LOUIS UNTERMAYER

Louis Untermyer To Be Featured At Rec Monday

Louis Untermyer, critic, anthologist, poet and lecturer, will speak at the Rec hall at 7:15 Monday. Untermyer has been described as one of the most versatile men in America.

His accomplishments include teaching, playing the piano, horticulture, writing essays and biographies.

Among Untermyer's best known anthologies are "A Treasury of Great Poems" and "A Treasury of Laughter." His most widely-read book of original verse is "Selected Poems and Parodies."

During World War II, Untermyer was editor of publications and writer of foreign radio broadcasts for the Office of War Information.

After the war he became editor-in-chief of Decca records' cultural program. He believes that the program, which will include dramatizations of stories, legends and poems will be a great help in education.

Untermyer's latest venture is a program on television.

Although Untermyer has been criticized for omitting the minor poets from his anthologies, he has been praised highly by Amy Lowell and William Rose Benet. His book, "Modern American and British Poetry" has been adopted as a text in schools and colleges throughout America.

Raider Manager Missing; Is Sought

Police and parents Tuesday were seeking for Edgar Lee (Gabby) Hawkins, manager of Tech football team who was last seen Sunday night.

The 21-year-old senior agriculture student is 5-feet, 11-inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, has brown eyes, black hair and dark complexion.

He was last seen about 6 p.m. Sunday at his dormitory room where he lives with his younger brother, Bobby, a freshman football player. He was wearing a blue coat and levis when last seen.

Anyone knowing any information that might lead to the discovery should call the Lubbock Police station, Sgt. J. T. Alley said.

C O F C To Help Booster Groups

Tech Chamber of Commerce will give aid to the formation of home town booster clubs at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in C101.

Already one club has been organized, the Eastland booster club. "We hope to have many others organized following the Thursday meeting," Tim O'Connell, vice president of the chamber, said.

Harold Everett, president of the Eastland club, will tell how it is organized. "All we need is a nucleus for each club," O'Connell said. The chamber's project of the year is to have the clubs organized to advertise Tech through the students.

Fetes For Exes To Start Friday

Ex-Techsians will have a busy time if they attend all the functions honoring them this week-end. Social clubs, departmental clubs and church organizations are among the hosts for the round of Homecoming activities.

Friday's activities include a semi-formal banquet given by the Baptist Student union honoring ex-BSSUers, at 8:15 p.m. at the Hilton hotel and the Sans Souci informal dance for alumnae and members at 8:30 p.m. at the Lubbock hotel.

Saturday activities include numerous breakfasts, coffees, teas and dinners which will be listed in Saturday's Toreador.

Slimemen Race For Shoes During Homecoming Game

All freshman boys, accompanied by an old pair of shoes, are requested to be at the football stadium after the shirttail parade Saturday. Occasion — Tech's traditional Homecoming Freshman Shoe race.

Andy Behrends, Saddle Tramps president, said Fish are to meet 15 minutes before game time and pile the shoes on the 30-yard line. Dividing into two groups on the goal lines, the boys will race to the center and the scramble will be on. Each boy must put on a pair of shoes and run back across the goal line.

Circle Blockade Saturday To Ease Traffic Congestion

The circle will be completely blocked off Saturday morning in order to facilitate handling of the excess traffic for the morning Homecoming activities.

Blockades will be effective before 8 o'clock classes Saturday morning and until after the annual Homecoming parade, said F. L. McRee, Silver anniversary traffic planning chairman.

Entrance to the campus will be permitted from the Eighth, Fourteenth and the two Nineteenth street entrances. All of the authorized parking areas can be reached from these entrances and only the parking lot between the Library and Chemistry buildings will not be available for use.

Members of the ROTC will direct traffic at Broadway and College and at the two blockades on the streets east and west of the Ad building.

"If all students who can will leave their cars home Saturday morning it would make more room for the visitors," McRee said. He especially urges that dormitory students leave their cars in the dormitory parking lots.

McAleer Seeks Varsity Show Post

John F. McAleer, junior English major from Lubbock, has applied for general director of this year's Varsity show, Student council show committee announced Monday.

No script entries had been received. Selection of both a script and general manager will be made by the Varsity show committee, Dec. 2 has been set as the deadline for script entries.

"We would like to have several scripts for consideration before the deadline," Bill Parsley, committee chairman, said. Any student is eligible to enter a manuscript.

Annual Deadlines Announced By Fix

All La Ventana pictures except those of seniors must be taken by today, said Paula Fix, editor. Tomorrow is the deadline for turning in information on clubs and lists of members.

La Ventana office will be open from 3-5 p.m. today and tomorrow. Over 400 unclaimed proofs for individual class pictures are in the files at Koen's studio, Miss Fix added, and unless they are claimed by 6 p.m. tomorrow, the studio staff will decide which picture will be used in the yearbook.

Ex-Students To Present Silver Service At Half Of Saturday Game With Tulsa

By PEGGY CARTER
Toreador Staff Writer

One of the spotlights of Tech's Homecoming activities Saturday will be turned on the Hon. Lyndon B. Johnson, United States senator from Texas.

Speaking over KFYO on a Lone Star state-wide hook-up at 9:45 a. m., Johnson will be featured on the building dedication program.

The ceremony will be held in front of the partially completed Science building which will be a symbol of Tech's present construction plan.

Moving down Broadway immediately following the dedication service, Tech's traditional Homecoming parade will unfold the history of the college's 25 years.

Each year of the school's growth will be represented by floats sponsored by various campus organizations. Forming on Main and Avenue Q, the pageant will proceed to Texas avenue, then south to Broadway where it will continue out to the college.

D. M. McElroy, executive secretary of the Ex-students' association, has requested that all floats be kept out of the assembly area until 9:45 a. m. However, the floats should be in position by 10:30 a. m., he said.

Honoring the college on its Silver anniversary, the Ex-students' association will present a silver punch service to the Tech student body during the half-time activities Saturday afternoon, when Tech meets Tulsa university.

Pres. D. M. Wiggins and student body president Horton Russell will jointly accept the gift from the newly elected head of the Ex-students' association.

Measuring 18 inches in diameter and 12 and one-half inches high, the eight-gallon silver bowl is believed to be the largest of this type ever made. Additional cups for the set may be purchased by former students for $25 and will be engraved with the donor's name and college year.

On display this week at Hemphill-Wells, the silver service will be placed in the future Student Union building to be used for college functions.

Class reunion groups, another feature on Tech's Homecoming program this year, will furnish the opportunity for conversation when returning exes with further opportunities meet following the pep rally Friday night.

Hemphills Depicts Tech's Progress

Window displays at Hemphill-Wells are featuring Texas Tech's 25 years of progress pictorially.

Main feature of the displays is a campus plot plan, studded with pictures of buildings in location. In the first window will be the original drawn plan of the campus.

The last window will feature an aerial view of the modern campus. Sketches of buildings now under construction and those to be built will also be displayed, according to Laverne Clark, window display department.

Your Danger Is YOUR Problem---Keep Tech Safe

Help The Horseless . . .

It's a rip roaring merry-go-round, where the horses have taken the bit in their teeth and are running pell mell around and sometimes over anything presumptuous enough to get in their path. That is the Texas Tech traffic circle, where brakes are superfluous and pedestrians are dispensable.

It's a stock car race where the winner takes nothing, but perhaps skin, breath or self-control from a hapless hooper. It's "hail" the happy driver and "hell" to the paltry pedestrian. It's a caste system on wheels with the lords riding roughshod over the underprivileged.

It's into the valley of death strolled the dismounted, and hearing down upon them with a headlight under each arm is the cavalry.

It's not that bad, huh? Perhaps, this is a slightly exaggerated picture of the traffic circle, but still it will not do for a person on foot to become complacent when crossing there. The drivers may not be demoniacal individuals, but they are far from cautious jockies.

The circle is not a safe place to drive at best. There are too many by-ways, the traffic afoot and aboard is too heavy at class changes, the lights are not, or cannot be, properly timed for efficiency.

So the pedestrian should always be on the alert for a possible step-off into disaster, and drivers should not compete to be the one who pushes him or her into the hole. (S. A.)

Dishonest Ducats? . . .

The approach of Homecoming activities again brings up the question of selling activity tickets to the big game.

Although it is printed on the inside cover of each student athletic activity book that it is not transferable, it is well known among the students that the activity tickets bring good prices, particularly for the Homecoming game. Each coupon states that it is void if detached and good only when presented by the original purchaser.

This requirement means that some student must miss the event if someone else use his ticket. The stadium seats are allotted to the students on the basis of the number of students with coupon books. Therefore, some students reason that if they do not want to use the seats provided themselves, that they have a right to dispose of them as they see fit. They say the seats are there and may as well be put to use.

One school, The University of Texas, met the problems of transferred, activity tickets at a recent sell-out game by confiscating 57 of them. These tickets were not returned to the original owners for two weeks, causing them to miss other games.

A less drastic solution would be to provide at Tech some way that students could purchase seats for their college-age guests in the student section. If tickets of this sort were available, the incentive to sell and buy activity tickets would be sharply reduced. (P. F.)

Techsan's Spirit Still What Counts

By SUE HOLMES

A steady stream of ex-students will begin coming into Lubbock Friday. The ones who have not been here in several years, perhaps not since they graduated, will be amazed to find Lubbock spreading out all over the South Plains and populated by some 72,000 persons. They are likely to be gratifyingly startled at the Tech campus, which has grown by leaps since the school was started in 1925.

Even as interested as they will be in the physical aspects of the campus, the exes no doubt will be more interested in the student body.

Whether he is a Techsan of 1925 or 1935 or 1945 vintage, he will expect to see the same friendly student body he remembers as being typically Techsan. Therefore, howdies are not to be forgotten. A larger student body which we now have should mean just that many more students to smile and say howdy.

The homecomer will expect students to appreciate the better facilities now available. He'll remember when his animal husbandry class had one instead of the herds now collected on the Tech farms.

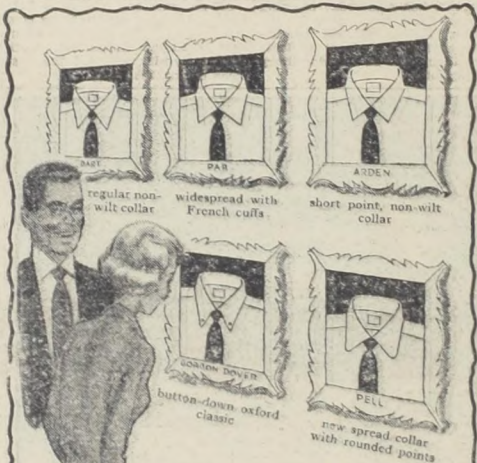

Or perhaps the grass will be the most pleasant surprise to this returning Techsan. He'll immediately remember the black dusters through which he struggled to classes, and will wonder if students realize what a difference grass can make in keeping sand down to earth where it belongs.

Maybe it will be the Library which will impress the homecomer. Way back when he was in school he had access to the small group of volumes housed in the west side of the Ad building.

Surprisingly enough, the Gym may even look good to some former Tech coed who remembers her physical education classes on the third floor of the Ad building.

Let's make the exes know that week are carrying on in the spirit of Texas Tech and are glad to have them back to our growing campus.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

As the first group of Independents on the campus to begin organizing, we feel that we should justify our aims in doing so. Our foremost aim is to have representation in student affairs and to bring out some of the leadership ability which has been hidden and lost for so many years among our independent women.

for only a short time, we are helping to boost Tech by entering a float in the Homecoming parade. We are planning to continue to push Tech by giving more Techsans an opportunity to assume their rightful leadership.

DEAN MARGARET TWYMAN

Margaret Twyman More Than A Beauty

Tech's Dean Of Women Experienced As Counselor In Colleges, Of YWCA

By BETTY DAVIS Toreador Staff Writer

It's rad to tell at first glance whether Mrs. Margaret G. Twyman, new dean of women, is just another coed or a member of the faculty.

Once chosen a beauty queen by the Chicago Tribune, she can prove by her many capabilities that she is much more advanced than the average campus beauty.

Dean Twyman arrived at Tech this fall and immediately went to work. Even though her job is new to her, working with college women is "old hat." She has done that from the very beginning. Galesburg, Ill., was her starting point for a career which eventually led to her present position.

Along with her studies in Knox college in Galesburg, she found time to do summer counseling work in YWCA camps. She instructed classes in swimming and tennis at these camps. Volunteer hospital work also took up a part of her time.

Some of her other activities at that time included acting as president of AWS and chairman of Women's day, which was dedicated to women all over Illinois, and teaching a Sunday school class.

After receiving her MA in personnel administration from Northwestern university, Dean Twyman acted as assistant counselor of women at Oklahoma university. She took time-out during her work there to get married. While traveling with her husband who was an army officer, she almost covered the entire United States. Her nine-year-old son was born during that time at Fort Sam Houston. "He's a native Texan, and mighty proud of it," she said.

When her husband was killed in the crash of a P-38, she returned to the University of Oklahoma and helped organize a centralized placement service. From there she went to Ohio university where she acted as assistant dean of women.

Coming to Tech from Ohio, she is already deep into her new duties. "My work is in better condition than my house," she says. "I still have barrels in my living room."

Despite the fact that she leads a busy life, Dean Twyman still finds time for hobbies. Making See TWYMAN Page 8

Recognize these keys?

Eight are the famous keys of national honor societies;

No. 9 is an important newcomer. It's the Bell System's new keyset for the direct dialing of Long Distance telephone calls. And, though not yet "national," it already has "chapters" in more than 900 cities and towns;

By pressing these keys, your operator can dial calls straight through to telephones in many distant places. Calls go through faster, more accurately.

Automatic dialing of Long Distance calls by operators, a development of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, is being extended steadily. This new method of putting through Long Distance calls is especially important right now, when the nation is counting on telephone service to help speed the job of defense.

Owls Stop Raiders At Goal As Techsans Outgain Rice

By DICK BROOKS
Toreador Sports Writer

Paced by the crashing ground play of fullback J. W. Thompson and the bulls-eye passing of John Moughon, Texas Tech's off-beaten Red Raiders threw a tremendous scare into the Rice Owls at Houston last Saturday before losing 13-7. Twice the Raider scoring machine came to a grinding halt without allowing a yard of gain. In the closing minutes of play, the big Red had a desperation drive snuffed out by the bone-crushing Rice line on the three-yard line, only one short of a first down.

The record book also shows that Tech turned on awesome offensive power, particularly in the second half, to soundly outplay their final Southwest conference rival. On the ground, the Raiders rolled up 312 yards rushing to 174 for Rice. In the air, Rice moved 10 yards less than Tech with 61 yards.

First down charts showed Tech 17, Rice 8.

But the headline in the history books will read that Rice scored twice, Tech only once. Twice the Tech forwards faltered, allowed speedster Ted Riggs to ramble untouched to the double stripe. Both times it was a quick opening T-play, going off left guard.

The record book will also show that the stubborn Rice eleven, long noted for rock-ribbed defensive play, didn't let down inside their own 10, save once, when Thompson plunged over for Tech's only tally from the one.

Experience can't be counted out altogether. Big gun of the Tech attack was Sandy Welton, who carried 20 times for 118 yards. Thompson piled up 110 yards on 12 tries, and Moughon contributed with his passing. Hudson Routh did his share of backfield chores, as did Bobby Close and Tim Hatch.

Of that group, only Hatch and Thompson are seniors. Close is a junior and the others are sophomores. In contrast, the Rice backs have spent the season winning all but two games, and were members of last year's Southwest conference championship squad, though not all were regulars.

The two defeats were against SMU and Texas, two of the top teams in the nation.

In another game Sunday the Kemas stopped the Centaurs 8-0. David Leaverton passed to Harold Brannan for six points. The Centaurs were trapped behind the goal line for a 2-point safety. Dub Kaykendall, Hugh Davison and Bob Petek also excelled for the Kemas. Jack Alderson passed to Joe Scales for a 60-yard touchdown run Sunday as the Wranglers defeated the Silver Key squad 7-0.

Picadors, Calves Will Play Friday

The Picadors will meet the West Texas State Calves here Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. in their first.

This will be the second time this home game. The Calves won the first one 26-12 in a night game played at Canyon. The Picadors won over the New Mexico freshmen 52-28 in a night game at Hobbs, and lost to Odesa Jr. college 12-0 Friday night.

Tech's freshmen will conclude their schedule Nov. 18 here at Lubbock when they play the freshmen of Hardin Simmons.

Kireilis Confers On New Courses

Dr. Ramon Kireilis, head of the physical education department, is in Austin this week checking with the State Department of Education on the new physical education curriculum at Tech.

Dr. Kireilis will confer with Dr. D. K. Erace, head of the physical education department at Texas university to make a comparison of the two departments.

On his return trip, Dr. Kireilis will attend a meeting of health educators at Mineral Wells.

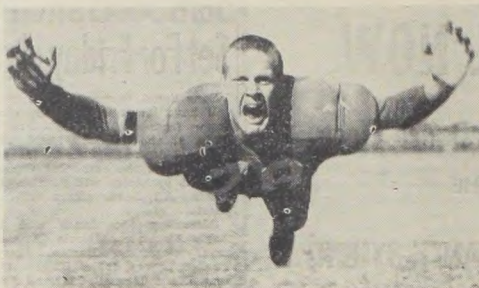

To squelch the belief that Tech has never had a mascot the store of Mattie must be told. Mattie, a canine of dubious ancestry, was adopted as the Matador mascot in 1934 by the football squad.

NOT A SWAN—Not quite the man-eater as he appears above, Raider Bobby Broyles, of San Angelo, has proved hard to move from his defensive tackle position, as was discovered by the Rice Owls. Once overshadowed by linemates Doug McSwane and Jerrell Price, the 215-pounder has been making his presence felt during the tough schedule of games slated by the Raiders this year.

Wrangler Stops Tech

Facing an unexpected formation and a fine line, Tech's freshman football team dropped its second season to the Odesa Wranglers by a 13-7 score.

Switching from the T-formation to the single wing for the Wranglers pushed the Kennelback field into a tight game.

The 170-pound second-year forward from Fort Worth came into the game with a line of touch-downs. Shackelford, although his line holding was not as effective as the Tech's, was able to offer a score during the game.

In the third quarter, Tech produced a 52-yard drive which bogged down on the 10-yard line after an incomplete pass. A desperation drive in the fourth quarter brought a 10-yard run to pay, but the time ran out as the

Holleman Hollers

Well, it happened again. Playing their opponent in the field, the Red Raiders lost their sixth game of the season on ball breaks and 17 to gain in the clutch.

Tech's defense was the best on the field in the last year, but in a few occasions in the two departments were they were terrible.

Raiders dominated the game for the two times scored. Tech backs ran the field, but discreetly distance from the goal. J. W. Thompson alone was able to score and maintain long in the Owls' line. Tech's own territory almost lost. On well only four minutes to go.

Three of the one-time stars are now playing at Tech. In quite well on the year, in spite of the two-time all-star Jerry Brownfield, has been the outstanding player in the Tech roster.

Defensive center and specialist Jimmy Wilkins has been improving and raising his linebacking. He is the "longest man" to be seen by the year.

An out-of-state all-star, Welton, has been unconsistently. Scarcely noted in the season began, Welton was to show just why he was highly in West Virginia.

Against weak Texas Tech, Welton stepped into the spotlight. In his first season by J. W. Thompson, Earl Jackson, demonstrated he could replace them in circumstances.

The Rice game gave the biggest chance thus far. He performed capably, although the strain from the previous game kept his hands from being as effective as the list for the next week.

Sandy may very well be the fullback for the remainder of the season. Experience shows about the most that can be expected this year, anyway.

Red Raiders were voted the best team in the nation in 1950.

Wrangler's Revised Offensive Formation Stops Tech Frosh; Odessans Win 12-0

Facing an unexpected offensive formation and a fine defensive line, Tech's freshman football team dropped its second game of the season to the Odessa Junior college Wranglers by a 12-0 score, Friday.

Switching from the T formation to the single wing for the game, the Wranglers pushed tailback Kenneth Sackelford into the spotlight.

The 170-pound second year man from Fort Worth came through with bells on. Romping to two touchdowns, Sackelford passed brilliantly although his receivers had trouble holding the ball due to the low temperature.

Ineffective blocking in the line hampered the Frosh. Only once during the game were the Picadors able to offer a scoring threat.

In the third quarter, the Picadors produced a 52-yard drive which bogged down on the Odessans, four after an incomplete pass.

A desperation drive late in the fourth quarter brought the Raider juniors close to pay dirt, but time ran out as the Picadors moved inside the Wrangler 30-yard line.

Outstanding on defense for the Picadors were safety Norman James, linebacker Bob Cavazos, guard Lloyd Leasure and tackle Richard Duke. Offensive stand-outs were backs Andy Gardenhire

Charley Williams and Moe Turner.

Quarterback Turner was a key defensive performer with his kicking. Although one of Turner's boots was for only 10 yards, he brought his average for the night to 41 yards with several long kicks.

Holleman Hollers

Well, it happened again. Outplaying their opponents all over the field, the Red Raiders managed to lose their sixth game of the year on bad breaks and an inability to gain in the clutch.

Tech's defense was tough, its offense, the best on the ground that it has been all year. BUT, on the few occasions in which those two departments weren't sterling, they were terrible.

Raiders dominated the game except for the two times that Rice scored. Tech backs ran all over the field, but discreetly kept their distance from the goal line.

J. W. Thompson alone had the audacity to score and not even he remained long in the end zone. Owl linemen returned him to his own territory almost immediately.

Oh well, only four more games to go.

From the scoring totals for the week: Arizona over New Mexico by a 38-0 total. Bring on the Lobos, quick!

* Three of the one-time all-starters now playing at Tech are doing quite well on the team this year, in spite of the team record.

Two-time all-star Jerrell Price, of Brownfield, has been consistently the outstanding lineman on the Tech Roster.

Defensive center and kick-off specialist Jimmy Williams has been improving and rates cheers for his linebacking. He is consistently the "longest man off the tee" to be seen by the Raiders this year.

An out-of-state all-star, Sandy Welton, has been uncovered only recently. Scarcely noticed before the season began, Welton has begun to show just why he was rated highly in West Virginia.

Against weak Texas Western, Welton stepped into shoes worn all season by J. W. Thompson and Earl Jackson, demonstrating that he could replace them under such circumstances.

The Rice game gave Sandy his biggest chance thus far and he performed capably, although showing strain from the pressure of big time competition. If Uncle Sam can keep hands off, Tech's fullback worries can be crossed off the list for the next two years.

Sandy may very well be starting fullback for the remainder of the season. Experience seems to be about the most that can be gained this year, anyway.

Red Raiders were voted the best-dressed team in the nation during 1938.

Tipp Mooney, assistant football coach, is a former teammate of Gene Ronzani, present coach of the Green Bay Packers of the National Professional Football league.
