Extra reserved seats denied Tech 'children'

By DONNY RICHARDS
Editorial Assistant

Students may get to stand in line again this fall for Tech's home football games—but not just to get through the gate.

The Student Life Committee of the Tech Senate is studying a resolution that would allow students who have paid their student services fee to pay an additional $1 per game for a reserved seat in the student section.

THE RESOLUTION, sent back to the committee by the Senate for further study, stated that students would receive the reserved seat tickets on a first-come first-serve basis.

But each student could buy six tickets at a time if he had six IDs. Campus organizations would be allowed block lots of up to 50 tickets in the upper corners of the student section.

"The reserved seats would be sold to students beginning with the seats on the 50-yard line and moving south through the student section," Athletic Ticket Office Manager Mrs. Ruth Sturtz said Tuesday night at the Tech Senate meeting. "The seats not sold would be allotted in the usual manner."

When asked if any additional seats might be added to the student section Mrs. Sturtz said, "Of course we can't stretch seats, and the rest of the stadium seats are reserved. You children will not get any more seats. The student section was not filled at any game this year."

"STUDENTS ARE ALLOWED

approximately 14,000 seats at each Tech home game. The largest number of students in the student section this year was about 12,000 at the homecoming game," Mrs. Sturtz added.

In reference to the additional charge, one senator asked Mrs. Sturtz if the $1 per student per game was required to administer the reserved seating program.

"Any dollar is needed by the athletic department. We have tried to expand—even to the point of going beyond ourselves," she answered.

The resolution also said that the sections reserved for the band and the Saddle Tramps would not be included in the reserved seating area and would remain as they have in the past.

THE BILL ALSO proposed that the card section be used only in the Homecoming and Dad's Day games and then be moved to the south end zone so more people could see it.

The Senate, in sending the bill back to committee, stated two main problems with it.

Senators expressed they felt the $1 was too high to pay for each game and suggested that it might be lowered.

One senator also expressed that he thought it would be unfair to sell some students reserved seats and then let other students have the remaining seats at no additional charge.

However, any action taken by the Senate for an additional charge for athletic seating must be voted on and approved by the student body.

Tech coed charged after search

An 18-year-old Tech coed was freed yesterday on $1,000 bail after being charged with possession of marijuana following a search of her dorm room by Lubbock police.

Donna Page, who enrolled at Tech this spring was charged after police found a plastic bag containing two marijuana cigarettes and a small quantity of marijuana in her room in Wall Hall.

The search and arrest was made at noon Tuesday.

Miss Page's roommate was also taken into custody, but later released.

Mike Millsap, an assistant district attorney who accompanied officers during the search and arrest, said the police acted on the tip of an informer.

Three charged for murders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday charged three Cleveland, Ohio, men in connection with the murders of United Mine Workers official Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

In making the announcement in behalf of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, the FBI said the three men are Paul Eugene Gilly, Aubran Wayne Martin and Claude Edward Vealey, all of Cleveland.

The bodies of Yablonski, his wife Margaret, and their 25-year-old daughter, Charlotte Joanne, were discovered Jan. 5 in bedrooms of their Clarksville, Pa., home 35 miles south of Pittsburgh.

The three men were named in federal warrants issued yesterday in Cleveland with violating sections of the U.S. Code dealing with conspiracy and interference with the rights of a union member by force.

Youth changes story

FORT WORTH — Louis Ivory, 18, who is charged with murder in the shooting of a Texas Christian University student, changed his statement yesterday and said he did not shoot the youth, officers reported.

Officers said Ivory pointed to a 21-year-old companion as the man who did the shooting.

Detective V. T. Sommers said the Negro youth asked to see him at the county jail where he is being held.

"He said after seeing his mother so dejected he decided to tell the truth," Sommers said.

Sommers said Ivory originally admitted the shooting because the pistol used belonged to a relative "and he figured the rap" was on him.

Ivory was given a polygraph Wednesday and although the results of the test were withheld, Sommers said, "I feel like he was telling the truth."

Sommers said police had received numerous telephone calls indicating that Ivory did not shoot Barry Lunn Leatherman in front of the Fort Worth Public Schools Gymnasium after a basketball game between Como High School and Carter - Riverside High School.

Smith will run

AUSTIN—Gov. Preston Smith observed the anniversary of his first year as Texas governor yesterday by announcing for a second term.

Smith told a news conference he would make the same campaign promises he made in 1968.

"I will continue to be as I promised, a working governor ... an available governor ... a responsive governor," he said.

Smith's announcement was no surprise since he has been telling one and all since he was inaugurated Jan. 21, 1969, that he planned to run for a second term.

How about a third term?
"No, I'm not committed against a third term, or a 10th term for that matter ... but you might ask my wife that same question," Smith said.

Smith currently has no announced opponents for the Democratic primary May 2 but he said he was sure there would be at least one.

Paul Eggers, Wichita Falls Republican, who lost to Smith by 407,000 votes in 1968, has called a news conference for 1:30 p.m. today, apparently to announce he will challenge Smith again.

State Republican headquarters said they already have one official candidate for the Republican primary.

He is Roger Martin, 48, of Gainesville, who gave his occupation as "retired, U.S. Navy." Martin paid the $1,000 filing fee.

Guest card rule invalid

AUSTIN—The Alcoholic Beverage Commission's (ABC) guest card rule, which "threshold" private clubs claimed would bankrupt them, is invalid, the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals said yesterday.

Such a rule is legal, however, if it is written and passed in the right way, the three-judge court held.

The court temporarily enjoined the ABC from enforcing the rule, pending a further hearing by Dist. Judge Jim Meyers of Austin on whether the rule was supported by "substantial evidence."

Commission Chairman Tom Gordon of Abilene said the ABC would decide whether to appeal to the State Supreme Court after consulting with the attorney general's department.

Gordon and Asst. Atty. Gen. Jay Floyd, who attended yesterday's ABC meeting, both indicated they were a little puzzled over why the case had to be heard again by Meyers.

"Rule 56" was issued last year in an effort to curb private clubs in which a customer could walk in off the street and become a "guest" of a waitress or the manager, who were "members" of the club.

Former Gov. John Connally said the "threshold clubs" are subterfuges for violating the state's law against public sale of liquor by the drink.

Citizenship revoked

PRINCETON, N.J.—The Soviet Union announced yesterday it had revoked Svetlana Alliluyeva's citizenship and the daughter of Joseph Stalin said, "I am very happy that they have taken this step and that I no longer belong to the Soviet state and to Soviet society."

Mrs. Alliluyeva said she asked the Russians last July to revoke her citizenship. The Soviets, she said, "did exactly what I asked them to do."

Mrs. Alliluyeva defected to the United States in 1967. She has a son, Joseph, 25, and a daughter, Yekaterina, 20, both of whom are believed still living in Moscow.

Reached by telephone at her home here, Mrs. Alliluyeva said, "No one will take from me my feelings about the country, my feelings for the people, for Russian culture, music, painting, literature and my friends. No one takes that away from me. I carry all this with me forever."

Voter sign-up down in Lubbock County

By JAN HORN
Staff Writer

Voter registration in Lubbock County to date is very low according to a report by the State Democratic Executive Committee.

The report dated Jan. 19 said Lubbock has the lowest per cent of potential voters registered of the twelve most populous counties in Texas.

Russell Hardin, county tax assessor-collector, said that as of Tuesday night 25,205 citizens had registered to vote. "I am confident that voter registration will reach the 50,000 mark, about 5,000 more than last year," said Hardin.

He said the biggest proportion of registration will be between now and the deadline, Jan. 31. "There will probably be 1000 to 2000 every day until then," he said.

Dormitories note change in policies

By CINDY SWIM
Staff Writer

This has been a year of innovations for girls' dorms through the relaxing of regulations.

The most important change or relaxation of regulations came with the off-campus housing policy allowing those who were 21 before September or had 96 hours to live off campus.

Coleman Hall was also set up for senior women students, allowing them to live in a dormitory but have no hours.

Other changes in the regulations included the extension of freshmen hours from 9 p.m. to 11:30 p.m., upperclass women no longer have to sign out when leaving the dorm after 7 p.m., and permission cards have become more permissive.

THESE CHANGES are well accepted by dorm residents according to reports from dorm presidents. Of the nine officers contacted, seven said they had heard no real complaints from the girls about dorm policies. Eight of the presidents said the girls seemed quite satisfied with the dorms in general.

The ones who had heard some complaints said they were the usual ones such as food, not enough open houses and having hours in the upperclassman dorms.

Of the legislators contacted, most said they had heard no complaints. In one of the older dorms a legislator complained about girls going out the wing doors after closing time.

Some legislators said the girls would like to have money machines in the dorms and laundry service. But on the whole, the legislators thought the residents were satisfied.

AS AN EXTENSION of extending freshmen girls' hours, next year there will be no freshmen dorms as such, said Guy Moore director of residents halls.

Moore said the experiment of having freshmen in Clement had nothing to do with the decision. He said that the Women's residence Council felt they should try it.

Lucy Casbeer, vice-president of WRC, said most of the new rulings were still encouraging students to register to vote. The Ad Hoc Committee for Campus Voter Registration will have a booth set up in the Union today and tomorrow. This group has been deputized and will type the voter registration receipt. The student presents this to the election judge, and, if he is qualified, he may vote.

David Thomas, co-chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee, said, "We have registered about 400 students. We would like to keep the table open the rest of the month, but we have a limited number of people who have been deputized." He also said Hardin had to be informed in writing before the group could register voters.

The Voter Registration League has also set up a table in the Union, and will continue with their drive until the deadline. This committee includes Jackie Grogan, president of SOUL; Paulina Jacobo, state president of Citizens for Social Justice, and Roge Settler, president of the University Young Republicans.

This group is distributing the application forms. They will either mail these to Hardin or give them to a deputy who can type up the voter registration receipt.

Hardin said students living in the dorms are considered by law only to be temporary residents and cannot register to vote in Lubbock County.

"These are the rules of Secretary of State Martin Dye under the laws which were changed by the last session of the Texas Legislature," Hardin said. "Students may be deprived of their vote by registering in Lubbock if they are ineligible to vote," he said.

He said students who live off campus and meet the other requirements may register to vote in Lubbock County if they intend to make Lubbock their permanent home.

"They must sign an affidavit at the time they register, and if this is falsified they will not be allowed to vote. If a student lists a home address in another county when he registers to go to school at Tech, he cannot register to vote here," said Hardin.

"I THINK THIS is just an example of a local election official trying to prohibit people from voting, and another example of Texas' archaic laws," said Settler.

Settler also said it is so inconvenient to go through the process of absentee voting that most people do not bother.

Three charged for murders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday charged three Cleveland, Ohio, men in connection with the murders of United Mine Workers official Joseph A. Yablonski and his wife and daughter.

No leadership failure of Experimental College

Lack of leadership was cited by Don Coleman, representative of the United Campus Christian Life Committee, as the main reason for the failure of last year's Experimental College.

The Experimental College, which began last February, is an inactive organization at this time, Dr. William Duvall, assistant dean of Student Life, said yesterday.

"We have not heard from any of the members who worked on the experimental college all year and therefore we consider it an inactive organization," Duvall said.

THE PROGRAM OFFERED non-credit courses in areas of study not listed in the Tech catalog. The courses were conducted in a free discussion atmosphere.

Coleman said the courses went extremely well where participation was good. The few courses where students were unprepared and unable to participate were not worthwhile.

Coleman said the main students involved in organizing the Experimental College graduated and there were no leaders left.

"Jim Collie was the predominate figure and after he left no one took over his position," said Dr. John Burnett, a faculty advisor in the program. The advisors did not feel that they should work to preserve the organization if there was no student enthusiasm.

Faculty advisors, including Coleman, feel there is always a possibility of re-opening the program if enough students show interest. Coleman said, "On the whole it was an exciting experience and a worthwhile thing."

THE COURSES OFFERED last year included "The Academic Revolution," which was an attempt to explore the state Academe in terms of its historical roots, structure, changing environment, and the problems arising from this change.

"A Sociological Look at Lubbock: Typical American Town?" was a course exploring the basic power structure of Lubbock.

"Existentialism and Beyond" was a look into some aspects of existentialism in literature, examining recent trends in thought that predict a reaction to existentialism.

"The Theatre of The Absurd" had discussions on the idea and techniques of the "theatre of the absurd," with specific attention to plays of principal practitioners.

Senate scores again

We hit the Student Senate pretty hard the other day — and to no avail

We must retract one statement made earlier, however. We no longer have a "do-nothing" Senate, we now have a very, very confused do-nothing Senate.

Early in the meeting Tuesday night, the Senate voted unanimously to condemn the administration for last week's censoring of The Catalyst. Oh, the Senators were up in arms and, in the same resolution, they called for a commission to be appointed by Student Association President Jay Thompson. That commission would investigate any cases of censorship on campus. Fine.

AS THE MEETING rolled on, the Senate considered a proposal to install a centrally located "opinion board" in the Tech Union. The purpose of the board was to serve as a replacement for the fences surrounding Tech construction projects. As the buildings are completed, the fences will be removed, and the Senate apparently thought an opinion board would effectively serve as a place where students could air their complaints and opinions.

The Senate liked the idea so well that they almost unanimously passed a measure calling for executive steps to be taken to get the board installed.

EVEN LATER in the meeting, one Senator moved to reconsider the previous motion which called for installation of the opinion board. He wanted to reconsider on grounds that a portion of the bill was unclear. That portion said, in effect, the only restriction on the board would be that students observe "decency."

Almost immediately, the Senate became embroiled over the question of who would determine what is to be considered decent. One student proposed that the aforementioned commission to investigate campus censorship should be the body to determine what was acceptable to place on the board.

The proposals went even further. One Senator asked that the board be enclosed in a glass case that anyone wanting to post something in the case would have to get his statement cleared through some committee. The Senate defeated his proposals rather solidly, but in the final vote to determine whether the board should be requested, the Senate passed the motion by only 16-13.

WE DO NOT criticize the Senate so much for taking the time to go back and consider a previous motion. That is, at least, an understandable problem. However, the basis for reconsideration turned out to be censoring of the opinion board. In the end, it was determined that Senators would be responsible for policing the board.

May we say thank you to the Senators who abhorred the administration for censoring The Catalyst, but felt it was okay for the Senate to "police" (in their words) an opinion board. At no time during the meeting did any Senator suggest to his colleagues that it was somewhat inconsistent to condemn the administration for censorship, then set the Senate up as a censoring body.

NOR DID ANY Senator suggest that it was strange to call for a commission to investigate campus censorship, then attempt to have that same commission serve as censors for an opinion board in the Union.

Furthermore, the Senate was wasting its time because Union Director Nelson is the man who controls activities within the Union. The Senate was not even going about the problem as if they were only able to advise, their actions indicated that they felt whatever they decided would become reality.

Perhaps the most inconsistent point, however, is the unanimous Senate statement which condemned the administration for "depriving students of the right to decide what is objectionable." Obviously, the Senate forgot that they have no more right to do that than the administration.

WE ATTENDED the meeting wondering if perhaps we had been a little too harsh on the Senate in our previous editorial. Student Senators of Texas Tech University — thank you for setting our minds at ease.

Letters To The Editor

Asks for student opinion on stadium seating problem

campus organizations that wish to sit together. This did not include the band and Saddle Tramps. They would retain their usual positions in the stands.

This plan was rejected principally for two reasons.

The first was that the $1 charge was considered to be too much and secondly that too many students would want reserved seats causing long lines and confusion at the ticket office.

The plan, as rejected by the Senate, was designed as follows:

Reserved seat tickets would be sold for $1 each with an ID card, starting at the 50 yard line and moving across the student section. All remaining seats would then be allotted in the usual manner, first come-first serve.

The card section would be eliminated except for Homecoming and Dad's Day and moved into the end zone seats on these two occasions.

A special section was allotted for organizations in the upper corner of the student section where blocks of up to 50 seats could be bought by the various seat ticket if the plan was adopted?

3) Do you think the price of $1 per ticket is too much?

If you have an opinion concerning the seating situation, it would be a great help to the Senate if you, the student, would contact your senator and express your views on these questions. In this way perhaps the Senate can adopt a plan that the students want and also help erase its image as a do nothing organization on campus.

In order to keep from being drawn and quartered by my fellow senators, I ask that you do not tell him of all the alternate plans that you think would be best. Please confine your remarks to the questions asked in this letter.

If this small survey shows that the students do not agree with this plan, the Student Life Committee will go to work trying to find another plan that is as fair as possible to all. Let me emphasize that any plan that is adopted need not be permanent. If one plan is adopted for a season and the students prefer the old method, the old seating plan can always be readopted for the following season.

In any case, I feel that a new system is needed and the system outlined here is the best possible system for Tech.

Grad student says Catalyst serves need

The recent controversy over the banning of The Catalyst raises some basic issues for the academic community at Tech. Some of the questions which must receive careful consideration are:

1. The merits of censorship. 2. What is the editorial policy of the editors and publishers of The Catalyst? 3. Are they responsible journalists? 4. What are the journalistic or literary merits of The Catalyst? 5. Is The Catalyst serving a need?

1. Censorship of The Catalyst has not served the purposes of the Tech administration since banning the paper has drawn attention to it and will probably increase its circulation.

2. A catalyst is some agent which facilitates a reaction. One might assume then that the purpose of The Catalyst is to get its readers to react. Certainly this is a worthy aim, since so many of our citizenry are so apathetic about the burning issues of our day. There is a need to get people to react to poverty, prejudice, corruption, injustice.

3. A journalist is responsible when he exerts his every effort to get at the truth. Next he works at communicating these facts as objectively as he can. Though muckraking, sensationalism and distortion often sell more papers, he avoids these cheap ways of getting a headline. Should he be a humorist or columnist, entertainment is his goal and he relies on the less rigorous and more creative devices of the fictional writer.

4. To judge the literary or journalistic merit of The Catalyst without having read it would be unfair. All this write knows is that the recent issue allegedly ridiculed Tech faculty in parody and employed certain indiscrete Anglo-Saxonisms.

As U.D. feature editor Dave Burket has mentioned, "Esquire uses it every month." One wonders what logical point Burket is making? Certainly there are hundreds of quality publications which don't rely on basic four-letter words to speak to their readership. Limiting oneself to such a vocabulary seems to inhibit rather than to enhance the clarity of communication, except when the content of communication is very elemental.

Certainly one must agree with Burket when he says that Tech students are mature enough to judge for themselves. If we don't give them the opportunity how can we expect them ever to learn?

5. In recent decades scores of newspapers have disappeared because of the inability to meet high production costs. Certainly there is a real need for newspapers. We need not discuss the relevance of a free press to the proper functioning of a democracy. There is a dearth of good newspapers to provide the variety of opinion essential to those willing to keep their minds open to new ideas. Without question then, we may say that The Catalyst is serving a need.

If it is a responsible journal of fact and opinion it is helping to fill a void in an intellectual community served by only one or two newspapers. A responsible journal encourages the free exchange of ideas and promotes activism toward the perennial evils of our society.

If The Catalyst is a paper catering to readers comprehending a vocabulary limited to words of four or less letters, it is, nevertheless, serving a need. Persons with poor reading skills require practice reading anything, whether it be comics or signboards.

If The Catalyst is an outlet for the negativism of adolescent minds struggling with unresolved conflicts with authority figures in its narrow range of perception, it is providing a relatively harmless outlet for these hostilities. Regrettably some harm may come to the reputations of Tech faculty or administration who most represent some degree of authority to maintain the integrity of the university.

If The Catalyst is a paper of the muckraking, sensationalist variety whose purpose is to stir up trouble, it is definitely serving the needs of persons with personalities which can find no satisfaction in building a world of reason and understanding, but achieve ecstasy in destroying anything and everything.

In conclusion, we may reiterate that The Catalyst is serving a need. The question is, "Whose needs is it serving?" This writer will have to read a copy to find out.

A graduate psychology student (Name on file, but withheld at writer's request.)

Let's keep it straight

I saw the play "Hair" last summer and typically the old folks were so tripped up and grossed out by the superficial little nasty words that they completely missed the whole point of the play. The same goes when these people read underground papers. Everybody is aware of the nude scene in "Hair" because the mass media must have had some kind of fetish over it. But in reality, it was only 10 seconds long, and if any thing, it was the least offensive part of the play.

To become sexually aroused by such a scene in the context it was given, would be similar to molesting the nude statues and paintings in the Museum. But on the other hand, some of our dedicated leaders were attempting to remove some of those "nasty" works of art in our own Museum.

An obscenity is in the eye of the beholder. The Supreme Court arrived at this deduction after discovering the futility of attempting to determine what is obscene for each individual. Some people find horses offensive ... our administration finds the little words in The Catalyst too obscene for college kids (sic) that are in the vocabulary of every fifth grader and are inscribed on the walls of every filling station restroom in Amerika (sic). I find portions of the La Ventana very obscene, so I think it is only fair that such a lewd publication should be banned from the campus next issue.

In the case of the U. D. however, you objected to the lack of objective reporting on the part of The Catalyst. But the very next day, a rather biased account of Governor "Schmidt's" speech in Dallas appeared. Let's keep it straight, fellas. I did enjoy the editorial. I also enjoy The Catalyst ... I just hope it can remain.

Summer school offered overseas by MSU office

Michigan State University is offering credit courses in England, Spain, France, Austria, Norway and Japan during the summer, the MSU Office of Overseas Study announced today.

It is also offering non-credit language courses in France, Germany, Switzerland, Spain and Italy.

The credit courses are open to sophomores, juniors, seniors and graduate students. They offer American students an opportunity to continue their university education, while investigating the culture and getting to know the people of one or more countries.

Sophomores may study social science or the history of western man in London; juniors, political science in London, and seniors, comparative criminal justice in London. Third year language students may continue German in Vienna, French in Paris or Spanish in Barcelona. Graduate students may pursue comparative education in Tokyo or comparative social work in Oslo.

All are taught by MSU faculty, experienced in the country involved. The students are housed on a university campus with an American resident adviser.

The non-credit language courses include German in Cologne; French in Paris or Lausanne, Switzerland; Spanish in Barcelona or Madrid, and Italian in Florence.

Because an effort is made to immerse the student in the culture, as well as to increase his fluency in the language, he is taught by a native instructor and, except in Paris housed with a native family.

Plantation fire destroys crop in 'pot' crackdown

CULIACAN, Mexico (AP) — Assistant U.S. Attorney Richard Kleindienst went with his Mexican counterpart David Franco Rodriguez into the hills of the western state of Sinaloa Wednesday where Mexican troops destroyed more than 250,000 marijuana plants.

Kleindienst and Rodriguez watched as the troops set fire to the plantation located in a deep ravine. It was the first strike of Mexican troops in the government's two-month intensified campaign against marijuana. The plant is reported growing in more than 10 Mexican states.

As he watched the smoke of the marijuana plants Rodriguez said: "We will give no quarter in this war against narcotics. We will use all means at our disposal, we will spare no effort or expense... we aim to exterminate this evil."

Rodriguez told Kleindienst that he estimates that approximately 600 marijuana and poppy plantations will go up in smoke during the first two weeks of the campaign.

The first plantation was located in the mountains near the town of San Pedro Bacubirito.

The troops, armed with flamethrowers, were taken into the mountains by helicopters and then, accompanied by Rodriguez and Kleindienst, walked into the mountains.

The ruggedness of the terrain makes the operation difficult. Troops use helicopters, small planes and even mules when necessary to reach marijuana plantations.

The U.S. attorney, who confessed that he expected the fields to be "much more accessible," said he was satisfied with the way the campaign was going.

"They are very tricky," he said, referring to the marijuana growers. The plantations are usually found in areas where other plants grow and hide the marijuana plant.

He said that he was aware that many of the plantations are "financed by U.S. citizens."

Referring to the recent one million dollar U.S. contribution to the joint effort against narcotics traffic, the assistant U.S. attorney said: "Both countries have offered to fight the cultivation and traffic of marijuana and this is something that will benefit the United States and Mexico."

The U.S. has complained recently that a large percentage of the marijuana sold in the United States comes from Mexico and urged Mexican authorities to crack down on drug traffic. The recent Operation Intercept—a strict customs revision at U.S. border points—was interpreted as a U.S. maneuver to force Mexico into adapting stronger anti-marijuana measures.

The Mexican government criticized Operation Intercept and President Diaz Ordaz called it a "bureaucratic mistake."

Later both countries agreed to combine their efforts in a joint campaign against narcotics.

GOP funds ready

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican party is rich enough in money and experience to mount two major Texas campaigns in addition to perhaps eight congressional races, Sen. John Tower said yesterday.

Tower spoke as Paul Eggers, Treasury Department counsel, flew to Texas presumably to announce on Thursday his candidacy for governor on the Republican ticket.

Tower, chairman of the Senate Republican Campaign Committee, said he believes that Rep. George Bush will get many donations through the committee in his GOP race for the Senate.

Tower said also he feels that Republicans can hold the three congressional seats they now have and challenge Democrats in four or five other congressional races.

He declined to say which districts he had in mind, but said he was not discouraging an aide, Richard Staley, from seriously considering running against Rep. Graham Purcell, Wichita Falls Democrat.

Staley is Tower's appointee as Republican counsel on the Senate housing subcommittee.

Tower said he thinks Lloyd Bentsen will have a tough time beating Sen. Ralph Yarborough in the Democratic primary.

The entry of Bentsen, a conservative former congressman, may drain some donations from Bush's campaign. Tower said, but if Bentsen beats Yarborough he thinks Bush will still be able to whip Bentsen.

He said he expects both Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to campaign for the GOP ticket in Texas.

Maxi's cause car entering problems

NEW YORK (AP)—Girls who've finally mastered the art of slithering in and out of a car in a miniskirt, now find they need a new set of wriggles if they're to manage in a maxi.

The Chicago Motor Club issued some advice for maxicoat wearers, suggesting they wear with the extra length and fabric by lifting the coat slightly, backing into the seat and settling the skirt on either side of the legs.

Girls who've combined maxicoating and motoring have their own ideas and say the longer garments present both advantages and disadvantages.

"You've got to unbutton the coat at least halfway," advised one girl, "or you won't be able to get your feet apart."

"Don't even try putting on a seat belt," warned another young woman. "The extra fabric of the skirt that's usually bunched up behind you makes it impossible."

"Just make sure it doesn't get caught in the door," suggested a third girl.

Astronauts flying restrictions lifted

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Three astronauts grounded last month took to the air again this week, flying T-38 jets from Ellington Air Force Base, space agency officials said yesterday.

Flight restrictions on astronauts Alan Bean, Walter Cunningham and Joseph Kerwin were removed Monday, officials said, and they flew that same day.

Officials said on Jan. 6 that the astronauts would resume flying on Jan. 28, but a spokesman said yesterday that that date was in error.

The spokesman said the three astronauts were grounded for 30 days on a verbal command by Donald K. Slayton, chief of flight crew operations. Slayton gave the command on Dec. 19 and followed it with a written order on Dec. 23. The official announcement used Dec. 23 as the base date for the grounding.

Bean, the lunar module pilot on Apollo 12 and the fourth man to walk on the moon, was grounded for taking off from Ellington Air Force Base in a T-38 jet without clearance. Officials said that a communications error caused him to think he had clearance.

Cunningham, a crewman on Apollo 7, and Kerwin, a scientist astronaut who has not flown into space, were grounded for not filing plans to land at an alternate airport in case of an emergency after taking off from Ellington.

All three of the space men are eligible for consideration as members of future space flight crews.

Facts sought in Dec. 7 hit-run death of officer

AUSTIN—The Texas Department of Public Safety today issued a special public appeal for any kind of information which might lead to the apprehension of a hit-and-run driver whose car struck and killed a young highway patrolman on US 80 east of Weatherford, Parker County, at 2:43 a.m. Sunday, December 7.

Patrolman Douglas Thompson, 26, married and the father of a five-year-old son, was killed by the hit-and-run car while standing at the side of the road interviewing a traffic violator. The car sped on at a high rate of speed after the impact without any sign of hesitation.

Specifically, the DPS is seeking information that might help locate the killer car which has been identified as a white, 1960 model Ford "Fairlane" or "Fairlane 500" four-door with damage to the front right side. The damage included the loss of the right front fender ornament, which was found at the scene, along with a 43-inch long chrome strip from the right front door. Also found at the scene were the first two letters—"Fa"—which had been knocked off the "Fairlane" emblem on the side of the right front fender.

Reason for the renewed appeal for assistance in locating this car, said Col. Wilson E. Speir, DPS Director, is the belief that several reported "leads" which didn't prove out may have led people to think the death car had been located.

"We again earnestly solicit the help of anyone who might recall having seen such a vehicle in the past four or five weeks on the road, or perhaps being repaired at a repair shop, back-yard garage, or some seemingly inconspicuous place," Speir explained.

"We are determined to continue the search for this vehicle and its driver whose wanton act of lawlessness in leaving the death scene should be dealt with accordingly."

The DPS called upon any citizen who might have information he thinks would be helpful in this case to contact either of the following:

—Bob Andrews, Texas Highway Patrol, Box 329, Weatherford, 76086—Telephone: Area Code 817, 594-6936, or

—Tom Arnold, Texas Ranger, 300 West Belknap, Fort Worth, 76102—Telephone: Area Code 817, 336-9541, or —The nearest office of the Highway Patrol or Texas Rangers, which is listed under "Texas Department of Public Safety" in the telephone book.

BOB BASS

Bob Bass, former coach of the ABA's Denver Rockets and the man who has been picked to enrich Tech's cage fortunes, has returned to college athletics and is laying a solid foundation to build the Red Raiders into a basketball power.

With a positive attitude and an optimistic view toward the future the energetic Oklahoma native has set the stage for a new era at Tech.

Wherever Bass has gone, be it high school, college, or professional basketball, he has always been a winner. In fact his last losing season came in 1953-54, in his second year at the helm of Oklahoma Baptist University.

Bass built OBU's basketball program from the ground and established the small Baptist college into a NAIA cage power. His teams won six Oklahoma Collegiate Conference championships, went to the national tourney six times, and in 1966 won the NAIA national title. His teams were NAIA runnersup in 1965 and 1967. Bass compiled a national tournament record of 14 wins and five losses, and in 1966-67 he was picked by the nation's basketball writers as NAIA National Coach of the Year.

While at OBU, Bass, who doubled as athletic director, compiled a winning mark of 65.3 per cent and was near 70 per cent in conference competition. In 15 years, OBU won 275 games while losing 146.

While at Tech, Bass won his first three games and went on to compile a 7-4 non-conference record.

In Southwest Conference play the Raiders stand 1-1 dropping the season's opener to Rice, 86-85. Tuesday, Bass and the Raiders walked over SMU, 90-60, laying groundwork for Saturday's meeting with TCU.

Fountain fund $6,000 richer

With a recent $6,000 donation, the entry fountain in the Amon G. Carter Plaza at Tech was given a boost on its way to completion.

The fund raising drive, sponsored by the Saddle Tramps, a men's spirit organization, was aided by donations of $5,000 from the Amon G. Carter Foundation in Fort Worth and a gift of $1,000 from William "Brigham" Young and his wife, also of Fort Worth.

The gift was presented by Young, who is the founder and chief executive of the National Farm Life Insurance Company and a Tech graduate and former football player. The Fort Worth insurance executive represented the university in negotiating with the Amon G. Carter Foundation for the contribution.

According to Jerry Lane, head of the Saddle Tramp fund raising committee, $10,000 had already been collected by the group during this school year. Lane said that an additional $48,000 is needed to complete the fountain.

The first phase of the Amon G. Carter Plaza fountain is located near the Broadway entrance to the campus.

Nixon polishes tonight's speech

(AP)—President Nixon, putting the finishing touches on his State of the Union message, said yesterday that "some needed federal programs simply will have to be postponed, so that we live within our means."

Nixon had said earlier that he would talk in general terms about budget restraint and the anti-inflation program when he goes to the Capitol today for a 12:30 p.m. appearance at a joint Senate-House session. The President's reading of his message will be broadcast live by television and radio networks.

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE had no announced appointments yesterday. He worked on final drafts of his address and conferred with key staff aides including H. R. Haldeman, Henry A. Kissinger, John D. Ehrlichman, Bryce N. Harlow, Peter M. Flanigan and Daniel P. Moynihan.

In the morning, Nixon issued a statement which called on private enterprise to postpone capital

Phi Eta Sigma seeks members

Phi Eta Sigma, national men's honor society, is seeking eligible students for membership.

James G. Allen, faculty advisor for the club, said that any male student who averaged an A in one-half of his semester hours and a B in the other half, with a load of at least 12 hours in the first regular semester as a freshman, is eligible.

Students who failed to make the required average for the first semester may qualify by making this average for the whole of the first two regular semesters.

Students interested should go by room 117 of the English Building or call 742-8627 for a request for a grade check.

Irate parents organize better located school

CENTER, Tex. (AP) — Some residents of Center prepared Wednesday to set up their own school after the district's schools were integrated Tuesday.

A few parents appeared at the school integration to protest, but there was no disorder.

Jazz Ensemble presents free evening concert

Tech's Jazz Ensemble, directed by Paul T. Mazzacano, will present a concert at 8:15 p.m. today in Tech University Theater.

The performance will be open to the public at no charge.

The swinging sounds of the nation's leading big bands — Basie, Ellington, Kenton and Russo — will be represented on the program, including a special arrangement of "MacArthur Park" and "Ode to Billy Joe," featuring ensemble members Gary Rackley and Don Dennis.

John Farrell of the Tech music faculty will be the guest artist. Soloists will include Robert Mayes and Ricky Vaughn on trumpets, Rackley on saxophone, Bill Schwartz on trombone, Randy Driver on vibraphone, Jerry Wyatt on drums and Dave Bentley, guitarist.

Mazzacano, who joined the

spending where possible so more money can be available for housing.

IT WAS IN this document that he touched on his forthcoming budget for the 1971 fiscal year that begins July 1:

"In order to maintain a surplus in the budget, I have cut federal spending to the minimum possible levels this year and next. Some needed federal programs simply will have to be postponed, so that we live within our means. This will help free resources for housing."

NIXON WENT ON to say, "I urge the private sector to follow this example by also postponing avoidable expenditures and increasing savings."

Nixon spoke about "the crisis situation we are facing in the housing of our people."

Paul McCracken, chairman of his Council of Economic Advisors, put it more bluntly in talking to newsmen at the White House:

"I think it's fair to say the housing industry is in a recession."

HOWEVER, MCCracken said that, where the over-all economy is concerned, "I don't see any evidence yet that would make me think we are moving into a recession."

He went on to predict a slowdown in the rate of inflation in the last half of this year.

New scholarship begun for athletes

Tech athletes will be given an additional kickoff in the education game by the establishment of the Allen "Chuff" Benton Athletic Scholarship Fund. To date, the scholarship fund has 100 donors with over $3,300 contributed. The fund was originally organized by friends and family in memory of Benton's interest in Tech athletics. Benton was a former president of the Red Raider Club.

The Texas Tech University Foundation will hold the contributed funds and invest them until such time as the principal reaches the sum that will annually produce at least a $1,000 athletic scholarship. Any return over $1,000 a year will be reinvested in the fund, and any additional contributions shall be likewise deposited to the fund.

Researcher's discovery may aid in brush control

High soil temperature at a depth of 18 inches may prove a key factor in killing mesquite, the noxious plant which is destroying Texas rangeland.

Dr. Billie E. Dahl, of Tech's Department of Range and Wildlife Management, said the 18-inch depth temperature proved to have a strong bearing on the kill ratio of mesquite in a two-year study.

"It was a surprise finding for us," said Dahl, who led the brush control research team. "Probably the most neglected environmental characteristic affecting translocation of chemical within a plant is temperature in general and soil temperature in particular."

"There is, however, little doubt about our finding in this particular study. We found no correlation of soil temperature to kill at depths of 12 inches or less or at 24 inches or more, but we did find a strong correlation at 18 inches below the surface."

He said an 82 degree temperature at an 18-inch depth in June had the highest correlation to kill.

"With our range of soil temperatures," he said, "the higher the temperatures the better the mesquite kill."

"Soil temperature at the 18-inch depth proved to be the one characteristic best related to mesquite kill with 2,4,5-T in this study," Dahl's report said. "It was an even better predictor of plant susceptibility than stage of growth for the June applications. For the July applications it was equally as good a predictor as stage of growth."

A correlation coefficient, relating plant kill to various environmental measurements for June herbicide treatments, showed soil temperature at 18 inches at .715 and phenological development (stage of growth) at .613. A correlation coefficient of .532 is considered "significant."

The 2,4,5-T used is a growth regulating hormone which causes imbalances in growth which, in turn, bring about the plant kill.

Earlier studies by other scientists, Dahl said, rarely mention soil temperature although one project revealed "not significant influence of temperature at the 10-inch depth on herbicidal effectiveness on velvet mesquite." The Tech study would corroborate this.

"Our finding will require a great deal more study," Dahl said, adding that in future research he will be looking for a means to compensate chemically for low temperatures at the 18-inch depth.

In the study, four application dates were evaluated for each of two growing seasons at 14 sites on the Post-Montgomery (UU) Ranch near Post, in Garza and Lynn counties. Five trees at each site were sprayed individually on each treatment date, using the manufacturer's recommendation for the spray mixture.

Dahl's report now is being edited for publication and will be included in a report of Brush Control Studies at Tech.

Working with Dahl were graduate students Melvin R. George, Criddle, Calif., and Jim Talbot, Uvalde, and Robert B.

Senator says committee needs pro-birth control pill witnesses

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican member of the Senate subcommittee investigating birth control pills said yesterday the inquiry has "probably terrified a number of women around the country."

"There has been a strong ratio of antipill witnesses, maybe not by design but by fact," said Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas.

"There should be an attempt to balance the testimony," he added, while at another point suggesting that safety of the pill should be up to "the doctor-patient relationship instead of the senators."

Dole commented while questioning one of three witnesses called as the monopoly subcommittee, headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., resumed hearings that began last week. The hearings will continue today and tomorrow.

After the witness, David B. Clark of the University of Kentucky Medical Center, stepped down, Nelson rejected Dole's criticism although not addressing himself directly to the Kansas.

Nelson said that of the eight witnesses who testified last week of suspected links between the pill and a wide variety of ailments including cancer, only two were critical of oral contraceptives.

He said the others simply gave objective testimony on reports of what others had done linking the pill to disease.

Nelson said the subcommittee plans to hear all viewpoints over the next several months and that all companies making birth control pills have been invited.

Teague takes IM post

James Teague, a new Intramural supervisor for team sports, assumed duties of the newly created office Friday in the Tech Intramurals Program.

Teague, with the assistance of three graduate students, will supervise all team activities in the Intramurals program. Team activities were included in the responsibilities of William Holsberry, Assistant Director of Intramurals.

Edsel Buchanan, Director of Tech Intramurals, said, "We consider the addition extremely important. It will allow stronger and closer supervision of the teams. It cannot help but to make us more aware of student problems and through this awareness we can better improve our program for the students."

Teague graduated from Floydada High School where he lettered in basketball, football and track. He played basketball for two years at Lubbock Christian College before coming to Tech where he received his Masters Degree of Education in 1966.

While at Tech, Teague served two years as graduate assistant in the Intramural department.

After graduation, he taught P.E. and served as head basketball coach and assistant football coach at Wilson Junior High for three years.

In 1968, Teague moved to Albuquerque where he taught P.E. in Coronado Elementary School until his appointment on the Tech Intramural staff.

He is a member of the National Intramural Association.

"I prefer a physical education realm of this type," said Teague. "We need more student involvement and better facilities, but I'm sure students realize this better than we do."

Percival heads All-Star roster

Members of the Tech All-Stars began arriving in Lubbock yesterday in preparation for the Stars meeting with the Harlem Stars tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the Coliseum.

Mac Percival and Gene Arrington of the Chicago Bears and Ed Mooney of the Detroit Lions are among Tech's exes arriving for the event.
