

Betting, revision, criminal code all moving in Austin

AUSTIN (AP)—Most of the action in the state was centered in Austin with House and Senate moving on bills that if passed would have widespread effects throughout the state.

In the House a bill allowing race track betting but prohibiting off-track betting moved to the floor. Also in the House, representatives adopted a compromise plan to rewrite Texas' Constitution.

Senators approved and sent to the House a criminal code revision that would give more leeway on oral confessions. The House passed a separate version of the bill last Thursday.

In the House action on legalized race track betting, no member of the House Committee on Counties raised his voice against the bill—although several later went on record against it—before Chairman Bill Clayton, Springlake, brought his gavel down and declared the measure was approved.

The measure was amended to distribute revenue from bets among the counties and to make off-track betting a felony. Wire-tapping could be used to gather evidence of such wagering, and violators could be punished by up to a $5,000 fine and 5 years in prison.

Pari-mutuel betting has been illegal in Texas since the 1930s.

A SENATE COMMITTEE approved a horse race betting bill Feb. 6 but the measure has not been brought up for debate.

In an apparent effort to head off criticism from small counties which the bill would permit to have only 14 racing days a year, the bill was amended to divide half of all tax revenue from pari-mutuel pools among counties without tracks.

"And they're off," cracked Rep. Jake Johnson, San Antonio, a backer of the bill, as Clayton's gavel fell.

REP. MAURICE Pipkin, Brownsville, House sponsor of the bill, was not present when the bill came out of committee.

Pipkin's bill established a state racing commission to license and regulate tracks. Only day racing would be allowed and a maximum of 75 racing days a year could be held in counties of 300,000 or more.

The bill permits horse racing only in counties where approved in local option elections called on petition of 5 per cent of the voters.

AT A HEARING before Clayton's committee April 6, a Methodist minister from Cameron, the Rev. Richard Freeman, testified that race track betting is "the basic nest egg of organized crime."

But several well-known Texas businessmen, including John Murchison of Dallas and Robert J. Kleberg, president of the King Ranch, Kingsville, said the measure would be a blessing to taxes, bringing in thousands of tourists and millions of dollars for the state economy.

The bill to revise Texas' 90 year old Constitution was introduced by Victoria Rep. Cory, was approved and sent to the Senate without debate on voice vote.

IT PROPOSES A 20-member commission composed of five House members selected by the speaker, five senators named by the lieutenant governor, five citizens chosen by the governor and five persons selected by Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert of Texas.

There would also be a 20-member citizens advisory commission — 10 named by the governor and five by the speaker and lieutenant governor.

THE COMMISSION WOULD submit its recommendations—a complete rewrite or article-by-article changes—to the 1969 legislature and, if the legislature approved, the new Constitution or revisions would be submitted to the voters in November 1969.

Senators approved and sent to the House a criminal code revision giving more leeway on oral confessions. The Senate and House versions, separate versions of the code revision, probably will be worked out by a House-Senate conference committee.

Fund drive to launch at dinner

An informal dinner featuring three speakers will launch a $2 million drive tonight toward Tech's proposed $6 million ICASALS museum.

RICE UNIVERSITY Chancellor Carey Cronis will be the guest speaker at the 7 p.m. dinner at Lubbock Country Club. His topic will be "The Research Role of a University."

Cronis recently received the Sidney Powers Memorial Medal, highest professional honor given by the American Association of Petroleum Geologists. Cronis delivered the main address for the inauguration of Tech President Murray last fall.

Known as an educator, administrator and geologist, Dr. Cronis designed the geology section of the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry and was head of the Hall of Science at the Chicago World's Fair.

WIDELY TRAVELED, author and co-author of several books and scientific articles, the chancellor is a past president of the American Geological Institute and the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists.

Former Tech President D. M. Wiggins, co-chairman of the Development Council, will also speak before the expected audience of 300. Wiggins will discuss "An International Center for Texas Tech."

Loy Lanotte, T.I.M.E. Motor Freight executive and chairman of the ICASALS and Museum Development Fund, will discuss support needed for the program which is intended to cover Lubbock and West Texas.

THE TEXAS TECH Board of Directors recently approved the exterior design of the museum, facilities and grounds which will sit on a 76-acre tract and replace the present West Texas Museum.

Bob Brummel, southern division manager of Southwestern Public Service Co., and president of the West Texas Museum Association, will be master of ceremonies for the dinner.

Final meeting set for 1966-67 senate

Tonight's Student Senate meeting will be the last for the current senators, and all bills introduced in this year's session will either be passed at the meeting or killed by adjournment of the 1966-1967 Senate.

Newly-elected senators are invited to come to this last Senate meeting at 8:15 p.m. in the Biology Auditorium to observe floor discussion and voting procedures. The new Senate will meet at a later date.

Representative suggestions

Tech students clearly want to graduate from Texas State University or some variation of that name, the student referendum Friday indicated. The results will be presented to the Board-appointed name-change committee Wednesday afternoon as first, second and third choices.

Names to be presented apparently will be Texas State University, Texas State University and Technological College and, misrepresentatively, Tech University. The latter name will appear as a third choice because it was the runner-up in the third column behind TSU&TC, which now appears as the second selection.

However, it should be pointed out that Texas Tech University did not receive the most votes in the third column and would be submitted as a choice on the basis of only 13.5 per cent of the votes in that column. Also, it can be shown that Texas State University and variations received 51.3 per cent of the vote in the third choice column and variation of Texas Tech only 35.9 per cent.

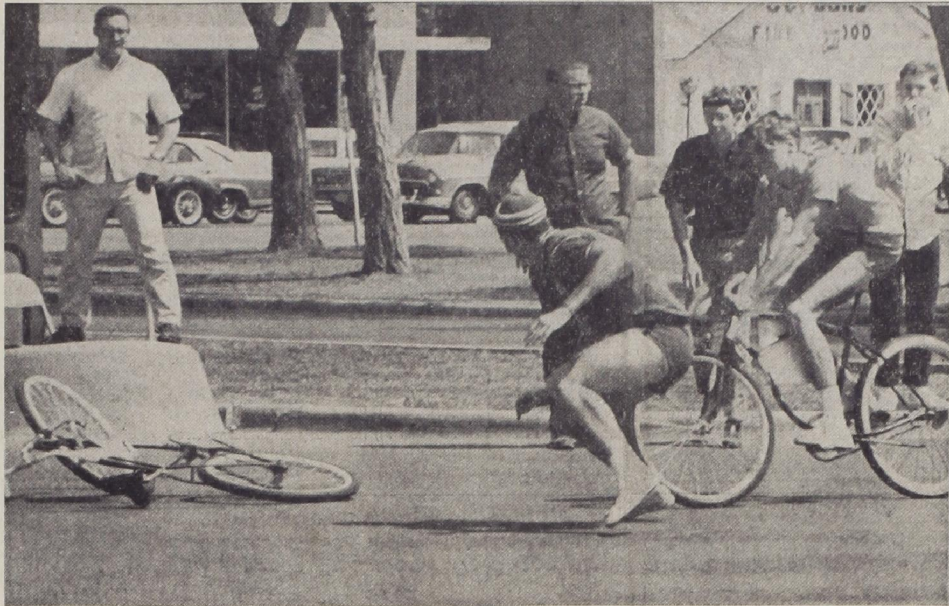

Carrying it further over the entire election, and weighing the votes on the basis of three points for a first-selection vote, two for second and one for third, Texas State University and variations received 63.0 per cent of the points and Texas Tech and variations 29.5 per cent.

The name Texas Tech University is in no way related to the winners and the majority of students' opinions who voted. It is obviously not a satisfactory, representative result of the referendum.

We suggest that only the winners in each column be presented the committee, which would be Texas State University in columns one and two and Texas State University and Technological College in column three. The latter name would move up to second choice and there would be no third choice.

If "Texas Tech University" is presented to the committee, then the above percentages and figures should be pointed out, stressing that Friday's referendum, as well as the 1964 referendum, indicated clear disagreement with the name or variations of it.

The committee has indicated a genuine desire to receive representative suggestions from all groups involved. Their request should be honored.

— Before 137th Dist. grand jury — Marijuana case set today

By MARGARET EASTMAN
Staff Writer

Four Tech students and one former student will appear before the grand jury of the 137th District Court here at 1 p.m. today.

THE FIVE, CHARGED with illegal possession of marijuana, are David Reece, 19; Charlie Sanders, 21; Walter Marlin, 22; Bill Rider, 22; and Charles Hatley Jr., 19. All except Hatley are Tech students.

The five were arrested early April 2 after police broke up a party at 2617 20th St.

Police said they found two penny match boxes containing marijuana in the pockets of Sanders and Reece. They said there was also a paper cup in the kitchen which contained the substance.

ASST. DIST. ATTY. Tom Purdom said Hatley, Marlin and Rider were charged because they rent the house at which marijuana was found, and thus "controlled possession of the premises."

There were approximately 70 persons at the party at the time the police arrived.

Mark Smith, attorney for Hatley, Marlin and Rider, said student and faculty witnesses who attended the party will testify at the grand jury hearing. He said one Tech administrator will also testify in behalf of the three.

THE DEFENSE ATTORNEYS are not allowed at the hearing. The prosecuting attorney, Alton Griffin, will present his evidence to the 12 members of the grand jury.

The bills will be returned after the grand jury adjourns, probably Wednesday.

Smith said his clients took a polygraph test administered by Dee Wheeler, a private polygraph examiner.

AFTER ADMINISTERING controlled questions and a card control test, Wheeler wrote:

"It is my certain opinion, based on the polygraph examination, that all three—Marlin, Hatley and Rider—are telling the truth when they deny that they knew marijuana was being smoked at the party, having any knowledge that marijuana was present, or having marijuana in their possession on the premises or having smoked or smelled marijuana."

The pertinent questions, to all of which the answer was "no" (with no reaction), include:

"On the night of the party at your house when the officers arrested you:

- "Had you in your possession any marijuana that day or night?"
- "Did you smoke any marijuana that day or night?"
- "Had you any marijuana in the house that day or night?"
- "Did you know prior to the arrival of the officers that anyone had marijuana in his possession?"
- "Did you know prior to the arrival of the officers that anyone was smoking marijuana?"
- "Had you smelled any marijuana?"
- "Had you seen or heard any talk of marijuana being present?"
- "Did you put the marijuana in the cup?"
- "Do you know for sure who put the marijuana in the cup?"
- "Had you seen the cup prior to its being shown by the officers?"
- "Did you plan with anyone to bring marijuana?"
- "Did you agree with anyone to permit marijuana to be present?"

Wheeler is presently the polygraph examiner for the Ft. Worth City Police Crime Laboratory. He is also a member of the Texas State Board of Polygraph Examiners (appointed for a four-year term by Governor John Connally.) He was superintendent of the Department of Public Safety Polygraph Examination Division from

Brown is bound to grand jury

Dolphus Jack Brown, 25-year-old Tech freshman, was bound over without bond to a grand jury Monday after an examining trial to determine whether there was sufficient evidence in the case.

BROWN, WHOSE case was first on the docket, is charged with the April 17 bludgeon slaying of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Brown of Shallowater.

After Peace Justice George McCleskey heard the testimony of two deputy sheriffs and two Texas Rangers, Dist. Atty. Alton Griffin moved that the court rule on the case.

1949-1960.

Rev. Ralph Macy and Rev. Houston Hodges, campus ministers from the Episcopal and Presbyterian Churches, respectively, are collecting funds for Hatley, Marlin and Rider.

MACY SAID MONDAY that $250 had been collected so far, $100 of it coming from the Unitarian Church.

"Legal costs in these felony cases can amount to several thousand dollars," he said.

Hodges said Monday, "Our concern from the first has been that adequate legal assistance be obtained for these three persons. There is definite financial need.

"THOSE WHO KNOW the fellows involved and particularly those who attended the party should be especially interested in their securing adequate counsel."

The two are collecting funds at the Ecumenical Campus Ministries, 2412 13th St., PO5-8634.

Bye, bye blacklist

With the lifting of the American Association of University Professors censure, a 10-year weight has been removed from the shoulders of Texas Tech and its many department heads who have found it an obstacle to recruiting good faculty.

The AAUP lifted the censorship Friday with a unanimous vote, acting on the recommendation of its Committee A which deals with academic freedom and tenure. Tech officials had appeared earlier before the committee to present a revised tenure policy and an offer to rehire a dismissed professor.

Offering a new contract and a full professorship to Dr. Byron R. Abernethy who was dismissed in 1957 for secret, supposedly political reasons, was a difficult step for the Board of Directors to take, since it was an admission of error and a big lump of pride to swallow.

The removal of Tech from the list of 17 institutions on the "blacklist" will make it a more attractive employment possibility for good faculty who are members of the professional organization, a powerful and highly respected force among the nation's faculty.

But not only does the lifting of the censorship mean a better chance for better professors for Tech, but it also indicates the Board and the administration under the leadership of Dr. Murray have a genuine concern for the future of Tech and are willing to back up their concern with action.

Ten years is a long time to wait for settlement of a dispute which has hurt the reputation of the university and quality of its faculty, but the right time and the right actions finally came.

in mechanical engineering.

In addition to working on the X-15 Project, he served on North American's P-51 and B-25 during World War II. He was later assigned to the B-45, the F-86 Sabre Jet and this country's first supersonic aircraft, the F-11 Super Sabre.

DR. AKERS holds a bachelor of science degree from Tech, the master's from the University of Texas and the Ph.D. from the University of Michigan. He has done extensive research in cryogenics, chemistry, metallurgy, water pollution and heat transfer.

He is widely known for his research on the human blood system specifically relating to the heart, and has written more than 35 technical papers.

A native of Loraine, Dr. Bennett took a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from Tech in 1943. He holds a master's and Ph.D. from Stanford.

HIS FIELDS of specialization include network synthesis, electromagnetic field theory and device development. Dr. Bennett has worked as a test engineer for the General Electric Company and as a radio engineer for Philco. He was an associate professor of engineering at Tech from 1943-44.

Bennett holds memberships in the Scientific Research Society of America, Sigma Chi, Alpha Chi and Tau Beta Pi. Knox received a bachelor of science degree in textile engineering from Tech in 1935. A native of Roby, he currently is a director in several corporations and businesses including Mission Valley Mills Inc., Comal Cottons Inc., and the fire Federal Savings and Loan Association of New Braunfels.

HIS MISSION Valley plant produces 30 million yards of finished goods each year and has more than 1,300 employees.

Active in civic work, Knox is Mayor of New Braunfels, trustee of the Baptist Memorial Hospital at San Antonio and vice president of the Alamo Area Council of Boy Scouts.

Basemen host ENMU; split with Wildcats

By GARY TILORY
Sports Writer

The Eastern New Mexico Greyhounds will "blow" into town today from Portales for a double-header with the Red Raiders at the Varsity Baseball Field.

The Greyhounds will be led by senior left-hander Chic Kiefer who is 7-2 for the year. The 'hounds boast a 15-9 record with a young and inexperienced ball club. With the exception of the catcher, the 'Hounds had to start the season with an entirely new infield. THE RAIDERS, now sporting an 8-14 record, will be led by righthander David Callerman in the first game and, possibly, left-hander Eldon Fox in the second.

The Raiders are still wandering around in a daze after this weekend's encounter with Abilene Christian.

IN THE first game, Saturday, the Raiders couldn't buy a hit as big Bill Gilbert held the Raiders hitless while fanning 14 and allowing no runs, to take a 1-0 victory.

In the second game, the Raiders came alive and devoured three Wildcat pitchers enroute to a 19-1 romp. The Raiders exploded for 22 hits, their biggest out put since beating SMU last year 25-5 and collecting 20 hits. They picked up nine doubles and one home run in the lopsided affair.

THE RAIDERS started things off in the first inning of the second game with one run on a walk to John McIntyre who scored on a double by Don Champion. Then the Raiders added eight runs in the second, six in the third, two in the fourth and three in the fifth for their total of 19.

The lone ACC run came in the top of the seventh on a home run by Tony Hooker.

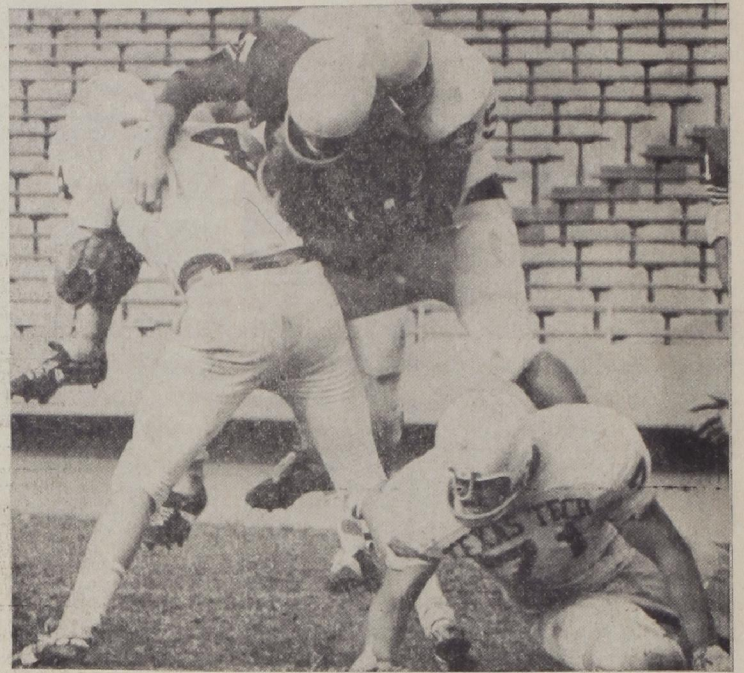

FOR THE RAIDERS in the second game, McIntyre was the leader with four hits in four trips to the plate. He also accounted for one of the nine doubles. Champion followed McIntyre going 3-3 with two doubles.

McIntyre was also the big run maker for the Raiders as he reached base safely five times and scored all five times.

PITCHER DAVID Callarman was the only other Raider to bat 1.000 for the game as he went 3-3 with one double.

"We knew Gilbreth would be good but we didn't know just how good," said Coach Kal Segrist, concerning the first game. "He had to be throwing good to beat some of the teams he has with the type of ball club he has behind him," he said.

"UNLESS EASTERN has that type of pitching we should play them a good ball game. We've played steady baseball the last three weeks, and unless we come up against overpowering pitching we're capable of beating anybody we play," said Segrist.

NOWHERE TO GO BUT DOWN—Carroll Sullivan (34) and Barney Oliver (85) of the Whites prepare quarterback Tom Sawyer (15) for a gentle(?) landing during the final scrimmage ending the Red Raiders spring training.

Leon Lovelace (71) pads the ground for the down-coming Sawyer. The Reds won the game 24-21, on a 20-yard scoring pass from Sawyer to Lou Breuer in the final 15 seconds of play.
