Pinball wizard in a sea of madness

Tech students' GPAs may soon reflect plusses, minusses in grades

By LINDA GARRETT
Special Reporter

In 1974, Tech students may receive more grade points for a "B-plus" than a "B" under a new proposal being studied by the Academics Committee of the Tech Student Senate.

Committee member Karen Hogg said two plans are being studied — giving the student 3.5 grade points for a "B-plus," 3.0 grade points for a "B" and not penalizing him for a "B-minus;" or giving him 3.3 grade points for a "B-plus," 3.0 grade points for a "B" and 2.7 grade points for a "B-minus."

Hogg said she and her senate aide are taking grade point average (GPA) statistics given them by the registrar and computing the grades by the two methods. She said this would show the effect of both methods on several different GPAs.

"We want to make sure our idea is worthwhile before we take it to the council of deans," Hogg said. "We want to have the plan well-researched."

Dr. Owen L. Caskey, associate vice president for academic affairs, said the plan would have to be presented to the council of deans first, and this body would make a recommendation to Dr. S. M. Kennedy, vice president of academic affairs.

Caskey said the proposed plus and minus grading system is a more expanded system than the one now used. "The national trend is toward a more narrow system, however," he said. "Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology have gone totally to the pass-fail system. Some schools do not record failures at all. These programs are moving in the opposite direction from the finer differentiation of grades proposed by the Academics Committee."

Hogg said the nation may be moving in the wrong direction. "Maybe we are going in the right direction," she said. "Tech could be taking the first step and start something new in education."

She added pressure is being applied by employers to schools which use the pass-fail system because the employers do not know "where to find the good students."

Committee members are presenting the proposal to their respective college councils for student feedback. If the councils approve it, the plan will be presented to each dean for consideration and finally to the council of deans.

Arcades—home of pinball, foosball, masses of students

By NENE FOXHALL
Special Reporter

It's the home of pinball, foosball and crowds of students trying their luck and skill amid clicking machines and piped-in music. It's the arcade, the newest spot for entertainment on an otherwise dull afternoon or night.

The resurgence of the popularity of the arcade has been increasing since its Lubbock introduction last summer. The popularity may be cut short for pinball and foosball fans under the age of 17, however, as City Council votes today on an ordinance which, if passed, will require patrons to be 17-years-old unless accompanied by their parents.

The ordinance also proposes a $5 license on any establishment whose aim is amusement by machine. The license would be issued only after a check on the background and character of the owners, said Tom Martin, public information officer at City Hall. The license, which requires a midnight closing time, can be revoked for failure to abide by its regulations.

The ordinance also calls for a $7.50 a year tax on each coin-operated machine for skill and pleasure in the city.

Martin said the city juvenile curfew already regulates the hours boys under 17 and girls under 18 may be in the arcades. The curfew is 11 p.m. on school nights and midnight on other nights.

Martin said the ordinance was proposed because there have been "quite a number of cases of selling and using drugs and many disturbances" at the establishments.

The ordinance has been delayed, he said, because some council members think the age limit should be 10 instead of 17.

Charles Collins, manager of Electric Circus, a barber shop recently turned arcade, said most of his customers are high school students. He said the proposed ordinance, therefore, would definitely affect the establishment.

"We haven't had any trouble. We haven't had to call the police since we opened in May. In fact, a lot of people bring their kids here because they know there is no drinking or cussing and they know me," he said. (Collins had worked at the barber shop 14 years and besides being manager, still shines shoes at the arcade.) He is also a Baptist minister.

The Arcade, one of the first strictly pinball and foosball parlors, has recently turned private club requiring college or military IDs before entrance.

John Carter, manager, said, "We made the switch to a private club on Oct. 1 to eliminate undesirables. We took a reduction in business, of course, and knew it. But now it's picking up."

"You couldn't come in here and buy a lid from someone under the counter like some people thought, but I didn't want anything going on in here. The city did have a valid complaint, and other businesses around us were complaining. Of course a girl who had been in the men's clothing store down the block wouldn't want to walk by here and have a bunch of bare-footed guys sitting outside yelling obscenities," he said.

He said college students no longer have to worry about the high school group. He said police came by every night during the summer and now they don't even have to check.

Not all pinball places are strictly arcades. Dale Ray, owner of Talco Laundry, has several pinball and foosball machines in the laundry. He said the ordinance, if passed, would "knock" his business about one-third.

"We haven't had any problems. Our business is mostly college students, but we are not actually an arcade. The police could come here anytime with my permission," he said.

Fred Brown, owner of Zottz, an arcade on Main, said the proposed ordinance would probably "make me go under." He said Zottz is frequented by mostly college students, but he is opening an arcade on 50th Street.

"These places give the kids something to do. Most of them have been running up and down the street anyway. Now they can get together and play something."

Kissinger, Thieu talks concern three-part idea

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger's talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu dealt with a Communist proposal that Thieu stay on as head of one part of a three-part government, the Senate president said Wednesday.

Sen. Nguyen Van Huyen, whose office would put him in the presidency if Thieu should step down, said he had learned this in a palace briefing on the general situation of Thieu's conferences with the President's national security adviser.

Thieu's ouster has been a principal part of previous Communist demands.

Thieu rejected the three-part government concept in a speech Tuesday night. Huyen — reputedly anti-Thieu — said he agreed with the president "because any coalition would ultimately lead to a Communist regime."

South Vietnamese politicians of various factions expressed approval of Thieu's speech.

Supporters of Thieu introduced in the Senate Wednesday a resolution to back up the president.

Huyen said he was confident the resolution, which condemns the North Vietnamese invasion, rejects a tripartite government and insists on South Vietnamese self-determination, would be adopted within a few days.

Sen. Vu Van Mau, an opponent of Thieu, declared in the Senate that if the president does plan to step down he should start making arrangements now for a strong nationalist government with the broad public support.

Parking lots closed today to students

The Municipal Auditorium-Coliseum parking lots will be closed to students from 8 a.m. to noon today while Lubbock teachers meet in the Auditorium. However, students may park in the lot east of Jones Stadium and in the lots west of campus, near the Law School.

Lab supervisor says volatile ether is gone

By ROGER FEHR
Staff Writer

D. O. Love, laboratory stores supervisor in the chemistry department Wednesday confirmed that 10 gallons of volatile ether and petroleum ether have been removed from the Meats Laboratory and disposed of on the Tech farms.

Tech Fire Marshal Arnold Miranda previously reported that about 30 gallons of used petroleum ether were being stored in the Meats Lab and needed disposal.

Love said because the ether and petroleum ether had been used they were much more volatile than in a pure state.

As stored in the Meats Lab the liquids "probably were not explosive," he said. "But it was a hazard, and the thing to do was to get it out of there right away."

He said an explosion caused by the stored quantity would have a "good possibility" of destroying the Meats Lab building.

Love and Lt. Richard Hamilton of the University Police also removed quantities of acetone, methyl alcohol and five gallons of unused petroleum ether from the Meats Lab. The chemistry department will use these chemicals in everyday operations, Love said.

McGovern 'traces' spying to Nixon's lap

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sen. George McGovern said Wednesday the reported link of White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman to an alleged political sabotage operation "means that this whole ugly mess of corruption, espionage and sabotage is now squarely traced to the lap of Richard Nixon."

The White House denied the report in The Washington Post that Haldeman was one of those in control of a fund to finance such operations. McGovern, however, picked up the report and strongly denounced the administration in speeches to a labor rally in Milwaukee and a largely student crowd outside Cleveland State University.

If Nixon says he doesn't know about the fund and the sabotage operation,

McGovern said, he should be asked: "Have you lost control completely of your campaign and your administration?"

The contentions about Haldeman, Nixon's top White House assistant, came just before the Democratic nominee's nationally televised speech on corruption. It was taped earlier for national showing Wednesday night.

"There won't be any doubt after you've heard that speech that we're putting the responsibility right squarely on one Richard Nixon," the South Dakota senator told reporters in Milwaukee.

In Milwaukee, he told about 165 labor leaders at a breakfast that Haldeman "is the most powerful man in the White House next to the President himself."

'Simply Amazing' bus stumps for Nixon here

By JANICE SMITH
Staff Writer

"The Simply Amazing, Three-Dimensional, Two-toned, Transcontinental, Nixon-Agnew, New Majority People Machine," a busload of Nixon supporters, stopped in Lubbock Wednesday to emphasize the importance Nixon places on electing a Republican Congress and Republican state and local officials.

The 34th stop of the bus' coast-to-coast campaign was at a local shopping center and Anne Armstrong, National Committeewoman from Texas, was among those who addressed the crowd of 30. "We also emphasize the importance the President places on home town organization in his own re-election," said Armstrong.

James Drury, currently appearing in "The Only Game in Town" at the Hayloft Dinner Theater, also appeared at the rally.

Armstrong presented personally signed portrait posters of Nixon inscribed with the New Majority quote, "I ask you to join with me as members of a new American majority bound together by our common ideas" to Margaret Johnson, county vice chairman and Sid Moore, Nixon county chairman.

Charles Townsend, county commission nominee; Biba Wagner, assistant director of research for the election of President Nixon; and Drury participated in a ceremonial football kick-off.

Armstrong also emphasized the need for more women in politics. Connie Armitage, president of the National Federation of Republican Women, joined in the rally and called Armstrong a "tremendous patriot."

"Organization is the key to success in this campaign — with only 308 days from opinion polls to votes," claimed Armstrong, adding, "Nixon has shown imagination and creativity during his term of office."

The bus left Lubbock, its last Texas stop, for Albuquerque.

Drury will appear with Sen. John Tower at a 7:15 p.m. rally today in the Coronado Room of the University Center.

Noting the cloudy skies, Drury quipped, "At least it rains on Republicans and Democrats alike."

Letter bombs explode

(AP) — Letter bombs began turning up Wednesday in various parts of the Middle East, including three in Israel addressed to President Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. Israeli police defused the bombs.

Two letters exploded in Beirut, Lebanon, injuring seven persons, and another was found in the mail in Cairo. One blew up in Algiers on Tuesday night.

The letter bombs in Israel were found in the sorting room of a post office in the northern frontier town of Kiryat Shmona, near the border with Lebanon.

Police said they were the same type of bombs as the many explosive envelopes mailed last month from Amsterdam to Israeli officials in various parts of the world.

Police Supt. Mordechai Tavor said the three envelopes were detected when the Washington addresses "aroused the suspicion of postal workers" in the border settlement.

One of the Amsterdam envelopes exploded and killed an Israeli agricultural attaché in London.

"It should be pointed out that Kiryat Shmona is situated near the northern border," police said.

The envelopes posted in Kiryat Shmona could have been mailed by Arab guerrilla infiltrators slipping into the country from Lebanon, less than two miles away across the hills. Police sources in Kiryat Shmona, however, said they did not believe the explosives letters to Nixon, Laird and Rogers were the work of infiltrators.

Friday UD to explore X-rated films

Friday's will be the first UD front page dedicated to discussion of controversial issues and people. This week's topic is X-rated movies and the Avalanche-Journal ban against them. Fine Arts Editor Bill Kerns' exploration of the issue includes interviews with several theatre managers and owners, a Tech sociologist and A-J Editor Charles Guy. Other topics in the weekly series include homosexuality, gambling in Lubbock and the short—but successful—career of rock 'n' roll star Budd Holly.

1984 closer than you think

As election day draws near, I find myself in a verbal battleground. Being a McGovern supporter, I usually have my back to the wall, vainly attempting to explain my views while bleeding from a left hook to the personality. Honestly, friends and countrymen, it is enough to make a person throw away his campaign button. Which brings us to the present: I am hoarse from debating issues with persons who refuse to listen, choosing instead to fill the air with their pent-up steam, cloudbusting the real issues. When asked to briefly give a reason for my support, I say that Senator McGovern wants to re-establish America's priorities. Instead of wasting billions on defense "projects" that are never fulfilled, the senator would like to use this money and these employees in long range, humanitarian areas such as housing, better schooling for the poor, mass transportation and pollution control. If you are the type of person who would rather blow the hell out of innocent farmers in North Vietnam than educate a child whose color has kept him from receiving a good education, please stop here — you and I are too far apart to meet by Nov. 7.

But for all of you who are still reading, please envision an America which is using its tax dollars to build instead of destroy, to save all those wonderful faces Nature assumes instead of covering her with concrete and poisonous smoke-stacks. A place in which our all-powerful industries are forced to be responsible to the country whose throat they hold.

Did you know that the military now has enough atomic missiles to blow up the world five times over? One of the only laughs I've been able to afford lately is in wondering how we are going to blow it up the second time! Why not slim down our obese defense budget and use that money to build an America that is responsive to the needs of its people?

Above all, don't become so blinded by conservative fears that you are unwilling to "see things that never were and say, why not?" Bobby Kennedy died for these words. Don't let a sincere, energetic man's ideas drown in a sea of apathy and fear. If you cannot agree with all of Sen. McGovern's plans, as I cannot, remember that the President merely "sets the tone" of the government and tries to guide it in certain directions. When one looks at this man's motives and the sincere directions he dreams of, he is very hard to vote against. Open your eyes. 1984 is closer than you think.

Whatcha doing next weekend?

My name is "E". To those for whom the name doesn't ring a bell, I'm the one who was running a series of 'interpersonal' ads last spring. The "E" stands for "Excelsior", the title of one of Longfellow's poems. Anyway, the letter in Monday's UD from the female population to the male population at Tech prompted me to make a short reappearance, this time in the front of the paper.

The problem as I see it is that some sweet young things wish to meet some not-as-sweet young things of the opposite sex, right? Permit me a few observations: Guys usually make plans for the weekend during the week, so it seems the time to be out looking for prospects is on weekdays, right? Last spring one of my 'tidbits' was: "Nods or smiles are non-vocal hellos." Armed with the best smile I could muster on a Monday, I walked around campus on a few errands. Two girls smiled back, one said hi, and more than I would care to count looked the other way as we passed. I don't mean for you girls to be pushy, but a gentle nudge wouldn't be too out of place. Ever notice that when there's a dance on campus, there's usually twenty or thirty guys 'left over'?

Let me redefine my position from last spring. I represent the quiet, shy type so often neglected in favor of the extrovert, like the fellow who doesn't quite know what to say after he introduces himself, or the fellow who feels like he should be wearing three more pairs of socks, or the fellow who has been burned a few times and hasn't decided whether to try again or not. They're nice people too, but they just need a smile or a friendly word to get them started. I'm not suggesting the girls do all the work, just let the guys know which pretty faces are friendly, too. By the way, whatcha doing next weekend?

Kerns' remarks termed absurd, misplaced

For some time now I have maintained my silence concerning the absurd and misplaced criticisms and praises expounded by Fine Arts Editor William D. (formerly "Bill") Kerns, but I have reached my limit. He has finally proven beyond the shadow of any doubt that his knowledge of fine arts is virtually non-existent. As I read each succeeding statement of his review of the Peter Nero concert, my disbelief increased with each testimonial he gave to his ignorance.

It is not a question of liking or not liking jazz; I cannot help but wonder what Kerns thinks jazz is. In speaking of Nero's improvisations, it was not his opinions that infuriated me (although I heartily disagree with him). The disgusting part of it is that he obviously had never before heard any music in this style. Fine arts editor, you say? Since Kerns apparently was expecting an evening of "easy listening" pop music, it is no wonder he was surprised. Peter Nero is a creative jazz artist and his music requires a little more concentration than what is given to cocktail hour background music. Regardless of personal opinions, this is something a fine arts editor should know before he goes to a concert, much less before he raises his voice to criticize it.

Isn't it time the UD saw fit to find a staff member with some degree of knowledge in the arts? This excuse for journalism is no less ridiculous than an account of a football game reading, "The Tech team had the ball for a good portion of the time, but all they seemed to want to do was try to get it to the other end of the field."

The clearest choice for a generation

So McGovern can't win, eh? Where have you heard that before? In the primaries last Spring, that's where.

But you fooled the political experts and rewrote the history books. You provided the manpower and womanpower for the largest, smoothest, toughest vote-canvassing operation this country had ever seen.

Now it's time to do it again. And the job this Fall is even more important. For the choice between Nixon and McGovern is the clearest choice voters have had for a generation.

McGovern has opposed the bombing of Indochina, while Nixon has been inflicting the explosive equivalent of 7 Hiroshima atom bombs a month on that already devastated area.

Nixon believes in putting people out of work in order to hold down prices. His policies have put 2 million more people out of work. McGovern believes that there should be a job for everyone who wants to work, with the U.S. Government itself as the employer of last resort.

Nixon started his campaign with $10 million in secret money. McGovern's campaign is financed almost entirely by contributions of $5 to $25 from the people.

Nixon has nominated conservatives and mediocrities to the United States Supreme Court. One or two more Nixon appointments if he is re-elected, and you'll live with a heavy-handed Nixon court for the rest of your life. McGovern has pledged to appoint a woman and members of racial and ethnic minorities, and will appoint highly qualified liberals.

Ralph Nader says the Nixon

Administration is "the most corrupt in our history." The late Robert Kennedy called George McGovern "the most decent man in the Senate."

McGovern wants the millionaires and the large corporations to start paying their fair share of taxes. Nixon wants to maintain the status quo.

Get an absentee ballot if you need one. Get some money together to help us make get-out-the-vote phone calls. And get together with your local McGovern Committee to find out how you can help.

You started this campaign. It's up to you to finish it.

Send money while there's still time! Help us buy get-out-the-vote phone calls.

Washington Post

Newspaper accused of 'shabby' journalism

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House accused the Washington Post Wednesday of engaging in "character assassination" and "a vicious abuse of the journalistic process" in reporting on alleged political sabotage by the Republican party.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler was specifically critical of the lead story in Wednesday editions of the Post. The story quoted unnamed sources as saying H. R. Haldeman, President Nixon's chief of staff, was linked to a "secret fund" that the newspaper has said was used for espionage and sabotage efforts.

Democratic presidential nominee Sen. George McGovern said earlier Wednesday that the Post report of Haldeman's alleged involvement in sabotage and espionage "places the whole ugly mess ... right squarely in the lap of Richard Nixon."

Ziegler emphasized he was talking to newsmen "as a spokesman for the White House."

"This is a political effort by the Washington Post, well conceived and coordinated with the aim of discrediting this administration," said Ziegler. In what was the most strongly worded White House blast against any publication in recent memory, Ziegler said of Post accounts of the alleged sabotage plot:

"This is a vicious abuse of the journalistic process. It is political and ... a blatant effort at character assassination."

He accused the Post of "building hearsay upon hearsay" and in subsequent editions, turning rumor into fact on its editorial page.

Ziegler also volunteered that Nixon's Democratic opponent, Sen. George McGovern, had commented earlier in the day on the Post report concerning Haldeman.

"It's a pattern that is being followed," said the Nixon spokesman.

Asked to explain the motivation he feels the Post has, Ziegler said it would not be difficult to establish that the newspaper's executive editor, Benjamin C. Bradlee, "is not a supporter of President Nixon."

Apart from denying that Haldeman had any connection with a secret fund, Ziegler insisted he has been informed that no such secret fund ever existed.

General Accounting Office investigators have reported that, earlier in the year, the Nixon campaign organization maintained a cash fund of amounts up to $700,000 that was kept in a safe in the office of former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans, now finance chairman of the Nixon re-election campaign.

Asked to give the source of his statement that no secret fund existed, Ziegler said he had been so informed by John Dean III, White House special counsel who conducted an internal investigation for Nixon following the arrest of GOP operatives in the Watergate offices of the Democratic National Committee.

The Post said it had been told that Hugh W. Sloan Jr., former treasurer of the Nixon campaign, told a federal grand jury Haldeman was one of five men authorized to approve payments from the reported cash fund.

The Post has not endorsed a presidential candidate.

Ziegler noted that the White House had denied this prior to publication of the Post's story and added that, earlier Wednesday Sloan's attorney stated his client gave no such testimony.

Ziegler was particularly critical of the fact that this and a number of other recent Post stories on the subject have not identified the newspaper's sources. He said:

"I personally feel this is shabby journalism ... this effort on the part of the Post is getting to the point of absurdity."

Asked if the White House was continuing its subscription to the Post, Ziegler replied, "We have to—out of self-protection."

The press secretary said he had discussed the subject in general terms with Haldeman but declared, "I haven't quite frankly discussed this with the President." However, Ziegler added he was talking as a White House spokesman from a White House rostrum.

Ziegler said he was intrigued by the placement, timing and content of a number of Post articles on the general subject.

"I feel an obligation to call their hand on this," he said.

McGovern told a labor group in Milwaukee earlier today that the Post report should be alarming to all Americans.

In voting choice

Trainee claims coercion

LEESVILLE, La. (AP) — The Army scheduled a news conference at its basic training center near here Wednesday to discuss allegations that a trainee was threatened with punishment by his company commander if he did not vote for President Nixon.

Maj. Gen. John Gray Wheelock, commander of Ft. Polk, called the news conference Tuesday to "air the whole thing."

Army authorities denied that any pressure of any kind has been put on anyone to vote or work for any candidate.

Lt. Col. Ralph Schmitz, information officer at Ft. Polk, said trainee Antonio Condy of Chicago, who has been stationed at the base since late September, claimed he had been told he "had better work for President Nixon or else."

Schmitz said Condy contended the orders came from Lt. Ronald Adams of Palermo, Maine, the company commander, Sgt. William Brock of Sweetwater, Tenn., and Pfc. Rogers Walker, also of Chicago. Condy reportedly told a lawyer in Chicago he had been threatened with company punishment—that of the discretion of the company commander—if he failed to work in the President's behalf.

in the hacking deaths of the transients whose bodies were dug from peach orchards in Yuba City in May 1971.

His trial resumed Tuesday after a week's delay as Hawk was given time to study prosecution documents. Hawk's request for another week's delay was turned down by Judge Patton Tuesday.

Patton said Hawk had enough time to review the documents but said he would allow more time to recall witnesses for cross-examination if the material revealed new information.

Lawyer attempts to win bail for Juan Corona

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — A defense lawyer says he will appear in an attempt to win freedom or bail for Juan Corona, held 17 months in the killing of 25 farm workers.

A bail request by defense lawyer Richard Hawk was turned down without comment last Friday by Superior Court Judge Richard E. Patton, who is presiding at Corona's trial.

Hawk said Tuesday he will file an appeal at an unspecified date with the State Court of Appeal.

Hanoi Radio accuses Nixon of pretending to seek peace

HONG KONG (AP) — Hanoi Radio accused President Nixon Wednesday of pretending to seek peace while using President Nguyen Van Thieu to block a settlement.

The broadcast apparently was prompted by Thieu's refusal in a speech Tuesday to agree to a coalition government and to join in a cease-fire while North Vietnamese troops remain in South Vietnam.

Radio Hanoi said the Nixon administration was using "all manner of deceitful maneuvers and measures to create a false veil of peace, perfidiously trying for political purposes to create the impression that he is actively pursuing the path of negotiations to end the Vietnam War.

"But while practicing this deceit, the tricksters are using their lackey Nguyen Van Thieu to block peace so that the Nixon aggressors can continue their war of destruction against our country."

The North Vietnamese delegation in Paris had a similar comment on Thieu's speech, saying, "It is a matter of common knowledge that it is the United States which put Thieu at his place and he only is their instrument."

North Vietnam's Communist party newspaper Nhan Dan said Wednesday that "certain people in Washington have for some time now tried to make believe that the war is coming to an end."

"The fact, however, is that the forces of aggression there are continuing the intensification of the war, perpetuating more crimes every day in both the two zones of Vietnam."

Political roundup

Candidates discuss issues

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

President Nixon said today he is irrevocably committed to seeking tax credits for non-public schools. And George McGovern said the issues of corruption and war will tip the election his way.

McGovern also said the reported involvement of White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman in Republican political espionage "places the whole ugly mess ... right squarely in the lap of Richard Nixon."

The President in a paid political radio broadcast said he will help maintain nonpublic schools in America and will press the next session of Congress to end court-ordered busing of school children.

"In my judgment," Nixon said, "the Constitution does not prohibit tax inducements to encourage and maintain diversity in American education—and we are prepared to fight to guarantee that diversity remains."

McGovern said in a television interview in Milwaukee that two factors will swing the election to him.

"One is the war in Vietnam and the shocking realization on the part of the American people ... that the President now seems to be willing to end it on terms he could have had four years ago," McGovern said.

"Then, there are these constant revelations of corruption and political sabotage and espionage, wiretapping, and disruption of the democratic process by high officials in the Nixon administration," McGovern added.

Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew, says he doesn't think Republicans will win control of the Senate in the upcoming election.

"I think it's possible," Agnew said. "I don't think it's probable."

McGovern said Tuesday he doesn't care if his chances of being elected president are hurt should there be peace in Vietnam before the Nov. 7 election, but he thinks it should help him.

McGovern said in Milwaukee that Nixon can get no settlement terms now he could not have had four years ago. He added he thinks voters will conclude that Nixon "finally came around to George McGovern's position."

McGovern scheduled a 7:30 p.m. EDT television address to the nation "on corruption and morality in government." His headquarters said it would be carried on some ABC and NBC stations.

Democratic vice-presidential candidate Sargent Shriver said in Chicago that McGovern has been victimized by "smeared and lies" by the Nixon campaign.

"It's a lie ... that George McGovern wants a weak America," he said. "It's a lie that he wants to put half the nation on welfare. It's another lie that he favors federal action to permit abortion."

McGovern has appearances scheduled in Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago.

Nixon planned a radio broadcast today on the federal role in education, his fifth broadcast of the campaign. The program was to originate live from the White House Library at 12:07 p.m. (EDT).

There were several developments concerning alleged Republican surveillance and sabotage of Democratic presidential candidates including:

—A report by The Washington Post that H. R. Haldeman, President Nixon's chief of staff, was one of five close Nixon associates who controlled a secret spying and sabotage fund. The White House said the report was "untrue."

—A statement by Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst that the Justice Department has no "credible evidence" that federal laws have been violated and therefore no probe of the sabotage allegations is warranted.

—GOP National Chairman Robert Dole's criticism of The Washington Post. "The goal of the Post operations is clear: To diminish so far as possible the enormous gap between Mr. McGovern and the President," he said.

—A claim by Patricia Griffin, an aide to a Republican legislative candidate in Florida, that she was recruited to infiltrate Muskie's primary campaign in March on behalf of the GOP.

—A Los Angeles Times report that the former treasurer of the Nixon campaign, High W. Sloan Jr., has acknowledged that he was concerned about the legality of $114,000 in campaign checks which later were connected with the break in and alleged bugging of Democratic party offices in Washington on June 17.

SARGEANT SHRIVER, Democratic vice presidential nominee, spoke to a capacity crowd at a political rally in Childress Tuesday night. Shriver said that it is essential for the Democrats to carry Texas in the November election.

Girl Scouts end national meeting

DALLAS (AP) — Some 4,000 delegates to the triennial convention of the Girl Scouts U.S.A. wound up their three-day meeting here Wednesday after approving a new Girl Scout promise and set of laws.

New wording in the Girl Scout laws removes some of the absolutism and replaces it with less stringent requirements.

For example, the old "a Girl Scout obeys orders" dictate is modified to assert that "I will do my best to respect authority."

The rewritten Girl Scout Promise states: "I will try to serve God, my country and mankind, and to live by the Girl Scout law."

The rewritten version of the Girl Scout law now reads: "I will do my best to be honest, to be fair, to help where I am needed, to be cheerful, to be friendly and considerate, to be a sister to every Girl Scout, to respect authority, to use resources wisely, to protect and improve the world around me and show respect for myself and others through my words and actions."

The modifications being made within the Girl Scout movement are an attempt to reflect changing social values and to become more relevant in a more urban, less rigid society, spokesmen said.

The changes were accepted by an overwhelming majority of voting delegates Tuesday.

"We want to be initiators of social change rather than reactors ... to see the needs and plan for them rather than react after the situation arises," says Mrs. William Ittmann, of Cincinnati, incoming president of the GSA.

"We as a part of the establishment are being tested. If you are involved in the decisions to change, change is not a big, traumatic thing at all," she said.

"We are an organization of people and the people relationships are one of the greatest things we have going for us," she said.

On and off campus

Bus schedule revisions made

With the approach of cold, rainy weather, more Tech students will be frantically searching for the right bus for both their on-and off-campus routes. The on-campus bus schedule has been revised, according to Eugene Lake, Traffic and Parking Counselor.

Originating at the northwest corner of the Auditorium parking lot, the Yellow Route moves south to Boston, then to Memorial Circle—to the Wiggins Complex—to the Business Administration Building and then to the C-4 Lot. From the parking lot, the bus moves north back to the Wiggins Complex—to Memorial Circle—and to the Auditorium parking lot. The bus leaves the Auditorium lot and the C-4 lot at the hour and at 8, 15, 23, 30, 38, 45 and 53 minutes after the hour.

The first bus leaves at 7 a.m. and the last bus at 3:53 p.m.

Circling clockwise from the northwest corner of the Auditorium lot to Boston—to Memorial Circle—to Wiggins—to the B.A.—and back to the Auditorium lot via Flint, the Red Route runs every 7½ minutes between the Yellow Route.

The Green Route circles counter-clockwise, beginning at the Auditorium and moving to the B.A. via Flint—to Wiggins—to the Student Union—to Memorial Circle and then back to the Auditorium via Boston. It leaves every 7½ minutes between the Yellow Route. The Red and Green Routes run on campus only for a period of approximately 15 minutes before and after class changes.

A bus leaves for the off-campus route at each of the off-campus points 30 minutes before each class. Leaving from the Administration Building on the circle, a bus leaves for each off-campus point at 15 minutes after each class ends. For example, on M.W.F. a bus leaves 45 minutes past each hour, while TT buses leave at 9:15 a.m. after a 7:30 a.m. class and at 10:45 a.m. after a 9 a.m. class.

Muskie dubs Nixon 'disaster', deceiver

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, called President Nixon "a disaster" Tuesday night and said apparently "there is no end to this man's capacity for deception."

"This man isn't a president. He's a disaster," Muskie told a labor rally for 8th District congressional candidate J. O. Patterson Jr., a state senator and city councilman.

Muskie, the unsuccessful 1968 vice-presidential nominee, pulled out a list of 4-year-old

Nixon promises "that no one—with the exception of Hubert Humphrey remembers better than I do. I think I serve a useful purpose around the country reminding people of these promises."

He recounted Nixon statements on ending the war, fighting pollution, balancing the budget, and decreasing the welfare rolls.

"There is no end to this man's capacity for deception, apparently. At least we haven't seen it yet," he said.

Search for Boggs continues

By JOHN MORRISON
Associated Press Writer

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Hopes continue to turn into frustrations in the search for a light plane missing for nine days with House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs and three other persons aboard.

Four separate sightings were reported Tuesday, but all turned out to be dead-ends, as have all the leads so far in the search which has covered 148,000 square miles of rugged Alaska territory between Anchorage and Juneau, the path of the missing plane.

An electronically equipped HC130 aircraft was crisscrossing the search area throughout the night Wednesday, and two Coast Guard cutters plied the waters of the Alaska coastline.

Search officials were hopeful favorable weather would permit a "maximum search effort" over the northern half of the search area.

The plane has been missing since Oct. 16 with Boggs, 58; Alaska's lone House member, Nick Begich, 40; Begich aide Russell Brown, 37, and the pilot, Don E. Jenz, 38, of Fairbanks.

The exhaustive air, land and sea search has been expanded to cover a 120-mile-wide area and pilots have logged 1,060 hours in the air in the fruitless hunt.

Hopes were raised momentarily late Tuesday at the report of a debris sighting in the Gulf of Alaska. The crew of a Coast Guard helicopter reported that "pieces of something" sighted about 20 miles offshore near Yakutat, midway between Anchorage and Juneau, turned out to be logs, cardboard boxes and cargo pallets, apparently discarded by a passing ship.

The helicopter was dispatched after a HC130 reported the debris, part of it orange. The missing Cessna 310 was orange and white.

Maj. Henry Stocker, search coordinator, said more than 40 reported sightings have been investigated since the exhaustive search began. All have come to nothing.

Garcia named to 'Star team

Whip-armed Ruben Garcia, of Tech has been selected to the United States All-Star team that will compete in the 20th World Amateur Baseball Championship in Managua, Nicaragua.

The tournament, which will run from Nov. 15 through Dec. 5, has a 21-country field that includes defending champion Cuba and perennial power Japan. "It's quite an honor to be selected," says Garcia, who has compiled a 20-8 mound mark during his three varsity seasons at Tech. The senior southpaw was All-Southwest Conference in 1971 with an 8-2 record and an 0.72 ERA.

baseball coach at Florida Southern College.

"We're hoping Ruben will be reporting in good shape," the coach adds. "The feeling is that good left-handed pitching can be the difference between winning and losing because it can help neutralize the running game used by most South American teams."

All-Star head coach Hal Smeltzly and his three assistants made their squad selections only after contacting every summer league and going through professional scout checklists provided by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office.

"We have had some good recommendations from people about Ruben," notes Smeltzly, Red Raider coach Kal Segist. "He's by far the best pitcher we've ever had as far as having all the tools. He has a natural major league curve ball."

"He would probably rank as one of the top five college pitchers in the country," adds the Tech mentor. "With a good spring season, he should be one of the top pro prospects next year."

Garcia will report to Lakeland, Fla., Nov. 4 for a week of workouts and exhibition games. The All-Star team will depart for Nicaragua Nov. 14, play an exhibition game that night and open the tournament the following day.

Fem volleyball finale today

Sigma Kappa blitzed Pi Beta Phi 15-11 and 15-9 in the semi-final round of the women's All-University volleyball championship Wednesday in the Women's Gym.

Sigma Kappa will meet Horn Hall in the championship game today at 5:30 p.m. in the Women's Gym. Horn drew a bye in the semi-final play. Horn already has one major All-University title to its credit as it won the women's football crown.

Sigma Kappa squeaked by Pi Beta Phi in the first game of their semi-final games and seemed a sure bet to lose the second as the Pi Beta Phi girls jumped out to a quick lead. But the Sigma Kappas rallied to overcome the deficit and claim the best of three match with a game to spare.

Rodeo deadline nears

Any Tech student interested in entering the All-School Rodeo can do so by calling 797-2568. The annual affair is sponsored by the Tech Rodeo Association and will be held Saturday and Sunday beginning at 1:30 p.m.

The Rodeo site is the Dub Parks Memorial Arena, Fourth and Quaker.

Events include motorcycle barrel racing, bareback bronc riding, calf roping, conventional barrel racing, goat tying, calf dressing, ribbon roping, a gold rush, horseless steerwrestling and bull riding.

Delts, Sneed win in IM play

A 33-yard pass from Greg Hargrove to Joe McPhail provided the margin of victory as the Delts defeated the SAEs 7-0 in intramural football action Wednesday. The Delts will now meet the ATOs for the fraternity II championship.

The SAEs were leading the Delts on penetrations before Hargrove led his team on the final drive with about three minutes left in the game. The Delts drove down to the SAE 33-yard line but three incomplete passes left a fourth down situation. Hargrove faded back and found McPhail in the left corner of the end zone for the score. Larry Peterson's conversion was good for the final 7-0 score.

The SAEs were ranked fourth in the top ten poll and the Delts sixth going into the game. Both teams had held the first place position at one time during the season. The SAEs had defeated the Delts in league play, 16-14.

The Residence Hall division was decided Wednesday as Sneed and Bledsoe hooked up in a title tilt. Sneed scored on a nine yard pass in the second quarter and made the score stand up for a 7-0 win. The TD came on a pass from quarterback Joe Eatherley to Howard Horton. James Alotto added the PAT to seal the victory.

The Fiji "B" team upended the Phi Psi "B" team to capture the title in the Open II flag football league. The final score was 6-6 with the Fijis winning on penetrations. The Fijis scored on a six yard pass from David Rainey to Craig Phfuger, and Phi Psi inatched the score on an eight yard toss from Grady Hudson to Charles Sweitzer.

The Delt "B" squad finished their season with a 12-6 win over the ATO "B" team. The Delts scored on touchdown passes from quarterback Bobby Ware to Jim Horton and Dean McCarty. The ATOs lone score was on a 65-yard pass from Stewart Rowe to Hal Breckett.

Murdough Open captured second place in the Open II flag football league with a win over Coleman "C". The game ended in a scoreless tie with the victory going to Murdough as a result of penetrations.

The top games to be played today involve teams ranked in the top ten. BSU "A", ranked number five, and BSU "B", ranked eighth, square off in a game which will determine the Club league champion. The Delts and ATOs play for the frat II title and the Hombres and Scabs, ranked tenth and second, respectively, hook up for a shot at the Independent championship. The winner will play the Trojans for the title.

Morton still qb

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy Coach Tom Landry said Wednesday that Sunday's loss to Washington didn't change a thing—Craig Morton is still his No. 1 quarterback.

He said "there's always a chance" that Roger Staubach, who was activated but did not see action in the Redskin game, will play.

"Morton is my starting quarterback and he's going to have a chance to win or lose" Monday night's nationally televised National Football League game with Detroit, Landry said.

Landry defended Morton's inability to take the Cowboys downfield when the game was in doubt against the Redskins in the fourth quarter of the Super Bowl champions' 24-20 loss.

"Morton played a good game," Landry said. "This game is won by a team, not by individuals. We played bad. But we still should have won."

Landry said the Cowboys weren't exactly in the same situations as 1970 and 1971 when they rallied for stretch drives to the Super Bowl.
