Vocational Judging Begins This Morning

Plans Finished For Biggest Judging Meet At Tech

With one of Texas Tech's greatest vocational agriculture judging contests scheduled to begin this morning at 8 o'clock in the livestock judging pavilion, officials, mostly advanced agriculture students, have been named according to latest information from the office of Ray L. Chappelle, general superintendent of the contests.

One hundred thirteen three-man teams already have entered the contest, representing a total of 65 schools, and according to all available information, more are expected yet.

Supervisors of tabulations will be E. L. McBride, head of the department of Agricultural Economics, and M. B. Harrison, assistant professor of agricultural economics and farm management.

Dairy Judges Named

In the division of dairy cattle, Stewart Sewell will act as superintendent, while Floyd Heck as assistant superintendent, while Wesley Roddy, Lewis Nance, Robert Henard, Rob Holloway, Thomas Ingram, L. Y. McGehee, will act as section leaders. Official leaders will include J. L. Hemy, James Caviness, and Orba Miller. Judges in this division will include Ray C. Mowery, J. H. Baumgardner, Jack Haney, N. C. Fine, Joe Christian, J. R. Reed, J. D. Strickland, Elmot Honea, and Cleveland Littlepage.

Joe Christian, N. C. Fine, and Herman Deinken will act as judges in this division, and Tom Green, Kay Neely, and Roy Wilks will serve as clerks.

In the division of dairy products, Edwin Williams will act as superintendent, while Clayton Roach will be assistant. Section leaders in this division include Howard Strawn, Nathaniel Nelson, Wayne Mears, Rolland Defee, John L. Teague, and Moffett Ryan. Judges include K. M. Renner, M. G. Pease.

Phi Psi Officers Elected For Year

Election of officers to serve during the spring semester 1940 and fall 1941 was held by Phi Psi, national textile fraternity, Tuesday night.

Harold McDaniel, senior engineering student from Loop, was elected president.

Other officers were filled as follows: Theron Lehr, junior from Lubbock, vice-president; Guion Gregg, junior from Dallas; secretary; Ross Hendrick, senior from Hart; treasurer; George H. Allen, junior from Stratford, senior warden; and Charles Stokes, sophomore from Bonham, junior warden.

In addition to participation in presentation of the annual engineering show, Phi Psi sponsors a cotton carnival each spring in cooperation with National Cotton week.

Mrs. Allen Writes Article On Department

An article on the Tech journalism department written by Mrs. James G. Allen, journalism instructor, will appear in the spring issue of the Panhandle Publisher, magazine of the Panhandle Press association.

Clyde W. Warwick, secretary of the association, requested that the article be submitted.

Tech Engineers Will Eat Many Places March 2

Skidmore Toastmaster Of Local Banquet In Knapp Hall

In the spotlight of Tech activities Saturday night, March 2, will be the fourteenth annual engineering banquet. It will be supplemented by a score of other banquets to be held by Tech grads and exes unable to attend the banquet here, in various cities of the nation, according to Dorothy Rylander, engineering librarian.

The local banquet will be held at Knapp hall at 7-15 o'clock with Lieut. Herrol J. Skidmore as toastmaster. Speakers were chosen from each class by popular vote and consist of Wilson Chapman, senior class; Paul Redding, junior class; Bill Flynt, of the sophomores and Charles Steed, representing the freshmen.

Cash Prize Offered

All reservations are to be made this week, according to C. L. (Mike) Kelley, chairman of the program committee. A cash prize offered by Dean O. V. Adams will be awarded the individual or group selling the most tickets.

As to the other banquets to be held over the nation, Dallas has reported the greatest number of graduates in its vicinity with the number totaling 19. Definite plans for other banquets on March 2 to be held in Fort Worth, Dallas, Austin, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Houston, Chicago, New York and in California and Alabama.

To Send Telegrams

In the past it has been the tradition for all Tech engineering groups at various cities to send telegrams to the local society on "Banquet Day." This year the society is trying to arrange a reversal and send each group a telegram the day of the banquet.

Members of the local banquet committee other than Kelley are E. Dorothea Porterfield, Herschel Finney, Hugh Granbury, Paul Granbery and Paul Redding. Other details of the banquet may be found in later editions of THE TOREADOR.

Textile Graduate Of '31 Returns

Mark Wood, 1931 graduate of the textile engineering school, has returned to Tech to do research work for the government.

Since the year of his graduation, Wood's many positions have taken him all over the nation. Among his positions in the textile field have been jobs with mills in Georgia, New York and a hosiery mill in New Braunfels, Texas. He even served as assistant editor of the Textile World, a textile magazine published by the McGraw-Hill Publishing company.

Wood is now employed by the U. S. Bureau of Agriculture in its textile and clothing division. His work is a research project in which he is spinning yarn to be used in women's full-fashioned hosiery to promote the use of long staple cotton.

Politicians Plan Political Pep Rally . . .

Dean Justin Talks About Women In Today's World

"In America, women have a favored position. The changing order of ideas, ideals and institutions have given them education, the right to work and earn, the right to vote and the right to serve in high offices," Dr. Margaret Justin, dean of home economics at Kansas State Agriculture college, told coeds Friday.

Dean Justin is sectional director of the southwest American Association of University Women. This section includes the states of Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Arkansas and Texas. Her visit to the campus was sponsored by Phi U, national home economics fraternity and Women's Press club.

"Religion has, from ancient times, taught the differences in men and women . . . and that the place of women was the lower one," Dean Justin said. "In ancient to present day literature many references have been made, both favorable and unfavorable, to woman."

Years ago, women would travel many miles under hard conditions, to attend school, Dr. Justin pointed out. "Today, I find that college girls have lost the zest for schooling. Dr. Justin gave as four possible causes for this, first, increasing second, fear of seeming to have a mind, third, fear of upsetting the relationship now existing between man and woman, and fourth, a desire to avoid responsibility on the part of college women.

"Our grandmothers and mothers bridged yesterday to today. It is our duty to link today and tomorrow. Women must strengthen their sense of responsibility to their community and their obligation to society and of citizenship," Dean Justin added.

Girls Stag, Tag At SPQR Party

Leap Year dance is to be sponsored by the SPQR, Latin club, Feb. 29. The dance is to be from 8 to 10:30 o'clock in the gymnasium and the girls living in the dormitory will have 11 o'clock privileges.

The committees for the arrangements are Dorothy Nell Leonard, in charge of the specialty dances, and Earl Jacobs in to make arrangements for selection of musical numbers.

Dates 20 cents and stags 15 cents will be the admission, taken at the door by Warren Paul.

Girls will do all the tagging.

Largest Chorus Has 359 Students

A total of 359 students have enrolled in the chorus for credit, according to Julian Paul Blitz, head professor of music. This is the largest class for credit ever conducted at Tech.

There are 256 freshmen, 67 sophomores, 27 juniors and 9 seniors enrolled in the chorus. These classifications are restricted to the chorus and not the college classification of the students, as several college seniors are only freshmen in the chorus.

The chorus will be presented Tuesday, March 19 at the Lubbock high school auditorium. A new feature of this year's presentation will be the joining of the entire A and B bands of the Tech band with the chorus for the presentation. The college orchestra, as usual, will also play with the chorus at that time. The soloist will be announced later.

ENGINEER TO TALK

H. R. Stoddard, Sales Engineer of the Chicago branch of Simplex Wire and Cable Co., will make the main speech at the regular AIEE meeting Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in E152. His subject will be "Insulation."

Stock Judging Team Selected

Will Go To Ft. Worth Exposition Contest

Members of the Junior Livestock Judging team have been selected for participation in the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock show have been announced from the office of Ray C. Mowery, professor of animal husbandry. Members who will enter the contests were selected from the junior livestock judging class and will report in Fort Worth at the beginning of the show, March 9.

Team Named

Those selected for participation include: Bill Craddock, Robert Lee; Tom Green, Albany; Robert Henard, Plains; Elmot Honea, Tullia; Tom Ingram, Idalou, and Wesley Roddey, Denison.

Classes of livestock judged will include beef cattle, hogs, sheep, horses, and mules.

Judges Listed

Judges for the contest have already been selected. Robert Lazar, manager of the Wyoming Hereford ranch will judge cattle, both dairy and beef. D. S. Buchanan, manager of the Heep farms, of Austin, will judge horses and mules, with Dr. F. S. Hultz, animal husbandry head of the University of Wyoming, judging sheep; Fred Hill of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station will judge hogs.

Plans Outlined

Tech's team plans to leave March 8 by car. The department of animal husbandry is also entering 62 head of livestock in the show, which includes three hereford steers, three aberdeen-angus steers, an aberdeen-angus bull, nine pure bred and grade Percheron horses, three mules, nine Holstein-Friesian cattle, nine duroc barrows, nine Hampshire barrows, and six Poland-China barrows, three Hampshire and seven Southdown sheep. The livestock shipment will probably be three carloads.

Accounting Society Pledges To Conduct Regular Meet

Accounting society pledges will have charge of the regular monthly meeting which will be held Monday at 7:15 p.m. in 210 of the administration building, announced A. J. Thompson, president of the society. Plans are being made by the thirty pledges to have a motion picture and present a scandal sheet on the members.

To be eligible for membership, one must have completed eight hours of introductory accounting with a B average and maintain a C average in courses of advanced accounting. Thirty students were initiated at a called meeting Monday night.

AN OPEN LETTER—

Gentlemen Of The Press:

To the sports writers of New York newspapers: Remember the New Mexico Aggies basketball team? The unknown squad out of the Southwest that almost ran your crack Eastern and Far Western boys to death in the Metropolitan Basketball Writer's Invitation last season?

You do? Well, gentlemen, down here in the Southwest we've got another rip-roaring, hell-raising team like that this year: The Red Raiders of Texas Tech, the Scarlet Scourge of the Southwest.

That quintet is rain' for a chance to do a little scourging on Long Island, Oregon or any other team bold enough to step in the way. They are ready, willing and we think able to do the job.

Maybe we are a bit over-enthusiastic, but after watching our boys crack down on the Phillips Flyers last week we think it impossible to exaggerate.

Ever hear of the Phillips Flyers, gentlemen? That's the team that won the Missouri Valley AAU title this year, and maybe you know that league is the fastest amateur league on the continent. The team is made of former all-conference greats from the Southwest and Big Six teams of the last four years.

They had quite a time of it, but our boys beat that bunch.

Parade, Music Precede Talks By Politicians

Candidates Decide That All Placards And Signs Will Be Left At Home

By RUTH HENRY

A "political pep rally," first of its kind in the history of Tech, will be held Wednesday, Feb. 28, it was decided at a meeting of the candidates for student publications positions Thursday night. Featured on the unique program will be the Matador band, a parade and short political speeches by each candidate.

The parade will start in front of the museum at 6:45 p.m. and will be headed by the band with students falling in line as the group marches by the men's dormitories, down the avenue and by the women's dormitory on the way to the gymnasium for the mass meeting. "Matador Song" will open the program at 7:30 o'clock which will be broadcast over KFYO from the gymnasium.

Allows No Signs

By consent of the candidates it was decided that no personal placards or signs of any type would be displayed during the parade or rally. All candidates felt that that might give an unfair advantage to some.

Before this there has been no means by which students could meet candidates and have a chance to hear all of them speak. As a result of this mass meeting it is hoped that a greater per cent of students will take part in the elections than has been previously done. It is the belief of the candidates that success of this meeting will be a great stepping stone in the democratic progress of Tech.

Candidates Ask

Candidates have asked the student council to take charge of the rally and parade. Lee Byrd, student president, will introduce the candidates before their speeches, which will have a short time limit. For fairness to each candidate.

Pre-Meds To Take Convention Trip

That the Alpha Epsilon Delta will sponsor its annual banquet and dance for all pre-med students in April was one of the decisions made at a general pre-med meeting this week.

All members of the fraternity and several other pre-meds made plans to attend the Texas Pre-Med Convention at Austin, March 8, returning via the University of Texas Medical school at Galveston and Baylor Medical school in Dallas.

Members of the fraternity to make the trip are George Bain, L. M. Flanary, L. M. Keith, Tom Prioleaux, Anna Lee Fisher, Vernon Edgar, John Chalk, Harold Coggburn and James Graham.

Bearded Bums Get Bums Rush From Raiders

When a home crowd starts cheering the visiting team scores, a game must be mighty one-sided, and that's what happened in Texas Tech's cage final Thursday night against the Bearded Bums from House of David.

Aside from posting themselves a new all-time scoring high of 80-33, the Red Raiders glorified themselves little by plastering the Whiskered What-nots.

But the massacre gave a pleasing preview of what the 1941 quintet might resemble. In little Leo Patterson stunted scarlet sure-shot, fans may expect one of the nearest one-handed goal artists ever to play for Huffman's hoopmen.

In J. B. White, the Raiders of '41 will have the ideal guard, and in big Jake Geron, a dangerous field goal artist who can hit the basket with a pea-shooter at 50 paces.

Only three times did Tech's first string quintet start down the floor during that last half without scoring. They ran up 13 tallies in the second canto before the Davids even scratched again.

C'mon Students - Vote ...

EVERY candidate has a platform which he has presented many times before various campus clubs, and except in one respect every candidate's platform varies from that of his opponents. Every candidate has made it part of his campaign to ask every undergraduate student to vote regardless of whom he intends to vote for.

Candidates have several reasons for asking students to vote, and surprising as it may seem, this part of their campaign is almost entirely unselfish. Their first reason seems to be their desire to see Tech as an ideal or model democratic institution with a large percentage of eligible citizens voting. Also they recognize how much each of these jobs should mean to every Tech student. They realize that men elected in the coming elections will be paid out of the students' pockets and that they will be responsible for the continuance or breaking of good will among Lubbock and West Texas people and merchants. They also realize that officers elected may bring added publicity to Tech.

Those candidates who are elected would like to know that they had been hired by a majority of Tech students. Likewise losing candidates hate to feel that they have been defeated by a minority of the students when a majority might have hired them.

Besides being an improvement to Tech and Tech politics, a vote by a really large majority of students would furnish bits of much needed publicity for the school in large newspapers over the nation.

Ballot boxes supervised by members of the student council will be placed at a central point in each division of the college. Enrollment as an undergraduate in the division will be the prerequisite to voting. The secret ballot is used so that no one knows whom you are voting for. So, regardless of your classification, look over each candidate, and they by all means cast your vote.

Save Those 'Boos' ...

LACK of ability might not have contributed so much to the defeat of the Phillips Flyers basketball team Saturday night. The Tech team, ably and effectively supported by an audience which "booed" and "hooted" the Phillips players, made quite a showing. For the team there is nothing but praise, and for the audience nothing but condemnation for an evening of un-sportsmanlike, ungentlemanly conduct.

When a Phillips' player scored a basket, he got nothing for his trouble but cat-calls. When a foul was called upon a Tech player, the referee was appropriately chastised with invectives ranging from innocent jibes to a questionable summary of the worthy man's character. As far as spectators were concerned, Phillips' was unfair, arrogant, rough, incompetent, and should be hanged to the rafters.

Few teams can do their best under such adverse conditions. The Phillips' team was a guest of Texas Tech, the organization is highly respected all over the United States for its ability and sportsmanship, and it is regrettable that it observed the ethics of Mr. George College Man on this campus. Not only do students do themselves an injustice, but such incidents have a habit of traveling around the country, prejudicing other teams who strive to play good, clean, sportsmanlike basketball without having to take into consideration a couple of thousand spectators "fouling" them from the bleachers.

Some referees have made a practice of allowing players free throws at the basket when an audience interferes with the game. In high school, it is not unusual for a player who has been fouled and subsequently "hooted" off the floor as a result, to be given one, two or more throws at the basket until the nuisance has abated. That practice in Tech gymnasium would unquestionably eliminate the evil.

Such conduct springs from no desire to help the home team, it puts it in a poor light, it interferes with the play of the visitors, and every student who participated in the side-line play Saturday night should be genuinely ashamed of his actions.

Home Economics Is Active ...

NOT the largest division ... but a wide-awake one ... These words might be used to describe the home economics division.

In support of this conclusion, the work being done by Miss Jonnie McCrery and some of the nutrition classes in experiments in basal metabolism may be noted.

Interesting, practical and forward-looking work is being done in the fields of weaving, art, education and designing every day.

New courses are being added from time to time. This semester an art appreciation course was offered to both home economics and arts and sciences students. Last semester a journalism course was offered in co-operation with the journalism department. This course was designed to give the home economics student a fundamental knowledge of basic newspaper writing style and rules.

In no other division is interest keener. The home economics club has a huge membership with members in all departments actively interested and working. Through the efforts of Phi U, national honorary fraternity, and the club, many worthwhile programs are planned and made available to students. A loan fund sale and distribution of clothing to needy children at Christmas time is traditional.

A seminar program open to all seniors features noteworthy speakers such as Mrs. J. L. Morris, former president of the Texas Home Demonstration association and a Texas representative to the London conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

Recent authorities to visit on the campus were Miss Ruth Huey, state director of vocational homemaking, and Dr. Margaret Justin, dean of home economics at the Kansas State Agriculture college. Dean Justin, a noted woman, spoke to women students on the campus. Her Herald Explains ...

NO ONE issue of the Toreador can be fully representative of what a candidate will do if he is elected. Each of us is under several disadvantages which we would probably be able to eliminate early next fall. It is hoped that you will inspect this and each of my opponent's issues with that in mind.

General appearance of each page should be fairly representative of what each candidate hopes to make of them next year, but it is wrong to assume that general contents of each page are exactly what a candidate would emphasize if elected. Whatever organizations or groups have made news before that issue are going to appear to be emphasized.

Emphasis of certain groups in this issue will no doubt be criticized by a few, but the intelligent will realize that actually these are the groups that made news this week. While associate editor last fall, the editor of this issue emphasized numerous other groups when they made news.

If today's editor had any delusions as to his ability as a columnist, he would have filled a column with his particular brand of bull. But, he realized long ago that his talents did not run in that direction, so in this issue he asked the editor-in-chief to batter out his regular column. Although his opinions differ with those of the regular editor, he is printing them because he feels that they may be the opinions of many.

A Tradition Is Born ...

CANDIDATES for the various publications offices in a meeting Thursday night completed arrangements for the first political rally ever to be held at Tech.

Every effort is being made by the candidates to make this something which will eventually become a tradition at Tech. They are cooperating for the betterment of Tech by each contributing equally financially and taking an active interest in seeing that the first rally goes over as it should.

Because the average student seems allergic to the word "convocation," it is being called a political rally or mass meeting. The Tech band has volunteered a unit to provide music for the occasion.

If the large mass of Tech students and townspeople receive this idea with the enthusiasm which a few have already voiced, in all probability a political rally each spring will be added to the slowly growing list of Tech traditions.

Is It Reform Or Revolt?

My poem, "The Iron Regime," has met with a storm of criticism. It was first published in the McMurry College "War Whoop" of Abilene.

Miss Julia Luker, head of the English department of McMurry college, read it over the Abilene broadcasting station and it was severely criticized by local ministers.

The poem was a prizewinner in a Texas Interscholastic Press association contest.

President Thomas L. Brabham of McMurry College termed it as a direct revolt against our whole social order; while S. W. Adams, of Austin, former editor of the Gladewater Journal, published it and heralded it as a poem of social reform.

—Mary Latch

The Iron Regime

My spirit burns to tell you! And yet, you must not know; For bound by conventionality I stare madly at the glow That would fill my hungry heart And calm my troubled soul.

While bound to this iron regime, To hide my soul I must wear An assumed morality, While my spirit burns and years For a freedom, just beyond The bands of this iron regime.

Contacts Finns—Plays With Candidates' Names—Points Out Campus Jealousies

Came the big show, and one campus editor was roused from his rendezvous with Morpheus at 2 o'clock in the morning to receive the startling news that a Finnish ski patrol had just passed 22d street headed East. No Russian tanks were reported in this sector, but careful survey of outdoor advertising revealed that they must have spent considerable time in Lubbock—what with all the "Help the Finnish Relief Fund" signs. Those Finns really work fast and furious—even the Chamber of Commerce failed to get them out to a dinner.

The Pre-Law club, in an attempt to bring before the student body all candidates for publications office, has proposed a convocation where students could become more intimately acquainted with those who hope to feed from the student body pocketbook next year. That was fine with the candidates, until old prejudices broke forth. "Why," they reasoned, "should the Pre-Law club get credit for this democratic move which bids fair to become a Tech tradition?" Whereupon, it was decided that the convocation would "just be held" with no sponsorship.

Which is very good with the young lawyers, who seek only to better a political condition which has been far from good.

What irks is that, no matter what group proposes some desirable innovation, there is always some help in seeing that the inventor of an idea gets no credit for the move.

This jealousy, which is not confined to any department, is a typical Tech trait. "Let us play or we'll get our marbles and go

MARY LATCH INTERVIEWS AND

Lubbock Literary Authorities Express Opinions On Steinbeck's "Obscene" "Grapes Of Wrath"

Expressing opinions freely on Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath," Lubbock literary heads gave their impressions as sentiment reaches new heights with the banning of the book from use in a neighboring county library.

"Obscene language" was the reason advanced by the Winkler county commissioner's board, headed by C. D. McCargo, for the removal of the book from the Kermit county library.

Constant agitation has accompanied growing popularity of 1939's best seller, "Grapes of Wrath," and near riots have developed from Darryl F. Zanuck's filming of the book, for which he paid $70,000 for movie rights and had Hollywood producers call him crazy. More than 210,000 copies of the book have been sold without the aid of book clubs, reveals December, 1939 Publisher's Weekly. Statistics from Viking Press, publishers of "Grapes of Wrath," show that the book is selling at the rate of 10,000 copies per week. "There has been little agitation in Lubbock county," said Mrs. J. A. Humphries, county librarian. "I have received a few calls asking that the book be removed from the library, yet I have eight copies of the book and nearly 100 persons are on the waiting list. Only a few elderly people and none of the younger generation have expressed sentiment against the book. It is written in the language of the time in which we live."

"A people who will not heed such drastic social condition as Steinbeck presents in 'Grapes of Wrath' may as well stick their heads in the sand," quotes the Rev. D. F. West, associate pastor of the First Christian church. "I have lived in Salinas county, California, and know that the conditions Steinbeck depicts there are not exaggerated."

Dr. O. A. Kinchen, professor of history at Tech said, "I think the book may well be considered a social novel depicting the farmer as dispossessed by the industrial age." "I do not think the book advisable reading material for adolescents; however, I do think all college students and adults should read the book," advised Prof. Cecil Horne, head of the journalism department.

"I would like my children to read the book," said Mrs. Miriam

Blake, mother of seven children and book reviewer on KFYO Monday night broadcasts. "I think that even children should be taught to face present social evils."

President Roosevelt in a recent speech on child welfare stated, "I was deeply impressed with Steinbeck's 'Grapes of Wrath,' and even went so far as to suggest some solution to the problem, perhaps the setting aside of tracts of land in the states of Oregon and Washington that could be purchased and colonized by dispossessed farmers with government aid."

Thus far the interviewer has been unable to contact any person in Lubbock who is willing to be quoted in direct attack on the book although several persons have expressed dislike for language used by Steinbeck. Judges E. L. Pitts and J. J. Dillard of the Lubbock county commissioner's board said that they have received no requests for removal of the book from the Lubbock county library.

Raiders Invade Border City

Men In Red Slap Hairy Beauties

Capacity Crowd Sees Disappointing Show

They call themselves House of David and they grow long whiskers, but let no one tell you they can play basketball!

Berl Huffman's Red Raiders opened a two-night stand against the Bearded Boys in the gymnasium Wednesday by dishing out a convincing 68 to 26 trouncing.

Largest crowd in Tech's basketball history jammed the gym to the rafters was disappointed by the Davids' complete inability to play any sort of competitive basketball.

Comedy Falls Flat Also disappointing was the failure of the advertised comedy antics of the Benton Harbor, Mich. boys. They were supposed to be funny and they were supposed to be good; actually they were neither.

But to get down to the matter of the ball game, Tech started scoring right after the tipoff when Bob Percival hit a long one from the right corner and didn't let up until the scoreboard said 48-26. Bauman Roper led the hoop-mangling parade with 15 points, Marshall Brown followed with an even dozen, Percival counted 10. Every one of the ten men who played helped out with the scoring.

The Davids were worse defensively than offensively, if possible. The Techs shot when and where they pleased. Had they been half as accurate with their shots as they were against the Phillips five, the score would have mounted well over 100 points.

Nobody Fouls Out The personal foul rule was suspended for the night, because the Davids had no substitutes, and the visitors took good advantage thereof. Mitchell registered seven fouls, Hamilton five, Steinecke four. No Tech man exceeded the legal limit of three.

The Raiders, having closed their home schedule with Thursday night's game, go to El Paso where Monday they will open firing the Southwestern invitational tourney. That affair completes their regularly scheduled season, but it is considered possible they might participate in some post-season game or games.

District Cage Tourney Ends

Survivors of two gruelling elimination rounds, four schoolboy cage teams get down to the serious business of selecting a District 3 champion this morning and tonight.

Semifinal game in the upper bracket opens at 9 o'clock this morning, with the lower bracket game following an hour later.

Championship clash is slated for 8 o'clock tonight.

From 16 to 4 First round and quarterfinal games that reduced 16 contestants to the four remaining in the chase were played yesterday.

Pretournament speculation had established Lubbock's Westerners, defending champs, Idalou Wildcats, Abernathy Antelopes, Meadow, Littlefield Wildcats and Lammeas Tornados as favorites in the tourney.

Luck of the bracket draw put these six together in the first round, Abernathy meeting Meadow, Littlefield playing Lubbock and Idalou battling Lammeas.

Winner To Canyon Jack Hackler, Abernathy; Ross Ayers, Lubbock; and Leo Jackson, Taboka are officials for the tournament, two to work each game.

Winner of tonight's final clash will play in the regional meet at Canyon next weekend. Regional champions compete in the state tournament at Austin.

THE OFFICIALS NAMED Mary Katherine Gunter and Hazel Ann Wilson have been named manager and assistant manager of the home economics Open House. Dates have been tentatively set for April 12 and 13.

They Wait In Vain

for the ball swished neatly through the net for 2 points that tied the Tech-Phillips game last Saturday at 35-all. The game was a minute from gone, Tech was trailing 33-35 when J. B. White let this one fly from beyond the goal line. That tied the game and seconds later White counted again for the winning points. In the picture are Bauman Roper (13), Tech center, Curly Risinger (18), Tech guard, and standing directly under the basket, Don Lockhard of Phillips.

Gentlemen Of The Press—

Phillips led 23-11 at the half, and was still ahead, 35-20 with five minutes to play.

Then, gentlemen, all hell and J. B. White broke loose. We've rarely seen a team so outclassed as was Tech in the first 35 minutes of that ball game. Phillips was taller by 5 inches to the man, more experienced by a couple of years each.

But when Tech got going, Phillips just didn't have a chance. They never were free; Tech was hounding them all the time.

And in that last five minutes, gentlemen, Tech counted 18 times and held Phillips to one lone point. That would be sensational against any sort of competition, and if you remember, they were playing what is undoubtedly one of the best teams in the country.

You can't beat fight, spirit and verve like our Raiders have, and we double-dare you to try!

How about letting us play in your tournament, huh? Yours truly, 3700 students of Texas Tech

AWS Dance Set For Wednesday

All-girls' dance, sponsored by the Association of Women Students will be held in the dining room of the Women's dormitory Wednesday, Feb. 28, 8 to 10 o'clock p. m. Ned Bradley's orchestra will play for the dance, which is a semi-annual affair.

Nominations for next year's president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of AWS will be introduced. Committee to select nominees consists of Pauline Buchenau, chairman, Mary Eleanor Diggs and Miretta Holloway. Election will be March 7. The constitution was revised by a committee consisting of Nettie Bell Batton, Alma Rhea Eades and Ernestine Story. It was decided that the secretary-treasurer position will be given two girls next year in order to cope with the work which is necessary since the AWS National convention will be held in Lubbock. National convention this year will be held in Iowa City, Iowa.

In charge of the preparations for the dance are Betsy Dan Bihl, Nina Rose Webb and Florence Stone. Ernestine Story is head of the publicity committee.

Tech May Play In Oklahoma After El Paso Tournament

By JOE PIERCE Toreador Sports Writer

Berl Huffman's rampaging Red Raider cagers have 27 games behind them, 21 victories down the hatch.

No one knows just how many games or victories are ahead of them, but one thing is certain: if they are beaten at all, they will lose but one more game this season.

They enter the Southwestern Invitation tourney at El Paso, starting Monday and winding up Thursday. One defeat means quits for the season, four victories will mean a tournament crown to add to the trophy case.

Sixteen crack teams are entered in the affair, which is sponsored by the Sun Bowl athletic association. Among them are West Texas State Teachers, claiming the "tallest basketball team in the world"; Warrensburg, Mo. Mules, defending champions and defending Southwestern Intercollegiate champions; Peru, Neb. Teachers, usually one of the toughest fives in the country.

Tech met Warrensburg once before this season, in the Oklahoma City tournament; Tech won, 32-30, thus entering the finals. Oklahoma Aggies edged out the Raiders for the tourney title.

Tech has been invited to play in Oklahoma City March 5; their opposition would be the 89ers of the Missouri Valley AAU league. Proceeds for the game would go to the Finnish relief fund.

Athletic council must approve the game before Tech could participate. Official action has not yet been taken, but one member of the council told a Toreador reporter he was personally in favor of the trip. However, Coach Berl Huffman seemed to think the game would not be approved.

In any case, local fans have seen their last of five Tech cagers who wound up their home careers against House of David. Robert Percival, Curly Risinger, Marshall Brown, Bauman Roper and T. L. Gilley finish their eligibility this season.

State Director Talks To Coeds

"Co-ordination of Agencies and Organizations in the State" was the subject of a talk given by Miss Ruth Huey to the home economics seminar class Thursday.

Miss Huey is the state director of vocational homemaking in high schools. She has been visiting in Lubbock, surrounding towns and on the campus this week.

Homemaking teachers of Lubbock county and students in the home management house on the campus have entertained Miss Huey with a dinner and buffet supper this week.

While here, Miss Huey has had conferences with home economics faculties of both high schools and Tech, and with students in the home economics division.

WAA Makes Plans For Dance To Be Held Soon

WAA president, Eula Embry, appointed committees at the regular meeting Tuesday to complete plans for a dance.

General arrangement committee will be composed of Barbara Binford, Inez Ritter, Jimmie McDonald and Nancy Binford. Program plans will be made by Bobbie Cox, Irene Read and Dinky Holmbeck.

In charge of the refreshments will be Grace Scott, Marilyn Riggs and Melba Riek.

APO Sponsors Big Jamboree; 52 Events Listed

More Than Thousand Students Likely To Enter Competition

Who is the champion athlete of Texas Tech, barring members of varsity teams in inter-collegiate sports?

That question will be answered Saturday, May 11, when students compete in Sports Day. The athletic jamboree, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, campus service fraternity, was approved by the Athletic council in a meeting this week.

Fifty-two events, ranging from standard track and field contests to comedy competition such as potato and rabbit races, comprise the day's program. Events are divided into four classes, and candidates for the champion title must compete in a specified number of events in each division.

Events Listed

Group A consists of 10 events, to be eligible for the championship, candidates must compete in at least one. Listed in this division are bowling, golf, archery, ping pong, tennis, fencing, boxing and wrestling.

Pick Four From Here

Special field events, 13 of them, are in Group C. Competition in four events of this group is required of competitors for the all-round title. Listed in this division are baseball throw for distance, baseball throw for accuracy, basketball throw for distance, basketball throw for accuracy, football throw for distance, football throw for accuracy, football kick for distance, football kick for accuracy, backward jump, chinning the bar, rope climbing, standing broad jump and standing high jump.

Comedy Competition is Provided in Group D. Each competitor must enter four of these events, which will be assigned to him.

Choice of events is given in each group. Scheduled for this division are Indian hand wrestle, Indian leg wrestle, one-legged race, three-legged race, rabbit race, tumbling race, backward race, potato race, sack race, wheelbarrow race, horse and rider race, leap frog race, cock fighting, high kick contest, horseshoes and washers.

Merchants Cooperate

More than half a hundred prizes will be offered to winning contestants in the day-long jamboree. Lubbock merchants are cooperating in furnishing prizes.

Grand prize will be awarded to the champion athlete as determined by a point system. Runnerup will receive a similar award, and

Calamity Calhoun Completes Career; Cawthon Chagrined

By BILL WOOD Toreador Sports Writer

You'll find a lot of nick-names tacked on football players here and there, but perhaps the most aptly-expressed monicker in the business was aimed at Charles "Calamity" Calhoun, Texas Tech's rollicking dynamite driver of 1937-38-39.

For Charley Calhoun, fullback, spelled just that to Tech opponents. He was one of the reasons they tacked the word "Raider" on Red. When Charley hit a line running full speed, it bent like a cross-cut saw in redwood.

Calhoun was always ready; he was dependable. Kicking was his long suit, and when the Men in Red were in a tight spot, they called on Charley to pull them out.

Although he might have been cold—just off the bench—the lanky Lubbock boy never failed in a pinch. His end-zone punting work staved off innumerable touchdowns by three years of Red Raider opponents. Although some of his punts were stopped, Charley Calhoun never had a punt blocked inside his 20-yard line.

When Texas Tech was in direct need of a fullback—the season of 1937—it was Charley "Calamity" Calhoun, a sophomore, who took over the post vacated by Frank Guzik's transfer to center.

Against the might Duquesne Dukes, with Tech clinging tenaciously to a slender six point lead midway of the third quarter, the Red Raiders needed five yards for a first down on the Duquesne three.

Bobby Holmes made two, then Barnett picked up two more. It was fourth down and still one to go. They gave the ball to Calamity.

champion chump will draw a consolation prize.

Team Prize Offered Also on the award list is a prize for the champion four-man team. Any campus organization is eligible to enter a squad.

All are eligible to enter the contest except members of the varsity football, basketball, track, tennis, or golf teams. Members of those squads will serve as officials in the contests.

More than a thousand students are expected to enter the contests, Argo Peek, president of APO said.

COED'S CORNER SAYS:

If Your Birthday Is Soon, Neptune Rules Your Fate

By MARY BETH

If your birthday is today, or if it is on any day from now until March 20, the stars say you are definitely a romanticist. Starry-eyed, moody, and impractical as a Victorian heroine, you are ruled by the planet of illusion, Neptune. Your clothes should be ethereal, rather will of the wispy, for you are best in clouds of chiffon, veiled hats and draped lines. Pearls and moonstones are your gems, and sea greens and aqua blues your best colors.

From the southwest portion of the United States, to India, to Lubbock to New York City was the route taken by subject material of a photo micrograph submitted to the Third Scholastic Salon of Photography by Walter Studhalter. Now it has been judged the best photograph in the senior scientific class.

A slide of the one-leaf pine which is a pure American species growing only in the southwest area of the United States was made by Dr. P. Marashwari, an Indian botanist, and sent to Dr. R. A. Studhalter as a gift. Photographing the slide through a microscope, Walter sent the picture to the photography salon conducted by the American Institute of the City of New York which opened Feb. 17.

Unless the pine was imported or grown under artificial circumstances its presence in India cannot be accounted for, Dr. Studhalter said.

This selection was made from 378 prints submitted from all over the country.

In Which Tech's "Y" Will Valiantly Try To Make You Buy

Kenny Baker sings and plays for Jean Collins in "The Mikado," coming to the Tech Theater under the sponsorship of the YM-YWCA, Feb. 26 and 27. "Y" student and faculty tickets are selling for 20 cents in the "Y" office. If purchased at the box office, tickets will be 35 cents and student reduction tickets will not be accepted.

The picture, directed by Victor Schertzinger, includes a cast composed of John Barclay in the title role, Elizabeth Paynter, Kathleen Taylor, Martyn Green, Sydney Granville, Gregory Stroud and Constance Willis. Recording is by the London Symphony Orchestra and the Chorus of the D'Oyly Carte Opera company.

"The Mikado" is said to have been the result of the first quarrel between the partners of one of the most famous of writing teams. Both men wrote at night. Gilbert scribbled his lines sitting in a leather chair with a parrot on his shoulder and Sullivan wrote many of his hit tunes at gay parties. Sullivan, writer of the world's most romantic songs, loved an American woman who inspired much of his music, but did not return his love.

Judge Hamlin Gives Rare Book

"The Extant Works of Livy's Histories of Ancient Rome," edited by Johann Friedrich Gronovius and published by the Elzevir Press in 1678, was given to Mrs. William Dings, foreign language professor, by Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell.

Judge Hamlin presented the Latin club with a rare edition of the complete works of Tacitus last spring. He is one of the best known lawyers in Texas and is in charge of the legal business of XIT ranch. Judge Hamlin's hobby is collecting rare classics and he is very interested in the work Tech is doing in the field of classics. He gave the book to Mrs. Dings recently as a result from a radio address she gave on "Is Latin A Dead Language?"

There is no other book in the Tech library published by the Elzevir Press. This publishing house was in Amsterdam from 1592 to 1681 and was the most popular in Europe. It was known for publishing beautiful pocket size editions of classics.

On the frontpiece of the book the title, "Titii Livii Historiarum Quod Extat," is engraved. There are 788 edged pages in the book which has a light brown leather back.

Judge Hamlin wrote on the box in which the book was sent a note as follows: "In token of friendship and an expression of appreciation of the fine work you are doing in upholding the torch of classical learning." Mrs. Dings said she was very proud of the rare book and has expressed her appreciation to Judge Hamlin for his continued interest in Tech.
