Policemen Query Mystery Painters

Lubbock police today had new hope of breaking a baffling case of vandalism which took place on the Tech campus Feb. 25. At least two former Tech students were being questioned regarding the paint fiasco in which the second and third floor hallways in the Administration building, and the large Will Rogers statue were smeared with a pale brown, rubber-base paint.

Tech President E. N. Jones, contacted by The Toreador at his home last night, made no comment on the recent development, pending further conferences with the alleged vandals and their parents.

The conferences, to be held this week, will regard payment for the damages, estimated at about $3,000. No formal charges have as yet been filed against the pair.

Tech's Rodeo and Western Days are gone for 1956—and maybe for longer.

But Tech President E. N. Jones gave an indication today that the Rodeo Association may be allowed to hold its annual on-campus show during the next school year.

"The order of restoration of normal activities is the Rodeo Team first, the Rodeo Association second, and Western Days third, if ever," said President Jones in a statement to The Toreador. "The 'if ever' depends on all-over student body conduct in the days ahead," added the president.

The Rodeo Team has already been restored to off-campus activity as the first step toward regaining an active Rodeo Association for Tech Rodeo sponsorship. The possibility of Western Days being resumed is more remote.

"In my opinion, some time will have to pass before Texas Tech can afford to risk the repetition of last year's conduct by restoring this campus wide celebration," stated Dr. Jones. "In fact," he added, "Western Days can never again be permitted unless and until there is clear evidence that the habit of license, which has increased from year to year, is entirely a thing of the past."

Considerable confusion about the status of the Rodeo Association, the Rodeo Team and Western Days has arisen about the campus, according to the president.

"The Rodeo Association was not placed on probation because of irregularities in conduct on the part of students during Western Days, as many have thought," he said. "Rather that probation was due to acceptance of a sum of money from the earnings of an unapproved function of a quality entirely unacceptable to the college," he continued. "The money was received by an authorized representative of the Rodeo Association and deposited in the organization's account," according to Dr. Jones.

"Though the Rodeo Association was not held responsible for the unfortunate conduct during Western Days last spring, it was

Peerce Concert Here Saturday

Jan Peerce, a man known to some of his Metropolitan Opera colleagues as the "short hair of long hairs," will appear at Tom S. Lubbock High School auditorium Saturday night. This is the fifth in a series of Tech Artists Courses.

Concert time is 8 p.m. The tenor has been featured in opera, concerts, television, radio, movies, and records.

Peerce is making his sixteenth trans-continental tour this year and his appearance in Lubbock is one of 45 he will make this year under the aegis of impresario S. Hurok.

The popular singer believes music is neither "Classical" nor "Popular." It is "good or bad." Whether a song is good or bad doesn't really make any difference to him. If he likes a song he'll sing it anyway.

Born in New York City the American-trained artist made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera fourteen years ago.

He now lives in a large quiet suburban home near New York City with his wife Alice and his three children. One son, Larry, is out of college and is breaking into TV and radio in Ohio.

Peerce opened the season this year by appearing with the San Francisco Opera Company where he sang several performances of the title role of Gounod's "Faust," and Ottavio in Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

Recently heard in Twentieth Century Fox's film-biography of S. Hurok, "Tonight We Sing," he has starred in four other movies including "Of Men and Music" and "Something In The Wind."

Speech Play Opens

The story of Oedipus—the man who plucked out his eyes in anguish after finding that he had slain his own father and married his mother—will be presented for three days this week in the Speech Auditorium beginning at 8 p.m. Thursday.

It's a modern version of the old Greek Drama, "Oedipus the King" as seen by Jean Cocteau, French playwright.

Heading the cast are Dr. Cecilia Thompson, associate professor in the speech department, who is cast as Jocasta, wife-mother of Oedipus; Jake Sitters, who portrays Oedipus, the son of Laius; and Kathleen O'Loughlin, who plays the part of Antigone, the daughter of Oedipus.

The play calls for a cast of three women, eleven men, and three children, one male and two females. It was first produced in Paris, France in 1934 with Louis Jouvet.

Beginning Thursday, the "Infernal Machine" will play three consecutive nights, and after a rest on Sunday, the players will appear again Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Infirmiry Move Begins Tomorrow

A two-day hospital move from old barracks quarters to the new $295,000 Len and Harriet McClellan Memorial Infirmiry will get underway on the campus tomorrow.

The move has been planned so as not to interfere with normal infirmiry operation, according to Jack Thompson, administrative assistant to College Vice President Marshall Pennington.

"We are picking the slack time of the week to make our move," said Thompson this morning. "We will do our best to give students any health service needed during the two-day period."

FUN FAIR FEATURES MYSTERY TECHS

Who is Mr. X? Clues as to the identity of this mystery Techman have been given since Monday over the Union public address system. The contest is a feature of the second annual Frantic Fun Fair, which will take place at the Union Friday.

Mr. X is a member of either the faculty, staff or student body at Tech.

TECH NEWS IN BRIEF—

Lunch, Movie, Scholarship, Ugly Man Contest Announced

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TALK . . .

Joseph Heard, director of branches and practitioners of the First Church of Christ Scientist, Boston, Mass., will address students interested in Christian Science at a workshop Wednesday in the Union.

The workshop will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. in Room B.

Heard is at Tech to advise and assist the campus Christian Science organization, according to Katie Mahtieu, president.

BSO LUNCHEON . . .

A luncheon meeting will be held Wednesday noon in the Union Ballroom by the Board of Student Organizations.

Included on the agenda will be reports on a proposed college awards board, and on the surplus of funds of La Ventana.

Reports will also be made on the recent BSO leadership retreat and on the college social calendar.

All organization presidents are urged by BSO President Ronnie Clark to attend the meeting. Reservations may be made with Dean of Student Life James G. Allen. Cost of the luncheon is 65 cents.

FRENCH MOVIE . . .

A French movie, "God Needs Men," will be shown in the Tech Union Ballroom at 7 p.m. Thursday, Marilyn Adrian, Movie Committee representative, has announced.

The film tells the story of a reluctant island fisherman who is called upon to take the role of a priest. It tells of the need of "a group of islanders, for spiritual guidance and offers a deep insight into the fundamental impulse to worship," Miss Adrian said.

"This film has been received with acclaim on many college campuses in the U.S. and comes to us through high recommendations," she stated.

The movie, shown in cooperation with the foreign language department, is presented by the Union as a special program to promote interest in foreign films.

NEW SCHOLARSHIP . . .

Applications are being accepted for the Mary W. Doaks Scholarship, presented to a junior or sophomore coed majoring in education.

Total benefits from the scholarship are $40 per semester. Qualifications other than classification include residence at Tech for one year prior to application. The applicant must be a future teacher, above average scholastically and active in campus activities.

Applications may be made by letter to Miss Sue Rainey, administering officer, women's physical education department. Deadline is April 3.

The scholarship was established in memory of Mary W. Doaks, late professor emeritus of English and dean of women. The Alpha Sigma chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma was instrumental in establishment of the scholarship.

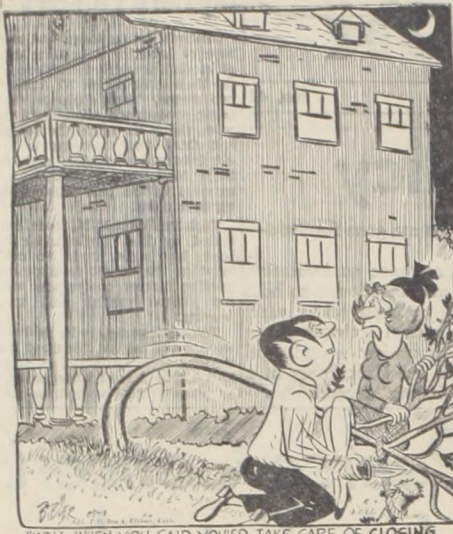

UGLY MAN CONTEST . . .

Tech's Ugly Man Contest will be sponsored again this spring by Alpha Phi Omega, national service organization, in early April. Proceeds are to go for the purchase of new bleachers at the softball field, announced Dean Lewis N. Jones, sponsor. "The Ugly Man" will be chosen by ballot and presented in a ceremony on the softball field.

Any male student is eligible to enter. Rules for the contest will be in the mail soon to all organizations on the campus, Dean Jones stated. The votes probably will sell for one cent each as they have done in the past, he indicated.

Almost $300 was taken in last year when Joel Lackey was elected Tech's ugliest man. Jack Beckner is chairman of this year's contest.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

Letters To The Toreador

Dear Editor: In reading through the editorial of March 6, I'm very happy to note that Cosmopolitan Club is planning to open its membership for American students.

If the Club is to include any American, I humbly suggest that the Club make provision in the new by-law to put limitations on the number of offices the American members can hold in any given time. I think Americans in many ways are more aggressive (active) and are easier to win popularity, while foreign students are quite reserved in their ways. If the Club is to be dominated by American forces (time will show), there will be no difference between it and any other fraternities on the Campus. Then, "open membership" would defeat the purpose of the Club and serve to choke it to its slow death.

Actually, American members need not take a too active role in it; a ride in the back-seat may prove to be a more pleasant trip. After all, our way of life can be seen in our daily living.

My final prayer is that the ill fate of UN does not plague the Cosmopolitan Club on our campus.

Sincerely, Frank Louis (formerly from China)

We don't quite agree with you, Mr. Louis, that the United Nations is an ill-fated organization. Your main point, however, regarding our own Cosmopolitan Club, is well taken. For maximum effectiveness, control of the organization must remain where it is today—with Cosmopolitans. While Americans should take a vital interest and an active part in the Club, they should not try to dominate it.

Nita Haseloff AWS Prexy; Runoff Wed.

Nita Haseloff, Business Administration junior from Vernon, was elected 1956-57 president of Tech's Association of Women Students yesterday. She won over Joanne Holmes, Lubbock, also a junior BA major.

Rebecca Wilson, Arts and Sciences sophomore from Lubbock, was chosen first vice president in the campus election. She will be in charge of the Big-Little Sister Program.

The offices of secretary, treasurer, and reporter will be filled in a run-off election tomorrow. Ballot boxes will be placed in the Union, Home Ec Building, and in the three women's dormitories, Knapp, Horn, and Drane.

Dottie Sue Horchum, who will serve as second vice president next year, was elected by acclamation, when unopposed for the office at the AWS nominations convocation last week.

In the run-off for AWS secretary are Mary Jane Hartley and Sharon Seeliger. Other candidates were Karen Campbell, Julia Reed, and Lu Ann McNeil.

Four co-eds will vie for the office of treasurer tomorrow. They are Bettie Ethridge, Mary Alice Richardson, Joan Z. Roberts, and Pat Stooksberry.

Running for reporter are Barbara Batton, Peggy Donnell, Jean Elliott, Roberta Elliott, Missy Monning, and Joyce Wright.

Winners in the run-off election will be determined by a simple majority vote. All women students are eligible to vote, said Norma Chapman, this year's AWS president.

JONES . . .

(Continued From Page 1) our conclusion that in the thinking of this generation of Texas Tech students, the spring rodeo and Western Days cannot be completely divorced from each other," added President Jones.

After the end of this school year, the activities of the Rodeo Association will be reviewed to determine if probation may well be removed. Dr. Jones reported a positive leadership evident in the Association during this year.

The least seriously involved of the three organizations, according to the president, was the Rodeo Team, which has been restored to normal off-campus activity.

Dr. Jones did not favor the restoration of Western Days, and encouraged that Tech Students organize a different kind of celebration for the spring semester.

"I feel with deep conviction that it would be to the credit of the student body and the whole institution if a new type of spring semester celebration were created, and Western Days written off as no longer adequately accomplishing their purpose," declared the president.

He added that from an original positive fun-making event, the observance of Western Days has become negative and in some respects, destructive.

"The development of a 'new type' event would get a special spring semester activity back on the calendar much earlier than Western Days can be permitted to resume," he said.

Dr. Jones also voiced hopes that future student conduct would no longer indicate a disposition on the part of a relatively small number of students to turn a fun fest into an occasion of "license and embarrassment" to the entire college.

HOW TO BE A THUMPING BIG SUCCESS ON CAMPUS

While up in the attic last week hiding from a bill collector I came across a letter, yellow now with age, that dear old Dad had sent me when I was a freshman. I read the letter again and recalled, with many a sigh and not a few tears, what an inspiration it had been to me back in my freshman days. I reproduce it below in the hope that it may light your way as it did mine.

"Dear Son, (Dad always called me Son. This was short for Sonnenberg, which was originally my first name. I later traded it with a man named Max. He threw in two outfielders and a left handed pitcher . . . But I digress.)

"Dear Son, (Dad wrote) "I suppose you are finding college very big and bewildering, and maybe a little frightening too. Well, it need not be that way if you will follow a few simple rules.

"First of all, if you have any problems, take them to your teachers. They want to help you. That's what they are there for. Perhaps they do seem rather aloof and forbidding, but that is only because they are so busy. You will find your teachers warm as toast and friendly as pups if you will call on them at an hour when they are not overly busy. Four a.m., for instance.

"Second, learn to budget your time. What with classes, activities, studying, and social life all competing for your time, it is easy to fall into sloppy habits. You must set up a rigid schedule and stick to it. Remember, there are only 24 hours in a day. Three of these hours are spent in class. For every hour in class, you must, of course, spend two hours studying. So there go six more hours. Then, as everyone knows, for every hour of studying, you must spend two hours sleeping. That accounts for another twelve hours. Then there are meals—two hours each for breakfast and lunch, three hours for dinner. Never forget, Sonnenberg, you must chew each mouthful 288 times. You show me a backward student, and I'll show you a man who bolts his food.

"But college is more than just sleeping, eating, and studying. There are also many interesting and broadening activities, and you would be cheating yourself if you neglected them. You'll want to give at least an hour a day to the campus newspaper and yearbook, and, of course, another hour each to the dramatic and music clubs. And let's say a total of three hours daily to the stamp club, the foreign affairs club, and the debating society. Then, of course, a couple of hours for fencing and bird-walking, a couple more for square dancing and basket weaving, and one or two for cribbage and ice-sculpturing.

"Finally, we come to the most important part of each day—what I call 'The Quiet Time.' This is a period in which you renew yourself—just relax and think green thoughts and smoke Philip Morris Cigarettes.

"Well, Sonnenberg, I guess that's about all. Your mother sends her love. She has just finished putting up rather a large batch of pickles—in fact, 350,000 jars. I told her that with you away at school, we would not need so many, but lovable old Mother is such a creature of habit that though I hit her quite hard several times, she insisted on going ahead.

Your ever lovin' Dad."

SMU Mustangs Clash With Tech

By FLOYD WOOD
Toreador Sports Editor

Sixth-ranked Southern Methodist, one of the strongest Southwest Conference Champions in recent years, will tangle with Texas Tech tonight at 7:30 at Wichita, Kansas.

The contest will be one of the first-round pairings in the NCAA playoffs. The winner will play the University of Houston in the second round.

Tech is given little chance to survive the attack of the stampeding Mustangs. The Raiders have been badly crippled by the loss of regulars Jim Reed and Du-Wayne Blackshear plus reserves Earl Redwine and Sterling Gibson. Reed and Blackshear are ineligible by a ruling which permits players to compete for only three years. The pair played as freshmen on the varsity. Redwine and Gibson, ex-servicemen, have not been at Tech a full calendar year.

Three starters and two much-used reserves will probably make up the Raiders starting quintet. Expected to start will be Gene Carpenter, Ned Underwood, Logan Cummings, Harry Scaling and Bobby Wilson.

Carpenter, a vastly improved player over early season, is the only senior on the squad and is expected to carry the brunt of the attack.

The Mustangs will throw against Tech one of the finest SWC squads to emerge since 1947 and the one expected to go farthest in representing the area. They had a 22-2 season record which includes a 10-0 conference mark.

Big Jim Krebs is one of the top men for the Dallasites. Other starters may be Larry Showalter, Bobby Mills, Rich Herrscher and Joel Krog.

Lubbock fans can follow the game on station KFYO with Jack Dale doing the description.

Golfers Take Second At Laredo

Texas Tech's golf team finished second in their event in the Border Olympics, held this past weekend in Laredo. In their second effort of the year, Coach Warren Cantrell's squad posted a 36-hole total of 590, second only to North Texas States, winner of four of the five tournaments held.

The Red Raiders were paced by Bobby Westfall, with a 145 score. Other Raider scores were: John Paul Cain, 146; John Farquhar, 148; Don Whalen, 151.

Raider thincads failed to place in the track events, as records were set in many events. The Raiders were hurt considerably by the ruling that freshmen were ineligible to run in the meet.

The Raider golfers will see action again this weekend, as they enter the Southwestern Recreation Meet, in Ft. Worth.

Speech Department To Hold Workshop

The fifth annual workshop in dramatics and forensics for high school students will be conducted by the speech department, June 25-July 7.

The workshop is open to any interested high school sophomore, junior or outstanding freshman of the 1955-56 school year, according to Dr. P. Merville Larson, speech department head.

3 Raiders Make All-Border Team

Jim Reed, Texas Tech forward, received a double honor this week by being named the Border Conference's most valuable player and first team all-conference.

Du-Wayne Blackshear, number two man for the Raiders, was named by the conference on the second team.

Gene Carpenter, only one of the big three eligible to play against SMU tonight, received honorable mention notice.

It is the second time for Reed to win the most valuable player award. In 1954 as a sophomore he also won the award. He has been an all-conference performer for three straight years.
