Insurance Firm In Receivership

Sen. Symington (Mo) and Jackson (Wash.), the other two Democratic members, met reporters with McClellan and said they concurred in his views.

McClellan said he feels the wind-up of the hearings leaves two "immediate" problems for the executive branch of the government to consider:

1. A Justice Department inquiry to determine "if perjury has been committed" in the sharply contradictory testimony.

2. "The probability of a crime having been committed in connection with the 24 page document" which came into controversy in the hearings.

Sen. McCarthy produced this paper, first identifying it as a letter from FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to Army intelligence. The subcommittee checked with Hoover and was advised it was not a letter by him but did contain excerpts from a lengthy FBI report to the Army on security problems at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

The document was never made public because Atty. Gen. Brown ruled it made "unauthorized use" of secret material, and that to release it would be contrary to the national interest.

McCarthy said he got the paper from an Army intelligence officer. He declined to disclose his name.

Arguments cropped up repeatedly in the hearings as to whether McCarthy could properly receive such a paper. McCarthy contended he had every right to it as chairman of the Senate's Government Operations Committee and head of the Permanent Investigations subcommittee.

McClellan said the investigations subcommittee which McCarthy heads, should decide quickly:

1. What to do about two members of its staff who, he said, have not received clearance requested from the Defense Department to handle secret documents.

2. What to do about "threats that have been made by members of the staff—I will say alleged threats—in an attempt to intimidate members of the committee, which conducted the hearings."

McClellan cited a flap between Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of the investigations subcommittee, and Robert F. Kennedy, counsel to the subcommittee's Democratic members, in which Kennedy contended that Cohn threatened to "get" Sen. Jackson. McClellan said this was among the things he had in mind in charging attempted intimidation "but is by

SHIVERS RAPS UNION BOSSES

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff

Ralph Yarborough, candidate for governor, Friday had injected what he called "the insurance mess in Texas" into his bid for election.

Gov. Allan Shivers, meanwhile, hurled counter charges at union leaders who asked organized labor to fashion the governor's political coffin.

In a televised appearance at Abilene, Tex., Thursday night, Yarborough promised he would "clean up" what he termed "the insurance mess in Texas."

The candidate referred to a statement made in the West Texas city a day earlier in which the governor predicted victory over Yarborough by 50,000 votes.

In San Angelo Thursday, Yarborough said a statement issued by General American Casualty Co. saying a Yarborough announcement helped force it into receivership was false.

Insurance Firm In Receivership

AUSTIN (AP)—Judge Jack Roberts, in effect, has put the General American Casualty Co. in temporary receivership, pending an effort to get the suspended insurance firm on its feet.

The firm asked Insurance Commission action Wednesday in a statement full of political reverberations.

Roberts last night appointed J. D. Wheeler, Insurance Department liquidator, as receiver and directed him to report in 10 days what had been done toward rehabilitating the company.

The Board of Insurance Commissioners suspended the San Antonio company's certificate late Wednesday. Board chairman Garland Smith said if the company's receivership it would be the biggest case of its kind in Texas history.

In requesting the board action, the company blamed much of its financial difficulty on adverse publicity. It resulted, the firm said, from a June 12 statement by a candidate for governor who said that an unnamed $5,000,000 insurance company could not pay its claims.

The company's statement did not name the candidate but on that date Ralph W. Yarborough of Austin accused the Insurance Commission of neglect in failing to do anything about an insolvent firm.

Yarborough said yesterday in San Angelo that the company's receivership had helped force them into receiversship proceedings was false. He said General American Casualty was notoriously insolvent months before his statement and the development of what he called the "insurance scandals."

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shoppert told reporters yesterday. "It was unfortunate that the political angle was injected" into the insurance firm's position.

"I didn't inject it," Insurance Commission Chairman Smith replied. "The company itself made the statement as part of their request that the commission act."

The affair will be at the Settles Hotel, beginning at 7 p.m. Jones said arrangements are being made to accommodate a crowd of up to 600. Many out of town people, friends and business associates of Tollett, are being extended special invitations.

"We suggest early reservations for this affair," said Jones. "Since we know that a great number of people, both from Big Spring and from out of the city, will be wanting to participate in this tribute to one of our outstanding citizens. Few people have done so much, in so many ways, for the betterment of Big Spring, as Mr. Tollett."

Tickets are going on sale today for a dinner honoring Raymond L. Tollett, on July 16.

Truman Jones, chairman of a special Chamber of Commerce committee directing arrangements for the affair, said that tickets could be had at the C-C office. Distribution will be handled by an appointed group later, but Jones suggested that arrangements be made to get tickets now. The dinner will be $5 per plate.

The event has been sanctioned by the C-C board of directors, in recognition, the substantial support Tollett has given all civic undertakings through the years.

DISTRICT SESSION

Visitors from various Texas and Louisiana cities are expected in Big Spring this weekend for a two-day district convention of the Indoor Sports Club.

The convention will be held in the Settles Hotel, and sessions are set to convene at 2 p.m. Saturday. Approximately 15 people are expected to register, said James Horton, president of the Big Spring host chapter.

Members of the Indoor Sports Club are handicapped. Horton explained that they must either be in a wheel chair or on crutches. Some 25 per cent of the membership is blind.

Indoor Sports' Meet Will Open Saturday

Delegates are expected to attend the convention from Amarillo, Plover, Shreveport, and Weatherford. There will be a wheel chair square dance group to attend from Amarillo, and they will perform at the Saturday night social.

County Judge R. H. Weaver will give the official welcome address Sunday afternoon at the installation banquet.

Horton is the convention chairman, and he has been assisted in arrangements by Courtney Devine and Vivian Kinard. Dollie Ward will be in charge of registration, and Claudia Arrick heads up the credential committee.

Singing The Song Of The Shirt

Anne Fogarty (left) admires one of her summer collection of shirt dresses worn by a model in her New York showroom. The designer is wearing another version of the popular style.

Success Story: The Shirt Dress

By DOROTHY ROE
Anne Fogarty, perennial teenager, once fell in love with a shirt—and thereby hangs a shirt-dress. The platinum blonde Anne, who wears her own size 7 junior dresses, also loved petticoats, and so she decided to effect a union of the two. The result has been a new way of dressing for most of America's style-conscious girls.

The shirt dress with crisp, full skirt flaring out over several befrilled crinoline petticoats, is the favorite costume of the nation's younger set, and a special signature of designer Fogarty. This year the popularity of her favorite petticoat has broken all past records. Any girl between the ages of 14 and 21 who doesn't own a collection of man-tailored shirts and can-can petticoats considers herself underprivileged indeed these days. Says Miss Fogarty:

"I guess it's the silly idea of combining the boy's shirt with the girl's fluffy ruffles that appeals to the kids. The tailored tops have the crisp, understated look that young people always like, and the crinolines below remind them to be feminine. Anyway they look cute, don't they?"

They do, Miss Fogarty herself looks cute wearing any one of her summer collection of glorified shirt dresses. With her 21-inch waist and youthful figure, she expects to go on wearing junior styles for the rest of her life. Her philosophy is

Polio Comes In Summer— Review Precautions Now

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D.

Along with the pleasant things of good old summertime comes the fear of polio.

Polio begins with vague symptoms: fever, a generally tired and irritable feeling and headache. There may be vomiting and diarrhea; there may be constipation.

These are the symptoms of lots of minor illnesses. Don't jump to the conclusion your child has polio just because he has a headache and a fever. It's much more likely to be a throat infection or flu or a stomach upset than polio.

However, it's a good idea to have your child seen by a doctor whenever he gets sick. Mild illnesses and serious ones often start the same way.

If you can't get to the doctor right away, there are two simple tests that may reassure you. If your child can bend his head so that his chin touches his chest, and if he can put his head between his knees, he probably doesn't have polio. Even if he can't do these tests, it isn't sure that he has polio.

If he does have polio, it's important that he be under the care of a good doctor right from the beginning. Good care can do much to prevent serious after-effects by protecting weakened muscles from strain.

The great majority of children who do get polio never have any paralysis at any time. Of those who do have some paralysis during the acute stage a good number recover completely. Those few who have considerable paralysis improve a good deal during convalescence.

If any weakness remains it is very important that the child continue to have whatever physical therapy the doctor recommends. Many weakened muscles can be brought back to fair function with long continued treatment.

During the polio season, and especially if a few cases of the dreaded disease occur in your community, you may be asking what you can do to protect your child.

Nobody knows exactly how polio is spread from person to person. We do know, however, that the virus that causes it is present in the mouth secretions and also in the stool of people who have the disease. It is probable that the disease is caught by getting this virus in the mouth.

But everyone who gets a dose of polio virus doesn't come down with the disease.

It has been discovered that when a case of polio occurs in a household almost everyone in the house will have the germ, even if not another one becomes sick. These healthy people are just as likely to spread the disease around the community as is the person with polio—more so in fact, because the sick person is at home in bed.

A great many people seem to resist catching polio. Maybe it's because they have had small doses of the virus from time to time and have built up an immunity. This may be the reason why children are more susceptible than grownups, to polio—they haven't had time or opportunity to build up resistance.

In any case, in time of a polio epidemic there are probably many healthy people walking around who have the polio virus in their bodies. To protect your child, take a little extra care with cleanliness. See to it that hands are well washed before meals and, if you can, before they go in the mouth. Since anyone is more apt to catch anything when he is tired or chilled, it's a good idea to avoid fatigue.

Probably it's also a good idea to keep children out of crowds during a polio epidemic. Avoid crowded stores, amusement parks, movies.

At the same time don't make a hermit of your child. Let him play with his friends and live as normal a life as possible.

The time may soon be at hand when we will have a vaccination against polio, but for this summer you will have to protect your child with general measures.

Actor Tom Tully Will Wed Sunday

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actor Tom Tully and Mrs. Mildred Johnson of Salt Lake City, who obtained a marriage license yesterday, plan to be married Sunday. Mrs. Johnson is the former wife of Jack Johnson, Detroit Lions football player. Tully said this will be his third marriage. He gave his age as 45 and Mrs. Johnson said she is 37.

can concept of separation of powers among Congress, the executive and the courts.

"I would substitute rule by an individual for government by law." About 500 weekly newspaper editors and publishers attending the 6th annual convention of the National Editorial Assn. broke in to applaud when the attorney general declared:

"Anyone who attempts to put himself above the law, and incite government employees to turn over classified information relating to our national security, is tragically mistaken if he believes he is helping to protect our nation's safety. 'Nothing pleases the Communists more than to create division among the people or matters of national security, impair constitutional government, and encourage disobedience to the law....

"I have spoken out pretty strongly against those in high places who are blind to the danger of Communist infiltration in our government. I believe it equally important to speak out against those who, regardless of motive, break down our system of government by law in an effort to investigate communism. There is no need for it."

Brownell did not mention McCarthy (R-Wis.) by name. But he quoted verbatim the statement McCarthy made during the Army-McCarthy hearings that it was the duty of federal employees "to give us any information which they have."

Brownell said this "open invitation to violate the laws of the United States would substitute rule by an individual for government by law."

He went on: "Long years of experience have proved that direction and control of military secrets, intelligence information and counter-intelligence information properly belong to the executive branch.

"During all our history, the ordinary auditing powers of Congress, plus its broad powers to legislate and its broad powers to control the purse strings have sufficed to provide the necessary checks on the executive branch. That is a better system than destroying our constitutional system of separation of powers—an action which our founding fathers warned would result in tyranny."

Red's Candidacy Is Legal Worry

DETROIT (AP)—The candidacy of William Allan for a City Council post has created a tough legal problem.

Allan, correspondent for the Communist Daily Worker, has been convicted of violating the Smith Act by conspiring to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force and violence. He now is free on bond pending an appeal.

Michigan's Trucks Act bars subversives from running for office. But the constitutionality of that act now is before the courts.

So the City Election Commission has asked for legal advice as to whether Allan's name can be placed on the ballot.

Lebron Woman Found Guilty Only Of Assault In Shootings

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
WASHINGTON (AP)—Lolita Lebron, convicted with three men for wounding five congressmen but facing a lighter sentence, swore today she will continue to fight for Puerto Rican independence.
 "What I thought was the end may be the beginning," she replied from her cell to written questions from newsmen.
 "If all my blood had spilled it would have splashed away decadence and inertia . . . I hope no more of my people will have to die. My country is going to be free."

The slight, 34-year-old brunette, much of the fire apparently gone out of her when the two-week trial ended yesterday, was acquitted of five charges of intent to kill. She had been found guilty Wednesday of five counts of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Her three fellow members of the radical Nationalist party of Puerto Rico—Rafael Cancel Miranda, 25, Andres Figueroa Cordero, 29, and Irving Flores Rodriguez, 28—were convicted Wednesday on all 10 counts.
 Thus, they face possible maximum penalties of 75 years in prison apiece, including concurrent sentences for intent to kill and assault with a dangerous weapon.

While waiting for the verdict, Mrs. Lebron said she hoped the jury would find her "guilty as they found the boys."
 "I do not feel guilty, nor do they," she wrote in reply to questions, "but I do resent being judged separately from them. I cannot understand why I am not guilty as they are."
 But the jury apparently was impressed with her testimony that she fired her bullets into the ceiling of the House chamber, not toward the floor on which some 200 legislators were then gathered on routine business.

Actor's In-Law To Seek Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An attorney for Mrs. Edward G. Robinson Jr. says she will file a separate maintenance suit today against the son of the actor.

He said the former Frances Chisholm, 23, will ask "a reasonable amount of support" for herself and their 10-month-old daughter. Her husband is 21.

The couple met as students at a New York drama school. Their 1932 Tijuana marriage led to the actor's stopping his son's $70-a-week allowance. The elder Robinson gave his son a new car two months later.

Atty. S. S. Hahn said the actor and his wife have done all they could to save their son's marriage and hope there may be a reconciliation.

Two-A-Day Mail Held Dead Issue

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Charles E. Puskar, secretary of the National Assn. of Postmasters, says two daily mail deliveries in residential areas is a "dead issue."

Puskar, postmaster at Imperial, Pa., made the statement in an interview here yesterday while attending the annual meeting of the Missouri chapter of the postmasters' association.

"Postmasters have received very, very few requests for twice-a-day deliveries," Puskar said, "after patrons found they get as good service from once-a-day delivery."

Jackie Gleason Inks Alimony Agreement

NEW YORK (AP)—Television star Jackie Gleason has signed an agreement giving his wife a separation, custody of their two children and 14 per cent of his gross salary in alimony.

Terms of the agreement between Jackie and his wife Genevieve were announced yesterday in a written statement which corrected a previous report that the alimony figure would be 15 per cent.

Gleason earned $336,000 last year. If his earnings continue on that scale, the payments will amount to nearly $50,000 a year.

Gleason claims he retained only $63,000 after taxes in 1953. The Gleasons were married in 1936.

Rainbolt Leaves On Final Leg On Long Trail As Pythian Chief

H. M. Rainbolt leaves Friday on the last leg of a trail that has carried him over 45,000 miles during the past year. He will be in Houston from Saturday through Wednesday for the grand lodge meeting of the Knights of Pythias. Rainbolt has headed the lodge since last June. In the interim, there have been significant gains. The volunteer assignment has claimed about two-thirds of his time. Rainbolt made it a point to visit all of the 91 lodges at least once, some twice and a few near home three and even four times. One large class of 53 initiates at Abilene was named for him. Many other lodges paid him special tributes, and he collected an assortment of hats and trinkets along the way. "Invariably lodges would not let me pay for my hotel room," he said, "and they added pounds to my bulk by tremendous meals." At one place, in Denton, he was greeted with an advertisement in the paper reminding him of the KP national project of courtesy on the highways. "Drive carefully, Mr. Rainbolt," the ad read, "you might injure a customer of mine." He has addressed various meetings other than KP groups, including the Rotary Club at Marshall. Here he thought he would simply bring greetings and discovered that he had been booked as the principal speaker. The largest group he addressed was that of the homecoming at Weatherford in December. There were 270 on hand at the Pythian Home for this event. Always he stressed support of the Weatherford home for orphans in his visits. Hence, nothing gave him more pleasure in all the year than to present a picture of the home to the Longview Club for raising $3,100 through its homecoming.

His official duties have brought him in contact with many dignitaries, among them Gov. Allan Shivers and Tom Connally, who was grand commander 39 years ago. Rainbolt has made it a rule to visit all the sick and elder Pythians wherever he went. Some heart-warming experiences have resulted. "Those old folks are so grateful you could almost cry," Lodge members over the state have attested that there is more than mere co-incidence in the record of the Knights of Pythias in Texas during Rainbolt's term of office. For the first time in more than a decade, there has been an increase in membership. The convention opens Saturday with a meeting of the Dookies, the Dramatic Order of the Knights of Pythias. Sunday will be devoted to memorial services, and the last session will be Wednesday noon when Rainbolt relinquishes the top spot to his successor. Among others planning to attend from here are Mr. and Mrs. O. Reagan Bolinger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Girdner and Clyde McMahon.

Reds Veto Siam's Peace Patrol Plea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (U.S.)—Russia today vetoed Thailand's proposal for an Indo-China peace patrol. It was the Russians' 50th veto in the Security Council. The proposal was supported by the United States, Britain, France, and six other council members. Lebanon abstained. Russia's single "no" vote was sufficient to kill action in the Council. But it opened the way for a move for a special session of the U.N. General Assembly to deal with the question. There is no veto in the Assembly.

Money Is Received From Sale Of Bonds Funds from the sale of $325,000 in road right-of-way bonds has been received by Howard County. The money—$325,491.72—was placed on deposit in a local bank Thursday. It will be used for purchasing and clearing right-of-way along the Highway 80 route from Big Spring to the Mitchell County line. Present roadway is to be widened from 100 to 200 feet and the State Highway Department will construct a four-lane divided freeway. County Judge R. H. Weaver said this morning that aquisition right-of-way will be started as soon as deed forms are received from the State Highway Department. The forms are expected in the next few days.

Shivers Says Good Policemen Needed

FORT WORTH (U.S.)—A good policeman can do much more good in a community than a bigger jail, Gov. Allan Shivers said here today. He urged localization of efforts to improve law enforcement and suggested several special ways Texas can improve the crime situation. "We need extremely able, well-trained, understanding men, men particularly suited for work with young people, in police work," the governor said in a speech prepared for delivery at a meeting of the Texas Press Assn. An academy of law enforcement in one of the state colleges would be a step in the right direction, Shivers said.

Baptist TV Appeal Opposed By Examiner

WASHINGTON (U.S.)—Communications Commission examiner recommended today that Gulf Coast Broadcasting Co., be awarded a Channel 8 television station at Corpus Christi. At the same time, Examiner H. Gifford Irion recommended denial of the competing application of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. The Baptist General Convention has 30 days in which to file exceptions and ask for oral argument on the examiner's report. If this is not done, Gulf Coast Broadcasting automatically will get a permit in 40 days.

There have been three deaths this year. A regular meeting of Temple Israel will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in Rittles Hotel.

Small Reservoir Evaporation Is Declared Slight

H. N. Smith, State Conservationist for Texas, today declared municipal and industrial users of water have no cause to worry in connection with the evaporation of water from the small reservoirs in the Glasswater Service upstream flood prevention. Smith pointed out that the 40 flood prevention dams already built in the Trinity River Watershed are preventing many thousands of dollars of flood losses every year along the small creeks where the dams have been built. In addition, farmers can now raise crops on several thousand acres of fertile bottomland which have been flooded too frequently for cultivation.

Smith explained that critics have said that if many flood prevention dams are built in the headwaters of streams the water supply may be seriously reduced by evaporation from the pools of the structures. Actually, Smith said, the evaporation loss from the pools of upstream flood prevention dams would be small compared to the evaporation loss from existing major reservoirs, and very small compared to the average flow of the streams. The average yearly flow into Benbrook, Grapevine, Garza-Little Elm and Lavon reservoirs is estimated to be slightly more than one million acre-feet. The net amount of water evaporated annually from the conservation pools of these reservoirs is estimated to total 131,300 acre-feet, or 12.8 per cent of the average yearly inflow. Smith estimated that the similar loss from the pools of all flood prevention dams built, under construction and proposed—upstream from the four major dams—would be only 13,700 acre-feet annually, or 1.3 per cent of the average inflow. In addition to the annual flood damages prevented in upstream areas, the flood prevention dams will reduce the rate of sedimentation of the major reservoirs by more than 50 per cent, according to Smith. Combined benefits of the dams far outweigh any small effect which they may have on water supply, he added.

4-H Clubbers Okay Plans For Rodeo

Plans for the 4-H Rodeo were approved last night at a county-wide 4-H Club meeting. Date of the rodeo will be announced at a later time. A saddle and belt buckles will be prizes. Reports on girls' 4-H Club, steer feeding, livestock feeding, grass team, public speaking, rodeo directors, livestock judging class, rifle team, and 4-H District II camp were given. And there were short talks about recreation and parliamentary procedure. Taking part in the program were James Shorter, Sue White, Sue Newman, Durward Lewis, Barbara Lewter, Sonny Choate, Lorin McDowell, Jane Blissard, Bennie Joe Blissard, James Wrenn, Beverly Shockley, Mary Beth Yates, and Travis Fryar.

Chicago Stockyards Plant Hit By Fire; Loss Feared Heavy

CHICAGO (U.S.)—A roaring fire attacked a two-section, five-story brick plant in Chicago's vast stockyards today. The flames flared up in an Armour & Co. animal food plant in an area bounded by Bishop, Laffin, 43rd and 44th Streets on the west side of the yards area. An Armour spokesman reported shortly before 9 a.m. (EST) that the fire "seems pretty well under control." Anthony J. Mullane, assistant fire commissioner, estimated the damage at "more than half a million dollars." He said the cause of the fire had not been determined. Three large hydrogen tanks near the animal food plant were emptied. So was a pipeline linked to them. No deaths or injuries were reported. But, at its peak, the fire leaped 100 feet into the air. Smoke could be seen for miles. Firemen bombarded the fire with streams of water from 23 hoses and two water towers.

The union was asking a wage increase "in excess of 15 cents an hour," a company spokesman said. The company had offered a 7 cent raise.

KBST Will Air Fight Tonight

The world's second and fifth ranking lightweight, Orlando Zulueta and Johnny Gonsalves, meet in a scheduled 10-round bout as the regular feature tonight of the Gillette Cavalcade of Sports. Starting at 8 p.m. Big Spring time, the fight can be heard over station KBST. Zulueta's recent victory over Italy's kayo sensation, Paul Rosi, entrenched him in the number two lightweight spot, with a probable title shot against the winner of the DeMarco-Carter bout, tentatively scheduled for early fall. Considered by many to be one of the best defensive boxers in the business, Orlando also excels in throwing plenty of leather in speedy combinations. Two non-title victories over DeMarco, plus those over Luther Rawlings and Wallace "Bud" Smith, make up part of the 48 wins Zulueta has gained since turning pro in 1944. Gonsalves' recent and impressive victory over Wallace "Bud" Smith caused a reshuffle of the top ten in their class. Johnny's efforts moved him from the eighth to fifth spot and another win could well make him the logical candidate for an immediate championship appearance. After gaining the National Amateur title for 1947-48, Gonsalves joined the pro ranks in 1948. In scoring 34 professional victories, Gonsalves has received the majority vote in appearances against Paddy DeMarco, Virgil Aikens and George Araujo and hopes to gain a second victory over Zulueta.

Random Shooting Warning Issued

Sheriff Jess Slaughter this morning voiced a stern warning against the practice of shooting rifles and pistols from roadsides and on private property. He said a calf and a sheep recently were killed on the Shroyer Ranch north of Big Spring, apparently by stray bullets from roadside shooting practice. The sheriff said numerous signs and mail boxes have been riddled with bullets also. Anyone apprehended while firing along roadways or on private property without permission will be prosecuted, the sheriff stated. He also advised that the practice of carrying weapons in automobiles is prohibited. Any weapon carried without authority will be confiscated, he said.

Swindle Suspect Located Swiftly

Big Spring police quickly located a 50-year-old man yesterday after it was reported that he swindled Mrs. Roy Igo, O. K. Trailer Courts two months ago. He was in jail at Midland. Stevens Holds Army Integrity Well Defended

By ELTON C. FAY

QUANTICO, Va. (AP)—Secretary of the Army Stevens, looking back on the long and bitter days of his dispute with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), voiced confidence today that "the integrity of the Army no longer is at stake."

He also made it plain he intends to decline an invitation to an after-the-hearings cocktail party to be given Monday by Sen. Mundt (R-SD) for participants on both sides—and expects no Army personnel will attend.

Mundt presided over the 36-day hearings, which ended in Washington yesterday.

Stevens, here for a four-day meeting of top Defense Department and armed forces officials, also told newsmen:

1. "I am absolutely confident that there will be no abuse of Army personnel, in or out of uniform," who appear from now on before McCarthy's Communist-hunting subcommittee. One of the background issues in the row with the senator was Stevens' contention that a general who appeared before McCarthy had been abused.

2. He has no intention "whatsoever" of resigning, but proposes to serve as long as he is of "service to the country."

3. "I feel that the integrity of the Army was at stake. We've been through that now. It must be abundantly clear to everyone that the Army is just as interested and active in ridding itself of subversives as anyone else in the United States."

Secretary of Defense Wilson, who called this meeting of high military and defense officials, expressed his own views about combating communism in a chat with reporters last night.

He said he thought five men could and must counter communism "without subscribing to some of the things we would finally be willing to fight to avoid." Communism, he said, is a serious matter but "we don't want to back down on our own concept of free society."

IT HAPPENED

Fascinating Haircut

BALTIMORE (AP)—The "drape-style" haircut of 16-year-old John Powell was transformed by court order yesterday into a crew cut similar to the one adorning the head of the officer who arrested him.

Patrolman Joseph Engle picked up young Powell to ask him what he was doing on a fire escape in the early morning hours.

When Powell appeared in court, Magistrate Reuben Caplan was too fascinated with the long temple locks which ended in ducktails at the back of the head to even hear the case.

"You look like a wild man," commented the judge. He told young Powell to get his hair cut "like Patrolman Engle's" and return.

When he returned, the judge inspected the job, then dismissed Powell.

Surprise Package

OMAHA (AP)—Mrs. Joseph O. Hebenstreit was thinking of a boiled ham sandwich when she opened a meat package from her grocery store.

What she found in the package was the store's bank deposit.

How the bundle of checks and $31 cash got wrapped up as boiled ham nobody knows—but anyway Mrs. Hebenstreit ate steak instead of boiled ham. The grocer gave her two choice steaks as a reward for returning the money.

First Things First

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Two guests at the Senator Hotel checked out by a rear window yesterday.

Their default of payment of the $6 room bill didn't bother Night Manager William Holved very much.

He said he plans to have a bulldozer and crew back on the job Monday, resuming a ground clearing job that for 25 days has been held up to permit a nesting wild Mallard duck to hatch her brood.

Hirsch said he figures the delay in the construction job, involving the erection of 49 new homes, has cost him about $6,000.

"It was worth it, though," he said.

Glad Tidings

SEAFORD, N. Y. (AP)—Homebuilder Louis Hirsch passed out cigars yesterday in celebration of the hatching of five little ducklings—an event which meant he could now get back to work.

He said he plans to have a bulldozer and crew back on the job Monday, resuming a ground clearing job that for 25 days has been held up to permit a nesting wild Mallard duck to hatch her brood.

Hirsch said he figures the delay in the construction job, involving the erection of 49 new homes, has cost him about $6,000.

"It was worth it, though," he said.

Plans Furthered For Memorial To County War Dead

Further consultation looking toward construction of a Memorial to Howard County's war dead was held a committee Thursday afternoon. Representatives from the service organizations, the Gold Star Mothers, the Chamber of Commerce, and the city and county were present.

Plans are to erect the marker on the courthouse square, in keeping with landscaping plans that are soon to be approved. It is planned for the memorial to occupy a prominent place leading toward the east entrance of the courthouse.

The marker would carry the names of all those from the county who lost their lives in World War I, World War II, and the Korean conflict.

Committeemen said they hoped to have a definite project ready within a couple of weeks.

Sgt. McNelly, 25-Year Veteran In AF, Has Top Stein Collection

Four-star generals, secret missions for the old Army Air Force, and outstanding collection of German beer steins—all these and more are part of the 25 years that M-Sgt. George D. McNelly can look back on in his service career.

McNelly, line chief of the 3560th Maintenance Squadron at Webb AFB, enlisted in Pittsburgh, Pa., on Jan. 22, 1929 and immediately went to work as a private on the flight line at Bolling AFB, Washington, D. C. When McNelly left there 13 years later, he left as a master sergeant with six stripes on each sleeve.

As a private, Mac, as he is called by his associates, was under the command of Capt. Ira Eaker, then a maintenance officer at Bolling. Some years later McNelly's former boss was wearing four stars as Deputy Chief of Staff for the Army Air Force. "One of the best darned maintenance officers I've ever seen," says Sgt. McNelly. "He really knew his business."

Col. Henry S. Tyler, former executive officer at Webb and now flying F86s as commander of the Fourth Fighter Interceptor Group in Korea, lived in the next door apartment to Mac and his wife, Edith, of Bolling. "Only," adds the sergeant with a smile, "he was wearing gold bars then instead of an eagle." After the many years of separation, the colonel and Sgt. McNelly recognized each other immediately when they met at Webb.

Webb's present commander, Col. Fred M. Dean, spent eight years at Bolling. Mac didn't know him personally but remembers him from his flight line duties.

On Jan. 22, 1942—13 years to the day from his first enlistment—Sgt. McNelly received orders to report to Wright-Patterson AFB, near Dayton, Ohio, on a "top secret" mission. Upon arrival he was informed that he and approximately 30 other officers and top-flight noncoms had been selected to bomb Tokyo in a three-ship formation of B24 Liberators.

So secret was the mission that the group was responsible only to its commanding officer who, in turn, took orders directly from Gen. Hap Arnold and President Roosevelt.

However, after the unit had been transferred to Eglin AFB, Fla., for bombing practice, the secret bombing raid was called off because the gas tanks were unable to hold the aromatic fuels being used, a situation that was solved before the war's end but which cancelled out that mission.

At the time Field Marshal Rommel's panzer divisions were cutting into North Africa, Sgt. McNelly was detached in a 36-plane group of B24s. Mac picked up four battle stars to go on his ETO Ribbon there.

The war's end found Sgt. McNelly back at his old stomping grounds—Bolling. There he put in another five years in a production line maintenance squadron, much the same as today's periodic maintenance squadrons. His CO was Henry S. Tyler, but this re-acquaintance was made between a lieutenant colonel and a master sergeant instead of a second lieutenant as before.

In April 1949 Mac and Edith shoved off for Erding Air Depot, located about 25 miles northeast of Munich. There he was assigned as noncommissioned officer in charge of the Unsatisfactory Reports clearing and control office for the U. S. Air Forces in Europe (USAFE).

It was during his tour of duty in and around Germany that McNelly began his collection of beer steins. The assortment, numbering about 25, includes some antiques, among them regimental beer mugs from German Army units. Those steins carry a bright coat of arms, the name of the owner and every man in the unit, and are beautifully and artistically decorated.

One of the more unusual mugs, and a favorite of the McNellys, is a fat, jolly monk. The top of the stein forms the head of the monk and his face is finely chiseled and excellently formed.

"I picked that one up while visiting The Hague. I noticed it in a shop window and commented on it after we stopped in a restaurant. The waiter, who had married an American girl and was awaiting immigration to the U. S., went back and bought it for me. Saved me some guilders," says McNelly, laughing.

Another of Mac's steins plays "How Dry I Am" on a music box when you pick it up. "That's strictly for the tourists, though. I just bought it for the novelty," he declares. He also has a painting by one of the foremost German artists of sea scenes. A favorite of the McNellys, it's so realistic that the golden water at sunset almost seems to be moving.

Jan. 22, 1950, means the completion of the 30 years of service and retirement for Mac. When asked what he plans to do with his spare time after such an active military life, Sgt. McNelly comes up with a wide grin and says, "Think I'll put some of those steins to good use."

Pole Granted Asylum On Formosa Isle

TAIPEH, Formosa.—A Polish tanker captain granted political asylum by Nationalist China said today his wife and two daughters in Poland will be punished cruelly for his defection.

"They will be thrown out of our flat; my wife won't be able to get a job and maybe will be imprisoned; my two daughters will be expelled from school," Capt. Leonard Masowski told a news conference.

Masowski and 11 other officers and crewmen aboard the 8,207-ton tanker Praca, seized last October by a Nationalist gunboat east of Formosa, were granted political asylum yesterday.

The skipper said a dispute with the political officer aboard the Praca would have meant 10 years in prison for him had he returned to Poland. And the other 11 refugees would have been jailed because they are his friends.

The political officer and 17 other crewmen are to be repatriated to Poland by the International Red Cross.

Hillary Hale, Hearty

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—Everest conqueror Sir Edmund Hillary, who last month was reported stricken with pneumonia on a remote Himalayan glacier, returned to civilization here yesterday. He appeared hale and hearty.

Favorite Stein

"This one's our personal favorite," say M-Sgt. and Mrs. George D. McNelly, displaying a German beer stein shaped in the likeness of a monk. Behind them are more of the souvenirs that the McNellys picked up during his tour of duty in Germany. HOSEA PLEADS WITH ISRAEL

PROPHET BEGS HIS PEOPLE TO RETURN TO GOD AND BE HEALED

Scripture—Hosea 4:6-7:10

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE ONLY PERSON mentioned by name in our lesson today is the prophet Hosea. (With the single exception of King Jereb of Assyria.) One had to read the lesson carefully, for part of the Scripture records Hosea's own words, and some are those of the Lord speaking through His prophet.

Hosea was a tender-hearted man and a poet, as you will discover as you read his words. He had his own private troubles as he had married a woman named Gomer, who was constantly unfaithful to him, but he seems to have loved her even so.

While Amos lashes out in righteous anger at his sinful people, Hosea grieves over and pleads with them while pointing out the dreadful sins of which they are guilty and which were sure to result in dire punishment.

In the first verse assigned to our lesson, the Lord is speaking to the priests who, as God's servants, were supposed to set an example of pious and moral living, but were so corrupt that the people were apt to think what the their backs on all the sins they had committed, when he pleaded: "Come, and let us return unto the Lord; for He hath torn, and He will heal us; He hath smitten, and He will bind us up."

"After two days will He revive us; in the third day He will raise us up, and we shall live in His sight."

"Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord, His going forth is prepared as the morning, and He shall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth."

Notice the reference to the Resurrection of Christ—"the third day He will raise us up."

"O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? for your goodness is as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away."

The Lord had done so much for His people, and after such ingratitude as they had shown, how could they be trusted even in their repentance?

"For I desired mercy, and not sacrifice; and the knowledge of God more than burnt offerings. But they like men have transgressed the covenant; there have priests could do the people could, too. "Like people, like priest," says the Lord:

"My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge; because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to Me; seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children."

What were these sins of Israel? Drunkenness, faithlessness and idol worship.

"They sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incense upon the hills, under oaks and poplars and alms, because the shadow thereof is good."

Every form of immorality seems to have been rampant in the kingdom. Hosea addresses the priests and the king fearlessly, thus:

"Hear ye this, O priests; and hearken, ye house of Israel; and give ear, O house of the king; for judgment is toward you, because ye have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net upon Tabor."

The kingdom of Judah was not without these same faults, and Hosea predicts "Judah also shall fall with them"—Israel.

If Israel or Ephraim repent too late, "They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the Lord; but they shall not find Him; He hath withdrawn Himself from them."

How could the peoples of Israel and Judah resist Hosea's plea for returning to the Lord and turning they dealt treacherously against Me."

The Lord accuses even the priests of robbery and murder: "And as troops of robbers wait for a man, so the company of priests murder in the way by consent: for they commit lewdness. I have seen an horrible thing in the house of Israel; also, O Judah, He hath set an harvest for thee, when I returned the captivity of My people."

Alas, "Israel's continued stubborn persistence in sin, in spite of the warnings and callings of God, is likened to a foolish person whose hair is turning gray but he does not know it; to a silly dove without understanding. They are wholly occupied with eating and drinking and have no sense of shame of their sins and their rebelliousness toward God."

—S. L. Brown. If one is ill, the sensible thing is to consult a physician that one may be healed. If one is conscious of moral illness—and who isn't at times—turn to God, and He will heal us. Even small children have consciences that tell them when they are doing wrong. This is the thing to emphasize in this lesson, with both the younger classes and the older.

How much the world today needs to reread the Book of Hosea, to realize the faults that brought Israel and Judah to disaster, and to "turn to the Lord" again for help to overcome its evil.

Tot Hides, Brings Out Many Seekers

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Nearly 300 perspiring searchers last night combed bush and swamp for Holly Chase.

The two-year-old girl had disappeared during a game of hide-and-seek. Seventy-five policemen, 30 firemen and 25 Boy Scouts joined neighbors in the search.

The firemen tackled a nearby swamp, laying down a board walk as they progressed. The cops named searchlights. Finally, 16-year-old Gail Fitzgerald recalled that Holly was accustomed to playing in a neighbor's house, and went there to investigate. She found her sleeping in an upstairs closet where the youngster had hidden 2 1/2 hours earlier.

What do you see, Sonny? A plane, streaking across the sky? A pony, galloping into the sunset? A sailboat, gliding across the lake? If I were to look into those glasses, I might see other things. For you are viewing the world with the eyes of youth . . . while mine is the sight of age.

I, too, can marvel at the speed of a plane, the grace of a pony, the beauty of a sailboat. But in all of them, I sense a force much greater than that of the man who pilots the plane, saddles the pony, or rigs the sail.

You are learning about that force when you go to Church each Sunday, and understanding it will be one of the greatest assets in your life. It will teach you to keep things in their proper perspective so that, when you get to be my age, though your sight may be dimmer you will see so much . . . so very much . . . more.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sharp Conflicts Of Fact, Opinion Marked McCarthy-Army Hearings

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — The televised probe of the McCarthy-Army row started out with a tangle of conflicting charges and wound up with a mass of conflicting testimony.

The drama, played out before the Senate investigations subcommittee and a vast TV audience, ranged far from the original outline before the lights went out in the Senate caucus room late yesterday.

For 36 days, beginning April 22, the hearings went on—compounded of a mixture of charges made and denied, of moments of furor and humor, of political in-fighting, of the strengths and weaknesses of men.

The big-name antagonists were Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), the subcommittee's regular chairman, and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens, appointed soon after the Eisenhower administration came into office in January 1953.

Schins, a former unpaid subcommittee consultant.

To this the McCarthy side reported that Stevens and Adams had used Schins as "a hostage" in an attempt to "blackmail" the subcommittee into dropping a search for Communists in the Army.

At the windup, neither had backed down.

In his opening statement, Acting Chairman Mundt (R-SD) described the charges as "a grave and serious nature." He stated this aim: "To make a full and impartial effort to reveal that which is true and to expose that which is false."

From that beginning flowed something like 1 1/2 million words of testimony and oratory.

The first witness called, tall and trim in his uniform, was Maj. Gen. Miles Reber, former chief Army liaison officer at the Capitol and now a commander of U.S. troops in Germany.

Reber said McCarthy told him last July 8 that he was "very much interested in obtaining" a direct Army commission for Schins and felt Schins was "fully qualified."

When McCarthy later took the witness chair, he swore he never asked for a commission for Schins. He said he had inquired of Reber only whether Schins was qualified and how to go about applying for a commission.

July to mid-February to win favors for Schins.

He said requests in behalf of Schins ranged from several for a direct commission for the wealthy New Yorker before he was inducted into the Army last Nov. 8 to many for special assignments, relief from routine KP duties, and extra time off while he was in training at Ft. Dix, N.J.

"During my tenure as secretary of the Army," Stevens said, "there is no record that matches this persistent, tireless effort to obtain special consideration and privileges for this man." He called it an example "of the wrongful seeking of privilege, of the perversion of power."

What did McCarthy have to say about these charges? "I state under oath they are untrue," he said.

And just as emphatically McCarthy swore that his countercharges against Stevens and Adams "are true"—all of them, he said.

At the first hearing McCarthy made a statement that, in one form or another, was to be repeated over and over.

"I am firmly convinced," he said, "the reason we are here only whether Schins was qualified and how to go about applying for a commission.

Cohn was justly angered and that whatever language Cohn may have used was not as strong as he would have used.

Countless words were uttered pro and con about McCarthy's search for suspected subversives at Ft. Monmouth.

McCarthy and Cohn maintained that the Army suspended 35 suspected security risks at the Signal Corps center only after the subcommittee began its investigation.

Stevens and Adams testified some suspensions took place before the subcommittee hearing began; they said the McCarthy probe speeded up the suspension of other employees. And they said McCarthy turned up only some minor new information about one person.

The Army secretary testified: "I did not need spurring by anyone" to weed out subversives. He said he had asked the FBI as early as April 1953 to undertake a full-scale investigation at Ft. Monmouth.

McCarthy said the Army had ignored warnings from the FBI. He and Cohn testified that Stevens and Adams repeatedly tried to get the subcommittee to halt its investigation, lest Stevens be forced to resign.

Stevens testified he felt the Army was being "hammered over the head" by the type of publicity McCarthy was giving out after closed hearings.

"I did not welcome the damaging effect upon the Army of Sen. McCarthy's statements to the press which gave the impression that there was much current espionage at Ft. Monmouth, which was not the case," Stevens testified.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Balloons have taken scientists and scientific instruments to high levels.

Two hundred years ago, there was only one way for people to learn about the air high above the ground. That was by going to the top of a mountain.

Many climbers went to heights of a mile or two, but few reached the tops of peaks three miles above sea level.

Balloons pointed the way for men to rise above mountain peaks. This invention was made in France 177 years ago.

For many years, the most daring balloonists kept within a mile or two of the ground. Then—90 years ago—a British scientist named Galsfer and a balloonist named Corwell—made a mighty climb. They reached a height estimated at six miles. Galsfer fell into a kind of sleep, because of the thin air, but Corwell managed to open a valve to let gas out of the bag. The two men descended safely.

That was the great altitude record of the past century. In the present century it has been beaten many times. Airplanes, as well as balloons, have gone farther upward.

Two Swiss scientists—twin brothers—have made high flights in balloons. One of them, Auguste Piccard, rose a little more than 10 miles. That was 23 years ago.

Two years later, Jean Piccard, went up almost 11 miles in a balloon. This record was broken the next year by two Americans—Capt. Orvil Anderson and Capt. Albert Stevens. In a balloon which rose from the soil of South Dakota, and landed in the same state, they reached a height of 13 and a half miles.

Airplanes driven by propellers have gone higher than 10 miles, but a rocket plane was needed to beat the balloon record. From a base in California, Lt. Col. Marion Carl rose 15 and three-fourths miles last August. That was a record high for a human being. Rockets and weather balloons—without pilots—have gone much higher.

DATE DATA

About Birthday Gifts, When To Give Corsage

Dear Miss Brandon:
My birthday and that of a friend happen to be on the same date, so two months ago we had a joint birthday dance. We shared expenses and each invited friends.

He invited a former girl friend of mine. She brought me, as well as him, a present. Two weeks she is having a birthday and she has been dropping all kinds of hints. Must I give her a present?

an orchid in mind.
Friday we are both guests, but she is hostess at the dance Saturday night.

Ordinarily one corsage would not be easier on your billfold but perfectly proper. Most girls understand enough about money matters to appreciate your financial dilemma, and even the unreasonable ones learn to be understanding when an orchid is the prize.

Giving her a present is not compulsory, unless of course you attend a party given in her honor on that day. If you are trying to discourage this girl's interest, a present might be the very encouragement she'd need to cause her to pester you for months.

Considering that she did remember your birthday, however, sending a greeting card seems the logical answer. It is the polite, thoughtful, and gentlemanly thing to do.

Your particular situation is altered, however, by the fact that she is hostess at the second dance. That is the most important occasion when her corsage should be at its freshest and most beautiful. Since she will be in the lime light on Saturday, you have an unusual situation to cope with. Providing two less expensive corsages is the answer, if you can possibly afford it.

If you've dated the girl before, discuss it honestly with her. Her opinion is important. She won't bite. (Do you have a dating problem? Write it to Beverly Brandon, in care of the Herald. She'll answer you personally and your problem will be kept in strictest confidence.)

Dear Miss Brandon:
I have a date to take a girl to two dances on two consecutive nights, Friday and Saturday. She tells me she is planning to wear the same dress both nights. May I send just one corsage? I have

On the very last day, McCarthy said he had personal knowledge of this occurring at a Nov. 6 luncheon in Stevens' Pentagon office.

"That is true, then?" asked Sen. McClellan (D-Ark).

"Yes, sir," McCarthy replied.

When Stevens was testifying, he swore, "At no time . . . did I suggest that the committee 'go after' the Navy and Air Force."

There were sharp conflicts of opinion as well as conflicts of fact. Welch, after a sudden attack by McCarthy on a young member of his Boston law firm, cried out in anguished tones, "Until this moment, Senator, I think I never really gauged your cruelty or your recklessness . . . Have you left no sense of decency?"

On another day, Roy M. Cohn, regular chief counsel of the subcommittee and a principal target of the Army charges, said of the Wisconsin senator:

"I have never known a man who has less unkindness, less lack of charity, in his heart and soul, than Sen. McCarthy."

Next to Stevens and McCarthy, Adams and Cohn were the principal antagonists. Their testimony collided too.

There was Adams' charge—and Cohn's denial—that Cohn had told him Stevens would be through as secretary and the Army "wrecked" if Schins were sent overseas.

And there was Cohn's charge—and Adams' denial—that Adams had offered to trade him information about homosexuals in the Air Force if Cohn would tip him to the subcommittee's plans for its next investigation of the Army.

Another episode about which the subcommittee heard different versions was the barring of Cohn from a secret radar laboratory at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., last Oct. 20.

Col. Kenneth E. BeLieu, aide to Stevens and a combat veteran who lost a leg in Korea, testified that Cohn blew up and declared, "This is war. . . We are going to investigate the heck out of the Army."

Cohn told the subcommittee he was angry all right, but he denied voicing threats. McCarthy said

Another issue that rolled the hearings was touched off by McCarthy's testimony about a Jan. 21 meeting at the Justice Department attended by Atty. Gen. Brownell, Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams and other aides of President Eisenhower.

Adams said they discussed McCarthy's move to call Army loyalty board members for questioning. He said he believed this stemmed from his saying that Schins might be assigned overseas.

Sherman Adams suggested to him, he said, that he put in writing an account of the whole Schins matter. Such an account was the basis for the Army's charges.

Famed Baltimore Night Spot Raided
BALTIMORE (AP)—A flying squad of 19 policemen early today raided the Oasis night club, Baltimore's most famous night spot to out-of-towners, and arrested everyone in the place, including the orchestra and patrons.

Lt. Joseph Byrne, vice squad chief, said he acted on complaints there were nude women in some of the acts. "We found them," he said.

Police used a patrol wagon shuttle service to haul an estimated 200 persons to central police station.

As she climbed in the wagon, one blonde entertainer said in a complaining voice: "Why, it was just a little ole girl doin' a little ole dance."

A Bible Thought For Today—

Revival Of An Alliance Product Of The Shadow Boxing At Geneva

One thing the Geneva fiasco has brought about can be counted as a distinct gain for the West and a setback to the Communist axis in a reviving unity of thought and action between the U. S. and its principal "unwritten" but none the less actual ally, Great Britain.

One of the principal Communist aims at Geneva was to drive a wedge between the U. S. on one side and Britain and France on the other. That effort was partially successful; the Western allies drifted dangerously apart for weeks.

But as usual the Communists pressed matters too far; as usual they overreached themselves. Even a frightened France and a dawdling Britain could not stomach the inordinate demands of the Reds at Geneva, demands that constantly became more and more exorbitant until they finally became farcical in their flamboyance.

The Reds might have been more moderate and steering things out almost indefinitely, but moderation is not a Communist characteristic; the Russians in particular are incapable of moderation. As it was they did manage to stall the proceedings until France lost Dien Bien Phu and suffered a general military degeneration in Indochina.

Now Geneva is written off, and in consequence the Western alliance is rapidly reviving. Next week's White House conference with Prime Minister Churchill and his right hand man Anthony Eden may well be the prelude to the new Pacific pact which Washington envisions as the only workable approach to preservation of Southeast Asia.

Two or three weeks ago such a meeting of minds seemed impossible. Now it may come about quickly, and in full effectiveness. In truth the roughneck tactics of the Communists at Geneva left the U. S. and Britain no other choice. The evil forces which had tried to split the West asunder only succeeded in unifying it.

What part France will eventually play in the West's revived concord remains to be seen. Best bet: France will find a way to stick closely to her old friends and allies. After all the French are realists.

Duet In Milwaukee Stirs Memory Of Days When Families Joined In

Harry S. Truman sat down to play a brand-new grand piano in Milwaukee this week as accompanist to the boss of the American Federation of Musicians, James C. Petrillo, while the 2,000-musicians-delegates applauded uproariously. Whatever Mr. Truman's skill as a pianist, his right to play in the presence of the AFM musicians is impeccable; he carries a card as honorary member.

Press reports of the occasion differed slightly. The AP said Mr. T. struck up "Hall, Hall, the Gang's All Here," while Mr. P. "contributed a wondrous melody to Truman's piano accompaniment." It adds that the duo responded with an encore of the same tune. United Press, on the other hand, reporting the first results as "pretty sour," insists Mr. P. suggested "Let's play it again." Mr. T. is past 70, but Mr. P. conceals his age in his Who biography—one of the shortest in the book.

What Liberace, Milwaukee's gift to the musical world, thought of all this we have no idea. But the piano the former President used was real solid, a gift from the musicians to the Truman Library.

All of which reminds us of a pleasanter age when whole families would gather round the cottage organ in the parlor and enjoy an evening of song. Perhaps that still happens occasionally here and there, but the custom once prevailed almost universally. Such gatherings might be short on music—and we gather that Messrs. Truman and Petrillo set no musical woods afire in Milwaukee—but long on effort and enjoyment. Every member of the family would join in the old songs, from lisping five-year-olds to grandmas and grandpas, and a wonderful time was had by all.

Mostly the old songs were religious, some of which endure to this day—set to a different tune from which the last vestige of emotion and feeling has been carefully wrung, as if somebody had decided feeling is somehow indecent, and people have no right wearing their emotions on their sleeves.

Those oldtime family songsters were good and loud, and we only wish somebody had sense enough to revive them on a grand scale.

These Days—George Sokolsky

Best Attack Against Marxism Is Through Our Own Religions

Senator Jackson, who on television looks like the eternal collegian, young, fresh, buoyant, had a wonderful fight with himself making fun of David Schine's plan for psychological warfare. I have seen scores such plans, drawn up by so-called experts.

Senator Jackson is not so dumb as not to understand that the word, "Demiform," however crude it may be etymologically, has the virtue of conveying a specific idea, namely, that as the Communists have established an information and propaganda section called the Cominform, so the so-called democracies should establish a similar fighting organization called Demiform.

Jackson could not have failed to understand that the Senators have all become accustomed to using their short stay on television to ham up their act to catch a laugh. My reaction to the Jackson extravaganza is that the word, "Demiform," is objectionable because there is not a democracy on the face of the earth, and because the United States is not a democracy at all, but a representative republic which sometimes suffers from a careless choice of representatives. If as Schine wrote "Fight fire with fire," then the materialism of Marxism can only be fought by the spirituality of religion.

Schine mentioned that in his memorandum and Jackson put on his innocent look, which tells me that he is about to be mischievous, and asked just whether Schine means that the religious groups were to be infiltrated?

I would not use the word, infiltrated, but the word, educated. The religious groups of the world are as shocked and surprised by the stupendous success of the Marxist Church as President Eisenhower was at his press conference last Thursday. Many of the clergy have regarded Communism as a wild-eyed something or other, but they have failed to recognize the emergence of the Marxist Church which now controls the lives of 600,000,000 human beings. It is a materialistic, atheistic, pragmatic church which is fighting Judaism, Christianity and Islam, as it must, because they represent the concept of a mystical God who revealed the natural law to man. By this revelation, man was given a moral system upon which he has based his entire life. To the Marxist, such a system is unscientific and therefore untrue.

I would recommend to Senator Jackson Marx's essays on Feuerbach which are part of the canon of the Marxist Church. Feuerbach (1804-1872) was a German materialistic philosopher who profoundly influenced Marx. Marx states his case as follows:

"The great basic question of all philosophy, especially of modern philosophy, is that concerning the relation of thinking and being. From the very early times when men, still completely ignorant of the structure of their own bodies, under the stimulus of dream apparitions came to believe that their thinking and sensation were not activities of their bodies, but of a distinct soul which inhabits the body and leaves it at death—from this time, men have been driven to reflect about the relation between this soul and the outside world. I in death it took leave of the body and lived on, there was no occasion to invent yet another distinct death for it. Thus arose the idea of its immortality which at that stage of development appeared not at all as a consolation but as a fate against which it was no use fighting, and often enough, as among the Greeks, as a positive misfortune. Not regularly arising from the common universal ignorance of what to do with this soul . . . after the death of the body—led in . . . general way to the tedious notion of personal immortality . . ."

Karl Marx's eleven theses on Feuerbach, in my judgment, lay the basis for the dogma of the Marxist Church. From this, it will be learned that for Marx the principal attack on our civilization must be on its religions, especially Christianity, Judaism and Islam.

Therefore Schine's suggestion of working through the churches and the clergy is sound and Senator Jackson's levity was more pious than philippic.

It is only through religion that Marxism can be destroyed; that is through the acceptance of a mystical God who gave to man moral law. Marx laid this down as fact.

"The philosophers have interpreted the world in various ways; the point however is to change it."

And one of the changes he desired was to abolish God.

To Cool Stomach

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A glass of ice water drops stomach temperatures more than a third. That was the report a group of University of Pennsylvania researchers made here at a meeting of biologists.

After you drink a glass of ice water, your stomach temperature falls from around 98 degrees to 81 degrees and doesn't return to normal until 35 minutes later.

McCarthy Can Be Expected To Light New Fires Under Eisenhower Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—After a short rest, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) can be expected back with a fresh box of matches to start another roaring fire under the Eisenhower administration.

The 36-day Army-McCarthy hearings which ended last night may turn out to have been just a warm-up for future McCarthy struggles with the administration.

McCarthy wants his Senate Investigations subcommittee, he said to have hearings on whether Communist agents have slipped into defense plants. Since that seems normally within the scope of his committee, the administration probably won't object.

Then, he said, he wants to consider looking for Communists in the supersecret atom and hydrogen bomb plants and the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), which does this country's counterespionage on the Communists overseas.

Right there he runs head on again into the administration which still-armed him when he tried to look into CIA before. He indicated he might talk to the White House first, but didn't say what he'd do if he was turned down.

Over the past four years, McCarthy has hopped from sensational charge to sensational charge and from headline to headline, attacking both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations when it suited him. Only for a year and a half has he headed the subcommittee. Before that he was a lone operator.

Conflict has been his meat and potatoes. He has grown strong on it. The sensations and the headlines have been the breath of his political life. Without them he would be again just one of the 96 senators.

No one, he has said, can stop his search for Communists in the government. It may be that he won't stop, or can't stop, until the Eisenhower administration crushes him or surrenders to him the key to the government's inner doors.

The Army-McCarthy hearings, the highlight of his career to date, were rooted in this struggle between his efforts to push and the administration's efforts to keep him from pushing too far.

It was a basic constitutional question over the separation of powers between the executive and legislative branches. If anyone doubted this before the hearings, McCarthy left no doubt of it by the time they ended.

As first presented to the public, this seemed to be the quarrel: The Army charged McCarthy and his staff tried to pressure it into giving special treatment to a draftee, G. David Schine, formerly with McCarthy's staff. McCarthy countercharged the Army was trying to blackmail him into giving up his hunt for Communists in the Army.

Soon it came out there was something else: Some of Eisenhower's closest advisers got together when he demanded that members of the Army's loyalty board appear before him for questioning. He was refused the right to question the board.

Both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations have kept secret the business of the various government loyalty boards. People's reputations, the names of informants, and reports of the FBI are involved in the work of the boards in deciding whether a government employe is fit to keep his job or is a security risk.

Basic in the secrecy about the boards is this: If they could be called before Congress to answer for their decisions in any or all cases, their decisions might be made through fear of Congress and not through a desire to be fair.

This didn't discourage McCarthy. During the hearings he called on all government employes to give him any security information they had even though Eisenhower had ordered it kept secret.

The White House called this open defiance of Eisenhower's authority under the Constitution to run the executive branch as he thinks best for the national security. McCarthy disputed that, saying that as a committee chairman he is authorized to receive such information.

When, at the very end of yesterday's hearings, McCarthy announced his interest in the CIA, he was serving notice on the administration he was thinking of lighting a match.

Frenchmen Not Worried By Crisis In Government

PARIS (AP)—A man stepped into the hotel lounge and said quietly: "The government has just fallen."

"Perhaps there was frenzied excitement in French political circles over Premier Laniel's downfall, but the collapse of France's 19th postwar government created less stir in the hotel lounge than if a patron had risen and accidentally upset an ashtray."

The barman looked up impassively at the news, then bent down and finished mixing his drink without the slightest exchange of expression. It was as if he were an American League fan, and someone had just remarked a game in the National League had been rained out.

The American tourists in the lounge, including a number of former war correspondents, began talking animatedly about what the new government crisis meant. A few Frenchmen present listened curiously to the conversation. None volunteered a comment.

None said Laniel was a bum and deserved to topple. None protested he was a hero. None said he was a good man trying to carry out a bad program or a bad man stuck with a good program.

They had—or so it seemed to me—the half-bored, half-amused indifference of a group of Broadway characters at a night club casually savoring a table of Texas talk about how much Dallas needed a good hard rain.

A waiter came by. I ordered a drink and asked, "have you heard the government has just fallen?"

"Yes."

"You don't seem at all surprised."

"No."

"You don't seem very concerned either. Doesn't it worry you that another French government has fallen?"

"Why should it?" he shrugged. "I worry about what concerns me. I take care of myself first—then the other fellow."

"Is that the way most Frenchmen feel?"

"I would say yes."

"Have most Frenchmen always felt that way?"

"Perhaps not," he said, after a moment of reflection. "But it is the way they have felt since the last war."

"Who would you like to see run the government of France—General DeGaulle?"

"No, not DeGaulle," he said. "But it is a matter of little moment to me. They are all out for the money. Me, I take care of myself first, too."

Later I asked an assistant manager of the hotel the same question. He had much the same attitude as the waiter—that the government of France was hardly his personal problem, and he had his own life to worry about.

Cheops Apparently Spent Life Arranging For Eternal Voyage

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note.

The magnificence of a recently discovered Egyptian tomb would lead one to believe that the chief preoccupation of the ancient Pharaohs was life after death.

This particular tomb, discovered by accident this year when an Egyptian road crew uncovered 450 feet of limestone blocks, has all the trimmings. It is believed to be the tomb of the Pharaoh Cheops, who reigned about 2750 B. C.

The tomb, which has been hidden for around 47 centuries, reeked of a mysterious perfume when opened. And observers, though they have not yet entered the chamber, could see a 125-foot-long funeral boat through the opening.

This stone boat, according to Egyptologist Kamal El-Malakh, was a sun boat that Cheops built to journey through the heavens. Another stone boat for night travel and a statue of the Pharaoh should be in the tomb, he states.

The statue, according to legend, will be inscribed with hieroglyphic incantations to assure a safe journey through the heavens on the eternal voyage.

Statues of the crew and court favorites should also be in the tomb. These material counterparts of the dead, so long as they are intact, are supposed to send their ghostly images through the heavens with their great sun god Ra. The perfumes concocted to last forever by wizard priests, was to be the supernatural vapor in which the ship always sailed.

The ancient Egyptians, according to El-Malakh, believed Solar Boats to be equal to tombs in importance. Some, such as Cheops, thought them more important. Since Egyptian civilization was centered in the Nile Valley, it was natural for ancient Pharaohs to consider boats as the only way to travel, both in life and after death.

Each Pharaoh built two solar boats for day and two for night. The day boats were for travel with Ra and the night boats for the terrifying trip through the dark underworld.

Even more of the ancient Egyptian lore should be available to scholars after the 125-foot funeral boat is examined.

A number of such Solar Boats have been discovered in the past, but they had been plundered and largely destroyed. This tomb, complete with two Solar Boats, is thought to be undisturbed by vandals or ghosts and completely furnished as left by the builders some 5,000 years ago.

Idaho Lake Has Monster Just As Good As That In Loch Ness

It has always been my feeling that anything that Europe, Asia, Africa or the New Hebrides can do, Idaho can do better.

After all, what does Paris, France, have that Paris, Idaho, doesn't have except the Louvre, the Champs Elysee, Pigalle, the Folies Bergere and those awful can-can girls? Uncle Horace said it used to be the girls, too, but that's another story.

Anyway, my faith in my splendid home state has been amply justified once more, and I am proud to announce that Idaho has an up-and-coming sea serpent in residence and ready to go into active competition with the Loch Ness monster.

The Idaho monster, which is prepared to give the Scotch sea serpent a swim for its money, hangs out in Payette Lake, a magnificent body of sapphire water cradled in the mountains about 125 miles north of Boise.

This high-mountain lake has been the favorite summer resort of residents of the Boise valley ever since I can remember, and it speaks for the good sense of the Loch Ness rival that he, she or it has taken up residence in one of the loveliest lakes on the continent.

Ordinarily, I am of skeptical nature and place little credence in stories of landlocked Moby Dicks. However, I have just had a stem-to-stern description of the Idaho monster—and it sounds like a dilly—from an old acquaintance whose veracity is not only unquestionable but who has sighted the critter twice in broad daylight.

This firsthand description of the Idaho challenger describes it, curiously enough, as having the head of a cocker spaniel, which is a water breed and quite logical, and the body of—well, the body of a sea serpent, which is quite logical, too.

All in all, you must admit that it is a mighty convincing story. My estimable informant, one of many persons who has seen The Old Prospector, as the Idaho marvel is called, is Lucy Hall, wife of Dr. William Hall, president of Westminster College in Fulton, Mo., where Sir Winston Churchill coined the phrase "The Iron Curtain" in a masterly postwar speech.

Lucy, who is now visiting in the East, is not the type of person to be swept off her feet by a sea serpent with the head of a cocker spaniel and the undulating body of a large reptile moving at stately pace around Payette Lake, on which the Halls own a summer cabin.

My sedate witness even has a theory that the Loch Ness and Idaho monsters may be unfortunate cats whose thyroid got out of hand in years past. (It is not beyond the realm of possibility that the mother of The Old Prospector was frightened by a cocker spaniel, which would account for everything.)

On days when it is sighted and word gets around that The Old Prospector is at large on the lake, mothers shoo their children out of the water, Lucy reports, and makes them play in safety on shore. Although in all fairness to the Idaho monster, it has never raised fin or scale to mortal man, she adds.

Lucy says if she sights it again this summer, she will invite the Chesterfield critic to Fulton for the weekend and put it up in the president's house in the room now simply marked: "Winnie Slept Here."

All The Old Prospector needs is a good publicity break to rival its Scotch cousin, and this would do it.

Today And Tomorrow—Walter Lippmann

Economic Independence Factor In Solving Eastern Crisis

Recently I have been reading a speech, which was delivered in New York in January, by Mr. Moeckarto, the Ambassador from Indonesia. Mr. Moeckarto made plain to me that I have seen it done elsewhere—what is at the bottom of the charge of "colonialism" which is brought against us not only in Southeast Asia, but also in so many countries of Latin America.

Though Mr. Moeckarto did not say it in so many words, the essential idea, implicit in what he said, is that colonialism does not end with the grant of political independence. As long as the economic life of the newly independent state is dependent upon the export of a few primary commodities, it will feel itself in a colonial relationship with the industrialized nations to which it exports its primary products. This is the main reason why countries which are no longer political colonies of any of the Western empires, which have no reason to fear and do not as a matter of fact fear any scheme of reconquest, do nevertheless continue to agitate the issue of colonialism.

It also explains why we have become the principal object of this anti-colonial agitation. As we are the largest industrial power and therefore the greatest user of primary products, the ups and downs of our business cycle, the fluctuations of our commercial transactions and most importantly the character of our trade policy, have enormous impact upon the countries which have a "colonial" economy. Their standard of living, their prospects of development, their very political stability is affected by this relationship. A change in the U. S. tariff, quota, or stockpiling policy can upset completely the economy of many of the underdeveloped countries. American imports of tin and rubber are vital for Indonesia, as is oil for Venezuela, tuna fish for Peru and tin for Bolivia, to cite a few examples. This dependence causes the grievance of colonialism, a grievance which is aggravated, of course, by the uncouth manners of politicians recklessly throwing their weight around.

Mr. Moeckarto described the conditions of his country and of the other countries of Southeast Asia as being "unstable, uneasy and a source of increasing social discontent." And he asserted that: "The emphasis of the Western powers has been on achieving a military balance of power. They have neglected the even more basic problem of the economic balance of power with respect to Southeast Asia. The danger stems from a number of factors. First is a psychological one—the achievement of substantial progress in Communist countries cannot fail to exercise powerful attraction on underdeveloped countries whose rate of progress has not been so rapid. In the second place, a nation which has no sound economic base is vulnerable both politically and militarily because it cannot retain the loyalty of its population when it does not satisfy their basic needs and their aspirations for the future. The consequence of this economic imbalance is to create pressures which may tend to attract underdeveloped countries towards a system which in a similar stage of development, has apparently succeeded in some degree in meeting the problems which they have not begun to solve."

The Indonesian Ambassador illustrated his argument by pointing out that his country is dependent upon a few major exports, principally tin and rubber. They account for approximately two-thirds of its earnings in foreign exchange and for its imports of capital and consumer goods. He then pointed out that the price of tin and rubber in the past three years has varied more than 250 and 300 per cent respectively.

The feeding of dependence upon fluctuating prices which are fixed in foreign markets, may tend to be the object of violent changes, is painful in itself and is difficult to reconcile with a sense of national independence. Indonesia, like all other countries which have ceased to be political colonies, wishes also to cease to be an economic colony. How is that to be done? In the long run, only by "a greater diversification of the bases of their economic viability." This will tend to make them less vulnerable to the violent ups and downs in world prices.

But diversification requires capital investment. And capital for investment depends on the dollars and the sterling that can be earned by the export of these violently fluctuating primary products. "It is impossible," said Mr. Moeckarto, "to executive or even plan a continuous development program without being assured of a steady flow of our most important resource of finances: foreign trade earnings."

E. L. Turnbow, merchant and farmer at Patricia, has his weather eye cocked on the Summer Solstice, the shortest night and longest day of the year, Sunday and Monday.

He says he always feels better about crops after the first day of summer has passed. He recalls that usually, but not always, we have at least a few hours of high winds right on the point of the Solstice, and he's afraid that's what is going to happen this year with the winds being as high as they have been for some days now.

Turnbow says that what his area needs is some "quieter weather." There has been too much wind. Some cotton has been damaged by blowing. Monday afternoon the Patricia area got nothing more than hiving sand. He says that most of the farm owners in his section who had gone away to find work because of the drought have now returned to their farms and are at work. Many of the tenants, however, have not yet returned, he says.

He thinks it is an indication of better times ahead that this spring, and since the rain starting falling again, he has already sold more garden seed than he sold in all the past three years rolled together.

Crops look good up that way, and the people also look better than they have since the drought first set in.

There's a good stand of Blue Panic Grass on the W. F. Winans place near Vealmoor. In planting maize plates were used in a regular planter box and the seed was covered an inch and a half.

Good stands of Guar are to be seen on the farms of J. H. Fryar, north of Big Spring, and Paul Adams, north of Knott.

Kerosene mesquite kills have been made by O. E. Hamlin, north of Fairview, and Roscoe Buchanan, north of Sand Springs. Willis Winters of the Vincent Community is now at work on the mesquite on his place.

South of Elbow a grass drill owned by the Martin-Howard SCD is being used by Ross Hill to plant a mixture of Sideoats Grama, Blue Grama and King Ranch Bluestem. He plans to mow his alfalfa and small grain.

Observers report that annual weeds are drying up in the pastures leaving the ground bare or occupied only by such grasses as are there. Good grasses are making good growth, but as has been pointed out only a comparatively small percentage of the ranges are covered with grass.

Incidentally, this is the last week that the Texas Electric Service Company's motorized soil and water conservation display will be in Big Spring. It is located in the lobby of the First National Bank and those who have not seen it should call at the bank and look it over. It's interesting and instructive. It will give anybody a much better understanding of the problem.

One of the handiest bug control charts we have ever seen, and it's in color, has been prepared by Country Gentleman with the help of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

It contains the most comprehensive information available on every bug or fly that may show up on any farm in the United States.

The various insects are illustrated in color, under the separate headings of beef cattle, dairy cows, sheep and goats, horses and mules, swine, poultry, barnyard area, corn, peanuts, tobacco, cotton, wheat, oats, barley, rye, soybeans, stored grain, sugar cane, sugar beets, general feeders, pasture or grass lands, pastured small grains, alfalfa, forage crops, all fruits and vegetables, shrubs, lawns, woolen carpets, drapes, stored woollens, upholstery, washable woollens, papers and books, pantries, and flowers.

It's a complete control program for any insect that may show up anywhere, and the most complete thing of the kind that has ever come our way.

Jim Jones of the Tarran Community lost some cotton to the Monday afternoon sand storm, but this loss was small when compared with the loss of 500 acres in Andrews County.

The Andrews loss, it is reported, did not result from any one storm.

Episcopal Convention To Be Held In Hawaii

NEW YORK (AP)—The Protestant Episcopal Church, which recently canceled plans to meet in Houston because of racial segregation there, today announced the meeting will be in multi-racial Hawaii.

The decision to hold the church's 1955 convention in Honolulu was made by the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, presiding Bishop.

ADVENTURES OF OZZIE & HARRIET

but over the last two weeks. Winds have been high and steady over that area.

At Klondike, while Jack Peiham is recovering from a recent illness, the store is being managed by Clovis Young, who has been employed there before in years past.

Friends will be glad to know that Jack has sufficiently recovered to get out in the fields and spend a few hours a day on a tractor seat.

There has been but very little wind damage to crops in the Klondike area, although it has thinned the cotton here and there in spots. The Klondike Community was one of the very hardest hit by the continued drought with a large percentage of the people being forced off their farms and into employment elsewhere. Here, too, the landowners have all returned.

Up at Flower Grove, while J. D. Pheilan and Dean Feimling were sitting around talking things over they agreed that crops in that area can, if they must, do pretty well without any more rain before July 10, but this doesn't mean these fellows aren't hoping they'll get more moisture for themselves and their neighbors before then.

The situation on cotton lice up that way still isn't good but it is better than it has been, and it's getting lighter.

Farmers in the section are planting different varieties of hegar and maize as their feed crops. Cotton chopping is under way with

To Be Stationed Overseas Again

ACKERLY — Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hargraves were notified Tuesday that their son, RM3-C Kenneth E. Hargraves was to be stationed in the Philippine Islands for four months.

This is his fourth time for overseas duty while serving in the Navy.

more crews moving in looking for contracts.

Arvis Davis reports lady bugs beginning to hatch out.

Young Jimmy Pheilan, son of O. L. Pheilan, who has been serving on a jury in the District Court at Stanton, offered the Grub Line Rider a dog, Jimmy has a pair of them, brother and sister, and both young. He got them from a friend in Lubbock and they're from the same litter and perfectly matched. They looked like good jackrabbit-bit dogs and we suggested that to Jimmy.

"There ain't a jackrabbit within ten miles of here," commented Jimmy, disappointedly while looking out across the cultivated fields.

U. S. Seeks Okay To Look For Arms

WASHINGTON (AP)—Informed officials said today the United States is asking Western European shipping nations to help stop any further arms shipment to Red-tipped Guatemala and to allow American warships to stop their vessels on the high seas and seize any Guatemalan arms cargo.

Seizures on the high seas would be used only as a last resort in the event that a shipment slipped through a greatly strengthened port embargo system.

Britain, however, has balked at this, preferring to police her own vessels at sea.
