Administrators say Senate acts illegal

By BETSY JARMON
Special Reporter

Tech administrators said Tuesday they believe allocations of money for the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association (TISA) and the University of Texas legal aid program passed Thursday are illegal.

Attorney Carlton Dodson, Tech resident counsel, said the Texas Constitution forbids the allocation of public money for private use.

Dodson compared allocation of funds to TISA, a private corporation, to giving state money to Hemphill-Wells department store.

The Texas Intercollegiate Student Association Funding Act, written by Education Senator Bruce Barrick, appropriated $500 from the Student Association (SA) legal program budget to TISA.

According to the act, "this organization (TISA) is in financial ruin and can not continue to operate for another five months unless immediate funds are made available."

Tech is a member of TISA, as are other state-supported colleges and universities in Texas.

Each year Tech pays $110 to $120 dues to TISA, according to its enrollment for that year, said SA Atty. Gen. Houghton Whithead.

TISA lobbies for Texas college students in the Texas legislature. It claims as one of its accomplishments the 18-year-old vote in Texas.

"The TISA, Inc. is the representative body for the large universities in Texas, and . . . an integral part of the communications between universities in Texas," the act states.

The UTA Legal Aid Endorsement Act was written by Business Administration Senator Bob Craig.

This bill allocated $250 from the SA legal aid budget to help the University of Texas (UT) defend its student legal aid program in court.

Nixon-Chou discussions last longer than expected

PEKING (AP) — President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai apparently have plunged into the heart discussions to soan the gulf left by 22 years of hostility.

Nixon said before he arrived that he expected his meetings with Chou would last two hours, but Tuesday's session went on for almost four. Only their close advisers were present.

The Chinese left little doubt they attach great importance to Nixon's mission. On Monday, he met unexpectedly with the usually remote Mao Tse-tung. Then the Chinese press broke its silence on Nixon's visit and splashed the story with pictures of Nixon with Mao and Chou.

And Tuesday evening, Chiang Ching, wife of Mao, with Chou and his wife, took the Nixons to a ballet with a revolutionary theme. Chiang Ching, firebrand of the cultural revolution in the late 1960s, sat at Nixon's left. On his right was Chou, who has expressed hope that the presidential visit could lead to normalization of relations between their nations.

On Monday, Nixon and Chou held a largely ceremonial meeting in the Great Hall of the People. Tuesday the meeting room was small. Chou and Nixon faced each other across a rectangular table only a few feet wide.

Nixon was accompanied only by a translator and Henry A. Kissinger, presidential adviser on national security. Secretary of State William P. Rogers held a separate conference with China's foreign "Future student legal representation throughout the state of Texas is contingent upon the outcome of this issue," said the act.

Part of the legal question hinges on whether the student services fee is student money or state money.

Owen Caskey, Tech associate vice president for academic affairs, said, "They (the Senate) still believe this is student money like it was collected by passing a hat."

Caskey explained that allocation of the student services fees, which provides funds for the SA as well as other Tech organizations and services, is controlled by the Board of Regents as all fees are.

Caskey said receipts from the student services fee is state money, and allocation of the fee must be governed by state law.

In a conversation with Caskey, SA President Bill Scott discussed methods to grant the money to TISA and the UT legal aid program.

However, Caskey said none of them would be practicable.

Leo Ellis, Tech comptroller, said he has written TISA and the UT legal aid program asking return of the checks.

Ellis said his office had not cleared the checks because they "had been written without proper authority."

A new policy requires all campus organizations to present two signatures on check vouchers—that of an authorized organization member and the faculty sponsor.

Caskey said he often signs SA checks as the faculty sponsor, but since he was out of town at the end of last week, his secretary had signed the checks for him (adding her initials).

Scott said in view of the SA's inability to allocate the funds to TISA and the UT legal program, the SA has three alternatives—to forget the matter, to take it to court or to abolish student government.

Political candidates campaign in Hub

GOP candidate cites corruption

By JIM BUSBY
Special Reporter

Dave Reagan, a GOP gubernatorial candidate who calls himself a "forward-looking conservative," said broad reform will be a basic issue in the upcoming governor's race. He added, "The key to getting rid of corruption is to change the (the present governmental) system."

Reagan discussed his views in a UD interview Tuesday.

Describing a "leadership void" and the need for change in state government, Reagan said the Texas Legislature has no real power. Texas presently has, Reagan said, a plebiscite form of government in which the Legislature presents legislation to the people. The people usually vote against change because they are afraid it will cost them more, he said.

Reagan said the governor of Texas has less power than any other governor in the United States. The lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house have much more power than the governor, he said.

Reagan cited the Legislature's Conference Committee as an example of the need for rules reform. The Conference Committee, he said, can unreasonably alter legislation to be reconsidered by the Legislature. Reagan said he would veto legislation changed by the Conference Committee. "I would try to enforce rules reform through (use of) the veto."

An "extensive revision" of the Texas constitution, Reagan said, would be the way to change the governmental system. Reagan said he favors the Legislature acting as a constitutional convention but said a "specially elected constituent commission" would be the ideal means for revising the constitution.

Reagan said he will provide, if elected, leadership for a special constitutional convention if other provisions are not made.

The biggest reforms, Reagan said, will be the implementation of the two-party system in Texas and the open primary. Legislative districts have been drawn to discriminate against Mexican-Americans, Blacks and Republicans, and redistricting will be the "biggest shot in the arm" for the two-party system, he said.

Further stressing the need for change in state government, Reagan said the trend is toward the "citizen politician," a private citizen with a fresh perspective and desire to serve. "We've got to have a psychological breakthrough in Austin, and it is going to take someone with a fresh outlook," he said.

Concerning state taxes, Reagan said the present system of taxation is sufficient. "New tax revenue will not be needed in the foreseeable future. I don't think we're in that big a financial crisis," he said. By economizing in the operation of state government, Reagan said, most of the state's financial problems can be eliminated.

Reagan, who has a Ph.D. in government, has been an Austin College government professor and a Fulbright Visiting Lecturer in International Law and Politics at the University of the Philippines in Manila. He is presently Director of Freshman Programs at Austin College.

Reagan said he favors the appointment of a student and professor to the boards of regents of state colleges and universities.

Asked to comment on present drug laws, Reagan said he favors reducing the penalty for first offense marijuana possession to a misdemeanor. Pushers, he said, should be prosecuted vigorously. Reagan said he supports a "hard-nosed approach" to hard drug control, but said drug education should be intensified.

Reagan said his views concerning some form of legalized abortion are "rather mixed" since both sides have good arguments. However, he said he could not—due to religious and social beliefs—actively support legalized abortion. "If the Legislature approved abortion laws, I don't know what I would do," he said. A decision to sign a legalized abortion bill would depend upon the wishes of the people of the state, he said. Reagan, a member of the Church of Christ, said legalized abortion might lessen the regard for life.

Barnes 'Special' visits Lubbock

By CASS RAY
Managing Editor

Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes, Democratic candidate for governor, Tuesday told a group of about 400 Tech students and Lubbock area residents he considers Tech "one of the greater four-year universities of our nation."

"I am very proud of the progress Tech has made while I have served the citizens of Texas," Barnes said. "If I am elected, I will see to it that Texas continues on its road to higher education."

"Texas education is going to have no better friend than Ben Barnes," he said.

Barnes' fifteen minute address was part of a thirty minute campaign stop at Lubbock's Santa Fe Depot. Barnes' "Victory Special" whistle-stop train will make campaign stops in 30 Texas towns and cities before the journey's climax at a rally in Houston Thursday. The train began its journey early Tuesday in Amarillo.

Dallas Cowboy Bob Lilly also addressed the Lubbock crowd.

"I'm not a politician but I know that the state of Texas needs a strong leader," he said. "I'm a football player and I'm used to having a strong leader. Ben Barnes is a strong leader. He'll get things done."

Introduced to the crowd by Lilly were Dallas Cowboy Walt Garrison, Baltimore Colt Bubba Smith and Cleveland Brown Bob McKay.

Mrs. Ben Barnes thanked the crowd "for coming out on such a cold, wintry day."

The South Plains Junior College Band welcomed Barnes to Lubbock with several musical numbers.

"I'm going to be a very controversial governor," Barnes said. "I may not be reelected. But I will risk it. I will never be afraid to speak out. I am not afraid of change."

Barnes said it will take "more than just lip service" to establish a state water plan.

Reforms needed Hobby claims

By JOE FINGER
Staff Writer

"Constitutional reform and educational reform are the two most important issues in this election," said Bill Hobby, candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, at a press conference Tuesday afternoon.

Hobby continued, "The present constitution restricts the executive branch too much. It has created a state government where no one is in charge. It is necessary to have a governor with the powers to execute the constitution." "There are too many undue restrictions on state representatives and senators," he added.

Hobby went on to say that Texas needs a new constitution. He noted that proposal four in the next election provides for a constitutional convention to sit in 1974. The members of the state legislature will constitute the convention. Hobby advised, "When voting for a candidate, ask if this person is the kind of person you want to write a new constitution."

Texas has one of the highest dropout rate in the nation, said Hobby. He said Texas education is oriented towards secondary and college education.

"Students are told that they must go to college to succeed. That is not true. We must see that people who graduate from high school have a skill with which to earn a living," said Hobby.

Hobby also supports student and faculty representation on the Board of Regents. He said they should be elected rather than appointed. While a regent at the University of Houston (1963-1969), Hobby proposed that non-voting representatives of the faculty and the student body be allowed to take part in board meetings.

"I know West Texans need and want water," he said. "The first thing I'm going to do as governor is to sit down leaders of all geographic areas of Texas and we're going to write a water plan."

Barnes said he intends to work for the adoption of a new state constitution. "It's ridiculous to perpetrate the status quoisms of the past because they won't solve the problems of today," he said.

Barnes said the Texas governorship is the second weakest gubernatorial position in the nation.

"But we can change that," Barnes said. "If you want a parade waving, ribbon cutting, beauty queen crowning, joke telling governor who shows up at a lot of functions and that's about all he does, don't vote for me."

"We're going to start out by admitting what's wrong," he said. "I hope you're ready for change. I am. I'm a young man and therefore, I have a greater stake in the decisions that are going to be made than do any of the other candidates. God willing, I'll live another 30 or 40 years. I'm going to have to live with the mistakes we make."

At a reception Tuesday night in the Pioneer Hotel ballroom, Hobby was questioned on his position on marijuana. Speaking to a small group of students, he answered, "We're in a grey area here. We don't have the medical evidence to justify the present penalties. On the other hand, we don't have the medical evidence yet to support the legalization of marijuana. However, the penalty for possession of marijuana should definitely be lowered to a misdemeanor."

Another of Hobby's concerns is ethics in government. Hobby claimed that the stock fraud scandals point to a need for ethics legislation. He stated that he would appoint a commission to prepare such legislation.

Referring to automobile insurance, Hobby said that the present system does not work satisfactorily. He added that a more efficient system could be devised.

Hobby will speak to the Politics for Lunch Bench at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Coronado Room of the University Center. The luncheon is open to the public.

In other words

Wanted—one election secretary

By DON RICHARDS
Editor

WANTED: One election secretary—inquire at the Student Association office. No experience necessary. Must be willing to work hard without pay and subject to intimidation from the Senate.

The above is a good example of an advertisement the Senate should be publishing.

Gary Hudspeth, secretary of elections, resigned his post Tuesday because of actions of the Senate and the Senate's Government Operations and Relations Committee concerning the recent referendum.

Hudspeth counted the ballots the night of the election and certified the results. The ballots were then stolen from the SA office.

After the ballots were recovered, a recount showed different results from the tally Hudspeth certified. Thursday the Senate certified the recount as official. But, the ballots had been stolen after Hudspeth's certification. This was the main point Hudspeth emphasized when he resigned.

Hudspeth's point is well taken. How much authority can you put in a recount after all the ballots and original tally sheets have been stolen? Should the Senate place preference of stolen ballots over the election secretary's certification at the time of election?

Finding a new election secretary will not be an easy job. Likewise, the new election secretary will not have an easy job, not as long as he is treated as the past one was.

THE STUDENT ASSOCIATION needs to stop and take a long look before they talk much about the abolishment of student government at Tech. It is very doubtful they have weighed the alternatives to see which would be the best.

Senators were considering abolishment of student government Tuesday after the Tech Administration stopped payment for money appropriated by the Senate for the University of Texas legal program and the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association.

The appropriation of funds for these two programs would have benefited student government and were good ideas. The Administration has said these appropriations were illegal. Maybe they are and maybe they aren't. The question now is how to work around the problem.

Abolishment of student government is not the way to protest administration action. Once you do away with your student organization you no longer have anything to work with. Student government, in spite of how much I or anyone criticizes it, is all we have. If it were abolished, later reorganization would come extremely tough.

Each senator needs to stop and think about what would happen if there were no student government at Tech. Abolishment sounds like a neat idea right now to protest a roadblock. A detour of the roadblock might take longer, but it gets you to the same place.

Says student support for liquor-by-the-drink needed

Little Johnny had been sitting on the bench for several games. Johnny's dream was to play third base for the baseball team. Finally, the opportunity came up for Johnny to get a chance to play. He asked if finally he was going to get a chance to play third base. The manager told him that he was going to play right field this time, but if he played well and waited for a while, he would eventually play third base. When Johnny found out that he could not immediately play exactly what he wanted, he did not want to play at all. It did not occur to him that playing right field was better than not playing at all, and by just waiting for his chance, he might even get to play the position he wanted.

This is just a simple little story about an immature little boy. Right? No, sadly enough it parallels the theory that quite a number of Tech students have adopted concerning liquor-by-the-drink. In other terms, if we, the students, can't get package stores in the city limits of Lubbock, then we will not vote for liquor-by-the-drink, since it does not completely meet our demands.

Students, it will be a very long time before there will be any package stores here in Lubbock. The liquor-by-the-drink issue is the very best improvement that can be hoped for at this time. The reason why it will be a long time is due to two large influential factions in Lubbock at the present time. First, if Lubbock was to vote package stores, the wet precincts east and south of town would suffer heavy financial losses. Needless to say, they would greatly oppose this option. Even if it should pass, don't be so naive to think that they would suffer the expense of moving to town without charging extravagant prices to cover their loss.

The second faction is the people who would make this a religious or moral question. As they are opposed to the present sale of liquor in Lubbock as it exists now, it is hard to imagine what their opposition to the package sale of liquor in city stores would be like. Either one of these large factions cannot afford to change, either economically or ethically.

To drink, or not to drink isn't the issue with this present option, even though the opposing groups have based a large part of their opposition on this religious and moral aspect. I do not and will not contend that their beliefs are not well based. However, I would like to point out to the members of this opposition that there will be no large increase in the numbers of businesses selling liquor, if any at all. Building in the city is still under zoning, meaning that the opening of a new club would require the approval of the city zoning commission, plus meeting the approval of the residents of that particular area where the club would be located. As of now, all of the tax of liquor sales in Lubbock clubs goes to the state. With the passage of this present option, between $100,000 and $500,000 of this tax revenue per year will be returned to the city of Lubbock, whereas Lubbock does not receive any revenue at the present.

Basically, what the liquor-by-the-drink issue means to a Lubbock citizen or a Tech student is the right to walk into an already existing club and order a drink without having to pay a membership fee and having a waiting period for the approval of their membership. Also, by alleviating the $2.00 per member charge paid to the state, the clubs will be able to lower their prices.

To those Tech students that do enjoy a drink, I say grow out of your selfish immaturities and support this improvement, even though it does not completely meet all your expectations of what liquor sales in Lubbock should be. If you don't sign the petition, and don't vote in the election, don't complain about Lubbock.

It's doing its best to progress.

1974 proposed for unleaded gas sale

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Environmental Protection Agency proposed Tuesday to require the sale of unleaded low-octane gasoline at most of the nation's gas stations by 1974.

At the same time it proposed a phased reduction in the lead content of regular and premium grades of gasoline.

The agency provided 90 days for comment on the pending regulations and said it would hold public hearings before making them effective.

The EPA estimated the rules would increase gasoline prices by about 1.65 cent per gallon by 1980 over today's prices for regular gasoline. But it said many of today's users of premium would eventually switch to lower grades and end up paying less per gallon.

EPA said the lead reductions probably would require the petroleum industry to invest about $2 billion more than its expected investment of about $32 billion in refinery facilities between 1972 and 1980.

Under the Clean Air Act of 1970, emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons must be reduced by 90 per cent in 1975 model cars, and nitrogen oxides must be cut 90 per cent by 1976.

EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus told a news conference Tuesday the most likely means of achieving these standards would be the use of catalytic converters, devices containing chemicals which force exhaust gases into reactions that reduce the pollutants.

But these converters can be ruined by lead, requiring more frequent and costly replacement.

The 1970 act authorized EPA to regulate fuel additives which endanger public health or interfere with antipollution measures.

In proposing the anti-lead regulations Tuesday, Ruckelshaus said there is substantial evidence that lead emissions from vehicles are associated with health problems and would hamper the operation of catalytic converters.

EPA estimated that without lead removal a motorist might use up 10 catalytic converters to drive 85,000 miles under the 1975 and 1976 antipollution standards; each converter might cost around $150, according to a study done for EPA.

Lead removal would increase fuel cost and reduce mileage, said an EPA cost table, but would allow 85,000 miles of driving with only one replacement of the converter.

On the average, EPA said, the total extra antipollution cost of driving 85,000 miles with unleaded gasoline would amount to about $295 compared with the $1,500 cost of replacing converters if leaded gasoline was used.

In fact, however, the cost would be considerably higher than $295 for drivers already using low-octane gasolines, who would bear the brunt of the cost increase. Officials did not have any estimate of the real increase for such drivers.

Ruckelshaus said the proposed standard would make lead-free 91-octane gasoline available after July 1, 1974, at about 65 per cent of the nation's service stations, covering all geographical areas.

Lead-free gasoline would have to be free also of phosphorus, an additive now used to combat the pre-ignition tendency caused by lead.

The phased reduction of lead in regular and premium gasoline would begin on July 1, 1974, with a limit of 2 grams per gallon. The lead limit would be reduced to 1.7 gram on Jan. 1, 1975; 1.5 one year later; and 1.25 on Jan. 1, 1977.

Officials told newsmen petroleum companies would probably keep up octane ratings by substituting aromatic petroleum products for lead.

These aromatics are, themselves, a pollutant but one which would be increasingly controlled by the catalytic converters, they said.

EPA said its goal was to reduce airborne lead some 60 to 65 per cent by 1977.

First lady gets inside look at Chinese life

PEKING (AP)—After two days of sampling Chinese culture and cuisine, Pat Nixon is getting an inside look at how the Chinese masses live and work.

She pays a visit Wednesday morning to the giant Evergreen People's commune in Peking's northwestern suburbs, where 40,000 persons live in 9,000 households.

In the afternoon she tours a Peking glass factory employing 530 workers.

She'll rejoin President Nixon for an evening gymnastic presentation at Peking Capital Field.

On Tuesday, the First Lady made a tasting tour of the kitchens of the famed Peking Hotel, visited the elaborate Summer Palace on a frozen lake outside the capital and watched a revolutionary ballet in the Great Hall of the People.

Liberation Army and finds salvation from a tyrannical landlord.

At the Peking Hotel earlier, Mrs. Nixon maintained a tradition of kitchen diplomacy when she nibbled at Chinese delicacies in a spotless kitchen.

The hotel's 115 chefs whipped up goldfish in white sauce, egg rolls on seaweed, steamed baby birds in clam shell pastry and other gourmet treats for the noonday session.

"The President loves Chinese food," Mrs. Nixon told the wives of top Chinese officials who accompanied her on the kitchen tour. "I'd love to try some of these dishes on my friends but I'm afraid I don't have the right equipment."

She finally turned chopsticks down on further sampling, and said, "All I seem to be doing all day is eating. I don't want to buy all new clothes when I get back."

Sex life of fish studied

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Like people, fish have their sex problems, says Dr. Wayne Shell, and sometimes that's the reason they won't bite.

They'll stop eating, maybe two or three weeks at a time. And they're grouchy.

"Sex problems worry them," says Shell, a professor in the fisheries department at Auburn University.

As a matter of fact, he said in an interview, "they do a lot of things like people. They change their feeding habits. They get angry. They worry a lot about their enemies; bass do, particularly. And they run for cover when a storm hits."

Take salmon, for instance. They feed voraciously at sea, Shell says, but when they start their sex migration upriver in the spawning season, they stop eating.

Other species, such as bass, do the same. When they're "on the bed" guarding the eggs, they'll go without food until the new arrivals are hatched.

Shell and others on the fisheries staff, headed by Dr. H. S. Swingle, have spent years on marine research and have traveled around the world teaching hungry people to grow fish for food.

They have learned a lot about the things fish do and why they do them. But they don't have any sure-fire answers for the inquiring sportsmen who try to figure out how to land the big ones with rod and reel.

Mother of 38 years pays bill

DALLAS (AP) — More than 38 years after she gave birth to a baby girl in the charity ward of Parkland Hospital, Mrs. Orlenia Slike of Sylmar, Calif., sent the hospital a check for $100 to be used for "some other unfortunate young woman."

Officials said her letter, beginning "To whom it may concern," gave the baby's birthday as Nov. 4, 1933.

"I received very fine care and now my daughter is a wonderful woman with two children of her own," the recent letter read. The writer added: "My name was then Mrs. Orlenia Whitehead."

Car insurance rates could be decreased for Texans

AUSTIN, Texas. (AP) — The State Insurance Board won't waste any time changing car insurance rates if it can give Texans a reduction, board chairman Larry Teaver said Tuesday.

But if rates can't be cut, it will probably wait until the usual Sept. 1 date for altering premiums, he said.

"I am optimistic we might have a small decrease for the first time in many years," Teaver told an interviewer.

Insurance companies have an April 1 deadline to submit their annual financial statements to the board. If reports for the 325 firms writing car insurance in Texas show a profit, Teaver said he would "do my dead level best" to advance the annual car insurance hearing.

The hearing is usually held in July.

Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas quoted Teaver Sunday as saying the hearing might be moved up to April if possible.

Teaver said Tuesday, however, that May or June would be more realistic.

"If these annual reports show a loss, we would just wait until the regular time," he added.

New rates won't be put into effect early "unless there is a decrease," Teaver said.

Navy to retire 84 older ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy said Tuesday it will retire 84 older ships later this year.

The vessels are at more than a dozen ports on the East and West coasts and in Japan.

They include 29 destroyers and frigates, 10 oil burning submarines, 22 mine sweepers and a variety of other ships, including amphibious vessels, an antisubmarine aircraft carrier, some oilers, submarine rescue craft and an ammunition ship.

One-semester housing plan to be presented at meeting

Clifford Yoder, assistant to the Tech executive vice president, will hold a special meeting today at the Housing Office to discuss the possibility of one-semester contracts.

The meeting was requested by Bill Scott, Student Association president, Anne Laux, Women's Residence Council president, and Bert Bartram, Men's Residence Council president.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the advantages, economic problems, and fairness of the semester contract system.

A plan for a one semester contract system will be presented to Clifford Yoder for tentative approval.

Tech coeds study karate for fitness, self-defense

By PAULA TURNEY
Staff Writer

Girls, do you sometimes wish you had a 200-pound bodyguard to accompany you on your blind dates? Does your swimsuit fit tighter than it did last summer? If you answered yes to one or both of the above questions, karate may be the answer. A special class is offered at the Texas Karate Institute for Tech coeds who want to learn the art of self-defense, as well as get good exercise. Currently there are three Tech girls enrolled in the karate class.

"Because the class is so small, we sometimes have to work out with little kids. We'd like to have more Tech girls join," said Jan Spiller, Houston sophomore. "I got interested in it when I saw people practicing and thought it looked like fun." Ginger Obriotti, San Antonio sophomore and Janet Lightfoot, sophomore from Lubbock, are the other girls enrolled in the class, which meets twice a week from 6-7:30 p.m.

Ginger enrolled in the course when she couldn't get into a P.E. class at Tech and decided that "it was one way to get the exercise I needed. It gives you a sense of calmness when you know how to protect yourself."

Janet's brother-in-law, Greg Root, is an instructor at the Institute and teaches the girls' class. He feels girls are easier to teach because "they are limber and more coordinated than they think they are."

Classes begin with a traditional bow followed by exercises to warm up. In three weeks, the girls have learned basic kicks and practice these with their partners. They have just begun to spar (controlled fighting). In a few months they should be able to break boards and bricks without disfiguring their hands.

The beginner's class allows the girls to progress at their own speed. They are not expected to adhere to a prescribed schedule and progress according to the seriousness they give their training.

Pupils are encouraged to earn a belt in karate; however, as Ginger says, "you don't have to earn a belt to enjoy karate."

Jan and Ginger will stay in the class until the end of the semester. Janet will continue throughout the summer, since she lives in Lubbock.

Ooof!

Tech students offered income tax services

The Student Association is sponsoring a free income tax advisory service for Tech students.

SA Business Manager Curtis Brown said the service is designed to help students obtain their tax refunds.

He said the service will be offered between 3 and 5 p.m. today through Friday in Brown's office in the SA office of the University Center.

Students may also obtain assistance by telephoning 742-3246 or 742-3247 between 3 and 5 p.m. today through Friday.

Beta Alpha Psi, national accounting honorary, will sponsor the service on weekends, Brown said.

Beta Alpha Psi members will be stationed between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in four Lubbock locations: 2714 Erskine, 610 Ave. Q, 24th and Weber and 546 46th.

Neither Brown nor Beta Alpha Psi members will complete the income tax forms for the students because of the lack of time. Students will be instructed so they can complete the forms, Brown said.

The service will continue until all interested students have been helped, he said.

Ag teacher of month named

Mr. John Hunter, associate professor of Range Management, has been chosen as the Teacher of the Month in the College of Agriculture Sciences.

Hunter teaches range management, range plants and wildlife management.

He received a B.S. degree in agriculture from Midwestern University in 1949 and a M.S. degree from Texas Tech in Agriculture Education in 1958.

He has taught at Tech since 1958 and is a member of the American Society of Range Management, Soil Conservation Society of America and the Wildlife Society.

Hunter is married to the former Kathryn Sellers of Crosbyton, Texas and the father of one daughter. He enjoys fishing and hunting. Besides teaching at Tech, his activities include a Cotton Insect Scouting Service in the summer months, farming, ranching and investments.

He is involved in civic and church activities, and is the donor of Hunter Scholarships in Range and Wildlife Management.

Council names aggie of the month

The Texas Tech Aggie Council, composed of club presidents and representatives, has chosen Robert Lannom, a senior mechanized agriculture student, as Aggie of the Month for February.

Lannom is president of the Mech Ag Club, scribe of the Aggie Council, member of Alpha Zeta, the agriculture honorary, and a student member of the Teacher Evaluation Committee.

'JFK' to play at Municipal Auditorium

'JFK' is an original ONE-MAN show that played off-Broadway in 1971, and will play in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium on Feb. 28, at 8:15 p.m.

The production, starring Jeremiah Collins, is similar to the recent production of "Mark Twain", a one-man interpretation of Mark Twain by Hal Holbrook.

The producer of the show is Walt De Faria, a former Walt Disney associate. De Faria, with Mark Williams directs the production. The scenery and lighting were designed by David F. Segal.

Collins and Williams wrote the script for the show after a complete study and review of all the written and presentation materials of the Presidential and Presidential years of John Kennedy.

Collins' interpretation of JFK took almost two years of concentrated study and has been called an outstanding portrayal.

Public garbage tax hearing set

The League of Women Voters will sponsor a public hearing on the garbage service charge ordinance in the Lubbock City Council at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium on the Tech campus.

Persons who want to present arguments for or against the repeal are urged to attend the hearing.

Suggestions to the Council for raising revenue by means other than a garbage service may be made.

Some citizens may want to suggest methods of determining a garbage service charge rather than from a charge based on water usage.

Persons who need transportation to the hearing may call the League of Women Voters office, 795-9718, before noon Wednesday, to arrange for transportation.

Poet

The Graduate English Club will sponsor a poetry reading and a seminar to be conducted by Dr. A. Wilber Stevens, Professor of English and Comparative Literature from Prescott College in Arizona.

Stevens will read selections from his poetry Wed. at 7:30 in room 226 of the English building. He will conduct a "sandwich" seminar during the regular meeting of the Graduate English Club on Feb. 24 at noon in room 106 of the English building. Sandwiches and coffee will be furnished by the Club.

Stevens received his B.A. from Brown University and his M.A. and Ph.D. from the University of Washington.

Applications for grant available

Girls who will be juniors or seniors at the beginning of the 1972-73 fall term and who plan to teach upon graduation are invited to apply for the Mary W. Doak Recruitment Grant.

The award of $75 per semester will be made to an outstanding student whose qualities of scholarship, leadership and service to school and community recommend her as a promising candidate for the teaching profession.

Alpha Sigma Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary women teachers society, makes the yearly award, named in honor of Texas Tech University's first Dean of Women, Mrs. Mary W. Doak.

Jeanine Hartnett from Dallas is the 1971-1972 recipient.

Application blanks may be obtained from Dr. Dahlia Terrell, English Department, Chairman of Professional Affairs Committee of Alpha Sigma, or from the following members of the committee: Dr. Camille Bell, Home Economics Education; Dr. Nancy Boze, School of Education; and Dr. Ilse Wolf, Home and Family Life.

The completed applications must be returned to Dr. Terrell by March 1.

Lowery held to 11 points

Triplett, Delzell power SMEW past Raider aiders

By MILLER BONNER
Sports Editor

DALLAS—Amid chance of "We're No. 1" the SMU Mustangs ended an evening of humiliation by beating Tech, 87-73 here Tuesday night.

With the Ponies enjoying a night of which everything went right, SMU surged past the Raiders in the tight Southwest Conference basketball race. The loss leaves Tech with a 7-4 league slate. The Ponies stand 8-3 with but three more SWC games to play.

YET ONE BRIGHT SPOT EMERGED from the Tech loss as guard Greg Lowery added the all-time Tech scoring record to his growing list of laurels. With 7:37 remaining in the game, Lowery hit a 10-footer, topping Jim Reed's 1954-56 total of 1425, by two points.

A near capacity crowd of 8,038 at Moody Coliseum watched the Techs lose control of the game after the first half as SMU's Ruben Triplett and Clayton Korver dominated the boards while guards Zack Thiel, Bobby Rollings and Larry Delzell kept the tempo of the game strictly to the tune of SMU.

An 8-point Pony lead at halftime quickly stretched to 11 after four minutes of play in the second period.

The first half resulted in Triplett's 13-point outburst and 12 rebounds by Korver. For Tech, Ralph Palomar led the Raiders with 10 points and 11 carems. Both teams hit 13 field goals but the Ponies converted 12 of 13 from the foul line while the Raiders managed only four of eight. Most of the SMU charity tosses came from the one and one situation in which the Mustangs were deadly. Tech never converted a one and one freethrow opportunity in the opening period.

"We couldn't keep a sustained drive going the second half," said Coach Gerald Myers after the loss. We didn't go through our offense the second half after we got behind."

Another big factor in Tech's defeat was the Raider turnovers in the ballgame. SMU lost the ball eight times, but Tech gave up possession 16 times before the buzzer ended, perhaps Tech's most miserable performance.

TRIPLETT LED ALL SCORERS with 28 points and 11 rebounds while SMU's Delzell netted 22, Thiel 15 and Rollings 11.

Palomar led the Raiders with 19 tallies and 14 rebounds. Richard Little, taking over the scoring job for Lowery after the Raiders' leading scorer showed signs of definite coolness, accounted for 16 points.

Ron Richardson grabbed 13 rebounds and tossed in 11 points.

LOWERY SCORED NINE POINTS the first half to tie the Tech scoring record, but was held to only one field goal the second half to finish with 11 points, way off his 26.2 league-leading scoring average. Lowery hit five of 17 from the field and one of three from the charity stripe.

The Raiders, as a team outrebounded SMU 54-37, but nothing would fall for Tech when points were badly needed.

SMU is now undefeated in Dallas through six league games, but has a 2-3 slate on the road. Tech stands 4-2 on the road and 3-2 at home.

The Mustangs finished the night with a respectable 49.1 shooting percentage and a sizzling 73.3 (33 of 45) from the line. Tech hit 45.6 from the field and 55 per cent (11-20) from the charity stripe.

TECH LED FOR BRIEF MOMENTS IN THE FIRST HALF with 13:56 remaining in the opening minutes of play, the Raiders ran up their biggest lead of 17-12, but the Ponies came back to tie it three times before taking command for good on a Delzell jump shot with 8:58 left in the first half.

Barry Hoffpauir, shortstop, returns for Tech's 1972 season that starts Saturday at Abilene.

Anderson traded to Cardinals

GREEN BAY, WIS. (AP)—The Green Bay Packers, disenchanted with the most expensive half of their erstwhile "Gold Dust Twins," traded Donny Anderson to the St. Louis Cardinals for power runner MacArthur Lane Tuesday.

While considered one of the most versatile running backs in the National Football League, Anderson's blocking disappointed Green Bay Coach and General Manager Dan Devine last season.

Devine had no comment on losing Anderson, who was signed for a reported $600,000 out of Texas Tech in 1966, but described the 6-foot-1, 220 pound Lane as "a strong blocker, an excellent pass receiver and a fine runner."

Devine turned to rushing as the cornerstone of the offense last season, when the club lacked consistent passing.

Rookie John Brockington rushed for 1,105 yards, and strong blocking from the second man in the backfield became increasingly important.

Devine considers reserve running back Dave Hampton a stronger blocker than Anderson, as well as a capable ball carrier. Recently, when speculation mounted that Anderson would be traded, Devine said, "I have an idea that if Dave Hampton carried the ball as much as Anderson and Brockington, with the blocking they had last year, he might have gained 2,000 yards."

Both Anderson, 28, and Lane, 29, had their best seasons in 1970. Anderson rushed for 853 yards and gained 414 more as a receiver that year, but tapered off to 757 and 306, respectively, in 1971.

Lane carried the ball for 977 yards, second in the National Conference, and scored 15 touchdowns in 1970. He rushed for 502 yards last year and was suspended for the Cardinals' final game after publicly criticizing team vice president William V. Bidwell because of a salary hassle.

Anderson and Jim Grabowski arrived at Green Bay as rookies after having been signed for an estimated total of $1 million by the late Vince Lombardi at the height of the bidding war between the NFL and old American Football League.

They were hailed as successors to Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, ball carrying stars of Green Bay's championship years in the early and mid 1960s. Anderson came closest to fulfilling expectations. His 3,061 yards rushing in six seasons ranks fifth in Packer history.

Grabowski was never the same after injuring a knee in 1967. He was claimed by the Chicago Bears on waivers before the 1971 season.

Both Anderson and Lane played without contracts last season. Negotiations with Anderson reached a roadblock when wage-price controls were imposed in August, although Anderson has said he had no intention of playing out his option.

St. Louis Coach Bob Hollway and Bidwell met last month with Lane, who said later the dispute was settled and the two sides were near agreement on terms.

"If the suspension didn't prompt the trade," Hollway said Tuesday. "The trade came about because we were able to get a more versatile running back. This gives us a chance to strengthen our club in other directions."

Devine said the addition of Lane "will further strengthen our attack."

Aggies win heated affair Texas, TCU get SWC wins

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Tied four times in a heated overtime period, Baylor and Texas A&M battled for ball control Tuesday night with A&M's Jeff Overhouse leading the Aggies to a 101-95 Southwest Conference basketball victory here.

The Bears leaped to an early advantage, at times leading the Aggies as much as 15-7 in the first half but then with five minutes remaining the Cadets jammed past with a 31-30 lead which they increased to 39-37 at halftime.

Overhouse dumped in 22 points, as high man for the Aggies while Baylor's Tom Stanton ripped off 27 - though insufficient - points.

Taking free shots after being fouled by Overhouse, Baylor's Lee Baldwin had one and one and one to go when he missed the net. The two teams tied it up four times during an overtime period but with A&M leading 97-95, the Aggies stalled the ball during the last 42 seconds.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Harry Larrabee dropped in six points on free throws in a 35-second span of an overtime to lift Texas to a 92-86 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Arkansas here Tuesday night.

Larrabee's free throws untied the score and iced the Longhorns' seventh conference victory of the season to keep them within sight of the top spot.

The Razorbacks led by as many as 11 points, 54-43, with 14:24 left, but Texas pulled ahead by two with 12 seconds left when B. G. Brosterhous hit both ends of a one-and-one free throw situation.

Martin Terry's 20-foot jumper at the buzzer gave Arkansas another chance by tying the score 78-78 at the end of regulation play.

John Wilson's layup put the Longhorns out in front in the overtime, but Vernon Murphy tied it for Arkansas with a 12-foot jumper.

Texas Christian outscored the Rice Owls 12-0 over the final two minutes and 52 seconds Tuesday night to give the Horned Frogs a 76-68 Southwest Conference Basketball victory, their first in Houston since 1966. The Owls, now 0-11 in SWC play, did not lead in the first half but moved into contention in the second half and had managed a 68-63 lead with 2:52 to play. Simpson Degrate, who led TCU with 27 points, then hit two straight buckets to start the winning surge.
