Epithets bury hopes

PARIS — Hopes for forward movement in the Vietnam peace talks became buried under a shower of epithets and invective Thursday in the third meeting of the four delegations.

The United States, North Vietnam, South Vietnam and the National Liberation Front of the Viet Cong agreed there was no progress at all after six hours and 20 minutes of debate. The four will meet again next Thursday.

"It was a long day," said U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, "and although we do our very best to achieve quick progress, the going is hard. Therefore there must be no false optimism."

The Viet Cong's NLF contended bluntly that the talks "can make no progress" unless South Vietnam's government is ousted and the Americans deal directly with the front. After the session Tran Buu Kiem, chief of the NLF delegation, said: "The conference has not made one step forward."

Pueblo crew never briefed

CORONADO, Calif. — The Pueblo's crew never was briefed on the intelligence ship's mission, two enlisted men testified Thursday.

"The crew was told it was not illegal... that we were just carrying out our duties," said Charles B. Law Jr., the ship's senior quartermaster.

"So no one had occasion to think about whether it was hazardous duty?" asked Rear Adm. Edward Grimm, a member of the five-admiral court of inquiry into the ship's capture a year ago and the 11 months those aboard spent in North Korean prisons.

"No, sir," replied Law, 27, of Chehalis, Wash. The only signalman on board, Wendell Leach, 26, of Houston, Tex., agreed the crew never was briefed on the mission and said when she arrived off the Korean coast "some of them didn't even know what land they were looking at."

Dunny R. Tuck, 31, of Richmond, Va., one of two civilians aboard, said he ate and slept in the same quarters as the ship's officers and the mission wasn't even discussed much among them.

Will prove 'conspiracy'

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison told a court-room Thursday he would prove that President John F. Kennedy was killed by a shot fired from in front and died "as the result of a conspiracy."

"The evidence will show," Garrison told a jury, "that the final shot which struck him came from in front of him, knocking him backwards in the car."

Garrison asked the jury to convict Clay L. Shaw of conspiring to assassinate Kennedy in 1963.

Over repeated defense objections, Garrison—interrupted in midspeech—won the right to, in effect, put the Warren Commission report on trial alongside the 55-year-old Shaw, prominent retired New Orleans businessman.

Laird freezes antimissiles

WASHINGTON — The Nixon Administration has ordered a partial freeze in major work on the $5.5-billion U.S. defense against nuclear missiles.

The Pentagon said Thursday that Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird last week directed the Army to postpone any new work on the antiballistic missile system pending a high level review.

The action came after Laird received word the House Armed Services Committee would refuse to approve construction of the Sentinel antimissile defense until it had a clarification of administration plans.

The Pentagon's review of the controversial Sentinel system, which was approved by the Johnson administration, is expected to take until early March.

In the meantime, the Army will halt land purchase proceedings and put off starting any new antimissile construction.

210 goldfish gulped

SAN ANTONIO — Charles Winfield, 19, of Pharr, Tex., set Thursday what St. Mary's University publicists and students say is a world's record for goldfish swallowing. Winfield stood before a cheering crowd of about 200 students and faculty members to down 210 live gold fish in one hour and 40 minutes.

The old record of 199 was set in 1966 at St. Francis College, Philadelphia, Pa., according to a student government spokesman and St. Mary's news releases. A 145-pound sophomore, Winfield said that he had been in training for some time. "I ate a lot and tried not to think about it," he said of his practice meals.

The first 100 fish went down with ease. At about the 180-fish point, however, Winfield appeared green about the gills. But he still made it through to 210.

The stunt was part of activities during university week at St. Mary's.

Says crime rate static

AUSTIN — Texas' prison population has remained steady the past few years, and the man who runs the prisons says he has no confidence in statistics that show a booming crime rate.

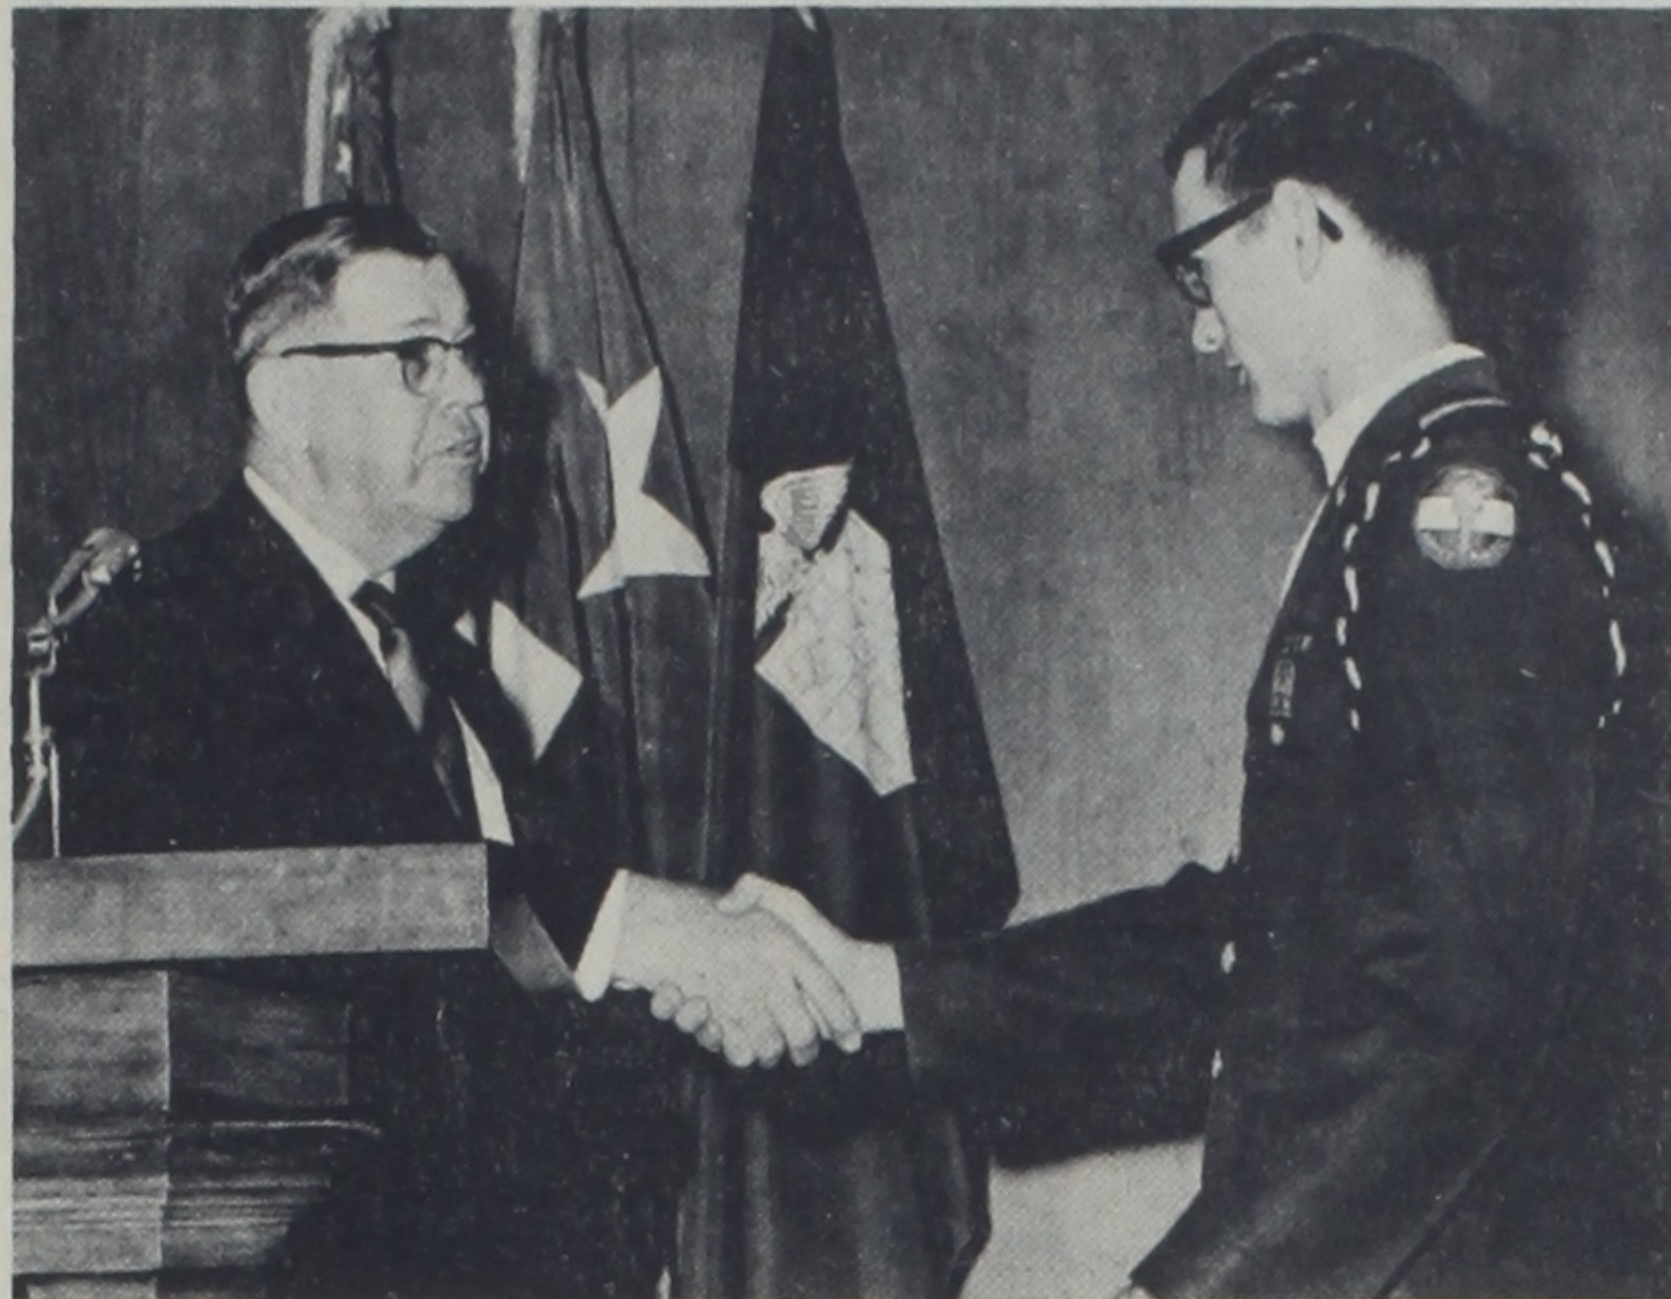

Dr. George Beto was asked Thursday at a House Appropriations Committee hearing on the prison budget how he accounted for the static inmate population in the face of increasing crime.

"I am not convinced that crime is increasing so fast," Beto said.

"I don't have any confidence in these statistics. I don't think there's been the increase in crime that they are crying about."

The number of inmates has remained at about 12,500 for several years, he said.

He attributed the mounting crime figures to better crime reporting.

With afternoon seminar

Joyce symposium begins today

A comparative literature symposium, "James Joyce: His Place in World Literature," conducted by the Interdepartmental Committee of Comparative Literature will begin at 3 p.m. today and will continue through Saturday with lectures and seminars by five noted scholars of Joyce.

The symposium includes two seminars. The first, "Is Ulysses Immoral or All-Moral," directed by the William T. Noon, S. J., professor of English at Le Moyne College, will begin at 3 p.m. Friday; and the second, "James Joyce in Contemporary World Literature," directed by Dr. Ben D. Kimpel, chairman of comparative literature and professor of English at the University of Arkansas will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday. Both seminars will be in the Foreign Language and Math Building, room 9.

Attendance at the seminars will be limited to 35 persons and are almost filled, according to Dr. W. T. Zyla, chairman of the Interdepartmental Committee on Comparative Literature. However, Zyla said that some exceptions may be made to the limitation at the time of the seminar. Anyone wishing to register for the seminar should contact Zyla.

The symposium will also include four lectures with related discussion afterwards.

The lecture, "Ulysses and World Literature," given by Dr. Thomas F. Staley, associate dean of the Graduate School and associate professor of English at the University of Tulsa, followed by the lecture "The Polyglot Poetry of Finnegans Wake," given by Dr. Dounia Bunis Christiani, associate professor of English, Wisconsin State University at Eau Claire, will begin at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the University Theater.

"The Religious Position of James Joyce," given by the Rev. Noon and "Criticism of James Joyce's Works: A Formalist Approach," given by Dr. William J. Handy, associate dean and professor of English at the University of Oregon, will begin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday in the University Theater.

The lectures are free and open to the public. Registration for them may be accomplished by contacting Zyla or at the theater before the lecture begins.

The seminars will last one and one-half hours and the lectures 15 to 20 minutes, followed by the discussion conducted by three of the scholars.

Student services appropriations still available

Organizations wanting appropriations from the student services fee should pick up application blanks between 8:30 a.m. and noon in the Student Government Office, room 161, Administration Building.

Applications must be turned in by 5:30 p.m. March 7. Interviews will be held to determine appropriations.

Anyone from the Schools of Home Economics or Education interested in applying for the position of associate justice of the Tech Supreme Court should leave his name and telephone number in Senator Gary Justice's mail box in the Student Government Office.

Nixon plans European tour later this month

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon said Thursday he will visit five Western European nations this month in hopes of "strengthening and revitalizing the American-European community."

Nixon said also he will begin calling American troops home when he is satisfied South Vietnamese forces can take on a greater share of their own nation's defense.

And he said the United States will now take the initiative in trying to defuse the Middle East crisis.

Presiding over his second news conference, in the East Room of the White House, the President and his questioners bore down heavily on foreign affairs.

But he accepted a suggestion that he is distrusted by some American Negroes and said "I can only say that, by my actions as President, I hope to rectify that."

Nixon's first foreign mission as President will take him to heads of government in Brussels, London, Bonn, Rome, and Paris. He will go also to West Berlin and will visit Pope Paul VI at the Vatican, and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, head of the U.S. delegation to the Paris peace talks.

The week-long trip will begin Feb. 23.

Nixon emphasized it will be "a working trip rather than a protocol one." He's not even taking his wife along.

"As far as the agenda is concerned for these meetings, it is wide open," he said, describing the mission as "only a first step in achieving a purpose that I have long felt is vital to the future of peace for the United States and for the world. That is the strengthening and revitalization of the American-European community."

Nixon said he has no plans to confer in Paris with North Vietnamese or National Liberation Front representatives to the peace conference.

And while he said he believes a meeting with Soviet leaders "should take place at a future time," he feels the groundwork for such talks should be laid carefully, in part by such visits to allies as he is about to begin.

The President said he hopes as a result of the visit "this great alliance, which was brought together by a common fear 20 years ago, will be held together now and strengthened by a common sense of purpose."

NIXON WAS ASKED about a statement by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu that Saigon's army is capable of relieving a sizable number of U.S. fighting men.

"I do not want an American boy to be in Vietnam for one day longer than is necessary for our national interest," the President said. "As our commanders in the field determine that the South Vietnamese are able to assume a greater portion of the responsibility for the defense of their own territory, troops will come back."

ROTC brigade head installed

Charles Kenneth Morrison, Lubbock senior, was installed as brigade commander of Tech Army ROTC in ceremonies Thursday in the Student Union Ballroom.

Morrison is replacing James S. Kay, Seymour senior, who has completed his military service training.

A citation was presented to Candace Crawford, Commander of Army Corpsdettes, by the 4th Army Headquarters at Ft. Sam Houston and signed by Lt. General Frances Murdock, Deputy Commanding General of Reserve Forces. The citation to the Corpsdettes, was given to them for organizing a regional group similar to the Corpsdettes.

A letter was read from Dr. Grover E. Murray, Tech president, commending Army ROTC and the special organizations of ROTC for the work they did as color guard for the president of Chad.

Faculty Council opposes 'Texas Tech University'

The Honorable Austin, Texas

Dear -----:

We the Faculty Council (all members of the teaching staff, instructors rank and above, and all administrators) of Texas Technological College, ask that you do NOT vote to change the name of this institution to "Texas Tech University."

We do this by authority of the UNANIMOUS vote of the Council, assembled in called meeting on Jan. 22, 1969. Moreover, authorized by a vote of 367 for and 2 against (Council members with tenure), we urge that you give us the name "Texas State University."

The Council acts in accord with duly invested authority. The Board of Directors of Texas Technological College, "mindful of the need for assistance in making policy decisions," established the Faculty Council on Dec. 9, 1967. The Council's charter, provisional for one year, was approved without time limitation by the Board on Jan. 18, 1969.

At that meeting the Board also announced its intention to recommend the name "Texas Tech University."

The Board has never asked the Council's advice about a suitable name for the institution. The Board knew well, however, that the Council's predecessor, the faculty-elected Faculty Advisory Committee, had many times notified the Board of the Faculty's unyielding opposition to the name "Texas Tech University."

The Board was fully aware, moreover, of the faculty's determination in 1965 to appear in Austin for committee hearings on the "Texas Tech University" bills actually introduced in the 1965 Legislative session. The Board knows why these bills were never reported out of committee. Yet the Board has again proposed a name which their own Faculty Council knows to be misleading, inadequate, undignified and professionally and academically harmful.

We share with you a deep concern for excellence in higher education in the State of Texas. That concern, combined with our pride in the State itself, compels us to beseech you to give a non-limiting name to an emerging university like ours that has become state-wide in its service and multi-purpose in the diversity of its offerings.

To call such a university a "Tech" is inappropriate and casts reproach in our state.

By authority of the Faculty Council, we urge you, the final authority, to work for a dignified, appropriate and truly descriptive name to replace the name "Texas Technological College."

Respectfully yours,
Dr. Paul V. Prior, Chairman
Executive Committee, Faculty Council

Miss Playmate deadline extended

Deadline for entering the Miss Playmate contest has been extended until Wednesday. The entry fee of $7.50 and the application form must be turned in to room 103 in the Journalism Building by 5 p.m. Wednesday. Appointments for entrants' pictures should be made with publications photographers in the Journalism Building basement.

The winner of the Miss Playmate contest will be featured on the cover of the Playboy magazine section of the La Ventana, Tech's yearbook.

Editorial Campus seeks proper name

The Tech Board of Directors will be on campus today for committee meetings in preparation for its public meeting Saturday morning.

We wish the board members could have witnessed the feeling of dismay on the Tech campus immediately after the decision of Jan. 18 to seek the name "Texas Tech University" for our school.

The letter printed on the frontpage reflects the faculty's reaction. The Student Senate reaffirmed Tuesday its support of "Texas State University" and pledged to fight the adoption of the name submitted by the board to the Legislature.

The third resolved clause of the Senate resolution states: "Resolved: That this body of student representatives realizes that the important aspects of problems such as this are not the condemnations of the present, but rather the significance lies in the implications for the future; . . . and we pledge ourselves to employ the wisdom to be gained from this lesson of the past in helping us to guide our directions for the future; a more effective rapport between the student body and the Board of Directors seems to be our first direction for the days ahead."

This is not a case of rebellious faculty and students challenging the board for control of the school. It is a case of almost the entire faculty and a majority of the students seeking the proper name for our school.

We hope the board will recognize our intent, acknowledge our legitimacy and honor our opinions.

bill seyle :

Mike Riddle, president of the Student Association, returned to the constituency Wednesday in a manner reminiscent of his campaign last spring.

Only this time he was not telling people what he would do if elected. He was asking them what course he should take as president. A small gathering on the eighth floor of Coleman Hall met with Riddle for about an hour to discuss the complaints of the average student.

AFTER DISCUSSING the name-change for most of the session, Riddle asked each of the men in the room to name his one most serious gripe. He found out they were most angry about the housing and parking situations.

It was surprising at first that name-change was third in the concern of the Coleman students, but after thinking about it, it makes sense.

Riddle schedules dorm conferences

After all, we are faced with the same housing conditions we faced last year. This time a year ago the Student Association was planning to take the administration to court. Why should students be expected to be mollified just by the passage of time.

EFFORTS ARE BEING made to remedy the housing predicament, hopefully for next fall. Parking lots will soon be expanded, which, though not the final solution, should ease the problem for a while.

The old food complaint was also aired. The disturbing thing about food complaints is they are the same ones that have been brought up year after year. A few of the classics: having to choose between the best offerings one day and the worst the next, "bad streaks" during which the food is especially bad for a week or two, repetitious salads and desserts.

None of the men expressed confidence in the normal channel of complaint (through the food representative in each dorm) because they say they never see any results.

IN DISCUSSING the name-change, most of the Coleman crowd was opposed to the name "Texas Tech University" proposed by the Tech Board of Directors.

It was more difficult to determine what name they were for, however. "Texas State University" was the most popular name, but about half of those who opposed "Texas Tech University" were not sure what would be the best name.

When Riddle moved on to Wells Hall he was greeted with a wing meeting of both wings of the second floor and far different conditions.

THEY NEVER QUIT discussing the name-change in this meeting. Riddle inadvertently uncovered a few "Tech" fans. Several defended the name, but defenses were of the sentimental mold, such as "It just sounds good."

"Tech" obviously has inertia, a valuable force on its side. It is difficult to change something, especially a name and any new name will sound awkward now. It is unwise, however, to let something permanent as initial awkwardness determine the course to be followed.

IT HAS BEEN 12 years since Texas Woman's University was called Texas State College for Women. Anyone who calls it TSCW today is likely to get a blank stare. It only takes a couple of years to adjust to a name-change.

Riddle discovered a few things he did not know before. He plans to visit more dorms next week for the same kind of discussions. A good response from the students might result in a solution of some complaints.

Speakers Series invitation receives light response

The University Speakers Committee has received light response to its invitation for submission of names of possible speakers for the 1969-70 academic year, Dr. D. M. Vigness, committee chairman, said Thursday.

"We appreciate the response we have received, but it has been rather light," Vigness said. "The committee has received a total of about 75 submissions."

He also said they were looking for a man well known in the sciences, such as chemistry, astronomy, physics or biology.

"WE ARE CONTINUING our search for articulate conservatives," he added. "In the past we have asked well known conservatives, but they declined for one reason or another. This year we're making an attempt to get William Buckley."

The criteria the committee uses in selecting speakers are: —the speaker should be either nationally or internationally known;

—the speaker should be very well respected in his specialty;

—the speaker should be of interest to a broad cross-section of the campus community; —the entire slate of speakers must represent various currents of interest.

"WE ARE STILL looking for those who will meet this criteria," Vigness added.

Names of suggested speakers, with some explanation of their activities should be submitted to room 119 of the Social Science Building by Feb. 28, according to Vigness.

"If anyone has any questions regarding the Speakers Series or submitting names, he might contact any member of the committee, Vigness said.

STUDENT MEMBERS of the University Speakers Committee are Mike Riddle, Mary Lynn Naderson, Lana Davis and Jim Collie.

Faculty members are Col. Haynes Baumgardner, Dr. Henry Shine, Dr. Justin C. Smith and Dr. Idris Traylor.

Letters Agrees with TTU

The name change has been among the current events for sometime now and we feel that we too should voice our opinion.

We agree with the Board of Directors on TTU. It is a very suitable name for TECH. TTU is a great name because, as previously stated, it has a character of its own. If the name were to be TSU, it would merely be a "copy" of another University.

We are reasonably sure there are other students that agree with us, but like ourselves, are short of time. There aren't any petitions going around to support TTU, but there are believers in it.

It's too LATE for Texas State in 68. Don't be behind—TTU in 69!

Raises question

As a newcomer to the Lubbock area, I do not really get turned on by the name change controversy. However, some of the arguments are tremendously amusing.

One question comes to mind. If they change the name and hire better professors, what will they do with the old ones? Eldon Moritz

Donny talks of Vinyard

Kenny Vinyard, Tech football kicking specialist for the past three seasons, has a good chance to play for the Green Bay Packers, said Donny Anderson yesterday.

Anderson, former two-time All-American for the Raiders, said that for a kicker, Vinyard was drafted high.

Vinyard tallied 48 points last year, in his senior season at Tech. He made 30 of 30 extra point attempts and connected on six of thirteen field goal tries.

He holds the SWC record for the longest field goal, a 55 yarder. As a senior, he punted 62 times for a 39.7 yard average.

Anderson and Vinyard hold no less than 22 individual Tech records. Vinyard's four marks include best punting season average (39.9 in 1966), most career field goals (18), most field goals in a season (9), and longest field goal.

Lombardi wants winner

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vince Lombardi, the man who made Green Bay the dominant giant of pro football over the past decade, took command of the Washington Redskins Thursday to try and reproduce that wonder in this gridiron victory-starved town.

"Washington is the world's capital," Lombardi said, "and we have plans to make it the football capital."

THE SMILING Lombardi made his debut at a news conference only two blocks from the White House as he took over as coach, executive vice president and part-owner of a team that hasn't had a winning season since 1955.

Lombardi, who has never had a loser in his life, said he wants a winner in Washington in his first year.

Lombardi, 55, came out of retirement just one year and five days after he sent himself to the sidelines at Green Bay after coaching triumphs unmatched in NFL history-five championships within seven seasons, three titles in a row, the first two Super Bowl crowns.

In Washington, Lombardi will have complete command of the club with a long-term contract estimated at $100,000 a year and up to a million dollars worth of stock made available at a discount price.

He refused to disclose any details and said, "They are personal matters, really. That's between the club and Vince Lombardi." Lombardi singled out the capital city of Washington and its special prestige as among the prime reasons he took the Redskins job after being sought by at least half a dozen clubs in both leagues.

HE WARMED immediately to the idea of inviting President Nixon to Redskins games and bringing to football the same season-opening White House tradition already enjoyed by baseball.

International group vetos 'Texas Tech University'

Tech's International Club joined the ranks of other campus organizations opposing "Texas Tech University" Monday night when the group unanimously adopted a resolution endorsing "Texas State University".

Discussion centered around two main points. First, "Texas Tech has proved to be a hind-erance to foreign students in obtaining aid from their governments," said Dr. T. Karl H. Wuersching, club sponsor and assistant professor of geography.

Some foreign governments prefer students to attend a university, and consider Texas Tech only a technological school because of its name.

Second, those students who do receive aid and graduate from Tech carry the problem home. They find it difficult to explain an arts and sciences degree from a technological school.

Tech professor exhibits private art collection

Thirty-one items from the private collection of Paul Roseland, art professor, are on exhibition this month at the Lutheran Student Center, 2615 19th St.

On display are a variety of styles and techniques ranging from a small wooden construction by 7-year-old Eric Perkins of Fort Worth to a Paul Klee drawing (dated 1926), the first of a series of aquatints by Joan Miro and a fluorescent oil painting by Richard Bowman.

The largest item is a painting by Robert Tiemann of San Antonio who recently won a $5,000 National Academy grant, and the smallest is a Christmas watercolor by Prof. Robert Lockard of Tech's Architecture Department.

Other items are works by James T. Clark, Harold Balazs, Arne Haaland, Keith Crown, Hiram Williams, Hans Burkhardt, Douglas Snow, Anders Aldrin, Ynez Johnston, Pat Curran, Ruth Satursky, Anne Knorr and the collector's mother, Alida Roseland.

Faculty Quintet to present concert today

Tech's Department of Music will present the Faculty Woodwind Quintet in a concert at 8:15 p.m. Friday in the Tech Library Croslin Room.

The program will include compositions by Barthe, Mozart, Hadyn, Wuorinen, Debussy, Alvin Etlar and Malcolm Arnold. Guest artists will be John Farrell, saxophone, and Mary Helen McCarty, piano.

Members of the quintet are Mary Morisseau, flute; Orlan Thomas, oboe; Keith McCarty, clarinet; Richard Meek, bassoon, and Anthony Brittin, French horn.

Angels show styles to finance drill trip

Angels are on the march again! Tech Angels are beginning drill practice to represent Tech at an invitational drill meet in Anaheim, Calif., March 8.

Members of Angel Flight will hostess for the show as well as model spring fashions.

To effectively represent Tech, Angel Flight will send a 16 member exhibition drill team. To finance this trip Angels are sponsoring a style show as a money-raising project.

The show will be held Feb. 13 at 8 p.m. in the Student Union Ballroom. Admission is $1. A door prize will be given by the Sussex.

"Angels in the Heart of Fashion" is the theme for the special Valentine style show.

Marilyn Davies, flight drill instructor, said, "Judging from our competition in Phoenix last year (Angels won Sweepstakes in this contest), I think we have a good chance to bring home another First Place trophy."

WINCHESTER: "The Stalking Moon"
One of the most unusual westerns of recent years, this drama centers on the conflict of a white pioneer family seeking to escape a single vengeful Indian bent on their deaths. The scene is set primarily on the open prairie at night, and the mood created is one of a chillingly sustained western gothic. Eva Marie Saint, Gregory Peck. (G)

FOX: "The Sergeant"
Rod Steiger stars as a sergeant who has been able to keep his homosexuality a secret until he is tragically attracted to a young private in his platoon. John Philip Law co-stars. (R) CHAPARRAL: "The Bible" and "David and Bathsheba"
John Huston's three-hour adaptation of the first 11 pages of the "Bible" is a sprawling, especially the Creation and the Noah's Ark sequences. Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward star in the title roles of the second film, a 1953 biblical spectacular from Twentieth Century-Fox. (G)
