Noon Lunch Starts Religious Activities

Religious Emphasis Week starts Monday with a noon luncheon in the Tech Union honoring speakers, Student Religious Council officers and other Tech personalities.

ACTIVITIES for the week will include four primary addresses by Rev. Jameson Jones of Nashville, Tenn., who is a member of the Methodist Church General Board of Education.

A team who will speak at dorm bull sessions, classroom discussions, and informal meetings with fraternity and sorority groups include: Dean Myrtle Higgins of Lubbock Christian College; the Rev. Richard Schmidt of St. Mark's Presbyterian Church; Warlick Carr, Lubbock attorney, Rev. Jim T. Pickens, Methodist chaplain at McMurry College in Abilene; Rev. Paul Blanton, director of Methodist Student Movement at SMU; Rev. A. B. Patterson, chaplain of the Episcopal Student Center, University of Colorado and Rev. Prentis Chunn, pastor of the First Baptist Church, San Marcos.

THIS GROUP will also compose a panel discussion, "What is the Basis of Christian Marriage?" Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Tech Union.

Passion Play Goes Astray

AUSTIN (AP) — A poorly organized student protest against proposed legislation to make state-paid teachers swear annually that they believe in God fizzled Wednesday near the University of Texas campus.

A student, wearing strips of white cloth, a messuete-thorn crown, barefooted and carrying a 6-foot wooden cross was the only demonstrator. There were supposed to be others. Students said the idea came up Tuesday night at a party.

The student said he is Eliud Martinez, 24, of Austin.

Four Texas legislators introduced a bill which would require public and college teachers to take an oath annually that they believe in a supreme being. They also charged atheism was being taught in the colleges.

Informal Poll

EDITOR: For what it's worth on house bill no. 495.

An informal poll of Christian clergymen who minister to the students of the college reveal that the substantial majority of them are strongly opposed to the proposed "anti-atheist oath" for college faculty.

It is our firm personal hope that the legislature will not be foolish enough to enact this restriction of personal freedom and responsibility into law.

Sincerely,
David M. H. Richmond,
Presbyterian Union Pastor

Originality Urged In High School

"Work is prescribed to a minimum and then the sky is the limit," said Dr. Louis Armstrong of the basic method of teaching at the Indian Springs School.

DR. ARMSTRONG, featured speaker at the West Texas School Study Council meeting Wednesday, is director of the Indian Springs School in Helena, Ala., which is a privately endowed high school for gifted boys. His talk carried out the theme of the meeting, "Programs of Acceleration and Enrichment for Gifted Children."

Dr. Armstrong said "the lifting of boys out of routine thinking and routine effort to reflective thinking and creative effort is one purpose of the school." He said that kids today need a mind that has "learned to learn."

EMPHASIS FOR entrance to this school is no longer put on IQ measurements but on the integrity, purpose in life and ability to live successfully with others which a boy exhibits.

In order to bring the boys to the point that they seek education, Indian Springs has as the heart of its program the requirement of reading good books. Dr. Armstrong said that many of the boys at his school read as many as 100 classics in a single year and much of this reading is done on their own initiative.

STUDENTS OF Indian Springs are graded by evaluation of what they display in their writing. The whole emphasis of the program is to find something to stimulate their thinking so they will write original papers.

BOYS WHO ATTEND this school study literature and history to determine three things about the characters: their maturity, basic needs, and values. Dr. Armstrong and his staff feel that these gifted students are then able to bring about self-improvement by seeing themselves in every page they read.

Dr. Armstrong concluded his talk by reading a passage from a booklet he recently wrote called "Learning Is by Participation in Creation."

SPEAKERS FROM Big Spring, Brownfield, Hereford and Tech also spoke to representatives from 15 area high schools in the all-day meeting.

Library Schedule Is Discriminating

ACTION WAS TAKEN this week to extend library hours to midnight on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and to close at 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. This was set up on a trial basis for the remainder of the semester.

Reasons given for the early shutdown on weekends were budget and staff limitations, factors that couldn't be changed in the middle of a semester.

However, another problem has arisen which seems important since it affects Texas Tech's second largest faction — women students. It seems impossible that anything can be done at present to extend the hours on Friday and Saturday also. This is something that will have to be improved in the future.

However, something should be done to give the female populus equal opportunity to use the library. As it now stands, the library is open six hours per week more each week for boys; but it is open seven hours less for girls.

This is no fault of the library, but with the early curfew hours on girls during week nights. If this curfew continues, it will mean that the library's new hours are of great aid to men but actually are hurting the girls.

We recommend that a midnight deadline be established for girls studying in the library. This may at first seem rather impractical with all the temptations to go somewhere else, but with the highly effective system of checks and punishments the dorm officials now employ, it is unlikely that there will be many violations.

Discriminations such as this is not good, especially since there is so much already, and should be corrected quickly.

PUBLICATIONS

Editor, In the article concerning the Publications Committee on Tuesday, it said the Student Council was asking for a change in the present structure of the Publications Committee.

After reading the article I wasn't quite sure if I understood the reasons for this recommendation. My interpretation of the article was that the faculty members were in control of this committee.

I would like to know if this is true or not, because it is my understanding that this committee is supposed to be a student controlled committee. I also understand that this committee picks the editors of the TOREADOR and the LA VENTANA, guides the publishing of these two publications and uses student funds for this purpose; therefore, I question who is in actual control of what should be a student controlled committee.

Am I right or wrong, I would appreciate any clarification that could be given on this question.

Mack Robertson

PUBLICATIONS

Editor, I have just finished reading the article in Tuesday's TOREADOR concerning the Publications Committee. I have but one question to ask as a student who is supposed to be represented by the Student Council.

They have recommended that the Publications Committee be taken away from the people who know how and what to do to publish a paper or yearbook, and turn it over to people who know absolutely nothing about journalism and its operations.

I say let them alone—the TOREADOR is the best it's ever been, and LA VENTANA should be the best we've ever had. This is one student's opinion who has had dealings with both publications.

Bill Everheart

PUBLICATIONS

Editor, In reference to the article in Tuesday's issue of the TOREADOR concerning the request by the Student Council for a change in the Publications Committee, I would like to pose the question — what for?

I will admit that I am slightly in the dark as to the extent of the control that the Publications Committee has, if any, over the finances and regulation of the school paper and annual, but it seems to me that they have done all this optimism, and that is that year.

Of course, I don't agree with everything that comes out in the TOREADOR, but who can satisfy

A Little Bit

James Hamm

A recent Supreme Court decision pointed up the rising controversy between "reactionary" free enterprisers and "radical" socialists.

A Plainview farmer planted 43 acres too much wheat, and the Supreme Court ruled against him by reversing a district judge's ruling favoring him.

This man must now pay a fine for breaking a law concerning wheat allotment. The farmer, it seems, planted the wheat for one of two reasons — to dance without paying the piper, or opposing this socialistic law.

The most probable reason would be the latter, which fits in with political viewpoints of his family. This viewpoint favoring free enterprise, certainly has good points.

A system of this sort is conducive to individuality. It provides a maximum of opportunities for enterprisers to enterprise, thinkers to think and governments to not spend.

On the other hand, socialism tends to discourage enterprise and thinking, and governments do spend.

But there are disadvantages to free enterprise also. Based on the assumption that only a select few will "reach the top," this system is disinclined to regard the feelings of the masses. For example, the excessive working hours, unsafe working conditions and child and woman labor of the earlier, almost complete free enterprise system of our country.

Socialism on the other hand protects against excesses such as these. Socialistic laws, coupled with labor unions (a form of socialism), has stamped out child and women labor, excessive hours and most of the unsafe working conditions.

On the negative side, socialism tends to defeat initiative, is expensive, presents favorable conditions for corrupt practices and exploitations of people and high ideals (present-day labor unions), and involves governmental control in economics.

A system, combining and compromising these two would be not only workable, but desirable. The incentive to "get ahead," in the form of profit, should be retained to a large degree, but the exploitation of the masses often connected with the search of profit should be stamped out by governmental control.

Government should not compete with the public in economic life except where absolutely necessary (public utilities). On the other hand, socialistic governmental practices could provide services that the public isn't capable of providing — aid to unemployed, care of old people and medical care for the needy.

Our system, in some fields, is moving too close to complete socialism, and should be stopped. As many European countries illustrate, complete socialism isn't the answer, but neither is complete free enterprise.

This problem facing Americans today is a tough one to solve, but isn't insurmountable. More understanding on both sides and a compromising of ideas can bring about a solution.

everyone all of the time. Personally I would like to see a little more reason, if any exists, given by the Student Council for the change.

Students Favor Alaska as State

The majority of American college and university students think the admission of Alaska to the Union as the 49th State is, on the whole, a good idea.

Associated Collegiate Press National Poll of Student Opinion recently questioned a representative group of college men and women to find out how they felt about America's newest state.

Student interviewers on campuses throughout the nation asked the following question of their classmates: "Only recently Alaska was admitted to the Union as the 49th state. Do you think the admission of Alaska to the Union was a good or bad idea?" Students overwhelmingly expressed the opinion that it is a "good idea." Eighty-eight percent of the total number interviewed expressed that opinion. Eight percent felt admission of the new state is a "bad idea," and four per cent had no opinion.

College students are notoriously short of time. By the time they have finished the reading assigned to them each day, there's little time left to do much reading for pleasure.

Still, an early 1958 survey shows that, in general, more students prefer to read books than magazines in their spare time.

Further analysis of the data indicate that coeds are substantially stronger in this feeling than are college men. In the survey, 58 per cent of the women interviewed and only 45 per cent of the men said they preferred books to magazines for leisure time reading.

Comparison of the answers to two questions in a recent survey indicate that, as of now, college opinion feels the presidential race in 1960 will be run between Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts for the Democrats and Vice President Richard Nixon for the Republicans.

These two men emerged as the most likely candidates when a representative cross-section of American college students were asked who they expected would get the two parties nominations in the upcoming race.

Spring Grid Contest Will Bare 'New Look'

TEXAS TECH'S Red Raiders cross the spring training finish line Saturday afternoon when they square off in the annual spring grid contest.

Saturday's game will bare Tech's 'new look' offense and will get underway at 2 p.m. Tech students will be admitted by presenting their I.D. cards at the gate.

"WE HAVE HAD a good spring training this year," Coach DeWitt Weaver said Wednesday. Weaver reported that the boys have shown a great deal of desire and all seem eager for Saturday's game.

Carl Gatlin, hard running full-back from Waco, is a doubtful starter for the contest. Weaver said he would take no chances with Gatlin's injured knee.

TECH STUDENTS will have a chance to see the Raider's new offense in action during the spring game. Students are asked not to be alarmed if they hear someone talking about Tech's "tight end." It doesn't mean any of the Red Men are breaking training.

Actually, it's the end of Texas Tech's new offense who does not spread several yards out to either side who still lines up in the normal manner. The other end, "the split end," lines up several yards away from the rest of the linemen.

TEXAS TECH'S TIGHT ends are Don Waygood of Sundown, Mike Seay of Andrews, Jerry Elbert of Wellington, Bill Black and Robert Sanders of Muleshoe.

Operating as split ends will be Bob Witucki of Tulsa, James Brock of Fort Worth, Tom Nash of Electra, and Carey Tidwell of Meridian.

BOTH TIGHT AND split ends—as well as backs—get plenty of chances to catch passes in the Raiders' new look offense.

President's Attack Draws Rebuttals

by The Associated Press

An attack on athletic scholarships by the president of Yale University drew sharp rebuttals Wednesday from a number of college athletic officials.

In a speech Monday, Dr. A Whitney Griswold, the Yale president, criticized athletic scholarships as "one of the greatest educational swindles ever perpetrated on American youth."

DR. GRISWOLD said "its aim is not the education of American youth, but the entertainment of its elders. . . . Not the welfare of the athlete but the pleasure of the spectator."

Yale is a member of the Ivy League, which prohibits athletic scholarships.

O. B. WILLIAMS, chairman of the University of Texas' Athletic Council and president of the Southwest Conference, termed the scholarships "a fine thing."

Asked for comment on Dr. Griswold's statement, Williams said:

ALL I CAN say is that it is one man's opinion and it certainly isn't mine. Athletic scholarships here have enabled students to get an education when they might not have gotten one otherwise, and I can't see where there is any swindle connected with that."

Earl Sneed, dean of the University of Oklahoma Law School and chairman of the Big Eight conference, also cited the increased opportunity for an education provided by such scholarships.

KERMIT BUD Laabs, commissioner of the Frontier Conference in the Southwest, was more blunt:

"A swindle, my eye," he answered. "If athletic scholarships are a swindle why not use the same yardstick in measuring the value of scholarships awarded for other activities?"

SOME 90 PER CENT of those granted athletic scholarships finish their college education, "and many have gone on to become outstanding leaders in their fields of endeavor."

RICE WINS 94-64

Tech Falls To Third; Faces Bears Saturday

by RALPH W. CARPENTER

"Everything the Owls did was right and everything we did was wrong."

THAT'S THE way assistant basketball coach Gene Gibson described the Raider's 94-64 loss to Rice. "They were ready and we were not," Gibson remarked. He said the Owls were hitting shots from all angles and their 54.7 per cent shooting average bore out his statement.

Chuck Key paced the feeble Raider attack with 18 points. Wade Wolfe came in second with 12 markers. Myers had 11 points.

THE LOSS dropped the Raiders into third place. If Tech can beat Baylor Saturday night and SMU loses to TCU the Raiders will pull back into a tie for second place. However if the Raiders finish second they must win both of their remaining games and SMU must lose both of their remaining tilts.

The Raiders have a hard row to hoe Saturday night. They will be visiting the Bear's den and the Bruins are still growling about that three point loss to the Raiders in the Coliseum. The Bears can be double tough at home and Saturday night's game is not expected to be an exception.

EAGER BOB Turner is the big man in the Bear attack. Turner is a good scorer and proves rough on defense. Carrol Dawson has been one of Baylor's top rebounders while captain Gene McCarley has turned in some top defensive games recently.

WHO SAID IT FIRST?

A column of incidental intelligence by Jockey brand

"GENTLEMAN AND SCHOLAR"
High praise, indeed, for any man! But did you know that the description comes from Robert Burns—who said it first about a dog? Here's the quote:
"His locked, lettered, brow brass collar
Showed him the gentleman and scholar."
You'll find the couplet in Burns' "The Two Dogs."

"THE MORNING AFTER"
This horrible time was first immortalized by George Ade in "The Sultan of Sulu." Here's the way he put it:
"Bul, R.E.W.-O.R.S-E!
The water-wagon is the place for me;
It is no time for mirth and laughter,
The cold, gray dawn of the morning after!"

"MAN BITES DOG"
That's everybody's definition of news, and we're all indebted to John B. Bagart, city editor of the old New York Sun (1873-90), who first said:
"When a dog bites a man, that is not news, because it happens so often. But if a man bites a dog, that is news!"

RALPH'S RAMBLINGS

by
Ralph W. Carpenter

Sportswriters speculate all of the time about the future, near and far. Most speculation is limited to the very near future. Some, however, have tried recently to take a long range view and the visualizations which have been made are many and varied.

For instance, what will we be reading about — say in 1989, a mere 30 years from now. I have given the subject a great deal of thought and have come up with the following ideas. However, I want it known here and now that the paragraphs that follow are not intended to offend anyone — they are simply ideas — nothing else.

Tech Rated No. 1!

Every qualified rating service in the United States picked Texas Tech as the Nation's No. 1 football team this year. Tech went through the season undefeated, untied, and unscored upon. Fans and athletic supporters at Tech presented head football coach "Go Go" Merryweather a 1989, atomic powered Nudnik in appreciation of a job well done. Other SWC coaches have protested Merryweather's recruiting of Saturnian Srdilus but the NCAA could find nothing in their rules that said a football player had to be human. Merryweather's line averaged 434 pounds.

TCU Gains All-American!

Melvin Plunk, 8'-4" junior from Marble Falls was selected on the Little Man's All-America basketball team for the second year in a row. Plunk, a veritable wizard with the roundball is noted for his fancy ball-handling and long set shots. George (Fats) Myers, TCU basketball coach was quoted as saying that Plunk is perhaps the shiftest basketball player to ever play for TCU. Plunk is a graduate of the Gatesville School — where he was an honor student. Aggies Land New Coach!

Texas A&M President Harvey Keck reported today that the school had landed a new head coach. Shurman Adams has signed a 10 year contract with the Bryan school. Adams, wearing a new vicuna coat, stated that his chief assistants will be Bon Jock Gage and Immy Hoffa. The new coaching staff is already under investigation by the NCAA.

Hogan Finally Retires!

Bantam Ben Hogan announced today that after careful consideration he has decided to retire from professional golf. When asked why he was giving up the game Hogan said that his beard had begun to get in his way during his approach shots.

Mantle Still Not Signed!

Mickey Mantle, former star slugger with the New York Yankees, still refuses to sign his 1989 contract. Mantle, the leading hot dog salesman for Yankee Stadium the past three years, declares that his salary is just not enough. No word from Casey Stengel.

TU Gives Up Class Work!

Texas University prexy Durwald Cowznofski revealed today that the school intends to give up academic work entirely. When asked the reason for this drastic change Cowznofski said, "We will devote our efforts exclusively to football. Oklahoma did it! Why not us?" Texas has not won a game from the Sooners in 17 years.

IBSU Trackster May Have Record!

Ideal Southern Baptist University's Claxie Ogelheimer, speed merchant from Bugtussie, beat the world's foremost sprinters today as he set a new world's 100-yard-dash record of 6.2. This record may not be sanctioned, however, due to a hurricane that blew in prior to the race — Ogelheimer was running against the wind.

Jones Stadium About Ready!

Jones Stadium is receiving final touches this year. The stadium, in its entirety, is being dedicated to the museum of natural history. Construction of this project was started in 1965. Insufficient funds have been blamed for the delay.

FOR FROSH BASEBALLERS

Practice Game Set

"They want to play." THAT'S THE way Earl Parker, freshmen baseball coach, describes his 1959 edition of Frosh baseballers. Parker, former catcher with the Tech varsity, took over as freshmen coach this season replacing Paul Ortosky.

Parker reported his team would play Monterey High a practice game Saturday afternoon at 1:30. The game will be a seven inning affair and will be played on the Monterey diamond.

PARKER'S CREW has been conducting daily drills since Feb. 16 and have been working hard on batting, base running, bunt situations and other phases of the game.

EARL PARKER
... freshmen coach

There are 20 boys in the freshmen fold now and Parker is expecting this number to increase as soon as basketball season and spring football drills close.

"I HAVE A FEW boys who are looking good in these early drills," Parker remarked. "Roger Evans, Lawrence Savage and Gary Sam-

Parker said the shortstop position was still wide open. At present Larry Faust and Ken Wofford are staging a battle for the position. Other positions on the Picador nine are still not definitely set.
