Candidates Barnes, Hobby visit Lubbock

By SUZI PATTERSON
Staff Writer

Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes, Democratic candidate for governor, and Bill Hobby, Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, will speak in Lubbock today about issues facing Texas voters.

Barnes' "Victory Special" will stop at the Santa Fe Depot at the east end of Main St. at 11:45 a.m. today as Barnes makes a three-day whistle-stop campaign tour of the state.

Accompanying Barnes will be his wife Nancy, three of the world champion Dallas Cowboys—Dan Reeves, Bob Lilly and Walt Garrison—members of Barnes' staff and a group of press, radio and television newsmen.

The lieutenant governor will speak briefly about the issues facing Texas.

"We are going to take this campaign right to the people and discuss the issues with them where we can look them in the eye," Barnes said.

George Nelson, local attorney and Lubbock County coordinator for Barnes' campaign, said Barnes will undoubtedly discuss issues relevant to Tech.

Bill Hobby, president and executive editor of the Houston Post, will arrive at 3:30 p.m. today at Lubbock Regional Airport by private plane, said Bill Scott and Ken Fields, student coordinators for the Hobby campaign.

Scott said Hobby would hold a press conference at 4:30 p.m. in the ballroom of the Pioneer Hotel.

There will be a reception for students only at 8 p.m. in the same ballroom.

Scott said students are urged to attend the reception and will have an opportunity to talk with Hobby.

Hobby will speak to the Politics for Lunch Bunch at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Coronado Room of the University Center. The luncheon is open to the public.

Hobby will leave at 4:30 p.m. from Lubbock Regional Airport, Scott said.

'Informer' thwarted kidnap plan, government claims

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The government claimed Monday that a plot to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger was thwarted because a fellow prisoner, recruited as a courier by the Rev. Philip Berrigan, turned FBI informer.

The defense at the Harrisburg Seven trial responded by labeling the informer a liar and an "agent provocateur."

The defense also said federal antiwar conspiracy charges against Berrigan and six codefendants were false and were lodged "to stop a movement, to silence people and to support something J. Edgar Hoover had done."

Seeking additional funds from the Senate for the FBI, Hoover first publicly reported the alleged conspiracy on Nov. 27, 1970, more than seven weeks before Berrigan and the others were indicted.

The mention of Hoover came from his onetime boss, former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark.

During the day Clark was fired by Berrigan as the latter's attorney.

Confirming this, Clark told newsmen, "the court has not released me."

Thus, he remained the attorney, on record at least, for the antiwar priest, described by the government as mastermind of the purported plot to kidnap Kissinger, blow up government property and destroy draft records.

Berrigan sought the right to circumvent Clark as his lawyer in order to make a personal opening statement to match the government's trial-opening remarks by Deputy Asst. Atty. Gen. William Lynch, another onetime aide to Clark.

An 18-page statement had been prepared by Berrigan but he never got to read it.

U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman ruled that only a lawyer could speak for him.

The angular, 6-foot-3 Clark eventually made an opening statement in response to Lynch—but he did so in the name of another defendant whom he represented, not Berrigan.

Clark sought to dismiss Kissinger's involvement in the case by telling the nine women and three men on the jury, "of course you know Henry Kissinger was not kidnaped. He is alive and well and in Peking today, as far as we know."

"The evidence will show that the government's charges are false. There was no conspiracy. There was no agreement."

Earlier, Lynch told the jury that Berrigan's prison courier became an FBI informer, and revealed a plot by the seven defendants to kidnap Kissinger.

The FBI informer, Boyd Douglas Jr., was serving time at Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary when Berrigan arrived in mid-April 1970 to begin a six-year term for destroying draft records.

Douglas was allowed in and out of the prison under an educational program for convicts. Lynch said Douglas was recruited as a courier by Berrigan and subsequently advised to be on the lookout for "a very hot letter."

"In this letter the proposal to kidnap Henry Kissinger was made," said Lynch in his 51-minute opening statement.

"Boyd Douglas was advised that under no circumstances was it to fall into the wrong hands," Lynch said.

Referring to two other defendants, the prosecutor declared, "Sister Elizabeth McAlister set up a telephone call from Egbal Ahmad. Mr. Ahmad called Boyd Douglas and advised him he was aware of the contents of the letter and very much interested in having Philip Berrigan's views...on the plan as proposed. The plan as proposed was simply to kidnap Mr. Kissinger."

Lynch said Douglas made a copy of the letter which he smuggled to Berrigan inside the prison.

"The original of the letter was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation," Lynch said.

Mention of the phone call led Ahmad's lawyer, Leonard Boudin, to move for a mistrial. He claimed the admissibility of the phone call as evidence was still in doubt. Herman denied the motion.

Besides detailing the kidnap plot, Lynch outlined the government's charge that the seven defendants conspired to raid draft boards and destroy Selective Service records and to blow up heating tunnels in Washington on Washington's birthday, just a year ago.

"We expect the evidence to show," Lynch went on, "that the three aspects of the conspiracy as charged are intertwined and interrelated. The draft board destruction was intended to recruit people for the more significant actions."

Douglas, 35, was sent to Lewisburg for assaulting an FBI agent who had arrested him on interstate bad check charges.

Douglas had taken special classes at Bucknell University in Lewisburg, under a prison-sponsored program that allowed him to come and go from the prison daily.

Lynch described the arrangement with Douglas as a "communications network whereby Philip Berrigan could get word out of prison as his fellows could get word into prison."

However, about a month after Douglas was recruited, the prosecutor went on, a search of Berrigan's cell disclosed a letter, and Douglas was implicated.

SA office filing dates set

Candidates for Student Association (SA) executive officer positions have until 5 p.m. Friday to file at the SA office, said Pat Moody, SA office secretary.

Positions to be filled are president, internal vice president, external vice president and business manager. Each candidate must pay a one dollar filing fee and list his name, address, telephone number, classification and grade point average.

A 2.0 grade point average is required, said Mrs. Moody. The SA executive officer election will be March 8. Candidates for the Senate may file Feb. 28 through March 3.

Senate elections will be March 15.

Nixon trip captures worldwide headlines

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union mentioned it briefly and North Vietnam ignored the event Monday, but elsewhere President Nixon's first meetings with China's Communist leaders captured headlines around the world.

In Japan there were expressions of regret that a Japanese leader didn't get to Peking first, while in Poland, Communist boss Edward Gierek chose the occasion to issue what amounted to a call for the overthrow of Mao Tse-tung's leadership.

The Japan Times said in an editorial the significance of the events now unfolding in Peking "is that an opening has been made for a continuing dialogue."

The paper said "Lines of communication will most likely be established, even if nothing else is achieved," and this could be useful "to other nations in sizing up the Chinese intentions now and in the future."

Japanese officials were reportedly concerned that the Peking talks might leave Japan on the sidelines of future international developments.

Tass, the Soviet Union's official news agency, reported Nixon's meeting with the Chinese leaders in a three-sentence dispatch.

But the agency reflected official displeasure at the trip by carrying a commentary from the French Communist newspaper, L'Humanite, assailing the Nixon visit as aimed at taking advantage of the break between China's leaders and international communism.

Nationalist China reaffirmed its previously expressed opposition to Nixon's trip in a resolution passed by the National Assembly charging that it has "deeply damaged the Chinese national rights and interests."

Gierek told a mass rally in Katowice—Poland's industrial heartland—that he hoped "the Chinese people and the Chinese Communists will find enough strength in themselves to reject the dangerous Maoist line and restore Socialist principles in the policy of their state."

In the strongest attack yet made against China by the Soviet Union's staunchest ally, the Polish leader said "the anti-Soviet, disruptive line of the Chinese leadership is aimed against the interests of the whole Socialist community."

In Saigon, the authoritative Buddhist newspaper Cong Luan reported that President Nguyen Van Thieu predicted in remarks to the National Assembly secretariat a few days ago that the Nixon visit will produce no more than a joint communique and expressions of "ordinary courtesies" by Mao.

A possible U.S.-China deal affecting South Vietnam's future was said to have prompted Thieu's remarks.

Talks 'serious, frank'

Peking visit moves 'briskly'

AN AP NEWS ANALYSIS

Things seem to be moving at a brisk pace in Peking.

If he hasn't already, President Nixon probably soon will have a clear picture of what he can and cannot expect from his venture into China.

The President had hardly arrived when he was received by Mao Tse-tung.

If the term "serious and frank" used to describe the talk suggested disagreement, that could hardly surprise anybody.

What did seem surprising was that the Communist chief met Nixon so soon, in advance of the President's business talks with Chou En-lai.

One explanation could be that the Chinese revolution's father-figure wanted to signify his approval of the idea that some of the 21-year-old barriers between Americans and Chinese should now be leveled.

But the Mao-Nixon talk probably was along broad lines, with details left to Mao's able technician, Premier Chou.

What is indicated for the Chou-Nixon talks?

The President can expect that his approach on the summit level in Moscow will be at least complicated by what he is told in Peking.

The President cannot expect help from China on the Vietnam-Indochina entanglement.

At the same time, the President may find that the Indochina situation will not necessarily impede developing U.S.-China contacts.

Chou may let the President know that Taiwan, while it has been a formidable issue, is not an insurmountable barrier to Chinese-American relations.

Chou's banquet toast was intriguing. He used the term "normalization of relations" as a goal of this initial contact.

He called the contact a positive move.

By amendment to bill

Churches ruled exempt from discrimination ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate amended the equal-employment bill Monday to exempt churches and other religious institutions from the ban on job discrimination on account of religion.

The amendment, offered by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., was approved by voice vote with only six senators present.

It applies to all employees of churches and religious institutions, while the original bill would have exempted only employes

He noted that "the gates to friendly contact have finally been opened."

All this is going a long distance in contrast with what was being said not too long ago.

Chou invoked the 17-year-old "Spirit of Bandung." The spirit was born of an Asian-African conference at Bandung, Indonesia, in 1955 where Chou preached the Asian concept of "panch sila," or five principles, including noninterference and peaceful coexistence. Chou did that at a time when China was weak and had a vested interest in peace.

There may be a connection with today's situation. China's leadership has obviously just undergone a purge, probably triggered by the U.S.-China contact. Powerful Lin Piao, who was to have been Mao's heir, has been eliminated.

China's top leadership all along has had hawks dead set against relaxation of hostility toward the Americans.

On Vietnam, Chou has shown he doesn't even want to discuss the subject, much less take part in any scheme to bring about and secure a peace there.

China has been giving the Vietnamese Communists arms and other aid all along, but Chou's efforts to soothe North Vietnamese misgivings do not appear to have been wholly successful.

Hanoi is complaining that Nixon is trying to create trouble for the whole "Socialist camp." This is as if to suggest that Chou and Mao might be misled by "deceptive hypocritical moves of U.S. imperialism's foreign policy."

On Taiwan, Peking seems now to be taking the long view. The leadership has purged those elements who would have obligated Chou to demand of Nixon total withdrawal of the U.S. presence immediately, not only from Taiwan and the Strait, but from Indochina, Thailand, Korea and everywhere else in Asia.

engaged in religious activities.

Ervin maintained these groups should be free to employ persons of their own religious persuasion for any kind of work without interference by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

The bill would strengthen the power of the EEOC to enforce the prohibition in the 1964 Civil Rights Act against job discrimination based on race, religion, sex or national origin.

Letters to the editor

Hudspeth writes resignation letter

The Government Operations and Relations Committee along with the Student Senate has decided to discredit part of the referendum of Wednesday, February 9.

After the ballots and all original tally sheets were stolen from the Student Association office, they fell into the hands of the Government Operations and Relations Committee. This committee then based the findings of a "recount" on stolen materials against the reported referendum results as certified by the Secretary of Elections.

The committee placed preference on these stolen ballots over the more than 130 man-hours of election poll operations by 4 student organizations and the work of several men and women who originally tallied the results.

By the fact that the Government Operations and Relations Committee has a misplacement of priorities and that the position of Secretary of Elections seemingly has no authority or credit due to the work involved, I, Gary Hudspeth, resign as Secretary of Elections for the Student Association.

As the Government Operations and Relations Committee seems to have vested itself in determining all election results, I am sure that they can more than handle the upcoming Executive and Student Senate elections in March.

I have no knowledge of who stole the ballots, and likewise as frustrating, I have no written record of the referendum results as the complete set of ballots and tally sheets were stolen. Not having any original proof of the referendum results, in conjunction with the illegal possession of election ballots by some unauthorized person, I have no position to take except the question of what authority is to be placed in the hands of Student Association officials?

Thank God for the ice cream

Throughout the past semester, we of Stangel Hall have suffered to a small extent in reference to the food situation. However, the past evening's experience is worth relating to others, and is worthy of SOMEONE taking notice.

Five girls, myself included, each got a pork chop for dinner along with rice, gravy and other non-essentials. After cutting into the meat we discovered that it was entirely raw, with no sign of even hitting a fire for more than five minutes. So we took the meat back to the cooks, who so generously threw the chops back on the fire for five more long minutes.

I am sure those in the home economics department, along with the rest of us, know that pork CANNOT be eaten raw. It is unhealthy, unsanitary and leads to unsatisfactory digestion; not to mention the possibility of severe diseases, contracted through pork which is not prepared properly.

With all of these factors in mind, isn't it unfair to the students to purchase good quality meats, only to be prepared in a manner which prohibits EATING it? It is a waste of money, time, and especially effort on our part to expect a good meal, only to be given raw meat not fit to even be thrown to the dogs.

Something must be done, and something must be done soon to bring the situation to the attention of those who hire cooks who are incapable of judging how long to cook a pork chop which is frozen solid.

All that is left to say is thank god, for the ice cream. It is the only thing on the menu that is fit for human consumption, and that is only because it requires no heat!

Vital issue

If we ever expect to achieve reform of our auto insurance, I urge that we firmly back the A.B.A.-endorsed no-fault plan.

A.B.A. estimates that 95 per cent of our traffic accidents would be covered by a $2,000 automatic payment (up to that amount). Thereafter, in case your loss exceeds that maximum, you are free to waive such payment and sue to recover whatever amount you may be convinced you are entitled to receive.

The citizens of Massachusetts now get not only quick, automatic reimbursement for their losses, but reduced premiums and some rebates. Let's inquire of all state legislative candidates how they stand on this vital issue.

Coleman officers register complaints

Mr. Clifford R. Yoder
Asst. to the Executive
Vice President

Dear Mr. Yoder:

Since approximately January 21, 1972 your office has been involved in an investigation to determine the true status and causes of the controversy surrounding Coleman Hall. It is the opinion of the undersigned individuals that this investigation is not proceeding satisfactorily due to the following reasons:

1. the failure by your office to investigate fully information provided by the current dorm council Officers.
2. the failure by your office to report to us any apparent progress made in this matter.

It is for these reasons that we, as representatives of the Coleman Hall Association, are submitting this document to assist you in your "continuing" investigation.

It is not the purpose of this document to accuse or incriminate any individual or any office. Instead, as concerned members and officers of the Coleman Hall Association, we feel that the following information will bring out the real truths involved.

1. There is a current discrepancy in the Coleman Hall Association fund for year ending May 1971 amounting to a total deficit of $1,310.94. This figure is derived from the balance remaining after the last authorized expenditure made on February 28, 1971, plus the deficit shown as of August 16, 1971, reported by letter to Mr. Whittington.

2. We have enclosed copies of four vouchers paid by the Office of the Comptroller, which are completely devoid of any authorized signatures. You will also notice that the total of these vouchers does not approach the value of the deficit balance, assuming that they have been paid out of the Association's account. In fact, on two occasions, the vouchers themselves are to be questioned:

A. the voucher concerning Cecil's Beer Depot contains an allocation for a credit given when rented equipment was returned. Nowhere in the records can we locate any evidence of this deposit being returned to our account.

B. the voucher concerning B & B Sporting Goods indicates that a certain sum was allocated for the purchase of athletic equipment. We are not able to ascertain that this equipment was ever purchased since the office of the Comptroller paid this amount on an unsigned voucher. Therefore, we are not able to determine what became of either the money or the equipment.

3. It is a matter of utmost concern to many students in Coleman of the well known fact that over thirty reported stolen items belonging to students were found in the maids closets during the fall semester of 1971.

4. Of urgent concern is the hostility in Coleman at the present time due to the attitudes of the students towards the present Head Resident and the Assistant Head Resident. These attitudes are due mainly to direct violations of the civil rights of students combined with threats of harassment by these people. Due to the seriousness of this matter, we must insist that you issue instructions to these two individuals to desist in this practice. If no immediate action is taken, we will have no other recourse but to instruct our legal counsel to seek relief in a Court of Law in order to protect our civil rights. Our concern lies in the return of a healthy environment in Coleman conducive to our education.

In view of the given information, we feel the seriousness requires your prompt and immediate attention. Therefore, we must request that within five (5) business days after your receipt of this document the following be accomplished:

Coleman records be audited for the years 1970, 1971 and 1972; Action taken in the matter concerning the present head resident and assistant head resident;

Investigate to see if it is a fact that stolen articles were found in maid closets;

And submit a written report to us within the requested time.

Your cooperation in this matter will be appreciated since we are making every effort to work within the University system to obtain relief. However, if any of us receive any threats or harassment, and if sincere interest is not extended than the only recourse for us will be through legal proceedings.

Howdy, Howdy Doody

As older people revert to their pasts through No, No, Nannette; Maybe, Maybe, Mae; Sure, Sure, Shirley, and the rest of those vintage Camp-side memories, we've been left without a nostalgia to call our own. Until now, we've had to live vicariously through our parents' pasts, as they try to bring it all back home again.

But now we can go back to those long weekend hours in front of the TV shouting tee hee at Howdy Doody, Buffalo Bob, Phineas T. Bluster, Clarabel, Dilly Dally and the rest of our 1950 family figures.

Because now Buffalo Bob, the Doody-Gang ringmaster, is making a comeback. We have our very own nostalgia. With old films of Howdy Doody Shows that were last seen on the screen more than ten years ago, 53-year old Bob Smith is making the rounds of college campuses with a two-hour presentation that has long-hairs longing to retreat to their days of innocence. It all began last year when University of Pennsylvania students wrote to Uncle Bob asking to borrow a Howdy Doody kinescope. Since then Mr. Smith—Howdy in tow — has toured more than 60 colleges and has played full-house gigs at places like the recently-demised Fillmore East.

It was an innocent nostalgia — where we lived in a Wonder Bread world, building strong bodies 12 ways, drinking Ovaltine and searching for the cream filling in our Hostess Twinkie lives.

But, like the rest of us, Howdy — the dummy with brains enough to mutter only an occasional Gosh, Golly Gee and Right You Are — has grown up. At 24-years old, Mr. Doody still has his freckles intact, his ears outturned and, with all strings attached, is ready to lead us on to a new nostalgia. Gee Whiz.

Rated X

College yearbooks yearly nearly die of dreariness when they're issued every June. It's refreshing to see one that's not the run of the paper mill — one without pictures of sorority sisters and their brothers crammed onto a divan, quarter-, half- and full-backs in their varsity drag, and beauty queens with shining teeth and pimpleless complexions.

But last June, along came "Gumbo," a product of Louisiana State University and one of the first X-rated yearbooks. "Gumbo" got itself into producing an honest representation of campus life. Maybe she was too honest.

Included in the book was a photograph of a red, white and blue marijuana cigarette; a series of satires on such sanctions as motherhood, and four photos of nudes taken in art classes, which changed the book's rating from R to X.

"Gumbo" was a partial success. Students loved the book and, for the first time in the college's history, "Gumbo" went into a second printing.

The State Legislature, however, wasn't so pleased. A resolution of disapproval was passed. Said one legislator, who once attacked the teaching of Shakespeare in the school system, "I've never seen more nasty pictures. A student cannot show it to his little brothers and sisters."

And the LSU student-body president retorted, "Anyone who thinks that book has pornographic value hasn't seen very much good pornography."

"Gumbo" follows an inevitable student press pattern. Four years ago, campus papers ran what were labeled "obscene" words, back when the watchword, "telling it like it is," was telling it as it was.

Now it seems that yearbooks have gotten in the picture by getting in the pictures of nude bodies, student smoking habits and other aspects of life on campus. Maybe one provocative picture is worth a thousand four-letter words.

Campus diet program waiting list set up

By GARRY MANGUM
Special Reporter

The special campus Weightwatcher's program has stopped accepting members because the Weeks and Doak Dining Hall cannot accommodate more students, said Mrs. Jackie Cason, campus Weightwatcher director.

"When we began," she said, "I told the Housing Office we were not sure how many would sign up for the program. I said we could expect from 10 to 50."

There are now more than 268 students enrolled in the special program.

"We have had classes for four weeks, and the enthusiasm has been spread by those enrolled," Mrs. Cason said.

The program, which emphasizes a re-education of eating habits, is being coordinated by the Housing Office and Weightwatchers Of West Texas, Inc. representatives.

During the first three weeks of the program, approximately 1,000 total excess pounds have been shed by the four classes, Mrs. Cason said.

She said the Housing Office is planning to expand the program to at least one other dorm next fall. "The response to the program has been so tremendous, the housing and officials are confident it will work again."

Those wishing to enroll in the program are currently signing a waiting list.

"When someone drops out of the program, we can then accept one more from the list," Mrs. Cason said. "There is no problem for those who do not live on campus. We can still accept them since they won't be eating in the Weeks-Doak Dining Hall."

"The Weightwatcher food isn't as greasy as the regular food served," Patty Wilson, Austin sophomore, said. "I'm really glad they started the program and I hope they bring it back again."

Dallas Sophomore Janet Nichols said she had enjoyed the program. "I think the food is marvelous. It is so much better than the regular dorm food and it isn't greasy at all."

Mrs. Cason apologized for the delay until next fall in accepting new members for the campus eating plan. "We are truly sorry for this delay, but we have to work with the Housing Office."

She said it would not be fair to let the student who lives on campus to enroll in the program and not allow him to eat the food. "He couldn't accomplish very much," she said.

Approximately five of the more than 268 program members are men, Mrs. Cason said.

The group meets four times each Tuesday. The times are: 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. The meetings are in the University Center Ballroom.

Chinese band plays U.S. anthem

Eight-course, three-hour feast welcomes Nixon

PEKING (AP) — Throughout an eight-course, three-hour banquet in President Nixon's honor, a Chinese-only band mingled Chinese folk songs with such folksy Americana as "Home on the Range," "Turkey in the Straw," and "America the Beautiful."

Nixon was so impressed at the way the band nimbly executed the Star-Spangled Banner — after 20 years without practice — that he left the head table after the final toast and strode determinedly to the bandstand to congratulate the startled band leader.

With practically the whole press corps, Chinese and American, surging after the President, the besieged maestro appeared to think for one frightening moment that a hostile audience was bearing down on him.

Monday began for the President with a rather subdued airport welcome and an unhealed entrance to the city.

It closed with his going from table to table and individually toasting more than 70 Chinese leaders with sips of mao-tai, the potent, sorghum-based Chinese whisky.

"Any minute now they start passing papers for us to sign," said Henry A. Kissinger as the "gombay" — bottoms up — toasts followed in dangerous profusion.

At the sumptuous banquet in the Great Hall of the People, Premier Chou En-lai sat between the Nixons at a huge circular head table located beneath enormous floodlit flags of the United States and the People's Republic of China.

A battalion of white-jacketed waiters served an eight-course Chinese menu that ranged from spongy bamboo shoots to steamed chicken with coconut.

The President seemed more deft manipulating ivory chopsticks than he did in holding aloft the successive beakers of crystal-clear maotai.

In moving from table to table for the personal toasts, Nixon fixed each Chinese dignitary with a firm stare but comprised the formality toward the end by only touching the glass to his lips.

In an earlier round of the same game, Chou was more inclined to drain the cup.

The Great Hall, built in less than a year in 1958's great leap forward, can seat 5,000 guests at a banquet.

For the Nixon welcome, about 700 American and Chinese guests, including the entire White House press corps, were served at 64 tables.

Peking's diplomatic colony was not invited, nor were foreign correspondents living in the city.

On Tuesday Mrs. Nixon is visiting the kitchens of the Peking Hotel to inspect Chinese cuisine first hand.

Anti-alcohol campaign ads include 'good old Harry'

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Meet good old Harry, the best host on the block," says the voice, and Harry comes into view.

He is laughing, jovial, and balancing a tray of drinks.

The party obviously is swinging.

"Everybody has a good time at Harry's parties. Everybody," says the voice, "and nobody ever gets away sober, either. A drink in your hand puts a smile on your lips, that's Harry's motto... and he'll get you to smile if it takes all night."

Those are the opening scenes from one of a series of unusual commercials being readied for television and radio.

"There's a counterpart campaign prepared for newspapers too. One is headed: "Ten terrific hangover cures."

A new broadside from the beverage industry? Hardly.

It's a government campaign to make people aware that alcohol is the most abused drug in the United States.

The films, tapes and newspaper ads are being sent to news media across the country.

The drive accompanies a report to Congress on alcohol and health prepared by a task force appointed by the secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

The task force was headed by Dr. Morris E. Chafetz of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism.

Its findings were stark: Among more than 95 million drinkers in the United States, 9 million men and women are alcohol abusers and alcoholic individuals. Alcohol plays a major role in half the highway fatalities and cost 28,000 lives in a recent year. Among young people, six of 10 highway deaths involve alcohol.

It costs the economy $15 billion a year, two-thirds of that attributable to lost work time in business and industry.

Public intoxication alone accounts for one-third of all arrests.

"It is my contention that alcoholism is America's largest untreated, treatable illness," Chafetz said in announcing a new educational program. "We are attempting to reach the entire American public, those who choose to drink and those who do not, as well as the young people who are experimenting with alcoholic beverages."

Bureaucrat opposes marijuana legalization

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top drug enforcer says he disagrees with a former aide's recent stand in favor of legalizing the use of marijuana and believes the employees of his agency also oppose the idea.

John E. Intersoll, head of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, said in an interview that a statement two weeks ago by John Finlator in favor of legalizing the use of marijuana "has made a lot of people very unhappy, including some people who had great faith in him."

Finlator, who retired last month as the bureau's number two man, joined the executive board of a Washington-based lobby seeking legalization of marijuana use and endorsed repeal of penalties for smoking or possession of pot.

"It's not my intention," Finlator said, "to promote or encourage the use of marijuana. However, I am promoting immediate decriminalization of that drug."

"We must stop sending people to jail for smoking marijuana."

BA Student Relations Council interviews set

Students interested in applying for the 10-12 positions on the Business Administration Student Relations Council should contact Curtis Brown at 742-3246 or Dr. Marilyn Phelan at 742-4145 before 5 p.m. Wednesday, Brown said.

Brown, chairman of the Student Advisory Committee which was charged with the establishment of the council, said only undergraduate and graduate Business Administration (BA) majors would be interviewed for the positions.

Brown said the council was established to study methods for improvement of BA faculty-student relations.

Brown said the council will study such areas of the BA college as curriculum changes, faculty evaluation and selection, regular grievances and BA goals and programs.

Brown said the council would cooperate with similar councils and committees in other Tech colleges.

Cong launches intensified attacks

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy forces launched intensified small attacks against U.S. installations and South Vietnamese forces across the country Monday as President Nixon began his visit to China.

Some observers saw the stepped-up enemy ground activity as an attempt to discredit the Nixon administration's Vietnamization and pacification programs while the President meets with Chinese leaders.

Most of the thrusts were aimed at South Vietnamese militia and home guard units, which provide security for towns, hamlets and government offices in rural areas.

The increased attacks began Saturday, about a day after the Viet Cong's unilateral 96-hour cease-fire for the lunar new year ended.

The U.S. Command announced that B52 bombers flew nine missions across South Vietnam, eight of them against a Communist base camp and staging area 20-25 miles south of the port city of Da Nang.

The U.S. Command added that American troop strength in South Vietnam dropped to 127,100 this week from 131,200 in the previous reporting period.

South Vietnamese forces also took the offensive Monday on an operation 100 miles south of Da Nang and another near Fire Base 5 in the Central Highlands.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from Da Nang that South Vietnamese border rangers smashed a North Vietnamese-Viet Cong base camp in a surprise raid south of Da Nang.

According to South Vietnamese officers, 62 enemy soldiers were killed in the attack and the Saigon forces suffered two wounded.

In a report from Pleiku in the central highlands, Associated Press Correspondent Richard Blystone said hundreds of South Vietnamese infantrymen were ferried by helicopters to an area near Fire Base Five to search for enemy troops.

U.S. B52 bombers struck the area before the troops were brought in.

Small skirmishes were reported in the area of the fire base over the weekend.

The top South Vietnamese commander in the region told Blystone that North Vietnamese forces in the central highlands will not be able to launch any offensive for at least a week because of allied attacks.

Scholastic probation not meant to punish

by JEAN SMITH
Staff Writer

Scholastic probation does not prevent a student from registering but informs him of his general academic standing, according to the Texas Tech General Catalog. Don Wickard, assistant registrar, said, "The obvious real purpose for scholastic probation is for the student to know his academic status and as a warning to the student."

The catalog states that academic suspension is not viewed as a punishment. Instead it is based on the policy that a student may remain enrolled as long as he is progressing satisfactorily and within reasonable time toward the completion of his academic program.

The minimum academic requirement for a student who has attempted less than 64 hours is 1.50 for each regular semester. A student who has attempted more than 64 hours is required to maintain an average of 2.00 for each semester.

The regulations are designed to reflect the experience of the University that a student's performance over two semesters will provide a better measure of his abilities than only one semester, the catalog states. It also says that the standards were patterned to become stricter as the student moves closer to his graduation. According to the assistant registrar, a student and his parents are notified that he is on probation by a letter from his dean. As a general rule he is notified shortly after the semester's grade report is received.

A full-time student must take at least twelve hours and achieve the minimum grade point average for the next semester to remove his scholastic probation status. He may not take more than sixteen hours without the dean's permission.

A suspended student may return, if he has been suspended only once, after the time of one regular semester has elapsed. If this is his second suspension, the time of two regular semesters must elapse. When the student is readmitted he will be on scholastic probation. Wickard also noted that a student may be suspended more than once.

"He may remove his scholastic probation status through summer school courses," Wickard continued. "He would have to enroll for at least twelve hours and make the required minimum grade point."

The current policies have been in effect since the spring of 1971. The previous policy differed from the present one in that a student was placed on scholastic probation only once a year.

The new option of pass-fail courses presents a problem in determining the removal of scholastic probation status. It is necessary for the student to be taking more than twelve hours for regular grade credit before he may take pass-fail courses during the semester when he is trying to improve his academic status.

Dad's Assn. pledges funds for endowment

The Texas Tech Dad's Association pledged $253,000 to the ten million dollar endowment fund Tech hopes to have by 1975 and passed a resolution commending the Student Body of Tech in its annual mid-winter meeting Saturday.

Tech plans to raise between ten and twelve million dollars by 1975 for an endowment fund to help all areas where additional funds are needed to supplement allotted appropriations. The money will not be spent, but the interest from the ten million dollars will be used.

Dr. Grover Murray made a statement to the group at a noon luncheon concerning Tech's 50th year celebration in 1975.

The Dad's Association was the first group to pledge money, according to Dr. James Allen, executive director of the Dad's

Love, cigar smoke and brussels sprouts

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions:

Love has no price tag, but somehow a woman within three days always manages to find to a penny the cost of any present a man sends her. There's truth in cigar smoke.

If two men light up cigars together after reaching an agreement, they don't need to put it on paper. It'll stand. The same isn't necessarily true, however, if they smoke cigarettes-or pot.

Never lend money to men who like brussels sprouts. This vegetable, a knob of leaf-curved horror, never will be eradicated from menus as long as the people who like it can borrow money from misled souls to buy it.

The shabby hypocrisy with which we treat our old folks today isn't realized by most Americans until they are old and weak and tried and defenseless themselves. If they knew when they were young and strong the fate that awaited them later, they'd start a revolution while they still had their strength.

Half the people who go fishing don't bother to clean and eat what they catch. They are satisfied to have a hobby that enables them to kill something in the name of sportsmanship.

Shorter hair for men is in

More necks and collars and less hair will be seen on MOST Lubbock males if the current trend is any indication. Though hardly back to the crew cut and burr of the past, masculine hair lengths are definitely receding.

The new style has a fuller look that falls more naturally with less hair, according to Gary Fulton, demonstrator for Sebring International and hair stylist in Lubbock.

"Actually a longer looking hair style is more natural and conservative than a 'radical' looking cut clipped severely over the ears. I don't think we're coming back to that. The 'peacock revolution' in men's looks that occurred in the 60's has taken us away from the crew-cut and the gray flannel suit," he commented.

"Hair stylists and the clothing industry work closely together. From what the industry is saying, there will be at least five to six more years of clothes designed for longer hair styles," said Joe Hefley, of the Upper Room Barber Shop.

Convenience as well as appearance are bringing on the trend for a more conservative long length, however...

"Most boys are cutting their hair from an extremely long length to mid-ear and collar length because they are tired of fooling with it and it's too hard to keep, said Lucille Stanley, hair styling teacher at Lubbock Barber College.

Darrell Dunn, of the Monterey Barber Shop, said that boys with extremely long hair are beginning to realize that it tends to look dirty.

Fulton said that any really active man cannot have extra long hair because it gets in the way when playing such things as golf, tennis and handball.

Practical considerations come into play, too. According to Mrs. Jean Jenkins, head of the Tech Placement Service, most job applicants are quite conscious of their hair length.

"If I don't mention the boys' hair when they come to talk to me, they bring the subject up. However, hair at Tech is not that radical and a lot of job recruiters have longer hair than the job applicants. School boards in the Lubbock vicinity are apprehensive about long hair, though. They have heard bad things about it. You're doing yourself a disservice if you apply for a job and they can't hear what you are saying because of your appearance," Mrs. Jenkins reported.

In California, the jobless face loss of their unemployment compensation if long hair is the reason they are not working. The State Unemployment Appeals Board ruled recently that in communities where employers objected to long hair, job applicants would have to meet grooming requirements or lose their unemployment check.

As far as the "establishment types" go, the trend in hair styles seems to be changing from an above-the-ear cut to slightly longer.

Jake Goss, owner of the Hideaway Style Shop, reports that the gap between young peoples' hair styles and adults' is closing. The older men are growing their hair longer, while the younger men are turning to a more conservative length.

It would seem that this new, more conservative hair style would bring needed business to a barber industry seemingly stricken by the long hair decade. Goss says, however, that barber shops that have kept up with the times have never suffered from the long hair styles brought on by such groups as the Beatles. He said that the main thing was to conform to what the customer wanted.

hard to find something to do that really entertains us.

If we were all told we could start our lives all over again, the only observable result would be a generation of major unemployment among gravediggers.

Raiders look to poke Mustangs

By MILLER BONNER
Sports Writer

DALLAS — As Tech's basketball team winged its way toward Dallas for a showdown with the SMU Mustangs, strange things began to happen. Before beginning to play cards or whistle at hostesses, a few of the Raider roundballers changed shirts.

Landing in Dallas, Ron Richardson, Ralph Palomar and Steve Nycum displayed "Beat SMU" T-shirts compliments of Tech's Saddle Tramps.

Coach Gerald Myers' Raiders are tied with the Ponies for the SWC conference lead each sporting 7-3 records.

Tonight's 7:30 p.m. duel at Moody Coliseum will cut the trio of league leaders possibly to one team.

Texas A&M, the other tri-leader travels to Waco for a contest with the Baylor Bears. "SMU will be ready," said Myers. After two road losses (to TCU and Arkansas) the Ponies are going to be tough on their home court."

Tonight's battle pits an undefeated SMU club on their home court against the league's best traveling quintet. Tech stands 4-1 on road trips while the Ponies have a perfect 5-0 record in Dallas.

Leading the Raiders will be Tech's most productive single season scorer, guard Greg Lowery. Lowery's 31 points against Texas Saturday night broke Gene Knolle's scoring record of 572 points. Going into tonight's game Lowery has posted 576 points for a 26.2 per game average.

Joining Lowery for the opening tip-off will be center Ralph Palomar, coming off his season's best effort against Texas with 28 points and 12 rebounds. At the forwards Ron Richardson and David Johnson sub sophomore guard Richard Little round out the Raiders starting line-up.

Ed Wakefield, Gene Kaberline, Ron Douglas and Don Moore provide ample bench strength for Myer's Raiders.

SMU will counter with center Ruben Triplett, forward David Miller, and the men behind their famed three guard offense Larry Delzell, Bobby Rollings, and Zack Thiel.

Tonight's Tech-SMU battle highlights Tuesday's SWC action. In other games A&M will be at Baylor, TCU is at Rice, and Texas is at Arkansas.

Teams announced for Air ROTC tourney

The ten teams competing in the Air Force ROTC Invitational Basketball—Open Handball Tournament were announced Monday by Major Jim Warsinske of the Tech Air Force ROTC.

Joining the host team, Air Force ROTC, will be the Moonrakers, Saddle Tramps, Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU), Baptist Student Union (BSU), the first and second place finishers in the Reese Air Force Base intramural program plus three Tech fraternities—Pike, ATO and Sigma Chi.

The single elimination tourney will begin Saturday morning at Reese Air Force Base. The drawing for the tournament brackets will be Wednesday morning with the results being posted outside the Air Force ROTC headquarters in the basement of the Social Science building.

HANDBALL DEADLINES are noon today. The handball affair will have a consolation bracket and play commences Thursday at the regulation courts at Reese. The handball competition is open to all Tech faculty and students (both graduate and undergraduate). A two dollar forfeit fee is required along with the entry forms.

The basketball tournament will begin Saturday with the final two rounds being played Sunday. First and second place trophies will be awarded.

Two of Tech's top fraternity teams declined invitations to the tournament. The number two ranked Phi Deltis will not compete and the number five ranked Deltis also declined due to various date conflicts.

Yet four of the Tech Intramural Top Ten will be present. The number one ranked Moonrakers, third ranked SOBU, sixth place BSU and the number seven team, Sigma Chi.

ALL TEAMS ARE ASKED to bring a roster to the Air Force ROTC by noon Thursday.

Along with the two trophies being awarded in the basketball tournament, six will be given in the handball competition. The consolation champ and runner-up plus the first four finishers in the winner's bracket will be awarded hardware.

Going into tonight's game with SMU, Tech has at least one thing in their favor that the bookies may be worrying about. To date, each Southwest Conference basketball team has played five games away from home. Tech has one four of those road titles, doubling the number of road wins by the remaining league contenders. Texas, SMU, A&M and TCU have 2-3 records away from the home court while the Raiders coming 4-1. The lone loss away from Lubbock coming from A&M.

Yet on the other side of the ledger, two teams in the SWC are undefeated on the home court. A&M and SMU both sport perfect 5-0 marks. Tech has lost twice in Lubbock while TCU and Texas have suffered one home setback apiece.

FOLLOWING THE RENAISSANCE experienced by both the Red Raiders and the crowd at the Tech—Texas game last Saturday, the Techsans may have the best schedule in the remaining league games.

Tech has to travel to both SMU (tonight) and TCU (Feb. 29) while hosting A&M and Arkansas in Lubbock. SMU will travel to Texas and Baylor while playing Tech and Rice in Dallas.

A&M, the other team tied for the lead with a 7-3 mark, will host Rice and Texas but must play Baylor (tonight) in Waco and travel to Lubbock Mar. 4 for the league finale against Tech.

COACH GERALD MYERS' Raiders seem to play their best against a conference contender on the road. Reasons?

"We have a more controlled atmosphere on the road," said Myers recently. "We know when the boys get up and what they do during the day. At home they could go back to the dorm and sleep and be sluggish but on road trips we can control them."

Saturday against Texas, Tech's players had stayed in a motel the night before. In other words, the "road trip" conditions were copied and the results—Texas was dehorned to say the least.

Another feather in the Raiders' war bonnet tonight in Dallas might be revenge. The Ponies were the first SWC team to beat the Raiders in Lubbock.

Add the fact that the Techsans are vying for the SWC championship and tonight's battle could be a league classic.

Last year, SMU slipped past Tech on the fantastic shooting of one Gene Phillips. But the Mustang ace has departed and tonight's game may see another superb shooter in Tech's Greg Lowery.

From any angle—or at any odds—tonight's showdown might just produce the SWC champ.

Thomas pleads guilty, given five years probation

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Grim but polite, Dallas Cowboy football star Duane Thomas pleaded guilty Monday to marijuana possession and was assessed a five-year suspended sentence.

Under Texas law, the controversial running back could have received a prison term ranging from two years up to life.

"You are a young person and have the potential of a great future," District Court Judge Hollis Garmon told the clean shaven and stylishly dressed Thomas, 24.

The judge issued a similar probation order for Thomas' younger brother, Bertrand, 21, charged with the same offense.

The Thomas brothers were arrested near this Northeast

Texas city Jan. 30 by officers who said they were acting on a report that the car driven by Thomas was stolen from Dallas. The tip proved false.

Subsequently, however, investigators found two packets of marijuana in the Thomas car.

The state said Monday the bags contained a total of 41.5 grams.

Dist. Atty. Larry Miller of Greenville said in court that investigators also recovered traces of marijuana ashes and two cigarettes, one partially smoked, in the car.

List narrows

Delts, SOBU advance in IM cage games

By BROOKS TINSLEY
Sports Writer

The Delts "A" team, the Delt "B" team and the Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU) all won second round victories yesterday in intramural basketball competition and advance to quarterfinal action to be played tonight. Two semifinal games will be played tomorrow night with the All-University champion to be crowned following the final game Thursday night.

The Delts "A" team, behind the 28 point outburst of Troy

Gray, bombed the Pikes by a score of 78-61. The Delts were first round winners over the Sigma Chi squad while the Pikes defeated the Phi Deltis in their opening game. The Delts led by only six at the half but tallied 44 points in the second half to win easily. Rusty Arthur added 18 to the Delt cause while Wade Sherril and Bob Wiggins earned 13 apiece for the Pikes. Neal Young had 11 for the Pikes.

The Delt "B" team knocked out the ATO "B" squad out of the play-offs by winning 73-64. The Delts had previously defeated the Sigma Chi "B" team. The halftime margin was also nine points with the Delts on top by a 35-26 score. Neal Blanton had 21 points for the winners with Jay Johnson and John Montague adding 15 apiece for the Delts. Ben Robinson led the losers with 22 points and Stewart Rowe had 19 as they spearheaded the ATO cause.

SOBU, down 39-31 at the half, staged a second half rally to upend the Baptist Student Union (BSU) by a score of 75-62. SOBU had advanced to this game by virtue of their win over the Gaston "D" team and the BSU had defeated the Double T "B" five in their first round game.

Floyd Morris had 24 points and Andre Tillman 22 to pace the SOBU attack. No results on the scoring were available for the BSU. The win was especially sweet for SOBU because the BSU handed them their only defeat this year earlier in the season by a 66-53 score.

Four quarterfinal games are on tap tonight as the number of remaining teams vying for the All-University title will be cut in half. All four games will be played on the west court of the Men's Gym.

The Moonrakers, the top seeded team in the field, will take on the Phi Delt "C" team at 5 p.m. The 'Rakers have won over the Nads and Thumbs Down while the Phi Deltis were winners over the Pike and SAE "C" teams. At 6:15, AF ROTC and Coleman "B" tangle. ROTC defeated PEK and ASAE and Coleman upended Bledsoe and Thompson. SOBU and the Delt "B" team meet at 7:30. At 8:45, the Delts will play Murdough "C". Murdough has defeated Weymouth "C" and Kappa Alpha "C".

The two semifinal games will be played Wednesday night at 6:15 and 7:30 p.m., also on the west court of the Men's Gym. The All-University championship game is set for Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

THERE'S A RUMOR SPREADING ABOUT PIZZA HUT.

Maybe you've already heard it. The rumor that Pizza Hut is a little nicer than other pizza houses. That the pizzas are a little tastier. That the atmosphere is a little more fun.

4 CONVENIENT PIZZA HUTS
And you've thought to yourself, "Aha! A perhaps unfounded rumor! I shall test its veracity the next time I can fit it into my busy schedule." But you never have fit it into your busy schedule.

Well, my friend, dilly-dally no longer. Because every day you don't test the Pizza Hut rumor is a day without the fresh-crusted, thick-cheesed, extra-saucy pizza. And without huge hot or cold

Pizza Hut Sandwich Supremes. And without garden fresh salad and all sorts of hot and cold beverages. And an atmosphere more like a big cozy den than a restaurant.

But you don't have to take our word for it. You'll never know the truth about Pizza Hut unless you test it.
