

3rd speaker in series is Bishop Pike

DALLAS (AP) — Bishop James A. Pike said Monday he feels that if free elections were held in a unified Vietnam, Ho Chi Minh would be voted into leadership of all Vietnamese.

"If I were betting, I'd bet on that," the one-time Episcopal Bishop of California told a luncheon press conference.

He called for inclusion of the Viet Cong in peace negotiations, and said talk of an unconditional U. S. withdrawal from Vietnam immediately "is a very irresponsible thing."

The North Vietnamese do not hate Americans, he said. "They just feel we're under a tyrannical regime, but they don't like the Chinese at all. They're afraid to let the Chinese into Vietnam for fear they'd never go home."

Pike, one of the most controversial critics of modern religion and society will be in Lubbock Wednesday at 7:15 p.m. as the third speaker in the University Speaker Series.

He will speak on the New Morality, which is also the title of his newest book.

Pike recently resigned as Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of California to join the staff of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara.

After questioning such doctrines as the Trinity, the Virgin Birth and the Incarnation, Pike was accused of heresy, but exonerated.

He told a morning session of a National Council of Churches convention that Christians should spurn promised "goodies" in Heaven and "think and love and serve, right here."

"I don't think Heaven and Hell could exist," he told a standing room crowd of thousands of delegates at the convention. "The kind of people who would be up there would be staging a demonstration at the gates of Hell."

"Or they would be organizing a rescue party. And, failing, they would go to Hell to be alongside them. That's where Jesus would go."

Chain-smoking through the luncheon questioning, the bishop denied having advocated that young men refuse to join the armed services if President Johnson refuses to negotiate for peace in Vietnam.

He said that at the Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania recently he made the observation that there will be a mass refusal to go, but said "I was just describing, I wasn't urging."

He said the U. S. government had taken the position during the Nuremberg war crimes trials that a person has a right, and in some cases a duty, to disobey his government.

Peter Finlay

World traveler passes this way again

By MARIE NAGEL
Staff Writer

A roving spirit and itchy feet characterize Peter Finlay as he wanders around the world on a hitchhiking adventure.

Finlay, who is back in Lubbock after pausing here briefly after Thanksgiving, says he went to Mexico to find the sun. What he found instead was snow—the first snow Mexico has had in 46 years.

PEOPLE CAME from miles around to see this freak phenomenon which occurred between Toluca and Mexico City. They built snowmen on their cars and tried to take them home before they melted.

From Lubbock, the adventurer went through New Mexico to the Painted Desert. He arrived there just as the sun was going down. "It was beautiful with all the colors brought out by the sun."

Finlay said he spent the coldest night of his life in Flagstaff, Ariz. When he woke up in the morning, he had to walk about five miles to restore the circulation in his body.

HIS IMPRESSION of the Grand Canyon? "It was like living in another world."

His wanderings also took him by way of the Hoover Dam to Las Vegas. While there, he saw a man lose $25,000 in one night. The man apparently had lost $25,000 the night before, too, which Finlay said made his $5 look rather small.

He feels people in Las Vegas are like machines.

HE WAS OFFERED a job as a butler with a wealthy man during his brief stay in the Gambling Capital.

The next stop on his itinerary was Knott's Berry Farm. Finlay said he particularly enjoyed the train ride which was attacked by Indians.

His favorite attraction at Disneyland, next point of interest, was Fantasyland. "The steamboat was beautiful with its Dixieland jazz band."

FROM SOUTHERN California Finlay then went to Mexico. In a little town just inside the Mexican border the police stopped him and made him return to the border because he was not properly cleared for admittance. He had walked across the border instead of riding in a vehicle that was stopped for passport clearance.

When Finlay was in Tequila, he was awakened by the rain, but went back to sleep. When he awoke again, he was soaked.

"That's what you get for being lazy."

THIS SPELL of laziness did not last long. From Tequila, he journeyed to Lake Chapala. He had plans for going swimming until he saw the lake. Lots of black snakes were swimming around.

Another adventure he had in Chapala was being picked up by Hoover's G-men on a drug lead, which was found to be false.

In Mexico City he visited the Shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe where the people walk on their knees from the gate to the chapel as a symbol of their adoration and self-sacrifice.

HE ALSO SAW the University City with its brightly colored tile mosaics decorating the buildings. He slept in Chepultapec Park under Chepultapec Palace. He also saw a Jai Alai game and his first bull fight.

"The bulls don't have much of a chance, so I like to see the bull win." The next leg of his jaunt led the world traveler to Acapulco. Here, like a man of means, he slept on the beach in hammocks strung between two palms. He rode on his first motor bike, too.

HE FOUND the famed divers fascinating, but learned that "living off the tourists is great."

Finlay has been gone from his home in England for three Christmases. The first one away was spent in Singapore in an army camp. The temperature was 100 degrees.

His second Christmas was in Australia. He had been swimming in Paradise Beach when the current sucked him under and carried him way out. The life-guard saved him.

He celebrated his third away from home in Los Angeles.

FINLAY SAYS he missed the Christmas pudding most. Of all the countries he has visited in his wanderings, Finlay says that if he had the chance, he would rather live in Nepal or India because they are unique.

Bloated-but-happy students set record

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Weary, bleary and bloated, a dozen University of Michigan students stumbled from a tavern Sunday night after 604 hours of beer drinking and happily claimed a record.

The 12 had been engaged in a social research program at a local tavern since Jan. 5.

Their happy revels ended, they com-

Senate to meet

Pres. Grover E. Murray will speak to the Student Senate today at 7 p.m. in the Biology Aud. and Student Body Pres. Bill Beuck will present his "State of Student Association" address.

The flag committee will present $25 awards to three persons for their sketches of a special Texas Tech school flag.

The Senate will discuss filling senatorial vacancies, and hear committee reports on bills and semester reports by each committee chairman.

pleted the task of estimating how much beer they had consumed.

At the rate of 12 ounces every half-hour, this amounted to an intake of 14,496 ounces of brew. More meaningful, it added up to tighter skirts for the girls in the drinkathon, and stretched belts for the men.

The 12 students—nine men and three women—betook themselves to Fraser's Pub last month with the intention of drowning out the old beer-drinking record of 302 hours set by a Michigan State squad in 1956.

Drinking was done in relays, with a requirement that at least one of the guzzling team quaff a 12-ounce stein every half-hour. The marathon also was limited to pub hours: 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 a.m. weekdays and noon to 6 p.m. Sundays.

They foamed by the old record long ago. But their dedication to the game kept them drinking till Sunday night.

Why did they keep drinking?

"Because it's there," said John Weiman, the team's most valuable player. He rolled up 9,462 ounces in froth-age.

And why did they stop?

Well, university officials reportedly started frothing at the month when they heard about the spree.

During the quaffing sessions three members of the team reported gaining five pounds.

But Ginger Redd, a pretty coed who has been cheering the team along right from the beginning of the campaign, said she's gained more than a few pounds.

Fortunately, the binge put no damper on Miss Redd's dating. Her boyfriend, Jerry Anderson, was a member of the drinking group.

"We were hardly ever more than a stein's throw away from each other," he gurgled.

Soviets claim bloody fighting in Red China

TOKYO (AP) — Soviet reports claimed Monday that bloody fighting had broken out in the heart of China, and in the hinterlands. A Hong Kong newspaper said four generals in western China had agreed to a plan to oppose Mao Tse-tung with peasant uprisings and other measures.

JAPANESE PRESS dispatches from Peking said nothing of either report but quoted wall posters as saying Russian troops staged a provocation on the Manchurian-Soviet border. The posters did not say there was an armed clash but claimed a Soviet soldier was captured and released.

Quoting Russian dispatches from Peking, Moscow radio in a Japanese-language broadcast said clashes between Mao supporters and their enemies had broken out in the provinces of Hupeh and Hunan in central China, in Kwangtung Province in the south, Heilungkiang Province in Manchuria and in Tibet and Inner Mongolia.

MOSCOW SAID Mao's supporters faced "a painful battle" in Lhasa, capital of Tibet and other cities and the Maoists had cabled Peking for military support.

While giving no details of reported fighting in central and south China and in Manchuria, Moscow radio said headquarters of the Red Guards had been destroyed in Inner Mongolia. Peking wall posters have conceded Mao's forces were in trouble in Inner Mongolia.

QUOTING ITS own sources from inside China, the Hong Kong Star reported four generals of the far west met two weeks ago at Kunming, capital of the southwest province of Yunnan, and agreed on unified plans to balk Mao's attempt to take over their provinces.

At the meeting were Chen Chi-wei, commander of the Lanchow military district in northwest Kansu Province; Huang Hsin-ting, commander of the Chengtu district in Szechwan Province, and an unnamed general representing Ge Wang En-mao, military commander in Sinkiang. Wang is reported to have taken to the hills to fight Mao's army.

THE STAR said the generals decided to encourage peasants to disobey and break down production and distribution

2nd MUN speaker

Dr. Edgar Wickberg of the University of Kansas will speak on Chinese Culture tonight at 8 p.m. in the Tech Union Ballroom.

Wickberg is the second in a series of four speakers that will precede this year's Model United Nations.

Wickberg received his B.A. in history at the University of Oklahoma and a Ph.D. in the same field at the University of California at Berkeley in 1961. He has done extensive research in the Philippines and Taiwan and on China's relations with Southeast Asia. Wickberg has written several articles and reviews on China as well as a book, "The Chinese in Philippine Life, 1850-1898."

rules forced on them when Mao organized them into communes in 1958. Workers in cities will be granted pay increases and special bonuses to win them over.

But both sides continued their war of words and anti-Soviet rallies were reported in various cities in China.

Folk heroes to dominate symposium

"The Folk Hero and National Character" will be the subject of the second annual English department symposium Friday and Saturday.

A group of experts will discuss the influence of folk heroes from Britain, Turkey, Spain, and the United States on those countries.

The two-day symposium will open with a luncheon Friday in the Coronado Room. Dr. Warren S. Walker will speak on the "Buckskin West: Leatherstockings at High Noon," discussing the relationship of the frontiersman to the American national character.

Dr. Walker is the author of "James Fenimore Cooper: An Introduction and Interpretation" and "Leatherstocking and the Critics."

The afternoon session will be from 2 to 4:30 p.m. on the third floor of the library. Dr. Charles M. Moorman, chairman of the English department of the University of Southern Mississippi, will speak on "King Arthur and the English National Character." Among the numerous articles and books Dr. Moorman has written on medieval and modern literature are "Arthurian Triptych, The Book of Kyng Arthur," and "Precincts of Felicity."

Dr. Ahmet E. Uysal of the University of Ankara, Turkey, will present "Law-givers, Law-breakers, and Preachers in the Turkish Oral Tradition." Dr. Uysal traveled throughout his native country taping stories handed down by word of mouth from generation to generation to gather information for his "Tales Alive in Turkey."

The last speaker of the Friday session will be Dr. T. Wesley Childers, chairman of the department of modern languages at John Pershing College, in Beatrice, Neb. He will speak on "The Spanish Folk Hero as a Reflection of His Culture."

Dr. Childers has written "Motif-Index of the Cuentos of Juan Timoneda," "A Study of Sources and Analogues of the Cuentos in Alcalá Yanez Alonso," and "Mozo de Muchos Amos."

A panel discussion on "The Making of a Hero" will open the Saturday session at 9 a.m. at the University Theater. Dr. J. T. McCullen will be the moderator.

Lubbock to remain wet unless vote protest filed

Southeast Lubbock County will remain "wet" as the result of the recent wet-dry election in Precinct 2 unless the drays file an official protest with the county clerk.

Clyde Wright, spokesman in the county clerk's office said there were no rumors of the dry forces contesting the vote.

The final vote was 1,567 for continued sale of alcoholic beverages to 1,009 against.

There is a state law which will not allow the drays to have another election for one year.

Then the drays will have to get 651 names in Precinct 2 on the ledger to hold the next election.

Six Flags sets talent hearing

Six Flags talent scouts will audition students from Tech and other West Texas-New Mexico colleges tomorrow, beginning at 6:30 p.m. in the KCBTV-TV studio, 5600 Ave. A. The scouts are looking for outstanding collegiate performers for summer work at Six Flags in Dallas.

MISS ADVERTISING — Tech senior Laurie Moore of Killeen holds a box of candy presented to her after she was named Lubbock's Miss Advertising for 1967. Her selection was an event in the observance of Advertising Week. Other events will include special programs at the Tech Union.

Tech senior is ad week sweetheart

Laurie Moore, Tech senior from Killeen, was named Miss Advertising 1967 by Lubbock advertising groups Sunday.

Rita Williams, sophomore journalism major from Lubbock, was selected runner-up. Mayor W. D. Rogers Monday officially proclaimed this week as Advertising Recognition Week in Lubbock.

Outstanding television commercials for 1966 will be shown tonight at the Tech Union in connection with the Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi Mixer.

Four top officials in the advertising field will speak Thursday at a seminar in the Tech Union Coronado Room.

They are Don Mercer, National Broadcasting Co. executive, at 10:10 a.m.; R. D. Presser of Goodyear Tire and Rubber at 11:10 a.m.; Tom Merriman, president of Commercial Recording Corp., Dallas, at 1:15 p.m.; and Joe Barros of Printing Arts Research Laboratories, Santa Barbara, Calif. at 2:15 p.m.

The Silver Medal Award Dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Villa Inn. Advertising Recognition Week is sponsored by the Lubbock Ad Club, the Lubbock chapter of the American Women in Radio and Television and the Tech chapters of Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi, nationwide advertising fraternities for men and women.

An editorial

Expand on fall semester

The legislative branch of the Government of the Student Association—the Student Senate—begins its second-semester "session" tonight with a productive semester behind them, and an opportunity-obligation to supercede it this semester.

The fall semester was not "productive" in total legislation so much as it was in comparison to past Senates, whose members for the most part were more interested in participating in an unruly election and seeing "Student Senator" under their name in the yearbook than they were in representing the student body. Undoing this reputation and gaining the respect of the student body will take more than one semester, but a start has been made.

THE 1966-67 SENATE has assumed a more orderly, responsible attitude than any of its predecessors. That all 49 Senators made their grades and that all complied with a self-imposed rule limiting absences for the semester to three—both quite unheard-of in recent years—are indications of this.

OF THOSE PASSED, the most notable were bills to (1) draw up a list of seven "encroachments on students' rights" which were instrumental in gaining revision of the Code of Student Affairs; (2) set up an election for an official flag for the university; and (3) secure publication of the spring final exam schedule during registration.

However, looking backward is of little use insofar as the spring semester is concerned. The Senate now has four bills in committee which should be kicked out and passed immediately so that proper action can be taken before the end of the semester:

- An Information Act, which allows for better communications between the executive and legislative branches and is necessary so that the Senate and student body may follow legislation after it has been passed.
- A bill calling for abolition of mid-semester grades, which should be presented as soon as possible to an administrative committee now studying the matter.

- An election revision bill which eliminates ridiculous circus elections in the spring and would add esteem to Student Government.

- A bill calling for an "investigation into possibilities of revamping the fall semester to conclude before Christmas."

THE SENATE ALSO NEEDS to initiate action in these areas, most of which will be discussed editorially in the near future:

- Plans must be formulated now for a "Fiesta" celebration during spring, 1968, which would attract high school students from across the state.

- Constitutional revision is necessary in the areas of organization of the executive and method of selecting Senators.

- Campus transportation should be provided at no "cost" to the student. Success of a 10-cent-a-ride bus service experiment this spring is doubtful. Possibilities of university-owned transportation funded out of the student activity fee should be looked into.

- Changes must be made in the Course-Instructor Evaluation program so that students may be provided with meaningful results next fall.

- A Campus Survey Committee should be established which could sample student and faculty opinions in such areas as mid-semester grades, semester revamp, tuition hike, election revision, and national questions such as the draft, Vietnam, and many others.

- The Senate should indicate that it will support President Murray's recommendation for a name-change, provided that it adequately represents the university.

- The Senate should widen its responsibility to include areas other than those confined to the campus, such as tuition hike, tax credit for student expenses, helping promote a hospital district for Lubbock County, and many others.

$2 bill

Jefferson's picture fades from scene

The $2 bill is dead. Along with running boards on automobiles, pocket watches and silver dollars, the old freak bill is fading from sight. The U.S. Treasury announced recently that no more $2 bills would be printed. There's no telling what will happen now in poker games. Besides being bad luck to the holder, the $2 bill is always minus a corner, as the superstition goes, in a poker game. This bill is unusual. Many people save it if they receive it in change. Some, fearing the value of the bill, hesitate to use it as good currency, which accounts for the $2 bill lasting about six years compared to 18 to 20 months for $1 and $5 bills.

The $2 bill is a "stepchild" of the U. S. Treasury Department, but its birth was as noble as other denominations. The Continental Congress authorized 49,000 of the bills issued on June 23, 1776. The bill, picturing Thomas Jefferson on one side, and showing his home, Monticello, on the other, was due to be an outcast. With the invention of modern cash registers, the bill became nothing more than a bother. There was no room in the cash drawer for such an odd bill. The face of Jefferson became confused among the stack of George Washington's

Nuclear ban very near

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary George Brown said today the world is very near a treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons. He forecast it would be acceptable to nuclear and non-nuclear powers, including West Germany. Brown told a news conference only hours after the departure for Moscow of Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin: "We are very near, I think the world is very near, to conclusion of a nonproliferation treaty, acceptable certainly to the nuclear powers."

Pasewark will speak in Dallas

Dr. William Pasewark, head of the business education department, will speak Friday at 3:15 p.m. on "Vocational Business Education - Texas Style" at the annual Texas Junior College Association conference in Dallas.

Pasewark's speech will concern the funding of programs in business education and taking advantage of federal and state legislation.

Pasewark was chosen to speak at the conference because his department has benefited from federal legislation. The department of business education has received money for a new Business Administration Building and equipment for a multiple-listening lab.

While in Dallas, Pasewark will also visit the new Dallas County Junior College and a Dallas high school.

"The purpose of the conference," said Pasewark, "is to acquaint classroom teachers and administrators with federal and state legislation and how to implement this legislation to develop better programs."

Two one-act plays scheduled this weekend in lab theater

"Variations on a Theme," ties her in a chair, and then a double-bill of one-act plays, becomes a "tiger," alternately ranting and roaring, chuckling and creeping about the stage. The situation climaxes at 8:15 p.m. Friday with a typical O. Henry surprise ending.

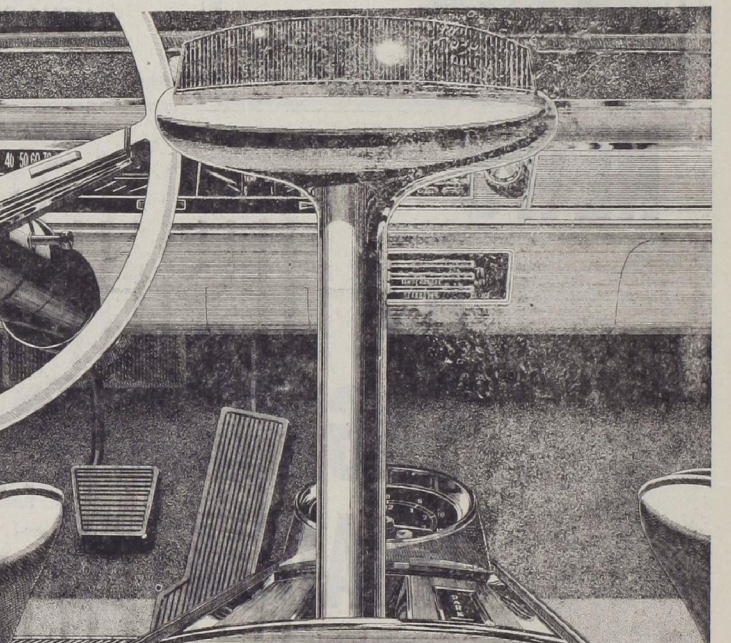

"The Interview," in contrast to "The Tiger," offers a serious comment on the question of communication and involvement between men. Murray Schisgal, Broadway playwright, satirizes the avant-garde preoccupation with this topic in his comedy "The Tiger."

The plot revolves around the attempt of a middle-aged postman to assert himself. He kidnaps a suburban housewife. The double-bill provides similar themes with divergent approaches. Busch's portrayal of one of man's most urgent conflict combines with Schisgal's good-humored poke at the gravity and enormity which man attaches to his own problems.

Tickets can be obtained at the Lab Theater Box Office in the Speech Building at 50 cents per person or by calling ext. 2152.

Tech meets league leading Ponies

By GEORGE CHAFFEE
Sports Editor

HOPING SUCCESS will breed more of the same, Texas Tech's surprising Red Raiders travel to Dallas tonight where they will try to make amends to TCU by upsetting Southern Methodist.

Last Saturday, the Raiders upset the Frogs 77-72 while the Mustangs were busy dumping Baylor 94-88 in Dallas. The turn of events didn't get the Raiders out of the cellar, but was a big step and it did drop the Frogs down two games behind the Methodists.

ALTHOUGH THE JOB facing the Raiders tonight will be considerably tougher than Texas Christian, Raider coach Gene Gibson is more optimistic than he has been in the past.

"We may have to solicit the help of the Dallas Fire Department to help cool them down," he said, "but, I think we have a pretty good chance after last Saturday. That win has really helped. We've stopped worrying about the cellar now. We'll let someone else have it. Right now we're thinking about finishing in the top bracket."

Tankers break even

The Texas Tech swimmers broke even-steven on the road this past weekend dropping close decisions to SMU and Arlington State and then bouncing back to dunk TCU and New Mexico State.

Robert Graham set a pool record in the 50-yard free style in the Raiders 53-51 loss to Arlington State.

SMU won its 50th consecutive dual meet as they downed Tech 58-46. Bryan Percival nipped Graham by one-tenth of a second in the 50-yard free style to hand the Raider tanker his first loss in that event this season.

Saturday the Raiders dropped New Mexico State 70-23 and TCU 65-25 in dual meets.

Tech is now 4-8 in dual meets this year. Their next meet is with Oklahoma State Feb. 24.

hard a job, getting past the first couple of games in the second round of SWC play will. Of course, the Raiders have gotten half-way over the hurdle, but whether SMU's strength has made the hurdle too high remains to be seen.

"They're probably the best all-round ball club in the league," Gibson said. "Besides being a hot-shooting club (the Ponies have five men average in the double figures) they work well under the boards and handle the ball well."

PROVIDING THE SPARK for the Mustangs has been 6-3 Charles Beasley. A cinch to repeat as all-league forward, Beasley is averaging better than 14 points per game.

OPPOSITE BEASLEY in the other wing will be 6-5 Bob Bergert. Donny Holman and Bob Jones, the boy that beat Tech with his 26 points output in Lubbock, will share guard duties. Lynn Phillips, 6-7 sophomore, will start at the post.

While Phillips enjoyed his short visit to Lubbock when the Mustangs downed the Raiders 91-72, he may not have such a good time in Dallas. The main reason is a much improved Vernon Paul.

"PAUL IS BEGINNING to get the idea that all the territory under the basket belongs to him," Gibson said. "He's really working well off the boards." Paul paced all rebounders in Saturday's game, picking off 15 caroms.

Another happy development is little Jerry Haggard. Gibson called him the spark of the TCU game and will start him against SMU. The Lubbock sophomore (in eligibility) ran over the vaunted TCU Karate Press, and Wayne Kreis, then pumped in several outside shots when they were needed most. More important, he "kept his cool" when Kreis blew his.

WORKING WITH HÄGGARD will be Tapp at the other guard spot, Dave Olsen and Joe Dobbs at forwards, and Paul at center.

Although SMU was first on Gibson's mind, he did think back to the TCU for a minute and said, "You know, you might write a word or two telling how much we appreciate the fan's support. Without it, we probably wouldn't be sitting here grinning at each other right now."

Izzat so and other stuff

GEORGE CHAFFEE

It was announced the other day that Darrell Royal's search for a place-kicker to replace graduating David Conway ended when two soccer players offered their services.

One might yawn, "Oh yeah, so what else is new?" and keep pumping down his soggy corn flakes, never missing a beat. But, at the risk of having you choke on those mouthfuls of nature's goodness, here's the catch: one of them claims he kicked 10 consecutive 60-yard field goals during practice.

The coach of Texas' soccer team, Namir Izzat, went to see Royal telling him of Luis Cobos from Ecuador and Alfred Eriker of Germany. Both had been practicing since Christmas, and Cobos boasted the 60-yarders, and Eriker claimed 10 in a row from 45 to 50 yards the same day.

BACK IN LUBBOCK, J T KING certainly isn't faced with a kicking problem with two long distance place kickers in Jerry Don Sanders and Kenny Vinyard. But, when the 30th day of September rolls around, one of the most interesting Southwest Conference games will be played in Austin when Royal's Longhorns and King's Raiders meet. The reason is simple: every time one team penetrates the other's 40, the punter will remain on the bench.

Or, in Tech's case, the punter could also be the place kicker. Then Jake could borrow Berl Huffman's option play and send the boy in with instructions to kick.

INTERVIEWING COACHES was at first a frightening experience for this amateur. But, over at the Athletic Office, the folks are easy to talk to. In fact, it's downright hard to get in a question every now and then. So, the pains of trying to think up intelligent questions are greatly relieved.

However, there are still other coaches that just won't say much and when you run out of questions after they answer the first two with one or two words, you could cut the silence with a knife.

WELL SIR, OL' BUSTER BRANNON wasn't going to scare this kid one bit. After TCU had finished a short workout at Municipal Coliseum Friday, he was standing outside waiting for a cab.

During the introduction, he must have sensed the crumpling nerves from the cold, clammy hand and decided to have a little fun. In order to try and get him going, we asked something general: "Well coach, what are you expecting from Tech tomorrow?" (We figured one stupid question was enough).

With somewhat of a twinkle in his eyes, Buster's leathery face wrinkled into a grin as he looked up at the clear sunny sky and said, "Well, I'm always pessimistic, but I think we'll have nice weather tomorrow."

THEN HE SAID "BYE" and turned around to talk to James Cash. Not knowing whether to tap him on the back or run, we compromised by stepping just inside the back door of the coliseum, breaking out in a cold sweat, and waiting until he and his boys had left.

For the rest of the day, we just couldn't figure out exactly what he had meant. Then Saturday morning we awoke, opened the curtains and looked outside. Across a rain-drenched field was the coliseum sitting under a gray, cloudy sky.

WALKING OVER TO THE COLISEUM, Buster's words kept repeating themselves and we broke out in a cheerful whistle.

JUMP LIKE A FROG — Vernon Paul leaps high in the air and lobs the ball over the outstretched arms of a TCU defender during the Raiders 77-72 upset win over the Frogs. Paul led Tech scorers with 21 points.

NEWS for ENGINEERING GRADUATES

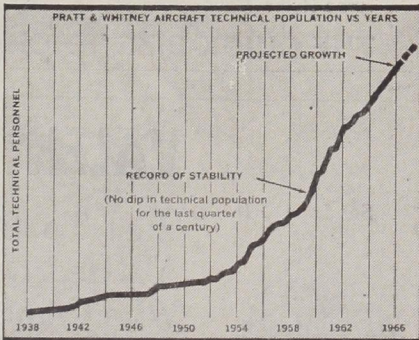

Continued expansion of our military and commercial business provides openings for virtually every technical talent.

As you contemplate one of the most important decisions of your life, we suggest you consider career opportunities at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft. Like most everyone else, we offer all of the usual "fringe" benefits, including our Corporation-financed Graduate Education Program. But, far more important to you and your future, is the wide-open opportunity for professional growth with a company that enjoys an enviable record of stability in the dynamic atmosphere of aerospace technology.

And make no mistake about it... you'll get a solid feeling of satisfaction from your contribution to our nation's economic growth and to its national defense as well.

Your degree can be a B.S., M.S. or Ph.D. in: MECHANICAL, AERONAUTICAL, CHEMICAL, CIVIL (structures oriented), ELECTRICAL, MARINE, and METALLURGICAL ENGINEERING • ENGINEERING MECHANICS, APPLIED MATHEMATICS, CERAMICS, PHYSICS and ENGINEERING PHYSICS.

For further information concerning a career with Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, consult your college placement officer—or write Mr. William L. Stoner, Engineering Department, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, East Hartford, Connecticut 06108.

Take a look at the above chart; then a good long look at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft—where technical careers offer exciting growth, continuing challenge, and lasting stability—where engineers and scientists are recognized as the major reason for the Company's continued success.
