Tech Anthropology Students Discover Rock Shelters

Tech anthropology students discovered two new rock shelters in the vicinity of O'Donnell while on a field trip Sunday afternoon, Dr. W. C. Holden, professor of history and anthropology, has stated.

One of these shelters has been named the red hand shelter because a hand is outlined in red on the limestone rock. Other figures and characters cover the face of the cliff. The other shelter has not yet been named. A skeleton, probably that of an antelope, has been found in a fill in the shelter.

Excavating was done in Moore's rock shelters. It was discovered by Ben Moore of O'Donnell who reported his find to Tech officials. This was a continuation of work which had been started two weeks ago on a previous field trip.

Tech Veterans Have Privileges

"Veterans at Tech get more consideration and it is easier for them to get books and equipment than it is at other major institutions," W. C. Cole, manager of Tech Bookstore, said yesterday.

Band Will Be Host To 75 High Schools At Dec. 10-11 Clinic

Band directors and band students from approximately 75 high schools in this area will be in Lubbock on Dec. 10 and 11 to attend the sixth annual band clinic, Dr. D. O. Wiley, Tech band director, stated Thursday.

At Texas University and Texas A&M, Cole said veterans have to go to the coordinator's office and get a requisition after they finish registration. They can not buy any of their supplies unless they have a list of the ones they need.

At Tech, veterans are given books and they can buy any of their supplies at any time. The only thing required to purchase books at Tech is the signature of the instructor. Cole explained that Tech's method of handling this is much less complicated and veterans do not have to stand in line to get their requisition.

EXCAVATING — Dr. W. C. Holden directs removal of the third wren's nest uncovered in Moore's shelter near O'Donnell by members of Sunday's anthropology field trip.

Unusual Details Give Tech Individualistic Personality

Psychological analysis of a campus proves that the little details are what determine its personality. Tech falls in the percentage called "individualistic" because its "little details" are so unusual.

A musical flag pole is definitely different. On windy days our Tech flag pole plays a tinkling melody with a syncopated beat suggestive of a rumba. The musical mechanism consists of two steel cables which flap against the pole, producing about six different tones.

Dean Walker discusses history of sorority. History of Mu Phi Epsilon, national honorary music sorority, and the responsibility of its members was discussed by Margaret W. Walker, Mu Phi Epsilon national president and Tech dean of women, at the Founder's Day observance of the sorority held last week in Los Angeles.

Foods Graduate Initiates New Counseling Service. Miss Stella Peck, graduate student in foods and nutrition, has initiated a counseling service for mothers of children treated at the Cerebral Palsy clinic in Lubbock.

Visitors Study I.B.M. Dr. C. E. Keefer, director of admissions, and R. E. Strahlem, controller, from the University of New Mexico, visited Tech recently to study I.B.M. equipment.

Schools Will Play In Jones Stadium

Lockney and Post have been granted permission to play their Class A bidistrict football game Thursday afternoon in Jones stadium, President D. M. Wiggins has announced.

The announcement followed a meeting of President Wiggins, Athletic Director Morley Jennings and Athletic Council Chairman J. William Davis, at which the decision was reached to allow the two South Plains high schools to play their game here.

Saddle Tramps Cry "Take It Off" To Fish Still Wearing Slime Caps

"Take it off!" Take it off! might well be the cry of the Saddle Tramps to the Freshmen. We are referring of course to a certain article of their apparel—nothing less than the Frosh caps.

For those who have been wondering we now present a list of vital statistics concerning this "time worn" tradition. They are as follows—Date Tradition started: Unknown. We gather it was sometime in the latter '30's but no one can tell for sure. Origin of custom: Unknown. (This is beginning to sound like a course in qualitative analysis, the only difference being we don't have some knowing soul to give us the answers eventually.)

Tau Beta Pi Selects 20 Men To Pledge

Tau Beta Pi, engineering honor society announced Monday that it had selected 20 pledges this fall. Pledges are chosen twice each year. Senior students and one outstanding junior are chosen in the fall and both juniors and seniors are pledged in the spring.

More Than One Day . . .

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving . . . That day when we as Americans go forth to stuff ourselves, to give thanks for what we stuffed ourselves with, to give thanks because we are allowed to live in a free nation headed by a man we ourselves elected—the day when we give thanks to God . . . yes, tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day 1948.

Thanksgiving is peculiarly an American institution. It has been handed down to us from the Pilgrim Fathers. As we of Texas Tech come to this day we should take a lesson from those Pilgrim Fathers. There are players on our football team who will face their last game Saturday on a varsity gridiron. What have we to be thankful about, losing some of our best players? Simply this—that they have played a square game ever since they started fighting for the Scarlet and Black.

Most of us have fairly good health. Our professors are on the whole the best that can be secured, and have a vital interest in our personal welfare. Our families are sacrificing in order that we may secure an education in a state school that has behind it a government interested in the education of its youth. And the fellowship that exists between students is coming to be greater than ever before.

All our tomorrows will make history for this great institution in many ways. From these few observations it appears that we will need more than one day in which to be thankful and our thanks will have to be scattered throughout all the days in the year.

IN THE MOURNING MAIL

Dear Editor:

There has been much grumbling in the forecastle about the dates the women of Tech have not been having. Many girls think that the boys are bashful and extremely awkward on the Tech campus, however, it has been demonstrated on several occasions that this is contrary to fact.

An example in proof of the foregoing statement is the results of a planning of an upperclassmen mixer for the residents of West Hall and Women's Dorm No. 4.

The details of this mixer are as follows: a mixer was planned for November 18, 1948 at seven o'clock P.M. at Girl's Dorm four; a list was posted in West Hall for the signature of boys wishing to attend; a similar list was posted in Girl's Dorm four; there was much bloodshed in West to determine those who would be the lucky boys. However, the rosy-cheeked Tech Beauties had the audacity to stand the boys of West Hall up in mass.

Now we are not ones to register undue complaints, but we believe that the girls' action was completely unexcusable. We are sure that these most honorable co-eds are completely swamped with date offers, hence we can see reason for this action. But, we as the upstanding males in West Hall think that our ego was greatly abashed by this action. If the girls of Dorm four wish to make amends for their wrongdoings, I am sure that most of the West-Hallers would be eager to accept another invitation in the stead of the one which our gracious hostesses so rudely laid waste.

This should in itself be a good example of the kindness and friendliness of most of the males on the Tech campus today.

Note: If any sensitive co-ed believes that the statements made in the foregoing paragraphs are rash and abusive we would like to take this opportunity to apologize, but we didn't like what you mean girls did to us.

Signed,
D. C.

Texas Tech College BOOKSTORE "On The Campus"

El Toro Grande

By ORLIN BREWER

Ordinarily it is not the policy of The Toreador to print letters such as those which follow in this column. We think neither of the letters do anything but damage to those they concern. We publish them today simply with the view of showing how one thoughtless person, in a few minutes, can undo the long and tedious work of many students in creating good will for a school.

College Station, Texas

Editor, Toreador
Texas Tech
Dear Editor:

Several days ago one of the inmates at your four year State established high school sent a letter to our student newspaper commenting satirically on the losing team we have this year. Maybe this student could have seen beyond the end of a no doubt long nose if his eyes weren't choked with the surface of your constantly shifting campus. Yes, this year we have a team that hasn't won a game, but we of the student body are still behind them as we would be if they had won every one of our games.

If the record is examined the following facts are noted: A&M has won more Southwest conference championships than any other school. Even after this year we will be one half a championship ahead of SMU. Is that fact something to be ashamed of? Texas A&M in the year of 1939 gave to the United States the National Championship football team. The 1918 team was undefeated, untied, and unscored upon. Can Texas Tech match these feats?

Perhaps if some of your employees weren't so quick to jump to conclusions they would realize that A&M still holds the best athletic record in the conference.

Yours for a more intelligent world,
Ray Robertson Jr.

The letter, printed in the Texas A&M school paper, which brought this verbal onslaught follows:

Editor, The Battalion:
Why doesn't A&M leave the Southwest conference or either start scheduling such schools as Hardin college or Trinity Uni-

There you have it. Two students from two schools have sounded off and neither has done much to forward good will or understanding.

All of which, it seems to us is just another good reason for doing nothing. We've made many statements about the value to be derived from pushing Texas Tech. Not much was said about the direction, for we assumed that most people would want to be pushing upward. Now we'd like to suggest that these who work for the school in the manner exemplified by the letters, just turn over and go back to sleep. Your unfortunate efforts do more harm than good; are not appreciated here or abroad.

Tech Wins Border Conference As Raiders Edge Lobos 14-7

Drive By Visitors In Final Period Falls Bit Short

By KEITH ANDERSON
Toreador Sports Editor

Riding the broad back of Rudy Krall, the visiting New Mexico Lobos battled the Red Raiders of Texas Tech all over the gridiron here this afternoon before finally going down to defeat 14-7.

A crowd of about 12,000 sat through an uneventful first half in indifferent silence, but came awake in the third quarter as the Lobos came roaring back to more than match the offensive punch of the Raiders.

END AROUND—Tech's Earl Jackson picks up 25 yards and a first down on an end sweep during Saturday's game against the New Mexico Lobos. Other Tech players in the picture are Bill Kelley (86), Glen Lewis (20). New Mexico players are (37) Jerry McKown, (20) Clem Charlton and about to make the tackle is (36) Rudy Krall. Tech won the game 14-7.

For Tech, it was a case of sluggishness, mistakes and not too much enthusiasm. For New Mexico, it was a case of not enough Rudy Kralls. Krall was the player of the day as he roamed almost at will in the last half. He lived up to his advanced billings as being a hard driving ball carrier. Charging through holes that weren't there, he climaxed his great day with a terrific gallop in the fourth quarter that left no doubt in anyone's mind of his greatness.

Tech opened the scoring about midway in the second quarter, when Earl Jackson scored from the four yard line on a smash off right tackle. Milton Rathbone had set up the score on a pass to Glenn Lewis. Charley Reynolds, try for the extra point was good, and Tech led 7-0. For the rest of the quarter, neither team could score, and the half ended with Tech leading by the not too comfortable margin of 7-0.

Tech looked as if it might get rolling, as it scored early in the third quarter. Earl Jackson nudged the leather across for the score from the one, after Calvin Stevenson had set it up with a nice reception and run of a pass from quarterback Hawkins.

The Lobos were not long in getting back into the game, however, as they took the following kick off on their own 20-yard line, and marched 80 yards for a score. Jerry Gatewood, quarterback, sneaked over from the one foot line for the TD. The extra point was good, and the score stood 14-7, as the third quarter ended.

The scoring was over for the afternoon, but the Lobos still had enough to throw a scare into Tech, before bowing out.

With the win, Tech annexed the Border conference championship, since it has only one game left, and that with Hardin-Simmons in Abilene November 27. Tech is currently leading the rest of the conference by a game and a half.

Particularly outstanding for Tech was Earl Jackson and Zac Henderson. Henderson's punting was superb, and it played a major part in Tech's victory. Punting into the wind equally as well as with it, Zac kept the Lobos backed up in their own territory a greater portion of the afternoon.

State WRA Meet Selects Techsans

By RICKEY ARCHER

The Tech Women's Recreational Association was selected by the executive committee at the state WRA convention, held at North Texas State Teacher's college, Denton, Thursday through Saturday, to serve on the executive committee for next year's convention, to be held at Texas State College for Women, Denton. Carla von Roeder, president of Tech's WRA, said Monday.

Five delegates from Tech attended the convention, accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Manor Richards, assistant women's physical education professor. They are Lucille Sorrels, Margaret Brown, Elizabeth Johnson, Jo Verden and Jo Nita Schwarz. Miss Sorrels spoke at the meeting about clubs on the Tech campus and Miss Brown reported on modern dance activities at Tech. The theme of the convention was "New Horizons".

Mrs. Mary Frances Bell, the former Miss Mary Frances Hill of Tech's physical education department, served as chairman of the central office of the state WRA organization through the preceding year and at the convention.

Army scored but one touchdown against Harvard in the first 13 games played between the two schools, beginning with the 1895 contest.

Raider Of The Week

This week we would like to choose Zac Henderson from Quanah as our Raider of the Week. Zac is a junior this year and his consistently good ball carrying and punting have helped the Red Raiders out of a number of holes. In the New Mexico game he got away long booming punts time after time that kept the Lobo ground game in its own end of the field. Back three weeks ago in the game against Rice, Zac showed an almost uncanny ability to hit a hole on line plunges. In Saturday's game he showed up in his punting with the same fine precision like gains to help the Raiders when they needed yards. He could always be called on for extra feet when they were needed. His most outstanding feature, however, was his punting. Most of his kicks were directed into the strong south wind that kept blowing briskly all afternoon. He averaged better than 40 yards per try. With another year of eligibility left for Zac, Coach Morgan certainly won't have anything to worry about in his punting department next year.

lor to cope with. We picked the Ponies to win and they did so 13-6 even though it was not as handily as we expected. Tulsa hasn't won a game—Arkansas 55, Tulsa 13.

TCU having lost its early season punch went down in another Southwest conference clash before the up-and-coming (but too late) Rice Owls 21-7—misses this one. Oklahoma ran wild against Kansas to help out the percentage. The Sooner's 60-7 victory should be proof enough that they should be represented in one of the major bowl games come New Year's day. LSU's 26-6 upset win over Alabama didn't help out much; we picked 'Bama.

Hardin-Simmons served notice to Tech by means of swamping Tempe 63-25, that the Raiders won't have a picnic in Abilene this week-end. North Carolina came through for us with a 20-0 win over Duke. Unbeaten California remained so by taking a close one from Stanford 7-6. USC also lived up to our prediction with its 20-13 topping of UCLA.

Now for some of the others we missed. Pittsburgh rose up to whip Penn State 7-0 in one of the biggest surprises of the day. Harvard took Yale into camp 20-7 and Purdue, an off-and-on ball club all year, blasted Indiana 39-0 to the joy of a Boiler-maker homecoming crowd.

Northwestern remained the leading contender for the Rose Bowl classic by besting Illinois 20-7. Last but not least by any means, William and Mary trounced North Carolina State 26-6.

Since our sports editor seems to have a knack for picking winners we have decided to give him the honor of making this week's predictions. He lucked out 100 percent last time but the odds are that he won't do it again.

—Jim Sanders

Thursday's games: Missouri over Kansas by about two touchdowns if the Tigers are right. Pennsylvania should take Cornell into camp by about the same margin, but this one could be close. Down at Austin the Longhorns of Texas University will take on the Aggies of College Station and it should be Texas by a score of 20-14. Texas Mines will continue on its road to second place in the Border conference by taking New Mexico A&M by almost any score it wishes. Nevada will get back into the run column by trimming Wichita handily.

Saturday's games: Alabama should get back on the winning track, by edging Florida, but the game is a toss-up. William & Mary will take Arkansas, Army will keep Navy winless, and Holy Cross will take Boston College. Georgia Tech should show the stuff they are made of, and take Georgia, one of the surprise teams of the South. In our own game, Tech should take Hardin-Simmons, but not if it plays the way it did against the Lobos. Rounding out we'll take Tulane over LSU, Mississippi State edging Mississippi, Villanova over North Carolina State, Notre Dame swamping Washington, Oklahoma blasting Oklahoma A&M, Oregon State taking Nebraska, Rice in an upset over Baylor, Michigan State dropping tough Santa Clara, SMU over TCU, but we're not so sure here, and last we take Penn State over Washington.

Dormitory III Holds Open House

Residents of Women's Dorm III were hostesses of faculty members, students, and the public at an open house held at the dormitory Sunday afternoon.

Music was furnished during the afternoon by women of the dorm who sang or played the piano and by the radio-phonograph combination, a gift from the residents of the dorm, Miss Owens said.

Those in charge of arrangements were: Nancy Wilson, social committee chairman; Frances Davis, program chairman; Joan Chapman, refreshment chairman; Sue Ann Roberts and Dorothy Stephenson, invitation committee; Mary Standford, decoration committee; and Queen Alice Owens, public relations committee.

The receiving line included: Mrs. Mac Eikel, social director; Miss Gertrude Miller, dorm counselor; Martha Lewis, president of the dorm; Nancy Wilson, vice-president; Camille Stevens, secretary; Jane Parsons, senior representative; Jeannine Smith, junior representative; Wirtzie Jones, sophomore representative; Rhetta McMaster, freshman representative; and Paula Sittel, AWS representative.

At the guest book were: Alberta Tarver, Frances Davis, Queen Alice Owens, Thelma Zimmerman, Ann Bailey, Mary Standford, Dorothy Stephenson, and Martha Daventport.

We got a letter. The good thing about this is that it proves we have a real live reader somewhere. But there is a bad side to it also. It seems that we made a mistake and ALP (your guess is as good as ours) couldn't wait to point it out. The error was in regard to the SMU-Arkansas game. Seems that Clyde Scott and Doak Walker were injured earlier in the game than we stated. Also our statement that they were both hurt when Walker tackled Scott was wrong. The truth as Mr. P so aptly points out is that while the two men were injured on the same play Walker was the victim of downfield blocking and Scott was hurt on a hard tackle. Very well Sir, your claim has been substantiated and we humbly bow out. All kidding aside we welcome letters from anyone on any subject. We are not infallible. In the words of the poet "To err is human, to forgive is divine." We ask that you forgive us, ALP, but since we have to sign our names will you please do the same. Thanks. —Jerry Hall

Techsans Have Prints Displayed

Two Tech students have pictures displayed in the print salon of the 50 best pictures of 1948 on display through December 5 in the Recreation hall, Miss Jane Watson, sponsor of the local chapter of Kappa Alpha Mu, national honorary news photography fraternity, said today. C. E. Wendt and Joe France, journalism majors, received honorable mention for their two pictures.

Included in this third annual national inter-collegiate print show, are these pictures selected from a group of 755 entries by 175 photographers from 78 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada. Contestants submitted pictures last May to the University of Missouri, KAM headquarters, where the 50 best prints were selected and shown at the annual KAM contest during Journalism week. Judges included John R. Whiting, editor of Science Illustrated; Stanley R. Kalish, picture editor of the Milwaukee Journal; and Frank Fenner, Jr., managing editor of Popular Photography, she added.

Wendt's picture, which was taken at a local motorcycle race, was entered in the sports division, and Frances picture of the raising of the smoke stack at the Tech power plant, was entered in the industrial division. Other divisions for picture entries included news, pictorial features, and fashion, she added.

Bob Reynolds, Oklahoma A&M student, won the grand prize for his picture of a carnival scene entitled, "Brooklyn, U.S.A.", and first place in the industrial class for his print "Steamless Pipes", picturing oil refining equipment, Miss Watson said.

The two local winners are to receive a set of photography encyclopedias as honorable mention prizes. France is president of the Tech chapter of KAM.

Sid Luckman, who joined the Chicago Bears of the National Football League in 1939, had tossed 124 touchdown passes before the season opened.

Cigarettes Cause Fires In Rec Hall

Two Recreation hall fires occurring in the past three weeks from cigarette stubs and matches were responsible for an appeal issued today by Troy A. Enis, Recreation hall director, urging students to take extreme care in putting out their cigarettes and matches.

Enis stated that two weeks ago a lighted match was discovered in an upholstered chair before heavy damage resulted. He explained that if it had not been noticed when it was, a serious fire might have been the result, since he was preparing to close the Recreation hall for the day.

A small fire, believed to have been caused by a cigarette stub thrown on trash bags on the porch adjoining the Recreation hall and the cafeteria, was extinguished last week just as the porch floor started burning, Enis said.

DELINQUENTS DROPPED Flying T club members who are three months delinquent in dues, will be dropped from the club in accordance with the constitution, Frank Judia, president of the club, has warned.

The delinquent member will be sent a letter reminding him of his overdue due. If no action is taken by the member by the next club meeting, that member will be summarily dropped from the club roll. The person next in line on the waiting list will then be admitted into the club.

Flying T's will have their next meeting at 5 p.m., December 2, Ad-210. Plans for a Christmas party will be discussed.

Rodeo Association Seeks Place In National Group

Officers of the Tech Rodeo Association met recently to write a new constitution and to make plans for obtaining a permanent rodeo arena, A. J. Bishop, club reporter, said Thursday.

The new constitution is a step toward attaining membership in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo association which is composed of 12 colleges of the Southwest. Bishop said.

The rodeo association's Christmas ball will be Dec. 17 at Larrymore studio.

SPORTS GRAPEVINE

ball chatter has been missing something if he hasn't been attending. But back to the last meeting. Coach Dell Morgan made an announcement that really shows just how much the people of Lubbock and the Tech Exes are behind the Raiders this year. A group of ex-Double T men led by Lefty Sollis have gotten together and are awarding a useful prize to the "Raider of the Week" that we have picked in this column. Although it is a little late in the year to start Mr. Sollis expressed the hope that this plan can be carried out next season as well as the remainder of this year. The first Raider to receive a gift was Bud Conley and he was awarded a radio from the Lefty Sollis service station. This action is a fine example of how the townspeople and the supporters of Tech feel about our school. We know that the Raiders play harder and better when such commendable spirit backs them. The sports staff is proud to be connected with this plan. With support such as this, how can Tech help but go on to greater football glory in the Border or any other conference?

Here's a choice bit taken from the Fort Worth Star-Telegram: "Two Lobo players, Charley Koehler and Dick Williford, praised and the veteran Ernest Hawkins from Lamasa, man-under on the Tech T. "Outside of Paul Campbell of Texas, he's the smoothest operator we faced all year," (Williford said) "And that fellow Rathbone (Milton, of San Angelo) is just about as good as he is." A very gratifying thing happened to the Grapevine last week.

DFD Musical Tea Given At Hilton By Sponsors

DFD members, alumnae, and patronesses were honored at a musical tea given by the club sponsors, Misses Martye Poindexter and Ina Bacon, Sunday afternoon in the Hilton hotel ballroom.

Included in the reception line were Miss Poindexter who greeted the guests, Miss Bacon who introduced Mr. and Mrs. Elton Plowman, and Miss Mary Jane Hinchey, club president, who presented the new club sponsor, Miss Kate Rogers, instructor in applied arts. Miss Rogers is to succeed Miss Poindexter as sponsor.

Elton Plowman, tenor and voice teacher at Tech, presented a program of nine numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Plowman. After receiving two encores, he concluded the concert with the DFD club song.

Mrs. Walker Attends Meet

Mrs. Margarette W. Walker, dean of women, will attend a meeting of the Texas deans of women Nov. 26, at the Baker hotel in Dallas.

Purpose of this meeting is to permit the deans from Texas colleges and universities to discuss mutual problems, Mrs. Walker explained.

Miss Dorothy Rylander, Tech graduate and former engineering librarian and faculty secretary, plans to end her Lubbock visit and return to Washington on December first. She is Congressman George Mahon's secretary.
