Steers Succumb To Late Rally And Hamlin's Tall Cagers Take First Of Three-Game Title Series

HAMLIN—A mighty fourth quarter surge featuring the tall Benson and Baise Tuesday night enabled Hamlin high school to upset the Big Spring Steers, 39 to 37, in the first game of a series to decide the championship of district 8. Big Spring has held the title for the last two seasons.

The Big Spring Steers scored twenty points in the last period, while Big Spring was getting only eleven. Big Spring went into the final quarter with an apparently safe margin of 26 to 19. Hamlin shots, however, began to count at a sensational rate, and about two minutes before the game was over the score was tied, 35-35.

Twenty seconds before the finish, the Steers had taken a lead of 38 to 37. Big Spring called its fourth time out, resulting in a technical foul. Hamlin sank the free pitch to end the scoring.

Benson led the winners with 19 points, and Baise counted 9. On Big Spring's side, Townsend and Reed were the high scorers, with 11 and 9, respectively.

Big Spring will be the site of the second game Thursday night. Sgt. H. D. Green of Abilene was present last night and offered the teams the use of the Abilene high school gymnasium if a third contest is necessary.

A capacity crowd was present last night, but being chiefly Piper partisans, did not enjoy the first three quarters very much. Big Spring led through the opening period, 9 to 4, made the edge 19 to 13 at the half, and 26 to 19 at the end of the third round.

Locals Must Capture Game On Thursday

Big Spring's Steer basketball team, District 8 champions for two seasons, will enter the second game of the 3-game series here Thursday night to decide this year's championship facing the necessity of winning if they are to retain the title.

Hamlin's 3-point victory of Tuesday night at Hamlin put the odds against the local boys. If they win Thursday evening a three game will be played, probably in Abilene high's gym Saturday night. If they lose Hamlin will take charge of the title for a year. Winner of the series will enter a bi-district series. Bi-district winners will compete in the Interscholastic League tournament at Austin for the state championship.

Important Step

The senate took a step Tuesday that will in years to come be considered one of the most important in the history of that august assembly when it voted unanimously in favor of submitting to the people a proposal to amend the constitution so as to place on fixed salaries all district, county and precinct officers.

Present conditions cause many county officials to favor abolition of the fee system, because some of them are barely making bread-and-butter whereas under a fixed scale of salaries they would at least know what to expect.

Fee Investigation

We have at hand the final report of the Senate Investigating Committee of the 42nd legislature, named for the purpose of investigating certain gross irregularities in government. The chief irregularity is the fee system.

Take a look at this. Amounts issued in state general fund warrants and deficiency warrants in payment of witness fees, for holding examining trials, and for accounts of sheriffs, attorneys and district clerks for the period from September 1, 1921 to August 31, 1932:

1923	Year ended Aug. 31	$ 837,976.03
1923	Year ended Aug. 31	814,976.88
1924	Year ended Aug. 31	765,791.70
1925	Year ended Aug. 31	805,094.15
1926	Year ended Aug. 31	914,276.99
1927	Year ended Aug. 31	1,086,163.55
1928	Year ended Aug. 31	1,156,900.90
1929	Year ended Aug. 31	1,216,917.45
1930	Year ended Aug. 31	1,348,705.99
1931	Year ended Aug. 31	1,446,606.45
1932	Year ended Aug. 31	967,325.46

Down To Home

Getting down to home: Amount of state general fund warrants and deficiency warrants issued by the state comptroller in payment of witness fees, for holding examining trials and accounts of sheriffs, attorneys and district clerks for two years ended August 31, 1931 and August 31, 1932 in Howard county:

1931	Year ended Aug. 31	$7,405.24
1932	Year ended Aug. 31	2,758.28

The great decrease—62.75 per cent—in the latter year is the reason why district clerks, and county attorneys especially are interested in getting on a flat salary basis.

Cosden Receivership Soon To Be Lifted

March 28 Is Day For Sale Of Property

J. S. Cosden Actively Identified With Reorganization Plans

Public sale of Cosden Oil company properties that will have the effect of lifting receivership will be held here March 28, under authorization of Wilmington, Delaware, federal court, according to press dispatches of Tuesday night.

The sale will be a step toward dissolution of the receivership into which the company was placed November 16, 1929.

J. S. Cosden, former head of the company, is actively identified with the movement to dissolve receivership and is expected to resume management of the concern after the sale.

Apology Given Hair By Senator Who Struck Him

WOODWARD'S MESSAGE ACCEPTED BY VICTIM AND BY COMMITTEE

AUSTIN (AP)—The "water pitcher incident" of the Texas senate, in which Senator Walter C. Woodward of Coleman crashed a glass receptacle on the head of J. F. Hair, San Antonio attorney, had been amicably settled Tuesday afternoon.

Participants in the fight had composed their differences. Senator Woodward addressed a letter to Hair expressing regret at "the unfortunate incident" and Hair had accepted the apology. Hair said he never was angry with Woodward, but provoked at the committee investigating highway matters because it would not let him do some "panning."

Woodward hit Hair with the pitcher, cutting a gash in his head when the two fell out in an argument before the committee whether a letter Hair sought to insert in the record was permissible for that purpose. Hair had accused the committee of attempting to "whitewash" the highway commission of accusation brought against it. Woodward called any statement in the record "whitewash" anyone an "infamous lie." Hair accused Woodward of "unbecoming conduct" and also of stating an untruth before the pitcher was thrown.

Woodward's letter was read before the committee when it resumed its session this afternoon. No testimony was taken, the committee recessing to permit members to attend other committee meetings.

The Coleman senator wrote Hair that "Our relationship in the past has been cordial, and knowing you and my father to be special friends, it increases my regret."

"For my part, it is a closed incident," Woodward wrote. "If I could withdraw that which has caused or causes you either mental or physical pain, I would gladly do so."

Brown Takes Knott Girls' Tournament

KNOTT—In a tournament for girls' basketball teams here last Saturday Brown won the loving cup for the championship and Forsan took the consolation round. Zickler's team was chosen as the most sportsmanlike.

Teams entered were Brown, Ankney, Forsan, Tarzan, Lomax and Knott.

Minnie Bell Page of Knott was awarded a go's basketball as the best individual player.

Local Man Sponsors Band For Community

Prof. Sears, 519 East Third street, operator of the Sears Auto Works, is sponsoring a band that is attracting a number of local musicians.

Mr. Sears has directed numerous bands and orchestras. He says that he will be glad to offer his services for benefit of the community. About 30 local players are receiving regular private lessons and Mr. Sears said "I have nothing to sell, and am giving these lessons free of charge. In a few months Big Spring will realize she has a band of her own. My work is not a profit-making proposition and I believe the civic organizations will support such a move."

Cars Of Grid Coach And School Superintendent Figure In Crash Here

Quick maneuvering by both drivers averted possible serious consequences, Wednesday noon when a divan of Ohio Brubaker, coach of the high school football team, and Mrs. Pauline C. Brigham, county superintendent, crashed at East 8th and Johnson.

A boy clinging to the running board of one of the cars was thrown between the cars when the collision occurred, but he was unharmed. Other occupants were only shaken.

Bristow was headed west down Eighth and Mrs. Brigham was bound south up Johnson when the cars met. Both cars were damaged.

Masons To Honor Washington With Program Tonight

Masons will observe the birth anniversary of George Washington, first president of the United States and hailed as father of this nation, this evening in a special program at the Masonic Hall.

Banquet Of Legion Members To Honor

The William Frank Martin Post No. 183 of the American Legion will hold a smoker and banquet this evening in the Fisher building, 108 Main street, commemorating the birth anniversary of George Washington.

Music will be furnished by G. A. Hartman's band and the Bears orchestra. Several prominent speakers will be on the program and vocal and instrumental selections are also included.

Veterans of the War Between the States and the Spanish-American war and families of all ex-servicemen will be honored. Assisted by the general fund show. Invitations also are extended to all ex-servicemen to be present this evening.

Hull And Woodin To Enter Cabinet

Embezzlement Is Charged To Two Contest Leaders

NEW YORK—Two tried and successful veterans in the fields of politics and business were announced Tuesday night by President-elect Roosevelt for his premier cabinet posts—Senator Hull of Tennessee, for secretary of state, and William H. Woodin, New York, for secretary of treasury.

The announcement came suddenly from the Roosevelt residence on East Sixty-Fifth street after the president-elect had spent a swift moving day in international affairs.

Impending developments in war debts and world economics impelled Mr. Roosevelt to make his announcement of those two cabinet members. They will go to work immediately with foreign envoys on a Roosevelt program to bring a revival of world trade and prosperity.

Through Secretary HULL—35—

The formal announcement came through Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to Roosevelt, and was released for Wednesday morning.

Mr. Roosevelt announced that he had invited Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee to be secretary of state and Mr. William H. Woodin of Pennsylvania and New York to be secretary of the treasury and they have accepted.

"In making the announcement of his cabinet selections, Mr. Roosevelt made it plain that both of these gentlemen were virtually drafted. Senator Hull was reluctant to leave the senate, Mr. Woodin was loathe to relinquish at this time the active control of the many industrial enterprises with which he has been so long and prominently identified."

Mr. Woodin was at the residence of Roosevelt just before the announcement was made public. The diminutive, gray haired, genial

The day was spent climbing the hills surrounding the springs.

Construction Of Radio Beacon Station Under Way West Of Town

Construction of the Department of Commerce radio beacon station a mile and a quarter west of the airport and a quarter-mile south of Highway No. 1 has been started by L. E. Myers and Company, Chicago, the contractor.

Digging for foundations of the four 125-foot steel towers is practically finished and concrete has been set for two.

The four towers will be located four hundred feet apart, forming the corners of a square. Barney O'Neil, inspector for the Department of Commerce, was here Monday in connection with the work. The station is located on a 15-acre tract leased from the Frazier interests.

Testing of a similar station at Guadalupe was reported under way Monday. Another is being built at Wink and there is another in the mountains west of Guadalupe radio station near El Capitan peak.

The stations throw a radio ray along the transcontinental airway for guidance of pilots at night, and in "blind" weather. Pilots of ships equipped with radio will receive signals whether they are "in the ray" or the direct course of the lighted airway.

Late Tax Payments Send Balance In County Treasury To $72,808.94

Shrinkage That Started In June Stopped; Expenditures For January Within Budget Allowance

Last-minute tax payments on the 1932 rolls had the effect of swelling the balance at January 31 in the county treasury to $72,808.94, reports submitted by Treasurer E. G. Towler and approved by county commissioners show.

Receipts boosted the total on hand approximately $40,000 and stopped a steady shrinkage of the balance since June.

Meanwhile expenditures in January were within the budget allowance for the month. The jury fund showed only $626.01 disbursements for the month against a budget allowance of $6,115.97 for the year. Treasurer's commission of $101.01 satisfied the budget for that particular item for the year.

It cost $978.70 to keep Howard county roads in shape during the first month, but $628.70 for dragging will be reduced to practically nothing in February, County Judge H. R. Debenport said Tuesday. A budget allowance of $4,000 for dragging and $5,000 for grade work is made. Total disbursements of the road and bridge fund for January amounted to $2,692.25 while $57,676 is the year's budget for the fund.

Federal expenses borne by the county were held to $13.33 for the month. Board bill per diem for the jail amounted to $222.80 and it cost $92 to have officers wait on courts during the month. Figures listed under the general fund show.

An addition to the budget of $512.45 to bear cost of preparing a

Delinquent Tax Roll Had To Be Effected. The amount was set aside in last year's budget but the work was not completed then. It was left out of this year's budget.

General fund expenditures were $1,792.06 against $2,733.96 for 1933. Two one thousand dollar bond issues were purchased with funds from the sinking fund of an existing $100,000 bond issue. The bonds were bought for $1,913.07 and bear good interest.

Total bonded indebtedness was listed at $138,000. Deposits were divided between three Big Spring banks.

Ceilings In High School Building Made Very Secure

Parents of children who attend classes in basement rooms of the high school building here may feel that they are safe from danger of injury from falling ceilings, school officials said Tuesday after special repair work had been finished.

The entire ceiling of one room, metal lathing, plaster and all, fell last week a few minutes after classes for the day had been dismissed and falling ceiling, school officials said Tuesday after special repair work had been finished.

To prevent repetition of this workmen were kept busy Saturday, Sunday and Monday. They used long anchor bolts hooked over the joists above the ceiling and run downward through the ceiling where they were bolted to 2x6 boards clamped against the underside of the ceiling. These ceilings are securely bolted to the joists and will bear much weight.

The bolts were placed about a yard apart, as were the boards on the under-sides of the ceiling.

The Wheel

Rolling By Students Of Big Spring High School

You Can Have 'Em, I Don't Want 'Em
Referring To 'The Good Old Days'

They call them the good old days but then they didn't have a lot of things. They didn't have Eva Mae or Modests. Of course they were boys were slinging a wicked foot then, but you can bet they never got a rush that looked like a Stiefeld first night to their daughters.

And you can imagine those ankle squeezers the boy friend used to wear? I'll get they would have given up a year of their life to have the kind of trousers we wear.

What would they think of the slinky dresses the girls are wearing now? Imagine dancing with a bustle in a crowded ball room. Eleven o'clock meant going home, and at that they were later than we are. One thing about a buggy, you didn't have to keep an eye on the road, for old Nellie knew her stuff.

Those crazy hats the women wore in the good old days aren't even in it with these half-baked things people call hats, that the ladies wear. Prove it, I can't—wearing now.

What people did before the talkies arrived, I can't imagine. Those were the good old days when five impudent brats piped up "What'd that say, Maw?" "Read it to me, Maw." Of course you can't do so much gossiping in these days, but what if? We have enough scandal sheets. We don't need any more.

Those were the good old days, but give me the present. Fashion is going good. Tomorrow never comes. Today is all we have. There's but one thing to do with it—live it.

Before And After Taking— Freshman's Conception Of High School

Everyone has his fears and tears before entering upon a great task. It happens that this great task coincides with the act of entering Big Spring high school, and that the fears and tears are those of the freshmen.

After numerous sightings and sounds the Wheel has rolled over a few which were worth printing.

Murry Patterson, an honorable member for the mid-term class, has favored one of the Wheel spokes with his conception. Murry said, "I thought it would be real hard; but after all, it isn't so bad."

Lois Whitehead, judging from her forehead, Howard, is certainly capable of having some sort of breath taking conception. Lois had the idea that high school was wonderful and "Oh, just to get in!"—Was her goal. But now—Latin has marred the beautiful picture.

And now, for the real idea. That is, the "regula fella" idea among all Freshmen. Jimmy Ford—didn't think and hasn't thought yet.

Moise Kuykendall, a platinum blonde freshman, tells us that she thought high school would be "hot" and upon her entrance she found it "hot-cha!"

Billy Smith, a Smith, thought high school would be "impossible"; and, this "impossible" refers to literary and social matters. Then, upon her entrance, she found the impossibility still remaining in literature, and as for the social side of school-life Rupert Oliver.

Little Jess Cook found high school exactly as she expected it to be. "They seem to be very easy on me," she stated. This may give some teacher an idea, so the Wheel spoke begs to disagree on the "easy" business.

These few conceptions, which were gathered in all the rush of leaving school, hope to be accompanied later by the thoughts and ideals of their classmates.

Exchange

Raylor College, Belton, Texas, February 18, 1933.

MUST YOU BE A SPORT?
 Sportsmanship, playing the sport, being a good fellow, and an agreeable companion—that is an ideal goal to hold up before the youth of schools and colleges today. But there is a challenge of sportsmanship that takes all the will-power of a normal human being to withstand.

"Aw, come on, be a good sport!" is a challenge to every girl on this campus almost every day. There comes an invitation to join the gang, who is out for a thrill. Ask what she felt she stated that she had to follow the crowd. She didn't feel that her popularity depended upon it.

Repeatedly, a girl who has had ideals and who has lived conservatively finds herself confronted with a challenge to join in entertainments that she knows and has known always are not the right sort—a challenge to be a good sport.

The challenge to be a good sport today demands a mind that can think clearly. It must be well-defined, forthright thinking that sees into the future and views the outcome of following the crowd. The effect that it will have. There comes a challenge to be a leader in the things that one knows are right rather than a follower of the thrill-seekers. It takes true character to stand the challenge of sportsmanship.

From the Pup Tent (N.M.M.I.): Blessings on the three little dimes. B. rebekah girl with knees the same. With they rolled down silver hose. How do you do it, no one knows, with they red lips redder; more. With the lipstick from the store. With they make up on thy face. And thy bobbed hair jaunty grace. From my heart, I give thee joy, Glad that I was born a boy.

The Tattler, Mullin, Texas, Feb. 14, 1933.

We see where the Junior class has been busy rehearsing their class play.

Wonder who will be glad, and I wonder who won't? Just the same, a change is always good for anyone.

ONLY FOUR MORE MONTHS OF SCHOOL

Think of it, students, just four more months! Some students brighten and thrill at the thought, while others do not express so much happiness. Whether you will be happy or glad that school is over, it is certain that almost everyone will welcome a change from the cramming of lessons (that is, those students who have crammed, and will be glad to see vacation once more. It is rather early to be thinking of vacation, so let us think of how much better we shall work during these next four months of school and how our grades will improve. If we do this, before we can hardly realize it, we shall say, "Only one more day of school!"

JITNEY SERVICE

The ladies of the First Christian church will serve a jitney supper Friday evening in the church basement. The supper will be served cafeteria style. The dishes to be a hot and cold. An evening of fun and entertainment is assured.

And So On—

Call it and so if you want, but you saw someone who saw someone who saw Rupert Oliver without Rupert Oliver.

Wonder what Jimmy Miller hid under the house after Mickey Davis drove up and gave him a package on Valentine's day?

One of our lads and what we mean it's latest, is this Editor Koerber and Mary Louise Gilmour. My, what a shock to his and her fans. Many happy returns of the day, you say.

Of all the excitement: Ruth Coleman fainting, Mianie Bell Williamson saying bad words in the hall, the roof falling in, and Frank McCleary sporting Cleo Lane in church. Well, my word!

The impossible happened—We got a holiday after mid-term! Free Monday morning; well that's what we call starting off the week right.

The everlasting shock among all the fems is this: What, do you have a date to the Junior-Senior banquet already? Oh well, I have a chance today. What if they don't have it? You'll be outta luck.

Our yell for one of the football captains next year is recommended to this AND SO ON: "He's a weasel. Who's a weasel? Army! Army! Army!"

Lost and unfound: hot-ones Johnny Babers. Never mind, don't hurt; he'll come home.

After Rick found his leather jacket he was up with rocks—he resolves to stay out of it for fear a rock storm might come while his feet are in it. Not a bad idea.

WHERE ARE WE GOING?

There are about one hundred students in high school who need to do some serious thinking in the next few months. They are the seniors.

In a very few months they will be graduated from Big Spring high school and will be on the way to the making of future citizens.

Do you know where you are going? Are you still undecided as to what place you will occupy in life? Are you going to college? Now is the time to be deciding on your future. Of course we don't know definitely what we plan to do, but now is the time to give the subject serious thought.

It is the Wheel's opinion that it is time for all of us to come to some definite conclusions.

Do you know where you are going? With that question facing every one, it is time for some serious thoughts. Find out now where you are going.

OUR TEAM

At this time of year when the championships of the hardwood are being decided, the good points and the bad points of all the teams are being discussed.

For the third straight year the Steers are up in the championship heights. They have overcome the difficulties to reach those heights and are now reaching the stride they have hoped to obtain.

The Steers, like every other team, at times in the past had some one on their team who was cocky, someone who was not the best of sports. That is to be expected in every team.

However it can be said that the present Steers, taken as a group, are the hardest fighting, cleanest bunch of athletes that have ever represented a school. They play the game to win for their school, and not for personal glory. They are probably the outstanding team in West Texas today.

With such a reputation and knowing that the student body is behind them more than ever before, it will be an inspired team that takes the field against Hamlin in the district playoff.

The students should start the slogan "On to Austin." The Steers will do their part.

Esdaile, The Star Gazer

Q—Why is Ellis Read so cute?
 Mae Dell Henry.
A—He isn't, his mother just dresses him cute.

Q—Is U. M. Boatler really a brute?
 Wynell Woodall.
A—Why ask such a foolish question? A girl of your romance ought to know.

Q—Who do all the boys run for?
 Mele Smith? Dorothea Johnson.
A—Maybe she has "it."

Q—Why is Charlie Vines such a knock-out with the ladies?
 J. G.
A—Dear Joe John Gilmer: He is the Big Spring's Gift-To-The-Ladies.

Q—Did all the Tuesday night dates go over as all intended them to go?
 (A Wondered).
A—Ask someone who had the experience.

Q—Do I have a chance to get a date with Babe King now since Lillian Harris is out?
 Jake Morgan.
A—That is a fine question to ask! Would you desert a Pal?

Q—Dear Esdaile: I am greatly abused since my silent lover (P. D.) has gone to Colorado. Is it the girls in Colorado?
 Agnes Monroe.
A—Yes I am afraid so. It is just a "Major" matter.

Q—Why is Willard Barber getting so sneaky?
A—No reason at all; it is just his way.

Q—Who was holding Billie Robinson's hand Friday night?
 A Liberty Cafe Fan.
A—Bonnie Miller of course. Nobody else would have the nerve. "What is this younger generation coming to?"

Q—I wonder if Hazel Smith has been jig-sawing this week-end?
 Johnnie Nail.
A—Nope! she has been without.

Abilene Minister To Fill Local Pulpit

Claudette Wanted To Be Paid

"I want to be paid," insisted Claudette Colbert, dark-haired, dark-eyed movie star.

"O. K.," said Cecil B. DeMille, noted movie director. And Claudette got the most villainous feminine role Hollywood has had to offer in some years.

She is cast as the Empress Poppaea, beautiful but cruel consort of Nero, sixth and last of the Caesars, in DeMille's "The Sign of the Cross," which comes to the Ritz Saturday 11 p. m., Sunday and Monday. Charles Laughton, Broadway and London stage favorite, who made his movie debut in "Devil and the Deep" with sensational success, plays the role of Nero. Freddie March and Eileen Landi have other leading roles, and nearly 7500 other persons are members of the cast.

Miss Colbert went to great pains to secure the role. She admits that she was tired of good-girl roles. Since her entrance to the movies, after winning stage success on Broadway, she has never played a girl on her nerves, she said.

"The Sign of the Cross" is a colorful cross-section of life in Rome during the period that the events in the career of Nero were building up to a fatal climax. The incidents which occurred during the 48-hour period with which the film concerns itself were to play a vital part in shaping the future course of history.

Crowds Drawn By Ritz Bill

The R & R Ritz theatre's bill for Wednesday was expected to attract even larger crowds than were drawn to the showhouse Tuesday for first showing of Kate Smith in "Hello, Everybody" and Ruth Laird's "Broadway Revels of 1933" on the stage. This program will be shown for the last time tonight.

Miss Laird, who brought her show here last year, has a company of performers this season that brought forth a big hand from Tuesday night's audience. A stage band, a chorus of great little dancers, a toe dancer of unusual ability, a rumba dance number, a comedian-tap artist and other attractions are included. Miss Laird herself contributes a smooth tap number.

And Kate Smith in "Hello Everybody" proves conclusively that she is one radio star whose light shines even brighter on the sound screen. The producers did not make the mistake that sometimes is made in other lines. They let Kate sing plenty, and that, after all, is the

Faculty Stunt Night Set Friday, March 2

The annual Faculty Stunt Night program will be presented in the High School Auditorium of Friday, March 2, according to D. H. Reed, who is in charge of plans for the program. It is for the benefit for the basketball fund.

"This year's performance will be the hottest in the program ever seen in West Texas," Mr. Reed stated. "Our plans now are to give an hour and a half entertainment organized on the musical comedy plan. The faculty has secured the services of a modern rhythm band which will feature in many song hits and choruses to be offered.

Besides the orchestra and some local dance artists, more than fifty members of the faculties of the Big Spring schools will have parts in the entertainment. Sure-fire comedy teams have been organized, and several song novelties and dramatic skits are planned.

Twelve New Typewriters New In Use By Classes

The students were quite surprised when they walked into the typing room Tuesday morning and found that their old typewriters had been replaced by 12 new Woodstock over the week-end. The old typewriters, Woodstock, and Underwoods were discarded for these new machines. The only types left are the Woodstocks and the Underwoods.

Crime Problem Is Subject Of L. A. Eubanks

On Tuesday of last week L. A. Eubanks, of the Retail Merchants Association, gave to the civics class a very interesting and educational talk on "Crime in America."

The pupils were interested and appreciative.

In his discourse on the crime of America, Mr. Eubanks made a plea to the class, as future citizens, to limit the crime by doing their share of preventing it.

As Mr. Eubanks said "It is a pity that one of our foremost and most intelligent citizens is forced to flee from America with his family to a foreign country in order that he may receive protection. Our own United States cannot give him that desired thing. Crime is better organized and has more influence than our police system. As a result, Mr. Lindbergh's first son was kidnapped and murdered, and now the life of his second son is in danger. Even one of his close friends has been kidnapped.

In the past a great deal of crime has been done for a thrill. Now is the time to learn what a real thrill is and stop committing such foolish acts." Mr. Eubanks says that the greatest thrill anyone can experience is to prevent a crime from being done.

Many stolen articles, each with a story of its own, pictures of criminals, and finger prints were displayed. With a demonstration of how the fingerprints were taken, Mr. Eubanks warned all of the students never to touch anything that was in any way connected with crime. It not only gets our own mixed with the criminal's, but it destroys his, losing a valuable piece of evidence.

At the end of his talk, many students asked questions concerning every day happenings and were clearly answered by Mr. Eubanks.

This was the second talk given to the civics class by local business men. The third to be given, if possible, on March 2, by County Attorney James Little.

Tax Exempt Securities

By constitutional amendment, Senator Cordell Hull of Tennessee would remove the tax exemption feature from billions of bonds now outstanding in this country—bonds of federal, state, county and other political units.

Thirty billion dollars in these tax-exempt bonds now escape all burden of government, it is pointed out.

How to harness the enormous income from these securities and make it carry at least a share of the tax burden is the question before congress in the Hall measure.

Some might argue that to tax such securities would be to pass the burden back to the people anyhow, since their selling price would be lowered.

The answer to that is that many of the payers of income taxes in the higher brackets largely nullify their income tax payments thru possession of huge blocks of these tax-exempt securities.

Money tied up in such investments isn't working very much. Most of it is there because of the tax-exempt feature.

Thirty billion dollars of wealth in any form that is escaping its fair share of the burden of government would seem to demand action of some sort.

Had not the ground hog seen his shadow and caused Old Man Winter to stay for six more weeks, the old adage of "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love" would probably be as true as ever. But the only one to brave the freezing temperatures was Dan Cupid with his valentines which are not as sentimental as usual. And he failed to achieve any romantic accomplishments which accounts for the lack of gossip, however, a few things did happen.

CHAPTER XXXVII

The girls followed down to the street with the platform was erected. Mirrors told Sheila that she wore a beautiful, it fitted her exquisitely and the color was heaven.

"Let's see you step down from there," ordered Gordon when not a wrinkle remained to mar the perfection of the frock.

"Fearfully Sheila obeyed. "It can't be worse than the stage," she thought in panic. After all if she could fall Harrel would surely find a job for her somewhere.

She stepped across the room, and with the stilted manner of a professional mannequin but with natural grace. "You're hired right now!" murmured the girl named Sheila, looking up from fastening a belt about her smart black and white walking suit.

A moment later Sheila stood before Henri. She moved across the room to the mirror, turned and walked back again. Henri nodded. "You'll do," he said. "The salary is $50 a week. Gordon, have her put on Number 12 and let me see her."

The other girls, listening showed their surprise. Fifty dollars for a beginner! It meant that instead of displaying gowns, appearing and disappearing as different costumes were requested, Sheila would mingle with the customers. She would appear to be another shopper, stopping tea if it was served, sitting, standing and talking to the women and girls who had come to buy Henri's gowns. Wearing the designer's most handsome creations, she would be a model incognito.

Customers would think her another patron, like themselves, and hurry to inquire secretly of Henri what was the price of her wrap or frock, whether it could be duplicated.

The prospect alarmed Sheila. It was welcome news, indeed, that she was to earn $50 a week but when Gordon explained what would be expected of her she doubted her ability.

"Just be yourself," Gordon told her. "Blip into this gown and hat and walk around or sit just as the others do. Now and then pretend to inquire about a purchase."

"But I don't know anything about modeling!" the girl protested.

"Neither do our clients. They'll think you are one of themselves." In another five minutes Sheila was dressed and ready. "You'll be all right. It's easy," the red haired girl reassured her.

She stepped again into the soft glow of the outer salon. She had, then moved on. As she did her eyes fell on a familiar

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Sheila found Henri in one of his most temperamental moods. Nothing suited the designer that morning. Business was very bad. The models—none of them pleased him. Their frocks did not look right. There were bills to be paid and other bills—those owed to Henri—long overdue. An order of silk had not been delivered.

Those models! Henri was shouting that every one of them were fired just as Sheila arrived on the scene. The girls—all of them attractive and smart looking—accepted this announcement with marked unconcern. Not one of them standing about like so many lovely goddesses, gave as much as a sign that they had heard their employer.

It was an old story. Business was not really bad, and they knew it. Henri lost his temper, displayed every one and immediately forgot about it every few months. It meant nothing at all.

But it was not an old story to Sheila and she stood frightened and uncertain what to do until the little Frenchman, pudgy and red in the face from screaming, suddenly wheeled and face her.

"Mr. Lane sent me," she said timidly.

"Mr. Lane sent you?" Henri shouted flapping his arms like a frantic hen. "Mr. Lane says I should take you on? And how do I pay your salary? How do I teach you to walk, to stand? How do I know you can wear my gowns? How do I know that?"

Sheila couldn't answer. She stood still under the force of the tirade. It was a shock until she saw one of the mannequins, a girl in a pale yellow chiffon evening gown, gazing at her. Their eyes met and the other girl, turning so that the frate man could not see, winked encouragingly.

"You girls get into the dressing room," Henri ordered. Then he turned a suddenly beaming countenance to Sheila.

"If Mr. Lane says you will do I suppose you will. I need a model. Go into the dressing room and get ready. I'll see what you look like." He raised his voice sharply. "Gordon, put number 17 on this girl, hurry!"

Gordon was a plump, black-garbed woman whom Sheila was to know later as a real friend. It was her duty to see that the models appeared in the lovely, costly creations Henri designed at exactly the moment they were wanted, her duty to see that the gowns were always in perfect order hung away after a wearing. She kept the girls quiet, concealed their squabbles, found ways to excuse a

Prohibition History

WASHINGTON (UP)—The history of the prohibition movement in America follows:

Dec. 18, 1917—The 18th Amendment to the constitution was submitted to the states by Congress.

Jan. 8, 1919—The first state, Mississippi, ratified the amendment.

Nov. 19, 1919—The war time prohibition law designed as a measure to conserve grain during the war was enacted.

Jan. 16, 1919—The 30th state, Nebraska, ratified the amendment.

June 30, 1919—War time prohibition law became effective.

Oct. 9, 1919—Congress passed the Volstead national prohibition act to enforce the 18th amendment.

Oct. 28, 1919—Congress passed Volstead act over President Wilson's veto.

Jan. 17, 1919—18th amendment and the Volstead act became effective.

Nov. 23, 1921—The Willis-Campbell act strengthening the prohibition act became a law.

Feb. 19, 1929—The Jones law, an amendment making more drastic the national prohibition act, was passed by the senate.

Feb. 28, 1929—The House passed the Jones "five and ten" law.

March 3, 1929—President Coolidge signed the Jones law.

July 1, 1930—Admiral's ration of the prohibition law was transferred from the Treasury Department.

There were murmured protests but with one accord the mannequins began getting into the costumes.

"It's a wonder you couldn't stand on a sheet, Fla," Gordon continued. Busting about, handing out this and that frock, Gordon finally came to Sheila. Her practiced eye ran up and down the graceful figure, indicating more approval than her lips would ever voice. The frock Sheila was wearing did not, however, seem to please her.

"Take it off," she said shortly and Sheila was glad she had worn her best combination.

"What's she going to wear, Gordon?" asked one of the girls. "A bathing suit!"

There was a sudden sally of laughter in a sharp command. Evidently the bathing suit joke was well known. Sheila decided that she would ask about it later. "Number 17, Rosie!" Gordon called. "Turn around now child."

This last was to Sheila. "You wear your hair well."

Rosie, an undersized little creature with a tape measure around her neck and a huge square cushion of pins attached at her waist, came forward bearing a froth of green and orchid chiffon.

"Stand here," Gordon indicated a raised platform and Sheila obeyed. The woman slipped the green and orchid confection over Sheila's head and drew it carefully down over the slender figure.

$5,000 For Injuries Asked In Suit Here

Dec Witt Day, formerly an employee of the Texas and Pacific Railway company, filed suit Tuesday in the 32nd district court asking $5,000 for injuries received while working for the road.

He sustained an injury of his knee November 12, 1932 while attempting to unload a push car that the vehicle might be moved from the path of an oncoming train. He was engaged in hauling dirt to replace a dump washed away by the heavy rains in September, his petition sets out.

Day charged negligence by the foreman of the construction gang, the engineer of the approaching train, and the company in using unruly cars was responsible for his injury. The foreman caused the cart to be overloaded and did not warn of the approaching train the engineer did not blow the whistle, and the company permitted a car unfit for use to be used, he said.

Damages of $2 per day since he was injured and for loss of earning power and pain caused was asked by the plaintiff. He is represented by Sullivan and Sullivan.

Birthday Of Washington Is Observed

Rotarians Hear Rev. John Thorns Of Coahoma At Tuesday Meeting

The 201st birthday anniversary of George Washington was commemorated at the weekly meeting of Rotary club held Tuesday noon at the Settles ballroom. The program was in charge of Albert M. Fisher, chairman, Charles Landers and G. H. Hayward.

Rev. John Thorns, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Coahoma, made an unusually interesting talk on "George Washington, the American," as the principal feature of the program. Rev. Thorns, pictured Washington as one of the outstanding men of the country, as well as the world, who was entirely worthy of the praise he has received until this day, due to the unflinching service to his fellowman and country.

Accepted Last Friday
 Ever since he conferred and accepted finally the secretary of state portfolio from Mr. Roosevelt on the train en route to New York last Friday, Senator Hull has been busy at work on the foreign situation which involves an early world economic party and subsequent discussion of war debts relief.

He conferred at length yesterday with the president-elect just after word had been received the veteran Senator Glass, of Virginia, finally had declined an invitation to enter the cabinet again as secretary of the treasury.

Determined to clear up his cabinet lineup immediately, Mr. Roosevelt was at work last night with his trusted advisers—James A. Farley, chairman of the national committee, and Louis M. Howe, political secretary.

It was believed he was in communication with Senator Swann of Virginia, whose friends made known at Washington the veteran democrat had been offered and definitely accepted the portfolio of secretary of the navy.

At least two other cabinet posts are definitely selected—Farley is to be postmaster general and Senator Walsh of Montana, is to be the attorney general.

Also there seems little doubt
 Miss Frances Perkins, New York, will be secretary of labor and Henry Wallace, Jr., Iowa, will be secretary of agriculture.

The war, interior and commerce offices still were open to speculation last night. Several names were mentioned for each. The visit of Robert Dunham, Chicago industrialist, at the Roosevelt home yesterday led to speculation he might be the next secretary of commerce.

The name of Philip La Follette, former independent republican governor of Wisconsin, who supported Mr. Roosevelt, continued as a possibility for secretary of interior. The war office remained very speculative. Senators Barkley of Kentucky and Hulley of Ohio as well as James Thompson, New Orleans publisher, and Joseph Kennedy, Massachusetts industrialist, continued to be mentioned prominently for the post. But having announced his secretaries of state and treasury, Mr. Roosevelt sat back easily last night to enjoy the gossip about who his other appointments would be.

Mexican Who Got License To Marry Here 22 Years Ago Has To Be Shown He Never Went Through Ceremony

Missionaries Report Ignorance Of American Laws And Customs Cause Such Predicaments

Twenty-two years ago a young Mexican walked up to the county clerk's office and bought a marriage license. The fee paid and the document in hand he believed himself to be married.

Tuesday he stoutly maintained at the county clerk's office that he had been married by a priest who failed to return the license.

This, however, could not be verified by church records, and the clerk had no record of the license having been returned.

Meantime, a promising young family had been raised. The husband had tired of his married life and moved to El Paso leaving his wife to provide for the children and send him a small allowance.

Recently she discovered she was not legally married to him, so she stopped the funds. To this he objected and sought to prove his marriage was a matter of record. It was not.

Not so long ago a middle aged Mexican couple with a family of grown children took out a moulting marriage license from their belongings and were married by a minister. They had thought purchase of a license was the only ceremony attached to marriage.

Missionary work in the Mexican section has enlightened many inhabitants and resulted in several marriages. Ignorance of United States laws and customs and not willful disobedience is given for most discrepancies found by missionaries.

MARY LOU GOES SHOPPING

She is only eight, but, even at this tender age Mary Lou is a daily customer at the neighborhood stores. Perhaps it is a package of crackers, and a pound of coffee at the grocer's. Perhaps it is some tooth paste or toilet soap at the drug store.

Of course Mary Lou doesn't decide on what she is going to buy. Her mother writes a list—this brand of crackers, this brand of coffee, this make of tooth paste, this kind of soap. She knows the prices, and gives Mary Lou just enough money, with an extra penny or two, perhaps, to spend for herself.

Buying is just as simple and easy as that because of just one thing—Advertising.

Advertising has given all of us a lot to be thankful for. Because of advertising, people in Texas know about and buy Michigan motor cars. People in New Hampshire buy oranges raised in Texas and California. Because of advertising, merchants and manufacturers are forced to improve their products. It has standardized quality. It has also increased very much world consumption and thereby lowered costs. It promotes competition and thereby keeps dealers and merchants wide awake to make secure for you the most for your money. But best of all it writes "Finis" on the business career of any merchant or manufacturer who attempts to fool the public or give them less than value received.

The Paramount Issue

The question of how to organize the powers of the incoming Administration is the paramount issue before the American people. It precedes all specific questions of policy and will determine the fate of the whole program of recovery and reconstruction. For the measure, which is recognized as necessary, cannot be carried promptly through an ordinary Congress. Under the normal procedure the power of factions and minorities and of individuals to delay and to obstruct is so great that it would be foolish to imagine that Mr. Roosevelt can overcome them all in a short period of time. Therefore, it is necessary for the duration of the emergency to enlarge the powers of the President and to reduce the powers of Congress.

Specifically, this means the adoption of three principles: First, the grant to the President of the widest powers over the administration of the government and over expenditure which it is possible to grant him under the Constitution; second, the amendment or temporary suspension of such rules in either House of Congress as permit unlimited debate and obstruction; third, resort to the caucus to govern party policy and the enforcement of its decisions by the combined weight of the President's prestige, his control over patronage and expenditures and an aroused public opinion.

It has been suggested in some quarters that the necessary powers can be organized by the action of the Democratic caucus alone. Thus Mr. Mark Sullivan writes that the Democrats can hold a caucus on some controversial question like reducing the expenditures for veterans and then pass the measure by their large majority in both Houses. It is so simple as that. Has Mr. Sullivan forgotten the Battalion of Death? Under the present rules of Congress, especially of the Senate, a minority can hold up the decision of the majority. There is every reason to believe it would.

For if the Democratic caucus were brave enough to vote as Mr. Sullivan suggests the temptation of Republican members to pose as the friends of the organized minorities would be so great as to be irresistible. A small and resolute group of Senators could deadlock Congress upon the passions of the minorities. That being the almost certain prospect, it is asking too much of political human nature to imagine that Democratic Congressmen will expose themselves to the risks of bold measures. The caucus is necessary. But it must be reinforced by other measures to make it effective. These other measures are a centralization of the responsibility for the initiative in that branch of the government, namely, the Executive, which is not dependent upon local influences in the districts and does not have to face the electorate within eighteen months of the opening of the special session.

In other quarters it has been suggested that Speaker Garner's proposal to invest the President with power to reduce or suspend expenditures is "a form of Congressional abdication which is abject." Thus "The New York Times" declares that it would be a complete surrender of "the historic power of the purse." This is an astonishing statement. Unless I am awfully mistaken, the historic power of the purse has meant the right of the people's representatives to control taxes and to determine the purposes for which public funds may be used. The power of the purse was the power to check the Executive. Does it also mean, as "The Times" seems to imply, that the Legislature has the historic right to compel the Executive to spend more money than he thinks necessary or desirable? This seems to me a perversion of the historic doctrine. If we look at England, where the power was first developed, we do not find, I think, that the House of Commons exercises the right to force the government of the day to spend money. If the power to compel expenditures is a part of our historic liberties then the principle of a true executive budget is an abject surrender. Yet no one cries out that our liberties are imperiled when proposals are made in states and municipalities that legislatures may reduce but may not increase the executive budget. This is a familiar principle, and there is no reason why it should not be employed by the Federal government.

Now, the powers which Mr. Garner proposes to vest in the President are essentially the powers he would have under a true executive budget. They are the powers to reduce and allocate expenses, and as long as Congress retained the power of taxation and the power to accept or reject the President's decisions, the historic power of the purse would be unimpaired. If Congress in addition can be induced to limit for the period of the emergency its power to interfere with the details of the President's matters of expenditures, organized

Final Organization Of Baseball League To Be Made Sunday

ABILENE—The ground work having been laid at several preliminary sessions, final organization of the West Texas baseball league is to be perfected at a meeting here next Sunday. It will begin at 11 o'clock at the Woolen hotel.

Interested sportsmen in a radius of 200 miles are being invited. Big Spring, Breckenridge, Ballinger, Abilene and Texas are considered certain entries. Cisco, San Angelo, and Coleman are expected to line up with the league, while other possible members are Sweetwater, Colorado, Midland, and Strawn.

It is planned to limit the official schedule to games on Saturday and Sunday. Each team will be required to post a forfeit of fifty dollars to assure its appearance for all scheduled games. The league will not be affiliated with the national association of professional leagues, and probably will be organized as an amateur circuit.

Hobo Picnic To Be Given By Juniors

A hobo picnic, set for Wednesday February 22, was the entertainment decided upon by the members of the Junior Class in their meeting of Thursday, February 18.

Kyle "Red" Sanders, vice president, presided over the meeting due to the absence of the president, Woodrow Armstrong.

Various types of socials were submitted to the class for their vote. When a vote had been taken, the chairman appointed a committee consisting of Viana Sanders, Melba Wilson, Dorothy Dublin, Modesta Good, and Velma Scott to arrange the plans for the picnic and hike.

The meeting adjourned, and the definite plans were discussed Tuesday morning in another meeting.

The class is to hike at 8:30 to Red Dam, and after the picnic Modesta Good cordially invited the class to a dance at her home.
