Senior Judges Defend International Title At Chicago Meet Saturday

Team Stops Enroute For Preliminary Judging In Missouri Today

THE Tech senior livestock judging team is now in Columbia, Mo., where they are doing practice judging at the University of Missouri. The team, composed of Arvie Elliott, J. T. Henry, John Manning, Howard Freeman, Cleveland Littlepage, Fred Elliott and their coach, Ray C. Mowery, acting head professor of animal husbandry, left Thursday by automobile for Chicago to defend their title at the International judging contest Saturday.

Visit Farms

Enroute they planned to do practice judging at Oklahoma A. and M., Stillwater; University of Missouri, Columbia; University of Illinois, Urbana; and Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., in the order named. They will also visit the following farms: Sand Springs Home farm, Sand Springs, Okla.; Columbian stock farm and Rubel Hereford farms, Grandview, Mo.; Sni-A-Bar farms, Grain Valley, Mo.; Louis W. Thiemann, Concordia, Mo.; H. C. Horneman, Danville, Ill.; and Wonderland stock farms, Wolcott, Ind.

Last year the Tech organization took first place honors to win the Spur trophy, a large bronze bull. Students who tried for the team this year, exclusive of present members, were: Harlan Black, Ray Dunlap, Douglas Marshall, Fern Harris, and Willie Rogers.

Judges choosing the team in the livestock pavilion last Saturday night were: J. H. Burroughs, former teacher of vocational agriculture at Clovis, N. M., and now with the Texaco company at Dallas; C. L. Laker, associate professor of vocational agriculture and agricultural education; F. G. Harbaugh, associate professor of animal husbandry; and Coach Mowery.

Council Plans Annual Dance

Ince Proposes Student Handbook At Meeting Of Governing Body

The Sophomore Hodge Podge, annual class dance scheduled for December 14, was discussed at the Student council meeting in the Administration building Thursday night. The group set December 9 as deadline on the ticket sale for the affair. The governing body decided that $70 worth of ducaats must be sold before the entertainment can be given. Admittance charge is 50 cents per person.

Leon Ince, president of the Student Council, proposed a suggestion for a handbook containing such information as college yell, freshmen rules, requirements for graduation, and the information now contained in the student directory. The question of including the student directory was debated. Ince selected Jane Tinsley to investigate the matter. The student president suggested that the handbook be given free to every student.

He also suggested that a list of rules for freshmen be published. He appointed a committee consisting of J. V. Beauchamp, Bob Shaw, and Anne Williams to make a tentative set of rules for first year students to be presented at the next council meeting to be held the first Thursday after Thanksgiving holidays.

CAMILE JOHNSON should not tell J. B. HOLT that she would be back one day and return a day early, if SHE doesn't want to CATCH HIM SNAKING as she did this WEEK.

Girls Woo Beauty At Election Time

It's beauty pickin' time at Tech again. Monday Tech students are to choose the three most beautiful coeds in their opinion. Most of the fair maidens are breezing down for facials and hair sets. Some of them even express the wish that someone in Lubbock could lift faces.

The eds are becoming the object of shy glances and coy smiles from the fair sex. Hopeful girls are being nice to men they once rejected with a cold shoulder. Noses are coming down out of the air, and all of the coeds are trying to make a good impression on someone. There will probably be a lot of undercover work going on at the Aggie dance, but it's all in a beauty contest.

Eagle Scouts Organize Club

Executives Hold Banquet With Dean Gordon As Toastmaster

To revive senior scouting interest, the Eagle Scout club will be organized at a banquet Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the Chimayo room of the Hilton hotel.

Pictures taken in Alaska by W. G. McMillan on a recent hunting trip will be shown. Dean James M. Gordon is to be toastmaster. Students who have reached the Eagle Scout rank should attend this affair, local scout officials state. If interest and progress manifests itself in the development of the new club, a petition will be made to Alpha Phi Omega, national honorary scout fraternity, to establish a chapter on the campus. Students further pointed out. There are three chapters in Texas, one at Southern Methodist university and two at the University of Texas.

Director Invites Matador Band To Broadcast Music

In a letter from Merle H. Tucker, Radio Division Director of the Texas Department of Publicity, D. O. Wiley and the Matador band were invited to play on a special broadcast originating in Alpine as a part of the series now being sent over the Texas Quality Network.

The broadcast is to be known as "The Texas Centennial Round-Up" and given as part of the Centennial celebration program in West Texas. As much West Texas talent as possible is being used on the broadcast.

Tucker also invited Director Wiley to be guest conductor of the Hardin-Simmons Cowboy Band, which will appear on the program if the Tech band is unable to play on the broadcast.

Book Review Club Adopts New Rules

Fifty-five girls were present at the third meeting of the Book Reviewers Thursday in the women's dormitory lounge. This club was organized recently under the sponsorship of Dean Mary W. Doak for the purpose of promoting literary interest on the campus.

A tentative constitution was read and accepted. The group decided to call the organization the Book Reviewers. Miss Elizabeth West, Tech librarian, was chosen associate sponsor with Mrs. Doak.

Membership of the club will be limited to 60 students. A girl who is absent two consecutive times without satisfactory explanation will be dropped from the roll.

Pauline Yeager, president, appointed the following standing committees: Housing, La. Vids, Baze, Maxine Dorn, and Frances Elaine Price; Membership, Jeanette Jones, Mary Katherine Agerton, and Lillian Heard.

Sue Ellen Evans reviewed "Dew in April" by John Clayton. The next meeting will be December 5.

Women Apply Deposits For AWS Budgets

Girls Hear President's Wife At Convocation; Leidigh Presides

AT a convocation in the gymnasium Thursday morning, women students voted to apply 25 cents of their breakage deposits to meet a budget of the Association of Women Students. Mrs. Bradford Knapp, wife of the president, and Julien Paul Blitz, head of the music department, appeared on the program. Katherine Leidigh, president of the association, was in charge of the meeting.

The women's organization will use the money to pay national dues, sponsor four all-girls dances during the year, contribute to a fund for bringing speakers to the campus, complete four dirt tennis courts south of the women's dormitory and send delegates to regional and national conferences next spring.

Mrs. Knapp Talks The national conference will be held in Boulder, Colorado, this year. Tech is the only college in Texas that is represented at the AWS conferences. The president said the conferences have been valuable to the local chapter of the association. Emily Davis, Sue Michie, and Katherine Leidigh have represented the college at national meets in former years. The delegate for the coming session has not been selected.

An amplifying system was in use at the meeting Thursday as Mrs. Knapp described her recent trip to Hawaii to 400 girls present. She displayed souvenirs from the Pacific islands while speaking of the ground lava tubes, Hibiscus ranches and the haunting melody of a Hawaiian farewell.

Mr. Blitz was in charge of the musical part of the program. After he discussed origin and naming of the college songs, he led in singing "O College Mother Beautiful."

The organization recently held its first of the four all-girls dances in the gymnasium. The tennis courts, two of which were started with funds obtained last spring, will be completed soon.

Home Ec Group Leaves Sunday

Division Dean And Other Members Of Faculty Go To Conference

Dean Margaret W. Weeks, Misses Vivian Johnson, Mabel D. Erwin, and Geraldine Clewell will leave Sunday for San Antonio to attend the State Home Economics conference called by Miss Lillian Peek, Director of Home Economics in Texas high schools. The conference will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Misses Beulah I. Coon, Director of Studies and Research in the United States Office of Education in Washington, and Rua Van Horn, Southern Regional Director of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, are to speak during the convention. Miss Van Horn will visit Tech December 6, Dean Weeks said.

A Tech graduate in 1934, Miss Edna McGregor, who is teaching home economics in Alpine, will talk on "Files, Records, and Budgets," at the meeting.

Other home economics instructors, Misses Jonnie McCreery, Elizabeth Hawley, and Dr. Cecilia Schuck, will be in San Antonio November 28, 29, and 30, for the State Teachers' association convention. Misses Weeks, Johnson, Erwin, and Clewell plan to stay for this meeting also.

Mary Wilbanks, home economics teacher in Floydada, visited on the campus Saturday.

'Twas The Night Before Mid-Semester Examinations; Dormitory Girls Sing, Study, Knit, Dine And Clean House

'Twas the night before mid-semester examinations, when a studious coed was laboriously working on an accounting practice set. Another fair maiden was perched in bed with "Othello" and a box of smacks. Eating crackers in bed is absolutely unethical. One girl thumbed the pages of the encyclopedia looking for a character sketch of Herbert Hoover.

Song Is Heard Some industrious girl was washing out things and humming "I Got a Feelin' You're Foolin'." The strains of Star Dust floated in through an

Rally Speaker

George W. Dupree, local attorney, will address students at the fun night and pep rally in the gymnasium. The meeting is scheduled for Tuesday night.

Leaders Make Fun Program

Dupree Speaks; Boxers, Wrestlers Perform At Gymnasium

In connection with the first fun night of the year, a pep rally will be held in the college gymnasium Tuesday night beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Morris Burchfield, head yell leader, announced late yesterday that the rally had previously been scheduled for Wednesday night as stated on The Toreador sports page. So many requests from students leaving for home Wednesday caused Burchfield to change the date.

George W. Dupree, local attorney, will speak at the gathering, according to Burchfield. His subject has not been announced.

New yells together with old ones are to be practiced so that a mammoth demonstration may be given at the University of Detroit football game. This is the last grid contest for the Matadors on the home field.

Band On Hand

Freshmen yell leaders, Bud Thompson and Speed Parker, will assist Burchfield with the yell leading. The Matador band under the direction of D. O. Wiley is to take their usual part in the meeting.

Milton Coffey and Jackie May, boxing and wrestling instructors, under the direction of Pete Cavthon, director of athletics, have charge of the athletic program. Approximately 20 rounds of boxing and four wrestling matches will make up the evening's card, Cavthon stated.

Two state A. U. U. weight boxing champions—James and Joe Elder—top the card as the feature leatherlinging bout. Each weight division is to have at least three rounds of entertainment on Tuesday's performance.

Graduate Dies In Adjoining County

Maggie Lee Inmon, 22, a graduate of Texas Tech, died suddenly in Littlefield Wednesday afternoon. Unofficial reports gave the cause of her death as acute indigestion.

Miss Inmon received her B. A. degree in mathematics in 1931 and did graduate work in the college during the summers of 1932 and 1935. She has taught at Snyder in Hockley county and at East Wark near Lubbock.

Funeral services were held at the Church of Christ, Lubbock, Friday afternoon at 3:30. Burial was in a Lubbock cemetery.

Her parents, four brothers and one sister survive.

Chaco Official Visits Campus During Week

Argentine Government Extends Invitation To Tech Students

IMPRESSED with the training that Tech textile engineers are receiving when he visited the department Wednesday, Governor Jose Castells of the Chaco territory, Argentina, has invited a party of textile engineering students to visit the South American country as his guests with possibilities of placement of several students there. Textile department heads indicate that the invitation will be accepted. Doctor Castells told M. E. Heard, acting head of the textile department, that American companies in the textile industry are already making plans for establishments in this new cotton producing belt of the rich Argentina territory. Hereafter textile products have been imported into Chaco from Europe and the United States, but the demand for domestic consumption is growing and mills will be built at home, the South American said.

Inspect Machinery

Governor Castells and Dr. Charles Garcia Mata, an attaché of the Argentine embassy, were in Lubbock Wednesday on a tour of the South Plains to get first hand information concerning cotton harvesting here because of the likeness in climatic conditions between West Texas and the Chaco territory. They are also obtaining information about cotton production machinery. The visitors inspected machinery in the college textile department.

The Argentine representatives also observed methods used by textile department in cotton classing. At present they are using their own methods in South America but a change is considered and American methods seem to be acceptable, Castells stated.

Produces Much Cotton

The Chaco territory produces 95 per cent of the cotton in Argentina which has jumped from 3,000 bales in 1915 to an estimated production of 300,000 bales expected from this year's crop. This territory of land has ten million acres suitable to cotton growing.

Knapp, Erwin Attend Meet

President And Head Of Clothing Department Appear On Program

President Bradford Knapp and Miss Mabel Erwin, head of the clothing and textiles department, will appear on the program of the Texas State Teachers' association meeting in San Antonio November 28, 29, and 30.

President Knapp is to speak on "Social Responsibilities and Making a Living" Friday. Miss Erwin will report on "Subscription to the Journal of Home Economics" before the home economics section of the association the same day. She is chairman of a standing committee on subscriptions to the journal, a publication of the American Home Economics association.

Approximately a dozen other Tech faculty members, including J. M. Gordon, dean of men and arts and sciences division, and Dean Margaret W. Weeks of the home economics faculty, are planning to attend the meeting. Dean Gordon, president of the Association of Texas Colleges, has called a meeting of the executive committee of the organization November 30 in San Antonio.

FERRIS GETS JOB

Audrey Ferris, who attended Tech in 1932-33 has been named as Supervisor of the Visiting House-keeper project in Floydada. Miss Ferris is a member of Sans Souci club.

Students Select Beauty Candidates For Annual At Election Next Week

Methodists Lead Religious Census

With 941, Methodists lead the list for religious affiliation of students in Tech this semester. Baptist enrollment is second with 727, and Presbyterians follow with 184.

According to a late report from the registrar's office, the present total enrollment is 2,440. The remaining students are enrolled as follows: Church of Christ 175, Christian 162, no preference 141, Catholic 48, Episcopal 30, Lutheran 7, Presbyterian (Cumberland) 7, Baptist (Primitive) 6, Congregational 3, Nazarene 3, Greek Orthodox 2, Jewish 2, Christian Science 1, and Seventh Day Adventist 1. In percentages the Methodist denomination claims 38.5 per cent of the total enrollment of 2,440 for the opening semester. The Baptists follow close behind with 30 per cent being members of this church.

Howell Speaks To Science Club

Horticulture Professor Discusses Botany At Faculty Meeting

O. B. Howell, associate professor of horticulture, spoke to the Science club Wednesday on "Science in Horticulture." He illustrated his talk with chrysanthemums, showing how science utilizes the raising of flowers.

Professor Howell listed the different types of scientists and pointed out how each is related to the growth of plants with the following illustration: The engineer designs the greenhouse. An agronomist chooses the soil a botanist selects the plants, and the bacteriologist prescribes treatment for injurious bacteria. Insects are destroyed by the entomologist while the physicist tells how to control the blooming period by keeping the plants in a dark room, or by using artificial light. Chemists and other scientists contribute their part in the flower's growth.

The Science club is composed of faculty and graduate students in the department of pure and applied science. It was organized during the first years of the college.

Dr. C. C. Schmidt, associate professor of physics, is club president. W. F. Helwig, professor of electrical engineering, is secretary. Mayme L. Twyford, associate professor of foods and nutrition, is vice-president and Harry Hill, associate professor of physics, treasurer.

Programs consist of papers by the members and an annual exchange lecture with another college. Though not affiliated with the National Society for the Promotion of Science, the Tech organization was host to the regional conference last spring. It is the only Texas club in the Southwest Regional conference.

Students Put On Social Probation

After a conference with school authorities yesterday, 27 college men students are still on probation because of reported drinking in the club house of the organization in which they were members. The action prohibits the group from participating in social activities representing the college but allows them to continue their classes.

Dean James M. Gordon of the arts and science division met with the organization Thursday night, but no definite action was taken on the situation. A meeting is scheduled with school authorities next week, Dean Gordon stated late yesterday.

All except seven of the students live in the club house," Gordon told a Toreador reporter. "The boys seem to be very interested in their effort to iron out the difficulties," the dean added.

Dean Adams Speaks At Dormitory Tomorrow

O. V. Adams, dean of the division of engineering, will speak tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the lounge of the men's dormitory. Dean Adams has selected as his subject, "Some Facts on Irrigation."

Dean James M. Gordon of the arts and sciences division spoke at the dormitory last Sunday.

Planned Intramural Program Offers Recreational Values

AT a meeting of campus organization representatives in the gymnasium Monday night, Coach Berl Huffman outlined plans for a big intramural athletic program. Under the supervision of the Picador mentor, competition in various sports such as tennis, touch football, basketball and probably soccer is to be offered by the physical education department.

In past years little has been done to give those students unable to participate in major sports an opportunity to take part in athletics. That previously outlined by the coaches put very little fire in student interest.

The coaching staff is to be commended on this year's move. Students should plan now to take part in intramural athletics, helping to put the proposed program over in a big way. There has been some agitation for intramural sports. The coaching department has answered this plea. It's up to the students to take part in a program affording recreation and physical development for the individual.

Professor, What Is Your Rank In This List?

A UNIQUE but true classification of college professors is given by a writer in the Wayne university student publication, The Detroit Collegian. The scribe divides the professors into four types, namely: the "Mountains" who look down from their Olympian heights of scholarship upon the pygmy student; the "Coffin" type upon whom you can smell the odor of decaying scholastic tomes; the "Window" type, whose thoughts are continually straying out the window; and the "Fireplace" type, whose classroom is warmed by the flames of his personality.

Tech professor, to what group do you belong? If you are unable to warm your classroom with a pleasing personality, substitute an informing and interesting lecture. Place yourself in the last mentioned type of college professor.

War Clouds

NEWSPAPERS and magazines, in the past three months, have devoted thousands of inches to the war scare between Italy and Ethiopia. We know that much of this is propaganda and sometimes wonder just what is the true situation.

Before forming any definite conclusions one should investigate the past relations of the two countries involved and read from several sources. Most newspaper articles in American papers come through England who might have a biased opinion concerning the situation.

Italy is severely criticized for her attitude toward Ethiopia and morally her activities are to be condemned. The major powers of Europe, however, have been guilty of similar charges less than three decades ago.

The United States has declared herself to be neutral and declines to export munitions of war. If the major countries of Europe become involved in the war, however, it will be extremely difficult to give a satisfactory definition of the term "munitions of war."—Exchange.

Learn your lesson whether you go to school or not.

Everyone of us is said to be a model, held in awe by someone else, low and humble as we may be.

From Other Campuses

By FRED GRIFFIN
AFTER the Homecoming game at Flagstaff last week, members of the Arizona State Teachers college band obtained the football with which the game was played, securing autographs of players on it. Then they raffled the ball off at a dance that night.

Dr. Graham Daing, economics professor at the California Institute of Technology, has repeatedly charged that Mussolini is mentally unbalanced, calling the Italian dictator a "Paranoiac."

An ambitious and curious young man at Ohio State university stood beside a much used door there last week and opened it for everyone who approached it. Only two out of every 15 girls said, "Thank you," for the favor, while only one man of each fifteen neglected to do so. An exchange editor suggests that most of the coeds felt that the door opened of its own accord, probably out of deference of their beauty.

An enterprising publisher recently printed a "Harvard's Men's Guide," listing for the benefit of the students all the recommended debutantes of Boston. Not one book was sold. Where do Harvardites go for their romancing?

Nineteen colleges and universities are giving prizes to seniors who collect the most interesting libraries during their college careers.

A police corps of 75 girls has been established at Smith college. Bearing the name of "Grass Cops," their duty is the keep enrollees at the school off the campus grass.

After the Rice-Texas game in Austin recently, three truckloads of empty whiskey bottles were hauled away from the stadium. Last Friday The Daily Texan, student publication there, devoted several inches of its editorial space to denunciation of drinking at football games.

The Daily Illini, student publication at the University of Illinois, suggests the reason that Sing Sing football team wants to play Army is that they want to prove the pon mighiter than the sword.

Add remedies for drinking: Columbia university students caught imbibing are forced to attend Sunday school for three years.

TEN YEARS AGO—At a flash meeting on Monday before Thanksgiving, the freshman instituted a class tradition by the adoption of a uniform "shine cap." They will be made up with school colors, scarlet and black, and with a green button to signify the slime wearer. Girls are required to wear the caps, too.

SEVEN YEARS AGO—A riot occurred after the Thanksgiving dance when a group of roughnecks rushed the clothing checker. As a result, several ladies' things and a number of men's hats and topcoats were stolen.

FOUR YEARS AGO—The fifth annual engineers' ball was given in the Uptown Dance Palace, decorated with blue and gold streamers. Frank Stone's orchestra played for the grand march and dancing.

Red Raiders Attempt To Trample St. Mary's Rattlers Today

By BOB CANNON Sports Editor

OUR guesses today: Tech 26, St. Mary's 0. SMU 29, Baylor 7. Hardin-Simmons 34, Texas Mines 0. Detroit 13, Duquesne 7. Rice 10, TCU 7. (Now you guess).

The whining and belly-aching sports department of "Texas Foremost College Weekly," self-acclaimed moniker of the Hardin-Simmons Brand, sounds this sob-rendering tale:

Regardless of what local potatoes say concerning a Tech-Cowboy game for next year, Pete Cawthon apparently has his mind made up that he will not again play the Ranchers. Only two dates are left open on the card—one on September 20 and another late in November. It is rumored that H-S U. does not want the Raiders as the curtain raiser.

Following his policy as announced early this year, Cawthon is going to play only games in the future from which some recognition could be gained. If the Raiders can only win one or two, Tech has fears concerning the 1936 edition of the Cowhands and knows she will be lucky to ring up one decent victory during the entire season, thus the present policy—if we are gonna get mopped-up on, it's more noble to be mopped by the "big-shot" schools than to let something of our own class do the job.

Our heart bursts with sympathy when we read those lines. It behooves us deeply that Hardin-Simmons does so want to play Tech, but the local athletic department can't see through the deal to soothe the downtrodden Cowboys. It's a pity to learn that the Cowhands could beat Tech next year (and in our own back yard at that) and Tech won't sign 'em up. It's even worse to learn that Tech is doomed to go down in defeat in every game they play all because Tech won't play Hardin-Simmons. Tish-tish . . .

Should the Raiders sign the Simmonites, the one game they will win, no doubt, would be when they played H.S. Tech is kinda' like the Howard-Payne ghost that hovered over the Cowboys for ten years; but unlike the Jinkets who finally lost to H.S. last week, the Raiders won't be conquered by the Ranchers next year or in ten. Supposing again that Tech would sign the Cowhands for next year, certainly they would not book 'em on the Homecoming date, Armistice or Thanksgiving—so if they play, it'll have to be on September 20, or no soap. The H.S. officials don't care to have the Ranchers opening game spoiled, so they'll have to play a team of their own class, John Tarleton or TWC perhaps.

While the hilarious antics of the Cowboy followers are the topic of gossip, we might add that Frank Kimbrough, the mild-mannered Ranch foreman, called Coach Cawthon Tuesday and accused the local athletic instructors of preparing to send the Tech varsity down to play the Cowboy Fish. Coach Peter Willis was mortified; you could tell, they say, by the manner in which he told Kimbrough how the cow ate the cabbage.

They may be big, these Picadors, but they are still freshmen country boys. It wasn't Kimbrough who did most of the worrying. It was Coach Huffman. He didn't sleep much this week worrying how many H.S. varsity reserves the Tech fish would meet on the line of scrimmage. But we believe the Picadors could give the Cowboy varsity an interesting afternoon.

There'll be another Intramural Athletic association meeting Monday night in the gym. If your club or organization hasn't filed intention of entering the league, come yourself or send one delegate to the meeting in the gym at 7:30 o'clock.

The Tech basketballers won't go through the Southwest conference as announced in the last issue. Coach Huffman has received notice that the loop teams are all dated up . . .

Chief sources of all-American material this year are in the Southwest, Big Ten and Southeastern conferences.

Scarlet Charges Face First Home State Club Since Hill Billy Game

Bridges Drills Catholics In Varied Formations For Tech Contest

COACH Pete Cawthon's Red Raiders arrived in San Antonio yesterday ready to give the up and coming St. Mary's university Rattlers a tramping today before an expected crowd of 15,000 Alamo City customers.

St. Mary's is the first home state opponent for the Raiders since they played Daniel Baker here late in September. Since then the Matadors have played five inter-sectional engagements with spotty success.

Raiders Enjoy Rest
The Raider skipper gave the Tech athletes a rest last week after their loss to Arizona on the local lot Armistice Day. With 12 days' rest behind them the Matadors are in good condition for their "warm up" skirmish before they take on the powerful Detroit university Titans Thanksgiving.

Reports from San Antonio regarding the sophomore team of Frank Bridges aren't first rate, but the Rattlers are celebrating their Homecoming and may give the confident Red Raiders considerable disturbance with their passing attack that function for a 19 to 6 victory over Texas A. & I.

Gipson Key Man
The Rattlers execute most of their plays from several formations depending on what kind of a notion the wily Bridges gets into his head before the game. Around Eliot Gipson, Bridges' versatile quarterback, most of the plays work. Gipson does all or most of the secondary blocking for the Rattlers, speedy backs, Doug Locke is the "Red Grange" of the backfield while Guy Todd and Rusty O'Connor handle the power and brawn department.

In the Rattlers' line appears some of the 40 or 50 linemen that Messrs Bridges and Simms searched all over the country for their particular type of ancient football. The one they got was Hardin-Simmons coach who is famous for his side line shows in coaching and hair raising escapades when his team is having defensive troubles has developed a pretty fair forward wall. Somehow he secured the services of Kessinger, a towering center who plays a whole of a defensive game. He tips the scales at a mere 185 pounds, but he works like a dreadnaught.

Trussell Stands Out
Trussell, a huge fellow who must be in the near thirties according to his picture, is the co-captain of the Rattlers. He was pretty fair as a junior college player. Another good addition on the Rattler team that would have made a good man for most any college team is Buchanan, an end. He is quite tricky in snaring passes from all angles.

If Bridges is still using his old offensive tricks, the Raiders will face a width-of-the-field spread, double wings, single wings and maybe parts of the Notre Dame system which is one of the requirements of a Catholic team.

Raiders Seek Offense
Coach Pete Cawthon is looking for an offensive threat to put before the power horse drives of Detroit. He'll probably start Winters, Chernosky, Byrd and Duval in the backfield against the Rattlers this afternoon, but no doubt several different Matador combinations will be subject to experiment throughout the game. The shock troop line is expected to see most of the game.

Like Tech the Rattlers have suffered two reversals and have been held to one scoreless tie.

Arizona Tops Border Ladder

Blue Brigade Looms As Favorite To Conquer New Mexico Today

Arizona university with its most powerful team in history will make their last hurdle for the Border conference title today when they meet the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque.

After their two close victories over the New Mexico Aggies and Texas Tech, the Blue Brigade is resting on top of the conference calendar with three wins against no defeats. New Mexico went down before the onslaught of the Aggies' powerful scoring machine 34 to 0 Armistice Day. Two weeks prior Arizona had beaten the Aggies 9 to 6. And along with their impressive verdict over Tech, they are favored to cop the title with little trouble.

BORDER CONFERENCE STANDINGS

	P	W	L	Pct.
Arizona U.	3	3	0	1.000
N. Mex. Aggies	4	3	1	.750
N. Mexico U.	4	3	1	.750
Texas State	4	2	2	.500
Flagstaff	4	1	3	.250
Texas Mines	3	0	3	.000
Texas Tech	1	0	1	.000

Other conference teams are playing outside of the conference. The final circuit games will be played Thanksgiving Day.

Sports Notice

All clubs and organizations that are planning to join the Intramural Athletic association are asked to send one delegate to the meeting Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in the gym.

Berl Huffman, Intramural Director.

Goldbug Mentor

THE Oklahoma City university Goldbugs learn their football from Ted "Toby" Greene who is finishing his first year at the helm of the OCU grid destinies. The Bugs haven't been too successful in games won this year, but they have given a schedule of inter-sectional foes plenty of trouble. Their most impressive showing was against Baylor who eked them out 2 and 0. The Raiders play the Goldbugs in Oklahoma City December 7.

Wingate Student Wins Tennis Title

Jewel Bishop, Wingate, won the women's intra-division tennis tournament Wednesday afternoon when she defeated Lois Paulsel, Alice, in straight sets, 6-4, 8-6.

Using an effective forehand stroke to gain many earned points, Miss Bishop won the first set with out trouble. However, she was hard pressed in the second set as Miss Paulsel rallied to deuce the count after Miss Bishop had extended her lead to 5-2.

Play in the freshman tournament has been delayed because of mid-semester examinations. The tournament is expected to be completed next week.

Detroit Preps For Skirmish With Raiders

Coach Gus Dorias Brings Powerful Eleven Here Thanksgiving Day

(Special to The Toreador)

DETROIT, Michigan, Nov. 22.—Determined that Duquesne university will not defeat them a third consecutive year, the Detroit university Titans meet the Night Riders in Pittsburgh today on the first stop of their long road trip that terminates their 1935 football season when they play Texas Tech in Lubbock, Texas, Thanksgiving Day.

After the Titans' 53 to 0 victory over Bucknell university two weeks ago, Coach Gus Dorias, fearing that they would grow stale, gave his charges a rest last week cutting their workout schedule to every other day and giving them a free week-end.

Titans Ready
However, the Titans went back to work Monday ready to upset the Night Riders who have been defeated by three powerful teams—Rice, one of the nations top ranking teams, Kansas State and Catholic U.—and end their two year supremacy. Detroit, also, has been beaten by the Catholic eleven.

Coach Dorias, known for his forward passing combinations, will depend on running plays as offensive threats against Duquesne today and Texas Tech next week. The Titans passing attack that clicked for wins over Oklahoma A. and M. and Haskell has failed to work since then, and the Titan mentor has turned to the veteran Dick Lutz, fleet halfback, and two powerful fullbacks, Andy Farcas, a promising sophomore, and Charlie Payne, senior line smasher, to gain yardage for the Michigan eleven.

The Titans will start their journey to West Texas tomorrow for their Thanksgiving game with Texas Tech. The Texas trip will be the Titans fourth inter-sectional opponent having played Haskell, Oklahoma A. and M. and Bucknell.

A. C. C. has outpointed McMurry 40 to 37 in the last five years but has made only 26 first downs to McMurry's 59.

Huffman Calls Meeting At Gymnasium Monday

Mentor Plans Formation Of Intramural Card; Asks Cooperation

RULES governing intramural athletics will be drawn up Monday night when representatives of the 13 social clubs and organizations who have already filed their entrance acknowledgement, meet with Coaches Berl Huffman and Aubrey Butts in the gym at 7:30 o'clock.

"Each club and organization sending representatives to the meeting last Monday night and all organizations who have not entered the Intramural Athletic association are asked to send one delegate to the meeting Monday night," Coach Huffman said Thursday.

Thirteen Teams Enter
Eight independent teams and five social clubs sent representatives to the "get-together" Monday night. The organizations attending were unanimously in favor of adding touch football to the intramural program. However, the conflict of touch football taking too much time and interfering with basketball was pointed out by the delegates present.

Coach Huffman expressed hope Thursday of the possibility of the men's dormitory organizing a league with six teams, one representing each floor of the two wings. The dormitory association hasn't announced intramural plans, however.

League Forms Rules
Each organization was requested to elect their permanent delegate to the Intramural Athletic association that meets Monday night to form league rules and laws. The schedule for touch football will be arranged next week by Coach Huffman. The basketball calendar will be released later.

The organizations and their representatives present at the first meeting included: Kemas, Glenn Stevenson; Silver Key, Granville Dickinson; North Plains club, Edwin Green; Pre-Med society, Harold Dowell; Centaur, Jack Fox; Wranglers, Buddy Myers; College Club, John Scoggin; Los Ratos, Bob Cannon; Lovell Hall, Pat Stout; Aggie club, Winburn McAllister; and the Plowboys, J. R. Payne and John Jackson.

Rice has not defeated T. C. U. in ten years.

Coach Cawthon Schedules First College Fun Night

The first "fun night" of the year is scheduled Wednesday night to be held in connection with the giant pep rally before the Detroit university game Thanksgiving Day.

Milton Coffey and Jackie May, boxing and wrestling coaches respectively, under the direction of Coach Pete Cawthon have charge of the program that will include approximately 20 rounds of boxing and four wrestling matches.

Giving the local fans their first chance to see Tech's most promising boxing team in action, Coach Coffey will match the state A. U. U. welterweight champions, the Elder twins—James and Joe—in the feature bout. Every weight division is to have at least three rounds of entertainment on the program.

Coach Jackie May has announced that four time limit wrestling matches will be arranged as another headline attraction of the evening.

The athletic department with cooperation from the head yell leader Morris Burchfield, is planning the biggest pep rally of the year in connection with the "fun night." The athletic department sponsors three or four fun nights a year on its program.

Cornelia Skinner Shows Acting Talent In Youth

Pantomimist Appears On Artist Course In December

IN the 1934-35 "Who's Who in America" Cornelia Otis Skinner, booked by the Tech artist course committee to appear here Wednesday evening, December 4, is listed. Her famous father, Otis Skinner, dean of the American theater, also appears among the prominent statesmen, ministers, artists, educators, scientists and other notables.

Born in Chicago in 1901 of well-known actor parents, Miss Skinner was destined for the stage. Her mother was the famous Madu Durham, who surrendered her theatrical interests upon marrying. She is a member of the Junior League and Cosmopolitan in New York, where she makes her home as Mrs. Aiden Blodgett, mother of two-year-old Otis Skinner Blodgett, named for his veteran acting grandfather. She is a frequent contributor to Life, Goodhousekeeping, Harper's Bazaar, the Vogue, Theatre Art Magazine, Scribner's and other magazines.

In 1922 Miss Skinner graduated from Bryn Mawr college in Pennsylvania and studied for the stage in Sorbonne, Paris and at the school of Jacques Copeau.

With her self-designed acting, Miss Skinner has proved single-handedly a sensation both in America and in European countries. Although she made her stage debut in a small role with her father in "Blood and Sand," considering her famous parent a handicap, she decided to use her talents in a lone program of character sketches written by herself. From earliest youth she had done little monologues, writing the parts herself and amusing her classmates with interpretations, imitations, and mimics.

Entertains Friends
The idea of being a pantomimist came to her at a party after she had entertained the guests with a series of what she described as "stunts." Her host suggested that she take up the same thing in the theater, and her present status as a pioneer in the theatrical world with Ruth Draper and other pantomimists was the result.

She began searching for subjects which would enable her to travel alone yet retain the thread of story and character development all throughout the evening. Such themes as in "The Wives of Henry VIII," "Empress Eugenie," "The Loves of Charles II," and "Mansion on the Hudson," proved satisfactory to the actress.

Miss Skinner, in the role of six women, will present the latter, a story written by herself of the fall of an aristocratic New York family living at "Tall Trees," a large estate at Schuylerville on the Hudson, at the Lubbock high school auditorium.

STAINBROOK TO SPEAK
Dr. M. A. Stainbrook, associate professor of geology, will address the Botanists Monday evening in room 217 of the Chemistry building at 7 p. m. His subject is "Paleobotany." Everyone interested is welcome to attend the lecture.

Gaston Shoots Six-Point Deer On Recent Hunting Trip To Davis Mountains

W. T. Gaston, business manager of the college, was fortunate enough to bag a six-point black-tail buck on his recent hunting trip to the Davis mountains.

He left Lubbock November 14 and after two days of unsuccessful hunting in the Big Bend country, 70 miles south of Marathon, moved on to the Kounts' ranch in the Davis mountains, 8 miles from Balmorhea, where he shot the deer.

R. V. Nabers of Pecos accompanied Gaston on the trip. Six days were spent hunting.

Sock And Buskin Presents Drama

"Grandma—Old Style," a play directed by Mary Scott, was presented at Sock and Buskin meeting Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in room 202 of the Administration building.

Before the play, a revised edition of the constitution for the club was read and adopted.

Mary Names Committees At Cadet Corps Meeting

The Officers club, an organization of commissioned and non-commissioned officers of the student cadet corps, had its first meeting of the semester Thursday night to appoint committees.

General C. A. Davis, professor of military science and tactics, will probably name new club officers next month.

The contest is not altogether a beauty contest. Every student eligible to vote is allowed to nominate three persons for beauty. The girl who is pretty and well known on the campus will probably come out on top. The beautiful but dumb girl, who carries her chin high in the clouds, will probably not come out at all.

Rivalry is strong, and there's conflict in the air for it's time to nominate 50 beauties at Tech.
