

Hansford County Seat Fight Ended in Amarillo Wednesday

Spearman Wins Appeal on Contest Raging For Last 40 Years.

With the Amarillo court of civil appeals upholding the action of the Hansford county district court a suit to contest an election in which Spearman was made county seat of Hansford county, the Panhandle's oldest county seat fight is probably being settled for all time.

At various times, for the past 40 years, the location of the Hansford county seat has been in dispute with numerous elections, junctions and contests.

Following an election last year which Spearman received a two-thirds majority over Hansford and Gruver, citizens of Hansford filed a suit contesting the election.

Judge H. E. Hoover, dean of the Amarillo bar, who has been an attorney in every suit involving the location of the Hansford county seat, represented Spearman in this contest—Amarillo Daily News.

WIFE OF GENIUS SAYS "EDISON IS JUST A BOY"

"I am always finding something of the boy in him," Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the great electrical wizard, declares in an interview in the American Magazine for this month.

"At home," says Mrs. Edison, "my husband deems his arm chair sacred. No one else has ever sat in it. He allows no one to disturb his copy of the morning paper. Trouble follows such a desecration."

"He loves Lyonaise potatoes, but he cannot eat them," Mrs. Edison added. "Otherwise," she says, "he is a perfectly normal husband. He simply could not leave the house without giving me an affectionate hug and kiss."

Explain This, Please

P. A. Lyon, insurance man, states that when we have extremely cold weather, we almost invariably have a number of broken plate glass windows about town.

Mrs. Alvino Richardson came from Amarillo on Saturday of last week to be with her little niece, Alvina Caldwell, during the latter's illness.

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

HOW ABOUT "MACHINE" HATCHING

The Question Whether or Not to Use Incubators is No Problem—To Others This Discussion May Give Valuable Assistance in Determining Whether to Switch to Artificial Incubation or Stick to Time Honored Methods.

I once overheard a rather animated discussion of the relative merits of natural and artificial means of hatching eggs. Each side of the question had its ardent champions, each of which was absolutely sure that his view was the only one possible for any person of good judgment. In the course of the debate, one young fellow remarked that you couldn't depend on hens because they were too darned temperamental. "W-a-a!" drawled one rather ancient defender of nature's methods, "if you kin find anything more temperamental than one of them there innkewbatters, I'd like to see it!" That reply indicates a point of view that was once quite a bit more general than it is now. There was unquestionably a time, not so long ago, at that, when the incubator was not the reliable machine it is today. Nowadays, a good up-to-date incubator that is run according to instructions is equally as dependable in its own way as the family clock. It is hardly an exaggeration to say that a good modern incubator practically runs itself. If there are any temperamental interferences with the progress of artificial hatching, it is more usually shown in the operator than in the machine.

I realize that the question as to which is better, the hen or the incubator, is still a debatable one to many people. I can best answer that question by saying that when the use of hens is possible just as good results are possible as can be obtained with the best of incubators and vice versa. There is really no difference in results when proper methods are employed in the use of both. There are, however, a number of limitations to the use of hens which under certain circumstances make the use of incubators absolutely necessary.

A hen cannot go broody at will and there is no known way to make her do so to suit the convenience of her owner.

This business of broodiness must also be considered where very large numbers of eggs must be hatched all at one time or where the incubating of large hatches must necessarily be a more or less continuous process over an extended period of time. In such cases, it would be a serious problem if not an impossible one, to carry on the work successfully. In short, to the man who makes the raising of chickens his whole business or even one of his major activities, there is no question what to use. He must use incubators.

There is also considerable justification for the remark made by the incubator advocate mentioned at the beginning of this article. Hens are very temperamental creatures at times. You never know when one of them is going to get tired of her job and leave you flat with a batch of partly hatched eggs spoiled by her neglect. The man who depends on his chickens for all or any material part of his income cannot afford to take such chances.

It is also true that chicks hatched by hens are more likely to be infested with lice and other vermin than those hatched in incubators.

Now let us take a look at the other side of the question. When is the use of hens more desirable?

Generally speaking, however, I should say that any one who goes in for chicken raising on any considerable scale will find the incubator more nearly a necessity than a mere convenience. It gives absolute control of the hatch, reduces labor, insures chicks at any season and provides large flocks of practically the same age. The machine is always ready for use at any season and no waiting is necessary for it to go broody. The cost of operation is very small; there is little mess connected with the operation, and with relatively little care it can be kept free from vermin and disease germs.

In conclusion, let me add just a word of caution. If circumstances justify the purchase of an incubator and you decide to get one, don't make the mistake of buying one too cheap. At best, you will save only a few dollars and losses due to inferior construction may soon eat up the saving many times over. Whether you buy a hot-air type or hot-water type is not important. I have had equally good results from both. It also makes little difference what make you buy though I counsel buying some well known make that you can count on as being all it is represented.

When you have made your purchase, set it up carefully and run it strictly according to the manufacturer's directions. If you do that, you will find your incubator both a time saver and a money saver—a welcome and even necessary adjunct to the raising end of your flock.

URGE WOMEN TO GIVE AID TO CENSUS MEN

American housewives are being urged in a governmental campaign to give every aid to the census takers who will begin their 1930 task in April. This can best be done by answering every question promptly, even down to their ages and the status of the mortgage on the old homestead.

"There need be no fear in answering all questions freely," declared The Country Home, in an article aiding the movement. "All census enumerators are sworn to secrecy in the information they secure and there is a penalty for divulging facts secured, as there is for giving false data. Not even the banker will ever see a family's statement of its economic status."

The 1930 census will be the most complete ever taken since the country first counted its 4,000,000 noses in 1790. The census bureau only came into being in 1902 and since that each census has been more and more efficient.

"If you consider the census taker's visit a bother," says the article, "you should thank your stars that you do not live in Turkey. When the first census was taken there in 1927, the nation was put under martial law and all citizens were locked in their houses until the census was completed that night. In Constantinople the doors were not unlocked until after 10 o'clock in the evening."

THE DAIRY SITUATION

The immediate future of the dairy industry is not bright. Figures, which we have every reason to believe are authoritative, indicate a great surplus of all dairy products now in storage in the country.

The marked expansion of dairying in all parts of the United States is having its effect. It would be well for the farmer to look into this matter carefully and seek ways of readjusting his business to the new condition.

He should weed the poor producers out of his herd. A little experience in a cow testing association would probably show that this could be done with a resultant decrease in his capital investment and a reduction in work and little if any loss in gross income. Why work hard to keep cows that are not paying their way?

It is interesting to note that 350,000,000 pounds of oleomargarine were consumed in this country during the past year. It is certain that considerable portion of that was bought by farmers who depend upon cows for a part of their income.

The farmer should see that the constant growth in the consumption of dairy substitutes is one of the great menaces to his business; and he should ban the cocoanut cow from his own table, and thereby show that he is an ardent believer in the value of his own product.

GENERATION OF FINE WOMEN

The January number of a certain magazine noted for its special attention to physical culture has the following to say about ancestry in the producing of fine women:

"The calf and ankle of a woman who has the combination of good looks, fraught with character and intelligence are almost invariably more interesting and beautiful than the calf of the cow-like type. (No fun intended.) Those who come of an ancestry that has been breeding fine women for generations are like race horses. Every line of the leg shows clean, hard muscles, lovely through sheer silk that women wear these days. The ankle is slim, neat, lean and strong. The foot big enough, and the heel of the shoe low enough but not too low. What you are likely to find in women with such legs is a temperament and roving energy of mind and body to match it, and so on.

However, in selecting a life mate, all of the attention of suitors should not be given to looking up the girls fine ancestry, because one other thing is mighty important. In selecting a life mate it is well to know that the very finest stock doesn't make the best husband or wife. Fine stock needs a little common stock mixed with it so it can endure hardships and work a little if necessary. Real fine horses and cattle demand constant attention, while animals with a streak of old native stock in them can shift for themselves pretty well even during a severe winter, and the same is true of people. It is all right for a man to marry a girl who looks as if she is from a fine registered family, but he ought to investigate and make sure that there is a little poor stock in her. There it probably is on her side.

ANOTHER NEW CASE TRACTOR

1. Powerful valve-in-head engine.
2. Removable cylinder sleeves.
3. Heavy 3-bearing crankshaft drilled for pressure lubrication.
4. All parts sealed against dust.
5. Hand operated clutch, easily handled from the ground as well as from the tractor seat.
6. Final drive of strong steel roller chains enclosed and operating in oil.
7. Three forward speeds, 2 1/8, 3 1/2 and 4 1/2 miles per hour.
8. Irreversible steering bar. Outside turning—10 ft.

HERE is another new Case Tractor—the Model "C", a 2-3 plow size. This tractor, which is a smaller brother to the Model "L", offers something entirely new in power output and all-around usefulness.

New Power for Size and Weight. The tractor is low and compact... only 48 inches high... weighs but a trifle more than two draft horses... yet it pulls 2-3 plow bottoms, a small to medium size thrasher with all attachments, or other machines of comparable capacities. Less power is required to move the tractor... more is available for profitable work.

New Speed for Farm Work. Three forward speeds, 2 1/8, 3 1/2 and 4 1/2 miles an hour, provide the proper speed for highly efficient performance of every kind of field job. This enables you to do more work in a day.

New Range of Usefulness. The tractor is adapted to a wide range of drawbar, belt and power take-off operations. Because of its compactness and light weight, it can be used for more different kinds of jobs—more days in the year. It turns in short space and is easy to handle in close quarters.

We consider it a privilege to show this new tractor, because we know that its many advantages mean new opportunities in profitable tractor farming. There is a new illustrated folder waiting for you. Come in and get it.

International Sunday School Lesson

By DR. J. E. NUNN

FOR FEBRUARY 9, 1930.

GENERAL TOPIC—Warning and promises (Temperance Lesson) RIPTURE LESSON—Matt. 7: 2, 15-27.

2. All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also to them; for this is the law of the prophets.

5. Beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly are ravening wolves.

6. By their fruits ye shall know them. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles?

7. Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but the corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

8. A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

9. Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

20. Therefore by their fruits shall ye know them.

21. Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven.

22. Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy by thy name and by thy name cast out demons, and by thy name do many mighty works?

23. And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you; depart from me, ye that work iniquity.

24. Every one therefore that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them, shall be likened unto a wise man, who built his house upon a rock;

25. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell not; for it was founded upon a rock.

26. And every one that heareth these words of mine, and doeth not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand;

27. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and smote upon that house; and it fell; and great was the fall thereof.

Golden Text—Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire. Matt. 7:19.

Time—Midsummer, A. D. 28, the second year of Christ's ministry.

Place—The Horns of Hattin, the altitudes, near Caspernaum west of the Sea of Galilee.

Introduction. Lyman Beecher used to say that every sermon should end in a "napper"; that is, it should close with strong personal applications of the truth that has been discussed. The sermon on the Mount certainly meets this test of a great sermon. The concluding portion of the sermon begins (Matt. 7:1-11) with a warning against censoriousness. The Christian is not to pass harsh judgment on others. Christ will be compelled to pass heavy judgment on him on the last day. Two illustrations are given. First, the wooden measure with which grain is measured out to customers; make it a generous one, for they, in turn, will use it to measure their own commodities which you are purchasing. The second illustration is that of the mote and the beam. Harsh critics find fault with others for trifling faults comparable to a bit of dust in the eye, while their very harshness is an overpowering defect comparable to a great beam thrust into their own eye.

"Your Father Who is in Heaven." The key note here is the word "Father," and Christ's blessed argument is from our human fatherhood to see the divine fatherhood. Earthly fathers are imperfect, and yet if a son asked a father for a flat cake of bread, the father would never think of giving him only a flat, round stone in the shape of the cake; and if the son begged for a fish to eat, the father would not give him a snake looking somewhat like the fish. Is not the God who made fathers and planted father-love in them, himself far better, kinder, and more loving than the fathers he has created? Can we not trust him to give to his children fully, freely and wisely? And if there is anything which he sees is not best for us, do we really want Him to give it to us?

The Golden Rule—v. 12. "All things therefore," "Therefore shows that this verse sums up what has preceded. "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them." This is rightly called the "Golden Rule," because it is the supreme and comprehensive rule of the moral life. "Only the Golden Rule can bring the Golden Age."—Frances E. Willard. Mixims somewhat similar to the Golden Rule are to be found in Jewish and heathen writers, but they are couched in the negative. "The grand summary of all their teachings amount to this: 'Whatsoever evil ye would not that men should do to you, do ye not such evil to them.'"—Rev. Wellesley W. Bowditch, D. D.

What seller or buyer of liquor would like to have his own boy or girl made a drunkard? Yet he will do all he can to make some other father's child a drunkard. What woman who ridicules the Eighteenth Amendment would willingly see her own husband borne to a drunkard's grave? Yet she is perfectly willing that drunkards' graves should be filled by other women's husbands. The Eighteenth Amendment is simply the Golden Rule put into our national constitution.

False Prophets. "Beware of false prophets," A prophet is primarily a public teacher; the word means literally "one who speaks forth." It may also mean "one who foretells." A false prophet is a false teacher, a "blind guide" to the kingdom's entrance, leading many astray. "Who comes to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly are ravening wolves."

There are many false prophets among the "wets." They pretend to be greatly concerned about the purity of our national Constitution, and deeply shocked because an iniquitous "sumptuary law" has been forced into that noble document. They paint and picture the condition of lawlessness into which the country has been plunged by the prohibition amendment. They quote and slander. They subsidize the press and corrupt all the channels of public information.

"By their Fruits"—"The only test of a religion worth anything is the bringing together of the peoples that the religions have made. Somebody once said to Wendell Phillips, 'Hinduism is as good as Christianity,' and Phillips replied, 'India is the answer.'"—Rev. Henry Stiles Bradley, D. D. Know alcohol and the saloon by their fruits. These fruits are sickness and disease, incompetence and unemployment, poverty and misery, idiocy and insanity, licentiousness and crime, the corruption of the body politic, the destruction of the home, the death of the soul. Every kind of evil finds its soil in the liquid business.

A Good Tree Bears Good Fruit. "Even so every tree bringeth forth good fruit." The good tree of prohibition is an outstanding example. It has brought unexampled prosperity to the United States, in spite of the World War, the heavy taxes, and the loss of many foreign markets. There has been an enormous increase in savings-bank deposits, in life insurance, in new buildings, in the purchase of automobiles and radio sets, in all the comforts of life. There has been a wonderful decrease in diseases due to alcoholism and in cases of destitution due to liquor. Children in the public schools are better fed and better clothed. The fruits of the tree of prohibition are so blessed that with each year the hearts of the people are more firmly bound to reform.

A Crucial Test, vs. 21, 22 "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven." "Not profession, not calling on the name of the Lord as an empty form, not outward service, nor formal service, nor numberless prayers,—none of these is the essence of true religion."—Rev. Edwin W. Rice, D. D. "But he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven." "We are not all so situated that we can perform the great achievements that immortalize a few historic characters but there is not one of us, not the humblest, who cannot imitate the Christ every day of our lives. There is not one of us who has not a brother, or a sister, a friend or a schoolmate, whom we can make better as well as happier. Every day calls upon us for sacrifices of small selfishness, for forbearance under provocation, and the subjugation of evil propensities."—Horace Mann.

"Depart from Me." v. 23 "And then will I profess unto them." In spite of all their good deeds, Christ is obliged solemnly to condemn them. "I never knew you." They, therefore, had never known Christ, in spite of all their professions of Christianity. "Depart from me, ye that work iniquity." Theirs was not merely a negative religious state, but it was positively wicked. As in the parallel passage, Matt. 25:30-40, they are banished forever from the presence of Christ. It seems indeed strange and terrible that men can have sound beliefs and lead correct and outwardly fruitful lives, and yet be utterly alienated from the Saviour; but who has not seen illustrations of the sad truth?

The Two Builders, vs. 24-29. In closing the Sermon on the Mount, our Lord gathers up all its teachings in a short and striking parable which applied to every one of his hearers, and to all readers to the end of time. "Every one therefore that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them." The hearing is never enough. Church-going is a duty and a privilege, but church-going in itself will never save a soul. Bible reading is a help to the spiritual life and a great joy, but Bible reading in itself does not constitute one a Christian. Religion is obedience. Religion is a life. Each one is building up his character; and the only way to build is to build upon a rock, the rock of Christ's teaching and Christ's example.

Build on the Sand, vs. 26, 27. "And every one that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man." Note that this is not a parable of two foundations, as it is often called, but a parable of two builders, one wise and the other foolish. "Who built his house upon the sand." "A heedless man, taking no thought of the meaning of life, the revelation of God in Christ, and his eternal destiny, is building his life structure as foolishly as the man who put his house on the sand."

"And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and smote upon that house. Lives that go down in the world's storm do not fall until after the foundation has been softened; then a blast overthrows them, which they should have resisted with ease. Young men who come to the city and go wrong never do so until after the foundations have been cut from under their faith. It is never the final blast that explains a fall. There is a process of undermining going on long before."—Prof. Cleland B. McAfee. "And it fell; and great was the fall thereof." In the end every character will be disclosed; the secret rottenness which the world never dreamed of; the worldliness which was concealed under the show of philanthropy; the ambition which hid behind the veil of piety; the secret things will be made manifest. He alone will stand in that day who has turned his moral and religious belief into practice."—Bishop W. Boyd Carpenter.

ENCOURAGED "How did you come out?" asked the friend. "Will she have you?" "Her answer," replied the diplomatic attaché, "is partially satisfactory. Enough so to continue negotiations. She says if she ever does marry, it will be a man of good looks, courage, and ability."

COMFORT FOR ALL No matter how you may have begun this year, you have begun it more propitiously than Lincoln began 1863, and yet that year was the greatest of his life.—The American Magazine.

"You are lying so clumsily," said the observant judge to a litigant who was making a dubious statement of his case, "that I would advise you to get a lawyer."

Greater Beauty - Finer Performance

Never has a Chevrolet car won greater praise for its appearance than the new Chevrolet Six. Its new Fisher bodies reveal in every detail the artistry that has made the Fisher name famous throughout the motor car world. In beauty of line and color, in balance and harmony of design, they represent one of the greatest style triumphs in Fisher history. And the promise of this exterior beauty is more than fulfilled when you look inside the car. Upholsteries are richer and more durable. The instrument panel carries a new and more attractive grouping of the control instruments. Seats are wider and deeper. In fact, not a single feature has been overlooked that would add to the comfort and convenience of both driver and passengers.

In addition to its new beauty, the new Chevrolet Six represents a remarkable advance in every phase of performance. Its improved six-cylinder valve-in-head engine has been increased to 50 horsepower—giving faster acceleration, greater reserve energy and more comfortable high speeds. Steering has been made safer and easier by a new front axle assembly. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers provide exceptional riding comfort. Fully enclosed, internal-expanding, weather-proof brakes give positive braking control. And numerous structural improvements add to the car's dependability, endurance and long life. Come in today and see this car. And remember, it is now available—

REGARDING PETITION OF E. K. SNIDER

At the regular meeting of the City Commission held on Tuesday evening, February 4, 1930, the petition circulated by Mr. E. K.
Snider, was presented for consideration.

It is believed that the facts in this case should be made known to the signers of this petition. On the evenings when the band used the city clerk's office, where the town records are kept, the office was left by them in a very negligent and disorderly condition.

Mr. Snider was not denied permission to use this office for his band practice, either by the city manager or the city commissioners, but he was requested that if he did use it he would leave it in the same condition in which he found it. The city clerk's office in the city hall is the place where the town transacts its official business and should be kept in a neat, clean, orderly manner, which was not done by Mr. Snider. Because the city hall is a public building, is not an argument to uphold neglect upon the part of those who use it.

It is further believed that this petition is of a trivial nature, and merely circulated to create some discord.

Signed,
ROBT. E. MEEK

AND IT COSTS YOU NOTHING

Is your telephone scarred and battered? Does it strike a discordant note in the neatness of your home? Is the cord frayed or the mouth piece chipped?

Then call our office. We will be glad to replace any damaged parts, and it won't cost you a cent.
A frayed cord or a broken transmitter may cut down the efficiency of your telephone but that is not the only reason why we are so anxious to keep everything in tip-top shape.

Your telephone is a valuable instrument and we want you to be conscious of its value at all times.
Furthermore, your telephone is our representative in your home, and to be a suitable representative it must be neat and in good repair at all times.

Naturally we can not always tell when your telephone or any part of it needs replacing or repairing, so you must tell us—and remember it costs you nothing.— Western Telephone Corporation, Fred Lusk, Local Manager.

AN OPPORTUNITY

In an address by a wealthy man who has just made some substantial donations to his old home town and his old college we note some interesting thoughts. He declares that he is meeting an obligation to the town in which he got his start in life and the college that gave him his early training.

But to donate money for betterment of the community in which one gets a real start in life is something other than an obligation, it is a privilege. There is little in life that can bring greater pleasure than contributing means and work for the education of the youth of the county and the creation of happier community life.

The average man's personal requirements are limited. A few thousand dollars per year will suffice to bring all the comfort and material goods that one can use happily. What's to be done with that big balance? Is a question that every man of wealth might well ask himself from time to time.

It is probable that John D.

Rockefeller, Otto Kahn, Julius Rosenwald, and other wealthy benefactors of learning, art and science, have derived more fun out of giving money to worthy causes than they ever had in making it.
And more than that they have earned the profound respect of their fellow citizens for their generosity and public spirit.

Hence the rich man who recognizes these facts has before him a rare opportunity to make for himself a unique place in the hearts of his fellow citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Dodson and little daughter, Lora Ann, were visiting in Guymon Sunday.

A Vacation In Europe -:

Miss Louesa A. Specht.) rmany, like Holland, is a lit-country big in hospitality, where we were treated with ct and soon became known Die drei Damen aus Amerika." Three Ladies from Am-). Although having recently two years in college, during period I spent considerable studying the German langu-I found myself more or less leaped when it came to putit in to use. Each province we id, has a dialect of its own in North, the Plattdeutsch (Low man) is spoken, while in the th, particularly in the highs, the High German is used. language of books, however, found the same wherever we t. We, as would be expected, e many blunders, but the peo-realizing that we were not ac-omed to speaking their lange, seldom laughed at our miss. The peasants, many of m had never seen an Ameriwere surprised at the Ameri-language being so much like spoken in England.
 After spending some time in the hr Valley" once leading manufacturing center of German, we t to Koeln (Cologne) where saw the famous cathedral which es from 1248. Its twin towers feet high, rising gradually ve everything, are visible for es. It took over six hundred rs in which to complete this lding, which is considered one the finest works of architecture the world.
 The old university at Cologne 888-1798) was reopened in 19 and today has more than 00 students. Tourists usually be-their journey up the Rhine, at s city for here the beautiful nery along the river begins.
 We found the passenger trains different from those in America. ch coach is divided into sec-ns, each section seating eight ple. Passengers may ride either t, second or third class. The ts in the third class section are ilar to those found in our street s. Those of the second class e more like those in our passen-er coaches. These are covered h a heavy material resembling duroy and protected with a ce of crochet work. The seats the first class section are similar those of the second, but more borate. Because of the scarcity money in Germany, we found w people riding as first class passengers. In addition to these sec-ns I have described, there is e on the door of which is found ese words: "Für die Sehr Besadigt." (For the badly maimed). e saw entering this section, dis-ted soldiers (for Germany has any) of the World War. Some these men wore black masks ver their faces. One seldom sees conductor and since the stations e not called its up to the passengers to know when to get off e train, consequently we somemes passed up our station and at her times got off before we had ached it. As in America tickets are sold at the station. These are punched as you pass through a gate before entering the train, and collected as you enter the station after having reached your destination. The coaches are not supplied with drinking water, but at each station is found a pump to which a drinking cup is chained.

 Sanitary drinking cups have not yet come into use in the countries visited by us.
 A "Schnell Zug" (fast train) took us to Bonn, another important city on the Rhine. Here we immediately went to a hotel where we were registered. As soon as a traveler arrives in any town, the police require him to give his name, date of birth, occupation, last dwelling place, etc. Everytime one moves, if only to a different hotel, he is registered again by the police. We found the beds at the hotel clean and comfortable, each having either a feathered bed, or a comforter made of feathers. The light weight ticking used for the comforter was stitched in fourteen inch squares, and each square stuffed with feathers. The comforter as well as the feather bed had a covering made of material resembling bleached muslin. As in Holland the windows of the hotels are double, and open on hinges like doors. They are draped with beautiful lace curtains.
 While at Bonn we visited the "Seven Mountains" so full of legends and fairy tales. This is a miniature mountain range, which though small, is immensely attractive with beautiful walks through lovely woods on well kept paths.
 The high peak of one of these, Drachenfels (Dragon Height) is especially worth visiting. Here it is said, the first dragons were seen.
 From the "Dragon Castle" situated on the top of this mountain we had a fine view of the Rhine. The Rhineland castles, of which this is one, were at one time, the homes of robber knights who took toll from travelers on the Rhine.
 In order to protect themselves from the other robber knights, each built a large castle which included a fort, on the hillside. Each castle had surrounding it a moat which in time of danger was filled with water to keep the enemy out.
 The guide informed us that the water in these moats was sixteen feet deep.
 Bonn is the birthplace of Beethoven, the celebrated composer. We found the house in which he was born, interesting for its quaint architecture. It is fitted up as a museum with music, instruments, etc. The piano and violin on which he took his first lessons, together with the first music he composed when a boy of eleven years, have all been preserved and are of interest to tourists. The little room in which Beethoven was born, is empty, but for a few wreaths placed against one of the walls.
 Thanks to the good people who sent with us the addresses of their friends or relatives. This gave us an opportunity to see what home-life in this far off country was like. While in Nassau we tried to locate a man whose address we had brought with us. We call at the office of the Bürgermeister (mayor) where we were informed that the man we wished to see had moved to Winden, a small village an hour's distance (Distance in Germany is measured by time). A young lady at the office telephoned the mayor at Winden and told him three ladies from America were trying to locate a party. The Mayor told the lady he would meet us at the edge of the village. We found the people of this little community almost destitute. War had taken almost every cent they had.

 Here, as well as in other parts of Germany, the people are too poor to keep horses, consequently the cow does the work of the horse.
 Everywhere we could see wagons drawn by cows. In these wagons were women returning to the village after a day's work in the wheat or hay fields. These people have neither binders nor headers with which to harvest their wheat.
 They cut it with sickles, tie it by hand, and shock it. Later it is taken to the village where it is threshed, sacked and stored in one of the rooms in the home. Families who cannot afford to own a wagon and cows, use wheelbarrows or bicycles for conveying the bundles to the house.
 The houses in this village are made of rock, the house and barn being either in the same building or within a few feet of each other.
 While walking down the street in search of a restaurant, we overtook a lady who was carrying a large loaf of brown bread. Some remark we made about the bread led her to believe we were hungry.

She stepped toward us and offered us each a piece. We soon reached a small restaurant where we enjoyed—or rather drank what in the foreign countries known as coffee (a drink made of roasted wheat and water). While the proprietor was telling us of the hard times and showing us a stock of worthless marks, the town-crier appeared at the window, rang a bell and informed the public that taxes were again due. In Germany, at present, each workman is compelled to give the government half of his earnings. While waiting for a conveyance to take us back to the city, twenty-four children, curious to know what Americans look like, gathered around us.
WHY HE SUCCEEDED AND WHO HE WAS
 He never loaned money except on good security and at ordinary rates of interest.—Baron Rothschild.
 He saw the necessity of refining oil at a time when others were simply buying oil wells.—John D.
 Rockefeller.
 He wrote poems for 20 years without financial reward.—James Whitcomb Riley.
 He worked incessantly on orations, while his neighbors said he wouldn't amount to much.—William Jennings Bryan.
 He determined early upon the honest course and clung persistently to the principles of the square deal.—Theodore Roosevelt.
 He worked at $5.00 a week at his chosen profession when he might have been making $25 at something else.—George Ade.

 He did $10 worth of work a week for $1.40.—Andrew Carnegie.
 He lived a poor man, surrounded by graft, and taught the laboring men to trust him.—John Mitchell.
 He painted his advertisements on tea boxes that had been thrown overboard in a wreck.—Sir Thomas Lipton.
 He delivered goods in a hand-cart to save the expense of hiring a parcel wagon.—John Wanamaker.
 Show me a man who has reached the top of this world's greatness and I will show you a still more wonderful thing. I will show you a man at the bottom, struggling. I will show you a solitary climber stumbling toward a mountain. I will show you a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief. I will show you an eye that flashes with determination and an ear that hears melodies unknown to the common. I will show you a resolution magnificent and a will incomparable. I will show you a man as great in his heart at 20 as in his reputation at 40—four square, solid, magnificent.

Churches and Society

First Christian Church

Last Sunday was the best day in the history of our Bible school. We hope to go way on next Sunday. Be present at 10 o'clock. Morning services at 11 and evening services at seven-thirty. We anticipate a fine Christian Endeavor service at six-thirty. The evening sermon will be a special sermon for young people.

JASPER BOGUE, Minister

Church of Christ

Rev. Randolph of Amarillo will preach at the Church of Christ, Sunday, February 11.

Methodist Church

Services for Sunday are: Sunday school at 10 o'clock; preaching at 11 o'clock; league at 6 p. m. and evening worship at 7:30 p. m. Rev. W. M. Pearce, presiding elder of the Amarillo district, will be here and preach at the morning hour and hold the first quarterly conference of this conference year. Rev. J. W. Watson, conference Sunday school secretary, will be here Saturday night to interpret the new program of work to the Sunday school officers and teachers. Each teacher is urged to be at the church Saturday evening at 7:30 for this meeting. Let's have a full attendance at these services—not only members, but friends and others who will, are invited to come.

H. A. NICHOLS, Pastor

W. M. U.

The W. M. U. met with Mrs. W.

M. Glover with 21 members present. A very interesting lesson was had on "Home Missions," led by Mrs. R. L. Baley. The life of Montezuma college was brought out, together with the many hardships it has undergone and the great good it has accomplished. The fact that Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wilcox are connected with the college made the discussion more interesting. These good people did a wonderful work in Spearman and will always be remembered. We wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Prewitt for the liberal offering they gave on piping the pastorian for gas. The ladies voted to pay the remaining eight dollars on the pipes. This will leave us clear of debt. Mrs. D. W. Holland was chosen as group captain No. 1, and Mrs. Prewitt as group captain No. 2. Each captain has 22 members on roll. Group No. 1 will hold a food sale Saturday, February 8, at Burran Brothers store. Group No. 2 will serve on Saturday, March 8, and so on until each group has served three times each. The group that raises the most money will be entertained by the losers. The ladies will meet at the home of Mrs. Fred Brandt next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. The lesson will be the second chapter of the manual and will be led by Rev. Richards.

Parent-Teachers Association

The Parent-Teachers association met in a short business session last Thursday at 3:30 in the study hall. Several important business matters were discussed. The P. T. A. will serve a banquet for the Chamber of Commerce on February 15. They will also serve noon lunch at the Converse hog sale on March 4. The object is to raise money to put swings on the playground and books in the library.

The 33rd birthday anniversary of the National P. T. A. will be observed on February 20 at eight o'clock in the auditorium. An instructive program will be given. The usual anniversary offering will be taken later and a huge birthday cake will be cut and served to all present. All parents, teachers and friends are invited and urged to attend. Neighboring associations are especially invited.

Former Spearman Girl Weds Amarilloan

In Sunday's issue of the Amarillo Daily News, on the front page of the society section, appeared the photograph of Mrs. Harold Long, daughter of Mrs. Mary Westerfield, of Clovis, New Mexico. Mrs. Long will be remembered here as Miss Vera Westerfield. She was married to Mr. Long on January 18. Mrs. Mary Westerfield and her family are former residents of Spearman. Several years ago she moved to Amarillo. Mrs. Long has many friends and former school mates here who will wish her much happiness and prosperity.

Guymon Ladies Broadcast

Friends of Mrs. H. Herber, of Guymon, Oklahoma, tuned in on station WDAG at Amarillo yesterday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock when she sang "Gypsy Trail" from there.

She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Thelma Guinn, also of Guymon. Mrs. Herber is a sister of R. D. Seavey, manager of the Smith Oil Company here.

Shortly after Mrs. Herber's song, she and Miss Guinn sang "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." The first song was dedicated to Mrs. Herber's husband and two children and her brother in Dalhart. The second song was dedicated to friends of Mrs. Herber and Miss Guinn in Guymon. In addition to the vocal numbers Miss Guinn played a piano solo.

Mr. and Mrs. Herber and two daughters were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Seavey here Sunday—Dalhart Texan.

McLain-Rayzor

The marriage of Miss Florence McLain and Mr. Kenneth Rayzor was quietly solemnized Saturday, January 25, 1930, at 3:00 o'clock at the Baptist parsonage.

Rev. C. Lex Shelby, pastor of the Baptist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of Mrs. T. P. McLain, the bride's mother, Mrs. W. H. Rayzor, mother of the groom, Miss Nevah McLain and Mrs. Ida Merriman. The bride was beautiful in a navy blue crepe. —Ochiltree County Herald.

Bob Bundy Honored With Party Friday Night

Members of the B. Y. P. U. entertained with a party Friday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Rippey, in honor of Bob Bundy, who was to leave the next day for Elkhart, Kansas, to accept a position in the First National Bank there. A very pleasant evening was spent by the 25 members present. In appreciation of the work he has done in the Baptist church and the B. Y. P. U., Mr. Bundy was presented with a beautiful bathrobe and slippers, as a gift from the organization. At a late hour refreshments were served by Mrs. Rippey and Mrs. J. A. Gill.

Entertained Friends Thursday Evening

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hazlewood entertained a number of friends Thursday evening with an informal bridge party in north Spearman. A very pleasant time was had by the guests and at the conclusion of the games Mrs. Leland Close was awarded an attractive prize for high score.

An appetizing menu was served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. Lester Howell, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeArmond, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Close.
