WEST FIELD PRORATION CHANGED

Majors Fear New Drilling Will Result

Producers Meet In Fort Worth With Railroad Commission

FORT WORTH—The average potential basis of proration in the western end of the Howard and Glascock County field was abolished and a compromise plan of establishing allowable two-thirds on straight potential and one-third on average was recommended to the Railroad Commission at a conservation hearing held here Friday in the Texas Hotel.

R. D. Parker, chief supervisor of the rail and gas division, presided.

Much discussion revolved around special water allowances in the field and the present rated potential, resulting in formation of an operations committee which will disseminate producing problems through a subcommittee of engineers.

Under the existing conservation order in the area, the western portion of the field is prorated strictly on 40-acre units with only marginal allowance permitted from oil over one well on each tract.

C. W. Tomlinson, of Ardmore, Okla., representing Schermerhorn Oil Company, lead forces opposing the 40-acre unit method of establishing allowable production.

The compromise plan, which was finally adopted, was precipitated by a suggestion from E. G. Allen of Dallas, Shell Petroleum Corporation, and approved by R. H. Morrison of Dallas, California Company.

F. E. Heath and John A. Ritter of Dallas, representing Sun Oil Company, said the present plan was satisfactory.

George Sawtelle of Houston, Kirby Petroleum Company, joined Tomlinson and Morrison of San Antonio, Cardinal Oil Company.

W. T. C. C. DELEGATES TO STUDY PROBLEMS AFFECTING CIVIC COMMERCIAL LIFE IN REGION

Pleas For Germany

Former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm of Germany said in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press that Europe's recovery depends upon a peaceful and working Germany, which would assist also in lifting your American burden.

Open Discussions Scheduled For 14th Annual Convention

SWEETWATER — A business program dedicated to a consideration of ways and means of solving problems affecting the commercial and civic life of West Texas is the program of the 14th annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce which convenes in Sweetwater Thursday and continues through until Saturday noon.

From the time Sweetwater's director in the regional organization, D. A. Clark, opens the Thursday morning session until President Houston Harte, San Angelo, announces the selection of the 1932 convention city and final adjournment Saturday at noon, there will be plenty of activity and a great volume of business going on at the convention.

Mayor J. P. Majors, Sweetwater's mayor, will make the welcome address on Thursday morning. To this welcome, Henry Ansley of Amarillo will respond. Ansley is the author of the popular "I Like the Depression," article that appeared in the March issue of West Texas Today, and was later reprinted in hundreds of publications throughout the nation. Ansley will give his famous depression talk from which the article was taken.

70 TICKETS ON SPECIAL TRAIN SOLD

Workers To Meet Again Tuesday Morning; Response Encouraging

A dozen men, working two hours Saturday morning, sold more than 70 reservations on the special train to be operated from Big Spring Friday of this week to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Sweetwater.

So spontaneous was the response in this first direct solicitation for reservations that the On-To-Sweetwater committee and officials of both the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night were greatly encouraged and more steadfast than ever in their belief that the people of the city were greatly interested in winning the 1932 W. T. C. C. convention for Big Spring.

The train will leave here about 7:30 a. m. Friday. It will return late that night. Round-trip fare is $1.85. Reservations may be made at the Crawford and Settles hotels, at the Chamber of Commerce offices, drug stores, the Herald office, or from individual solicitors which include J. B. Wolton, W. B. Smith, Calvin Boykin, Dr. W. B. Hardy, Fox Stripling, Joe Galbraith, Wendell Bedichek, and others.

200 Needed

Two hundred reservations must be sold to assure running of the special train.

To the more than 70 reservations taken yesterday morning may be added 25 for members of the Big Spring-Garden City band, bringing the total assured to practically 100.

Those who solicited reservations yesterday morning are asked to report at the Chamber of Commerce office at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday and each man is urged to bring at least one other person, man or woman, with him, to join in a second canvass for reservations.

Response to the solicitors met Saturday showed that scores are ready to take reservations if they are solicited. In fact, a number of people told canvassers Saturday they would buy tickets Monday or Tuesday.

Big Spring representatives are arranging for setting up Big Spring headquarters in the Bluebonnet hotel or some other centrally located place in Sweetwater. They will go there Wednesday, the day before the convention opens, to make these and other arrangements.

3 Spectals

Indications last night were that three special trains would be operated to the convention. They will be from Big Spring, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls. Amarillo and Mineral Wells are the other active contestants for the 1932 convention. Both those cities have entertained the convention in the past. Big Spring is asking for the first time.

Local workers for a large, well-organized representation in Sweetwater are confident that if the city shows the convention delegates it is sincere and earnest in its appeal.

PATMAN AND CONNERY SEEK NEW ROUTE FOR BONUS VOTE ON FLOOR OF LOWER HOUSE

In Stage Debut

Mrs. Robert P. Lamont Jr., daughter-in-law of the secretary of commerce, has made her debut as an actress in Denver after only a few appearances in amateur theatricals.

Little Prospect Of Success Declares Leader Of Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Patman, Texas, Connery, Massachusetts, democrats, announced a plan to demand the house remain in session until the bonus vote is taken. Patman plans to offer a resolution giving the bill special status. Hainey, Illinois, democratic floor leader, predicted the rules committee would kill the resolution.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The house ways and means committee reaffirmed yesterday's unfavorable report on the proposal to pay veterans the bonus with two billion dollars of new currency. The action was taken because under the rules, any member voting with the majority has the right to ask reconsideration the following day. None asked. The situation now is even if the measure is brought to the house by a discharge petition, and even if it passed there it would be too late for action by the senate.

Poison Sufficient To Kill All Monocan Population Is Discovered In Apartment

Body Of French President Lies In State Until Thursday

PARIS (AP)—Alexander Millerand, former president of France and Pierre Jullie, head of the secret police, said the assassin of President Paul Doumer was a Bolshevist.

Doumer is to receive a national funeral Thursday and in the meantime his body lies in state.

MONTE CARLO (AP)—A quantity of poison and a will dated May 3, which left everything to his wife, was found by police in the home of Paul Gorenlov, the slayer of President Doumer.

The poison, sufficient to wipe out the whole population of Monaco, the will and copies of Russian and Bulgarian newspapers were the only things found in the search of the apartment where the assassin and his wife lived.

The assassin's wife was arrested and taken to Paris.

PARIS (AP)—Paul Gorenlov, who fatally wounded Pres. Paul Doumer yesterday was formally charged with murder. A quick trial is expected. Three alienists examined him today, their findings were undisclosed.

The body of Doumer lay in state in the presidential palace. He died at 4:37 a. m. after a night of coma and delirium. The entire cabinet, his wife and two daughters were at the bedside. He became conscious a few moments before death and tried to speak to his family but failed.

The constitution provides the senate chamber of deputies must elect a successor within 48 hours but it will probably be delayed since the run-off election of the parliament is due tomorrow.

Alienists later pronounced Gorenlov sane. The French secret service said he is a member of a bolshevik organization and not a Fascist as claimed.

District Bar Members Hold Session Here

Working Organization Aim In Appointment Of Committee

Members of the bar of the Thirtieth judicial district were guests of local bar members Friday evening at a barbecue at City Park.

Following the feast, with Jim Winslow presiding at the barbecue pit and wives of local barristers adding delicious dishes, a business meeting was held with Judge W. W. Beall of Sweetwater, president of the district bar, presiding.

Visiting members were welcomed by Garland A. Woodward, District Attorney George Mahon of Colorado responded.

Ed Ponder of Sweetwater, district secretary, read minutes of the last meeting, which was a memorial banquet in Sweetwater honoring the late Frits R. Smith, judge of the district.

Thomas R. Smith of Colorado urged the bar of the district to widen its organization from that of a purely social function to an agency of greater usefulness. He made his plea that a working organization that would provide a basis for mutual solution of attorneys' problems be formed.

The members present voted for appointment by the presiding officer of a committee to present at the next meeting a plan for such enlargement of the organization's aims. Those named to this committee were Garland Woodward, Big Spring; Harry Ratliff, Colorado; John Sentell, and Ed Ponder, Sweetwater.

An invitation was extended members of the bar in the 70th judicial district, which embraces Midland, Martin, Glascock and neighboring counties, to join in an organization that would serve both districts.

Out-of-town members attending were: E. P. Ponder, J. H. Beall, W. Beall, J. H. Beall, Jr., Dent Beall, Sweetwater; A. S. Mauley, district judge, Sweetwater; T. H. Chilton, court stenographer, Snyder; Charles C. Thompson, L. A. Sandusky, Harry Ratliff, Thomas R. Smith, Dallas Barber, District Attorney George Mahon, Colorado.

Local members attending included H. C. Hooser, C. E. Thomas, J. T. Brooks, judge of the 32nd district special court, W. H. Taylor, Martell McDonald, Tracy T. Smith, G. B. Cunningham, Garland A. Woodward, J. L. Sullivan, Charles Sullivan, county Attorney James Little, Cecil G. Collins, Wilburn Barcus, H. C. Debenport, C. P. Rogers, Walton Morrison. Several guests and a number of wives of bar members also were present.

1926-29 Were Abormal Says Harry L. Seay

Southland Life Insurance Company President Speaks Here

America is not undergoing abnormal conditions today; she was experiencing abnormal conditions in 1926-29, declared Harry L. Seay, president of the Southland Life Insurance company, Dallas, at a luncheon here Saturday at the Crawford Hotel, which featured an all-day meeting of Southland representatives in this district, of which J. V. Whaley, Sweetwater, is manager.

Mr. Seay's address before the Southland men and several guests stressed his unqualified belief in the wisdom of the Robinson insurance law and the need for development of industries in Texas for manufacture of Texas commodities into finished products.

"If Texas developed her own industries as she should Texas annually would earn $700,000,000 for work that now is done elsewhere in manufacturing Texas grown and Texas produced materials into finished products," declared Mr. Seay, who was called to Washington by President Wilson to set up the war risk insurance system that is regarded as the real beginning of the life insurance business in America.

Chicago Cop Returns With James Riley

Former Telegraph Company Branch Manager To Face Charge

Sergeant Kelly of the Chicago police department will leave here at 6:15 a. m. Sunday for Chicago with James E. Riley, former Western Union branch manager there, who was arrested in a local hotel by Deputy Sheriffs Merrick and Wolf.

Riley is charged in Chicago with embezzlement. He came here by way of Oklahoma, where he had traded for a new automobile. The day following his arrest here his son, from Gallup, N. M., reached here. The father gave him a bill of sale to the new car and advised him to go his way and not worry too much about his dad.

Riley worked for the Western Union 26 years, he said. The son told officers here his parents had been separated for several years.

When found in his room here Riley at first attempted to disclaim any knowledge of the Chicago charge or of telegraph money orders and traveler's checks he was alleged to have taken.

After brief resistance to questions he shrugged his shoulders and said "Oh, what's the use, I'm wrong," and was taken to jail to await extradition and removal to Chicago.

Watson Home From Session Of Executives

Nathan Adams Criticizes Over-Regulation Of Business

Returning Saturday from Mineral Wells, where he attended the 26th annual meeting of the Texas Commercial Executives association, C. T. Watson, manager of the chamber of commerce of Big Spring, declared it was the most constructive session in history of the organization.

Mr. Watson read a paper before the convention. All proceedings are issued annually in book form. He served on the nominating committee for the third successive year.

Big Spring, Texas, Martin and Marshall invited the 1932 convention. Selection of the meeting place will be made in October by directors of the organization.

Remarks of Nathan Adams, noted Dallas banker, reported by Mr. Watson, drew special attention at the convention, he declared.

Inconsistencies in the federal banking system formed Mr. Adams' main theme. He said the government could not demand gold for collateral but that commodities ought to stand for cash as well. He said there was no reason why a bond backed by $18 in cash should not be worth $18 and that lack of confidence was the reason for refusal of banks and the public to accept them on this basis. He declared government in business and pointed out that all legislation designed to aid the farmer had made the farmer's condition worse, including the federal farm board.

His principal suggestion for overcoming and preventing business depression was to take regulations off business and agriculture. He particularly criticized the system under which states or cities thereof must ask permission of a federal commission to build a line of railroad within its own boundaries.

Fall Release Is Due Today

Change Ordered In Commitment Papers By Justice

WASHINGTON (AP)—Justice Jennings Bailey, District of Columbia supreme court, on the motion of the prosecutors, ordered the commitment papers of Albert E. Fall changed so he will not have to remain longer in the New Mexico state prison, despite his inability to pay the $100,000 fine.

The papers were immediately forwarded to Warden Swope. Telegraphic orders were also sent but it was not learned whether the warden would comply with them. His release is due Sunday with time off for good behavior. The warden insisted that under the terms of the commitment it was improper to release him yet.

Broadway of America Motorcade To Stop Here Monday At 7:30 A. M.

The Broadway of America Motorcade will arrive in Big Spring at 7:30 a. m. on Monday according to President F. O. Mackey who is leading this cross-country caravan.

The motorcade like a great ball rolling down a hillside will gather momentum and a greater number of ears as it nears the Pacific Coast. Members of the local Broadway of America and Chamber of Commerce highway committees will meet the motorcade here.

One of the most unique features of the motorcade which left New York Tuesday, May 2, in the beautiful Centennial Car of the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce which is known as the "Silver Streak" and has recently been extensively used during the celebration of the 100th Anniversary of America's oldest national park at Hot Springs.

This attractive car of silver and blue is being driven by Scott D. Hamilton, manager of the Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by Mrs. Hamilton. The car is especially equipped for this trip with a complete amplification system capable of furnishing music and other entertainment for the motorcade. Band music and other musical features will be broadcast along the route, with special concerts in communities where time will permit.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Burgoo King, son of the E. R. Bradley stable, today won the 58th Running Kentucky Derby, with Economic second and Stenpenficht was third, while Tick On, the favorite, finished 6th in a field of 20.

The race carried a gross value of $62,375, of which a net of $55,350 went to the winner.

Navy Dirigible May Be Sighted Sunday Night

The navy dirigible Akron was reported last night in Associated Press dispatches to be making ready to leave Lakehurst, N. J., at dawn Sunday for a transcontinental voyage, which was expected to lead along the southern route and across West Texas.

It was estimated the ship would be visible here late Sunday night if this course is followed. The U. S. department of commerce always radio station here had received no official notification of the time the Akron could be expected here.

Many local people called Saturday and Saturday night for information about the ship, which several days ago was reported preparing to leave Lakehurst Saturday morning.

Revival Closing Here This Evening

Largest crowds in recent history of the local congregation are expected this morning and this evening at the Church of Christ, Fourteenth and Main streets.

The 35-day revival meeting, led by Lester Fisher, evangelist of Clovis, N. M., will end this evening.

More than 30 have been added to the church during the meeting. Bible study will open at 9:45 a. m. Preaching services, with breaking of bread, will begin at 11 a. m. The evening gospel service will open at 8 o'clock.

C-O DIRECTORS TO MEET

Directors of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in closed of Monday evening, the usual time.

The Weather

Big Spring and vicinity—Partly cloudy Sunday and Monday with much change in temperature.

West Texas—Partly cloudy Sunday and Monday.

East Texas—Fairly cloudy Sunday with unsettled Sunday and Monday.

America today pays special tribute to Mother!

If America would allow her mind to dwell more often on more serious thoughts those things instilled into children by the old-fashioned American mother meet all our ills would fade away.

If America would forget her greed for gold and treasure in her heart truth, honesty, fair-dealing, usefulness and courage of the supreme quality possessed by the old-fashioned American mother, her 110,000,000 souls would be released from any bondage of poverty, of depression, of unhappiness and unrest that so stubbornly bind them.

The greatest story of motherhood is that of the birth of the Saviors of Men.

In our hearts the next greatest story of motherhood is that of our own birth, of how our own mothers brought us into the world through a Gethsemane that carried them deep into the shadow of death until they all but touched the cold gray robes of death Himself.

Those who harbor the matchless memory of a childhood at the knee of an old-fashioned, Christian mother possess something that is far more valuable than any degree of material riches.

We may hoard gold with all its vain promises, and possess our lands and herds, our houses and goods, and be looked upon as rich men, as prosperous men, as "business men" whatever that means, but no man can buy the invaluable asset of things instilled by a woman who was his mother and who, moreover, turned his foot steps toward things that are good and true.

Nations may vainly boast of their power upon land and sea; they may rise to world supremacy and believe themselves indestructible, everlasting so long as the world stands.

But governments do not grow so mighty, men do not grow so rich, or so strong that their women, and more especially the mothers, can not and do not in the final analysis hold their fate.

Armaments, state-machinery, gold reserves, world markets—all these factors that make for material prosperity are as dust under our feet, as told clay in our hands, when compared to the power and glory of good women.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS FOR COMING WEEK

"Arrowsmith," With Ronald Colman, Opening At Ritz

NOVEL WITH WHICH AMERICAN AUTHOR WON NOBLE PRIZE IS MORE EFFECTIVE ON SCREEN

"Arrowsmith," the masterpiece of Sinclair Lewis, the only American novelist ever to win a Nobel Prize, comes as a motion picture to the Ritz Theatre today and Monday, in a great production by Samuel Goldwyn, with Ronald Colman playing the title role of the crusading young doctor.

Goldwyn, with Ronald Colman hailed "Arrowsmith" as one of the most important pictures of the year, and Sinclair Lewis himself, after witnessing its New York premiere, acknowledged publicly that it had succeeded in doing everything he had tried to do in the book. The distinction of its story, the importance of its cast and the acclaim with which it has been received combine to make it a cinematic event.

Helen Hayes, the stage star who recently triumphed in her first screen appearance in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," plays opposite Ronald Colman in the role of the devoted wife who risks her life for her husband's career. Richard Bennett, the stormy petrel of the stage and father of Constance, Joan and Barbara Bennett, has a major role as Sondelius, the plague-fighting Swede, and A. E. Anson, an eminent stage figure making his motion picture debut, has another rich character role.

Splendid Support Cast
Myrna Loy, Florence Britton, Claude King, Alec B. Francis take important parts, and several of the minor roles are filled by the same galaxy of expert actors who made every character in Samuel Goldwyn's "Street Scene" an individual event.

The story of "Arrowsmith" is the story of one man's devotion and ambition in the battle of humanity against the death-dealing plagues which have always been the scourge of mankind. It sweeps from a tropical island in the West Indies, where young Dr. Arrowsmith and his colleagues go to battle against the black death. His relations with the little nurse he marries as a struggling country doctor, continuing throughout the picture, weave a broad current of romance through its stirring scenes.

Awarded Nobel Prize
"Arrowsmith" as a novel is acknowledged by most critics to be the finest work of Sinclair Lewis, its author. It won a Pulitzer Prize on publication, only to have Mr. Lewis refuse to accept the award as not representing his work. Last year his eminence as an international important writer was recognized by the award of the Nobel Prize for literature, the greatest such award in the world, previously won by no other American.

John Ford, who has been one of the best-known directors in motion pictures ever since he did "The Iron Horse" for Samuel Goldwyn. It was adapted from the novel by Sidney Howard, the famous dramatist and winner of a Pulitzer Prize several years ago with his "They Knew What They Wanted" as presented by the New York Tribune Guild.

Rudolph Valentino played Armend opposite Nazimova, Russian actress, in "Camille" several years ago.

Metro News "Red, Red, Robin"

Warren William and Sidney Fox, above, play in "Mouthpiece," stirring story of a public prosecutor whose eagerness for success sends an innocent man to the electric chair; he becomes a defender; it is the inside story of one of New York's best-known criminal lawyers and will be shown at the Queen theatre Friday and Saturday.

Vivacity Is Winning Card For Carroll

Nancy At Best In 'Wayward', Opening Friday At Queen

The flair for vivacity and emotional spirit which Nancy Carroll first portrayed for the delectation of film fans of the nation in "Abe's Irish Rose" is again one of the foremost qualities of her performance in "Wayward," the Paramount picture which comes to the Ritz Theatre Friday and Saturday.

The fire and flash of "The Dance of Life"—the romantic fervor of "Stolen Heaven" and "David's Holiday"—are all brought into a symphonic union of stirring dramatics for her characterization of the lovely and well-loved wife of Richard Arlen in this latest picture, co-starring Pauline Frederick.

And a further gesture of remembrance for her distinguished beginning in the talking picture world! She sings a new song—"What's the Difference?" by John W. Green and Edward Heyman. The song provides one of the high spots in this engrossing film entertainment.

Prosecutor's Efforts Send Innocent Man To Chair; He Is Changed

Warren William, featured player in "The Mouthpiece," the Warner Bros. picture coming to the Ritz theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday is slated for stardom as a result of his work in this adaptation of a play by Frank Collins based on actual incidents in the life of a notorious New York attorney.

William as a "mouthpiece," the term denoted to lawyers who represent doubtful clients caught in the toils of the law, is said to deliver the best work of his screen or stage career. Originally an eager, zealous young prosecuting attorney he plumbs the depths in character and association as a result of an unfortunate case in which his prosecution brought an innocent youth to the electric chair. The progress and regress of "The Mouthpiece" forms the basis of the story, the romantic angle very evident in the affairs carried on by William.

William has been in Hollywood less than a year, but has had several roles leading up to the present very important one in "The Mouthpiece." He has been seen opposite such stars as Dolores Costello, Bebe Daniels and Marian Marsh in both "Under Eighteen" and "Beauty and the Beast." Each succeeding role has increased his fan mail to flood tide proportions and has corroborated the producers' consideration to groom him for stardom.

Sidney Fox, of "Strictly Dishonorable" fame, appearing opposite William in the leading feminine role. Other important cast members are Aline MacMahon, remembered for her excellent portrayals in "Five Star Final" and "The Heart of New York"; Guy Kibbee, William Noel, John Wray, Ralph Ince, Joan Francis, Stanley Fields and Emerson Tracey.

Ross Lederman. William Walling, Ed Le Saint, Wallace MacDonald, Ward Bond and Pat O'Malley have other leading roles.

Frank Borzage Sensation As Film Director

'Young America' Opens At Queen Today; Produced Under Him

A fifth "B" family must be added to the historic records of the Bennetts and the Barrymores, the Bophs and the Barretts, with the release of "Young America," the Fox screen feature coming to the Queen Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. This fifth name is that of Borzage. Frank Borzage's direction of "Humoresque," "The Heaven," "Bad Girl" and "After Tomorrow," to name but a few of his hits, has already established the name. "Young America" not only marks Borzage's eighteenth successive film for the Fox company, but introduces a new screen juvenile in the person of fourteen year-old Raymond Borzage, the director's nephew, whose sympathetic portrayal of the role of "Nuttie" has evoked unusual comment. The part of the shy and inventive "Nuttie" seems exactly suited to young Raymond's talents, and in it the boy gives promise of becoming a juvenile sensation.

Society Girl's Narrow Escape From Noose Great Story

Joan Bennett plays the leading role in "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," the Fox picture coming to the Ritz Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

Based on Kenneth M. Ellis' radio drama and widely read novel, "The Trial of Vivienne Ware" depicts the thrill of a murder trial and shows to what extent circumstantial evidence may be employed in convicting an innocent person. As Vivienne Ware, the beautiful society girl and heiress, Miss Bennett is tried for the murder of Damon Fenwick, the millionaire architect to whom she was affianced.

The circumstantial evidence is so convincing that conviction seems certain. But the girl's innocence is finally established after the district attorney has demanded her life and her own attorney advises her to plead guilty and accept a life sentence.

How all this is brought about, forms the basis of what is said to be one of the most powerfully dramatic and intensely absorbing pictures to reach the screen in many months.

Donald Cook, dark and handsome, appears as counsel for the defense who is in love with the fair prisoner. Allan Dinehart is the prosecutor and Herbert Mundin, the star witness. Other cast members include...

Susannah Wesley Members Entertain Coffee Memorial Mothers With Lovely Party

First Methodist Church Parlors Decorated With Red And White Rosebuds For Occasion; Inspiring Program Rendered Before Many Guests

The members of the Susannah Wesley Sunday School of the First Methodist Church entertained with a lovely tea at the church parlors Friday afternoon, honoring the class of mothers of the church, the Coffee Memorial Class.

Red and white rosebuds were the floral decorations.

Mrs. Garry Young presented red roses to the mothers and used the combination of colors in a most effective decorative fashion in the rooms.

The program opened with a lovely devotional led by Mrs. Chas. Morris on the theme of Mother's Day. During the short business session Mrs. Manion urged the members to save the Red and White labels.

The social program consisted of introducing the honor guests to the others present, with many sweet talks. Miss Verbena Barnes read one of her clever original poems so suitable for such occasions, a poem she had composed in honor of this party.

Mrs. Arthur Pickle and Mrs. W. D. McDonald rendered a lovely duet, accompanied by Mrs. J. L. Terry at the piano. Readings were given by Maedell Hayley and Miss Gertrude Martin.

Mrs. Fox Stripling, in the name of the Coffee Memorial Class, thanked the members of the Susannah Wesley Class for the lovely tributes paid them.

The hostesses of the occasion were Mrs. Short and her groups, composed of Mrs. W. D. Wilson, Smith, C. M. Watson, Garry Young. They served ice cream and angel-food cake at the close of the program.

Others present in addition to those named above were Mrs. T. B. Vastine, B. L. Uhm, Gilbert Gibbs, Jr., of Denton, J. C. Waits, Sr., W. J. Riggs, M. L. Musgrove, W. O. Thompson, Warren, of Midland, J. A. Myers, N. L. Dalton, Jarrett, L. T. Deats, Arthur Pickle, H. C. Dyer, Logan Baker, G. E. Fleeman, G. L. White, Mike Williamson, R. E. Gay, Dorsett, B. H. ## Nephew Of Mrs. R. H. McNew To Lead Band At W. T. C. C. Meet

One of the most interesting features of the W. T. C. C. meeting for next week-end at Sweetwater is the Teachers' College Stage Band of Denton, directed by Floyd Graham a nephew of Mrs. Homer McNew of this city.

This band, a unique musical organization for a college, which has won wide recognition in its appearances of the state and will play an important part in the Gypsy Girl revenue Thursday and Friday nights, May 12 and 13, as feature entertainments of the annual convention. In the cast of the revue will appear girls representing many communities of West Texas. A floor show of entertainment numbers will be given as a part of the revue.

The Teachers' College Band, of which Floyd Graham is director, will play for all the numbers of the revue and also will present several novelty numbers of its own.

This band presents a stage show each Saturday evening at the college, offering many novel features. The band will be accompanied by Sweetwater by O. L. Fowler, secretary of the Denton Chamber of Commerce; L. A. McDonald, West Texas chamber director and chairman of the educational committee; Floyd Brooks, first vice-president of the Denton Chamber of Commerce, and others.

Mrs. Remele Hostess To Congenial Club

Mrs. W. H. Remele entertained the members of the Congenial Bridge Club with a very charming springtime party Friday afternoon at her home.

Organdie covers in pastel shades covered the bridge tables.

The guests were served refreshments in the dining room at the table, which was centered with a May Pole. Gay colored streamers led to each guest's place, where lay a plate favor of sweets forming a coronet.

A dainty ice course was served. Mrs. Hamilton made high score for the afternoon.

Those present were Meses. C. C. Carter, Hugh Duncan, Jimmie Mason, Hayes Stripling, Raymond Winn, C. R. Bollinger, D. C. Hamilton and A. Knickerbocker. Mrs. Stripling will be the next hostess.

"WESTERN PROSE AND POETRY"

Edited by Rufus Coleman (Harper and Bros.)

These 450 pages comprise a splendid treatment of the west, in so far as it could be captured between two book covers.

Many readers will be surprised at the variety of topic headings and will realize that only a Westerner the author is assistant professor of English at the University of Montana—would have appreciated some of them. Yet the book would be incomplete if any one were left out.

Indian legends head the list, followed by Indian life and customs, which range from translations of Indian myths to Oliver La Farge's "Laughing Boy." Then come the explorer, the trapper, the settler, the miner, the outlaw and gambler; the missionary, the freighter, the soldier and sheriff, the lumberjack and homesteader. The Chinaman, as well as the Mexican, is included; so is the stage coach in a section devoted to it alone; and the cowboy and his longhorns. The book concludes with the modern scene which contains that magnificent poem of Elhel Romig Fuller, "The Alrmail Arrives."

The best one can do in a review of this kind is to present the book as a whole, in order to acquaint the public with its value as a reference book. If it leans a little heavily toward the northwestern scene, this reviewer regards that as no criticism; for Montana, of all states in the West, was probably affected by all the various elements which made the West what it was historically even more than Texas, who had more than her share.

The paintings which have been produced for illustrations are by outstanding Western painters, Frederick Remington, Edgar Samuel Paxson and Charles Marion Russell.

In the foreword the author makes a suggestion which we want to endorse heartily. He suggests that emphasis be laid on the writing about familiar scenes and places by students and other amateurs more than on literary style. He borrows his idea, to be sure, from another person, but it is none the less commendable for that. If high school and college students, who have to do more or less writing in their study of English, would seek to reproduce the scenes around them, they would aid greatly in preserving authentically the flavor of the many different communities which go to make up the American scene. This book should be on the library shelves of every western high school and college and should inspire many an English teacher to seek out new, neglected and inspiring material for his classes that might be lost to the world without his help.

"TEXAS TRAILS: LEGENDS OF THE GREAT SOUTHWEST"

By Harry Williams (Naylor Printing Co.)

Many people in this section of the west have read and enjoyed Harry Williams' column "Texas Trails," in the San Antonio Light. They will be glad to know that he has selected the best of this material and incorporated it into this very attractive book, published by the Naylor Printing Co., of San Antonio.

Most of the stories which appeared in "Texas Trails" were true stories, written with fictitious names. Some were the recounting of adventures known to every lover of pioneer history; some were tales of adventure and some even touched on young love and romance. In many of them was humor; in many pathos; and in all of them sympathy.

These chapters are short and some are very racy, with the use of frontier slang that carries one back to the tales of one's grandfathers. We suggest that many a lover of the southwest will draw this book from the public library, where it is a new addition; and will chuckle over the tales that Williams relates in his breezy journalistic fashion.

1st Christian S. C. To Give Mother's Day Program Sunday

The Sunday School Class of the First Christian Sunday school has prepared a lovely "Mother's Day" program for the closing exercises when the departments assemble to gather in the church auditorium, announced Mrs. L. A. Eubanks, superintendent.

The first number will be the reading of the scripture by Mrs. Ira Rockhold. Warren Baskley will give a reading, "A Boy's Tribute to His Mother." Mrs. Chas. Peck and Miss Maurine Bethell will sing a duet, "That Wonderful Mother of Mine." Bill Inkman will conclude the numbers with a reading, "Mother."

Two Pupils Given Pins For Piano Contest

Mrs. Les Weathers and Miss Roberts Gay presented their pupils in expression and piano in a joint recital Friday evening at the high school auditorium, which was greatly appreciated by the audience.

After the recital Miss Gay presented two of her pupils with lyre-shaped gold pins for winning in the contest she has sponsored during the year. Jennie Faye Felton received a pin for practicing greatest number of hours; she put in 130. Eddy Ray Less received a pin for the best technique of any pupil in the class.

The American Language

THERE IS no sectional difference in the vocabulary habits of American children, is the interesting discovery of Prof. Edgar Dale of Ohio State university, in a survey of pupils recently completed. He explains this sameness of vocabulary habits by saying that children of the lower grades in the public schools study pretty much the same textbooks. He used 8,000 words in making his tests.

But there is a wide difference in the matter of pronunciation. A word looks alike and is spelled alike in all corners of the country, but no two sections employ the same inflection or pronunciation.

A radio program commemorated Texas' past struggles and present greatness. The announcer stumbled over the word San Jacinto, drawing out the syllables beyond any length ever employed by a Texan. He snuffed the pronunciation of the names of some of Texas' greatest heroes. Possibly he had been coached on the proper way to pronounce Heron or he got it right. Most Yankees call it Houston. He used the long o in Bowie, making it Dowie instead of the correct Bovie. Travis he endowed with a broad "a".

Undoubtedly these differences in the way we pronounce words add to the charm of American existence. Thinkers display a great interest in the way southerners pronounce the common words, and vice versa. The Texan detects a difference in the pronunciation of the Georgian. The South are quite different from the more rapid and slightly more clipped talk of the southwesterner.

"Family Payroll Racket" Among Congressmen Created Good Jobs

WASHINGTON (UP)—One senator who formerly had his wife on the payroll as his secretary admitted it looked bad, but offered in mitigation the plea that being a senator was quite expensive.

This was undoubtedly true in his case, as in several which have been uncovered in the United Press inquiry into the family payroll racket in congress.

Others, however, are better able to bear the financial burden of serving the public—Senator John G. Townsend, Repn., Del., for instance.

His son Paul is his secretary at $3,500 a year—the top salary. The senator also is president of the highway engineering and construction company of Selbyville, Del., which has been doing more than $200,000 worth of work a year for the District of Columbia government. Last week his company obtained a paving contract for $24,000.

The son, Paul, is vice-president of the company and divides his time between serving the public and his street paving business.

The contracts are obtained by competitive bidding, the work appears to be entirely satisfactory and it is entirely legal for a senator to be interested in a company doing government work.

A second son is secretary of the paving company.

Senator Townsend is chairman of the senate committee on audit and control which passes on all senatorial expenditures out of the contingent fund.

The widespread extent of the family payroll racket was indicated in a statement issued by Rep. J. R. Mitchell, Dem., Tenn., accompanying his bill introduced earlier this week to prohibit the employment of relatives by senators and congressmen.

However the practice is not universal. One of the poorest men in the senate, Borah of Idaho, does not indulge in it. Neither does the richest senator, Couzens, Repn., Mich., who is many times a millionaire.

Being a senator is expensive for those from large states. Senator Wagner, who represents New York, gets exactly the same amount of clerk hire and stationery as his fellow democrat, senators from XIG states can hope to escape paying money out of their private funds for clerical expenses.

Ship Found At Sea In Good Condition With Crew Missing

GALVESTON (UP)—Capt. Theodor Goulondris brought the Greek steamer Eugenia S. Embriicos into port and told a strange story which recalled the mystery of the famous derelict schooner Maria Celesta.

The Greek ship April 23 encountered the two-masted fishing schooner John and Mary of New York about fifty miles south of the Bermuda Islands. Her hull was furled, the hull was freshly painted and the ship apparently was in good condition—but no one was on board.

Winds of gale velocity and heavy seas prevented Capt. Goulondris from towing the schooner to port for salvage.

An inspection party from the Embriicos found everything shipshape on the schooner except for a missing anchor. The party had a narrow escape from drowning when their boat capsized on rock back to the Embriicos.

The derelict Maria Celesta was found in mid-Atlantic many years ago with all sails set and galley fires burning but without a soul on board. The fate of her crew and the reason for her abandonment has never been solved.

the MAN HUNTERS BY MABEL McELLIOTT

SUSAN CAREY, pretty secretary, is in love with BOB DUNBAR, young millionaire she met at business college. At a party given by DENISE ACKROYD, society girl, Susan realizes Bob is not for her. Bob rights with NEEN LAMPMAN, another admirer of Susan's. ERNEST HEATH, Susan's employer, happens along and escorts the girl back to the Ackroyd house. FRS HEATH, bitterly jealous, later threatens to expose Susan for alienation of affections. JACK WARING, Heath's assistant, is able to prevent this by producing an incriminating letter. Mrs. Heath goes to Reno instead. Susan tries to forget Bob. RAY FLANNERY, stenographer in the next office, confides to Susan that she is heartbroken because "SKE" WEBB has married another. Susan's chum, ROSE MILTON, plans to give up a career for the man she loves. Bob comes to the office but Heath interrupts his conversation with Susan. On Christmas eve Ben calls to see Susan. Angered because Heath has sent her flowers, he forces unwilling kisses on her lips.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXI
"Are you with the Gledin's party?" Jack Waring smiled down at the heart shaped face tilted up to his.

"I am."
Denise narrowed her long eyes at him. "I thought you were. Laura Gleding said they were having a very smooth man out for the New Year's shindig."
Waring continued to smile mockingly. "And I'm the only one who isn't that description I suppose?"

Denise shrugged. "Well, pretty much. The rest are mostly infants home from college for the holidays. You couldn't really call them men." Her disdainful glance swept over the bright room.
"Not even that one?" Waring indicated with a lift of one eyebrow a tall, fair haired young man gawking in the stag line. "He looks fairly grown up."
"Oh, Bobby?" Denise took the trouble to throw a provocative glance in the stern young man's direction. "Of course I wasn't counting him. He's special."
"Really? I didn't know." The music had stopped and the dancers began to drift in the direction of supper. Denise clung to Waring's arm, her costume of pale green velvet swirling around her.

"Laura had some really good ideas for this party," she chattered. "Tables for two. Don't you think that's neat?"
"Splendid," the man agreed. "It's a good party. But won't you give your mind if I carry you off like this?"

Denise said, never mind about him. He's in a fearful temper anyhow. I'll let him cool off."
They found a little table just under the balcony in the big hall. The man noticed with idle interest that his companion's frock was by far the most outrageously revealing in the place. In front the bodice was demurely cut but there was the m-rust ribbon at the back. What he could not know was that Denise's mother, a futile, nervous little woman, had spent hours trying to argue the girl out of wearing it. What were young girls thinking of nowadays, he wondered arrangement," the girl said coolly. She hadn't, Waring noticed, touched any of the various tempting dishes which had been set before her and whisked away. Instead she devoted herself to her cigarette and expelled the smoke in clouds. All about her at other little tables, flower-faced girls were doing the same.

"They're a decadent lot," Waring said to himself. He scarcely relished the role of mature philosopher this evening.
"Let's dance, shall we?" he said abruptly. As Denise slipped into his arms he murmured, "What did you say the girl's name was in this comedy-drama?"

"I didn't say," Denise replied. "You're a funny one. Old Papa Sherlock."
Waring tightened his arms around her, using that seductive tone he had found so successful. "Tell Papa Sherlock," he coaxed. "I love the way you dance," said Denise. "Not that it matters, but since you're so inquisitive I don't mind telling you. Her name is Susan Carey."

Having learned what he wanted to know, Waring exerted himself to please. Underneath his blasé exterior there was a current of excitement. He liked meddling in others' affairs. It was one of the diversions he permitted himself. Remembering the expression on Susan's face that day he had spoken to her of young Dunbar, Waring felt the thrill of the discoverer. He made no plans. His mental processes were essentially simple. He began by employing methods which had succeeded with chorus girls, shop assistants, and ladies of the great world.

"What makes you so beautiful?" he began.
Denise laughed, recognizing this form of attack and enjoying it. "I love that," she said. "You've been staring at me all evening and you've just come to."
The man steeled her toward a corner. "Look," he said, "this place is pretty dull. How about barging on to Tony's out near Waukegan? Or we could slip into town and see what's doing."
"All right. I'll meet you down stairs." Denise's eyes sparkled with excitement. She knew her chaperone was sitting in the dressing room but she was equal to managing poor Mrs. Fleury.

Waring felt no scruples about leaving the party without excusing himself to his hostess. No one bothered about such things nowadays. He waited for Denise at the foot of the staircase, an urbane, distinguished-looking man in a conical coat. It was one of Waring's whims to dress like an undergraduate. Denise came fluttering toward him, her voluminous wrap of white fur clutched around her. She took his arm.

"You're not such a slow number," she approved. "I said when I saw you, I like that man's looks. He looks like a bit of a rogue."
Waring handed her into the car. "Let's go places and do things," Denise cried. "Let's have fun. You haven't a snifter about you, old timer, have you?"
Waring slid the car into gear before he replied.
"Better wait until we get to

Fashion Right!

In a woman it's the ability to select perfect clothes down to the last accessory... in a store it's the same ability. In a woman it's intuition... in a store it's actually being in the KNOW. Every hour... every moment we are striving to bring you the last item to appear on the scene. We bring out fashions for the few and fashions for the many. We predict important trends a season in advance... but do not forget them when they become the rage. This is what we mean by fashion-rightness... the most important job of the retail store today.

Early Summer Styles Notes

The amount of jewelry worn by smart women nowadays has been reduced to a very small quantity, but it is an important quantity nevertheless. Each piece must look as though it were especially designed for the dress with which it is worn. That makes a hard job for the jewelry designers but they have done remarkably well with it.

The shops offer what seems to be an endless variety of types and colors to complement every conceivable costume. Necklaces, bracelets and clips are the outstanding items just now. And it is especially about the clips that I want to write this week because they appear in so many new and clever versions.

Not only are these clips interesting in design but they are very reasonable, many not more than a dollar apiece. As a bright contrasting note on a fabric bandage, for instance, a large white initial ivory clip on a navy blue bag goes well with a blue and white costume.

Clips
A pair of clips in jade green composition serves to tie together the black coat and green printed dress of a spring ensemble. A green composition bracelet to match adds another good touch.

This is only one use for a pair of clips but as a matter of fact there are probably more clips sold in pairs than singly this year. Another favorite use is to fasten one at each side of a cowl neck giving a soft squared line.

A great deal of ingenuity has been expended in creating clips to wear with the all-important scarf this spring and summer. One is a curved rounded bar something like the old-fashioned ring necktie pin. It is particularly attractive for kerchief scarfs. The humble clothespin has been reproduced in miniature to hold down the flowing ends of an Ascot scarf. You can buy one in such colors as white, coral, green and blue.

Aside from these sports types, clips have been designed especially for formal costumes. There is a little marcasite clip with a sardonyx ring attached to it. The clip is fastened to one side of a scarf the other end of which is pulled through the ring.

A clever double clip design represents a hook and eye in rhinestones. One side may be fastened to your coat and the other side to your scarf, thus achieving not only decoration but the practical purpose of keeping your scarf in place.

Favorite Color
Red, white and blue is a favorite jewelry color combination and interlocked rings like the Olympiad insignia appear everywhere. A blue and white enamel clip of this type makes an effective fastening for a surplice necktie.

Single ivory rings, resembling doughnuts are suggested for wear on hat bands, white on brown, for instance.

A fashion promenade of styles for older women staged by one of our best Fifth Avenue shops revealed some interesting news about sleeves. There were two favorites. One was three-quarter length with a little puffed or tucked fullness at the elbow. The other was a soft sleeve covering the arm to the elbow. This latter was made to give the effect of a cape without too much width for a mature figure.

Plain long sleeves appeared only on straight jackets (which, by the way, were wrist length, none of those bellhop affairs for the older woman).

Women of Hokkaido, Japan, have mustaches tattooed on their lips.

WILL ROGERS:

Why Tax A Boot And Not A Show?
All Luxuries Except Meat, Bread

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. Congress just keeps us all on the jump all the time, waiting to see what they are going to do with us. One minute they are not going to have a sales tax, but they put a tax on about a third of the things that are sold. Then they were asked to explain why it was that they taxed a boot but didn't tax a shoe, or why put a tax on caps but none on hats. That is just about as nonsensical as the things they did do.

They tried to hang most of it on to the Auto buyers, or Gasoline buyers. Well they just as well put it on bathing suits, or chairs, or anything else that folks use, anything outside of meat and bread and Grand Breesechouh can be called a luxury, or a necessity, which ever way you want to look at it. Autos may be a luxury, a bed may be a luxury, you can ride on a street car, or you can also sleep on the ground, neither one is an absolute necessity. Well it just looks like Congress took a list of everything made and shut their eyes and took a pencil and marks off some names and said, "We will tax everything the pencil marks across." They were afraid to have the sales tax for fear the voters back home would send them back this fall, when as a matter of fact the voters back home while they didn't want any tax, they did want one that was equal in most respects. People when you get right down to it are fairer than most individuals, so it looks now as I pen you these few lines that Mr. Congress will get their tax bill handed back to em with everything changed but the title, and then Congress will have to knock under for just what they had refused to do in the first place.

They been investigating Wall Street, but there has been much development going on there that one Committee cant dig it all out. They wanted to publish the names of the firms that were implicated in the "Bear Raids," and the list was 24 thousand.

England come out with their Budget and didnt make any allowance for paying their debt to us. Well we come out with our Budget without paying our debt to ourselves. We cant seem to find any dough to do anything with, but England hadent any more than broke out till Senator Borah was right on their tail. He reminded em that there had been an over-ight on somebody's part. Then he was joined by Pat Harrison, another old cirony o' mine from away down in Mississippi. Pat told England she would pay or else she wouldnt built herself any more Navy. Well England who was so tickled at balancing their Budget, they had plum forgot about us, when they heard from the above two lads, they went back to "Conference." You see thats the trouble you just cant do a nation a favor, or they will want it continued, although I will say this England will pay, and id, quicker than any the rest of em.

France just has guys laying awake at night to think up reasons for not paying. They gave guys percentages on every new idea he gets for new reasons. France's main reason now is that if she paid us she would have to use her gold, and if she had to use her gold, she wouldnt have as much gold. But England is a different breed of cats altogether. The old Englishman is a mighty high type business man. Well we will hear a lot about it anyhow, for it will be starting to come due in a few months, and the campaign this fall will be so full of debt arguments that you will think the future of the country hinged on the outcome. Hollywood is all excited, they hear Greta Garbo is going home, she might be at home for all we know, nobody has ever seen her out here. In fact she may make her pictures over there, and just be sending em over. She is supposed to go home now and take up this match king job. He was the biggest man over there. And she is the biggest woman. So they figure she could put it on his feet. Say by the way that old boy sure put one over on em didnt he? Talk about us having some slick "Hombres", why Europe can make a sucker out of us for "Fenagling" guys.

This depression has brought out a lot of crooked stuff where if things had gone on and they had been able to keep covering up they would never have been known. Talk about running a Ford car into a Billion dollars, just think of running a little tiny stick of wood, with some phosphorus on the end of it into an establishment that controlled the finances of a dozen nations. We are just kinder sitting around here waiting for the new Fords to be delivered, thats about the only event in our lives. We trade in the old ones and go in debt for the difference. We are all talking Olympic games, out here. We dont know what they do or how they do it, but we want to see it. Fifty-five nations are coming. It will either be a success or a war, one, so in either case you dont want to miss it. There is hundreds of women competing, in this case they have to compete against each other, and not just against the men. Its going to be well worth seeing. Come on out, you are not doing anything anyhow. If you run a store or are in business why put your customer in the car and bring him too then you wont lose him. Remember the date? Well I forgot when it was myself, but its sometimes during the hot weather.

(Copyright, 1932, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Dr. and Mrs. T. M. Collins, who are in Waco attending the convention of the Texas Medical association, will go to New Orleans for the American Medical association convention, stopping in Louisiana points for visits with relatives of Mrs. Collins.

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHER

As time turns backward my mind rambles back to the old country home where the love of Father and Mother made all the passing days at it. Autos may be a luxury, a bed may be a luxury, you can ride on a street car, or you can also sleep on the ground, neither one is an absolute necessity. Well it just looks like Congress took a list of everything made and shut their eyes and took a pencil and marks off some names and said, "We will tax everything the pencil marks across." They were afraid to have the sales tax for fear the voters back home would send them back this fall, when as a matter of fact the voters back home while they didn't want any tax, they did want one that was equal in most respects. People when you get right down to it are fairer than most individuals, so it looks now as I pen you these few lines that Mr. Congress will get their tax bill handed back to em with everything changed but the title, and then Congress will have to knock under for just what they had refused to do in the first place.

Schools To Receive $1 Per Capita Quota From State May 12

AUSTIN, (UP)—An apportionment of $1 per pupil, amounting to approximately $1,500,000, will be paid to public schools in Texas May 12, State Superintendent Charles N. Shaver said today. After consulting the state comptroller and treasury officials, Shaver indicated a payment of $2 per pupil would be made in July and August. Under the present $1.75 yearly per pupil apportionment, $750 remains to be paid. If the payment plan indicated by Shaver is carried out, the remaining apportionments would be carried over until after Sept. 1, 1932.

RODIER says: "I have found the perfect blue!"
WOMAN says: "I too love blue!"
ELIZABETH ARDEN says: "So do I... especially when it is worn by a woman with dark brown hair. For it permits me to color her face with Dry Viola Rouge dusted with Lysetta Powder. Viola Lipstick enhances the beauty of this combination. And with Blue Ciel Eye She-Do and Blue Mascara tipped with Black on her lashes, all the warmth of her glance is heightened. Now she is lovely!"
There is a special make-up to increase the brightness of each of your new frocks... Miss Arden has evolved it for you. Ask for this information in our Toilets Goods Department.
