Laird faults Congress: no Vietnam peace plan

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (AP)—Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said yesterday Congress has failed to present a better plan than the Nixon administration has for getting the United States out of Vietnam.

Laird told 250 students of the district he once represented in Congress that if Congress voted an alternate approach, the administration would go along with it. So far, he said, this has not been the case.

"We have seen no other programs outlined by any senator or representative or any group that has the chance of success that the program that has been outlined by President Nixon has at this time," Laird said.

"I BELIEVE AT this present time the majority of the American people and the Congress support our Vietnamization program as the only and the best way to get us out of Vietnam and to reduce those casualties which concern me greatly," he said.

In an question and answer exchange with high school students, Laird spoke of further American troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

One question, from a girl, got right to the point.

Q. "A ROUGH estimate states that at the present rate of withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam, 14,000 additional American men will die in Vietnam before the war ends. Can these deaths and the deaths of 30,000 other men be justified in the name of U.S. security?"

A. "First, I want to say that the most difficult problem that faces the nation is the war in Vietnam, and there's nothing I spend more time on than working to end this war... I want you to know that I will judge whether I have been a success as secretary of defense as to whether the war is ended and whether the sacrifices of these deaths can be stopped."

LAIRD POINTED out that Nixon already has announced combat troop withdrawals totaling 60,000 men "and there will be other withdrawals announced, based on our program for Vietnamizing the war and the military modernization of the South Vietnamese forces."

And he declared that the Nixon administration is considering cutting back on worldwide commitments which the Joint Chiefs of Staff currently estimate would require a $109 billion defense budget.

"The United States cannot become world policemen," he declared to a youth leadership conference which he began sponsoring when he was a congressman.

ANSWERING A QUESTION about the U.S. role as a world leader, Laird reported the National Security Council is surveying future American commitments. He said the Nixon administration may ask Congress to examine the various treaties it has approved in the past which bind the United States to those commitments.

"... we have these eight treaties which have set forth the major commitments of this country," Laird said. "We're reviewing those commitments at the present time, the first time they've been reviewed for some 10 to 12 years."

"This basic policy review may cause us to go back to the Congress and ask them to review their approval of these various vast commitments."

He said the United States can afford only about $74 billion to $78 billion for defense compared with the $109 billion military leaders say would be required to back all U.S. commitments.

HE SAID HE expected a "very sobering" policy to emerge governing U.S. commitments in the 1970s.

About 40 antiwar demonstrators showed up at the Stevens Point State University fieldhouse where Laird and guest Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert Finch went before the students.

They stood a silent vigil holding homemade protest signs that read such things as: "Nixon-Laird Blood Brothers." Laird smiled and nodded a greeting as he passed, but did not stop to speak.

THE CONFERENCE appearance was Laird's way of "keeping the lines of communication open" to young people, and he argued the case for the administration as individual students stepped from the audience before microphones to ask questions about Vietnam, defense spending and world commitments of the United States.

MRC planning survey concerning dorm life

The Men's Residence Council will soon be conducting a scientific survey concerning several facets of the present situation in men's dorms.

At present MRC has sent model questionnaires to each men's hall council for them to discuss and approve if in favor of the poll. After approval from each hall, the poll will begin.

George A. Rhoads, advisor for MRC, said the survey is in the planning stages and as soon as housing has in writing and on file the approval from the respective dorms, then the poll will be taken.

THE QUESTIONNAIRE will consist of three major issues. One concerns visitation privileges in the men's dorms. This would allow women students to visit in the men's dorms. The question will read: "Would you like to see a visitation program established in the dorms?" Another question will list three basic designs for the visitation program concerning the days and hours for these privileges.

Men will also be asked their opinion on dress regulations in the cafeterias. If they should be abolished, be strict or remain the same.

A question concerning the MRC constitution will be asked. The question states: "Would you like to see the dorm presidents represent each hall on the dorm council?"

Doug Williams, president of MRC, said the questionnaire will be computerized and prepared by IBM. There will be a special card listing answers to the questions in multiple choice form. Each individual will be asked questions and their answers punched out on the computerized cards.

WILLIAMS SAID the survey will be administered in the dorms with men from Alpha Phi Omega, men's service organization, Saddle Tramps and MRC conducting the poll.

"In this way 90-95 per cent of the students will be contacted and make the survey more valuable and accurate," said Williams. "It will not be just a sample."

Williams said MRC is getting no help from the administration. However, Guy Moore, director of residence halls, said, "If they can get enough information to make a recommendation to the administration, I think it's good."

After the survey has been completed, MRC will compile and print the results for anyone wishing to see them. Williams said if there is a majority of men who would like a visitation program, then MRC will set up a committee to get information on other universities' visitation privileges.

This committee will then compile a feasible program for Tech. But having such a program will first depend on the men's reaction and receiving approval from housing and the administration.

THE UNION EXPANSION Committee will select five questions for the questionnaire in relation to plans for expansion of the present Union or construction of a new Union.

Women's Residence Council has been asked by MRC to participate in the poll. WRC voted to sponsor the survey upon approval from all the men's residence councils.

WRC has selected a committee of three women who will be assisting MRC in the survey. They are Mary McKeever, Horn Hall; Kathy Coleman and Ann Neely, Hulen Hall.

Judy Jenkins, president of WRC, said they took a similar poll two years ago which was quite thorough and proved successful. She said WRC had decided they would have several questions to put on the survey but MRC would be conducting the largest portion of the poll.

"We decided there would be questions asked which WRC would be interested in although MRC will have more questions they need answered," said Miss Jenkins.

Parade, reunions, football ...

Variety makes Homecoming

Homecoming activities such as a bonfire, parade, luncheon, reunions and a football game will make Friday and Saturday more than just another weekend at Tech.

Rice University meets Tech in a 2 p.m. game Saturday in Jones Stadium to climax the weekend's activities.

THE HOMEcoming parade will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday, forming at 13th Street and Avenue J. The route goes east on 13th to Texas Avenue, north to Broadway and west to the Tech campus.

Gov. and Mrs. Preston Smith will appear in the parade, which will move to the music of Tech and Lubbock's high school marching bands. Floats built by approximately 30 campus organizations will also take part.

Theme of the parade and for campus dormitory decorations is "Texas Tech—Doing Our Thing."

Half-time activities at the game will focus on coronation of the Homecoming Queen.

GOV. AND MRS. SMITH are to be presented Distinguished Alumnus awards at a luncheon at 12:15 p.m. Friday in the Municipal Coliseum. The event, sponsored by the Ex-Students Association and Tech, is the third to honor outstanding former students of the university.

Other festivities Friday for Ex-Students Association members and officials include 9 a.m. meetings of the association board, the Loyalty Fund Board and former presidents of the association. New officers of the Ex-Students Association Council will be elected at a 10 a.m. meeting.

Open house will be held from 2:30-4 p.m. in the association's new quarters in the old president's home.

THE CENTURY CLUB will meet for dinner at 6:30 p.m. Friday in the Union Ballroom. A group of 30 retired Tech faculty and staff members will be honored for 10 or more years of service to the university.

The Homecoming pep rally will be held in the field to the north of Wiggins Complex at 7 p.m. Friday. The Army ROTC will build a giant bonfire and Homecoming finalists will be introduced. In case of inclement weather the rally will be moved to the Old Gym.

FRESHMEN WILL meet at the Murdough pit at 6:15 p.m. and march in mass to the bonfire site at 6:30. Freshman will meet at the Old Gym if the weather is bad.

"We are really trying to encourage all freshmen to take part in this march — we want to win the Spirit Stick," Barbara Horsman, secretary of the Freshman Council said.

Following the rally, reunions will be held by two groups of former students. The classes of 1926-50 will dance to music by Mark Anthony in the KoKo Palace, beginning at 9 p.m. At the same hour, the classes of 1951-69 will gather at the Red Raider Convention Center for a reception.

Concluding Homecoming activities will be an ex-students dance at 9 p.m. Saturday in the KoKo Palace, with music again being by Mark Anthony.

SONNY AND CHER, current music celebrities, will perform at 8:30 p.m., and following their concert a Homecoming dance for students will be held on the Coliseum floor. Music will be by the

"Smith," producers of a current top ten single, "Baby It's You."

"We are running way ahead of schedule, and things are looking real good," said Bill Lodal, student Homecoming chairman.

"Our committees are all functioning well," Lodal is a member of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity which takes on the annual job of coordinating all Homecoming events. Committees are functioning in the areas of parade, pregame ceremonies, coronation, publicity, elections and campus lighting.

Tech organizations taking part in preparations are Saddle Tramps, who arrange the annual bonfire; Women's Service Organization, Women's Residence Council, Men's Residence Council, Chi Rho, Circle K and the Ex-Students Association.

Astronaut to speak at textile symposium

Col. Frank Borman, astronaut and command pilot of Apollo VIII, will be among the speakers addressing the International Textile Symposium here tomorrow through Friday.

Dr. John R. Bradford, dean of the College of Engineering and director of the Textile Research Center, said, "This is the first International Textile Symposium that includes all segments of the complex textile industry. We are very pleased to be sponsoring such an important event in Lubbock and on the campus of Texas Tech University."

Titles of the speeches include "International Aspects of the Cotton Industry," "Apollo and Space Stations," "International Aspects of the Wool Industry," "Textile Science as Part of the Changing Science Scene," and "Natural Fibers Research of the USDA Laboratories."

There will also be a fashion show entitled "The Fashion World of Tomorrow" with Mrs. Kim Dawson, fashion coordinator of the Apparel Mart of Dallas, as commentator.

DURING THE symposium, the newly expanded Textile Research Center will be formally dedicated by Gov. Preston Smith. Facilities of the center include a physical measurements laboratory for determining the properties of fibers, yarn and fabrics; a modern 1,000 spindle pilot plant for studying the relationships between fiber properties and variables in yarn manufacturing operations.

Also a structures laboratory incorporating knitting and weaving equipment for the creation of experimental fabrics; and a chemical processes laboratory with laboratory-scale and production-scale equipment available for preparing, dyeing, and finishing of fabrics.

The symposium begins at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Textile Research Center with a tour of the Textile Research Center which will be followed by a tour of the cotton production area, USDA South Plains Ginning Laboratory, and sheep and angora goat research facilities. The buses will leave from the Textile Research Center.

THE MORNING SESSION of the second day of the symposium will begin at 9:15 a.m. in the Coronado Room of the Tech Union. A luncheon will be held in the Ballroom of the Union at noon with Borman as the luncheon speaker. The afternoon session will be in the Coronado Room and will begin at 2:15 p.m. The fashion show will be during this session.

The morning session Friday will be in the Coronado Room beginning at 9:30 a.m. The formal dedication ceremonies of the Textile Research Center will begin there at 11:05 a.m. No luncheon is included in the Friday program. The afternoon session begins at the Textile Research Center at 2:30 p.m. and will consist of the same tours as those taken on Wednesday.

Tech Senate to meet today

The Tech Student Senate will discuss the approval of standing committee appointments in a called meeting at 8:15 p.m. today in lecture room 7 of the BA Building.

The committee appointments will be dealt with in a called meeting rather than a regular session because of the Senate's need to formulate all its committees before further business can be conducted.

Seven campus groups receive full recognition

Seven student organizations have been granted full recognition by the Student Organizations Committee.

Included are Alpha Epsilon, the Double T Rifle Team, Graduate Students Society in Business Administration, the Mechanized Agriculture Club, Phi Nu Epsilon, Poet's Corner and the University Chess Club.

To receive full recognition, student organizations are given a one-year provisional recognition at the end of which they are reviewed and considered for further recognition.

ORGANIZATIONS receiving one-year provisional recognition this year are the Tech Slavic Club (Slovo); the Peace Corps Support Council; and the University Young Republicans Movement (UYRM).

The Student Organizations Committee made a statement on the recognition of the UYRM: "An application for recognition from the University Young Republican Movement was received by the Committee on Student Organizations. The CSO found that the UYRM met all of the requirements for recognition as outlined in the Policy Manual and Procedural Guide and recognition was thereby granted."

"In reaching its decision, the CSO did not consider the varying political persuasions of other Young Republican organizations that have been or are active at the University."

DR. WILLIAM H. DUVALL, assistant dean of student life, said all organizations given full recognition must turn in an

La Ventana deadlines this week

All organizations wishing to appear in the 1970 La Ventana must send a representative to room 102 in the Journalism Building before Oct. 31 in order to sign a page and picture contract. Contracts will be available from 8:00 a.m. - noon and 1:00 p.m. - 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. The cost per page is $50.00 - $35.00 per half page.

La Ventana pictures will be made Oct. 31st at Avalon Studio. All students, graduates, and law students are requested to have them made before this deadline. Picture sessions are from 8:30 - 11:30 a.m. and 1 - 4:30 p.m.

Athletics under fire

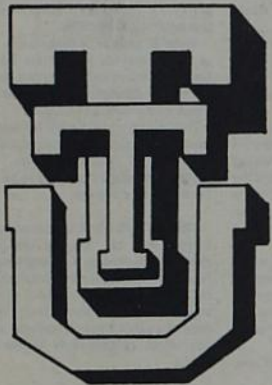

Tech enters Homecoming Week and, as tradition dictates, is wrapped up in float-building and all the other activities which culminate on Homecoming Day.

This provides us with the opportunity to study athletics at Tech and intercollegiate athletics in general. For the past few years, intercollegiate athletics, football in particular, have come under the gun of those who cite rising athletic expenditures as sufficient cause to question the validity of such programs as they now exist.

Some say too much emphasis is placed on athletics. They argue that a university is an institution for higher learning and that athletics should rate a distant second when compared to other campus needs.

However, because of the tough competition in intercollegiate athletics, it would be difficult for a school to participate without going to great expense if it expected to be respected in athletics. Where should the line be drawn?

Apparently few people at Tech are completely satisfied with our present athletic standing. Not much can be done to correct the situation, however, if general public opinion cannot be interpreted accurately enough to give Tech the kind of athletics it needs.

Penneys offers the most going, growing management program

(period)

Strong statement! No "ifs". No "one-of-the's". We just don't believe anyone can beat what we have to offer. Penney's store management program will put you in the management bracket, more rapidly than in any other business we know. And we know!

Mass merchandising is a management thing. It's a people to people business... selling ideas; managing people, merchandising for people.

And it's a growth business. We're building new merchandising centers, expanding others. Our product lines are growing and diversifying. We're growing. Challenge our statement. Joust with a Penney's representative. We're interested in proving our point.

Letters To The Editor

Lieutenant wants Americans to support 'people over here'

At this time two years ago, the worst of my worries, like some of yours, dealt with my concern for an upcoming exam or paper, who I should ask to the game on Saturday or the party on Friday, should I attend that class or cut it, or should I study or go on that Coke date.

Today my situation has changed somewhat. Today I am serving in the armed forces of my country some 10,000 miles from my home and loved ones.

I can remember the carefree strolls to class and compare them only with a scurry to a bunker or foxhole to get protection from an incoming rocket or mortar.

I CAN COMPARE dates to the movie, party or big game on Saturday only with the sports section from home or a movie shown on a large white board while we sit on ammunition boxes, and our only theater is the sky.

I can compare sleeping through that Saturday morning class only with being awakened by an incoming rocket or mortar, or maybe a night attack.

I can compare home with the letters, packages, etc from friends and family or whatever the U.S.O., American Red Cross or Special Services can do to bring home over here. But what do we hear from home? Turmoil and unrest.

I'm serving in Vietnam. Sure

I'm here because I got orders assigning me. Sure I didn't want to leave my wife or the rest of my family. Sure I don't like the idea of being so far from home.

But more than all that, I wanted to come. You see, I was tired of all those people telling me what was happening. I wanted to answer the question, whether we should be over here, for myself.

Many people, most times characterized by mustaches, long hair, dirty clothes and bodies, and a desire to do nothing but create problems, kept saying by word and deed that "We shouldn't be in Vietnam."

I QUESTIONED several about their appearance and methods of doing things and always was told, "I have a right to do as I please."

I grant them that right and I ask, "Why don't other people, whether Vietnamese or other, have that same right?" They have asked us to help them. We have helped them help themselves.

We have done much more than just support them militarily. We have brought improved methods of agriculture and transportation and improved medical and educational facilities — to mention a few.

During the course of this assistance, some Americans have been killed. Most of us over here, risking our lives, believe in what we're doing and wouldn't have it any other way. We believe in America, democracy and all those old-fashioned ideas which have made our country so great.

We believe we should help someone else so that they will be able to freely choose which course to follow. We believe we should stop communism over here, not at home.

We believe so strongly in our way of life that we are willing to die for it. If one doesn't believe strongly enough in a cause to die for it, how good of a cause can it be?

DON'T CONTINUE to ask dissidents should we be in Vietnam. Most of them will get on just about any train if the price is right.

Instead, ask the people who have been there. The ones who have seen the sincere thankfulness in a Vietnamese child's eyes who had never known what it was like to have a shirt on his back or shoes on his feet, until the Americans came.

Ask someone who has seen people working for a common cause, people from many different countries. Ask someone who has seen a Vietnamese body guard jump in front of an American adviser and stop a sniper's bullet meant for him.

Ask someone who has seen a Vietnamese woman with thankful, tear-filled eyes because a visiting MEDCAP team just saved the life of her son who had been bitten by a snake.

Ask someone who has been there. Better yet, come over here and ask. We'd love to show you around.

I DEFINITELY feel every American has the right to believe as he chooses and to express himself as he sees fit. When that right begins to interfere with another American's right, stand up and be counted.

How far must this unrest and turmoil go before every American realizes this is not merely honest concern for our own good, or growing pains, but a disguise for something else?

Call me a super-American, a fanatic or whatever else you feel you must. I'm the kind of an American who still gets a chill down my spine when the national anthem is played or I see "Old Glory" fluttering in the breeze.

I've been shot at and I've been scared. There have been times when seconds seemed like years.

These times have made me learn to be thankful for life itself, more especially for the American way of life.

I have seen the situations I have mentioned. I'm thankful for the opportunity to do what I can to further democracy. I have seen many "super" Americans over here. I am proud to have served with them and hope I can be grouped with them.

I look forward to going home like everyone else over here. There will be much to do long after the ones now over here have been home several years.

You ask should we be in Vietnam? Hopefully, this letter will open some thought-paths which each might walk down, for himself, for the first time.

I believe we should. Most over here do. I ask each of you at home to get behind the people over here. Believe in them because they believe in what they are doing.

Stand up and be counted. Quit not getting involved. Take stand.

A sign on one of our outposts reads, "One can't really appreciate living until he comes so close to dying."

Ever wonder what it would be like if we didn't have the democracy so many have died to give us?

Attends true university

I just want to let my friends in Lubbock know that I am alive and well at Emory University in Atlanta, Ga.

You know, it used to be downright embarrassing explaining to people how a Technological College had a pre-dental and pre-med program. Now it's embarrassing trying to explain how a Tech University even exists, much less even having these same two programs.

Here in the Southeast, Tech isn't very well known. People who have heard of the school only know it as "that Texas school that almost comes close to Mississippi State each year."

Well, the "Hub City" and its Tech University are far behind me now. You know, it is really great attending a true university.

What is a true university? It is CABARET—Jay Fox as the clown-like Master of Ceremonies of the tinselly night club, surrounded by it's Kit-Kat girls, in the award winning New York musical hit, 'Cabaret,' produced and directed by Harold Prince. There will be only one performance at 8:15 p.m. Nov. 10. Student tickets are priced at $2.50 at the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium box-office.

Musical hit to play here

By LARRY GALLAGHER
Staff Writer

The words of its most popular song, "Life is a Cabaret," will be the keynote at the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium on Nov. 10 when Tandy Cronyn and the national touring company bring to the Auditorium Broadway's long-run, prize-winning musical hit, "Cabaret."

Among the eight Tony Awards garnered by this Harold Prince musical triumph were prizes for settings, dances and music that brought to the stage all the glitter and gaudiness of the Berlin cabaret world in 1930.

"Cabaret" includes a full scale night club with audience, stage and floor show, an all-girl band, a kicking chorus of scantily clad German show girls and a fluid and jovial master of ceremonies for the evening.

Amid this spectacular display, "Cabaret" tells the story of Sally Bowles, a rootless night club singer, who is a captive of this mad after-dark whirl. This is the role introducing theatrical newcomer Tandy Cronyn — daughter of Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy — who also starred as Sally on Broadway.

With her in "Cabaret" are Franklin Kiser as the young writer who tries to bring Sally back to daytime reality; Alexandra Damien as his disillusioned Berlin landlady; Woody Romoff as a kindly fruit dealer who woos the landlady with apples and oranges; and Jay Fox as the dancing and singing master of ceremonies who guides the audience through the unusual tale of "Cabaret."

The musical opened on Broadway in 1966 and went on to win the New York Drama Critic's Award and the Outer Circle Critic's Award.

It's Tony Awards, which is the New York award comparable to Hollywood's Oscar, include those for its direction by Harold Prince; its book by Joe Masteroff; its music and lyrics by John Kander and Fred Ebb; its dances and cabaret numbers by Ronald Field; its settings by Boris Aronson; and its costumes by Patricia Zipprodt.

"Cabaret" also won honors when it was presented in London. Among the awards it captured there was London's Variety Poll and the Evening Standard Poll which both named it the best musical of the year.

The Auditorium box-office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday. Reservations may be made by calling 762-4616. Each student with an ID may buy two tickets priced at $2.50. Curtain time for the Nov. 10 performance will be 8:15 p.m.

READY LUNCHEON RESERVATIONS —Preparing programs and reservation materials for the Distinguished Alumni Awards luncheon to be held Friday by Tech and its Ex-Students Association are from left, Carolyn Willis, Betty Schriewer and Wanda Dawley. Receiving awards at the luncheon at 12:15 p.m. in the Municipal Coliseum will be Gov. and Mrs. Preston Smith.

Opening at Theater Center

Swiss chalet setting for frightening game

A frightening game that takes place in a snowbound Swiss chalet is the situation that audiences will confront when they see the Lubbock Theater Center's production of "The Deadly Game," starting Friday at the Center.

G. W. Bailey is directing this tense drama. James Yaffee's dramatization of well-known continental playwright-novelist Friedrich Durrenmatt's mystery novel "Trapps."

The play concerns American businessman Howard Trapps who seeks refuge from a snowstorm in the picturesque Swiss chalet.

But what he finds there is far from refuge. Awaiting him are four retired professional men and two servants who occupy the house, and who use Trapps as a human pawn in a most deadly game of literal life and death.

The plot, while unusually absorbing in itself, is extended into a metaphor about the dangers of life itself and the way people use each other.

The everyday idea is broadened into a terrifying excursion into the mechanics and men and games.

The cast includes several well-known LTC faces, including Bill Lyall as Trapps. Lyall appeared last year in both "The Sound of Music" and "Look Back in Anger."

The owner of the house, Emile Carpeau, is played by Jack Claitor, last seen as Murray in "The Odd Couple" last spring at the Center.

Chuck Stallcup, a performer in last season's production of "Hay Fever," here plays Pierre.

New faces on stage include Gingham Kerr as Nicole, Wayne Turney as Gustave Kummer, Hill Baggett as Joseph Pillet and Jane Ratliff as Mrs. Trapp.

The cast is completed by director Bailey, who plays Bernard Laroque in his first full appearance on the Center stage.

Reservations for "The Deadly Game" may be made by telephone to SH4-3681, or by mail or in person to the Center, 2508-Ave. P.

The play is scheduled to run Friday through Sunday, with additional performances set for the following weekend, Nov. 7-8.

Tech rifle club organizes for winter contests

The Double T Rifle Team will hold an organizational meeting tomorrow in room 22 of the Social Science Building.

"We hope that all persons interested in target shooting will attend. Previous experience is preferred but not required," Ray Boothe, captain and president said.

The team will participate in several invitational tournaments this year.

"The team shoots in a winter league which is composed of area teams," Marcy Wagner, secretary said. "This lasts for several months and is culminated by a competition between the various teams."

Andy Caire is vice president for the team.

The American Student Information Service (ASIS) has announced that it is giving scholarships to all ASIS member students.

The ASIS was founded in 1958 as a student aid agency.

ASIS will provide free testing, registration and enrollment in an ASIS-EUROCENTRE language laboratory in Europe. They will furnish a set of LP language records and manuals.

Full health and accident insurance will be given while in Europe. ASIS also provide free European orientation trips and job placement in Europe.

This program is open to all students who join ASIS. Material may be obtained by writing to ASIS, 22, Ave. de la Liberté, Luxembourg City, Grand Duchy of Luxembourg.

To cover the cost of overseas handling, $2 must be included in each inquiry.

No time-out for teach-in this spring

Tech officials have not made plans to dismiss classes this spring in accordance with a national teach-in on the crises of the environment Dr. Kennedy, vice president for Academic Affairs said yesterday.

Senator Gavlord Nelson of Wisconsin announced plans Friday for scheduling a special day this spring when normal campus activities would be suspended for a day devoted to discussions of environmental problems.

Dr. Kennedy said that Tech policy concerning dismissal of classes is fairly consistent. "The semester calendar has been very carefully established for a minimum number of days necessary for academic enterprise. Saturdays are days of no classes and are reserved for this type of activity."

Nelson said a Washington office for the teach-in would be opening early in November with a staff that will be responsible for organizing students, scientists, faculty members, and other people interested in becoming involved with the teach-in idea.

On the day set aside, special programs designed and planned by the students would take the form of symposiums, convocations, panel discussions and outdoor rallies where the crisis of the environment will be discussed.

Nelson said topics under discussion will be selected by the students and will vary with the university and the section of the country where it is located.

Gov. and Mrs. Smith will be honored by the Ex-Students Association at a reception at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the organization's new quarters, the recently remodeled former home of the presidents on the university campus.

Ugliness gains votes for contestants

The Tech Interfraternity Council will sponsor the "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest tomorrow to raise funds for a Halloween party for underprivileged children.

All 12 Tech fraternities have nominated a candidate. The hopefuls are allowed to make themselves as repulsive as possible.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Union. The candidate whose supporters donate the most money to the fund for underprivileged children and the four runners-up will take part in the Homecoming parade on Saturday.

Candidates are Dick Julsonnet, Alpha Tau Omega; Mike Price, Beta Theta Pi; Larry Vaughn, Delta Tau Delta; David Barr, Kappa Alpha; Phil Jones, Kappa Sigma; Steve Rivers, Phi Delta Theta.

Newsmen visit on campus

Five Texas newspaper executives will visit Texas Tech's journalism department today as participants in a team effort — initiated by the Texas Daily Newspaper Association to bring about a closer relationship between students and the working press.

Members of the team will include Jack Butler, editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; Hal Taxel, vice president and advertising director of the San Antonio Express and News.

Also, Sam Pierson, photographer for the Houston Chronicle and immediate past president of the National Newspaper Photographers Association; Mrs. Vivian Castleberry, women's editor of the Dallas Times-Herald; and John Murphy, TDNA executive vice president.

The visitors will address classes, meet with student-faculty groups and confer with editors of the University Daily, said Journalism Chairman W. E. Garets.

Tech is one of five state colleges and universities — and the only one in West Texas — on the group's itinerary, Garets said. The team will return next spring to interview and recruit graduating students in journalism.

Art displayed by Tech Prof

Several works by Tech Prof. Paul Hanna are on display this month in the watercolor show in the Gallery in the Square, Dallas.

Hanna's work, which is highly detailed, has recently been shown in the Southwestern Watercolor Exhibition.

Love festival halted by alarmed parents

RIVERTON, Wyo. (AP) — A Riverton high school English teacher whose plans for an Autumn Love Festival were protested by parents, has been asked to resign.

Sophomore English teacher Suzanne Hunsucker's students had begun decorating one of the high school rooms about a week ago in preparation for the love festival, which had been scheduled for Thursday and Friday of last week.

However, by mid-week the Riverton School Board began receiving letters from parents in protest of the love festival plans.

Last Wednesday, board members examined the classroom decorations. Shortly afterward, acting principal Arnold Svetsers told Mrs. Hunsucker to forget plans for the love festival and remove the posters and paintings from the room.

For the Autumn Love Festival Mrs. Hunsucker had asked her students to bring favorite foods, develop original skits, paint pictures, and hold discussions on poetry and literature.

Mrs. Hunsucker said the theme of the English lesson was love. "Love of People, Love of food, love of animals, love of country, all kinds of love," she said, she said.

But School Board Chairman Dee Samuelson said he felt the lesson "could be started again along more traditional lines." Samuelson said the school board welcomes new ideas from instructors, but added "All we heard from were people who asked that the love festival plans be dropped."

Raiders still alive

by Tommy Love

The Raiders are not dead. They are alive and well and hiding in Jones Stadium.

This seems to be the verdict anyway after Tech's "upset" of highly touted Southern Methodist University Saturday. The Raiders finally put it all together and jelled into a team that can take on any team in the conference now on even terms.

Tech's 27-24 upset of the Mustangs leaves the Big Red very much in the chase for the Cotton Bowl with a 2-1 conference mark, only one game behind league leading Texas and Arkansas.

Although Texas is 2-0 at this time and rated second in the nation, anything can happen in the Southwest Conference.

UT still has the tough end of their schedule to wade through and has to tackle possibly their hardest foes on enemy soil.

The Longhorns catch fired-up SMU this weekend at Dallas in their first big test. The Mustangs, with Chuck Hixson at the helm, are capable of downing any team in the nation on a given day. Also, the Ponies have the added incentive that if they lose they are virtually eliminated from the conference race.

The Horns also catch perennial rival Texas A&M at College Station later in the season. They must follow this up the next week by taking on the Arkansas Razorbacks at Fayetteville on Dec. 6.

The Aggies, like Tech, have been improving every week and Arkansas' no. 4 national ranking speaks for itself.

Arkansas on the other hand still has to face the cream of the crop in the conference. Besides their tilt with Texas the Hogs must tangle with A&M, SMU, and Tech.

Tech is a different story. Having already beaten the Aggies and SMU and losing their only league game to Texas, the Raiders find themselves facing the cellar teams in the conference prior to their season wrap up with Arkansas on national television.

Unfortunately it is just these types of teams that have time and again spoiled good season records for the Raiders. Who can forget what perennial Southeast Conference doormat Mississippi State has done to good Raider teams the last three years.

Just last year next - to - last place Baylor knocked out the Raiders, who were then tied for the conference lead, by a whopping 42-28 score.

In 1967 it was TCU that unsaddled the Raiders 16-0 to knock them out of a possible league championship and the trip to the Cotton Bowl. That year the Raiders downed Texas and Arkansas and came within seconds of defeating A&M.

The most encouraging thing about the Tech team this year though is the abundant amount of sophomore and juniors on the squad.

Saturday it was an entire sophomore backfield that riddled the Mustang defense for the victory.

Soph quarterback Charles Napper came into his own by hitting seven of 19 passes for 153 yards and lead the team in rushing with 63 yards on 15 carries.

Tech also has a trio of second year running backs that have been nothing short of sensational in the last few games. Halfback Danny Hardaway has led the Raiders in the rushing department all year long and was joined by fullback Miles Langehenning two weeks ago when the Brenham soph ran for 114 yards against Mississippi State before being injured in the game.

Lo and behold who should replace Langehenning in the SMU game but another soph Reagan Young, who promptly riddled the Pony defense for 43 yards on 10 carries for a gaudy 4.3 yards per carry average.

Another encouraging note is that the number one pass receiver is also a soph, Johnny Odom. Odom has been on the receiving end of 16 tosses for 222 yards and 2 touchdowns.

It is hoped that the youth on the squad can overcome the old traditions of falling prey to one of the lesser conference foes on the schedule and lead the Raiders to a 5-1 record going into the Arkansas game.

This weekend Tech shifts their Cotton Bowl express into third gear by taking on lowly Rice in a Homecoming tilt. A big victory over the Owls should be the springboard the Raiders need at this time to build up momentum.

Track team loses meet

The Tech cross country team dropped a dual meet to defending SWC champ SMU Saturday by a score of 15-44.

The Mustangs swept the first five positions but Head track coach Vernon Hillard said his team ran its best of the season.

Tech's Francis Doyle was the Raider's top finisher, with a 15:15 for sixth place. His time was 10 seconds off the winning time of Pony Jack Pyle who turned in a 15:05.

This Saturday the Raiders will participate in the Eastern New Mexico University Invitational Meet at Portales, N.M.

Competing in the three-mile event will be Eastern New Mexico, Colorado State, Wayland Baptist College, West Texas State, College of Artesia and Tech.

Running for the Raiders will be Lance Harter, Francis Doyle, George Coon, Dave Gnerre, David Nelson, Logan Lowe and Kevin McPeak.

Hillard expects it to be a three team race between ENMU, Colorado State, and Tech. The Raiders have faced ENMU twice this season and has lost to them both times. This will be Tech's first encounter with Colorado State.

King's Comments

by Steve Eames

Saturday night J T King, head Raider football coach was told he had been mean to "those nice Ponies."

As King settled back in his home following his return from Dallas, a local caller telephoned to inform him of his luck and help from officials in conquering SMU just hours earlier.

"You can't please everybody all the time," he laughed.

King wants to please Raider fans, however. "If we can win from here on in, we have a chance to be in there (the SWC championship)," he said.

The Raiders have a 2-1 record following Saturday's victory over the SMU Mustangs, falling behind only Texas and Arkansas in the SWC race.

The turning point of the Mustang-Raider tilt was a goal line stand by the Raider defense in the second quarter, according to King.

Tech's defense in that series was worth 14 points King said. It prevented SMU from scoring and allowed the Raiders a long distance pass play for the touchdown just minutes later.

Tech's defense held the Mustangs again on the 15 yard line forcing the Ponies to settle for a field goal in the fourth quarter, another great moment for the Raider defense, according to King.

The Raider defense had its rough moments, however, King said.

Raider linebackers had the difficult chore of falling back to cover for a pass, yet being ready to come forward to stop a running attack.

The linebackers graded worse than the rest of the team, King said. "But their assignments were much more difficult."

Daryl Doggett, SMU fullback, had running room only because the Tech linebackers were busy with their dual assignment, King said.

The Tech offense graded well also according to King. Averaging a 75 grade per player, the offense racked up three touchdowns and put Raider kicker Jerry Don Sanders in a position to add two field goals.

Mike Holladay and Denton Fox, Raider tackle and defensive halfback respectively, earned Tech's Golden Helmet award this week King said.

Looking forward to the Rice-Tech tilt next week, King said. "This team (Rice) is better than one of the teams who has already beaten us."

King added Rice holding Texas to 21 points in the first half last week speaks pretty well of them. "That's better than we did," he said.

Service teams have trouble holding own in football ranks

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — The unpopularity of the military with modern youth and the lure of a pro career are making it hard for the service academies — Army, Navy and the Air Force — to hold their own in big time college football.

"It's unrealistic," Tom Cahill, the Army coach, said Monday. "There is no way we can compete on an even scale with teams such as Notre Dame, Ohio State, Penn State and Southern California."

"They are out of our league but I don't think any of us in the service academies wants to deemphasize our schedules. Our alumni wouldn't stand for it."

Army and Navy have proud football traditions and the Air Force, which had its first varsity season in 1956, is building one. But the day of the Doc Blanchard - Glenn Davis and the dread naughts of the Navy powerhouse of the early 1960s appear gone forever.

The climatic Army - Navy game once one of the nation's premier sports spectacles, has been relegated to an inter-service battle which accentuates the pulse of only the brass and the braid.

Army, crushed by Notre Dame 45-0, broke a three-game losing streak Saturday by beating Boston College 38-7. Navy, 2-8 last year, lost five in a row before tripping Virginia 10-0. The Air Force, apparently with the best team of the three, has won four and lost two.

The Falcons from Colorado Springs invade Michie Stadium here Saturday, for a game with Army. They close their season against Stanford and Notre Notre Dame on consecutive Saturdays.

a chilling prospect.

"It is impossible for us to compete with the big schools for talent," Cahill, who has had three winning seasons at Army, said. "For one thing, most kids today are not militarily inclined. For another, of a boy is good, he is thinking about a pro career."

"When we talk to a boy about coming to Army, he frequently brings up the fact that he would be committed to five years in service. Few are willing to undertake that—especially with Vietnam or a fat pro bonus staring them in the face."

Football at West Point lacks the big business, high-pressure tone of Big Ten, Pacific Coast, Southeastern and Southwest universities. Games are played in a subdued Ivy League atmosphere.

Oklahoma downs Tech in freshman game 50-12

The Picadors drew first blood last night but the Oklahoma freshman bounced back to swamp the Techsans 50-12 in Norman Okla.

The Raiders scored the second time they got their hands on the ball as they drove 52 yards in 10 plays for a touchdown. Runningback Gains Baty capped the march by diving over from the one. The try for the extra point was wide and Tech led 6-0.

The score read 34-6 for Oklahoma though before the Picadors were able to register their second touchdown in the third quarter.

Sparked by a 59 yard run by Dicky Ingram the Techsans traveled 73 yards in five plays with fullback Ed Lee Renfro bulling his way over from the nine to make the score 34-12. The try for two points failed.

The Boomers scored twice in the first quarter, once in the second, three times in the third and twice in the fourth to account for their 50 points.

Homecoming festivities set

In addition to Tech's homecoming football clash with Rice Saturday, Red Raider fans will get a chance to see the basketball and baseball teams in action.

Coach Bob Bass's cagers will have a freshman-varsity scrimmage at 4 p.m. Friday in the Tech Barn. The game has become an annual event on the weekend of homecoming and the public is invited to attend.

Bass, the Raiders' new head coach, will greet four starters from last year's team that finished fourth in the Southwest Conference race. In addition to the eight returning lettermen, three junior college transfers have joined the squad.

Kal Segrist's baseballers are slated to have an intrasquad game Friday at 1 p.m. at the Tech diamond. If weather does not permit, the game will be played at the MacKenzie Park diamond.

Segrist plans to have two separate games pitting the varsity against the freshmen in each. The games will last from five to six innings apiece and will climax Tech's fall baseball practice.

The Red Raiders finished third in the conference last season and Segrist was named "Manager of the Year" by the Associated Press. Tech challenged for the title and was in second place until the last game of the season.
