COFFEE HOUSE CIRCUIT—Brian Carney opened the Coffee House Circuit at Tech Saturday night after the Tech football victory to a packed house in the Coronado Room of the Union. Singer-guitarist-comedian Carney, son of comedian Art Carney ended his one-and-one-half hour show with an extended demand encore and received a standing ovation.

Nixon cuts draft calls for next three months

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon cut draft calls Friday to an average of less than 10,000 men for each of the next three months — lowest in 4½ years.

He did so by stretching out an announced 29,000-man draft for October through the last quarter of this year and by suspending plans to induct 32,000 men in November and 18,000 in December.

"We have cut the draft calls this year by 50,000," Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird proclaimed at a White House news conference following Nixon's brief statement.

THE PRESIDENT coupled his draft-reduction move with an announcement he will use an executive order to institute a basic reform in the Selective Service System if Congress fails to approve his proposed draft legislation this year.

Both actions added up to an administration bid to take some of the bite out of antiwar dissent expected to build up soon across the nation, particularly on university campuses.

Asked whether this is the case, Laird would say only that the administration's aim is to remove inequities in Selective Service by drafting youngest first within the 19-to-25 age bracket.

HE LINKED the draft-call reductions to reduced replacement needs resulting from the administration's plan to withdraw 60,000 troops from Vietnam this year and to make over-all manpower cuts totalling around 150,000 in the U.S. armed forces.

Nixon, in a fleeting appearance with

Laird before newsmen, said that if Congress does not act this session on his draft-reform proposals he will resort to "the unilateral action of executive order" to move toward his goal.

Laird said in a question-and-answer session the administration is moving on two fronts:

—The White House will send simplified legislation to Congress seeking repeal of a legal provision which now requires drafting oldest first and thus preventing use of a random-selection procedure favored by the administration.

—If Congress doesn't approve the change, the President will issue an executive order next January setting up a "moving age group system" which would make the oldest men in any given month during their 19th year most vulnerable to the draft.

Laird said, however, this would be a very complicated arrangement and would not be true random selection since the oldest-first rule still would prevail.

The draft level as a result of Friday's action will drop to its lowest point since 10,900 men were summoned in February 1967.

Laird said the plan is to divide the previously set draft quota of 29,000 for October into groups of 10,000 in October and in November and 9,000 in December.

He said this stretchout is designed to keep military training facilities active, implying that draft calls will be going up again next year.

Laird said the Pentagon had planned to draft 35,000 men next January but this figure will be reviewed in December. He said he doubts that the number of inductions in January will exceed 35,000.

Draft calls in 1969 have ranged from 22,300 to 33,700. The September quota was 29,000.

Tech coed's attacker still sought by police

Lubbock police said late last night they are still seeking a Mexican-American about 30-years-of-age in connection with the beating of a Tech coed near the new Architecture and Art Building Friday.

They said no arrests had been made and there were no definite suspects. They are searching for a Mexican-American that the coed described to them as about 30, 5 foot 7, 175 to 185 pounds with a square face and short to medium length dark hair.

She told police he was wearing a short, dark jacket and what she believed to be work clothes at the time of the attack. The results of fingernail tests and other information have led police to believe the man's face was scratched during the attack.

Sources close to the girl said yesterday that after being treated at Methodist Hospital over the weekend she was released and will be returning to school.

The attack occurred about 6:20 a.m. Friday according to Traffic Security Chief Bill Daniels. The girl told Lubbock police she left Clement Hall about 6:15 a.m. to search for a lost tube of paint and was struck on the head by a brick of stone.

Investigating detectives said she was found inside the construction fence which surrounds the new building about 8:10 a.m. by a worker at the site. She was unconscious at that time and had numerous bruises on the face and neck, police said.

Police also said her clothing was worn and disarrayed. In a state of shock she said she had been raped, but physicians said actual rape had not occurred, according to police.

Police said last night they didn't know at that time what charges would be filed against the assailant when he is apprehended.

They also said they had checked all the construction projects on-campus on the supposition that the assailant might have worked at one of them, but all of the regular workers had come to work Friday morning.

Coolley says transplant operations should go on

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Efforts in heart transplantation should not be abandoned because of the current poor survival rate, Dr. Denton A. Cooley, who has performed 20 transplants in Houston, said Friday.

"This is not a time to beat a retreat because we've lost a few of the battles," Cooley said.

"I believe this is a time to continue on."

Cooley has had 19 heart transplant patients, including one who received a second heart when the first failed. Of these only two survived, the longest living for 11 months.

Cooley told the Colorado Medical Society's 99th annual convention two developments could greatly improve survival.

These, he said, are improved methods of preventing the body's natural tendency to reject the transplanted heart, and development of a two-stage transplant method under which an artificial heart is implanted until a donor human heart can be obtained.

Cooley said one investigator has developed an apparently improved form of an anti-rejection drug that has been used on 31 consecutive kidney transplant patients without a case of rejection.

Rejection and infection, permitted by the use of rejection-suppressing drugs, are the greatest problems facing the transplant surgeon, Cooley said.

The artificial heart, which he first used in April, is valuable when a patient otherwise viable is threatened with death because his heart has failed and no donor organ is immediately available, Cooley said.

Because of the pessimistic survival report, Cooley said, there has been a steady decrease in availability of donor hearts.

He said the stop-gag artificial heart transplant, followed by a human heart transplant, should gain wider acceptance "once the current wave of criticism dies down."

Radical left gropes for new methods and allies

CHICAGO (AP)—The radical left, torn within and threatened from without, is groping for new strategies and new allies as it gathers again on the nation's campuses.

One result, movement sources say, could be marked de-emphasis on campus confrontation in favor of actions intended to unite white radicals to racial and working class struggles.

Rent strikes, marches in support of welfare mothers, drives for day care centers and tax boycotts are among the tactics under discussion.

So is a renewed emphasis on Vietnam-an emphasis that would link the war to a host of related issues, including inflation and imperialism.

Grad society to host talk on problems

The Graduate Students Society in Business Administration will host a program for all graduate students designed to answer questions about and solve problems occurring in a graduate program at 8 p.m. today in the BA Auditorium.

Dr. Lawrence L. Graves, interim dean of Tech's Graduate School, will speak on the problems encountered by graduate students in their programs. His speech will be followed by a question and answer session.

Graves will talk about situations such as the general attitude of the graduate office toward the graduate students. He will also address the problems faced by a graduate in fulfilling his program requirements and problem areas that can be avoided.

Graduate student Orville Goulet said this is the first time to his knowledge that all the graduate students at Tech have been called together for such a session.

Student loan checks arrive

Texas Opportunity Plan Loan checks for 700 Tech students have arrived at the office of the Director of Financial Aid at Tech.

The checks will be disbursed starting today in the Financial Aid office in X-82 from 9-11 a.m. and from 2-4 p.m.

The checks are usually distributed at registration, but were not available this year due to the early start of classes.

A list of the names of those students whose checks have arrived will be posted in the hall of X-82.

Those checks which are not picked up by Sept. 30 must be returned to Texas Coordinating Board and will be cancelled.

ANOTHER RESULT, sources say, could be an increased use of violence, particularly in the streets away from the more wary campuses.

"It's time for us to fight," says Mark Rudd, now a national secretary of the Students for a Democratic Society, Chicago version. "The Vietnamese are fighting, the blacks are fighting and now we have to fight."

Rudd speaks for one element in the SDS. The dissensions that long racked the organization - the young left's focal point - have finally shattered the last vestiges of any coherent organizational facade.

Rudd, who played a highly publicized role in the Columbia uprising of 1968, is now prominent along with former SDS national secretary Bernardine Dohrn in the "Weatherman" faction that rules the old SDS national office here. The "Weatherman" name comes from a Bob Dylan song that goes, "You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows."

THE PROGRESSIVE Labor (PL) faction has set up shop in Boston where it is also calling itself the SDS. Still another group, RYM II.

Revolutionary Youth Movement is operating from the West Coast after splitting with Weatherman on doctrinal and tactical grounds.

The divisions, one long-time movement figure said, "could produce a tendency to infighting. It would produce a competition to see who is the most militant."

Organizations committee returns Phi Delt function

Phi Delta Theta was restored the privilege of holding a rush function Saturday by a 5-1 decision of the Committee of Student Organizations.

The CSO agreed with the Inter-Fraternity Council's Supreme Court decision to take away a major party from the Phi Deltas for a violation of Rush rules.

The IFC Court was commended for its decision to allow the Phi Deltas to substitute the day for cancelling the major party from Friday to Saturday.

Reason for the partial reversal of the IFC punishment was the CSO felt that "additional punishment had been inadvertently imposed" by denying the Phi Deltas both a major party and a rush function and thus compromising the IFC Court's policy of equalizing the fraternity rush process. In the first decision the major party was all that was denied.

The Phi Deltas held an illegal, by ignorance major party of September 6 and had been reprimanded with the cancellation of their Friday night party.

Because of financial obligations incurred, the decision was appealed and they were

"We'll be much more flexible this year," said an SDS member at the University of Wisconsin, where the chapter is Wisconsin, where the chapter is remaining aloof from national factional struggles, at least for now.

"We'll be able to try a lot of different things."

THE RADICALS, lacking even a semblance of central direction, expected to work for greater regional and local strength and focus on specific issues as they arise in their own communities.

The Weatherman faction believes in street action and is allied to politicized street gangs such as Young Lords and the Uptown Patriots in Chicago.

Like PL and RYM II, Weatherman wants to involve the working class in the move. But unlike the others, one source said, Weatherman "thinks the way to do this is through a street fighting style that emulates what they take to be tough, working class teen-age behavior."

A major test of the Weatherman leadership will come in October. That's when the SDS is planning a three-day action under the slogan, "Bring the War Home."

The campaign is part of a movement-wide schedule of activities designed to focus attention on issues raised by the federal trial here of eight men, including key movement personalities Tom Hayden, Rennie Davis and Abbie Hoffman.

The eight are charged with conspiracy in the disorders accompanying the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

allowed to hold the Friday night party.

At this time, the Saturday party and all rush functions for that day were cancelled. The Phi Deltas contested this decision because they felt there was an insistency in ruling.

The CSO "reluctantly" overruled the IFC Court's decision that Phi Delta Theta be denied a "function" on Saturday.

The committee also recommended that the IFC re-examine its definition of what constitutes a "function," because they feel that this should be defined as a social gathering sponsored by the fraternity."

"The term function should not be construed as applying to private social gatherings."

Members of the CSO are: Dr. Mary Brewer, Dr. Peder Christinasen, Dr. Idris Traylor, Mrs. Jeannette Greenwaldt, Jimmy Snowden, Byron Snyder and Arch Lamb.

Christiansen dissented with the committee's decision because he felt that in overriding the IFC Court they were being detrimental to the growth of a self-governing body.

Atty. Gen. says 'tax reform' 'cruel hoax'

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin said Friday a so-called "tax reform" bill in Congress was a "cruel hoax" that would cost every man, woman and child in Texas $45 a year.

The bill, passed by the House and pending before a Senate committee, would remove the tax-exempt status of city and state bonds.

Instead of helping the "little man," Martin said, "This legislation will place a heavier burden on the already overburdened taxpayer. Homeowners, particularly those of modest means or small income, will be hardest hit by this legislation, since removal of the tax exemption on municipal bonds will shift the additional cost to local taxpayers in the form of higher property taxes."

"Last year, I approved nearly $1 billion in bonds, covering approximately 700 bond issues. Next year, if the same amount of bonds is issued, and the proposed legislation is enacted, it will cost the citizens of Texas $450 million more interest during the life of the bonds," he said.

PEP RALLIES—All that yelling and all that spirit did what it was supposed to do Saturday night as the Red Raiders, with the support of two pep rallies and a record crowd came from behind to drop the University of Kansas Jayhawks 38-22.

Interceptions play big role

Raiders clip Jayhawks 38-22

It took until the third quarter for the Raiders to find a place to plug in their electric clippers but by the end of the game there was not a Kansas Jayhawk left who could fly.

Sparked by the passing and running of senior quarterback Joe Matulich and by key interceptions by linebacker Dennis Lane and cornerback Denton Fox, Tech came from behind twice to register a convincing 38-22 victory.

Kansas, who came into the game a three-point pick over the Raiders, looked as if they could score at will early in the ballgame.

The Jayhawks intercepted a Tom Sawyer pass on the Raider 31 yard line and then marched the ball in for a touchdown in four plays behind the hard running of fullback John Riggins on their first possession of the contest.

Jayhawk quarterback Jim Ettinger dove over from the one for the score following a 22 yard thrust by Riggins. The extra point was good and with only two minutes gone from the ballgame the Raiders trailed 7-0.

Things were to go from bad to worse for the Raiders though as later in the same quarter a Jerry Don Sanders' punt from the one yard line was blocked and rolled out of the end zone for a Jayhawk safety.

Down 9-0 Tech had to punt from their own 20 and Sanders boomed a 52 yarder to the KU 28 to put the Jayhawks in their deepest hole of the night.

Kansas then proceeded to prove that their first touchdown was not a fluke as they covered the 72 yards to paydirt in 12 plays.

The score came on a 15 yard pass from Ettinger to wingback Willie Amison with one minute gone in the second quarter. The kick was good and the Jayhawks had a comfortable 16-0 lead.

The Raiders got their first points on the scoreboard with only 1:35 left in the half. A Tech drive was halted on the Jayhawk 25 and Sanders booted a 42 yard field goal to make the score at half 16-3.

The Raider team that went into the dressing room at half though was not the same one that came out at the start of the third quarter.

Somewhere along the way the Tech rookies lost their nervousness and the Raider seniors found their leadership qualities that seemed to be missing in the first half.

The turning point of the game came in the third quarter when defensive end Eddy Windom tipped an Ettinger pass and it fell into the waiting arms of Dennis Lane. Lane followed a wave of Raider blockers to the KU goal for a 55 yard touchdown. Sanders kicked and the Kansas lead was cut to 16-10.

The Raiders kept the momentum going as they marched 69 yards in nine plays on their next possession to take the lead 17-16 on Sanders point after attempt.

The hard running of halfback Danny Hardaway and the passing and scrambling of Matulich sparked the drive with Hardaway carrying the ball over from the one.

Kansas still had one final fling in them though as Ettinger moved the Big Eight co-champs down the field to one more score. The Jayhawks traveled 38 yards in eight plays and scored on Ettinger's seven yard pass to wingback Steve Conley. A try for the two points failed as defensive end Bruce Dowdy and tackle Dicky Grigg nailed Ettinger behind the line on an attempted pass.

With only four minutes left in the ball game and the Raiders on their own 43 the contest fell apart for the Jayhawks.

Matulich went back to pass, found himself surrounded by Jayhawks and scrambled to the left and fired a 47 yard scoring strike to end David May who went in untouched. The kick made it 24-22 and Tech never trailed again.

With only a two point lead the Raiders felt they needed some insurance and so Denton Fox added it with a 65 yard runback of an intercepted pass for another Raider score only one minute later.

Sanders' kick made it 31-22 but Fox had not bagged his limit for the night.

Two plays later Fox again intercepted an Ettinger pass on the KU 47 and returned it to the Jayhawk 22.

Five plays later with only three seconds left on the clock, reserve halfback Reagan Young carried over from the three to end the scoring for the night. Sanders' boot made the final score 38-22.

Astros still have chance in western division race

HOUSTON (AP) — The mathematical odds are not too encouraging, but, surprisingly, the Houston Astros still have not been eliminated from the National League Western Division pennant race.

Enjoying their best season in their eight-year history, the Astros believe a miserable April start may have helped the team more than it hurt.

Daring off-season trades by general manager H. B. "Spec" Richardson also must figure in the team's rise from a last place finish in 1968 to a contending spot much of this season.

The Astros won only four games and lost 20 in April and were being written off by most everyone.

Then things began to fall in place. They won 20 while losing only six in May. They have been above .500 since July 13.

They came close to the top several times—as near as two games Sept. 10. They printed division playoff and World Series tickets and then lost six straight games.

The club broke its most games won in a single season mark in early September. The previous high of 72 was set in 1966 and tied in 1968.

"I think that first month turned us into a team," said shortstop Denis Menke. "Before that we were just individuals. That first month was as rough as anything you would want to go through, and I think it brought us together. We had to rally together as a team."

Second baseman Joe Morgan also believes team spirit is the big reason for the success.

"We're playing together as a team," he said. "That's the big thing. We've got guys pulling for each other, keeping up everyone's spirits. This was something new."
