

DISCUSS PEACE CORPS—Talking over the merits of joining the Peace Corps are Donna Lifshin, San Diego, Calif., and Jim Martingale, Texarkana, Tex. Martingale and his seeing eye dog did a tour with the Corps in Ecuador before returning to the States for recruiting duty. They are with a team of four Peace Corps recruiters on campus this week. (See story below)

Blind volunteer says no heroes in Peace Corps

"There are no heroes in the Peace Corps, but no one has a more important job," says Jim Martingale, a representative of the Peace Corps and visitor to the Tech campus.

Martingale said the American public is not well informed on the ideas and ideals of the Peace Corps on a large scale and on the individual volunteer—whether he be in Washington or Calcutta, India.

"Evolution plays a definite role in the Peace Corps," he said. Corps work changes the individual and his attitudes, and stories on the Corps have had a certain effect on national attitudes.

THERE IS LITTLE disillusionment in the Peace Corps because of the maturity of the volunteer, Martingale said.

His first assignment was to Ecuador. Martingale, who is blind himself, taught in a school for the blind and deaf.

His next assignment was working with Indians in the back country of Ecuador.

"THE LARGEST PROBLEM to overcome was that of apathy among these Indians," Jim said.

The living conditions of the Indians were unlike any he had ever seen. By American standards, the living conditions of the urban, middle class Ecuadorian are extremely low; those of the rural Indian are pathetic, Martingale said.

"In order to help the Indians agree to the idea of community money making projects, we had to first convince the leaders of the community. We first had to get acquainted with the power structure of the villages," the Peace Corps representative said.

PEACE CORPS VOLUNTEERS found out whom to approach in the community in order to get other village members to agree to the plan.

"The Indians were skeptical for months until the profits from the projects started drifting back," according to Martingale.

Another problem with which volunteers had to cope was the customs and superstitions of the Indians.

"As the Indians believed in evil spirits, they would never consent to come to our meetings at night. We soon learned to hold our community meetings during the day," he said.

THE PROBLEM of adjusting to a new country and different customs is not easy for some members of the Peace Corps. However, the only trouble he encountered was in the bus system of Ecuador. Since the Ecuadorians are a short people, he found the buses to be uncomfortable for his 6-foot 4-inch frame.

Martingale found some of the ideas and customs of the Ecuadorians in contrast with those of the United States. Business is considered to be another aspect of the social life of the Ecuadorian. Appointments are never made for a certain time. The Ecuadorian is not known for his promptness, and he isn't expected to meet business appointments on time, Martingale said.

A native of Texarkana, he majored in American history and economics at the University of Texas. He went to graduate school at East Texas State University. He joined the Peace Corps in June of 1964.

Speakers brochure available

The 1966-67 edition of the Texas Tech Speakers Bureau Brochure, which lists 125 Tech faculty and staff members available to discuss a wide variety of topics before local and area clubs and organizations, is off the press.

Ron Hamm, Director of the Tech Department of Public Information which publishes the 12-page booklet, said the publication already had gone into the mail to more than 150 civic clubs throughout Lubbock and the South Plains.

The brochure contains the names of 125 Tech faculty and staff members, and lists 23 specific subjects and a multitude of topics which the speakers are prepared to discuss. Subjects range from aerospace studies to speech.

THE CURRENT EDITION is larger and contains more speakers than the slightly less than 100 listed last year, including several subject areas, such as law, which have recently been added to the university curriculum.

"The list represents the broad spectrum of talent available at Tech," Hamm said, "and the many specialists who are glad to share their knowledge and training. The brochure provides the means of bringing these experts and the public together."

Brochures are available on request, by mail or by calling Tech, Extension 4136. The organizational representative in search of a speaker may call the faculty member direct at the Tech Extension number listed in the brochure.

No fee is charged by the Speakers Bureau. Groups or individuals making arrangements for a speaker will be expected, however, to pay a minimum of 10 cents per mile in travel expenses, plus any other costs incurred for food and lodging.

Republicans rebound from 1964, leap to new victories

Hike due for dorms

Room and board charges will be increased on all residence halls beginning with the Fall semester of 1967, Guy Moore, director of residence halls, said yesterday.

"The reason for the hike," Moore said, "is the increase in the cost of living, food and the new dorms have to be paid for."

Charges for room and board in West, Sneed, Bledsoe, Gordon, Doak, Drane, Horn and Knapp Halls will be increased from the present $66 a month to $75. The total bill for the long term will be $720.

Cost of living will have increased from $74 a month to $83 a month in Thompson, Gaston, Wells, Carpenter and Weeks Halls. The total for the nine-month period will be $786.

ROOM AND BOARD in the air-conditioned residence halls, Walls and Gates, Hulén and Clement, and Stangel and Murdough, will cost the student $850 a year. It is an increase of $10 a month.

The initial room and board payment has increased, also. "There is no particular reason for this," Moore said, "it's just the system."

He said each dorm is supposed to be refurbished every five years.

MANY OF THE RESIDENTS in Gordon Hall said the dorm would be a women's dorm next fall. Moore said all the halls will remain as they are now. "We notify the students of dorm switches from eight to twelve months in advance," he said.

"Students in a Hall would be consulted before a dorm change," he said. "If needed in the future, Gordon or Bledsoe would be ideal for women."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans rebounding from a 1964 debacle leaped to new victories Wednesday in belated election returns that menaced President Johnson's plans and gave glitter to possible GOP presidential candidates for 1968.

The Republicans slashed more deeply into Democratic majorities in Congress where some of President Johnson's projects for building that "Great Society" squeaked through by as little as two, four or five votes.

They rolled up a net gain of 47 House seats and drew a bead on the last two in doubt, for the most impressive off-year election showing since the Democrats scored 49 gains in 1958. Over the years an out-party gain of 40 is traditional in off years.

THEY CHALKED UP three Senate gains in the final count.

The most spectacular individual conquests were in governorships—a fulcrum for power in presidential elections. Republicans buttressed their strength in the biggest electoral vote states—California, New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio.

The bright new star here was Ronald Reagan, the former movie and television actor who flashed to a meteoric victory in a race for governor of California. A former Democrat, Reagan emerged as a potential presidential choice for 1968 if the Republicans stay with a conservative.

There were other outstanding Republican wins besides Reagan's easy one over Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

GEORGE W. ROMNEY overwhelmingly got a third term as governor of Michigan and helped pull his Senate stablemate with him.

Robert P. Griffin, the congressman Romney shifted to the Senate to plug a vacancy, won a full term of his own with a hand clutching the flying Romney coat-tail. In the process, he bumped off Michigan's former six-term Democratic governor, G. Mennen Williams.

Arkansas. In nearby Illinois, Charles H. Percy smashed the bid of that aging, graying old Democratic battler, Paul H. Douglas, to stay in the Senate. The one-time boy wonder of business, buffeted during the campaign by the murder of a daughter, is one of the more moderate Republican topnotchers. Romney is another.

Then there was Richard M. Nixon, the former vice president, who evidently is eyeing another pass at the White House. He wasn't running for anything this time. But he labored mightily in the Republican vineyards all through the campaign, all over the country, and perhaps got some rainchecks for reciprocal support in 1968.

IN THE HOUSE, where Democrats started with a 295-140 margin, they had elected 247 members and led in the last undecided race. Republicans won 187 seats.

IN THE SENATE, Republican gains made the standing 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans. Republicans won 10 new governorships and lost two for a net gain of eight. That left the Republicans a 25-24 edge with one race in Georgia undecided.

There were 35 contests for governor, 35 for Senate, and 435 for the House in Tuesday's voting.

A numerical majority is 218 in the House, 51 in the Senate.

HIGHLIGHTS of Tuesday's Elections:

GOVERNORSHIPS

With 35 governorships at stake, Republicans won 23, Democrats 11. One is undecided.

The procession of Republican victories was led by Ronald Reagan's landslide triumph in California and George Romney's overwhelming win in Michigan. Nelson A. Rockefeller's re-election in New York came as his brother, Winthrop, also a Republican, won in Massachusetts elected Republican Edward W. Brooke, the first Negro ever to win election to the Senate by popular vote.

SENATE

Thirty-five Senate seats were filled. Republicans scored a net gain of three, with victories by Charles H. Percy over Sen. Paul H. Douglas in Illinois; Howard H. Baker Jr., son-in-law of Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, in Tennessee; and by Gov. Mark O. Hatfield in Oregon.

HOUSE

Of the 435 house races, Democrats won 246 and were leading in two while Republicans won 187 for GOP pickup of 47 seats.

In spotlight races, Republican Robert Taft Jr., defeated Democratic Rep. John J. Gilligan in Ohio; and Republican James M. Richardson unseated Democratic Rep. Harold D. Cooley of North Carolina, for 16 years chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

'Operation Seniorita' just like dream; Band impresses 30 Mexican visitors

By BRENDA GREENE and MARILYN WHITESIDES

"We were especially impressed with the conduct and precision of the Tech band," said Trinidad Manrique, one of the thirty visiting students of "Operation Seniorita."

"We are looking forward to seeing them perform in their uniforms at the football game Saturday night," she said.

Following a welcoming address by Dr. W. M. Pearce, vice-president for academic affairs, in the absence of President Grover E. Murray, the young women were taken on a tour of the Tech campus. After a visit to Wall Hall, several of the senioritas said they liked the picture of dorm life so well, that they wanted to come to Tech just to live in the dorms.

"THE HOME ECONOMICS department is very interesting," and we feel that the home management house is an excellent plan in training for the home and family life," Susan Marguez said.

What the students were looking forward to the most was shopping in American department stores and dress shops. Following lunch in Tech Union, they were given that chance at a local dress shop and the Tech Bookstore.

"One of the most fascinating things we saw was the copying machine in the library," one girl said. "We have never seen anything like that before in Mexico."

COMPLETING THE TOUR was a reception in the Coronado Room of the Union hosted by the education department, Los Tertulianos, and Sigma Delta Pi, Spanish honorary.

The group was entertained by the Tech stage band.

The purpose of "Operation Seniorita" is to give the women a chance to see

American democracy in action in the fields of health, welfare, culture and education; a better understanding of the United States through observation at the grass roots level; and to impart these ideas and impressions to their students, fellow teachers, families and friends.

The students will stay in Lubbock until Sunday and will attend the Baylor-Tech game Saturday. During half-time ceremonies, they will be introduced and presented honorary state citizenship by Dr. Pearce.

RANGING FROM 16-18 years, the students were chosen from 60 qualified coeds with A+ averages. The National School for Teachers is a three year professional school of about 3,000. Upon graduation, the senioritas will teach in rural schools in Mexico or go on to universities.

Although only two could speak a few words of English, they were not seemingly handicapped on their visit to the states.

During the 5½ day stay in Lubbock, the girls are sampling a taste of American family life by staying in the homes of members of the Junior Council, which has sponsored the program for the past five years.

THE REMAINING DAYS in Lubbock for the senioritas will be spent touring spots of interest in the area, including Reese Air Force Base, an elementary school and Lubbock Christian College. They will also attend a style show at Dunlap's Department store. Sunday morning the young women will attend mass at Christ the King Church before returning to Mexico City.

"This trip will truly be an unforgettable one for us," they said. "It is like a dream."

ENJOYING VISIT — Thirty young women from Mexico toured the Tech campus Wednesday as part of "Operation Seniorita." Vice President for Academic Affairs William M. Pearce welcomed the group in the absence of President Grover E. Murray. The young ladies described the visit as "just like a dream."

Dean Tinsley heads talks of possible reorganization

Dr. Willa Tinsley, Dean of the School of Home Economics, will lead a discussion on the "Potential of Reorganization" in Chicago today at the meeting of the Home Economics Administrators of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

THE MEETING will be multipurpose: the deans, directors, and administrators plan to organize a new association; present "position papers" of specific points of view or points of reference; and, discuss the potential of the reorganization of Home Economics Administrators.

Dr. H. F. Robinson, Administrative Dean for Research of North Carolina State University will speak on "Supporting Higher Education."

"Current Social Problems and the Contribution Higher Education Can Make to Them" is the topic of Dr. Grace Henderson, Professor Emerita of Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Stanley Jones, acting dean of the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Illinois will speak on "Urban Living and Higher Education."

CADET OF THE MONTH—John W. McFadden has been selected Texas Tech Air Force ROTC cadet of the month. A sophomore zoology student at Tech, McFadden is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McFadden of El Paso. Competition for the cadet honor is based on general performance, military appearance, participation in corps activities and attendance. (Tech Photo)

IFC

The Interfraternity Council will have a smoker today in the Tech Union ballroom, at 7:30 p.m. All prospective rushers are invited to come and sign up for rush.

Tech educational television needs station identification

Texas Tech Educational Television station is offering $25 as a prize in its contest to find a symbol for the station. Deadline for entering the contest is 10 p.m. Nov. 21.

Entries must be on artwork suitable for use as a station identification slide. Channel 5 ("channel" may be abbreviated or omitted) must appear within the entire artwork in an area that fits a 4 (horizontal) by 3 (vertical) ratio.

Symbol entries must also be put on a letterhead for the station. The following information must be included on the letterhead:

- Channel 5 (the word "channel" may be abbreviated.)
- The call letters (KTXT-TV)
- The address (Box 4408, Tech Station, Lubbock, Texas 79409)

The telephone number (A.C. 806-762-8811 X2209)

Some reference to Tech
National Educational Television in any size desired anywhere on the page

Each person may enter as many symbols as desired as long as all rules are obeyed. All entries must be submitted to Bill Williams, Educational Television, Texas Tech campus.

Winning entries become the property of the station with judging being done by the station management. Each separate entry should have the name, address, and phone number of the person submitting on the back.

For further information, call Bill Williams at the station.

Amandes outlines law school plans

Richard B. Amandes, dean of Tech's new law school, outlined his plans for Pi Sigma Alpha members and other interested persons, Tuesday.

Amandes said enrollment for the first year was expected to be about 75. Nine applications have been received, several of which carried outstanding transcripts.

THE QUALITY of the first class to graduate from Tech's law school is very important, said Amandes, as it will establish its reputation for the next 10 or 15 years.

A faculty of six, including Amandes and the law librarian, U. B. Jones, will be assembled by the end of January. So far, one faculty member has been signed, and two more are pending.

For the first year, Amandes expressed a preference for experienced law teachers, but said in later years, previous teaching requirements would likely be waived. The curriculum will be adjusted somewhat to the talents and specialties of the faculty.

THE LAW LIBRARY has received several donations from such places as the American Liberty Oil Co., Frito-Lay of Dallas, and Justice Pope of the Supreme Court. Amandes also said President Grover Murray has been "very encouraging" about book budgets for future years.

Amandes said he had already applied with the Texas Bar Association and the American Bar Association for accreditation, and that inspection and accreditation would probably come at the end of the school's first year in operation.

THE HOUSING for the school will hopefully be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1968. The building will be the product of extensive research of law buildings all over the country, and will introduce an innovation in courtroom design, which Amandes plans to keep secret until the building is complete. Federal funds would have been applied for, to aid in construction.

Stats aren't for losers

Winning coaches have insisted through the years that "statistics are for losers." That stand is not intended as a reflection against individual skills, of course, merely a philosophy that the scoreboard tells a far more important story than the statistical sheet. Certainly, no one will point a disparaging finger at the leaders of SWC individual statistics through eight weeks of play.

In the rushing department, Gilbert's 835 yards is a record pace for a sophomore. Under Gilbert is Mac White with 553, Rice's Robby Shelton with 545 and Mike Leinert with 493. Leinert ranks second behind Gilbert in yards average per carry. Gilbert has a 5.5 average; Leinert, a five yard per carry average.

Edd Hargett leads two categories in individual statistics. His 1,400 yards total offense and 1,387 passing put him in the lead over Terry Southall and John Scovell. Scovell bumped Baylor's Southall out of second place in total offense, however, and is only 88 yards from regaining the lead from Hargett.

Mike Leinert still leads the kickoff return department with 345 yards on 17 returns.

Kenny Vinyard is still low in punting stats. However, four punters are averaging better than 40 yards per punt. Vinyard's average is 39 yards.

Larry Gilbert still holds a strong lead over the receiving department although he only caught two against Oklahoma State.

With the conference race

rounding the last turn, here are the team statistics:

Tech Picadors meet Texas A&M Frosh

Texas Tech's surprising young Picadors take their undefeated record to Midland tonight as they meet the Texas A&M freshmen.

The Picadors have been successful on their first two conference outings, beating the Rice Owlets and the Arkansas Shoats.

The Aggie frosh have played three games, losing the first and winning the last two.

The freshmen Farmers, rated the best since Bear Bryant's days on the Brazos, represented the major surprise of last year's recruiting season and a major breakthrough for Gene Stallings.

The Aggie frosh will probably open with a talented quarterback, Barney Harris. Harris is the top candidate to take Edd Hargett's place when Hargett retires or is injured.

Tech Coach Berl Huffman is guardedly optimistic over tonight's battle after a good showing by the squad against Rice, Arkansas and the varsity redshirts.

"They're beginning to hit a little harder," Huffman said, "and I think the A&M boys will feel the difference."

Poking fun at efforts to motivate the team, Huffman said, "Shucks, it's harder than you think. The boys that the Aggies clobbered last year are all redshirts now."
