict moral code there is very little crime in China. Faye spent time in some of the most populated cities in the world and did not worry about crime.

In the Chinese family most women work while a grandparent or elder, who lives with the family, babysits. Families are limited to one child by the government to help curb over popluation. Abortion is furnished by the state.

There is a Chinese saying, said Faye, that goes, "Americans eat bread, drink milk, and drive autos. Cinese eat rice, drink tea, and ride bicycles." Faye said she didn't remember seeing an overweight Chinese. In fact, most Chinese families have an exercise ritual in

Faye's group visited a school where the Chinese guide explained that each child attends kindergarten, elementary, junior high, and two years of high school, then a test is given to the class. Each person has two chances to pass this test. Those who pass the test may go on to the university or study in foreign countries and those who fail, go to work.

The Great Wall of China is engraved in Faye's mind as the most impressive feature. The wall is wide enough for five horses to travel abreast. On Faye's table in her living room sits a certificate, signed by the Chinese guide, that states, "Faye Cluck has scaled the height of the Great Wall of China at Badaling Pass outside of Beijing."

The large cities that she visited were Shanghai, Bejing, Nanjing, Xi'an, and Guangzhou, in China as well as a short visit to Hong Kong. Several cultural events enjoyed by Faye included a Chinese acrobatic group which Faye reported was "out of this world," an opera, and a circus. In Shanghai, the most populated city in all Asia, the Americans were shown a medical clinic. Faye said the clinic was not what she would say "up to our standards." There they watched acupuncture being performed on several patients.

In XI'an Faye visited the terra cotta army. These life sized replicas of Emperor Qin's entire army with full armor and horses were built at his request and placed in his tomb. At this time the excavation area of the tomb is as large as two football fields.

Faye tells about visiting a Chinese farm. "The farm was a commune, a small family farm, very primitive. We saw one or two small tractors, a few horses and cattle, and watched water buffalo pulling a truning plow. There were also people spading by hand in one

I asked Faye if she had eaten Peking duck, "Yes, and is was delicious. It had an outercovering very similar to a tortilla made of rice, with duck, onion, and soy sauce on it," she said. This brought on a few additional remarks about the food. "I really didn't care for the food. We had an American breakfast which saved me. There was one time that we were brought a 25 course meal, one dish at a time. We had a lot of rice, chicken, fish, cooked vegetables, and there was lots of watermelon. We were not allowed to drink water out the tap. There was an orange drink, hot tea, and occasionally a coke we could drink."

The group attended three Christian churches and learned that during the cultural revolution Bibles and church literature were destroyed. The Christians were forced to worship by memorization but today the churches are again

"I loved the trip, but I really wouldn't want to go back," said Faye. The Chinese tour guide was not allowed to travel with the group into Hong Kong and this inscription is written in English on the paper money Faye brought home, 'The yuan expressed in this certificate is equivalent in value to the Renminbi yuan. This certificate can only be used within China at designated places. No request to register its loss will be accepted by the Bank." The United States looks more beautiful all the time.

The Palo Duro River Authority held its regular meeting Tuesday. Sept. 13. The main purpose of the meeting was to pass a resolution to issue bonds. After that was completed there was a general discussion of the dam project.

Contractors from Central Plains Construction have already begun to bring equipment into the area at the dam site. They have been bringing trucks and equipment in for about one week already. It will take at least one more week before the contractors are organized enough to begin any actual construction on the dam. However, they have cleared off a site to build a maintenance building they will need for the project and they have drilled a well that will furnish water for wetting the dirt for the project.

On Wednesday, Sept. 21 all the contractors involved in the dam project including dirt movers, and all other contractors will be required to atttend a pre-construction safety meeting. At the meeting, Frieze and Nichols Engineering will hand out the work orders to the contractors so that they may begin their individual jobs.

The next meeting scheduled for the PDRA will be it's regularly scheduled meeting on Oct. 11.

Golden Spread Center begins to collect antiques for auction

The Spearman Senior Citizens at Golden Spread Center are going to be participating in a large antique and collectibles charity auction to be held at the Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum November 11, 12, and 13. The senior center requests the communities help to make this the biggest & best auction ever held in the Panhandle, or the state

All items donated to Golden Spread will be sold and 100 percent of the monies realized will be returned to the Center. A grant from the Texas Department of Aging is paying the expenses of the auctioneer and coliseum rental. 25 Senior Citizen organizations are participating in the auction. The Senior Center needs to have most of our items in by Oct. 15 so they they can be included in the catalog.

Anyone is welcome to come by the Center and see some of the donations that have already been made. This week the center is concentrating on old coins and glassware and needs similar donations. - Remember if you're not already, you'll be a senior citizen in a "few" years and the auction will be trying to insure the future so Spearman will have a nice facility for you.

Just call 659-3866 during the day of 659-2325, 659-3503, 659-3867 or 659-2819 if you have any questions or if you need someone to pick up your donations. "Now go look through those old coins and the old glassware, like that from the oatmeal box back in the 30's," says Pearl Pierce, senior citizen director. "We hope to see you."

2 city men named to Equity board attend womens

Approximately 450 area farmers attended the sixty-ninth annual meeting of the stockholders of the Perryton Equity Exchange Thursday evening, Sept. 8 in Perryton. The annual meeting provided members from the farm cooperative with 35 grain stations in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas an opportunity to socialize at a barbeque dinner which preceded the business meeting.

During the business meeting. eight board members whose three year terms will end with the 1991 annual meeting were elected. One board member, Don Williams of Balko Ok., resigned from the board to allow time for his race for the Oklahome Senate. His position on the Equity board was filled with the election of Albert Littau, a polled . Hereford breeder from Balko.

Others who were incumbents reelected to the Equity board were: Wendel Peckenpaush, Farsworth, Tom Snodgrass, Perryton, Banks McGarraush, Perryton, Richard Dorman, Forgan, Ok., Roger Odegaard, Spearman, John Trindle Spearman, and Kenneth Rose, Keyes, Ok.

from Spearman noted that while the Equity had sales of over 100 million dollars during the past fiscal year, it also had a significant eduction in income from grain storage dur to the aggressive grain selling program of the Federal Government. To help offset some of the losses in grain storage revenues, Holt said the Equity has expanded its grain handling facilities, and has launched a program to build additional retail outlets for fuel and tires. An automated fuel stop is in operation at Canadian, and another is being built at Perryton in conjunction with the tire and fertilizer store that was opened in May of 1988.

Commenting on the financial strength of the Equity, Holt noted "the fact that you have invested over six million dollars in our demand note program indicates your confidence in your board and management."

Equity General Manager, Kenneth Allen, told the farmermembers that they can look for good prices for grain this fall and next summer. Allen noted that farmers who held their 1987 wheat crop in storage this past year gained about one dollar per bushel in price during the marketing year. Citing the current production estimates for wheat, and the projected carryover into next summer, Allen concluded that the climate is right for an improvement in the price of wheat in 1988-1989. Allen advised farmers to pay attention to the corn crop numbers saying "Corn is by far the largest factor in determining the price of the cereal grains. As corn goes, so goes the whole cereal grain complex." Allen noted that while hte scenario for crop farmers looks good into next year, the profits for cattlemen and feeders will be pressured by high grain and protein prices this next

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS GENERAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 8, 1988

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 8 proposes a constitutional amendment providing that when the federal government reimburses the state for expenditures of state funds dedicated to acquiring rights-of-way and for constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways, such federal funds must also be used for those purposes. The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment and/or clarification providing that federal reimbursement of state highway dedicated funds are themselves dedicated for the purpose of acquiring rights-of-way and constructing, maintaining, and policing public roadways."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 2 proposes a constitutional amendment to establish an economic stabilization fund in the state treasury. The fund would consist of one half of the unencumbered balance of general revenues at the end of a biennium and three fourths of the difference between the net oil and gas production taxes received in a fiscal year and the net oil and gas production taxes received in the 1987 fiscal year. During any fiscal biennium, the amount in the economic stabilization fund could not exceed 10% of the total deposited in general revenue in the preceding biennium.

The state comptroller and the state treasurer could decide to transfer monies from the fund into the general revenue fund to alleviate a temporary cash shortage in general revenue. The legislature could make appropriations from the fund on approval by a three fifths vote of each house to make up the difference between anticipated general revenue and appropriations. On approval of two thirds of the members of each house of the legislature, the legislature could appropriate monies from the fund for any purpose.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

'The constitutional amendment establishing an economic stabilization fund in the state treasury to be used to offset unforeseen shortfalls in revenue.'

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 5 pro-poses a constitutional amendment that establishes the Texas growth fund. All investments of the Texas growth fund must be directly related to furthering economic growth and employment opportunities in Texas. At least 50 percent of the fund must be invested in equity and/or debt security for the initial construction, expansion, or modernization of business or industrial facilities in Texas. Not more than ten percent of the fund may be invested in venture capital investments. Of the funds available for venture capital investments, not more than 25 percent may be invested unilaterall,, and the remaining investments must be matched at least equally by funds from other sources. The Texas growth fund will be managed by a board of trustees consisting of four members appointed by the Governor and one member from and elected by the membership of each of the fol-lowing: The Board of Regents of the University of Texas System; The Board of Regents of the Texas A&M System; The Board of Trustees of the Teacher's Retirement System of Texas; The Board of Trustees of the Employee's Retirement System of Texas; and the State Board of Education. The trustees may set the investment policy of the fund, enter into investment contracts, and take any action necessary for the creation, administration, and protection of the fund. The amendment authorizes the Board of Regents of the University of Texas System and the State Board of Education, in managing the permanent university fund and the permanent school fund, to acquire, exchange, sell, supervise, manage, or retain any kind of investment, including investments in the Texas growth fund. The fund will be phased out after the tenth anniversary of its creation, but the Legislature may create a second growth fund by a two thirds vote of each house.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for the investment of the permanent university fund, the permanent school fund, and public employee retirement systems in the Texas growth fund created by the amendment, which will directly create, retain, and expand job opportunity and economic growth in Texas."

The Amarillo article reported that the Amarillo City Commission had ordered Amarillo By-Products to adopt an acceptable plan for treatment of its industrial waste and implement that plan by Dec. 1. The story also added that Amarillo By-Products had been a defendant in a Racketeer Influenced Corrupt Organization case, and that U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson

"After World War II, America rebuilt Europe and Japan.

Now it's time to rebuild rural America

After World War II, we inadvertently began destroying small towns in rural America. It was not the intention of government policy to do that, but it has been the result. Now, as a nation, we have a choice to make. We can decide to let our small rural towns stagnate or die, believing that we do not need them anymore, or we can redevelop them. Their decline brings on more serious problems, including lowering the quality of life in the already overcrowded and polluted metropolitan areas.

So I believe the message is clear. Our small towns are dying. We must stop that trend. The quickest way, and perhaps the only way, to do that is provide incentives for developing new businesses and new jobs in rural America to diversify its economic base.

I have a plan for America's small town redevelopa Rural Redevelopment Program which can furnish America's rural redevelopment.

start-up money to people with ideas. We can create new jobs and new money in most communities.

An independent Rural Redevelopment Corporation in each town would use money contributed by citizens who could deduct their contribution from their income tax as a tax credit. It's just that simple. People in rural communities could use some of their tax dollars to help rebuild their local economies instead of sending that money to Washington. These new investment dollars would create jobs and keep people in small towns rather than forcing them into the big cities.

If I have the privilege of being your congressman, one ment. It allows our smaller towns or counties to create of my first acts will be to introduce legislation to begin

LARRY MILNER'S PLAN FOR JOBS AND PROSPERITY Rural Redevelopment Corporations

Q. What's the problem in rural America?

A.Lack of jobs. Without jobs, the tax base declines. School budgets are pinched. Local governments struggle to keep up services. As the local economy shrinks, taxes increase, local businesses close, the doctors leave, and our young people are forced to go elsewhere

Q. What can be done?

A. Rural America needs to invest in new businesses. Economic developers say that rural America needs "equity capital." That's the start-up money for new jobs.

Q. Where would the money come from?

A. The money is already in the communities, but it now goes to Washington as federal taxes.

This plan allows taxpayers to take their contribution off their federal taxes in the form of a tax credit and give that money to a local non-profit Rural Redevelopment Corporation. The Rural Redevelopment Corporation would invest in businesses which will create new jobs.

Q. So the Rural Redevelopment Corporations allow people to keep money in their community instead of sending it to Washington? A. That's right. You don't keep the money yourself, but it does stay in your community. This isn't a bureaucratic government program. It would be run by the local people who contribute the

Q. What kinds of businesses could the Rural Redevelopment Corporation back?

A. Anything that sells a product outside of the community and brings new money into the economy. The new business could come from an idea that someone has developed, for example:

> It could be a local druggist who has invented a new blood pressure device. Or a local jewelry store owner who decides to make and distribute jewelry.

It could be a local girl or boy who finishes college and wants to start a business in his or her home town instead of the city. It could be a mail order electronics or computer distributor. Or a plastic products producer.

O. Who decides?

A. The local people who give money to the Rural Redevelopment Corporation would elect a board of directors. The board would decide what businesses they back.

Q. What do you mean by "rural"?

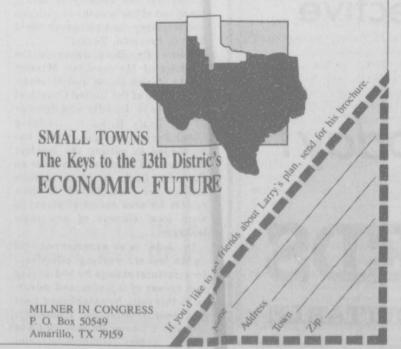

Any community outside of what the U.S. Census Bureau calls a Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area.

Q. Will this help cities like Wichita Falls and Amarillo?

A. Yes, because the economy of our regional centers depends on the smaller communities around them.

Q. Can you get the legislation through Congress?

A. Yes, because every area will benefit from this program including the major metropolitan areas. People in Atlanta, in Los Angeles, in Washington D.C., are complaining of overcrowding, air pollution, and traffic. I think their congressmen would back a plan that would slow down overcrowding in those areas.

Also for the youngsters, the popular educational petting zoo, featuring some twenty kinds of animals, will be open each day of the fair. For the older folks, the Singletree Band will perform for one hour twice nightly on the outdoor stage. A sure hit with any crowd, Singletree entertains every audience. They have appeared on stage with such country stars as Gary Morris, Moe Bandy, John Conlee, Eddie Rabbit, Sawyer Brown and others. Then Short's Racing Pigs will again be at the fair to run two heats three times daily at Pork Chop Downs

"The Gulf of Mexico Program" designed to protect resources

Many discussions today concern a new initiative called "The Gulf of Mexico Program.

What is this program and what are its implications for Texans? Do agriculture and business in general have a stake in this initiative?

Dr. John M. Sweeten, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said the coordinated regional program is being formed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to extablish a comprehensive strategy for managing and protecting the resources of the Gulf of Mexico and the related coastal

He said the intent of the EPA is to pattern the Gulf Program after the Great Lakes and the Chesapeake Bay Programs.

"Waste discharges and nonpoint source pollutants that EPA hopes to reduce includes nitrogen, phosphorus, organic matter, pesticides and other chemicals," Sweeten said. He said that many educational agencies and arganizations, including the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will have involvement in the Gulf of Mexico Program.

EPA Regions 4 (Atlanta) and 6 (Dallas) have jointly stablished a Gulf of Mexico Program office at the John C. Stennis Space Center near Bay St. Louis, Miss. The office will be directed by Dr. Douglas Lipka, a Texas A&M-

Myron Knudson, EPA regional water division director, said "The Gulf of Mexico is an exceptionally valuable resource for both Texas and the nation. We are interested in protecting the vital resources of the entire Gulf."

Knudson said to achieve this goal, the EPA has developed the Gulf Program. He said the program is expected to provide solutions to complex problems and coordination between levels of government and agencies as well as a forum for affected user groups, educational institutions and the public to participate in the solution process.

More specifics of the program are being refined for announce-

Rev. Buck Jones of St. Louis and Jim Douglass of Bangor, Wash., will present a program Sunday, Sept. 25, at the evening worship service at the Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, 1210 NW 10th in Amarillo, highlighting "Social Awareness Month''. This community-wide service is open to the public, and there will be no admission charge.

Rev. Jones's and Mr. Douglass's topic will be "Together We Can Stop This Train." They are on a speaking tour of the South outlining how Christians can become militarism, racism, and poverty caused by the arms race and, in particular, singling out the Nuclear Train that will soon deliver Trident II nuclear warheads to Georgia.

'Social Awareness Month' at Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church will be focussing on the problems of the homeless in Amarillo and especially in the North Heights area. The Humanitarian Home for the Homeless, also directed by Rev. Co-sponsoring the event is the Peace Farm. Les Bredding, spokesperson for the Peace Farm, said, "This event will help us all to be more aware of how issues such as the Nuclear Train affect all our lives. The excessive spending and profit-making under the guise of national security at Pantex and throughout the country is taking bread out of the mouths of children and creating homelessness right here in Amarillo, Texas.'

Rev. Dr. Buck Jones is the Minister of Metropolitan Mission for the Illinois South and Missouri Conference of the United Church of Christ. He is founder and director of St. Louis H.O.P.E. (Helping Other People Emerge), which has succeeded in getting the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to close an East St. Louis uranium storage facility and established a siren system for area chemical plants to warn local citizens of any toxic leakages.

Dr. Jone is an experienced civil rights leader, working effectively for structural change by addressing root causes of injustice and poverty. In this vein, he established East St. Louis Habitat for Humanity, operates a non-profit food co-op in a low income community, and organized the Metropolitan Job Assistance Program designed to decrease welfare dependency and help the hard-core unemployed find jobs.

Jim Douglass served as a theological advisor to the Catholic Bishops at the Second Vatican Council from 1962 to 1965, and has taught theology at the University of Hawaii, at Bellarmine College in Louisville, Kentucky, and at the University of Notre Dame. With his wife Shelley, in 1977 Douglass founded the Ground Zero Center for Nonviolent Action along side the Trident nuclear submarine base near Seattle, Washington. In the course of the nonviolent campaign to stop Trident, he has served a year and a half in jail for various acts of civil disobedience. On December 8, 1982, Jim and Shelley Douglass saw the Nuclear Train carrying nuclear warheads pass their home at the railroad entrance to the Trident base. Since then the Douglasses have worked with friends to develop an extended nonviolent community, called the "Agape Community", of people who watch and vigil by the tracks in over 250 towns and cities across the U.S. including Amarillo. In January, 1985, Jim and Shelley and the Ground Zero Community were given the Martin Luther King Award by the National Fellowship of Reconciliation for their work in the Trident Campaign.

Asgrow produced newest corn hybrid

Good milling qualities attract processors to a new corn hybrid, while good stalk strength and competitive yields attract growers. Asgrow Seed Company has combined the best of both qualities in their newest food corn hybrid, Asgrow/O's Gold RX895.

New RX895 will be available to growers for the 1989 crop year. It has ears placed moderately low on the stalk and harvest moisture similar to RX892.

Adaptable for the Texas High Plains and southern Corn Belt growing areas, new RX895 is a yellow-grained corn on a white cob. The hybrid has a 119-day Central Corn Belt rating.

Excellent husk coverage protects this new hybrid's grain quality, which is suitable for wet or dry milling. RX895 has demonstrated very good performance relative to other food corn hybrids in its maturity class during extensive field testing.

In addition to corn, Asgrow markets a complete line of soybean and sorghum hybrids as well as alfalfa and forage seed.

Cawthon to remind public of precautions

Major Vernon Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, wants to remind everyone that the summer vacation will soon be over, and thousands of youngsters will be starting back to school, many of those for the first time.

So, once again, we will be seeing those big yellow school buses back on the streets and highways. The Texas Department of Public Safety wants to remind you that Texas law prohibits the passing of a stopped school bus that is loading or unloading passengers when the lights are flashing. If you are in doubt--stop--those few moments you lose may mean a lifetime to some youngster. None of us want to be responsible for the death or injury of a young child, so remember to slow down in the school zones in the mornings and again in the afternoons.

Major Cawthon stated, "Just because most of the children will be in school, we must not forget the preschooler who will still be playing in the residential areas. Remember, slow down as you are driving through school zones, playgrounds, and in and around school areas."

Drive as if you had a child there--because someone has!

Insurance companies accused of using "big life" technique

Austin - The president of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association accused insurance companies of using the "big life" technique to distort the facts about workers' compensation. "They claim the cost of workers' compensation is going up," said Corpus Christi attorney David Perry, "but statistics from the State Board of Insurance prove the cost has been going down for the last ten years."

Perry said small businesses are being duped into believing premiums are going up for everyone when big businesses are actually getting a rate discount. "The small business owners are paying higher rates so the insurance companies can give a better rate to their big customers - and they are lying about the cost of workers' compensation in the process. That's discrimination," he said.

"Another big lie - parroted by Govenor Clements - is that Texas has the highest cost and the lowest benefits," Perry said. "The truth is, Texas' benefits are about average when compared to other industrialized states," according to Perry, who cited statistics from the National Council on Compensation Insurance. "We are second among 11 major industrial states in temporary total benefits delivered to the claimant, and fourth in death benefits," he said.

"But the most horrible truth," Perry said "is that Texas is the most dangerous place to work in the nation. Texas leads the nation in workplace fatalities and serious on-the-job injuries. The only real way to lower the cost of workers' compensation is to reduce accidents and deaths," he said. Perry said Texas needs a more rigorous and mandatory safety program. "The cost of compensation insur-

"The cost of compensation insurance in Texas compared to Georgia and North Carolina parallels the higher rate of death and injury here. If we want Texas compensation to cost no more than Georgia, we must stop killing and injuring workers almost twice as often," Perry said.
