Student Senate allocates $500 to tutorial program

By CASS RAY
Managing Editor

The Tech Student Senate voted Thursday night to appropriate $500 for the Tech Academic Development Program.

The Tutorial Funding Act approved by the Senate noted that Tech "is one of the few institutions of higher education in which a tutorial aids program does not exist."

The act also stated that Men's Residence Council and Women's Residence Council, the organizations sponsoring the tutorial program, lacked the funds necessary to establish it.

The Senate also approved an act which proposed the allocation of $500 to the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association (TISA).

The act referred to the TISA as "the representative body for the large universities in Texas," "an integral part of the communications between universities in the state of Texas" and "an active agent for students."

Bruce Barrick, education senator and sponsor of the act, said TISA "does more for this university than we can ever do for TISA."

The act also noted TISA "is in financial ruin and cannot continue to operate for another five months unless immediate funds are made available."

As finally approved, the act did not include an amendment suggested by the Senate Allocations Committee which provided for reimbursement of the $500 on March 16 when member universities and colleges would pay their dues to TISA.

Also approved by the Senate was an act which allocated $250 from the "Legal Aid Program budgetary category to the Student Association of UTA (University of Texas at Austin) for the purpose of helping to alleviate their court costs and legal representation."

As stated by the act, "the University of Texas at Austin is currently embroiled in a legal action to defend this highly successful student legal program from the capricious and harrasing actions of a certain UTA board member and others opposed to the basic constitutional guarantees of freedom to students."

"All their money is in limbo," said Business Administration Senator Bob Craig, sponsor of the act. "And the future of our legal program depends upon it."

Also approved by the Senate was the allocation of $72.32 for the purchase of an adding machine and $40 for a cassette recorder for the Student Association office.

Gayle Snure, education senator and chairman of the Government Operations and Relations Committee, said Feb. 21-25 are the filing dates for Student Association executive officer elections. Feb. 28 is the filing date for Senate seats.

Arts and Sciences Senator Candy Hall failed in her attempt to obtain Senate approval to discharge the ROTC Drill Meet Allocation Act from the Allocations Committee although it was not approved by the committee.

If approved, the act would have allocated $225 each to Air Force and Army ROTC to help finance an April 15 drill meet which will, according to the act, "involve not only other Texas universities and colleges, but several out-of-state institutions" as well.

Senator Hall noted that some 400 Tech students would be involved in this activity which had been postponed from March 15 to April 15 "because they (ROTC) did not get any sort of response from the Senate at its last meeting."

Barrick said he was "against ROTC philosophically" but that he was in favor of the act.

Arts and Sciences Senator Rick Merritt said the matter was "not simply an organizational question but involves the Vietnamese war issue as well."

Agriculture Senator Freddie Williams said the war issue was not relevant to the matter and that "this campus organization is just like any other organization and should get the same consideration. We supposedly represent the total student body."

The Senate meeting extended past the UD deadline. Monday's UD will include a story reporting the remainder of the meeting.

Journey for peace begun; Nixon offers hope, caution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon began his "journey for peace" to China Thursday — a historic mission he said he was undertaking for all mankind in search of a common ground with the long-hostile and isolated Asian Communist power.

As he embarked for the first face-to-face summit meeting ever between U.S. and Chinese Communist leaders, he tempered his words of hope with words of caution.

"We are...under no illusion that 20 years of hostility...will be swept away by one week of talks," Nixon told some 8,000 persons attending farewell ceremonies at the White House. Then he and Mrs. Nixon winged westward to Hawaii on the first leg of his 20,395-mile, 13-day journey.

"We will have great differences in the future," he said. "What we must do is find a way to see that we can have our differences without being enemies at war."

From the White House, where school children, Cabinet officers, congressional leaders, government employees and tourists bade him farewell from the winter-faded South Lawn, Nixon flew by helicopter to nearby Andrews Force Base, Md.

There he boarded his blue, silver and white presidential jet, "The Spirit of '76," for the 10-hour nonstop flight to Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station on the northern shore of Oahu.

His departure, which came as light snow fell from slate-gray skies, was televised live nationwide — a prelude to the extensive live television coverage planned for his eight days in China.

After a 45-hour stay in Hawaii, recommended by his physician to readjust to time zone changes, the President flies to Guam on Saturday for an overnight stop.

With his wife and an official party of 13 White House and State Department advisers Nixon will arrive in Peking on Monday-Sunday night U.S. time — and become the first American president ever to set foot on Chinese soil.

Before returning to the United States Feb. 28, he will have an open-ended series of talks with Chinese leaders Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-Lai, attend a round of four banquets in three cities and visit the Great Wall and other Chinese shrines and historic sites.

Nixon met for 45 minutes Thursday with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders, giving them what House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan described as "a realistic appraisal of the possible results." He promised to brief them upon his return.

Then, without a topcoat to ward off the winter chill, the President stepped onto the South Lawn to deliver his brief farewell remarks.

The President recalled his statement of July 15 — when he announced that a secret summer mission to Peking by his foreign affairs adviser, Henry Kissinger, had set up the unprecedented summit meeting.

"That statement was, as you will recall, that this would be a journey for peace," he said. Nixon noted, too, a toast offered by Chou when Kissinger was in China.

"The American people are a great people," he quoted the Chinese premier as saying. "The Chinese people are a great people. The fact that they are separated by a vast ocean and great differences in philosophy should not prevent them from finding common ground."

Nixon said if his talks with Communist leaders bring progress toward finding that common ground "the world will be a much safer world."

And, motioning to the hundreds of school children on the lawn — many of them chattering excitedly as he talked — Nixon added that he hoped "all those young children there" would have a chance "to grow up in a world of peace."

Before turning to walk across a red carpet between a military honor guard to the helicopter, the chief executive said: "If there was a postscript I hope might be written in regard to this trip, it would be the words on the plaque left on the moon by our first astronauts when they landed there: 'We came in peace for all mankind.'"

About 200 Americans — including 87 accredited news media personnel — are flying into China with Nixon, joining about 100 already there making advance arrangements.

In the months prior to the day of departure, Nixon stressed repeatedly that he had no expectation of spectacular results from the trip.

He spoke after of increased communication between mainland China and the United States — perhaps through an exchange of athletes, scholars, scientists and students.

New members join Tech Frosh Council

By MARY LOU McCARTY
Staff Writer

Seven new members were initiated into the Tech Freshman Council Thursday night in a regularly scheduled meeting.

New members include Katherine Angelos, Stangel Hall; Jeff Jackson, Murdough; and Karen Brown, Chitwood.

Off-campus representatives include Paul Jones, Deborah Jones, Jim Ferguson and Jerri Kidder.

Gaston representative Travis Phillips was elected vice-president of the council in order to fill a vacancy.

Freshman Council members will host an all-day retreat Feb. 26 at Lake Ransom Canyon. The definite time and place will be decided in next week's meeting.

Members are now circulating petitions for the 18-year-old legal rights law. The petition requests that 18-year-olds have the same legal rights as those age 21. A booth has been set up in the University Center lobby for those wishing to sign the petition.

Common Market entry cleared; Prime Minister wins close vote

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Edward Heath's crisis-beset government won a narrow unofficial vote of confidence Thursday night as the House of Commons barely approved a bill clearing the way for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

The vote in the 630-member house was 309 in favor; 301 against.

Abstentions or absentees numbered about 20. The size of the majority represented a political setback for Heath, who has made a British linkup with Europe the centerpiece of his government's program. His Conservative party normally commands a majority of 26.

Coming in the middle of Britain's power crisis that has disrupted the nation's life, the vote in the Commons took on the nature of a demonstration of confidence in Heath's administration.

But it was a close and qualified vote that seemed to put him on notice that he will have to tread warily if he is going to retain the backing of the country.

It came after intensive back-stage efforts had been made by Conservative party managers to rally dissident followers who oppose British entry into the Common Market.

Heath involved himself personally in the campaign with warnings to some antimarketeers that he would have to resign and ask Queen Elizabeth II to dissolve Parliament and call a national election if he lost.

Heath sat impassive as ex-Prime Minister Harold Wilson, leader of the opposition Labor party, taunted him with the performance of his 20-month-old administration and with the content of the bill.

"Your theme in this debate and in your weekend talks with President Georges Pompidou of France have been transmitted into dreams of great power status in candle power Britain," Wilson asserted.

Insurance executive says

No-fault insurance would cut rates

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—No-fault car insurance would cut Texans' premiums 25 per cent, a top executive of the American Insurance Association said Thursday.

"We guarantee a minimum reduction of 25 per cent in bodily injury and property damage rates," said Melvin Stark, the AIA's vice-president for government affairs.

He said Gov. Preston Smith should include no-fault auto insurance in his call for the next special session of the legislature. "We have had contact with the governor's staff and he is aware of our feelings," Stark said at a news conference.

Stark was here to debate Prof. David Sargent of Suffolk University Law School in Boston, an opponent of no-fault.

AIA, the American Mutual Alliance and the American Association of Independent Insurers each have advanced a no-fault plan.

But AIA's appears to be the more far-reaching. Under the no-fault concept, a motorist's own insurance company pays him for his medical expenses, lost wages and car repairs if he gets in an accident-whether he caused the mishap or not.

Stark said AIA's plan "calls for the total elimination of the right to sue." Most other no-fault plans place a limit-it's $2,000 in Massachusetts-on the amount of medical expenses one can collect without suing the other driver.

The AIA plan, he said, provides unlimited medical benefits; up to $750 per month for wage losses for an unlimited time period; and unlimited car repair benefits after the policyholder paid a deductible.

Part of the plan is mandatory auto insurance for all motorists.

Because part of one's premium would depend on the lost earnings that would have to be replaced, "the poor people would pay less than the rich people," Stark said.

Govt. Ops accepts Wednesday decision

By BETSY JARMON
Special Reporter

The Student Senate Government Operations and Relations Committee decided just before the Senate meeting Thursday to uphold its decision of Wednesday night to accept recounted ballots of the Feb. 9 referendum.

The recount changed the result of the referendum since the new tally did not show the required two-thirds vote for passage of Amendment 3.

Amendment 3 would have changed the elected office of SA business manager to an appointed position.

The committee heard testimony from Student Association (SA) election secretary Gary Hudspeth that all his records of the referendum were illegally removed from the SA office.

Hudspeth said he could not say the ballots placed in front of Senate parliamentarian Jim Boynton's residence Tuesday night were the same ones he counted Feb. 9.

"I'm just upset that the ballots got stolen," he said. SA President Bill Scott said the screws of cabinet hinges where the ballots were kept had been removed.

Asked if he knew who removed the ballots from the SA office, Hudspeth said he did not.

Now in Nicaragua

Hughes leaves Bahamas

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Howard Hughes has abandoned his seclusion in the Bahamas for a visit to Nicaragua and possibly a later trip to the United States. Sources here and in Las Vegas, Nev., said the 66-year-old recluse arrived Thursday in this Central American capital.

The office of President Anastasio Somoza, himself a multimillionaire, announced that Hughes had accepted his invitation to visit Nicaragua.

Informed sources said Hughes' visit to Managua was arranged Wednesday night by the U.S. ambassador to Nicaragua, Turner Shelton, who reportedly has a home in the Bahamas and is a friend of the U.S. billionaire.

An Eastern Air Lines Jetstar, which was believed to have brought Hughes to this Central American republic, landed at the Nicaraguan air force strip near the municipal airport at 9:15 a.m.

There was speculation that Hughes was staying either at Shelton's residence or Somoza's ranch outside the city.

Sources in Washington said Hughes had arrived at Miami, Fla., at 4:30 a.m., EST, Thursday on board his yacht from the Bahamas.

Other U.S. sources said Hughes' visit to Nicaragua would be brief. They added he might return then to the United States for a meeting with the news media.

Hughes' sudden departure from his hotel suite in Nassau, Bahamas, comes in the midst of New York court hearings on Clifford Irving's purported "Autobiography of Howard Hughes," a book that has been called a hoax by Time magazine.

The Las Vegas Review-Journal in Nevada quoted Hughes sources as saying it wasn't the billionaire's intention to stay long in Nicaragua.

"This is just a temporary stop. We expect him to arrive in the United States shortly and there is a good chance he will hold a face-to-face press conference."

Another Hughes source in Las Vegas said Hughes eventually plans to go to Mexico to live permanently.

Wants fans to fill Coliseum

TEXAS! TEXAS! TEXAS!
TEXAS! TEXAS! TEXAS!
TEXAS! TEXAS! TEXAS!
TEXAS!

This Saturday night the LONGHORNS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS will be playing basketball on our campus. I think that it is the duty of every Tech student to come out and give the LONGHORNS a real Texas Tech welcome. Let's fill the Coliseum so full of Raider fans that the LONGHORNS would like to turn around and run back to UT.

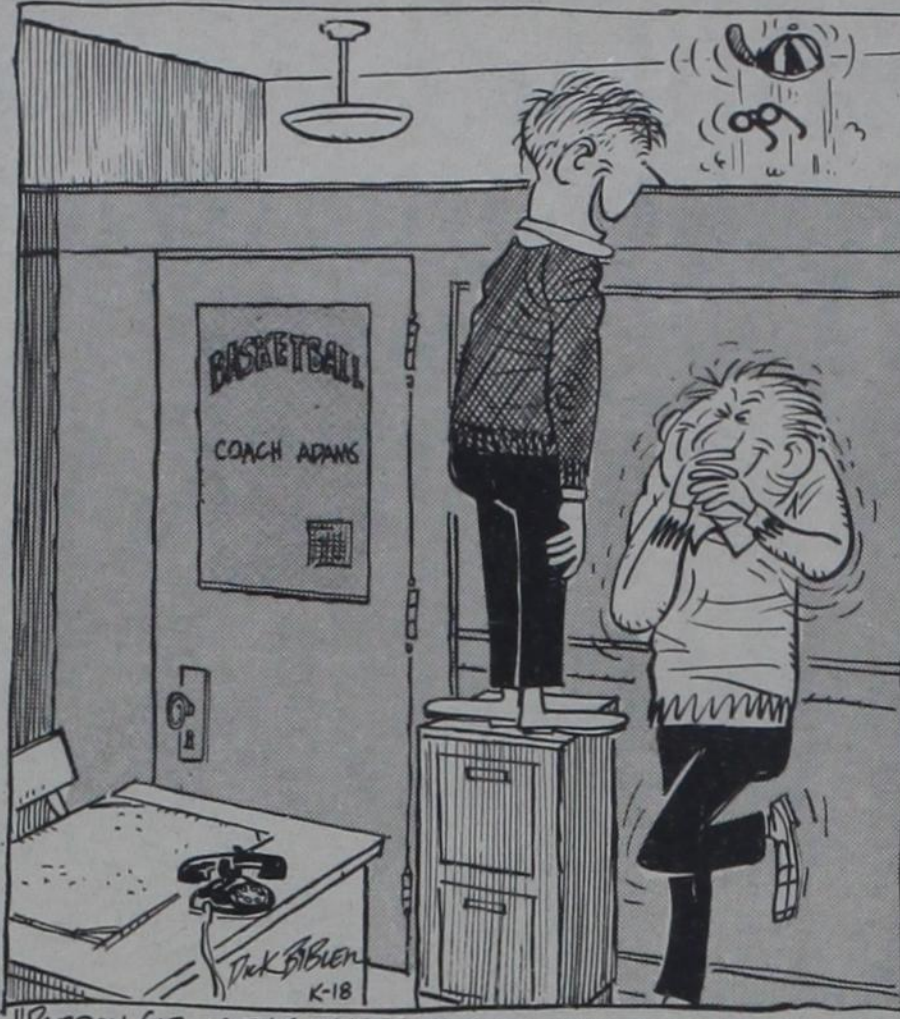

Let's all get really fired and excited for the RAIDERS. We still have a great chance for the SWC Championship. I am really excited about our basketball team and I am going to shell out a $1.75 to go and yell for them Saturday night. I hope that you will get excited and go to the game and raise Hell for the Raiders. Let's get with it and get that old-fashioned spirit back into the student body.

BEAT THE HELL OUT OF TEXAS! BEAT TEXAS!

If you like Texas, stay home Saturday night. If you hate them like I do, show up Saturday night and lets give 'em HELL and really back the RED RAIDERS. See you SATURDAY NIGHT! BEAT TEXAS!

Letters to the editor

Questions writer's evidence in recent letter to editor

I question the letter written by Mr. Khaled Dessi in the Feb. 14 UD on the source of information he had.

What evidence can Mr. Dessi present to support what he said about the North Vietnamese fighting for the freedom of their people? It is a nice way to say that they are fighting for their own land, because then they could do whatever they want to the people who stay on the land, like the way they did in the 1968 Tet offensive. Four thousand civilian bodies had been recovered from a single spot where the North Vietnamese had occupied for three days. Several other mass graves like this have also been found.

I will bet Mr. Dessi had never given these facts a thought, or he probably just put those killed into the category as the running dogs of American imperialism who are to be killed with no mercy, as Chairman Mao said in his Quotation. We do not like the Mai Lai massacre, but how a carefully planned, full scale eradication of human beings can be swallowed down by a peace-loving Mr. Dessi is out of our imagination.

Do you want to know who these bodies belong to? They are the people who worked in American-funded hospitals, land reform departments, school teachers who refused to teach communism and even some newspaperman who believed in free press. You said the VC are going to build their own country — how Mr. Dessi? Winn, Anna Braden, Chris With a gun barrel behind Potter, Jerry Filleman everyone's head?

Dept. of Biology

Go study some Marx, Lennin or Mao, Mr. Dessi, then come back and tell us what you read and what you believe if you still remember some of the Declaration of Independance.

Phi Mu recolonization tea Sunday

This is addressed to the 525 campus women who have been receiving invitation to the Phi Mu Recolonization Tea. You have a chance to participate in a really exciting and worthwhile program. It is a program which has been proven to be very successful on other campuses.

How many times is the opportunity offered to a group of women to remake an organization? After the recolonization we will have essentially a new sorority for Texas Tech.

This new group will be faced with a great challenge and an unprecedented opportunity. They will be able to mold their new sorority into anything they desire. There will be virtually nothing impossible for them if they have the spirit and determination to succeed.

If you received an invitation to the tea this Sunday, this means that some fraternity or sorority member or campus leader has seen in you the qualities that will strengthen the Greek system as a whole and Phi Mu in particular.

National officers of Phi Mu have been called in to screen the prospective members. Some of the qualities they will be seeking include interest, personality, leadership, scholarship and character.

Members of each sorority and fraternity will be present at the tea to explain the purposes and goals of the recolonization.

We hope to see you there.

The student image

by Rick Mitz

"College students are a good-natured, hard-working, fun-loving bunch of kids. Oh, sure they do some crazy things like swallow goldfish, wear those shaggy raccoon coats, scream at football games and stuff themselves into phone booths. But, for the most part, college students are good-natured, hard-working and fun-loving."

That may have been an accurate description of the college student of 50 years ago when things were The Cat's Meow rather than Right on, but the new image of the university student as him doing somewhat different things than in the days of the Varsity Drag. Today the student does other "crazy" things. He swallows hallucinogenic drugs rather than goldfish, wears hippie clothes, screams at demonstrations, and stuffs himself into an occasional university administrator's office.

Today's American college students are in dire need of a good public relations firm.

"It's in the eyes of those allegedly Concerned Citizens that the student image is a tainted one, mutilated by magazine covers screaming out about the Student Revolution (exploiting covers that often are more revolting than the Revolts themselves) and even more distorted by one-sided television coverage that shows only the student revolution, but never the evolution.

The medium is the mess. Newspapers, radio and, especially, television have given the people of America an even more distorted picture of what the Typical Today Student is like.

The emerging stereotype is the raggedy-coifed revolutionary-radical, endlessly partaking in various school-spirited activities, bombings, seizures, strikes, pillage and a little arson on the side. In his spare time, he downs dope, sleeps promiscuously in coed dorms, dresses outlandishly and that's that.

The media displays (and displays and displays and instant replays) only his demonstration behavior, which might very well be out of context. He might be a medical student with honor grades who loves his mother, dates a sensible girl, attends church, has a good part-time job, loves apple pie, and in all other ways fulfills the All-American dreams. But the 6 o'clock news never shows that part of him.

People are frightened by the student movement — scared and acrimonious. The values they've held sacred, the goals they've strived toward suddenly are being threatened — by their own children. The result is panic. In a nation-wide poll taken last spring, the campus unrest problem ranked number one — even over war, ecology, racial strife, poverty and crime.

Spring is the season in which they take place. Spring — when every young student's fancy turns to revolution, when a fresh breath means a mouthful of mace, and spring fever means the hot anger of the U.S. populace sitting by their TVs counting the RPMs.

And they aren't exactly sitting there watching nothing. Last year, 1,785 demonstrations took place on college campuses, including 313 building seizures and sit-ins, 281 anti-ROTC demonstrations, 246 arsons, and 7,200 student arrests, resulting in more than $9.5 million in damage.

Television brought all the damage, fire, seizures, sit-ins right into our living rooms, in living red, white, black and blue color. The Student Radical could have been the title of a highly successful, action-packed, situation TV show aired in lieu of the news every evening.

The new student portrait is detrimental to the student himself — making all students appear alike, depersonalizing them, castrating individuality and sprouting new prejudices in a world already too full of biases. Yet the new student image can not be as bad as college trustees and university regents might fear.

A sit-in might be a radical way of expressing an idea, but it certainly is more socially provocative and meaningfully profound than swallowing a goldfish. Discontented students sit in and take over because they are concerned with values that affect the total society, not just themselves.

It's the cause which is so important. But television shows only the superficial outcome of the student fight for that cause — the rioting, the sea of stragly students, the hurled rocks, the four-letter words. The bloody, fighting, hell-raising revolutionary student image could be — if not changed, at least altered — if the media could make the public aware of the issues behind the fight. Struggles for ecology, an end to racism, equal rights, community control and the finish of an unjust war are not difficult issues for the public to relate to. However, they get lost in the color and dramatics of the televised college demonstrations, which always come out looking like a television Fellini orgy rather than a concerned and optimistic fight for a better American future.

College students wouldn't really need a PR outfit to help change their image if people could grasp the importance of the cause behind the fight.

The Middle American couple sitting in front of their new color TV no longer can afford to angrily turn off the 6 o'clock news of student protest and switch the channels to a war movie or an old John Wayne film.

The channels that must be switched are the channels of communication, and what could emerge would not be a new student image at all, but a new national image based upon a new understanding.

Tech still has chance to win SWC

Do you remember the time during a Tech basketball game when Tech would come down the court, work the ball, pop for two points and then a cheer would go up which would literally raise the roof about 10 inches off the walls.

After last Tuesday's game against Rice, I sincerely doubt if we made as much noise as the students from SMU do at their home games. And that's really bad.

One can make a lot of excuses about why he didn't go to the game and how he hates the new seating arrangement. But one fact still remains—Tech still has a chance to win the Southwest Conference.

The Raiders have won more games on the road than ever would have been expected. At home Tech's basketball team seems to be trying very hard to impress a student body who doesn't really seem to care.

Have you ever thought what the team could do if the student body again started raising the roof in the Coliseum?

This letter is by no means a cut on the student body at Texas Tech, but more a letter to make some people aware of a situation that is greatly overlooked.

This Saturday at 8 p.m. we play Texas, a team everyone likes to beat and a team that is currently tied with Tech. It sure would be nice to see people hangin' from the rafters again.

There is a definite advantage in playing at home. I think this was best described in the La Ventana basketball title this past year. It was:

"When A Full House Beats Five Aces."

T.J. Patterson analyzes Lubbock social and political structure

"Lubbock is a real son of a gun," remarked West Texas Times editor T. J. Patterson at Wednesday's weekly Politics for Lunch Bunch session at 1:30 p.m. in the University Center Blue Room.

During the informal question and answer discussion Patterson, a freshman advisor in Tech's College of Business Administration, aired his views regarding Lubbock.

He compared the social and political structure of Lubbock to a diagram containing a large circle representing the "haves", or business sector, and a small circle representing the poor, or the "have-nots." Patterson contends that the two circles never meet except when the "haves" hire members of the "have-not" group, who in turn pay money back into business.

Lubbock has long avoided issues brought to public attention by youth under age twenty-five, he said. Instead, the city is "hung up on garbage and liquor by the drink."

"I would like to see liquor by the drink here. A man should be given the opportunity to have what he wants. Some of the people who are kicking it are also drinking it."

As the freshman advisor Patterson claims, "I'm not saying I've got all the answers, but freshmen need to believe in themselves."

Emphasizing the need for a favorable self-image, Patterson tells them "they're great, and they can't help but make it." "Have you ever seen a black man without pride?" he asked. "The blacks who play dominoes in that corner (of the University Center) have pride. They clench their fists and speak their own language."

When questioned about why blacks do not understand their own culture, Patterson said,

"That's not a true statement." Whites are preoccupied with (historical) dates, he said, "but a black man can tell you what's happening now."

My grandmother was a black slave. She hugged me when I was a baby. I don't have to read a history book to know how a black slave hugs."

Patterson feels that blacks who major in sociology and black studies in college "aren't proving anything."

"We know where we are, man. The black man doesn't want to discuss his problems. He's looking for a solution."

Patterson emphatically cites education as that solution. "Education is the answer—not only formal education and a college degree, but all kinds of education. The black man must learn how to think and not be told what to think."

Patterson attributes student apathy in ghetto schools to lack of opportunity and "a dialect problem between teachers and students."

He said there is a need for a tangible program to develop people, not train them. "Dogs and cats are trained, human beings are not. Values such as persistence and self-confidence must be instilled within them."

As a newspaperman, Patterson states that the West Texas Times is West Texas' only black history publication. The weekly "can't compete with daily newspapers, and is intended as a supplement for the West Texas community."

The front page contains "national black news which the Avalanche-Journal doesn't carry." However, Patterson said that he is chiefly concerned with the editorial page.

Patterson said that persons in high places often hear from those in low places. "President Nixon receives the West Texas Times every Monday."

Advertising needs integrity, speaker says

By AMY BUTLER
Staff Writer

"Integrity must be put back into advertising," said A. E. (Ziggy) Nicholson at the Thursday morning session of Advertising Day of Mass Communications Week at Tech.

He directed statements to the audience, composed mainly of Tech advertising students. "It is up to people like you, the beginners, to do it. Even on the first day of your first job, have the fortitude to walk out if what is asked of you is wrong."

Nicholson, a 1967 Tech graduate, is a graphic designer with Les Weisbrich & Associates, Inc. of Beverly Hills, Calif.

"Revolution is change in attitudes and available tools; it is a change in thinking," said Nicholson. A high-bred computer that does animations is now being used in advertising.

"It was a revolutionary tool and turned out to be an effective one," he said. Nicholson brought film spots done by Les Weisbrich & Associates, Inc. of such programs as the Bob Hope Special, and advertisements like Timex and Morton's Potato Chips. He also had spots of anti-war films that have not been released to the public.

"A new computer called CAESAR will be capable of doing full-character animation. It will take away the laborious, time-consuming drudgery of artistic creation," Nicholson said.

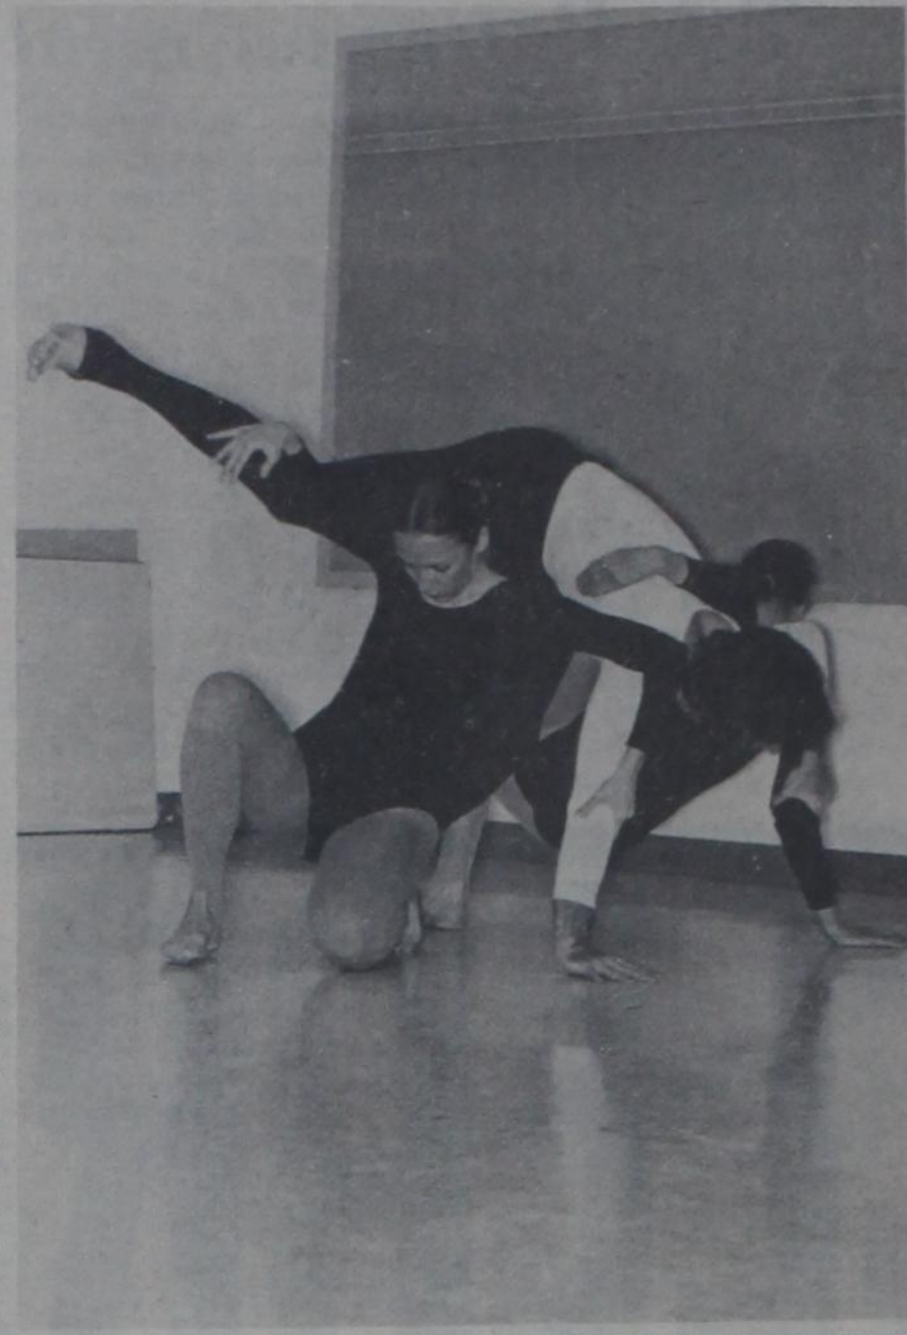

Nicholson believes that definite changes need to be made in advertising. "Changes must be made internally or 'Big Brother' will take over." He cited examples of Lady Bird Johnson's campaign to beautify America by taking down billboards, and the restrictions of advertising cigarettes on television.

"Big Brother activities remind me of a speech by advertiser Lee Fondren titled 'Advertising 1980' at a national Alpha Delta Sigma (ADS) convention in 1967," Nicholson said. In the speech, Fondren asked the audience to picture themselves at a meeting in 1980 where the main topic would be to formulate plans to get Congress to make advertising legal again, as 'Big Brother' had ruled it out for government subsidized substitutions. Nicholson said, "This may be a bit bizarre, but it may also be the trend for the future."

Nicholson said changes in advertising are slow because people are convinced they are doing the right thing. He added, "Those who know they are not doing the right thing are selling out for the good old American dollar. Even though the changes are slow, they must happen."

"However, there are those creative advertisers who are leaving the business because they refuse to do false advertising. Honor and integrity must be in advertising, or the '1980 story' will come true," he said.

'Clean'

Repertory dance scheduled tonight

By MARSHA NASH
Special Reporter

Utah Repertory Dance Theater (RDT) made its second appearance in Lubbock Wednesday, beginning a three-day period of lectures and demonstrations that will culminate at 8 p.m. tonight in a single performance at Municipal Auditorium.

RDT is the only professional dance group outside of Los Angeles and New York, the major metropolitan culture centers. The Rockefeller Foundation established RDT in Utah to de-centralize culture.

since been imported." "Ballet just really doesn't have any validity any more," he said. Life has departed from conventionalism. Modern ballet is a conventionalized form that is attempting to cope with modern themes, but it is not as effective as modern dance, which combines modern themes with modern form.

Modern dance is one of the two art forms that are purely American and has not been imported with other parts of our culture.

The uniqueness of RDT is that the leadership of the company evolves from within, they are the only professional dance group outside of New York and Los Angeles. They are the only true repertory group in the country.

M. D. Barrell, lighting designer and production manager, said, "There is a great trend toward modern dance and away from ballet. Many new companies are being formed. However, those who practice modern dance really don't agree on what it is."

Barrell said, "Other groups claim to be repertories, but we are the only dance theater capable of performing a broad range of works by a number of choreographers at any time."

Bill Evans, a dancer, said, "We are really proud of the group. It's nice that we are a democracy. When we tell people that we don't have a director, they don't believe us until they have seen for themselves. Democracy in an art form is almost unheard of."

"The whole modern dance form is much more abstract than ballet. Modern dance is less restrictive in form and structure—ballet is more conventionalized."

Barrell said, "We try to keep the number of the group to twelve dancers and six other personnel. If the number of dancers were more than twelve, decision-making would really get out of hand and there would be a great surge in expenses."

He said, "The same forces that are creating change in all the art forms are creating the change in dance. Beginning 50 years ago, modern dance evolved into an art form and has

Black market called ignored profit symbol

By LINDA GARRETT
Staff Writer

The black market is a profit symbol that has long been ignored by white advertisers, said Percell Johnson, vice president for advertising for Tuesday Publications Inc., of New York.

products does not mean that advertisers should continue to ignore them, he said.

Johnson was the keynote speaker at the luncheon Thursday for Advertising Day of Mass Communications Week. He spoke to an audience of 120 about advertising, marketing and blacks.

Johnson attributed the lack of attention to the black market to the differences in the economic histories of the black and white societies. He said that whites have long equated blacks with poverty.

Johnson said 73 per cent of the black community in America live in 40 urban markets. These blacks are waiting for advertisers, he said.

He explained that the true meaning of black today is the rejection of white middle class values as the ultimate goal for life and the realization that black middle class values should be the goal.

According to Moskop, an organization's reputation builds up in the public's mind over the years, and it is the duty of the public relations people to see that the reputation is a good one.

Because 98.2 per cent of the retail business in America is controlled by whites, blacks have no means of retaining money and no visible accumulation of capital, Johnson said. For this reason, he said, whites think of black as a synonym for poor.

Minority students problems will be aired

The Committee on Minority Students & Ethnic Studies is investigating the need for a special office to assist minority students with their problems, said Ted Taylor, assistant economics professor at Tech. The committee is conferring with various administrators and minority groups on campus to determine what is currently being done. There is no specific program now set up for minority students.

A workshop with representatives from each minority group will be March 4 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon in the Blue Room of the University Center. After a general orientation representatives will be divided to form three discussion groups on academic problems, non-academic problems, and off campus problems. The results will be summarized and presented to the committee.

There are approximately 1,000 minority students on campus. Included in this number are blacks, Chicanos, Indians, and foreign students.

Men's service organization sponsors 'Brick Bust'

Circle K, a men's service organization, is sponsoring a "Brick Bust" this Saturday at 1 p.m.

The project involves knocking the remaining asphalt off the bricks salvaged from street renovation project on North University. The cleaned bricks will be used to provide walkways over potential muddy spots on campus. All Tech men interested can meet for the "Brick Bust" immediately west of the BA parking lot on Saturday.

Paving will be done around the Biology building and anywhere else in need of a suitable walkway. Circle K is working very closely with Dr. Kitchens, director of grounds maintenance, because of sloppy conditions around some of the buildings.

A smoker-party will be held afterward for those who are interested in helping Circle K in this project and others.

Lip from the Library

It's a well-known fact that the library has books and periodicals. Today, the library has expanded into the area of microfilm and other audiovisual materials. Still there are materials which are not books, magazines or microforms. They are called pamphlets. They may be only 2 pages in length but they contain the game laws of Maine, a bibliography on law enforcement or instructions on how to build a mobile home park. In the Tech library, these pamphlets are housed in filing cabinets called the Vertical File. What can you find in the Vertical File?

Would you like to move to Australia? Need some facts about "Down-Under"? Then, see Professional Opportunities

In Australia. Accountant, chemist, teacher, librarian—all these fields and more are examined. If you are in agriculture, then look for Opportunities on the Land in Australia.

Undecided about a career? Have you considered social work, professional athletics, merchandising, teaching or any of the hundreds of occupations that are covered by the Vertical File? This Career Monograph series is published by the Institute for Research. Each career pamphlet contains a description of the occupation, what type of education is necessary, the earnings that can be expected, and a bibliography that can be consulted for further reading.

Jesus-Christ Superstar was one of the big rock-operas of the year. You've heard the music, now read the words. You can find the libretto in the Vertical File.

If you've been assigned a paper on man's need to explore the heavens, the Suddenly, Tomorrow Came may help you in your research. Published by IBM, this 36-page pamphlet discusses the past, present and future of man's desire to reach the stars.

Australia, career decisions, Jesus-Christ Superstar—all these subjects and many more are covered in the Vertical File. All materials can be checked out for 3 days and browsing in the file is encouraged.

First student regent

Richard Allen Moore, III, a first-year student at the University of Texas Law School, was appointed to the Board of Directors of Texas Southern University in Houston Monday by Gov. Preston Smith. Moore shown with the Governor as announcement of the appointment was made, is the first student ever to serve on a Texas college board.

Your University Center

By Jan Cook

Activities scheduled at the University Center for the week of Feb. 18-Feb. 25 are:

TODAY

The movie this weekend is "Goodbye Columbus", starring Richard Benjamin, Ali MacGraw, and Jack Klugman. The feature will be shown in the Coronado Room, UC. Admission is 50 cents with ID.

SATURDAY

10 p.m.—The Student Entertainment Committee will host a coffeehouse immediately following the game in the Coronado Room. Entertainment will be provided by a folk trio of students calling themselves "Cousin Leroy's Cat Daddy Band" and one single set performed by Tech student Stan Cohn. Admission is 50 cents, which includes coffee and hot chocolate.

SUNDAY

3 & 7 p.m.—"Goodbye Columbus" in the Coronado Room. Admission is 50 cents with ID.

WEDNESDAY

1:30 p.m.—Political speaker series, "Politics for Lunch Bunch," sponsored by the Ideas and Issues Committee has invited guest speaker Bill Hobby this week. Hobby is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor from Houston. He will discuss Texas State politics. Everyone is invited to bring their lunch to the UC Blue Room. Admission is free.

THURSDAY

Noon-5 p.m.—The Fine Arts Committee will present the Scarborough Faire, a reenactment of the Old English town fairs. The "flea market-bazaar" type setup will provide students with a great opportunity to pick up some inexpensive gifts and trinkets. Students from the art, dance and theater departments will contribute hand made items, entertainment and daily shows. A magician will also be on hand. Food and drinks will be available, too. Everyone is invited to come and mingle in the Old English atmosphere in the UC Ballroom.

FRIDAY

Noon-5 p.m.—Scarborough Faire, UC Ballroom.

8 p.m.—The movie of the weekend will be "Anne of A Thousand Days." Admission is 50 cents with ID.

Radio-TV panels will scrutinize communications 'revolution' today

Radio and television, the two closely related media which in recent years have really involved the masses in mass communications, will come under close scrutiny on the Texas Tech University campus Friday to cap this year's observance of Mass Communications Week.

Panels made up of experienced leaders in both these major areas of telecommunications will provide discussion of the "revolution" in the industry to highlight activities for Telecommunications Day.

Reflecting the week-long theme of "Revolution in Mass Communications," the activities for Telecommunications Day will climax similar programs of emphasis during the week on journalism and advertising.

Telecommunications Day is sponsored by Tech's Beta Rho chapter of Alpha Epsilon Rho, national broadcasting honorary fraternity.

The fraternity strives for responsibility in broadcasting. Among its objectives are: encouraging and rewarding scholarship and accomplishment among telecommunications students, promoting the advancement of education in the art and science of telecommunications, and establishing meaningful communications between members of the industry.

Following registration and a formal welcome to guests, the first panel, on radio, will begin in the Coronado Room of the University Center, at Tech at 8:35 a.m. Radio panel members will include moderator Cliff Craig of KGNC-TV, Amarillo; Clint Formby, owner and manager of KPAN radio in Hereford; Wendell Mayes, Jr., president of KNOV radio in Austin; Stan Wilson with Texas State Network in Fort Worth; and Gene Stanley, KLVY radio,

Levelland. Craig will also moderate the television panel discussion, beginning at 10:35 a.m. in the Coronado Room, among panel members James Terrell, vice president and manager of KTVT-TV, Fort Worth; Dave Scribner with Doubleday Broadcasting of Dallas; Dean Borba, vice president and general manager, KHOU-TV in Houston; and Ray Herndon, vice president and general manager of KMID-TV, Midland.

Sponsors of the day's activities stressed that the public is invited and encouraged to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Art exhibit

Donna Read, art professor and president of the Texas Designer Craftsman (TDC), displays some of the items in the TDC exhibit which opens Sunday in the art department gallery.

LUBBOCK SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

MONDAY—The Lubbock Symphony Orchestra will present Jeffrey Siegal in concert at 8:15 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium. The concert will include "Overture to the Impresario"—Mozart, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring"—J. S. Bach, "Prelude, Die Meistersingers", —Wagner, "Concerto in E flat Major for Piano and Orchestra"—Liszt, "Symphony in B minor" (second and third movements only)—Franck, and "Symphonic Variations for Piano and Orchestra"—Franck.

Siegal will be featured in "Concert in E flat Major" and "Symphonic Variations" on piano. His reputation as a great pianist is known world-wide, as is shown by the various awards he has merited internationally.

DEPARTMENT OF MUSIC

TODAY—The Repertory Dance Theatre of Utah, after three days of residency, will perform in the Municipal Auditorium at 8 p.m. The dance company has been heralded as "first-rate", "superb" and "an instrument that any choreographer would be pleased to work with" by the Washington Post, Saturday Review and The New York Times respectively.

This program is presented by the Lubbock Cultural Affairs Council and the University Artists Series of Texas Tech with supporting grants from the Texas Commission on the Arts and Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts, in Washington, D. C., a Federal Agency.

THE MUSEUM

THROUGH MARCH 5—"Texas Paintings and Sculpture: 20th Century" will be on exhibit in the east central and west galleries.

SATURDAY—"Indian Star Legends"—the current Planetarium lecture-demonstration, will be shown at 3 p.m. in the Moody Planetarium. Admission is 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for students and no charge for members of the West Texas Museum Association.

SUNDAY—"Indian Star Legends" will be shown at 3 p.m. and 4 p.m.

"Designer - Craftsman Today", under the auspices of the National Invitational Design exhibition, will go on display in the central gallery. This exhibit will feature unusual designs in pottery, enamel, glass, textiles and jewelry.

DEPARTMENT OF ART

Texas Designer Craftsman will have a display very similar to that of the "Designer-Craftsman Today" except that it will pertain only to Texas articles. The exhibit will be on display in the teaching galleries in the Department of Art. The show will feature works by 51 artists whose designs are executed in enamel, glass, metal, pottery and jewelry. In addition to the Sunday showing, the exhibit will be open to the public from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. weekdays through March 17.

Banquet, honors given during Engineers Week

Dan Wells, president of the South Plains Chapter of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers, has announced events in which his organization will participate in observance of the 22nd Annual National Engineers Week here, February 20-26.

The theme for 1972 is "Engineering...A Better Tomorrow Through Technology."

An Engineers Week Banquet honoring the local "Engineer of the Year" will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center Ballroom. Dwight A. Nesmith, director of the Kansas State Experiment Station, will speak at the banquet.

Five students from Tech's College of Engineering will also be recognized for "outstanding achievement in engineering" in ceremonies at 4 p.m. Thursday.

Students to be honored have been chosen by a committee from the Engineering Student Council after a study of nominees' records and after personal interviews with the top ten nominees. More than 30 students were nominated, said Carlton D. Sanderson, president of the council.

A high school student of the week from each of the five Lubbock high schools will be honored this year from the first time. Nominees for this position include: Stacey Nelson, Lubbock High; Greg Boyd, Monterey; Rodney Trotter, Coronado; Terry Hunter, Estacado; and Henry Wheeler, Dunbar.

Record about Hughes to be sold

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A record about Howard Hughes is being released by the distributor of "The Battle Hymn of Lt. Calley" and "Harper Valley P-T-A."

Spokesmen for the distributor, Shelby Singleton, said the record "Howard Hughes is Alive and Well" will be marketed in a few days.

The song was written by its singer, Sonny Hall of Houston, and another songwriter identified only as "T. Rainwater." It was recorded in Houston.

The song was written in 1971, before Clifford Irving's purported autobiography of Hughes came to light, Singleton said.

Laird says U.S. will abide by arbitrary sub limitations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird departed from an earlier statement Thursday and said the United States will abide by any limitations imposed by arms negotiators on new missile-firing submarines.

Previously he said the United States intends to build the submarines regardless of an arms limitation agreement with Moscow.

In an early-morning television interview, Laird divorced the strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) from the Pentagon's request for crash development of the new undersea-launched missile system (ULMS).

"I do not associate the ULMS request with the SALT talks or the arms limitation agreement," the secretary said on the NBC Today Show.

'Thanks'—just one thing worth living for

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things that make life worth living: A woman smiling and saying "thank you" after you hold the apartment house elevator for her.

The ecstatic yelps of beagle hounds chasing a surprised rabbit.

The biggest pot of the evening in the middle of the green table cloth and four kings hidden in your hand.

The shimmering trail of beauty a full moon makes across a breeze-rippled lake. Feeding a breaded veal cutlet—your least favorite food—to the dog under the dining room table while your wife isn't looking.

Winning a kewpie doll for your girl at the carnival by knocking all the rubber milk bottles off the stand with three pitched balls.

Eloping with the snippy young lady who once said she wouldn't marry you if you were the last man on earth.

The soft sheen of candlelight falling on old silver.

The taste of the first tomato to redden in your backyard garden.

The comradely wink of an old schoolteacher who gave you a better final grade in algebra than the one both she and you knew you really deserved.

Buttering up Dad for an extra dime as a child and hearing him tell you with mock seriousness,

"Don't throw it all away on one girl, son."

Thumbing through an old family photo album and being startled at how young and near and human the faces of the vanished dead now seem. When you were young, they looked so quaint and far away—almost as if they weren't actual people at all.

Getting a letter from a distant friend disclosing that he has gained 15 pounds while you were taking off 10.

Going to a zoo and staring deep into a tiger's eyes.

Sleeping alone in a tree house creaking in the wind.

Having a fire you built in the fireplace spring into roaring blaze after your wife predicted it wouldn't catch.

The life stories of dignity and calm told by the wrinkles in elderly hands.

Holding the first dandelion of spring under your sweetheart's chin to determine whether she liked butter or not.

Holding your sweetheart's hand and finding it even clammy than your own because neither of you was quite sure what would happen next.

The audible metal clang that ensued when you kissed while both of you were still wearing braces.

The peal of bells that rang in your heart the day you evoked a successful burp from your first baby.

By such small unforgettable moments are our long lives made memorable.

Female Basketball

It's been a while since 'Female Basketball' appeared, but in that time I've been studying the game so I could try to communicate with you girls (and other uninformed) persons just exactly what's going on out there on the basketball court.

One thing that impresses me most about Red Raider roundball is the hustling techniques of the smallest men on the court. It always fascinates me to watch them run back and forth across the floor without absolutely collapsing from exhaustion.

It was my fascination with those 'little' men on the court that caused me to choose guard Richard Little for my first interview with a basketball player. (Guard, for those of you who don't remember, is the quick, outside player who does most of the passing and shooting.)

One of the few sophomores on the squad, Little has gained his starting position because of his eagerness for competition.

"When I started playing in the third grade, I was the little tykester of the block," Little said. "I grew up with guys who were bigger than I was, and they would always beat me up and shove me around."

"When I look back on that, I think, Man, that was great," Little continued. "I had played against just greater competition, and I think if you play against someone that is good ... it made me just build up so that when I reached the level of playing against someone of my own ability, I could play better than they could."

Richard used the same principle to help train his little brother. "When I was in junior high and high school, I used to push him and make him do things that he didn't like; but he's gonna be a great athlete (Richard's younger brother averaged 47 points his sixth grade year.)"

Although many years of constant conditioning enable players to survive the strenuous running tasks of basketball, Little explained that a good crowd influences his performance on the court.

"I've always loved to play in front of people. They all think I'm a hotdog or something..."

Here, I interrupted Richard as I, too, had heard of this but I had assumed it was a nickname.

"Well, you know, I mean like they'll say he's hotdogging it — like showing off. It's fine with me; I don't mind anybody calling me a hotdog."

"I like to put on a good show for the fans so they can get their money's worth. That's what my coach always told me in high school...people come to see you play, so give them their money's worth," Little explained. "That's the way I've always played, and I'm not gonna change 'cause some people call me hotdog."

Many sports fans rarely consider basketball a contact sport. After having teeth knocked out during the TCU game, Little heartily disagrees with that assumption.

"Anybody that says basketball isn't physical, they're crazy! Unlike football, in basketball you don't have any protective padding on you whatsoever. If I had had on a mouthpiece or something, that wouldn't have happened. But, you can't wear a mouthpiece 'cause you can't breathe." Since guards have to run almost every second they're on the floor, I don't think anyone could last long without air no matter how much they wanted to protect their teeth!

When asked who was the toughest guard he had ever played against, Little replied, "Steve Bracey from Tulsa, 'cause usually when I want to and I really put my mind to it and I can stop somebody on defense just one time just to see if I can do it, and I couldn't stop this guy."

"As a team, I guess New Mexico is the best team we have played," Richard said.

So, fairly-informed basketball followers, keep your eyes on a fiery blond-haired guy who fits the "definition" of a guard. You'll see a "little" bit of eagerness that makes him stand out from the giants.

Pics try to avenge earlier loss

Tech's frosh challenge South Plains

South Plains Junior College of Levelland will attempt to tack on its second win of the season over Tech's Picadors Saturday in the Municipal Coliseum at 5:45, preceding the Tech-Texas contest that gets underway at 8 p.m.

South Plains defeated the frosh, Jan. 17 in Levelland by an 87-82 count and ranks one of the quickest teams Tech has faced.

Tech, 8-3 on the season, defeated Wayland Baptist College here Tuesday, 102-74, breaking the century mark for the first time this season.

Coach Gerge Davidson said Tuesday that he has noticed improvement in every area of his team the past two games. "I am very pleased in the overall improvement of the team. The only thing we need to work on is our defense."

William Johnson, Tech's leading scorer and rebounder, scored 28 points in the SPC game in January. Bryan Mauk had 15 and Phil Bailey had 10.

South Plains' Tom Jordan, a sophomore who leads SPC scoring, tallied 25 in the first game while playmaker George Pannell had 20.

Starters for the Picadors are Mauk and Bailey in the backcourt, Johnson and either Kim McClintock or Steve Trncak at forward and Mark Davis at center.

In the victory over Wayland

Tuesday, Johnson led all scorers with 21 points and pulled 16 rebounds. Bailey, getting 13 in the first half, finished with 17 markers. Davis had 15 in his effort of the season while James Derkowski and Trncak had 11 and 10, respectively.

Derkowski broke the 100-point

Reserve guards Dave Thetford and Bill Gray will see action Saturday. Playing only in brief roles, Thetford and Gray have provided above-average depth all season.

The Pics host Ranger Juco, Feb. 26, in its next encounter.

Intramural Notes

Intramural basketball is off to what appears to be another year of highly volatile play-offs. The team that wins the coveted All-University roundball title may be the one that gets away with the most, is more physical and keeps the IM officials in constant fear of an all-out brawl.

In the past that may have been the case but this year don't bet on it.

The IM department and staff has done a commendable job of selecting referees for the play-offs that have proved his "cool" during the earlier league competition.

LAST YEAR IN the finals of the All-University basketball tournament, the Phi Delt met the Moonrakers. Both teams were evidently the proven class of the IM teams but a few hasty calls by the ref, (who in all fairness did his best but the crowd at Municipal Coliseum was definitely non-Greek) produced a Phi Delt win.

A prime example of the manner in which the IM refs handle such situations this year was exhibited Thursday night in the Phi Gamma Delta and Alpha Tau Omega "B" teams match-up in the tourney.

The Fiji "B" team won the Fraternity III League while the ATO "B" bunch finished in the second place slot.

SPORTSMANSHIP was an uncommon trait in Thursday night's affair between the two teams. With the ATO squad 10 points ahead with 2:30 left in the game, a flurry of fouls, both personal and technical, against mainly the Fiji "B" team demanded the game being stopped.

According to an Intramural graduate assistant at the game, the captain of the Fiji "B" bunch asked for the game to be called and then changed his mind after discussing the matter with his irate team members. The IM official called the game over, though, and with intense justification.

Players on both ends of the court were taking cheap shots. It was not a case, either, of one team getting caught more—the Fijis were just doing it more often.

The ATO "B" team won the game, 65-55.

IM officials and refs are often criticized and this writer has been on the critical side of the fence both as a player, onlooker and sports writer but Thursday's decision in the ATO Fiji game was one of the better examples of justification against an obviously hostile group of basketball players and the term "basketball players" has been used loosely.

In other IM play-off action Thursday night, the Delt "B" team beat the Sigma Chi "B" squad, 54-45. The Delt won the Fraternity IV title while the Sigma Chi's were the second place finishers in Fraternity III. MURDOUGH "C" TEAM advanced to the quarterfinals by beating Weymouth "C" squad 75-68 in a come-from-behind victory. Greg Hargrove scored 34 points for the winners.

The number-one ranked Moonrakers also advanced to the quarterfinals by beating Thumb's Down 69-46. The 'Rakers and Thumb's Down were the first and second place finishers, respectively, in the Independent I League.

First round wins in the All-University play-offs were enjoyed by the Air Force ROTC, Bledsoe "A", Thompson "A", and ASAE.

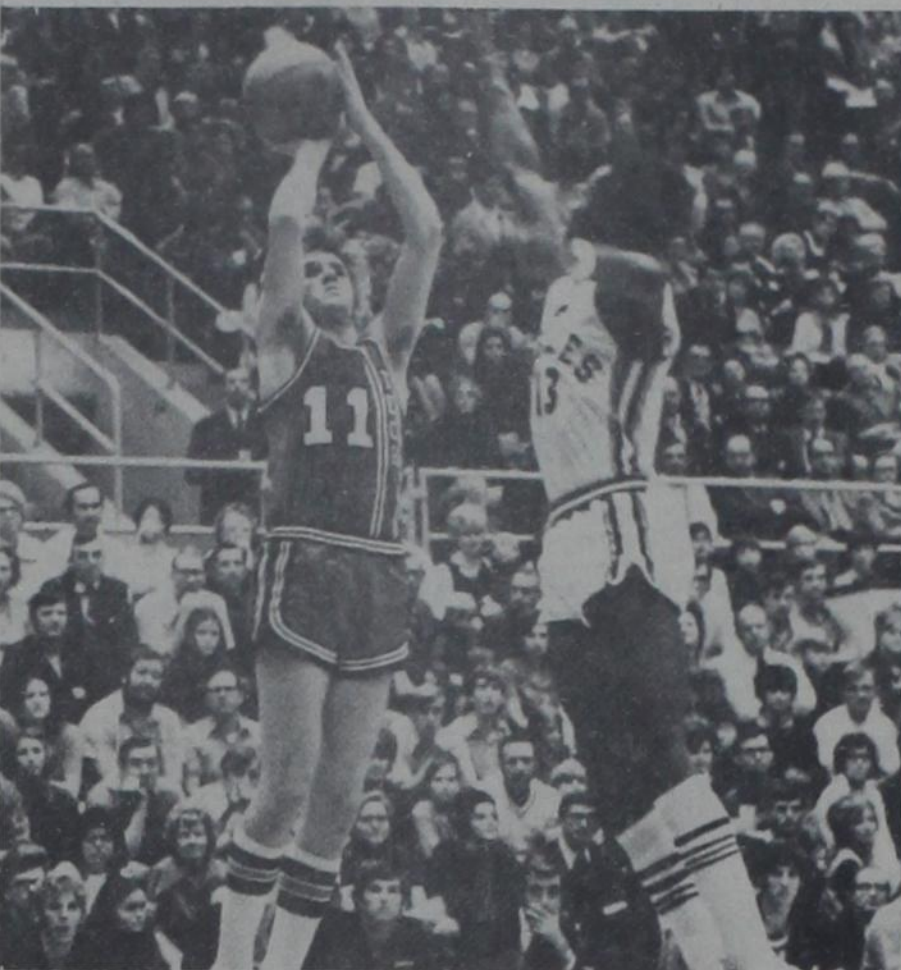

Thompson, the Residence Hall II champ, beat Weymouth 69-68 in one of Thursday night's thrillers. Weymouth was the second place team in Residence Hall I.

Coleman "B" outraced Bledsoe 84-69. Coleman won the Residence Hall I title while Bledsoe was the runner-up in Residence Hall II.

Air Force ROTC beat a stubborn Phi Epsilon Kappa five, 69-64. Air Force ROTC won the Club III league while the PEK bunch placed second in Club I play.

ASCE lost to ASAE by a 52-45 count. ASCE won the Club I title. ASAE was the second place finisher in Club III.

(see IM notes page 8)

Soccer team shakes rust, goes to WTSU Sunday

By MIKE HALLMARK Sports Writer

Tech's soccer team shakes off the rust of two month's inactivity as West Texas State University at Canyon provides competition in a Sunday tilt to be held on the Tech track field starting at 1 p.m.

Tech, which won the Texas Invitational Tournament in their last outing in December, will be trying to sharpen their play in preparation for the Texas Collegiate Soccer League All-Star game to be held in San Antonio on Trinity University's campus, Feb. 26.

the Alamo City to take part in the TCSL's showcase piece. Fullback John Spiegelberg, halfback Paul Kreuzer, and forwards Tom Schutz, Wolf Kreuzer, and Geoff Harley attained first team status, while goalie David Fordon, fullback Lynch Grattan, and forward Alfredo Guzman were named to the second squad.

Tech's tilt with West Texas will also serve the purpose of tuning team skills which will be needed after the All-Star game.

Tech is definitely headed for Denton to take part in the North Texas Soccer Tournament to be held on April 29-30. New Mexico University will have a tournament in late April, although the date is yet unknown. There is a possibility the Raiders might attend the UNM tourney if there is no conflict with the North Texas tourney.

"We would like to attend both of the tournaments," said Tom Vaughn, Tech's left fullback. "However, there is a good chance they are both on the same weekend, the one before finals. If that is the case, then we will go to Denton because we feel more people will be at the North Texas tourney."

Vaughn expressed the need for more people to tryout for the soccer team. "We have been practicing for a week now, and from now on we will practice every Wednesday at 5 p.m. at the track field. We welcome anyone who would be interested in working out with us. We can always use more players."

Tech, Texas square off Saturday night

By MILLER BONNER
Sports Editor

Tech's basketball team takes one of the series of steps that could lead to a Southwest Conference roundball championship Saturday night when the Raiders host Texas at 8 p.m. in Municipal Coliseum.

The Techs are 6-3 in SWC competition, one game behind league leading SMU (7-2). Texas plus TCU and Texas

A&M are all tied at 6-3. Should Tech beat Texas Saturday night in Lubbock and follow up with a road trip win over SMU Tuesday night, Feb. 22, the Raiders are assured at least a tie for the conference lead.

"Right now Texas is the most important game on our schedule," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "We have to play them one at a time. Raiders are assured at least a tie for the conference lead.

"OUR BALLCLUB HAS been a bit sluggish at home," admitted Myers when questioned about the Raiders' two losses in the last three games before a Lubbock crowd. "On road trips we have a more controlled environment; we can take the boys down to the gym, downtown to the show and know when they get up and how much sleep they get. At home games, especially on Tuesday night games, we don't know if the boys are getting out of class and going back home and going to sleep or what. We plan to do things a bit differently before the Texas game, though."

IN OTHER CONFERENCE affairs Saturday night, Texas A&M (6-3) travels to Fort Worth for a meeting with TCU (6-3). In other words, after Saturday night the four-team tie for second place will diminish to only two squads.

SMU (7-2) is hosted by Arkansas (2-7) while Rice (0-9) is at Baylor (3-6).

GREG LOWERY, The league's leading point producer will lead the Raider's starting line-up Saturday night. Lowery has been hampered by a groin and ankle injury in the past weeks but should be ready to play against the Longhorns. Joining Lowery will be center Ralph Palomar, forward Ron Richardson and probably guard Don Moore and forward David Johnson. Tech fans can expect guard Richard Little and forwards Ed Wakefield, Gene Kaberline or Ron Douglas to fill in as the game progresses or begin the tilt as a member of the starting quintet.

Texas will counter with 6-10 center B. G. Brosterhaus, guards Scooter Lenox and Harry Larrabee plus sophomore sensation Larry Robinson (6-6) at the forward slot with either Lynn Howden or Eric Groscurth at the other forward positions.

Tech beat Texas in Austin earlier this season 79-68 as the Raiders played one of the "best games ever" according to Myers.

IM notes (continued from page 7)

IM PLAYOFFS CONTINUE Sunday and will be completed Thursday in the Men's Gym. Games are to be played Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and then the final tilt Thursday.

Involving another sport in the IM program, James Teague, director of team sports, announced the need for softball officials for the upcoming season.

At 6:30 p.m. Monday in the IM Conference Room (located in the IM Gym) is the first meeting for softball officials. Rulebooks can be purchased at the meeting for 25 cents.

Teague said about 25 official will be needed. Officials receive three dollars per game.

In the weekly UNIVERSITY DAILY poll of the top ten IM basketball teams on campus, the Moonrakers again finished in the number one spot. The 'Rakers garnered 16 first place votes for 194 total points.

The Phi Delt, last year's champs in the All-University tourney, is in second place with 129 points but no first place votes.

The Student Union for Black Unity (SOBU) received two first place tallies but finished with only 113 points, good for the third spot.

The only other team getting a vote for the number one position that finished in the top five was the Delt. The Greek team tallied 98 points and finished in fifth behind Thompson.

The bottom five of the top ten was composed of the Baptist Student Union, Sigma Chi, Thumb's Down, Scorpions and Bledsoe.

The Scorpions received a first place vote but have already been eliminated from the playoffs.

Bledsoe was eliminated from the top ten by Thompson Hall Thursday night.
