Seal for Tech entry foundation

Delivery date still undetermined

Managing Editor

There is widespread disagreement among Saddle Tramps, administrators and architects as to exactly why the erection of the Tech entry fountain seal has been delayed.

Neither is anyone in authority certain as to when the seal will be erected at Broadway and University. In the meantime, the uncompleted seal remains at the Texas

Granite Corporation in Marble Falls, Texas. "I hate to be pessimistic but I'm really not sure the seal will be ready this semester," said Howard Schmidt, architect who designed the seal. "All sculpture work has been completed but we lack all of the ready by the end of the semester." lettering," Schmidt said. "The seal's base has been designed and

vs. TCU game. The public is invited.

Coach Jim Carlen will open Red Raider football

I'll meet with the Campus Planning Committee soon to decide whether the base construction will be done by university personnel or by an outside firm." The delay in construction and delivery of the seal is due to the Tech administration's hesitation to decide on the type of lettering to be used. Schmidt said.

Keith Ingram, president of Saddle Tramps, which is sponsoring the project, discussed a different reason for the delay.

"We were told originally that the seal would be ready by the A&M game but we figure that prediction was just too early," Ingram said. "So then we were told it would be ready by Homecoming. But there was a mix-up in the Tech administration about what was to go on the seal so it wasn't ready. I hope it'll be

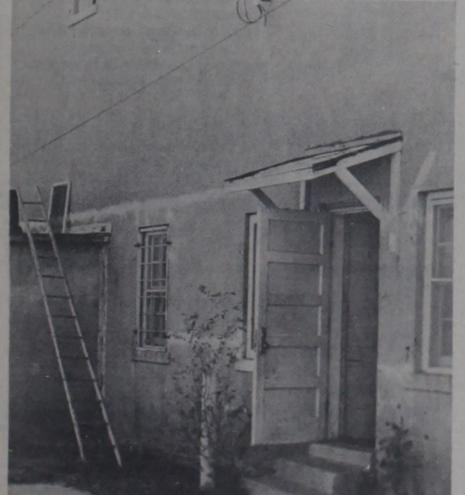

Joe Winegar, Saddle Tramp sponsor, agreed with Schmidt that the cause for the delay was the Tech administration's indecision as to the type of lettering to be used.

"We've got the ball rolling now and it should only take the Marble Falls people three weeks to complete the seal once they get started on the lettering," Winegar said. "I'm really afraid the seal's going to be ready before the base."

"The holdup has been in getting a base that is strong enough to hold the seal," said Dr. Glenn Barnett, Tech vice president. "The drawing of the original base was too small."

Plant and equipment needed would cost $6 million

Poor intramural facilities blamed on lack of funds

'Antiquated' intramural gym

Intramural director Edsel Buchanan has termed the intramural gym and facilities "antiquated and overcrowded."

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the Tech Intramural latives," he said.

By GARRY MANGUM Special Reporter

Recreation and sports activities for the Tech student body and faculty are provided by the Intramural Department (IM), on a formal and informal basis.

"Over 60 per cent of the student body is using our antiquated and over-crowded facilities," Edsel Buchanan, associate professor and director of the Tech IM program, said. The IM department shares the swimming pool, playing fields, and most other activity spaces with the Physical Education Department and Athletic Department

Buchanan said the present facilities have been in use since 1928, when the "Old Barn" was built. The building was heavily damaged in the 1970 toronado that struck Lubbock, barely missing the campus. The roof has not been replaced or repaired satisfactorily because of a lack of funds, Buchanan said. The gym floor also needs to be replaced since it has been refinished too many times, Buchanan said. "This means $15,000-plus needs to be spent fairly soon if the administration plans to continue using this building," he said.

Buchanan said the real problem has been the capital outlay for a new building. "To build the type of facility we need would cost roughly around $6 million," he said.

The IM program is currently financed by the student service fee and income from campus concession contracts. The IM department receives $1.75 from each full-time student, which amounted to $42,757 this year. The concessions income amounted to $30,000. The total income for the 1971-72 school year is $72,757.

The recreation facility fund has been set up for future construction projects the IM program might desire to begin. "This year $53,600 was alloted for future construction," Buchanan said.

Buchanan said before any plans are finalized, a thorough study should be made of other facilities on campuses of comparable size. "This could be done through some type of committee, with students, faculty and administrative represen-

Buchanan said that Dr. Owen Caskey, associate vice president for academic affairs, had indicated to him he would like to see planning for new facilities after the study. "These new facilities will include both men's and women's IM departments and physical education departments," Buchanan said.

At the present time the largest problem is the lack of space for planned intramural activities. The IM department has seven combination touch football and soccer fields, which it shares with the athletic and physical education departments. There are eight softball fields.

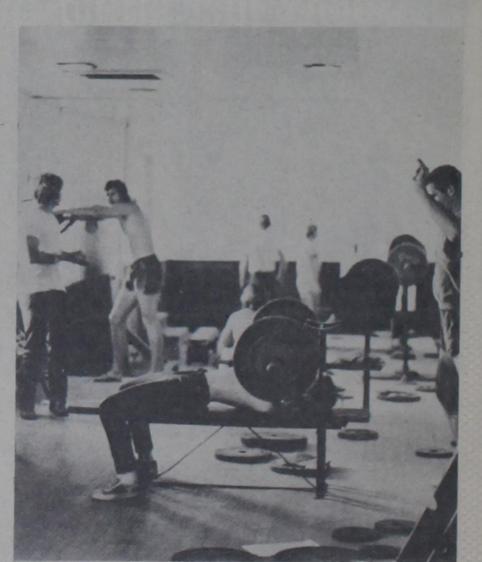

Indoor sports have the biggest space problems. "We have access to two gyms for games," Buchanan said. He said the varsity basketball team needed the men's gym for practice until around Nov. 15 each year, when they move into the coliseum. "We schedule around their practice sessions, but it is usually after 9 p.m. before we begin our games and they are usually over after midnight," he said.

The "College and University Facility Guide," developed over a period of 22 years, offers a method to measure Tech's space to a national standard for recreation and physical education facilities.

According to the national standard, indoor activity space is called type "A" space. The national standard for this indoor activity is 12 square feet per student. At Tech, the IM Gym contains 13,200 square feet. The men's gym contains 47,837 square feet, and the Women's gym contains approximately 30,000 square

This means a total of approximately 91,037 square feet for type "A" space, which provided the current student body of 21,000 with 4.5 square feet per student.

The possibilities of a faculty staff program is practically an impossibility due to the increased participation by the undergraduate students. There is a decreasing number of participants in this program. One of the prime factors is that there is no space available. "We can't start our basketball program on this level, until after the undergraduate program has ended," Buchanan said. The reason is no gymnasium space is available before that time.

Over-crowded facilities

Over-crowded conditions in this weight room are typical of those throughout the intramural gym.

The apostles have a chorus that they sing three times. In the second and third chorus, it is easy to tell that they are becoming increasingly inebriated. I will use an example from another portion of the rock opera. Those people either haven't studied the Gospel (Matthew, Shortly before the end, Judas sings, "He's a man. He's just a man. Why was Steele in Lubbock? Why, to promote yet another picture of course. CBS called him and asked him to go on a short tour promoting the picture "Something Big" in which he has a cameo role as a stage coach driver with a comedy scene. The tour has given him the opportunity to be interviewed and, something entirely new for Steele, make speeches to the drama students so-called "dead" lake for some this year—composed of three of Tenderfoot, (a folk music sisting, for the most part, of of Texas Tech. Steele describes "Something Big" as a western with a lot of comedy and action. "Of course it stars Dino (Dean Martin) and so it's a happy-go-lucky type of film. Brian Keith is a fine actor and Honor Blackman, though I hadn't met her before, is also a talented gal. The plot is not a real deep one, but the script is different ... It's suggestive in parts, but it's not in bad taste. It leaves it up to your (the audience's) intelligence. It's just real funny." Asked if there were anyone in the film industry today he would especially like to work with, Steele answered, "No. Of course, (John) Wayne and (Jimmy) Stewart have always made good westerns. But I have no desire to try to get in their

Tech's starting QB job still in the air

By JOHN RAWLINGS UD Ass't. Sports Editor

When Tech takes the field for their twenty-eighth meeting with TCU's Horned Frogs, then, and only then will the question of who will start at quarterback for the Raiders be answered.

Coach Jim Carlen, who had gone with a three quarterback system since the Texas A&M game, has not yet decided which of two healthy signal-callers will get the call. Charles Napper, the senior who had been the heart of the Tech option until a shoulder injury against SMU put him out of commission, will not start, according to Carlen.

Thus the Raider boss is left to choose between sophomore Joe Barnes and Jimmy Carmichael. This is the same decision which faced Carlen last week against Rice and he went with Barnes.

But this week's decision will be held up until game day, and it will depend on two variables. The first, and probably most important, is the way the two youngsters perform this week in practice. Carlen's other problem is deciding whether the Frogs are more susceptable to the run or the pass.

If Carlen feels that Tech can move the ball on the ground, then he will probably give the nod to Barnes. But if he feels that the airways can give the Raiders more offense, then he is more liable to go with Carmichael.

If past games are any indication of what the Frogs can do, then Carmichael may get the first starting assignment in his college career. The Frogs rank fifth in the conference against the rush yielding 185.9 yards per game. But they rank last in the conference against the pass giving up 156.6 yards a game.

"TCU and Rice are a lot alike on pass defense," Carmichael said yesterday. "They have good players across the front including their linebackers and cornerbacks. They are adequate in the deep secondary although they have a sophomore (Harold Muckleroy) starting at free safety who has been beaten deep several times this

"I think we may play a little more wide open Saturday," Barnes hinted. "We'll probably try to get outside more, and we'll probably throw more, too," he went on to say.

Barnes, who was not as well noted as a throwing quarterback as a running one, had been pegged as an erratic thrower, earlier in the season. "I think I'm throwing the ball a lot better now than I was then. I'm reading the keys better and that gives me more time to throw. Usually, the hurried pass is what gives me trouble," Barnes said in viewing his throwing.

If the nod should go to Carmichael, he will be starting after having his best game of the season. "It would have been an okay game if it hadn't been for those two interceptions," Carmichael said modestly. As it was the Brownfield sophomore hit nine completions in 17 attempts for 115 yards. For the season he is 20 of 42 for 207 yards.

Barnes who hails from Big Lake, had 22 net yards in nine carries, Saturday, against Rice. He hit on only two of seven passes, but two of the incompletions were dropped by receivers. On the yearBarnes has rushed for 114 yards on 35 carries, and has hit on 10 of 22 passes for 104 yards.

Though this year's Tech doubts that either.

Tech's overpowering front line mainstay of the attack. which has the talent and finesse to be one of the best-assembled groups around.

Tech can remember days it settled for mediocre schoolboys when it first entered the Southwest Conference. Players had the potential, but as far as ability, Tech was on the short end. But as the SWC 170 per outing. progressed, and as players became better, schools began to duel each other for the top linemen. And, boy was it a battle.

GOT, striving for a better program and gaining hellos from colleagues. Names like E.J. Holub, Phil Tucker, and Don King soon made supporters think there was a chance to climb with the rest. All were stellar offensive linemen and all made it big in the Conference.

Now, we can say we have players, and this year's frosh lineup has all the tools.

> Statistics may seem boring and not representative in some areas, but Tech has won two of three encounters on paper. Tech has rushed for 510 yards in three games, and ranks fourth in SWC standings. That's an average of

And that's what's important. Coach Carlen said, "But against Arkansas' fine freshmen we BUT LOOK WHERE TECH won the line of scrimmage both ways and this has to be a most encouraging sign. What we need in the line of great linemen out more than anything on the varsity is a bunch of good linemen. I think we have them on this freshman team."

CENTER JIM FRASURE, guards Kim Bergman and improved our status. We look to Floyd Keeney, tackles Clifford better things from better Campbell and Curtis Schrimsher are Tech's "signs" of varsity help, and they can do The offensive line, Coach Jim the job. Any one of the group Carlen said, is the most could be starting by the end of valuable part of the squad. It's spring drills if they stay loaded with strength from healthy. The big question is tackle to tackle and depth is no maturity, how soon they will Coach Stiles said, "Keeney is the best freshman group we've the finest offensive lineman I've ever had here." And no one coached since I've been here," and Stiles has seen a few, Green Book has namely Harold Lyons, Russell Ingram, Dennis Allen, Tom two Black pairs Furgerson, and Larry Peterson. All are on the varsity now.

game two weeks ago but started against Oklahoma and should be ready Nov. 11 when Tech is hosted by A&M.

GOOD GUARDS ARE SCARCE nowadays but Tech thinks they have two prizewinners. Kim Bergman, a 6-5, 215 lb. monster, plays the quick side, and Keeney, 6-3, 220 lb, the strong side.

Bergman was Mr. Everything at Port Arthur Thomas Jefferson, a school where football is like boxing is to Madison Square Garden. Kim was a twoway selection at Jefferson. Coach Stiles said, "Bergman is one of the best we've ever had there." And speed? It's too hard

Carlen says Keeney, who falls of Port Neches-Grove, "Is so quick and blocks so well, I'm going to coach him myself."

As many off-tackle plays as Tech has in the option, it's a wonder Carlen and staff didn't try to get Ralph Neely or Ron Yary when they graduated from college some years back. But Tech got two good ones in Campbell (6-2, 220) and Schrimsher (6-0, 210).

THE VARSITY WILL NEED HELP at the tackle spot following 1971. Losing starter David Browning, and Carlen will be trying to put some depth in the forward wall.

Campbell hails from Haskell, a AA school where he was quite a defensive tackle. He was All-District both ways his senior year and was named All-State defensively. Campbell's hobby is pool and to say the least he can surely play pocket protecter.

Schrimsher looks like a time. Jim is a blue-chipper from bulldozer. He's built compactly and low to the ground. Curtis is no trouble fitting into the a Monahans standout who was The 1972 volume lists Patricia starting lineup.
