

Tech, TCU Tangle Tonight

By JIM RICHARDSON
Associate Sports Editor

Texas Tech's Red Raiders have their foot in the door and hope to barge in to an unexpected victory against TCU at 7:30 p.m. in Jones Stadium.

Both teams are trying to get on the winning side after losses last Saturday. The Raiders lost their second straight SWC game to the Texas Aggies, while the Horned Frogs suffered their first defeat of the season, losing to toughie Arkansas.

Ticket officials predict a turnout of 25,000 for the Dad's Day contest. The trip to Lubbock is the official school trip for TCU and their band will accompany the team.

A delegation of Techsians met the TCU squad at the airport Friday. Frog Coach Abe Martin was asked if he expected the same treatment he received in 1956 (Tech's upset win). "I should hope not," he laughed. "That's the year you annihilated us, and you know, I just don't like to be annihilated."

TCU brings a 1-1-1 record into tonight's game. The Fort Worth crew upset Kansas in their opener, 17-16, matched Ohio State, 7-7, and lost to Arkansas 28-3.

The Frogs, like Tech, depend on passing almost as much as rushing. And the key to the aerial attack is 6-7, 225-pound quarterback Sonny Gibbs. Gibbs has a 51 per cent completion mark on his passes, having completed 19 of 37 with a single interception. His passing yardage totals 302 and two of the tosses were good for scores.

All told, the Frogs have gained 308 yards passing as compared to 374 on the ground. Fullback Tom Crutcher, 6-3, 210-pounder, is the leading rusher for the visitors with 153 yards on 38 carries for a four-yard average. Gibbs, second leading Frog rusher, is trailing Crutcher with 60 yards on 21 carries. Halfback Donnie Smith has carried 12 times for 40 yards and a 3.3 average.

SADDLE TROPHY—Jim Isham, Holly Hunt and Peggy Maloy try out the new SWC West Texas Championship Saddle. The trophy is to be presented to the winning team of the Tech-TCU football game each year.

Dr. Kaplan Takes Post As Foundation Director

Dr. Sylvan J. Kaplan, head of the psychology department at Texas Tech for the past seven years, has resigned his position at Tech effective the end of the fall semester.

Dr. Kaplan will assume direction of the Foundation For International Research And Development (FINRAD) and Institute For International Research and Development (INRAD).

Dr. William M. Pearce, academic vice president, made the announcement at a Friday afternoon news conference.

Pearce expressed regret concerning the resignation, saying:

"Dr. Goodwin has accepted Dr. Kaplan's resignation after several days of consideration and with regret.

"We sincerely hope that if Dr. Kaplan has any time available after this semester, he will be able to return to Tech in some capacity."

"I will undertake active leadership in these organizations," Dr. Kaplan said, "in an effort to generate atmosphere that will endeavor to bring to Texas Tech, Lubbock and this region higher education. It is our hope to continue attracting to this area qualified researchers."

Kaplan expressed deep regret on leaving his post on the Tech faculty:

"I will certainly be interested in doing part-time work at Tech if my schedule will permit it."

DR. SYLVAN J. KAPLAN leaves Texas Tech.

Tech Dads Arrive On Campus To Participate In Day's Events

Texas Tech will be the center of a whirlwind of activity today as fathers from all parts of the country arrive to receive their due at Tech's eighth annual Dad's Day.

Dads will be busy all day long. At 10:00 a.m. registration starts in the Recreation Hall south of the Tech Union. Coffee will be served there until 11:30.

Paul Gustwick, ex-Techsan from Yoakum and outgoing president of the Dad's Assn., will preside at a luncheon in the Union Ballroom. Marshall L. Pennington, Tech vice president and comptroller, speaker at the luncheon, will discuss Tech's part in state legislative appropriations and the events leading up to them.

Five men will have the honor of being the first to be appointed to Tech's Athletic Hall of Honor. They are Ransom Walker, Elmer Taybox, Walter Schlinkman, Dean W. L. Stangel and Coach Pete Cawthon. They will be recognized at the game.

Former presidents of Dad's Assn. will be introduced during the luncheon. They are W. H. Gordon of Lubbock, '56-'57; L. O'Brien Thompson of Amarillo, '57-'58; Raymond Pfluger of Eden, '58-'59; and Mark Gardner of Dallas, '59-'60.

The afternoon is free of activities, which will leave time for parents to see the campus and spend time with their sons and daughters.

A barbecue in the Municipal Coliseum starts at 5:30 p.m. and lasts until game time at 7:30. Tickets for the dinner are $1.50 per person and are available at the information booth in the Union.

In pre-game ceremonies of the Tech-TCU football game awards will be given to the dad coming the farthest, to the oldest and to the youngest dads and to the dad with the most children in Tech. At halftime the Tech band and a student card section will do their part in the honors.

Fraternity Initiates Ten New Pledges

Ten pledges were recently initiated by Alpha Tau Omega, social fraternity. The new initiates are as follows: David Baldwin, Pat Farris, Rocky Johnson, Larry McCarty, Clif Martin, Pug Nickel, Steve Guynes, Charles Prochaska, Pem Rocap and Ray Budde.

many a knight
was spent in rusty
armor

In days of yore, men feared not only their mortal enemies, but the elements too. It was the medieval armorer's task to protect his chief against foemen, but weather-protection was a more difficult matter. Thus many a knight was spent in rusty armor.

Engineers and scientists at Ford Motor Company, engaged in both pure and applied research, are coping even today with the problem of body protection (car bodies, that is). Through greater understanding of the chemistry of surfaces, they have developed new paint primers and undercoatings, new rustproofing methods, and special sealers that guard entire car bodies against nature's corrosive forces—all of which add armor-like protection to Ford-built cars.

From other scientific inquiries will undoubtedly come new materials with protective properties vastly superior to those of today. This is another example of Ford's leadership through scientific research and engineering.

Ninth State Chapter

Chi Omega Comes To Tech Campus

Chi Omega, nationally known social sorority, is being colonized at Tech to meet the growing needs of the college.

The sorority, which was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1895, will have 130 active chapters with its arrival at Tech. Tech's chapter will make the ninth chapter in the state of Texas.

Mrs. LaRue Bowker, Little Rock, National Treasurer of Chi Omega Fraternity, will represent the Council in colonizing for the chapter here. Mary Fulton, formerly a student at SMU, is the official transfer student for Chi Omega to work for the founding.

Any coed at Tech is eligible to be rushed by the sorority providing she has a 1.0 grade average for all of her previous work, as well as a 1.0 for last semester. She must also be carrying at least 12 hours.

Included in the rushing activities for Chi Omega will be the two panel discussions regarding colonization. The discussions are set for 6:30 p.m. Oct. 17 in Drane Hall and 6:30 p.m. Oct. 18 in Doak Hall.

The panel members will discuss the meaning, procedure and schedule regarding colonization. Afterwards there will be a question and answer session. Girls can also sign for an interview at the panel discussions.

Panel members are Ouida Daugherty, Linda Hancock, Linda Ryno, Betsy Williams and Judy Rutledge.

The colonization procedure for Chi Omega is as follows:

Signups for interviews in the Dean of Women's Office Oct. 16 through Oct. 21.

Reception for all rushees Oct. 22.

Individual interviews with Chi Omega National Representatives Oct. 23 through Oct. 25.

Party by invitation only in the home of Chi Omega alumna Oct. 26.

Party by invitation only in the home of Chi Omega alumna Oct. 27.

Rushees sign preference cards and pick up invitations to pledge Oct. 27.

Pledging service in the Fellowship Garden of St. John's Methodist Church Oct. 27.

Fundamentals of Chi Omega center around friendship. It stimulates interest in personnel, scholarship, choice of vocations and good talk.

Nationally Chi Omega has tried to emphasize the educational as well as the fraternal aspect of sororities. That is why it has devoted its resources to the Service Fund Studies.

Among those helping to colonize Chi Omega at Tech besides Mrs. Bowker are Mrs. Lawrence Krebs, a National Representative; Miss Virginia Ruth Pearce, a Chapter Visitor from Tenn.; and Mrs. W. J. Martin, president of the Lubbock Alumnae Chapter.

Talent Available

We Need Major Production

Texas Tech's campus is loaded with talent.

This fact is proved over and over each year at special events such as the "Raider Rambles" talent show, the "Club Scarlet" mock nightclub and the annual German club revue.

Productions by Tech's speech department last year were little short of professional. The music department now boasts one of the biggest and best bands anywhere, a choir-full of excellently trained voices and an orchestra which includes many members of the Lubbock Symphony.

Why, then, with all this talent so readily available, does Tech no longer have a major campus-wide production?

The reason certainly can't be lack of an audience. Students consistently jam the Tech Union and Municipal Auditorium to see and hear performers imported by the Special Events Committee and Civic Lubbock. Therefore indications are that Techsians would welcome the opportunity of seeing fellow students performing in a production on a larger scale than any one department is able to sponsor alone.

The question of who should co-ordinate such a show remains to be decided. After the last Varsity Show in the spring of 1959, the Tech Union decided to cease being responsible for the show, but indicated a willingness to help back it up financially.

A Varsity Show Board was created, with representatives from 16 campus organizations. The Board voted to produce a show, ran into difficulties and apparently died.

If remnants of the old Board remain, it should be reactivated or revised. If not, then a new one should be organized to look into the possibilities of either having a production this spring or beginning plans for one next year.

A student body of 10,000 should certainly be able to present an outstanding campus-wide production and should not be deterred by the hard work and expense involved.

Toreador Mail Call...

Editor:

My congratulations on having one of the finest campuses and student bodies in the Southwest Conference. While on your campus last weekend to attend the A&M vs. Texas Tech football game my Aggie buddies and I were treated in the finest manner possible. I would like to extend special thanks to a senior wing-advisor in Thompson Hall, Boots Fisk, for the help he gave us in finding a place to stay. As we crossed your campus Saturday morning everyone we met greeted us with a friendly "hello."

After the game, even though Tech came out on the short end of the score, I heard no derogatory or snide remarks about Aggies as I have at other schools. In short, thank you Tech for a wonderful weekend and I only hope we can treat you as nice when you come to visit next year.

Jerry C. Cooper
A&M class of '63

Dear Editor,

Everyone is always talking about supporting the team and the cheerleaders. There is more to support than just being there.

I have nothing against our cheerleaders, in fact, I think they are VERY good. However, I feel that the reason more people do not yell with them at the game, is that nobody knows the yells. I have talked with many people in the dorm who do not yell because they simply do not know what is being said. I've been here three years and still don't know too many.

I think something should be done about this. If the cheerleaders could have a pep rally at each dorm or have people from several together, they could "teach" the yells to smaller groups instead of trying to do it at the pep rally. I know there is not time to do it there.

I believe people would be more interested if they knew the yells.

Yours truly,
Ann Miller

Mr. Editor,

In regard to your news article about the "Tangle After Game," October 12, 1961.

As long as there is rivalry between two schools, there is going to be hard feelings. This is only natural. But, if an old SWC school like A&M, that has been through this many times before, is willing to accept the blame for the incident as being equal, should we, a newcomer to the SWC, make a big issue of it? Juvenile, NO?

"All students involved were from the School of Agriculture." ARE WE NOT ALL TECHSANS? This incident happened at OUR school to our classmates! When a player makes a touchdown or an exceptionally good run, is he tagged as being "from the School of Arts and Sciences" or "from the School of Engineering?" Can we not all be proud of him?

This works both ways!

Yours truly,
Gerald Floyd
Agronomy Senior

(Editor's Note: You are certainly entitled to your opinion, Gerald. We must report the news. We felt that everything included in the story was newsworthy. It's pretty hard to compare a knitting to a good football run.)

Dear Editor,

I think that it is about time that some attention was called to the pitiful shape into which Tech's intramural program and facilities have slumped.

Although SMALL strides are being made, there is still quite a bit left to be desired, especially in the way of equipment. For some examples may I cite or draw attention to those PATHETIC hand ball courts that take more out of the game than they should. Then too, one small addition of plastic flag-belts to the football program would be a giant step toward cutting down bickering and indecision to a very great extent.

I was very glad to see that boxing had been added to the intramural agenda, but after a few boys get their knuckles smashed because they can't be supplied the necessary equipment, interest will drop here, much to the delight of our intramural director. He has expressed a dislike for boxing and implied that as long as he's here, boxing won't be. Maybe that explains why there is practically a void of necessary equipment in so many departments of our intramural program.

Thank you very much,
Glynn D. Baker
P.S. I VOTED!

From Politics To Pool

i. petty

Judging from the amount of mail that has crossed the editor's desk this past week, Techsians are waking up and beginning to express their opinions on various subjects. I understand the mail has been heavier this year than last.

I can remember when Tom Schmidt was calling the shots from the editor's desk. No shortage of mail then.

I read somewhere that the average reader usually has a few things he would like to read in the paper:

1. His name. With only good comments, of course.
2. A front page picture of his neighbor being hauled out of a bar.
3. A local news item about an affair his neighbor is having.
4. More letters to the editor naming the crooks around town.
5. Letters condemning the editor. (We've had 'em).
6. A complete biographical sketch about the "most important citizen around," and be sure you spell my name right.

There's probably a lot more that could be listed but that's enough to give you an idea of what we have to put up with from time to time. Can't complain, it's a lot of fun.

I also read that the average coed only comes to school to land a man. What about it, girls? More truth than fiction?

Somewhere on the Tech campus there is a student who may not realize just how good it is to have friends.

I understand that he had a plan to sell some "borrowed" books and was discussing the matter with friends in an establishment on College Ave.

His friends were doing their best to talk him out of this fool deed. I hope they convinced him. Because...

What he didn't know was that a Tech official, from the Dean of Men's Office, was sitting in a booth near him and couldn't help but overhear his plans.

Don't do it.

TCU comes to town tonight to battle the Raiders.

The Froggies are big and tough. It won't be easy to beat them. We're looking for a good performance from the Tech eleven.

FROM OTHER CAMPUSES — Tarleton State has voted to select a new nickname for their athletic teams. The old tag was "Plowboys." Can't say that I blame them.

Eight students have dropped out of Southern Methodist University because of the 49th Armored Division Call-up. Tech has lost over 20 students to reserve buildups.

They're having bicycle problems at Southern Illinois University. It seems that the bike riders are trying to see how many students they can manage to hit. Hell, they don't know what problems are. We have cars here.

Larry Campbell, student council business manager last year, penned me a note from Kent University recently. Larry receives the Toreador and keeps up with campus affairs. He misses Texas Tech and all of his "old cronies." He asked whether or not it was true that Bill Dean was still president of the student body.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I JUST DON'T KNOW ABOUT THIS YOUNGER GENERATION—WHEN I WAS IN COLLEGE, ALL WE THOUGHT & TALKED ABOUT WAS GIRLS."

Coed May Win Crown As 'Maid Of Cotton'

"As our statistics show, a Tech coed has a very good chance of being crowned South Plains Maid of Cotton for 1962.

This statement, made by Tom Eastland of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is backed by sound reasoning. Since the beginning of the contest ten years ago, every Maid has been a Tech student. Also, the only two entries received so far this year have been from Tech.

To date entries have been submitted by junior Beverly Alexander of Big Springs, and sophomore Markay Reynolds of Lubbock. The Chamber of Commerce urges anyone interested, whether or not they attend Tech, to submit an application before the contest closes on Nov. 7.

Basic requirements for participation in this contest are that the girls must be between 19 and 25, never have been married and over five feet five inches tall. "Our only request is that each entrant have her home residence in one of the 23 South Plains cotton producing counties. We ask so that publicity on the winner will emphasize this area rather than a non-cotton-producing region of the state," asserts Eastland.

The young woman named South Plains Maid of Cotton will appear as the Lubbock entry in the National Maid of Cotton Contest to be held in Memphis, Tennessee, next spring. She will be awarded a $1,000 cotton wardrobe and an expense-paid trip to the national contest. To the first alternate will go a $200 gift certificate; and to the second alternate, a $100 certificate.

Tech coeds who have represented Lubbock in the past are Joan Wienke of Lubbock, '61; Enna McDaniel of Seagraves, '60; Nan Kelley of Lubbock, '59; Revis Jordan of Lubbock, '58; Virginia Mitchell of Fort Worth, '57; Sherry Sinex of Longview, '56; Ann Perkins of Pampa, '55; Pat Mansell of Lubbock, '54; DeRose Wittenburg of Eden, '53; and Ruth Brunson of Lubbock, '52.

Techsan Dies In Car Wreck

Funeral services were held Friday for Charles Ben Elliot, 24, a sophomore engineering student at Tech. Elliot died Wednesday night of injuries sustained in a traffic mishap which injured his wife and five teenagers.

The accident occurred about 6:30 Wednesday evening on FM 1541 north of Happy. The car driven by Mrs. Elliott was in collision with a pickup truck in which the five teenagers were riding.

Elliot is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Elliot, Route 1, Happy. He transferred to Texas Tech this semester from West Texas State College in Canyon. He had been married about a year to the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Mitchell of Happy.

Parking Lot Battle Proves Survival Of The Fittest

By BILL HEARD

Toreador Staff Writer

Are you one of the unfortunate who searches each morning for a parking place? If you are, it won't be necessary to use much imagination to picture this situation.

The place: a crowded parking lot.

The time: anytime near the end of a class period.

The action: drivers loll in cars impatiently waiting for someone to move one of the cars in their jurisdiction (jurisdiction of a driver consists of all the parked cars on either side of his car as he waits in the driveway.)

The period ends and students leave class buildings for the lots. A student strolls down a driveway. The waiting drivers casually regard him. He moves his hand to the rim of his pocket. All eyes are riveted on him. He thrusts his hand deep into his pocket. Drivers sit up quickly.

He withdraws a stick of chewing gum and puts it in his mouth. He receives filthy looks and a few curse words from the drivers. He is completely unaware of the tense situation or he probably wouldn't have ventured on the parking lot in the first place.

Another student enters the lot. Still tense from the last episode, the driver's eyes are upon him. Again the hand to pocket and this time keys are produced. Motors roar to life, hands fly to gear sticks. As if aware that he is the center of attention the car-owner slowly, slowly selects a key.

In slow motion he unlocks his car, throws in his books, slides behind the wheel, starts his car and backs out.

Gears are engaged, clutches let out, tires scream, exhausts blast and cars converge on the lonely space.

It's the law of the jungle, survival of the fittest—and a grizzled, experienced lot-jockey squeezes into the place. With a Tarzan-like victory yell he emerges from his car and carves another knot in his bumper.

He is the mighty, he is the cunning, he is the quick. He is the perpetually LATE-ARRIVING PARKER.

Young Democrats Sponsor Trip To Washington, D.C.

Final plans are being made today to provide an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. for some lucky Democrat.

The contest is being sponsored by the Young Democrats in connection with the fall membership drive and is open to all Democrats in Lubbock and the surrounding area.

The winner will receive a round trip flight to Washington, in addition to several tours of the capital city. The winner will leave Lubbock on a Sunday morning and return the following Friday morning.

The tours will include: a boat and automobile tour of Mount Vernon and surrounding areas; a visit to the White House; and a tour of all public buildings, monuments and points of interest in the city.

Thursday will be a "free day" in which the winner can do some sight-seeing of his own. Reservations will be made at the Park-Sheraton Hotel.

According to Bill Sherbert, president of the organization, any Democrat between the ages of 16 and 40 is eligible to win. Those interested are urged to attend a meeting at the "Flame Room" of the Pioneer Gas Company.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Interested parties who cannot attend the meeting, but would like further details may contact Sherbert, PO 2-4352, or Van McVay, SH 4-4985.

Texas' Saxton Leads Runners

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—When Jim Saxton, whose change of pace and direction is likened to a water bug, handles the ball it means 13.5 yards for Texas.

He has been the big noise in Texas, flip-flop offense that has scored stunning victories over California, Texas Tech and Washington State and shot Texas into fourth spot in the national rankings.

Playing tailback in Darrell Royal's new offensive alignment, Saxton has gained 273 yards in 22 carries for a sensational average of 12.4. He has handled the ball 28 times for an over-all total of 379 yards rushing, receiving and returning kicks. That boosts the average to 13.5.

Saxton ran 49 yards against California, 78 against Texas Tech and 56 against Washington State. That kind of running will beat anybody. He handled the ball only 10 times against Washington State and gained 172 yards.

Called the "jitterbug" and "rabbit" by his teammates, Saxton is nearing his rushing total of last fall when he topped the team. He got 407 yards all last season. He also has passed his sophomore season total for 10 games.

Keyboard Wanderings

by Jim Richardson

Basketball workouts open Monday, and it will be interesting to watch the SWC champs work under Gene Gibson. Polk Robison and Gibson worked together a lot last year, so the change should be smooth. And it's not like Gibson is suddenly coaching strangers. He had 'em all under the freshman beanie.

We were catching up on intramurals at the old gymnasium (the barn) Wednesday and stopped long enough to marvel at the few rows of ancient wooden seats once warmed by Raider cage fans. And to think that not long ago Tech played conference basketball in these narrow confines. Who would have thought six years ago that the proposed spacious coliseum would be as packed for games now as the barn was then?

Same song, fourth verse—this time it's the TCU Froggies with the weight advantage. The Saturday night program shows the Fort Worth crew with 55 players on the roster, 34 of which weigh 200 pounds or more—mostly more. Put that up against Tech's five 200-plus men and see what develops. I see a trend.

Johnny Lovelace is one of Tech's big boys. The junior from Farwell stands 6-4 and tips the scales at 210, pretty big for a quarter back. And then there's the one about TCU's Sonny Gibbs, 6-7, 225 pounds. Next year...

Baylor hosts the Arkansas Razorbacks tonight in Waco, the first SWC game for the Bears and the second for Arkansas. Baylor is undefeated in intersectional play and should take the game. Arkansas' only conference loss last year was to Baylor and they'll be tuned up for the tilt.

The Bears haven't won a conference crown in 37 long years, and this could be the season for the Waco group. They picked a rugged year to go for broke, but they might just make the grade.

SCARLET Scatterings...

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

Polk Robison, Tech athletic director, presented an interesting slant on Tech football success—or the lack of it—when we talked Friday. Robison pointed out that against Texas A&M, Tech played 15 sophomores, 11 juniors and 5 seniors. The Aggies used 9 sophomores, 15 juniors and 9 seniors. He cited examples from other opponents, all claiming an experience edge over the Red Raiders.

It's an almost-impossible task trying to compete in one of the best conferences in the nation when the coach has to rely on sophomore players much of the time, but that's the dilemma Coach J T King is presently in. Only six seniors are on the Tech roster.

This means that of some 40 to 50 players recruited four years ago, only about one-eighth are still playing for Tech.

Why not do something about it, you say?

Coach King and his aides are taking definite steps in that direction this year.

Taking the emphasis in freshman football off of "winning" primarily, and putting more stress on playing all the boys, the coaches hope to keep all the players interested and at the same time develop more boys for future play on the varsity.

King pointed out that all boys' ability can't be measured by the play they do their freshman year. The boys who are played might not turn out to be the best when they get to the varsity.

On the other hand, another player might not show much his freshman season but in another year he might be one of the top players on the team. If he is not played during his freshman year, he may get discouraged and subsequently quit the squad.

—BEAT THE FROGS—

"I told you so!"

Ralph W. Carpenter, Toreador editor, has been stuck on that little four-word phrase since the Yankees slammed the Redlegs last week in five games to regain the world championship.

Carpenter said in his column before the series started that New York would take it in five. He's not quite satisfied with this little bit of success, however. He says next year, he'll pick the scores.

—BEAT THE FROGS—

John Petty picked seven of the ten games last week to take a two-game lead in the prediction scramble between he and the Scarlet Scatterbrain. Here's this week's "sure bets."

To Arkansas, 14-7

Picadors Lose Opener

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Toreador Sports Editor

The University of Arkansas freshmen outlasted the Texas Tech freshmen for a 14-7 victory in Jones Stadium Friday night, in a battle that featured long runs and vicious tackling and blocking.

Texas Tech held the lead in virtually every statistical department, but two long runs by Arkansas' Ronnie Carter and Ronnie Caveness made it a real Friday the 13th for Coach Berl Huffman's Picadors.

Caveness ran back an intercepted pass 39 yards to set up the Shoats' first tally, and Carter had the game's longest dash in the third quarter when he skampered 86 yards on a punt return for a score.

Other than these two dashes, the Picadors contained the Shoats, but as it was, the two sprints were enough to hand Arkansas the victory.

Tech didn't score until two minutes were left in the game. Halfback Henry Hammons breezed down the middle of the field for 66 yards on a punt runback for the lone Picador score.

Kenneth Gill's kick for the extra point finished the scoring for the Picadors, but there were several "near misses."

After the lone touchdown, the Picadors made a successful try at an inside kick, and almost pulled the game out of the fire.

An Arkansas tackle fumbled the short kick and James Zanios jumped on it to give Tech the ball on the Arkansas 40.

Zanios, Donny Anderson and James Ells all made long runs in the waning moments of the game to put the Picadors on the Arkansas five yard line with a minute to play, but a deflected pass was intercepted by Shoat guard Mike Hales on the three to kill Tech's last hope.

The end of the first half also found the Picadors deep in Arkansas territory.

The Picadors put forth a sustained 68-yard drive only to have the clock run out on them at the Arkansas three.

One other Picador chance to score came on the second half kickoff when Gill's high kick went into the end zone. Gary McMillan almost covered the loose ball for Tech, but the ball went out of the end zone for a touch-back.

The Shoats first scored midway in the first quarter after Caveness—a thorn in the Picadors' sides—all night, and wearing No. 55—intercepted a pass on the Texas Tech 48 yard line and ran behind good blocking to the Picador 9.

The Picador line held for three plays before Garland Ridenour ran it over from the one.

The other score was early in the third period when Carter made his 86-yard dash. Ridenour kicked both extra points for the Shoats.

Penalties hurt the Picadors in critical points.

Tech had a third and one situation on the Shoat 46 in the third quarter, and a penalty moved the Picadors back over the mid-stripe, and an incomplete pass brought on the punt which Carter ran back for the winning margin.

Tech's Anderson was the lead-all rusher in the game, making 67 yards on 11 carries, while Ridenour made 29 yards on 13 tries for Arkansas.

Infirmary Activity Increases As Winter Weather Arrives

With the approach of cool weather, activity at the Tech Infirmary is increasing in expectation of a rise in the number of students who will seek the benefits of the Student Health Service to cure their colds and other ailments.

Already many Techsians can be observed about the campus sniffing and sneezing because they have caught a cold, hay fever or maybe picked up the little virus that is presently touring the country as a potential threat.

For students here it is a comforting thought to know that there is a place conveniently located directly north of Knapp Hall where they can get immediate professional attention to speed them to recovery.

The Harriet and Len McClellan Memorial Infirmary provides such service. The professional staff includes two doctors, eight nurses, four licensed vocational nurses, a receptionist-laboratory technician, a dietician, three cooks, a maid and a custodian. There has been no increase in the staff this year even though Tech's enrollment has shot pass the 10,000 mark.

Dr. Fred P. Kallina, director of the Student Health Service, and Dr. E. R. Rose, professor and college physician, are the two doctors who supervise the treatment of every patient. Both are on duty during the day and one is always "on call" for night duty.

About six dollars of the $17 Student Service Fee is turned over to the Student Health Service each semester and this is what determines the service budget.

Last year 13,000 students were treated and in 1957 over 18,000 required treatment as a result of the Asiatic flu. Today, with Tech's population much larger than many cities, the doctors are worried about the large increase in the number of patients expected for this year. They treat from 100 to 175 students a day.

The Infirmary is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. until noon on Saturdays. This year visiting hours are from 2:30-4 p.m. Allergy immunizations are given to students between 2 and 4 p.m. each day.

Fish Slate Election

Three boys and three girls will be chosen freshmen cheerleaders for the 1961-62 season Oct. 26. Tryouts are in the old boy's gym at 6:30 p.m.

Petitions, which can be picked up in the Student Council office, are due by 4:30 p.m., Wednesday. The 30-cent filing fee must be paid when petitions are picked up. They must have 50 signatures when returned. The names of those running will be announced Thursday.

No posters or other campaign media may be used. There will be no runoff election, and the results, which will be in the Toreador Oct. 28, are final.

W. R. Tatum Takes Position In A&M Information Office

W. R. Tatum, Texas Tech's assistant director of public information for the last four years, has accepted a position with the Department of College Information and Publications at Texas A&M College. His position will become effective Monday.

Tatum steps into a position made available by an increasing demand for informational services. His primary responsibility will be collecting and disseminating information concerned with engineering and sciences.

A graduate of William Allen White, School of Journalism at the University of Kansas, Tatum has completed academic work toward a master of arts degree in government and journalism at Texas Tech.

The Aggies' new informational representative is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, Masonic Lodge, American College Public Relations Association and the Protestant Episcopal Church.

For the past four years Tatum has edited the South Plains Parade of Progress yearbook and authored "Guideline to Texas Press Law." His master's thesis, which he will complete at Tech, deals with Federal Communications Commission licensing policies.

Artist Assists Annual Staff

Helping the La Ventana staff with color, designing and feature ideas is Mr. Ray J. Tibbets from Los Angeles.

Tibbets pointed out that the La Ventana has been so widely acclaimed that a number of annuals have been fashioned after it.

"This year's La Ventana has improved 100 per cent over last year. Most of the art work and stories can be compared favorably with better known magazines," stated Tibbets.

Tech's annual is the only one of its kind that he is working with at the present. His job consists of working with nationally known products in much the same way he is helping the La Ventana.
