La Raza Unida gubernatorial candidate Ramsey Muniz claims 'unique' campaign

By BETSY JARMON News Editor

The gubernatorial candidate of the Texas La Raza Unida party said in a Lubbock press conference Tuesday his campaign is unique because he must urge his supporters not to vote in the May 6 primaries so they can sign a petition to assure him a place on the ballot in November.

Ramsey Muniz said he needs 22,358 signatures of voters who did not vote in the primary of either political party to be listed

In aftermath of peace rally

Women's Lib withdraws, disciplinary actions begin

By CASS RAY Managing Editor NENE FOXHALL Special Reporter

Wednesday's events in the aftermath of Saturday's peace march and rally included a request for withdrawal of campus recognition of Women's Liberation, initiation of disciplinary actions by city and Tech administrative authorities, an advisory session attended by 10 of the 34 Tech students and Lubbock citizens issued temporary restraining orders at the rally and plans for an Emergency Anti-War Freedom Rally Saturday.

Thirty-four of the approximately 200 participants in Saturday's Memorial Circle peace rally were issued temporary restraining orders by Lubbock County sheriff's deputies.

Tech President Grover Murray said the orders were issued because the Memorial Circle demonstrators were in violation of Murray's Thursday decision that the rally could not be conducted in the circle.

Murray said the rally was not an "all-university event" and thus could not be conducted at Memorial Circle, in accordance with a Board of Regents policy adopted Oct. 8.

In a letter to the members of the University Committee on Student Organizations, William H. Duvall, assistant dean of students for programs, announced he had received a letter from Women's Liberation President Linda Givens and Treasurer Linda Lutgens requesting withdrawal of university recognition.

Included with Duvall's letter was a copy of Ms. Givens' and Ms. Lutgens' letter.

"We are indignant that our president was named in a restraining order which was issued without proper investigation as to whether our organization was actually involved," the letter stated. "The procedure was hasty, misinformed and lacking in responsible judgment."

The letter referred to the issuance of the 34 restraining orders as a "travesty of justice" and further stated, "we are withdrawing our organization from any connection with the University to protect our members from further irresponsible actions on the part of the Tech Administration."

Duvall's letter stated he had attempted to persuade Ms. Givens and Ms. Lutgens to retain campus recognition because he thought they had a "valuable contribution to make on campus and could work more effectively for change as a campus

"It is my recommendation, with regret, to the committee that recognition be withdrawn from Women's Liberation," the letter concluded.

sent letters to "seven students who were in violation of campus regulations."

Assistant Dean of Students for Administration George Scott said the mailing of the letters was "usual disciplinary procedure" and noted that the letters 'merely asked the students to come in and talk about it (the violation).

Jones said other students would be contacted.

"Now this has nothing to do with the restraining orders," Jones said. "These seven have been contacted because they were in violation of campus regulations (which denied them use Memorial Circle)."

Jones said several of the seven students he had contacted were not named in the temporary restraining orders.

Lubbock Sheriff Choc Blanchard said Wednesday he had not received complete films of the rally from the deputies who filmed Blanchard said he expected to have "actual pictures of the students being handed the orders" to aid his deputies in identifying the seven persons who refused to provide their names when deputies issued the orders.

Blanchard said he would depend upon Tech University Police for identifications of the seven.

Ted Taylor, assistant professor of economics, Wednesday night advised 10 of the 34 Tech students and Lubbock citizens served with orders, "don't go to the hearing with the dean of student life without taking a faculty member or lawyer. Anything you say can be used against you."

Taylor said the students who admit committing the violation will be able to choose between being judged by a single administrator or by the University Disciplinary Committee.

"I advise you to choose the committee," Taylor said. "The administrator will be one man under pressure to get you."

"You do have first amendment privileges but it is a fact that Texas Tech can determine when and where you exercise them on university property," he added.

Young Socialist Alliance President Tim McGovern said Wednesday night the main purpose of Saturday's Emergency Anti-War Freedom Rally is "protest of the Administration's actions against the Lubbock 34 (the students and citizens issued the orders)."

"There will also be anti-war sentiment expressed, however,

McGovern said the rally will be at 1 p.m. at the free speech area of the University Center.

Ralph Bates, Tech student and chairman of the Lubbock April 22 Committee, said the rally would include music and various types of entertainment.

Murray said, "any student would be ill advised to act against Dean of Students Lewis Jones said Wednesday his office had court action and move to Memorial Circle."

Pending administrative approval

Book exchange may be staged next week

By MIKE WARDEN Special Reporter

A Student Association (SA) sponsored book exchange may be conducted next week pending approval of the Tech Ad-

"The exchange will be similar to the one held last year except that cash will be used instead of scrip," said Curtis Brown,

A book exchange was initiated last semester in which idents could sell their used books for 50 per cent of their most recent purchase price. The books were exchanged for various denominations of copyrighted scrip. The scrip was then used to purchase other books the students needed at a 25 per cent savings over bookstore prices.

More than 6,000 used books were purchased by last year's exchange with an estimated savings to students of more than

If the Administration approves the use of SA funds, cash will be used instead of scrip in the spring SA Book Exchange. Students will receive 50 per cent of the purchase price of books in cash, the same amount given by local bookstores.

"We just can't do it (the book exchange) by scrip," Bob

Craig, SA external vice president, said. "If a student has a $10 book to sell that he can get $5 for at any bookstore, which would he rather have-scrip or cash over the summer?"

Approximately $15,000 is needed to initially fund the cashbased exchange. The money will be used to pay for the books purchased by the book exchange this semester and will not be returned to the SA account until the exchange is completed in the fall. Books purchased next week will be sold by the exchange in the fall to students participating in the program.

'If the students sell their books to us now, they'll get the same price they would from any local bookstore-50 per cent of its last purchase price," Craig said. "Then, next fall they can buy their books from us for the same 50 per cent plus sales tax and won't have to pay the 25 per cent markup the bookstores charge."

A decision by the Administration on whether cash from SA funds can be used for the exchange is expected sometime today.

officially on the ballot.

A Baylor law school graduate, Muniz lives in Waco. He was originally from Corpus Christi.

Muniz emphasized he has enough votes to win the governor's seat. "We expect to get on the ballot within 50 days," he said. "The people come to hear what we have to say. We are in demand evey day throughout the state." Asked his reasons for running for governor, Muniz said he wants to get elected and "to make an impact to make concessions to our party."

The other political parties in Texas already recognize the strength of La Raza Unida, Muniz said.

"The Republicans at this point are becoming very excited about our race," Muniz said. He said the Republicans offered La Raza Unida $35,000 for political support.

"Democratic leaders want to meet with us to talk about who we're going to support," he said.

Muniz said, "even here in Lubbock, Preston Smith will not even have a chance in the governor's race."

He said Smith has lost power because of his connection with the stock scandals and because La Raza Unida has taken over much of his political connections with the Chicanos. "He can tell you that himslf," Muniz said.

Muniz said Smith lost the political support of the Chicanos because Chicanos discovered he made them the same promises as every other politician.

Muniz called Barnes "the most unhealthy thing that could happen to Texas."

Briscoe is "up to his old political tricks," Muniz said, by "trying to buy off Mexican-American and black votes."

Muniz commended Frances Farenthold, another Democratic candidate for governor, for her attempts at reform of state government. "But running on the Democratic ticket will never accomplish reform," he said. Muniz said his first priority, if he is elected governor, would be the establishment of a state tax on corporate profits.

He said he favors student representation on university boards of regents. "What better person knows about the problems of the university than the students? What the student is seeking is a voice in government structure," he said.

Muniz said he opposes no-fault insurance because it is "taxation without representation" and a violation of due process. He said he has not yet studied the proposed veterinary school at Tech, and therefore could not comment on whether he supports

Muniz said most politicians say "in election times people are hungry and uneducated" but Muniz said "people are like that

Gubernatorial question-answer session

Student files complaints against administrative block of telecast

By LAYLAN COPELIN Editor

Steve Stine, senior economics major whose request for KTXT-TV to telecast a gubernatorial question-answer session was turned down by the Tech Administration Tuesday, filed two complaints with federal authorities Wednesday.

Stine sent telegrams to the Federal Communications Commission's Complaints and Compliances Department and to Herbert Klein, White House executive for media affairs.

Dr. S.M. Kennedy, vice president for academic affairs, said Tuesday the Dallas-based program would not be broadcast because of a state law stating that no facility funded by state appropriations can take action that "influences any election or the passage or failure of any legislative act."

against the April 22 peace rally participants is expected to be introduced in tonight's special session of the Student Senate.

The Senate will meet at 8 p.m. in room 358 of the Business Administration Building.

The resolution comes after Saturday's peace march and rally in which restraining orders were served against 34 of the almost 200 demonstrators. The restraining orders were issued by Lubbock County sheriff's deputies to the demonstrators as they assembled in Memorial Circle protesting President Nixon's Indochina policy.

A report from the Student Association (SA) president's office announcing appointments to his cabinet and dates football lottery

The Budget and Finance Committee is expected to prese. A resolution condemning the Tech Administration's actions the SA and organizational budgets for the 1972-73 academic year to the Senate for consideration and approval.

At fall registration

Lottery coupons to be available

By MILLER BONNER

Sports Editor Tentative plans for next year's student football and basketball ticket lotteries have been presented to Student Association

(SA) President Greg Wimmer by the Tech Athletic Council. Students will be able to buy lottery coupon books for either student seats or spouse-guest seats at fall registration. The cost for students during registration will be $10 while spouse-guest seats for the six home games will be $36.

Students wishing to purchase the student lottery coupon book at the $10 price must buy the coupon book during registration and must pay the activity fee.

Five coupon agents will be at fall registration from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. The student wishing to purchase lottery coupon books must do so from the agents during registration.

Students will be limited to purchasing only one student coupon book and one spouse-guest coupon book.

A saving of $2 will be afforded students if they wish to purchase basketball coupon books at the fall registration. The price during the fall will be $8 compared to a $10 tag during the week of regular sales beginning Oct. 30.

The coupon books will allow students to come to the University Center on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday during the week of home games and draw for tickets from the lottery. Students will be able to draw one seat for each coupon up to six.

No IDs will need to be presented - only coupons. To be admitted to the game a student must present his lottery ticket and ID. The spouse-guest tickets will be the same as regular reserve seat tickets. All lottery seats will be reserved.

Attacks news choice

If you bought your school administration story (B.S. I should have said), then you probably bought the U.S. policy in Vietnam, you probably bought racism in the southern U.S. and in South Africa (support your local bus burners?). If you bought those injustices you probably support the British in Ireland, the military dictatorship in Greece.

You probably feel that the students who protested in Hungary, Poland, Prague, Saigon, Japan, the Phillipines, and Argentina, to mention a few places, were wrong.

You probably don't buy the claim that we (the U.S.) are conducting a racist war in South Vietnam.

I would not make such a statement as that if I didn't sincerely believe it and could not prove il with official photographs, Army documents, and personal accounts of my two years as a second class citizen in the "service" of my country.

I can and will furnish the above mentioned documents for publication in the "student" newspaper if there are enough qualified student compositors to insure that this story is not as grossly misrepresented as were the vents of April 22, 1972.

This section of your newspaper, although it reports unbiasly, can not despell the fact that the front page is for administrative purposes only and too, is sacred ground on which I as a student cannot tread wilhout fear and trembling.

Lauds Republican candidate

As May 6 approaches, we would like to remind voters that the Republican Party also holds a a primary on that day. Here is your chance to register your opinion with the party which is truly dedicated to reform in our state government and to better management of our state's finances.

In the contested Republican gubernatorial race, we urge you to vote for Al Fay. An ecologist, a successful businessman, and a man who has long worked to better Texas, Mr. Fay is wellqualified to serve as governor. He has proposed a comprehensive ethics code which would apply to all state officials.

Also, he fayors a new state constitution which would streamline and modernize our state government and which would replace the present antiquated constitution. More importantly, Al Fay will not forget his promises if elected, contrary to what we have come to expect from our state officials.

With a Democratic legislature watching closely for mistakes, Texas will see the most honest and efficient state government it has had in years.

On May 6, cast your vote for reform and better government. Vote in the Republican primary and vote for Al Fay.

comments on Student Senate

There was a time when God in his infinite benevolence set his eyes upon a Virgin, Mary. God then in all of his wisdom proceeded to put the make on her. "But Lord," protested Mary, "if I see it your way how can I remain a virgin?" "Do not worry your pretty little head" he replied, "with the Lord ALL things are possible." possible."

Birth Control at that time had not yet been conceived (forgive the pun) not even rhythm for that was a product of Christianity. However, the Lord in His infinite mercy decreed that for all time all descendants of Mary would be vestial virgins.

Mary then begot democracy, which begot the Student Association which begot the Student Senate. Along the line some where, I'm not sure where a philosopher prophet came along. According to his title and his office he thought and meditated upon this matter.

He reasoned that because the Student Senate was a descendent of Mary that it was a vestial virgin. Vestial virgins could be defined as being the most uscless thing of our society.

Therefore il followed with with logical vengence that the Student Senate was useles. There is a lot of truth in these words, and it is written that he who hears the truth shall be saved. Think

Combines politics, poetry in governor's race

The following poem expresses my feelings on the up-coming gubernatorial race in Texas.

Cry For Help!

So, Dolph wants to be governor As does Preston again Sissy has her hat in too Along with Lieutenant Ben

Incumbent as they may be Preston and Ben try harder Dolph campaigns with post cards And Sissy becomes the martyr

Preston walks through the capitol Hoping to stomp there again Fraud papers its crumbling walls And its halls are full of hot wind

Ben is the "destined" one Fighting for his high goal As wishy-washy as Charlie Brown But Oh, how he can cajole

Dolph knows how to say nothing And is quite experienced at evasion Texas will suffer quite openly If he manages occupation

Sissy is beaming radically Screaming in directions of left and left Her wing won't stand the journey Although her flying is deft

Texas, our Texas-Oh what a mess we're in Your shining government is Democratically flat Republicans, Republicans you're our only hope left-"Republicans? What the hell is that?"

Criticizes Dolph Briscoe

It is about time that Dolph Briscoe starts facing the issues squarely and stop trying to sneak into the governship through the back door. He should stop being a phantom candidate and begin telling the voters how he stands on the issues. His whole campaign thus far has consisted of sowing the seeds of doubt about other people's integrity. If he is a man of integrity himself, he should come out from behind the log and face the issues. Consider that:

+Briscoe has consistently avoided discussing the issues with the other candidates;

+Briscoe secretly filed an incomplete financial statement, showing no assets or liabilities and waited a month before revealing he had even done that; +Briscoe has reportedly spent $800,000 worth of television spots for the last 30 days of the campaign, indicating that his whole pitch is going to be canned and artificial. The voters of Texas don't want a candidate who demands ethics of others but isn't willing to disclose his own tremendous wealth; and they don't want a dandidate like Briscoe who won't enter into a full discussion of the issues with his opponents.

My best friend is going to prison in five days. We don't know exactly where he's going. There's been talk about Missouri or Michigan or Minnesota. But it will be a work camp or prison. We do know that he'll be back in six months - 180 days. And nights. We don't know what he'll be doing; what he'll be remembering or forgetting; if he will be permitted to read our letters in their entirety, or censored, or at all. We do know that he'll be separated from his wife and family, the few people he cares about, his job and his education.

After being denied a conscientious objector deferment, he was drafted. On induction day, he refused to step over that invisible line that indicates one's willingness to go into the armed forces. Instead he stepped forward and said he would rather serve his country in another manner. Now he's going to prison.

At his sentencing two days ago, he stood before the judge in a routine Monday morning courtroom appearance. There were bigger things to adjudicate than the problems of a routine register, and his sentencing took only a few short minutes. But the judge—one of the more "liberal" ones—made himself perfectly clear as he handed out the "standard" sentence: "You are hereby sentenced to six months in a federal institution and to 18 months on probation."

I couldn't understand it. It all seemed unreal. My only experience with courtrooms had been on television, in movies, in a Kafka novel. And my only experience with prison was none. I couldn't understand it. Why was this happening? Because my friend had refused to "serve his country."

I have seen quadraplegics - paralyzed from their necks down - who wear the living scars forever to remember how they "served their country." I have seen pictures of corpses of men who had "served their country." And I have seen men making decisions concerning the sincerity of others — judges, probation officers, members of draft boards - who are "serving their country."

My friend doesn't fit the stereotype of draft resister. He would never think of leaving the country, because he likes this country. He wants to serve the country — but in a way in which he can feel comfortable. Until he goes off to prison, he'll contnue working at his job — a public service position helping blind people. So,he has been serving his country, but in five days he'll have to stop so he can serve his country in prison.

It all seemed so illogical. My friend is mild and gentle and sincere. Old military men have written letters to draft boards attesting to this. His father — a military educator — has vouched for his son's sincerity. He has good credentials. But he broke the

At the sentencing, he was given one week to "get things in order." Perhaps the judge should have given this country some time to "get things in order." Like priorities. I can't help but question the legitimacy of a country that puts men on trial to test their pacifism, their sincerity, their degree of opposition to a war. They did this to my friend. And he lost. I can't help wondering if there's a difference between serving our country and servicing our country. Why must someone's personal convictions lead to

I guess I'm thinking about all this now because I just talked to him on the phone. He's at work now, finishing up some final projects. He's delighted that they've promised to give him his job back when he returns. But a strange thing has happened to him: he's turned into a martyr. Not in his own eyes, but in the eyes of people he rarely talks to who've suddenly dropped over, invited him for dinner and turned his six-month sentence into cheap radical chic, with my friend in the role of folk hero. They are treating him with the same indignity and impersonality that the

If you can't get to city hall

Let city hall come to you

GRAND PRAIRIE. Tex. (AP)-If you can't get down to training course on each aspect of municipal government after Grand Prairie's city hall, the city hall will come to you- on George Conway, 43, who operates the mobile city hall, took on the job when economic cutbacks forced him out of his $16,000-ayear post as an aero-space technician with Ling-Temco-Vought. His municipal salary is much smaller-$7,800 a year-but he likes his job as everything from building inspector to public relations man.

Driving at random through this medium-sized Dallas suburb, Conway is a kind of one-man municipal government. He caters to residents who comply with the invitation neatly printed along the side of his van: "Ask Question, Get Answers, Stop Me."

"Many times they want to know something about the building code or a sign ordinance," Conway explains.

Usually he has a ready answer. He was put through a special

Should a question stump him, Conway looks up the answer in his city ordinance books or contacts city hall by radio, while the inquiring citizen waits in his van.

John K. Richardson, director of urban development, says the mobile city hall was started when Grand Prairie annexed Shady Grove, a low-income rural community to the north of the city.

"The folks there were not very affluent and did not have good communications with the city," Richardson said. "So they wouldn't think we were bringing them into the city and forgetting them, we came up with this idea."

Although the mobile city hall is still seen most often in Shady Grove, it now brings service to the rest of Grand Prairie's 53,000

Baker appeals for release from prison

WASHINGTON (AP)-Robert G. "Bobby" Baker and Martin Sweig, who became snared in their own carefully woven webs of political power, have appealed for release from prison.

Baker has asked the U.S. Parole Board for the second time to grant parole from the federal prison sentence he is serving for larceny, income tax evasion, fraud and conspiracy.

The former Senate page rose to power on the coattails of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, amassing a personal fortune on the way up. An investigation of his work as secratary to Senate Democrats led to his downfall and conviction in 1967.

Sweig, too, became powerful because of the prestige of his boss, former House Speaker John W. McCormack, only to be disgraced by an influence-peddling scandal ending in his conviction in 1970 for lying to a federal grand jury.

Baker, 43, has served 15 months of a three-year sentence at the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary. He became eligible for parole last Jan. 13, but was turned down.

Sweig was sentenced to 30 months in prison. He entered the Lewisburg penitentiary last July 22.

Johnson advisor discusses Vietnamization

HOUSTON (AP)—The hawkish advisor to former President Lyndon Johnson says he believes the South Vietnamese may ultimately triumph by a buildup of their forces.

Walt Rostow has predicted the importance of Asia to United States security will grow.

Some 25 antiwar demonstrators repeatedly interrupted Rostow during his talk to about 300 at the University of Houston World Issues Conference of China. The protestors shouted "murderer" and "Vietnam genocide."

Once when Rostow said it is time to shake off the "Vietnam blues," some one in the audience yelled, "millions die and you talk about shaking off the blues."

Rostow, a Universty of Texas professor of history and economics, appeared unruffled by the jeering.

Humphrey 'exuberant' after Pennsylvania primary

PHILADELPHIA (AP)-Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, exuberant after a strong first place finish in Pennysylvania's primary, said Wednesday he "won a decisive battle here for the progressive center of the Democratic party."

"We're looking forward to further tests," the Minnesotan told a news conference before he left for Cleveland to begin campaigning in the Ohio primary.

Humphrey received just over a third of the 1.3 million Democratic votes Tuesday, forging his victory around labor and black support in Philadelphia, at Pittsburgh and other industrial towns of this heavily unionized state.

Humphrey also led in the race for the state's 137 elected delegates, with 57 pledged or favorable to him. Sen. George S. McGovern of South Dakota, a close fourth in the popular vote count, led in 37 delegate races.

Sen, Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, a few votes ahead of McGovern in the popular count, led in 29 delegate contests.

Forty-five additional delegates are to be chosen later, 27 by the winners and 18 by the party leaders.

But if you think your back's hurtin you now, city dweller, just try fitting yourself into this suburban scene: 10 p.m. The nursery at the nearby highway shopping center has closed at 9:30. Headlights probe the living room as what you normally would expect to be a car swerves into the driveway.

Supreme Court rules on insurance case

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court ruled Wednesday an Army officer's widow was entitled to contest a woman friend of her husband over his life insurance.

Lt. John H. Farley named Rhonda Lavon Riley as his beneficiary on Oct. 10, 1967. He married Connie L. Farley on Dec. 2, 1968, while on leave in Hawaii.

The widow presented two Army witnesses at the trial. One said Farley asked for a form to change his beneficiary after his return from Hawaii. The other said an officer whose name he could not remember, but who resembled descriptions of Farley, Farley was killed in action in Vietnam on June 2, 1969.

His widow contends that the new beneficiary form was lost. The trial court granted summary judgment against her.

The Supreme Court said proof must establish "as a matter of law that there is no genuine issue of fact" before summary judgment may be entered. "The court reversed the judgments of the trial court and

Julie says Nixon's chief concern after world peace is drug abuse

HOUSTON (AP) - The President's younger daughter said Wednesday her father's chief concern, after world peace, is the drug abuse problem in this nation.

Julie Nixon Eisenhower told the American Pharmaceutical Association that the President "is in this battle to win."

"I don't think there is a single subject he feels more strongly about than this one, apart from the subject of world peace," she

"And in a sense this also is a question of peace, a question of breaking drug dependence so the people can be at peace with themselves and at peace with one another."

Mrs. Eisenhower said her generation has borne the brunt of the drug abuse epidemic.

"Everyone is familiar with the grim statistics of drug abuse," she said. "but I want to talk about the human personal side, the tragedies that occur when drugs are used to distort and destroy

She said the letter was an appeal from the heart. Such incidents are multiplied many times over with different drugs and different circumstances every day, she said.

She said the Nixon Administration is fighting the drug abuse battle on four fronts.

She said the second front is the effort to break up drug pushing operations inside this country. She said funds for this work have been greatly increased.

She said the third and fourth fronts are efforts to improve the treatment and rehabilitation services available to addicts and other persons victimized by drug abuse; and the providing of adequate education and information to young people "so the drug problem can be headed off before it begins."

Astronauts John W. Young, Charles M. Duke Jr. and Thomas K. Mattingly II, aboard their command ship Casper, will parachute to earth at 2:44 p.m. EST, 178 miles southeast of Christmas Island.

The prime recovery ship, aircraft carrier Ticonderoga, is cruising in the splashdown zone.

Weather forecasts for the area — which is just south of the equator — call for gentle seas, light winds, balmy temperatures and almost unlimited visibility.

In a press conference held in space Wednesday as the astronauts hurtled toward their home planet, Young said, "Mr. Descartes said it. 'Nothing is so far removed from us as to be beyond our reach, or so hidden that we cannot discover it". He referred to 16th century French scientist Rene Descartes for whom the moon mountains where Apollo 16 landed were named.

"That is really the story of our mission so far," the astronaut added. "We have been out testing this theory."

"We worked hard," said Young, "but we got all the support in the world from MCC (Mission Control Center), Houston." He said, too, there were 'lots of work and wheels turning and people working to solve our problems."

Mattingly, who remained in moon orbit while Young and Duke landed on the surface, said he may have seen the lunar module and the rover moon car from orbit.

"There were two occasions when I caught a glint of light," he said. "I got another little flash of light" when the rover was on a

Asked his most memorable impressions of the mission, Duke said he had two.

"The first is the dazzling beauty of the Descartes Mountains on the surface," he said. "It was just one of the most aweinspiring sights I've ever seen. And the second was when you look out into space there's just utter blackness out there."

Before the press conference an alarm light flashed in the ship's guidance and navigation system but it proved to be only a stray electronic impulse and Mission Control said later "the hardware has a clean bill of health."

Little was planned for the astronauts during their last day in

The spacecraft will blaze across Pacific skies south of the equator. Small pilot parachutes will slow it down and then, at about 10,500 feet above the water, three orange and white main chutes snap into the racing wind.

After a parachute descent of about five minutes, the spacecraft will splash down at a gentle 22 miles an hour.

The astronauts will spend two nights and a day aboard the Ticonderoga as the ship cruises north. Early Saturday, the spacemen will be flown to Hickman Field, Hawaii, where they'll transfer to a D141 jet transport. They will arrive at Ellington Air Force Base, near the Manned Spacecraft Center, about 11 p.m.

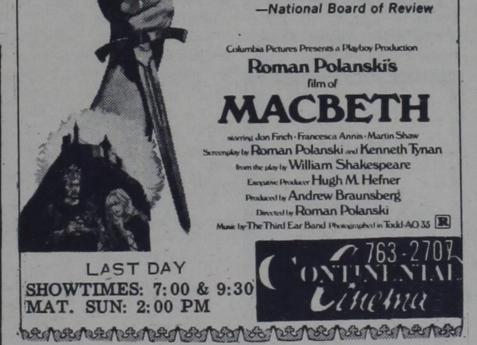

Apollo 16 is coming home with a record load of moon rocks. Young and Duke collected 245 pounds of lunar samples during more than 20 hours of exploring the moon's Descartes Mountain area, a part of the never-before visited lunar highlands. The astronauts deployed a nuclear-powered science station which is now sending data to earth. They also took miles of color and black and white film during their adventure.

While his crewmates explored the surface, Mattingly remained in lunar orbit, operating a $1.2-million array of science instruments and cameras in one outside bay of Casper. Mattingly walked in space Wednesday to recover two canisters of moon mapping film. During the space walk, he also exposed 60 million microbes to the effects of space, an experiment to help find out if man can some day journey to distant planets without being harmed by the radiation and weightlessness of years in space.

The former president was flown to the military hospital here April 12 after suffering what doctors called a serious heart attack in Charlottesville, Va., April 7.

A hospital spokesman said, "President Johnson has continued to recover from his recent heart attack in a very satisfactory manner. In fact, his present condition is such that in the opinion of his physicians, he may now continue his conconvalescence in the comfort of his home."

His first heart attack was in 1955, apparently more severe than the recent one.

Johnson, 63, was stricken about 4 a.m. in Charlottesville while visiting a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robb. Johnson's release from his special suite in the military facility here came three days before President Richard Nixon is scheduled to visit near San Antonio.

There was local speculation earlier that Nixon would fly to San Antonio and might visit the former president in the hospital.

Texas prof resigns, Oklahomans seed clouds for rain

(AP)—The big plane banked and came up parallel to the towering storm front. A stream of chemicals began spewing into the clouds. Suddenly, the heavens opened up and the rain poured down.

To the people of Altus, Okla., there is no doubt that the cloud seeding operation, performed under an emergency government appropriation, had touched off the life-giving rain.

By the time the rain had stopped, 10.04 inches had fallen on the parched southwest Oklahoma area that day last September. compared with a total of 24.61 inches for all of 1971.

"Last year the project was a success," said R.W. Radcliffe, project engineer at the Altus office of the U.S. bu cau of Reclamation. "There was five inches of rain in about 45 minutes to an hour."

By the end of this week, the planes should be in the air over southwest Oklahoma again, this time under a $225,000 federal weather modification contract awarded by the Bureau of Reclamation to Weather Science Inc. of Norman, Okla.

The primary objective of the program is to increase rainfall over the watersheds of the Altus, Foss and Mountain Park

In all, eight Oklahoma counties will be affected — Beckham. Custer, Greer, Marmon, Jacksoc, Kiowa, Roger Mills and Tillman. At the same time, the city of Lawton, Okla., has contracted with Irving P. Krick and Associates of Palm Springs, Calif., for a $27,000 rainmaking program. The Krick firm will use ground-based silver iodide generators, a number of them already in place, to seed clouds.

"There is no question but that we have the ability to increase rainfall," Radcliffe said.

"The only question is getting the material into the cloud

"All the scientific evidence we have shows that cloud seeding from airplanes is the method which will work in southwest Oklahoma. Ground generators have about a 3,000-foot capability in this area. They depend on the air currents being just right to get the silver iodide crystals into the clouds. With a plane you can put the material right where it will do the most good."

Regardless of the method used, the objective is the same — to put something into a cloud that tiny droplets can gather around to become big drops, which then fall as rain.

With one of the driest first quarters on record through much of the nation's mid-section from Nebraska to Texas, Colorado and New Mexico, the lessons learned in southwest Oklahoma may soon be applied in other states.

Soccer squad ends season soon

By MIKE HALLMARK Sports Writer

Tech's soccer team finishes out a successful season this weekend as they travel to Denton to take part in the North Texas Invitational Soccer Tournnament. Tech is paired with arch-foe Texas-Austin in the opening round to begin at 4:00 p.m. Friday.

Tech and Texas join St. Mary's of San Antonio and Monterey (Mexico) Tech in the strong bracket, while Midwestern, Texas A&M, Texas-Arlington and North Texas complete the foursome in the "weak-sister" division.

"It is too bad that the teams are aligned this way," said Geoff Harley, Tech's new player-coach. "Tech, Texas and St. Mary's were three of the strongest teams in the Texas Collegiate Soccer League last fall, and Monterey Tech has beaten Texas this year so it is obvious that they are good. The other bracket seems to be composed of teams that North Texas, the host, can beat. Pairing the four strongest teams in the same bracket seems to assure North Texas of making it to the finals."

"It would be great if we got a chance to blay Monterey Tech," said Johnny Spiegelberg. "They have a real fine soccer team

Idle Thoughts.

(Sports Editors note: Clinton is the shortstop and lead-off hitter for the Nads, an independent fast pitch and softball team vieing for the All-University championship today against the SAEs.)

Idle thoughts while wondering how many beverages it will take to help me make it through the long study week-end.

Why I realize that the world is full of old athletes and all that garbage. You may say that the old jocks are like a hangover, you may get rid of them for a while, but sure as the wind is gonna howl, the old boys will be baek.

that you see running around the grass infields all around the campus on any given afternoon. You can bet that behind every one of these fellas is a story of how many .333 batting seasons they had for the old high school. It really didn't really matter how I felt about playing the game, you see I eventually knew that I wanted nothing more than to be back in action, the problem was trying to explain to my wife that I was going to take up the sport.

The way that I approached the matter was the quick slurstatement-routine. As I walked through the living room before supper I blurted "I'm-gonnaplay-softball-with-a-team-atschool."

Quarterback Jerry Bomar fumbles the ball during the Tech scrimmage Saturday. Spring drills conclude this Saturday with the annual Red-White game.

Something to . . .

The gears are in motion for improved recreational—intramural facilities on this campus.

A committee has been named to lead Tech's planning in this area.

Over 9,000 signatures of students prove the campus is sensitive to improvements in recreational and intramural facilities. The president of the Student Association and Tech administrators have shown genuine interest through spoken statements and by the type of people already appointed to the committee.

YET WHY HAS THE MAN MOST IN-STRUMENTAL IN THIS ACTION BEEN DELETED FROM THE COMMITTEE?

Edsel Buchanan has not been, as of this writing, appointed to the committee. Yet Buchanan is the director of the Tech Men's intramural program and is the one resident expert in the field of intramurals and recreational facilities.

If the lack of Buchanan on the committee is just a mistake-then lets correct the error and laugh it

But if Buchanan's name was considered and then dropped-why?

Nads, SAE vie for title today

The All-University fast-pitch softball championship will be decided today as the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity unit will tackle the Nads, at 5 p.m. on softball field number nine. The contest will climax a season that started with 25 hopeful teams in March. The SAE's got to the final round action by a 9-2 verdict over the Hombres, last years champion, in a Wednesday afternoon ballgame.

The Nads won the right to make the play-offs by squeaking a narrow decision over the Sigma Chi's, 8-7, also in a Wednesday ballgame.
