Fans Flock To Dallas For Tech-SMU Game

By JIM RICHARDSON
Assistant Sports Editor

More than 2,000 Tech visitors will be filing into Dallas' gigantic Cotton Bowl this afternoon with hopes of watching the Raiders swat the SMU Ponies for the second consecutive year.

And if the past two week-ends have started a trend, the long trip home may be acstatic for the Lubbock group. A win would give the Raiders their third straight Southwest Conference victory in as many outings, three more than most fans would have hoped for 21 days ago.

Tech's Howitzer will be stationed inside Jones Stadium during the Tech-SMU game today and will fire a round for each Raider score.

But chances are the Ponies will refuse to roll over and play dead. The Meek charges from Southern Methodist have learned a stern lesson from nearby TCU and the Baptists down on the Brazos. That lesson indicates that the Raider 'have-nots' have something after all.

Then there's a lesson to be learned from SMU. No team has trounced the Ponies so far this season, and three of the Methodists' foes had ratings as high or higher than Tech's opponents. The SMU group lost its opener to Maryland, 14-6, and dropped the next contest to Southern California, 21-16. The Ponies recorded their first season win over the Air Force, 9-7.

Last week Rice had to hustle to take a 10-0 win from SMU. Coach Bill Meek was pleased with his players in that game, pointing out the merit of holding Rice to only 10 points.

Those ten points were recorded during the first half of play, indicating a strong point in the Methodists' second half action. So far this season, only one touchdown has been scored against SMU in the second half, and, as might be expected, the Ponies have dominated all foes statistically in that half.

But the biggest threat against Tech today could be the Ponies' pass defense, ranked eighth nationally. A card from the 'remember when' file shows a striking similarity between the SMU aerial defense and the A&M counterpart. Four weeks ago the Aggies were rated in the top five pass defense systems in the nation—and four weeks ago A&M beat Texas Tech, 38-7.

On paper Tech and SMU look like sisters. The Raiders have a slight edge in yard average, having gained an average of 152.54 yards per game to SMU's 130.5 average. Tech has given up an average of 206.6 yards per game, while SMU has yielded 211 per contest.

Sophomore Jerry Rhome, who will start at quarterback for the Ponies today, is his team's top passer, having completed 19 of 41 passes for 171 yards, with three interceptions. That's not quite up with Doug Cannon's 25 completions in 50 tries for 337 yards and four interceptions.

SMU has the top punter in Harold Morgan who has a 41 yard average on eight kicks. Tech's Bake Turner has punted 31 times for a 38.3 average.

Ray Green, 6-1, 190-pound end, is one of the Mustangs' top performers as of late. Against Rice last week, Green caught five passes for 60 yards, intercepted an Owl aerial and made a touchdown-saving tackle. And, as an article in the Dallas Times Herald pointed out, Tech will be seeing "a lot of Green" today.

Last year at Lubbock SMU jumped to an early 7-0 margin and led, 7-6, at halftime. The Raiders rallied to take the game, 28-7, giving both teams four wins in the sparse series.

So SMU has its Rhomes, its Greens, its big line, its Meek and its pass defense. TCU had its Gibbs, Baylor had its Romnies. And the Raiders have their two wins, working for a third.

Collegiate Press Names Toreador Third-Ranking College Newspaper

By RALPH W. CARPENTER
Toreador Staff Writer

The Toreador has been named the third-ranking college newspaper in its class throughout the nation by the Associated Collegiate Press Critical Service in Minnesota.

The announcement was received by K. P. Orman, director of student publications at Texas Tech.

The Toreador was competing with other college papers over the United States who publish at least three times a week. Only two papers received higher rating.

The Toreador enters papers in the competition each year. The award was made on the papers published last spring by the Toreador staff.

Judge G. D. Hiebert, columnist for the St. Louis Pioneer Press, praised the Tech publication.

"Your staff is finding the news. The feature coverage is excellent and the editorial page rates a superior with me."

The publication judge said that the Toreador was doing an excellent job of writing the news and presenting it in a detailed and well organized fashion.

Columns in the Toreador rated far superior to any that have appeared in Toreadors of the past.

"I have always liked columns that include some human interest, as well as interpretative material," Hiebert said.

Concerning the front page, Hiebert said that it "presents a bright, newsy appearance which invites reader interest."

"Sports coverage," Hiebert said, "needs more personality copy showing an interesting picture of college athletics."

W. E. Garets, head of the Texas Tech journalism department, expressed pleasure concerning the announcement.

"I think it is a fine achievement. It shows that the Toreador has been making the steady improvement that all of us have been hoping for."

Orman, publications director for the past three years, said, "I am highly pleased. The Toreador has been making excellent strides the past few years. We were blessed with an outstanding staff last year and this year's looks like a repeater. We're always looking for bigger and better things—such as number one this year."

Two Toreador staff members, Bob Taylor, managing editor, and Jeannie Bookout, society editor, will attend the Associated Collegiate Press Conference in Miami Beach, Fla., next week.

4-State Forensic Meet Concludes Competition

Students from four states met at Tech Friday to compete in the speech department's ninth annual Forensic Festival.

Representatives from colleges and universities in Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas participated in debate, extemporaneous speaking, poetry reading, after dinner speaking and discussion.

Final results in three categories were announced Friday, with debate and discussion results to be announced at noon today.

In extemporaneous speaking Superior ratings went to Jon Kyl, University of Arizona; Bob Lindsey, Oklahoma Baptist University; and Jack Traynor, St. Mary's, San Antonio.

Those receiving Excellent ratings were John Ferguson, Abilene Christian College; Jim Massey, McMurry; John Baker, Oklahoma Baptist; Janet Yerby, Texas Western; Penny Penaska, Texas Western; Wynette Johnson, Jeff Baynham and Kip Glasscock of Texas Tech.

Dennis Cox, Arizona, and Jan Barton, Texas Tech, received Superior ratings in after-dinner speaking. Rated Excellent were Joe Milchen, Texas Western; Carl Moore, Texas Western; Nolan Moore, Midwestern; Mike Dipp, St. Mary's; Lane, New Mexico.

Superior ratings in poetry reading went to James Fowler, Abilene Christian, and Mike Pollard, Texas Tech.

Earning Excellent ratings were Cathy Black, New Mexico; Kay Holly, Arizona; Nolan Moore, Midwestern; Geri Baldis, Texas Western; and Virginia Ripley, Texas Western.

Certificates of Award were made to all speakers receiving Superior and Excellent ratings and to all participants in discussion who had an average of Superior or Excellent ratings.

Ag Board Accepts Worker Proposal

A proposal to show area Mexican migrant workers American agricultural methods was approved Thursday at a meeting of the Student Agricultural Council.

Frank Gonzales, civic leader, made the presentation and feels the plan will "aid in fabricating good relations with our Southern neighbors."

Educational exhibits and short lectures will be presented on weekends to demonstrate phases of agriculture.

Dance Committee Asks All Techsans To Dance

"We want them to come hag, stag or drag," James Perry, publicity chairman for the Western Dance committee, said when asked who was invited to the Square Dance at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Rec Hall.

Perry announced that Bob Terrell will be the special personality for the dance. Terrell will call the dances and give lessons to those who want them.

The Western Dance Committee, which will sponsor three dances this semester, will furnish records and all the necessities for the dance.

Perry asked that all BA students, Engineers and Aggies join in the square dance. "This is a dance that everyone on campus is invited to attend, and there's bound to be loads of fun for everyone," the publicity chairman declared.

Perry said the dance was a let-your-hair-down affair and the more hollering done, the more enjoyment there would be in it for everyone.

"And for gosh sakes," Perry commented, "no experience is necessary. Everybody can do it, and if they think they can't, our special personality will help them out."

The committee's other scheduled dances are Nov. 16 and Dec. 7.

There has been enough response to the poll to form a class in ballroom dancing, according to Karen Moore, Tech Union program director.

Mrs. Moore urged all who completed the questionnaire to attend an organizational meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the ballroom lounge.

Dances to be taught and meeting days and times will be decided. Students wishing to enroll at the meeting may do so, she said.

"Because so many have indicated they would be interested in such a class if the price were lower, we are changing it to $10 per person and $18 per couple," she said.

Prices were originally set at $12.50 per person and $20 per couple.

The ten-hour course would cost $100-$150 on an individual basis at a commercial studio, according to Bill McGee, instructor for the class.

Both he and his wife, Sherry McGee, have taught professionally in Lubbock. She was the second place winner of an All-American dancing contest in Los Angeles in 1958.

Several steps in five different dances will be taught. Students will choose from foxtrot, waltz, tango, samba, cha-cha, rumba and jitterbug.

"ABOUT PEACE CORPS WORKERS, COLONEL..."
"... They're quite delicious, y'know."

Reporter Interviews 'Unusual' Explorer

By BILL HEARD
Toreador Staff Writer

India's great hunter-explorer, Col. Felix Tigris, O.B.E., was here and he was mine, all mine to interview. I had never met the Colonel, but from everything I had read about him, he was a unique individual.

Entering the room, I found the Colonel lounging on a long couch, he looked at me with his huge green eyes and growled a greeting. He was tall—ten feet—and had blond hair with streaks of black. He wore his old explorer's bush hat even in the building.

I sat down nervously, for it's not often one interviews someone of his type. "Colonel," I asked, setting pad on trembling knee, "how do you like the States?"

"Too bloody civilized, y'know," he grumbled. "Too many beggars gadding about, hurring, scurring, going no place. I prefer the bush, y'know."

"Colonel, since you're often in the bush, have you met any of our Peace Corps workers?"

"Yes, quite."
"How do you like them, sir?"
"Oh, veddy much. They're quite delicious, y'know," he rumbled with an evil gleam in his eye.

I gulped audibly and edged forward in my chair. As I said, it is not often one interviews someone like the Colonel.

"Er... would you l-like to t-tell our readers one of y-your experiences, Colonel?"

"Yes, quite," he boomed. "Not long ago, I took a chap into the wilds of India to hunt the rare Ju-Ju Bird. We were tramping through the bush early one morning with our native porters following when we heard the cry of one of the little beggars. It's hard to describe the cry, but I guess it sounds more like a combination of a professor's laugh after giving a pop quiz and an alarm clock bell than anything else.

Kent Attacks Nixon's Twist

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon says that only "something like a physical disability" would prevent him from serving a full four year term if he is elected governor of California.

The former vice president, here on a speaking tour, was asked by newsmen Thursday if he would accept a draft for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964. He replied: "There will be no draft in 1964 for me or anyone else."

In Los Angeles, State Democratic Chairman Roger Kent reported in a statement: "The physical disability Nixon refers to is someone twisting his arm to run for president—and he'll see to it that someone does."

Staffers Attend SDX Meeting

Ralph Sellmeyer and Julian Rodriguez are attending the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society, at Miami Beach, Fla.

Rodriguez, Toreador copy editor, is representing the student SDX chapter and Sellmeyer, Tech professor of journalism, is acting as advisor to the student chapter.

Kenneth May, president of the West Texas Professional Chapter and Avalanche-Journal reporter, is representing the professional chapter. Sellmeyer is also representing the professional chapter and holds the office of secretary.

Chess Tournament Begins On Sunday

Tech Union will be the site of a five round "Swiss style" chess tournament with the first two rounds being played from 3-5 p.m. Sunday.

Players will be matched at random for first round play. The next four rounds will find winners matched with winners and losers against losers.

Tournament play for rounds three and four will resume from 3-5 Nov. 5, while round five is to be matched Nov. 12.

In case of tie there will be a sudden death playoff.

HOMECOMING IN REVERSE—Arlan Flake, SMU fullback and former Lubbock Monterey star, will see many familiar faces when the Mustangs play Texas Tech in Dallas today.

Anderson Tops Pic Statistics

Halfback Donnie Anderson of Tinnett leads in two statistical departments and shares top spot in another as the Texas Tech Picadors look toward their next foe, the Rice Owlets in Houston Nov. 4.

Anderson holds rusing honors with 133 yards on 25 carries for a 5.3 average, is averaging 38.8 yards on four punts, and has scored a touchdown to tie with four other pointmakers through two games.

Quarterback James Ellis of Lubbock Monterey has completed 7 of 20 passes for 137 yards and has added 47 yards rushing to lead also in total offense with 184.

End Bill McLelland of Ennis leads the freshmen in pass receptions, with three catches for 43 yards. Llano's Henry Hammons, a halfback, is the best in running back kicks. He has returned one punt for 66 yards and a touchdown and one kickoff for 26 yards.

Sharing scoring honors with Anderson and Hammons are end Johnnie (cq) Bentley of Fort Worth and fullback Kenneth Gill of McKinney. Bill has scored his six points on a field goal and three conversions.

Rice Athletes Are Charged

HOUSTON (AP) — Three Rice University athletes were charged with aggravated assault Friday after a scuffle that followed a minor traffic collision.

One of those charged, Henry Tully Martin, 20, a sophomore guard from Pearsall, is scheduled to go to Austin Saturday, with the Rice football team for a game with Texas.

Also charged were John Robert Lively, 22, a fifth-year student who was a co-captain of the football team last year; and Walter Hiram Ligon, 21, a senior guard who injured a knee in the first game this season.

The three were charged with beating Willard Bertling, 28, a press operator. Hospital attendants said Bertling had a broken cheekbone, internal injuries and body bruises.

The students were arrested after the traffic collision.

SCARLET Scatterings...

By CHARLES RICHARDS

DALLAS—The Red Raiders of Texas Tech meet the Mustangs of Southern Methodist today in the Cotton Bowl, and for the sixth time this year Coach J T King's thin squad is rated the underdogs. On paper this is true.

With a similar effort put out by the Raiders in both the Texas Christian and Baylor games, the Techsans would most likely come out of the game victorious. On the other hand, it might take a spirited effort to beat the Ponies, who have not been badly defeated all year.

The Methodists have not allowed more than one touchdown against them in second half play, a further indication that the Ponies will be tough. It is especially important when it is taken into consideration that both of Tech's wins came from strong play in the last half. In both the TCU and Baylor victories, the games were tied at halftime.

If the Red Raiders are feeling pretty cocky — and the twin wins over TCU and Baylor are a pretty good reason for feeling that way — Southern Methodist might just pull the same strings the Raiders have been pulling the last two weeks. And a hard enough tug could send Tech tumbling out of Cloud 9 and into a corral full of wild SMU Mustangs.

In the last mail, we received a letter from a Tech backer here in Dallas. I'm passing it along to the rest of the student body.

Dear Sir,
This is just a line to say this family is quite proud of your fine ball club in every respect.

We think that your team was paid a high honor by "The Dallas Times Herald" and its editor, Louis Cox, this week. We are sending the clipping out of the paper hoping that the college campus (at Tech) will be able to read the compliment.

You "Red Raiders" keep up the good work and, as we used to say in high school, "You've got to have team spirit."

Mrs. Wm. L. Smith

The specific compliment mentioned was a part of a story by Cox in Tuesday's "Times Herald." SMU Coach Bill Meek was paying respect to the Raiders. Here is the part dealing with Tech.

"About this week's opponent, Meek said, 'Tech is rugged. They'll be coming here higher than a kite after beating TCU and Baylor. Tech has been doing a fine job, but I'm not surprised. They've got more than desire. They have a lot of fine athletes, and most people seem to overlook that fact.'

"Don't you remember during the summer J T King said his backs would stack up with those of any team in the conference? He said at the time his line was a question mark. Well, his line is doing a good job."

Last week's predictions came through in high style for once. I guessed 8 of 10 last week, while John Petty fell to 4-6, giving the Scarlet Scatterbrain the edge for the first time since the season started. Petty owned a two-game edge, but last week's results reversed the figures, and the margin is on the other side now.

Today's games might move the margin either way, with five differences of opinion.

Notre Dame, LSU May Bite Dust This Week

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame and Louisiana State are top college football teams in most danger of getting their noses bloodied this weekend. Also keep an eye on Pitt, a sleeping giant ready to pull an upset.

Last week the score was 45 of 54 for 848. Now goes another flight into outer space:

Northwestern 13, Notre Dame 7: The Wildcats are in a strike-back mood, and the Irish are due for a letdown.

Florida 16, Louisiana State 7: The Gators' multiple offense finally gets clicking.

Pittsburgh 10, Navy 6: Pitt inevitably comes up with a big effort in midseason. This could be it.

Penn State 21, California 13: The Nittany Lions came of age against Syracuse last week.

Michigan 13, Minnesota 0: The Gophers are slightly favored, but we feel the Wolverines have more punch.

Baylor 15, Texas A&M 12: Both teams nursing wounds, but the Bears have more well bodies.

Alabama 38, Houston 6: The Crimson Tide's muscles have muscles.

UCLA 20, Stanford 8: Bobby Smith, UCLA's No. 1 tailback, should be ready for full-time action.

Washington 18, Oregon 7: Coach Jim Owens has had time to plug graduation losses and should be strong in the stretch.

Michigan State 33, Indiana 6: The Spartans aren't about to yield their No. 1 position.

The others all Saturday:

Army 24, West Virginia 7; Rutgers 18, Penn 6; Missouri 20, Nebraska 7; Ohio State 24, Wisconsin 7.

Cage Ticket Sales Begin For Tech

Season ticket orders for Texas Tech's 1961-62 basketball schedule are being accepted now, according to Mrs. Mildred Graham, ticket manager.

Requests will be filled in the order received following renewals by last year's season ticket holders. Tickets for 11 home games are $16.50 plus 25-cents mailing fee. Orders should be sent to the Texas Tech Athletic Office.

THE DATING SEASON

I have recently returned from a tour of 950,000 American colleges where I made a survey of undergraduate dating customs and sold mechanical dogs, and I have tabulated my findings and I am now prepared to tell you the simple secret of successful dating.

The simple secret is simply this: a date is successful when the man knows how to treat the girl.

And how does a girl like to be treated? If you want to know, read and remember these four cardinal rules of dating:

1. A girl likes to be treated with respect.

When you call for your girl, do not drive up in front of the sorority house and yell, "Hey, fat lady!" Get out of your car. Walk respectfully to the door. Knock respectfully. When your girl comes out, tug your forelock and say respectfully, "Good evening, your honor." Then offer her a Marlboro, for what greater respect can you show your girl than to offer Marlboro with its fine flavor and exclusive seleetrate filter? It will indicate immediately that you respect her taste, respect her discernment, respect her intelligence. So, good buddies, before going out on a date, always remember to buy some Marlboros, available in soft pack or flip-top box in all 50 of the United States and also Cleveland.

2. A girl likes a good listener.

Do not monopolize the conversation. Let her talk while you listen attentively. Make sure, however, that she is not herself a good listener. I recollect a date I had once with a coed named Greensleeves Sigafos, a lovely girl, but unfortunately a listener, not a talker. I too was a listener so we just sat all night long, each with his hand cupped over his ear, straining to catch a word, not talking hour after hour until finally a policeman came by and arrested us both for vagrancy. I did a year and a day. She got by with a suspended sentence because she was the sole support of her aged housemother.

3. A girl likes to be taken to nice places.

By "nice" places I do not mean expensive places. A girl does not demand luxury. All she asks is a place that is pleasant and gracious. The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, for example. Or Mount Rushmore. Or the Taj Mahal. Or the Bureau of Weights and Measures. Find places like these to take your girl. In no circumstances must you take her to an oil-cracking plant.

4. A girl likes a man to be well-informed.

Come prepared with a few interesting facts that you can drop casually into the conversation. Like this: "Did you know, Snookiepuss, that when cattle, sheep, camels, goats, antelopes, and other members of the cud-chewing family get up, they always get up hind legs first?" Or this: "Are you aware, Hotlips, that corn grows faster at night?" Or this: "By the way, Loverhead, Oslo did not become the capital of Norway till July 11, 1924."

If you can slip enough of these nuggets into the conversation before dinner, your date will grow too torpid to eat. Some men save up to a half million dollars a year this way.

Titan Ends Are Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Titans may be without both their pass-catching regular ends in their American Football League game against Oakland at Oakland, Calif., Sunday.

Don Maynard, hurt in the Denver game last week, is definitely out. Art Powell, who injured a knee in the same game, has failed to respond to treatment. A back, Dick Christy, is being used in his place.

Doctor Gilbreth Speaks At AIEE Dinner Meeting

Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, industrial engineer and famed mother in "Cheaper by the Dozen" will speak at the AIEE dinner meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Parkway Manor.

Dr. Gilbreth's late husband, Frank B. Gilbreth, often called "the father of industrial engineering," conducted motion studies in their home, using his twelve children to work out his theory. Finding the theory to be successful, he began employing it in factories to cut waste of time and money by employees.

As consulting engineers, the Gilbreths reorganized many factories and businesses and established the precept on which industrial engineering is based.

Since her husband's death, Dr. Gilbreth has become one of the leading industrial engineers in the country and a world lecturer on industrial techniques.

She holds 13 degrees including Doctor of Engineering, Rutgers College; Doctor of Industrial Psychology, Purdue University; and a Doctor of Philosophy from Brown University. In addition she has four honorary degrees. Dr. Gilbreth helped design the Heart Kitchen for the Heart Assn.

Tuesday morning Dr. Gilbreth will conduct a seminar for industrial engineering majors. The dinner meeting is co-sponsored by the AIEE student chapter, the AIEE wives group and the department of industrial engineers.

Plates for the dinner will be $2.50 per person.

Stahnke Takes Contest Honor

Clyde Stahnke, junior agronomy major, won top individual honors at the Region Four Soils Judging Contest at Goodwell, Okla.

A trio made up of Stahnke, Don Goss and Johnny Hajek also won second place at the same contest. Stahnke, Goss and Hajek were the only students representing Tech.

Region Four American Society of Agronomy is composed of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana. Texas Tech and Texas A&M were the representatives for Texas. Panhandle A&M at Panhandle, Okla., hosted the event.

The two highest teams will attend the national contest, the time and place for which will be decided at the national convention of ASA, Nov. 27-30 in St. Louis.

Organization Begins Plans On 'Nightclub'

Tech's Most Handsome Man will be elected at Club Scarlet, mock night club, at p.m. Nov. 18.

The annual election is sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism fraternity. So far one entry has been turned in. He is Wendell Barnett, junior from Lubbock, sponsored by Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Entries are now being received by Mrs. Louise Allen, Theta Sigma Phi sponsor, in the Journalism Bldg.

Each organization on campus may submit one candidate. A candidate must have a 1 point grade average unless a freshman and must be enrolled for 12 hours. He may be of any classification and enrolled in any school on campus.

The deadline for entering a candidate is 5 p.m. Nov. 8. Along with the required information, a photograph of the candidate must also be submitted.

Finalists will be voted on at the Club Scarlet, and the winner will be presented in the 1961 La Ventana. Preliminary judging will select seven finalists for the contest.

Each paid admission may cast one vote and admission price to the night club is $1 per person.

Entertainment at Club Scarlet will be a floor show composed of skits by various campus organizations. Skit plans must also be submitted to Mrs. Allen by Nov. 8.

Organizations whose skits are selected for the floor show will receive five complimentary tickets from Theta Sigma Phi. If there are more than five persons in a skit, the organization must purchase their tickets in advance.

Club Scarlet will be in the Rec Hall of the Tech Union.
