Another German Officer Dies -- Nazis Threaten To Use Troops, Guns To Quieten French Rioters

Petaim Begs Frenchmen To Halt Attacks

35 Have Died In Reprisal Shootings By Firing Squads

VICHY, Unoccupied France, Sept. 22 (AP)—The killing of another German officer six days ago in the series of attacks on members of the German forces occupying Paris was reported today from the capital.

The death of the officer, a Captain Scheben, was disclosed only today when Paris papers announced that a funeral was held yesterday in the famous Madeleine church, in the heart of Paris.

Otto Abetz and Fernand de Brion, German and French envoys at Paris, respectively, and the German army command were represented at the services.

The announcement said Scheben was the victim of a cowardly attack last Tuesday.

(Twelve hostages already have been shot for the death last Wednesday of a German non-commissioned officer attacked two days before).

A blunt threat to use German guns and troops swiftly and forcefully against any organized attempt at revolution hung ominously over occupied France today.

This fateful word came from authorized Paris sources just after Marshal Petaim broadcast an appeal Sunday to Frenchmen to halt attacks on Germans to save all conquered France from Nazi reprisals.

Already 35 have died in reprisal shootings before Nazi firing squads. The Paris sources said this would "be a mere drop in the bucket" compared to what may be in store unless the outbreak of sabotage and terrorism cease.

There still are enough German soldiers to keep the peace in occupied France, the informants said, "even if the French do not want to keep it themselves." By way of emphasis, they added that the occupation forces had not been reduced despite the demands of the Russian-German war.

In his plea Marshal Petaim told his people the attacks on German army men "are criminal—they may lead to new troubles."

"They must be blamed on foreign agents," he went on, "because it is not in French tradition to attack soldiers in the dark while they are doing their duty."

Prize Money Voted For Farm Exhibit

Approval of an appropriation for $100 as prize money for a Howard county agricultural products exhibit here Oct. 17-18 was given by chamber of commerce directors Monday.

Directors also went on record authorizing the promotion of the third annual "decision week" program by the chamber when any citizen, regardless of chamber affiliation, may call at the chamber office and give suggestions for a 1941 program of work.

J. L. LeBlanc reported on the organization of 17 aircraft observation posts in Howard county and said the work apparently was complete. T. J. A. Robinson told of the Coahoma goodwill dinner last week and expressed the hope that more business men would attend these affairs.

In discussion of the telephone situation, it was reported that cables had been spliced in and service was now available in almost all areas of the city, that telephone company officials had declared facilities now should provide for normal growth of the city for a period of three years, that the company welcomed word from customers concerning quality of service so that mechanical and other faults could be quickly ironed out.

Contacts with the highway department, with officers at Randolph Field and with state WPA officials in San Antonio were outlined by R. W. Whipple, B. J. McDaniel, and R. T. Piner.

Tish, Tish, Mr. Churchill—

Didn't You Know Cats Don't Like Patting?

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Cat, monthly publication of the Cats Protective League, chided Prime Minister Churchill today for fondling a cat during the Atlantic meeting with President Roosevelt.

Referring to pictures of the Prime Minister patting the cat on the head, Cat said cats abhor head-patting and added: "He should have conformed to the etiquette demanded by the occasion, offering his hand and then awaiting a sign of approval before taking liberties."

Fifteen Persons Missing In Floods Sweeping New Mexico

E. K. FAWCETT SUCCUMBS AT DEL RIO HOME

DEL RIO, Sept. 22 (AP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for E. Keyes Fawcett, 76, pioneer ranchman and past president of the West Texas chamber of commerce, who died yesterday after suffering three heart attacks in a week.

Fawcett, born in Mississippi, settled near here in 1883 after driving a flock of sheep from Yorktown. His ranch holdings were among the largest in West Texas.

Big Spring residents remember E. K. Fawcett as the bearded, picturesque old-timer who presided at sessions of WYOC convention here in 1940, the year that he headed the organization.

He kept working at his Del Rio ranch and in civic enterprises far past the retirement age, and despite his advanced years, his major interest remained in young people. A believer in the development of West Texas resources, he believed youth was the greatest of these resources, and contributed much to the Boy Scouts and other organizations for young people.

He was a sheep rancher but did not enter that business in the present era, but rather several decades ago when all sheep owners were known as "damnsheepmen."

Mahon Returns To Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—George Mahon was back in his Washington office this week after having spent three weeks visiting in various portions of the 19th District.

Last week, while en route to Washington, he visited army maneuvers in Louisiana where a half million soldiers are engaged in mock warfare for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of our armed forces. Mahon reported that he saw a few of the enlisted men from the 19th Texas district.

In commenting on the maneuvers, Mahon said that the West Texas boys were measuring up to their full responsibility. "It is not a pleasant task for the boys to face the severe hardships occasioned by the maneuvers," he said, "but I can testify from observation that the boys can really take it. The thing that impressed me most was the physical toughness and the high moral quality of the men. The modern youth does not lack the physical stamina and the hardihood of his predecessors."

"The soldiers are the ones, and about the only ones, who are making real sacrifices for national defense. They deserve 100 per cent cooperation from labor and capital and from the people generally."

Mahon is a member of the war department appropriations committee, and he visited the maneuvers in company with army officials and other committee members.

Kin of Local Residents Exchanges RCAF Blue For Khaki Garb Of Uncle Sam's Army

Changing the royal blue uniform of the Royal Canadian Air Force for the khaki brown of the United States army, Fred Fullerton, Jr., of Tyler left tonight for Fort Sam Houston where he will be inducted into the army and leave for the Philippine Islands.

Fullerton, who is 31 years old, has spent the past few days here visiting his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. John Matthews.

For the past five months Fullerton has been in Canada stationed at Toronto and St. Thomas, Ontario, and Victoria, B.C. He trained in technical schools and in air instruction.

Carlsbad Hard Hit; Roswell Threatened

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 22 (AP)—Torrential rains raging over entire Eastern New Mexico left at least 15 persons missing today, threatened the city of Roswell with a major flood, shattered gas lines to Albuquerque and sent walls of water roaring into Carlsbad.

A dozen persons were still missing in Carlsbad after a 25-foot wall of water came down canyons on the outskirts of the city Saturday night. Authorities expressed fear the fate of some might never be known.

At the northern end of the state, a father and his two children were missing when caught by a four-foot wall of water racing down the Vermejo river at Stag Canyon above Dawson, on the Colorado line.

The victims were Fernando Duran and his two children. Mrs. Duran was riding in a truck behind their car, reported seeing it overwhelmed by water and swept downstream. Little hope was held for safety of the occupants.

Meanwhile, flood warnings were issued for the Pecos river at the city of Roswell, menaced by a 35-foot rise in the mountain rain-fed Hondo river.

The U. S. weather bureau forecast a "severe flood" by late afternoon at Roswell, with the Hondo standing at an all-time record high only 25 miles west and the waters moving steadily down river toward the city.

Eight inches of rain were reported north of Roswell at Alamogordo dam on the Pecos, which stood at 18 feet at the junction of the Pecos and the Hondo. Alamogordo dam was also spilling 80,000 second-feet into the Pecos.

Japan Rations All Iron And Steel

TOKYO, Sept. 22 (AP)—Japan, under economic pressure by the United States and Britain, tightened her belt another notch today with drastic reductions of steel and iron goods production and looked anew to diplomatic discussions in Washington to produce a possible key to accord.

Developments on the German-Russian warfront also were being studied closely for signs of further weakening of Soviet resistance which some Japanese said might speed the day of world peace.

King Of Greece Arrives In England

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP)—King George II of Greece arrived in London from South Africa today and was greeted at Euston station by King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of England, Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and other cabinet ministers.

With regard to Canada, Fullerton said that an average of 25 American men join the RCAF during a week, and the first person he met after arriving at Windsor where he signed up was John Matthews' brother, who is now en route to England.

From Canada to the Philippine Islands in about six months is taking in a lot of territory. But the Philippines is the assignment that Fullerton asked for when he joined the United States army.

RAILS AGREE TO ELIMINATE DIFFERENTIALS

AUSTIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—The railroad commission announced today that railroads had agreed to a commission order cancelling intrastate differential freight rates in Texas and injunction proceedings brought by the railroads against the order would be dismissed.

Commissioners Olin Culberson and Jerry Sadler, who made the announcement, estimated that as a result of the order shippers would be saved approximately $1,000,000 a year in freight costs.

Only last week the commission, which issued the order about two years ago, had asked the attorney general's department to go to the trial in the injunction case at the earliest possible moment.

The injunction had been granted by a Travis county district court. What to do with about $900,000 collected by railroads under the differential rates since the injunction was issued in November, 1938, and held in a special fund will be discussed by the commission, the attorney general's department and the court, Sadler and Culberson said.

NYA Youths Study First Aid Course

All 50 boys enrolled at the NYA resident center here are participating in a Red Cross first aid course now underway, Hugh Carrington, assistant supervisor.

Classes are being conducted by members of the Couden first aid team and are offered in two-hour sessions twice a week until the 21-hour course is completed.

Instructors include Neal Barna, J. T. Morgan, Lee Harris, Stony Henry and Alex Selkirk.

Other activities at the center include the manufacture of fluorescent lamps in the metal shop along with much school playground equipment such as see-saws, acting bars, swings, etc.

The woodwork shop has kicked up its output with the discontinuance of the sweatwater shop and the assumption of that unit's unfinished work. The shop now has on order more than 100 standard four-drawer filing cabinets for the army.

Among improvements being effected for the center is a dishwashing machine being turned out by the metal shop.

Hull Wants Change In Neutrality Act

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Secretary of State Hull told his press conference today that he had tried for some time to indicate that he believed the neutrality act should be changed.

He declined to predict, however, whether or when the measure would be repealed or revised.

Cotton Pickers From South Begin Arriving

TSES Reports Many Placed In Fields, More En Route

Migration of cotton pickers from South Texas to this area started during the weekend, and placements were being made at a steady rate Monday, according to O. R. Rodden, local manager for the Texas State Employment Service.

It was estimated that during the weekend possibly 500 or more pickers were put to work in fields of Howard and Martin counties. Rodden made 115 placements from opening time Monday morning until 11 a. m.

And still the volume of migration from the south was in its inception.

At Lamesa, M. E. Harlan was making placements for TSES, although the labor supply there was still far below the demand. Some relief was coming in the form of crews being organized in late sectors of the South Plains and the Panhandle who are coming this way to pick until their own cotton opens.

Numerous inquiries directed by crew captains to the TSES office here have been answered and Rodden anticipated that by the end of the week there would be a heavy flow of pickers coming this way.

One answer to the reason for belated shift of pickers to the plains is found in a Corpus Christi newspaper report that Sheriff John B. Harney and three deputies had been watching important roads to prevent the "woolung away" of cotton pickers from the Nueces harvest.

Floods May Delay Circus Appearance

Washouts on the Southern Pacific tracks west of Sierra Blanca caused some doubts here Monday as to whether the Ringling Brothers and Bailey circus would be able to fill its scheduled appearance here Tuesday evening.

There was no trouble on Texas and Pacific tracks, officials said here Monday. However, it was reported that between Sierra Blanca and El Paso heavy rains of near cloudburst proportions had damaged two bridges, washed out some dump and track. Unofficially, it was estimated that it might be Wednesday before traffic movement could be restored.

Pending word from the circus management, however, it could not be said authoritatively whether the circus would be able to make its appearance here according to schedule. As a matter of conjecture, it might be possible for the special trains to be routed south and into Sweetwater, from which point it would have to double back if it made its showing here.

Probably it will be Tuesday before definite word is available from circus officials.

In event it does get here, the unloading will be from a point east of the depot, down E. 1st street to Austin, south on E. 2nd, east to State, south to E. 4th, east to State, south to Spicemore, and thence east to the show grounds adjacent to the rodeo plant.

Brother Of Local Woman Is Killed

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Morehead and family left Monday for Canadian, Tex., as word was received here of the death of Morehead's brother, Vance, in a car mishap near Kansas.

Vance Morehead was en route to Kansas on a business trip when his car figured in a three car smash-up. Funeral services are expected to be held at Canadian Tuesday.

High Tides Close Coastal Highway

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 22 (AP)—Four-foot tides resulted today in the closing of highway 87 along the Port Arthur-Galveston beach and ending of operations on the Bolivar-Galveston ferry.

Coast guardmen warned beach colonies to evacuate. Few precautions were taken at Port Arthur as further date on the course of the tropical storm was awaited.

Jap Troops Move Toward Siberia

MANILA, Sept. 22 (AP)—At least a million Japanese troops have been sent to Manchoukou and Korea in recent weeks, unusually reliable sources here said today.

Since late June events within Japan have pointed unmistakably toward a move against Siberia in event Germany should be successful in her struggle with Russia, these sources said.

Italian Suicide Boats Raid Gibraltar Port

Tiny Assault Craft Sink Three Ships And Damage One In Attack On British Stronghold

By The Associated Press

Italian "suicide crews," meaning tiny secret assault boats, were reported today to have carried out a spectacular raid under the command of Gibraltar's great batteries during the night, sinking three ships and badly damaging a fourth in the harbor.

Countering the Italian claim, the London admiralty reported that British submarines, attacking a Mediterranean convoy carrying axis reinforcements to North Africa, sank two large Italian liners and damaged a third—all believed to be vessels of nearly 25,000 tons.

British RAF headquarters in Cairo reported successful RAF attacks on axis shipping off Tripoli in which one ship blew up with such terrific force that the attacking RAF plane was destroyed.

The fascist raid on Gibraltar, Britain's great Mediterranean fortress, was announced in a brief communique by Premier Mussolini's high command. Authoritative quarters in Rome said the raiding craft, each described as little more than a human projectile, were operated by men who knew there would be slight chance of returning.

The fate of the crews was not disclosed. The mosquito-like craft, carrying a single torpedo, were pictured as having such quiet propulsion they could slip into harbors before being detected and such shallow draft they could cross over submerged barriers.

A fascist spokesman said MAS-boats, speed craft with the smallest classification in the Italian navy, carried the mystery boats to within a few miles of their targets, then set them loose to strike.

In a similar raid into Malta's harbor last July 30, the crews never came back.

Aside from an Italian torpedo attack on Gibraltar shipping last year, it was the first naval assault since French and Spanish ships unsuccessfully shelled the British garrison there in the winter of 1782-83.

In describing the bold raid, the Italian high command identified the attackers merely as "assault units" which "entered the bay and inner port" of Gibraltar to sink three ships outright and damage a fourth so seriously it was assumed lost.

Authoritative London quarters met the Italian claim with "absolutely no comment."

The attack apparently took the British by complete surprise, since Gibraltar harbor, protected by moles, nets, minefields and great guns high on the rock, had long been considered secure against close-in assault.

Night Club Brawl -- Errol Flynn Gets Forked In Ear; Lupe Valez Smears Catsup Around

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22 (AP)—Most night club battles are bloodless. A couple of futile swings, then a lot of people rush in to part the principals.

This is seldom difficult, since usually there's plenty of room between them for people to look in.

That Hollywood's latest fistic filly early Sunday was different, apparently was not the fault of either principal — he man-actor Errol Flynn or gossip columnist Jimmie Fidler, just back in town after testifying in Washington before a senate committee investigating movie propaganda.

Most accounts credited Flynn with striking two blows (whether slaps or socks was disputed); and Fidler with none. Yet Flynn came out with a gouged ear dripping blood.

He said diminutive, dark-haired Bobbie Fidler did the damage with a fork, adding:

"But she made the very grave social error of using the wrong fork."

Flynn, chatting while his ear received the cold water treatment, said he took exception to certain of the columnist's statements about the movies.

The band quickly brought things under control, playing "The Star Spangled Banner." Witnesses agreed one of the most entertaining features of the affair was Lupe Valez, standing on a chair, yelling and waving a catsup bottle.

Bulgarian King To Confer With Hitler

War-like preparations in Bulgaria, ostensibly aimed at Turkey, were emphasized today by reports that King Boris III of Bulgaria was en route to a meeting with Adolf Hitler.

German sources said such was "out of the question."

In Berlin, the Wilhelmstrasse reported that Bulgaria had been "brought into a state of higher watchfulness," which, it was said, was not surprising in view of the reported landing of Russian parachutists on Bulgarian soil.

King Boris' reported visit to Hitler aroused speculation that Bulgaria, now almost completely mobilized, might be preparing to enter the field as an active ally of Germany.

The London radio, quoting unconfirmed Turkish advice, said Field Marshal Gen. Walter von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the German army; Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, German naval chief; and Nazi Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop would attend the meeting.

King Boris' departure followed his inspection of Bulgarian troops maneuvered by the biggest army called to the colors in the nation's history.

Neutral observers interpreted Bulgaria's military preparations as part of a German plan to high-pressure Turkey, Britain's non-belligerent ally, into making concessions which would aid the Nazi cause in the middle east and Russia.

On the Russian-German war front, the Red army tersely acknowledged the fall of Kiev, Ukraine capital and Russia's third greatest city, but declared that a Soviet counter-offensive on the central (Moscow) front had recaptured 22 villages and driven the Germans from a strongly fortified line.

Leningrad's position apparently was growing more critical by the hour. Soviet dispatches admitted that Nazi divebombers were smashing at the old carport capital and its 3,900,000 populace with "such ferocity it seems the earth itself will spill."

Moreover, the Germans reported that Nazi shore batteries had frustrated an attempt by Russian warships to fire the silenced Kronstadt Island naval base, 70 miles east of Leningrad.

30-Day Truce Puts 44,000 Back On Job

By The Associated Press

Back-to-work whistles blew today for 44,000 striking employees of captive mines, and officers of most of the unions involved in a Pennsylvania anthracite strike asked their followers to return to their jobs.

The employees of Captive Mines — pits in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Kentucky supplying fuel for major steel companies — agreed to resume work on the basis of recommendations by the national defense mediation board. The mines have been idle a week.

The board's recommendations called for no work stoppage for thirty days, or thereafter until either side gives three days' written notice. Meanwhile, the mediation board will attempt to settle the controversy, which arose over the demand of the United Mine Workers for a union shop contract in the Captive pits.

Officers of 38 of 42 UMWA locals in district seven, where 20,000 hard coal diggers have been idle almost two weeks in protest against increased union dues and assessments, voted yesterday to agree to return to work and submit their grievances to a commission to be named by International President John L. Lewis.

The officers voted 138 to 1 in favor of the proposal and arranged to ask their local memberships to ratify the action today.

An insurgent group, however, ignored their plea and scheduled a march into adjoining district nine in an effort to spread the walkout. The insurgents, meeting at Free-lance, Pa., announced they would return to work only if union dues were limited to $14 a year and if the national labor relations board would supervise an election of new district seven officers.

American Federation of Labor machinists employed by the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation at San Diego arranged for a strike vote today in a dispute over wages, while company officials dispatched a request for mediation to Sidney Hillman, associate director of the office of production management.

Meanwhile, the Seafarer's International Union (AFL) had intensified its strike in support of a demand for war bonuses for crews operating in West Indian waters.

Three more ships were tied up by the strike yesterday, bringing the total of strike-bound vessels throughout the country to 13, and the union reiterated that it would strike every foreign-run ship under contract with it "as soon as it hits an American port."

Myron C. Taylor Leaves For Home

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 22 (AP)—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal envoy to the Vatican, left Rome today en route to the United States.

He had a farewell audience with Pope Pius XII yesterday at which, informed sources said, the pontiff gave him a letter to be delivered to the president.

The letter was in answer to a message which Taylor brought from the president, these sources declared.

U.S. Delegation Arrives In Moscow

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Moscow radio reported tonight that the British and United States delegations for the three-power conference with the Soviet government have arrived in Moscow by plane.

There had been no announcement here that the American delegation, headed by W. Averell Harriman, had left London, but officials said that "for reasons of security" none was to be expected until the Americans reached their destination safely.

Meanwhile the court was hearing miscellaneous civil cases, and the grand jury was in session to complete its activities for the term, which closes this week.

Criminal Cases Docketed Tuesday

Criminal cases will be heard in 70th district court Tuesday and Wednesday, with the jury dismissed Monday and ordered to report Tuesday morning.

Meantime the court was hearing miscellaneous civil cases, and the grand jury was in session to complete its activities for the term, which closes this week.

Marriage Of Gloria Conley And Bill Edwards In New York City Is Announced By Her Parents

Couple To Return Here In Two Weeks

The marriage of Gloria Conley and Bill Edwards on September 2nd in New York City was announced this morning by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Conley.

The ceremony was performed in the Post Graduate hospital where Edwards underwent an operation for a leg tumor a few minutes after the wedding.

The operation was successfully performed and Edwards expects to be back in Big Spring in two weeks at his job at the municipal airport where he is an instructor.

The couple was married by the Rev. R. Henry, pastor of St. George's Episcopal church. The bride wore a beige silk dress and carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

The ceremony was read before an assembly of doctors and a nurse who stood by. These included Dr. Williams Talbot, Dr. Matthew Shapero, Dr. Henry Ritter, Dr. Egan, Dr. Todd, Dr. Robbins, Miss Amelia Cramer.

Mrs. Edwards, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Conley, was graduated this spring from the Big Spring high school. A member of the Sub Deb club, she was also West Texas chamber of commerce queen here in 1940. In her last year in high school she was voted the most popular girl in school. This fall she was to have entered Texas Tech as a freshman student.

Edwards, who is the son of Mrs. McDowell and W. K. Edwards, was also graduated from the Big Spring high school.

After a two week honeymoon in New York, the couple will return here to make their home.

New Members Of Modern Woman's Forum Honored At Reception

Tea Held In W. J. McAdams Home Sunday

New members of the Modern Woman's Forum were entertained Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. J. McAdams with a tea and reception.

Queen's wreath and silver lace surrounding a reflector on a polished table formed the centerpiece. Swans centered the reflector.

Queen's wreath and dahlias were throughout the entertaining rooms. Corsages of queen's wreath and roses were presented to the guests. Mildred Creath presided at the punch bowl and Ina Deason assisted.

An original picture of Scenic Mountain painted by Mrs. A. E. Wade was on display. Marjory Taylor gave a talk on the picture and on Mrs. Wade's ability as an artist.

New members honored were Mrs. E. L. Warren, Marvin Louise Davis and Mrs. C. T. White. Guests were Mrs. Clovis M. Dawson and Mrs. Laura E. Tolle.

The social committee in charge were Mrs. J. V. Birdwell, Mrs. Cecil Collins and Mrs. W. F. Cook. Others attending were Arsh Phillips, Twila Lomax, Mrs. J. P. Dodge, Mrs. G. G. Sawtell, Nellie Puckett, Mrs. Cecil Collins, Mrs. W. F. Cook, Mrs. J. W. Maddrey, Edith Hatchett, Edith Gay, Mrs. Ira Driver, Mrs. A. E. Wade, Mrs. Joe Birdwell.

The Forum will meet Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. Birdwell, 108 11th Place.

Couples Class To Meet Thursday

The Couples' Class of the First Methodist church will postpone its meeting from Monday night to Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the church.

Dentist Says 'Ouch' No Longer Necessary

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 22. (AP) Dr. Earl A. Woods, Indianapolis dentist, came forward today with an idea he said practically had eliminated "ouch" from his patients' vocabulary.

Getting ready to drill a tooth, he gives the patient an auxiliary electric switch with which he can turn the drill off if pain becomes too great.

"The big idea is the psychological effect," he said. "If a patient knows he can stop the drill himself at any time, his fear of it and of pain is lessened considerably."

Catholic Women Elect Officers

GALVESTON, Sept. 22. (AP)—Miss Mary Q. Garther of Houston will be president of the Galveston Diocese of the National Council of Catholic Women for the coming year.

She was elected yesterday at the closing session of the group's convention. Other officers selected were Miss Mary Jo Blarman of Austin, secretary; Mrs. W. D. Parsons of Waco, treasurer; Miss Thelma Dombrower of Galveston, auditor, and Mrs. W. E. Kendall of Houston, parliamentarian. Beaumont was chosen for next year's convention.

P-T. A. Has School Of Instruction

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 22 — The purpose of the organization and the requirements and technicalities of leadership were presented by Mrs. James Day of Rotan, state vice-president, at the school of instruction held by the Sixth District executive board, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, Friday at the Cactus hotel.

Mrs. L. C. Byerley of Midland, district president, conducted the session and the morning was filled with reports and plans of the district officers and chairmen. Mrs. Ernest Sidwell of Midland gave the opening prayer, and a round-table discussion was held on problems of leadership. Adjustment of chairmanship was made.

Mrs. Day stressed inspiration as an essential of leadership, and also stressed the importance of health in national defense and described the home as the place for the development of both strength and character. She gave as the four seeing eyes of leadership, intelligence, imagination, industry, and integrity. She urged members to watch their acts, their words, their time, their character, and their habits.

Board members attending besides Mrs. Byerley were Mrs. L. L. Stuart of Eldorado, Mrs. J. C. Stewart of Lavn, Mrs. Frank Lossing of San Angelo, Mrs. G. W. Hicks of Odessa, and Mrs. Ed Jensen of Sweetwater, vice-presidents; Mrs. W. E. Cogdal of Abilene, recording secretary; Mrs. Sidwell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. H. Schleyer of San Angelo, parliamentarian; Mrs. Holland Holt of Abilene, parent education chairman; Betty Baugh of San Angelo, publicity; Mrs. Lee Kincaid of Abilene, publications; Mrs. E. W. Windham of Odessa, councils; Mrs. P. C. McClason of Eden, radio; Mrs. L. T. Nelson of Sweetwater, publicity record books and yearbooks; Mrs. John P. Darnell of Sweetwater, education for home and family life; Mrs. Earl Harbor of Sweetwater and Mrs. Philip Thompson of San Angelo, county council presidents; and Mrs. John Tancy of San Angelo, Mrs. Bud Winter of Merkel, and Mrs. W. A. Hall of Bethel, county council presidents.

PERTAINING TO PEOPLE

Clara Jester and Mrs. Ruby Walker of Baird were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Jester.

W. H. Scott and Charlie Kamb were in Midland Monday.

Hollis Thompson of Los Angeles, Calif., regional vice president of American Airlines, will arrive Tuesday for a two day visit.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fahrnkamp had as guests Sunday, Mrs. M. J. Dawson, Dorothy Jean and Mary Grace, and Nita Mae Davis of Colorado City.

Ethel Murray of Lubbock spent Sunday visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. B. Nail, en route to San Antonio.

Word from Mrs. Doug Perry is that she is at Niagara Falls. She spent a night in Canada and has visited seven state capitols while on her trip. She expects to be home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Webb had as guests over the weekend his mother, Mrs. W. T. Webb of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Webb and Tommy of Colorado City.

Good Pipe Made From Mesquite

LUBBOCK, Sept. 22.—Mesquite wood is just as good as briar or any other substance for making a pipe, according to Dr. E. L. Reed, professor of botany at Texas Technological college. Dr. Reed has been smoking one for six months which he fashioned himself and he says "It suits me as well as any pipe I ever smoked." He has smoked an old clay model along with a corn cob and others.

Curiously, Dr. Reed is head of a research project at Texas Tech which has for its purpose eradication or control of mesquite growth which has grown to be a nuisance on West Texas ranches.

Annual production of radios in the U. S. has passed the eight million mark. In 1939, according to factory reports to the Bureau of the Census, 8,286,250 complete radio receiving sets were produced compared with 5,849,969 in 1937.

Monday Morning Expert

Know him? ... He's the fellow who gushes wisdom after the game is played. He's the man who tells you what the team did wrong during the exciting second period.

It requires no special training to be a Monday morning expert. In fact, it's about the easiest profession in the world. It isn't very hard to know the answer . . . afterward.

But a truly wise person is one who knows the answers beforehand!

Fool-proof foreknowledge is well-nigh impossible in a game like football. But it's not impossible in the much more important business of your every-day purchases. Your dollars are guarded by the advertising pages of this newspaper.

Here you are able to compare prices, compare values, compare the superior features of rival merchandise. You learn where to go . . . to get what you want . . . at the price you are willing to pay.

And you know your dollars are protected, because an inferior product cannot bear the merciless publicity of advertising!

Many Guests See Remodeled Home

Mrs. Ben R. Carter entertained in her home Sunday night from 7 o'clock to 10 o'clock with an "at home" affair. Guests were shown through Mrs. Carter's home that has been just recently remodeled.

Gladioli, chrysanthemums, yellow roses, dahlias and marigolds were used throughout the reception rooms. Mrs. Carter met guests at the door and was dressed in a white net and sequin formal gown. The bodies of the gown was of sequins with a bouffant skirt of net. She wore a gardenia in her hair.

Mrs. Jack Shipley of Sweetwater, cousin of Mrs. Carter, who dressed in a white crepe gown trimmed with green accents, assisted in receiving guests.

Others in the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Robb, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blomsheld, Mr. and Mrs. R. McEwen, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hudson of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Goldman, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Le Fever, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Baker, Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Hall, Dr. and Mrs. Preston Sanders of El Paso, Burke Summers, R. P. Kounts of Fort Worth.

Mrs. Blomsheld, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Le Fever and Mrs. Kelly presided at the table.

Mrs. Goldman dressed in a maroon and blue gown and Mrs. Blomsheld in a purple satin gown. Mrs. Hall had on a pink net formal and Mrs. Hudson dressed in purple and gold. Mrs. McEwen wore a gold formal.

Mrs. Le Fever wore a powder blue gown and Mrs. Baker a white crepe formal. Mrs. Robb dressed in a black sequin gown. Members of the houseparty each wore a gardenia corsage.

The table was laid with an embroidered and lace cloth. Crystal candelabra holding white tapers and gerberes and yellow roses were at either end of the table. Silver coffee service centered the table.

Guests were escorted through the house by members of the houseparty and to the yard which was lighted with Japanese lanterns. Visitors also were taken through the game room.

Instead of sending flowers, guests were asked to buy defense stamps. There were 250 guests invited to call during the evening.

Mrs. Lofton Bragg and Mrs. H. A. Haynes went to Ft. Worth this week and visited Mrs. Bragg's sister. They also took Bobbie Haynes to college at Denton.

Sammie Lockheart has been elected band teacher in the schools here.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Ramsey from Ft. Lewis, Washington, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Parker. He is a lieutenant in the air corps and has been transferred to New York, effective next week.

WOMEN, here's 2-Way relief!

Probably the help many women get from CARDUI comes from its use as a tonic to increase appetite, aid the flow of gastric juice, and thus assist digestion and help build strength. Thus, it often relieves periodic functional distress. But it may also help relieve such periodic distress if you start taking it as directed 3 days before "your time." Modern facts and 61 years' use invite confidence in CARDUI—adv.

Expects To Be Hurt, But— Nova's Sure Of Joe's Loss

POMPTON LAKE, N. J., Sept. 22 (AP)—Big, sun-bronzed Lou Nova, wearing brown slacks and a red and black plaid sports shirt, squatted under the mid-day sun at his training camp here.

Lou was having trouble reading the closely-scratched handwriting of a letter he had brought out after sports writers inquired about his first mail.

The exhibit was an eight page message from a 10-year-old New York stater, a man who had never seen a championship fight. He—like many others—had written to tell Lou how to beat Joe Louis, come the night of September 28.

They All Know How

"Funny," Nova had said, "how these chaps who've never had a glove on know just how Louis can be whipped." Nova read slowly, laboriously.

"Listen," Lou said, "Here's what the guy says: 'Lou,' he says, 'you must get in the first punch, your best blows early, before Louis has had a chance to weaken you, while your legs are still strong.'"

Lou laughed.

"That's about the best advice I've had. And after I beat Louis this old gent will be happy to know that I followed his instructions."

Lou passed the letter around and asked it to be read for his workout. A half-hour later his correspondent sat beside Ray Carten, Nova's manager, as Lou pounded three sparring partners.

Must Be Inspired

"He's a cinch to win," Carten said quietly. "None of the energy of enthusiasm, or the loudness of forced optimism. There has never been a heavyweight in better condition. He put in two months in the forests of Maine—went up there right after the beat Baer—and he's tough as nails. We're just polishing him off now, letting him get the proper timing."

"He's always been a fellow who had to be inspired to do his best. Winning this championship has been his ambition for seven years. That's inspiration enough to make him fight better than any of us have ever seen him fight."

"We'll admit that Louis punched as harder than Lou. But we don't think Louis can take a punch as well. Nova expects to be hit and to be hurt. We look for him to be on the canvas at least once. That's why he has trained so long and hard. He knew he needed to be perfectly conditioned to be able to

Lookin' 'em Over

WITH JACK DOUGLAS

Six-man football, one of the out-hustlingest brands of field activity on the books, gets up full steam in this section next Friday. District 8, consisting of Garden City, Garner, Coahoma, Westbrook, Sterling City, Forsan, Water Valley and Courtney, swings into the conference battles at that time.

This sextet variety of football is not concerned with packed stands, etc.—two excellent reasons are the cause—first, stands are strictly in the minority on sidelines; second, the communities supporting the teams do not run into large number.

Nevertheless, competition between the schools is just as hot as any fast-company, over-expanded circuit.

Westbrook is the current champion. What that really means is that every other club in the loop goes into the conflict with the avowed intention of clouting Westbrook out of the running as quickly as possible, then turn to the business of grabbing the throne. It's that kind of football—a weak team can beat the ears off a superior one with no great surprise shown by either side of the rooting sections.

Due to the concentrated conditions of the teams, six-man football is a highly competitive game so far as individuals are concerned.

They're pre-shrunk editions of the gridiron sport but once they move into battle these six-man gridsters are ring-tailed grizzlies on an Irish whiskey binge—the fans aren't far behind.

But, if its hard-played, winner-take-all, well-manuevered football that you're looking for, those very items can be found in six-man football. A Friday afternoon at one of these small-school gridiron classics is profitably spent.

Dick Ratliff, Big Spring Bomber catcher, did as much as any man on the club to spark the local baseballers through to the final and fatal game of the Shaughnessy playoff. At the end of the season, Dick didn't know exactly what line of work he would go into, but he knew one thing for certain—it would be in Big Spring.

Monday morning Ratliff officially took over the TP service station, having closed the deal with the former owner, Shirley Robbins. Robbins still dispenses the smelly fluid, but from the wholesale angle. So, Dick tosses his mask and mitt on the ground and grabs up the air gauge and chamois skin.

Snead Draws Near Hogan In Golf Race

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22 (AP)—If Ben Hogan looked over his shoulder today he might see the spectre of a tall, dark man from the mountains who threatens to pry loose his grip on the Vardon Cup—symbol of supremacy in professional golf.

The mountain shooter is Samuel Jackson Snead, the hillbilly now of Hot Springs, Va., who romped off with the $7,500 Hurst invitation tournament yesterday.

F. G. A. Tournament Director Fred Corcoran watched Blammie Sammy win the 72-hole Hurst with 272—eight under par and nine strokes ahead of his nearest foe—and declared "This looks like it might be Sam's year again."

"Snead has a fine chance of catching Hogan," said Corcoran. "There are six more tournaments this year and the way Sam looked today, he's going to be hard to stop."

Snead's victory boosted his Vardon point total to 404 against 494 for Hogan, who won the cup last year. Hogan took 261 which broke his streak of finishing in the money in 56 consecutive tournaments.

Brooks' Lead Is Trimmed To One Game

Dodgers Split Double, Cards Take Both Ends Of Twin Bill With Cubs

By The Associated Press

This is "if" week in baseball.

The little word looms larger and larger as the weeks of their season and the Brooklyn Dodgers still lead the St. Louis Cardinals by the skinny edge of one game in this nerve-wrecking National league pennant chase.

The Dodgers have only five games left to play after their unexpected split with the Phillies in yesterday's twin bill, and the Cards still have six to go after knocking off the Cubs twice. The "if" is riding on every pitch now.

And, reading frof to right, here is how the little "if" gets bigger and bigger the rest of the way home:

If the Dodgers win only one of their five games, the Cards have to break at least even in their six to grab the flag.

If Brooklyn takes two, the Cards must clinch it four out of six.

If dem buns win three, the Cards have to take five.

If the Gallants of the Gowanus grab four, and lose only one, the Gas Housers need to sweep six.

Naturally, if Brooklyn goes through without a loss—well, that's all, brother.

After Saturday's proceedings, in which Brooklyn downed the Phillies twice and the Cubs downed the Cards once, to leave St. Louis two games out, it looked like the honeymoon was over for the westerners.

But yesterday the Phils refused to give up in the nightcap. The Dodgers took the opener, 5-3, behind the five-hit elbowing of Johnny Allen. In the second game, however, Luke Hamlin brought his home-run ball along and served it up to Danny Litwiler right in the first inning with the bases loaded. The last seen of the apple, it was riding in among the paying customers—and Phillies were scampering around the bases like the horses on a merry-go-round. From there, the Phils coasted home, 6-3.

Meanwhile, the Cards won their opener the hard way, 4-0. The surprise-package Yankee Stan Musial, turned in a snappy base-running job in the ninth to score the game-wrecker by coming home from third when Cub Catcher Clyde McCullough left home plate unprotected to make a play at first. Young Howie Pollet took complete charge of the nightcap by leaping at eight-bitter and fanning seven for a 7-0 St. Louis win.

On the rest of the National league Sunday card, the Cincinnati Reds and the Giants did the winning. Elmer the Great Riddle chalked up his No. 15 for the season with a six-hit 2-0 whitewash job against the Pirates.

The Giants jolled the Boston (not-so) Braves, 4-0 on 15. The Mickey Harris' six-hit hurling and a set of three homers gave the Boston Red Sox a 4-1 win over the Yankees.

The Washington Senators took a sole lease on the dizzy heights of sixth place by fanning the Philadelphia Athletics twice—6-5 with a two-run rally in the ninth and 6-3 behind Early Wynn's eight-hit razz-dazzle in the second game.

St. Louis and the Indians traded shutouts, Cleveland grabbing the opener 14-0, as Lefty Al Smith served a five-hitter, and the Browns clicking in the second act, 2-0.

Tommy Bridges led the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 win over the Chicago White Sox in their first game, but the second ended in a 14-inning 1-all deadlock.

Coaches Plan For Protection Of Disabled Gridsters

DALLAS, Sept. 22 (AP)—Five thousand schoolboy football players will be protected under a plan formed here by the Texas high school coaches association.

The group's directors in a meeting here yesterday, decided to put aside $2,000 a year for the care of permanently disabled gridsters.

A maximum of $100 per month will be paid for 18 months a year for medical treatment of the disabled boy whose coach is a member of the association, under the plan.

The fund will be cumulative, and any money carried over will be added to the next year's $2,000. A special meeting would be held if money should be needed.

Recommendations to the board for this aid will be made by a committee composed of P. E. Howell of Longview, Harold Dement of Galena Park and Brooks Conover of Orange.

The association, which gets its funds through membership fees and proceeds from the annual coaching school and all-star football game, voted to buy $2,000 worth of defense bonds.

Table model radios are the most popular, according to the Census Bureau which reports an annual production in U. S. factories of 6,968,000 table model radio receiving sets and 1,361,000 console-type sets.

Texas U. Can Use Breaks In SW Conflicts

SMU, Aggies Listed As Crews Most Likely To Stop Steer Drive

AUSTIN, Sept. 2 (AP)—Granted the good breaks that every champion needs in the hurry-bury Southwest the Texas Longhorns this autumn could march to their first conference title since '30.

Dana X. Bible's fifth edition has speed, experience, poise and polish. Strength is deep enough to contend with any ordinary run of injuries. If something disagreeable happened, however, to Fullback Pete Layden and sparking Jack Crain, the Texas threat would be reduced all out of proportion to the numerical loss in manpower.

Crain and Layden furnish the one-two punch that makes the Longhorns dangerous by land and air, through any defensive sector and from any spot on the field.

Despite contentions to the contrary, Texas would lose effectiveness on a muddy field. It would not be an impotent team, but it would be short of the principal asset that stamps it a championship contender—speed. Without that asset, the Longhorns would be back on equal footing with almost any conference foe.

Figuring that the team taking Texas would be in line for the title, Southern Methodist, Baylor and Texas A. & M. are favored by the Steer schedule. They get the favorites at home, S. M. U. is in a good spot, with two weeks to prepare for the Longhorns who must play tough Rice and the preceding Saturday. The Baylor game follows, and Baylor is a notorious upstart.

That Texas A. & M. is an ultra-dangerous opponent on Kyle Field goes without saying, or even suggesting. This year the Aggies have a special reason for desiring to uphold tradition, a reason that developed at Austin last Thanksgiving.

Add the pretty obvious facts that the Aggies, despite staggering personnel losses, will be first-division contenders; that S. M. U. needs only a come-through performance by Soph Red Maley to challenge with Texas for the pennant; and that Baylor has some of the league's outstanding individuals in the lineup, and it follows that the Steer's intra-state and road trips are not going to be pleasure jaunts.

On the other hand, the schedule calls for only one long trip, to Boulder for their opener with Colorado Sept. 2. They get Arkansas, Rice and Texas Christian at home.

It is not a pleasant task to disillusion the old grads, but Texas isn't headed for the Rose Bowl. A schedule that lists Oklahoma, S. M. U., Rice, Baylor and Texas A. & M. (at College Station) doesn't look like a bowl parade. Best guess is that the Longhorns will win or tie for the championship, but not without losing at least one game and possibly trying another.

Vols Shoot Ex-Major At Rebs In Try For 2nd Win In Row

Nashville Clubs Dallas, 6-1, In Dixie Opener

DALLAS, Sept. 22 (AP)—Nashville's Vols will shoot another former big leaguer at the Dallas Rebels tonight as the Southern Association champions go after the second straight victory in the Dixie series.

Vito Tamulis, who came down from Brooklyn in the last month of the campaign to bolster the Volunteer staff, will square off against Otho Nicholas, the prematurely-groed veteran whose work was sensational in the Texas league Shaughnessy play-off.

Nashville clubbed Dallas 6-1 in the opening game last night behind the steady pitching of Rozie Lawson, formerly of the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns.

A big first inning when the Vols exploded for three hits and four runs put the game on ice. The Rebels pecked away but either Lawson set them down in the clinches or a dazzling double-play combination of Dick Oller and Jim Shilling around second base cut short impending rallies.

A crowd of 3,778, with several thousand on the outside of the park looking from a levee or from perches on the fence, turned out for the opening game and another sell-out crowd was anticipated by the club owners tonight.

Dallas sent little Sal Glatto, 22-year winner over the regular season and in the Shaughnessy play-off, against the slugging Vols but he was ineffective, giving up thirteen hits and walking three.

In the series, which will go seven games if that many are needed to decide the championship, the clubs will receive 40 per cent and the players 50 per cent of the gate receipts for the first four tilts, with each league getting ten per cent. After that each league receives ten per cent and the club the the players.

Local Keglers Tie For First At Midland

In the initial round-robin engagement of the recently organized West Texas Bowling association, the Mackey quintet of Midland and the local Douglas hotel keglers split honors for first place at Midland Sunday. Both fives took six wins and three losses over the weekend.

This week's major action starts Friday with Georgetown-Mississippi, Temple-Kansas, Denver-Iowa State, U. C. L. A.-Washington State and Brigham Young-Montana as some of the headlines. On Saturday, reading from south to west, the bigger games include Florida-Mississippi State, Georgia-Mercer, Kentucky-Virginia Tech, V. M. ## Grid Activity Goes Into High Gear Next Weekend

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The football season already has started as fast as a fighter trying for a one-round knockout, but the action scheduled for next week-end will make this look like the beginning of a snail race.

Last Friday and Saturday saw a dozen or so major teams, mostly in the south, playing season openers. This week only a few die-hard conservatives, such as the Big Three and a few of the western teams, will remain out of competition.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds—

Feminine Curves Threaten To Monopolize Baseball

(Editor's Note: Frank Ryan, producer-writer at BKO Studios, and co-author of "An Obliging Young Lady," illustrates his own article. So he sent an illustration with this letter to Robbin Coons, on vacation.)

Dear Robbin: Hollywood Frankly, I'm worried. There's a crisis at hand in America and it started here in Hollywood. You write about movies. They are blamed for everything, so maybe you can do something about it. Next to people worrying about how I'm going to think of five hundred words, I'd say the most important question before our citizenry today is girl's baseball. I'm ag'in it. No good ain't gonna come out of it. The hand that rocks the cradle shouldn't swing the ball bat. I'm not saying it's bad now; it isn't at all, in fact from a speaker's point of view, it's swell. You see lots better curves than any pitcher ever threw, but I'm thinking of the future. My little niece used to want to grow up and be like Ginger Rogers, but after taking her out to see the gals play baseball she wants to grow up and be like Joe DiMaggio. See what I mean, Robbin? I worked with a lovely middle-aged lady not long ago on a screen play. Gay old doll, sang all the time. One day I asked her what she was so happy about and she told me it was on account of she thought her daughter had the makings of another Tris Speaker. You see why I'm worried, Robbin?

I know these are all small incidents, but to me they're danger signs. Who knows where it's all going to end? Baseball gloves with built-in side pockets for cosmetic compacts. Catcher Tillie Tillotson saunters out to the mound to quiet Lucy Lipwhistle in a crucial moment, and says, "This dame's a sucker for a low fast one and your hair's a perfect mess."

And believe me, Robbin, it's going to get worse. There will come a day when Bill Stern or Ted Husing will bring a radio listening public to their feet during the world series with, "It's a hit, a long one, it's heading for the wall. . . . Nancy Nimblesness is racing for it. . . . she's getting near it. . . . she's going to catch it. . . . wait a minute it's going to be a two-bagger. . . . Nancy's false eyelashes fell off and she's looking for them in left field."

Do something about this, will you Robbin? Try to get the men of America to become aware of this growing menace. Try and get them to do something about it. As for me I know what I'm going to do about it. I'm going home and cook a great big steak. After a doubleheader, the little woman is always as hungry as a bear. Your old bat boy, Frank Ryan.

Washington Daybook— Stop Us If You've Heard About Shortage Of Oil

(First of two articles on the "petroleum products shortage.")

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Not since this war started has Washington had a bigger chuckle than that over the hullabaloo which has accompanied the so-called shortage of gasoline, fuel oil and other petroleum products in 17 eastern seaboard states. Back in the spring, Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, who also is national defense petroleum coordinator, smelled out a "potential" shortage in the eastern states' petroleum products, and what followed was a governmental comic opera interlude, like "Fussy Wants a Corner," with everybody off base at once.

There were threats of gasolineless Sundays, gasoline ration cards, frigid apartments and houses because of a lack of heating oil, and idle industries. Filling stations were closed from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. and finally their supplies of motor fuel were cut 10 per cent. All of which had the effect of increasing the consumption of gasoline.

Everybody Takes A Hand The railroads came forward with the assertion that they had "20,000 idle tank cars." President Roosevelt cleared the right-of-way for pipelines which, in six to twelve months, might eliminate the short-ages, only to have the defense priorities agency step up and veto the largest of these on the grounds that between 480,000 and 780,000 tons of steel (nobody quite agreed on what amount would be necessary) could not be spared from more vital defense needs.

Into this mess, primarily at the instigation of the American Automobile association, stepped a senate investigating committee which, after a couple of weeks of hearing everybody who had any authority to talk on the subject, concluded that "there is no shortage of petroleum products in the eastern seaboard states," but protected itself by intimating that there might be some day, because nobody knows what the future holds.

In the interim, Price Administrator Leon Henderson slapped a ceiling on gasoline prices; railroads reduced rates on gasoline and crude; nearer to tanker and pipeline levels; bootlegging of gasoline after hours was reported; the oil companies, nearly three months late, pledged to use all available tank cars; complaints came in to Deputy Petroleum Coordinator Ralph K. Davies that orders were not being filled because oil companies couldn't get tank cars, and the Republicans asked the removal of Ickes and Davies as heads of the defense petroleum set-up.

Not Too Funny, At That To any observer who felt that this confusion might not be such a laughing matter after all, at least two official statements in the investigations must have been significant.

One came from Leon Henderson in his testimony before Sen. Francis Maloney's senate committee. "Transportation has always been the key to the oil problem from a competitive standpoint. A major factor (in the growth of the large integrated companies in this industry) has been their ownership of cheap privately operated transportation facilities."

The other was a little-noticed paragraph buried in the report of the Maloney committee: "The committee members have not attempted to explore the charges of unworthy purposes behind the announced oil shortage. We have not felt that it was part of our immediate responsibility to attempt to find out whether or not the 'shortage' question arose as the result of a desire to construct a large pipeline, or other pipelines, or whether behind the scene there was some connection with pending antitrust suits (against the major oil companies) or whether the price of petroleum products was involved."

Editorial — AP Stands For Press Freedom

This month marks the 41st anniversary of the Associated Press in its present form, and consequently this marks a singular anniversary in the long and democratic struggle for the freedom of the press.

To be sure, the story of the Associated Press goes back much farther than 1900, for it had its inception in the early days of New York when newspapers were arising to fill a new need. The forerunner, the New York Associated Press, was born as an instrument to eliminate ruinous attempts of competing papers to establish news monopolies. Cautiously enough, this new organization then set about to build a news monopoly on a grander scale.

When western newspapers stubbornly resisted this attempt, a new and more insidious design at controlling the news was unmasked. Those in the inner council of the New York Associated Press had secretly fostered a new agency, the old United Press (not to be confused with the present organization bearing this name.) Backed by a strong financial combine, this unit was open to serious indictment for manipulating news for commercial purposes. Again a new champion arose to combat this evil and to struggle on toward a new ideal in the collection and distribution of news. It was the Illinois Associated Press, immediate forerunner of the present organization. Its heroic and historic fight to break the grip of the United Press challenged newspapermen to sacrifice money and risk ruin at the depths of a bitter depression in a gamble for a free press.

They won, as right often has the habit of winning, and with their victory came a new era in cooperative news gathering and distribution. Members have heard these and other charges—and while we do not dismiss them entirely, and while they might be considered later, the committee has felt that its purpose was to ascertain whether or not there was a petroleum shortage, and if there was, how it might be corrected.

Governor To Attend Fair At Corsicana

CORSICANA, Sept. 22 (AP)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson will lead the inaugural parade of the Corsicana Livestock and Agricultural show Tuesday morning. J. N. Edens, president of the show, said that state representatives and senators from this area have been invited to attend a reception in the governor's honor.

Man About Manhattan— There's More To Modeling Than First Meets Eye

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—In an era of bright good looks where model agencies have replaced the posy choruses of Broadway musical shows as springboards to fortune and fame for attractive young women, it is worthwhile to pay attention to a candid examination of the modeling profession by one of its most gifted pupils, Olga Malova, whose book, "Wanted—Girl With Glamour," is an intelligent fascinating study of what the modeling world really is.

Certainly those well-told young girls around New York today prefer jobs as models to places in the line along Broadway. Not only is the remuneration more attractive, their chances of breaking out into the world of the theatre and the films are greater.

Another point to remember, as Miss Malova points out, is that in a designer's studio long hours of the day to inspire the skilled fingers of artists in fabric and fancy. . . . She's before a hundred cameras while 10,000 watts burn fiercely down on her from a dozen lights. . . . She's an innocent if you believe her starchy-eyed frankness, a sophisticate if you catch the sweep of her haughty silhouettes. . . . But to those who live in the model's room; to those whose fortunes are chartered in the agency's assignment office—she's just a wholesome girl whose back often aches, whose feet usually hurt and who, more times than not, crawls dead tired to bed at nine.

The Timid Soul

IN VIEW OF WORLD CONDITIONS MR. MILQUETOAST DECIDES SOME TARGET PRACTICE MIGHT BE USEFUL

FOR THE LOVE OF PAM By VIVIEN GREY

Chapter 20 May Frisbee

Alone in his own room, Jerry wondered vaguely just how much difference this development would make with Pam and himself. Not that he doubted Pam. Money would make no difference to her. If she cared for him with money, she would care for him without it.

But he was concerned about his own share of the thing. He would have nothing to offer her now. He had wasted his years pretty generally. He had made no start in business at all, due to the fact that he had always supposed his father's money would be enough to keep him.

And there were other things. His thought lingered darkly on that May Frisbee. He had been one of the gay companions of his lighter and more careless hours. And May had refused to forget. With his allowance cut off he would be unable to appease May with expensive gifts. He wondered vaguely just what her reactions would be. Probably not pleasant.

May, whom he had met at a Greenwich Village cocktail party, had fastened to him with eager good nature after their first meeting. Jerry wasn't in love with anyone, so he hadn't minded. May was quite lovely to look at. She was a dancer, she explained, soon to be "at liberty" after she found that Jerry was the son of the very rich Winthropes. Jerry hadn't minded. She had been an amusing and agreeable companion. That would have to stop now, and Jerry was glad.

He'd write May, he reflected, and tell her what had happened. May was a good sport and she would understand. They had never been more than gay companions. After all, he had been more than kind to her in tiding her over rough places.

He heard Lenore go into her room just before he went to sleep. It must be morning, he thought. He wondered what Vin Barolli, the local musician, was like and hoped he wasn't taking Lenore too seriously. Lenore was merely playing with the handsome youth Jerry grinned a little as he thought of Gervase de Bellefort. Gervase had planned so much on trading his old name for a goodly share of the Winthropes' fortune, with Lenore thrown in for good measure. It was going to be pretty tough for him, with the engagement announced.

Jerry was having a leisurely breakfast on the veranda of the Casa when Lenore appeared. Her eyes were surely as they met his. "A nice show you're making of yourself," she said as she dropped into a chair opposite him. "If I can match you, I'm good," was Jerry's reply.

"You're going to ruin everything for me, getting serious with that basket girl. What do you suppose Gervase will say when he sees what you want to bring into the family?"

"If he has any sense he'll say he envies me."

"Idiot! If you'd just play around with her, it would be understandable. But getting serious."

"I know," Jerry was suddenly very serious. "That would be beyond your ken. Well, you really haven't much to worry about Lenore. Not about de Bellefort, I mean. When he knows what's happened he'll be breaking the engagement anyhow."

"Perhaps if you'll begin to talk sense, I'll listen to you."

"I'm talking more sense right now than I ever have. We're broke. Mother will slip you the new program this morning, and is it going to burn you up?" He had finished his coffee and was rising. Lenore turned away from him. She hadn't believed him, of course.

But later, in their suite, he heard her voice high and angry. Blaming her father, blaming everyone. Adele was trying to pacify her.

"This is the end of everything for me!" Lenore cried bitterly.

Scene By Lenore Bartholomew Winthropes slept well that night for the first time in weeks. He had had a great deal on his mind of late. His business had been so jittery that his nerves had been strung taut. And, worse than that, his family seemed to be going to pieces before his eyes.

For years the children's letters to him, when they were away on their expensive vacations, had been getting fewer and fewer. They never mentioned his birth day any more. And often didn't write to thank him for the expensive gifts he sent them.

And there were other things, too. Echoes along Broadway and Fifty-second Street in New York, that rendezvous of night clubs, of the exploits of his children. That was not the sort of thing he wanted them to be known by.

Winthropes had always had their gay young moments, but in the main they had stood for the finer, more enduring things of life. Bart liked that as a memory. He wanted it to continue, so future Winthropes would have the happiness of such a memory.

He woke to the sound of Lenore's voice rising in a sort of melodious anger. He lay motionless, listening for a space. Lenore was talking it badly. He had never heard her voice so edgy, never known her to be quite so ruthlessly unkind.

room, felt himself drawn out of bed and into his dressing gown by the very force and bitterness of Lenore's voice.

"After this," Lenore was saying, "I don't care what happens! It's the end of everything for me!"

"But, Lenore, it needn't be," protested her mother. "You still have Gervase. You're engaged to him. We'll make a wedding for you somehow. There are my jewels—we can sell part of them, and the rest can be your dowry. There are lots of poor girls who get happiness out of life. You're young. . . ."

"Oh, stop! Stop!" Lenore cried impatiently. "I can't stand any more of that sort of stuff. Love in a cottage never appealed to me."

Jerry, standing in the hallway, turned away. He didn't want to hear more. He was sorry for Adele, offering to give everything to Lenore. That was the way she'd be of course. And he was sorry for his father. He and Lenore were pretty useless to their parents in this crisis, and that wasn't the way things should be. But it was too late to do anything much about it. As he walked away, he heard his father enter the room; heard his father's voice saying:

"Oh, no, you won't, Adele. You won't sell a jewel or give so much as a chip diamond to a daughter who talks to you as Lenore has been talking."

He turned to his daughter. "I don't know what to say to you, Lenore. There's no excuse for your attitude. It's beyond me. I needn't tell you how surprised I am."

Lenore looked at her father for a moment, then turned and fled.

"But I Love Her" Edmund Antoine, early about doing some errands on Duval Street, met Vin Barolli.

"I thought you were coming around to see me," Antoine said. Vin looked at him doubtfully. "There probably wouldn't be any use in coming now. You wouldn't want me around," he said.

"What do you mean?" "Well, Vin hesitated, "I'm out now. Lenore and I are washed up. Through. We had a quarrel last night."

Antoine laughed. "Of course!" he said. "I expected that. Everyone quarrels with Lenore. But don't worry about her. She won't always be warbling the same snooty tune. Anyhow, my good man, I'm doing this for a swell musician; not for the friend of a friend. There's nothing like that about it."

Vin looked at Antoine doubtfully, but said nothing.

"But when did you quarrel with the high and mighty Lenore? You did a beautiful twosome at the yacht party. Everything looked like sunshine and roses to me then," Antoine said.

"It was after that. That de Bellefort bird took her home and then she slipped back to South Beach to meet me. We'd made a date. She gave me the works. It seems de Bellefort got sore because she made what he called an exhibition of herself with me, and Lenore told me in plain English that I should have kept away from the yacht. In other words, away from her when she's with her glittered crowd." Vin's eyes were sunken. "Well, I don't want her that way! I don't want any girl that way!"

"Check, maestro! And speaking of exhibitions, that was a pretty swell one, if anyone happens to be asking me. You gave that girl something she certainly never could have got for herself—class and temperament and style. Without which an entertainer is just so much debris on the landscape. You really have done something for her, because I happen to know Lenore has been eating her heart out to get up in the spotlight and show her pretty little self off."

"She can keep on eating her heart out, for all I care!"

"Listen, lad," Antoine began, "women and a musical career don't mix. Keep them separate."

"I suppose I have been a fool to take her so seriously."

"Of course, Lenore's a spoiled brat."

"Sure, she's a spoiled brat," Vin said with feeling.

Then he added: "But I love her. What does a fellow do about a thing like that?"

Germans Assert Enemy Ships Sunk

BERLIN, Sept. 22 (AP)—German submarines and long-range bombers have sunk or damaged 16 merchant ships and tankers in attacks on two convoys and separate ships in the Atlantic. It was reported authoritatively today.

A special communique from the headquarters of Adolf Hitler said U-boats had sunk 13 ships out of the convoys and damaged another ship by a torpedo hit. It did not specify when the attacks occurred.

NORWEGIANS KILLED

LONDON, Sept. 22. Exchange telegraph reported today from Gothenburg, Sweden, that 100 Norwegians trying to escape to Britain were killed when their two small ships were sunk by German bombers outside Bergen harbor.

Markets At A Glance

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—The stock market exhibited further shock-proof tendencies today and, in the face of deteriorating war news, most leaders managed to maintain their balance.

Shares going fairly well included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Western Union, American Telephone, Anaconda, Great Northern, International Harvester, Deere, Boeing, Lockheed, Sperry, Standard Oil (NJ), Socony Vacuum, Montgomery Ward, International Paper, N. Y. Shipbuilding, Warner Bros., and Wilson and Co.

Occasional losses were posted for United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., Union Pacific, International Nickel, Allied Chemical, General Electric and Radio Corp.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Cotton futures broke sharply in the last hour with losses of more than $200 a bale. Resumption of liquidation, hedging and New Orleans selling, coupled with uncovering of spot loss orders forced values lower.

Wool Market

BOSTON, Sept. 22 (AP) (USDA)—The wool market in Boston was quiet today. A number of recently-active buyers were showing little interest in spot domestic wools. Combing three-eighths and quarter wools were quoted mostly at 48 to 50 cents in the grease without takers. A few continued to ask prices above 50 cents for these grades. Quotations were unchanged from last week on territory wools. Orders for imports were being filled on Australian wools.

"Quality Furniture For Those Who Care"

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLENTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (Herald Special News Service)—Monday matinee: Just when you begin to think the Cards might as well cancel that order to print world series tickets, there they come again. It's a cinch now that, no matter who wins, the National league champs won't get to catch a deep breath before the world series. When Johnny Mize was hurt it looked bad for St. Lou, but it looked bad for Mize when Johnny Hopp stole home yesterday, and it must be a swell feeling for any manager to have kids like Stan Musial waiting for a chance to show what they can do when the going gets tough. . . . One look at that 35,000 mob that pursued the Dodgers yesterday and Gerry Nugent decided there might be better things to do with the Phillies than sell 'em. . . . After riding Whirlaway Saturday, Jockey Alf Robertson remarked: "Whirlaway wanted to run and the others either couldn't or wouldn't. I wished that War Relic were in that race." . . . Whatever became of those guys who were touting Furman to upset Tennessee? . . . It would have taken a real hurricane and not a purple one from South Carolina to stop Johnny Butler, Alred (Yockem) Edwards, the groom who looks after Alab, thinks the Chicago colt is the best of a lot of good ones he's handled, but racing folks hereabouts say he'll change his mind after that match race with Requested tomorrow.

Here 'n There

Eugene Vierling Spence, formerly city manager here, has been ordered to report to Camp Berkeley at Abilene for examinations and induction into the army on Oct. 2. He will be at Berkeley pending final approval of his physical examinations and then will be assigned to active duty with rank of major as assistant to the constructing quartermaster of zone VI at Chicago, Ill.

Add to the list of things that officers sometime encounter on their rounds—a polecat, Saturday Officers A. D. Bryan and A. W. Crocker met and conquered a skunk (no figure of speech intended) at 900 Abrams street.

Jack Cummings, who once was in charge of the weather bureau station here, was in town Monday for a visit with his sister, Miss Neal Cummings, and friends. He has been transferred from Salt Lake City, Utah to Atlanta, Ga., where he serves a new and larger district with the bureau. His work is chiefly inspection.

Pastors Elect Ass'n Officers

Holding re-election of officers, hearing reports on the Bible class taught in the high school, and voting to take part in National Communication Day were some of the activities of the Pastors' Association meeting Monday morning at the First Methodist church.

The Bible class taught by Mrs. H. W. Halslip and giving regular high school credit for students was discussed. The group voted to continue sponsorship for such a class.

The successful city wide Vorn Bruck revival was discussed and ministers told of effects of meetings on church membership.

The group voted to endorse and cooperate during the national communion day observance to be October 6th. A men and missions banquet, a city-wide event, was also planned for some time between November 9th and 16th. The Rev. O. L. Savage was named chairman and the Rev. Robert Snell and the Rev. E. E. Mason assistants in charge.

Dr. J. O. Haymes was re-elected president and the Rev. H. W. Halslip, vice president. The Rev. R. E. Bowden was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

E. B. Bethel, city fire marshal, spoke to the group and urged cooperation during national fire prevention week to be October 8-11th.

Chief Aircraft Observers Named

Chief observers for 17 aircraft warning observation posts have been selected and have accepted appointments. J. L. LeBlou, head of the organization committee, reported Monday.

Chief observers named were Mrs. Porter Hanks, Fred Roman, M. W. Wilson, Jake Wolf, T. P. McCrary, Frank Covert, W. A. Langley, Jim Hodnett, Homer McCarthy, D. O. Ogleby, M. E. Allen, Mrs. Pearl Cables, A. C. Hale, E. L. Tumlinson, J. M. Chandler and Hugh Carington.

REDS EXECUTED

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 22 (AP)—Advisers from Sofia said tonight that an unlisted number of communist deputies in the Bulgarian parliament had been executed and legislators of the former peasant party interned.

Many Vacancies In Marine Corps

Most young American men are expected to enter military service soon. Some will volunteer. Others will be drafted through selective service. The drafted man has little choice of his place and type of military duty. Under present law he remains in the army reserve for ten years.

The volunteer enlistee may choose his branch of service, army, navy, marine corps, or coast guard. In many instances he has the opportunity to choose his type and place of duty.

At present the United States marine corps is in the process of an expansion program designed to double its present force. Thousands of vacancies exist in all of its branches. The marine corps boasts a fine air force, service at sea aboard battle ships, cruisers, aircraft carriers, many shore stations here at home and overseas.

The following stations are now available to young men who enlist now: Alaska, Panama, China, Philippine Islands, Samoa and many places in the West Indies. In addition for those who would rather stay at home the marine corps has available some fifty desirable posts here in the United States.

Applications are now being accepted at the Big Spring postoffice. If you are between the ages of 17 and 30 years, stand sound physical condition and have a grade school education or better contact Sgt. T. W. Fels at the postoffice who will be glad to explain to you all that the marine corps is and means and what it has to offer in the way of a four year enlistment service in the marine corps reserve for the duration of the emergency or the many advantages, opportunities offered those men who attend one of the corps 17 vocational schools.

Office hours from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. This period of recruiting will close September 29. All expenses will be furnished from this office including transportation to Dallas for final physical examinations.

Big Spring Hospital Notes

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Waters are the parents of a daughter born Sunday. The infant weighed 7 pounds, 4 ounces.

Mrs. Elmer Dyer underwent major surgery Monday.

Mrs. J. K. Henderson returned home Sunday following major surgery.

J. W. Alexander was able to return home Sunday following treatment for injuries received two months ago in a fall.

D. O. Patton, Carlbad, N. M., received treatment for a head injury and returned home Sunday.

Mrs. L. A. Webb and infant son returned home Sunday.

Mrs. Edmond Bond of Stanton returned home Monday following minor surgery Saturday.

Mrs. Frank Jenkins (negro) of Stanton and infant daughter returned home Sunday.
