

Homecoming Activities Are Set

Homecoming activities will officially get underway at 2:30 p.m. next Friday with the Ex-Students association council meeting to be held in the Recreation hall Green room.

A pep rally will be held at 7 p.m. next Friday followed by a bonfire south of the Gymnasium. Class reunions also will be held that night at designated spots according to graduation year.

Classes of 1927 to 1938 will convene in the Hotel Lubbock, '44 to '48, Doak hall, and '49 to '51, Drane hall.

Dormitory decorations will be judged at 8 p.m. after the pep rally.

The annual Homecoming parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. Oct. 27. It will start at the Lubbock courthouse and be routed out Broadway to Tech.

Thirty-four floats will participate in the pageant.

Trophies for best dormitory decorations and floats will be presented by Al Alschuler and Lucian Thomas, respectively, during the Ex-Students luncheon at 1 p.m. Oct. 27 in the Gymnasium.

Highlighting Homecoming activities will be the football game between the Red Raiders and Wildcats of the University of Arizona, Tucson, Ariz. at 2 p.m. in Jones stadium.

Individual social functions honoring exes will be held all day.

Concluding the Homecoming program will be an Ex-Students dance from 9 p.m. until midnight in the Gymnasium.

REHEARSAL TIME—Gerald Wayne Tippit, center, as Mr. McGregor, teases Jo Simmons, left, as Johnny, while Frances Gibbs, right, as Johnny's grandmother looks on in a rehearsal scene from the speech department play "My Heart's in the Highlands," to be presented Oct. 29 through Nov. 3 in the Speech auditorium.

Three Aggie Judging Teams Win Honors In Kansas City Intercollegiate Contest

Three Tech agricultural judging teams have returned from Kansas City, where they participated in intercollegiate livestock, wool and meat judging contests Oct. 13-16.

The Tech wool judging team amassed 1,523 points to rank fifth, being topped by only Nebraska, Michigan State, Colorado State and Penn State. The team rated first in the grading of wool contest, and third in the judging of breed fleeces contest, but failed to place high in the judging of commercial fleeces contest.

S. L. Mullins of Eden and Ronnie Fee, Colorado City, won first and second honors, respectively, as individual wool graders. Other members of the team were Paul Gross, Levelland, and Palmer Willis, Odessa.

Tech Ranks Twelfth

In the livestock judging contest, Tech ranked 12th out of 19 teams from 18 states. The team rated fourth in the quarter-horse division, and ninth in the cattle division. Members of the team included Gross, Billy Lewis, Lovington, N.M.; Robert Warren, Lubbock; Kenneth Burgess, Earth; Willis, and George Keith, Whiteface. Stanley E. Anderson, assistant professor of animal husbandry, coached and accompanied the team.

The third Tech team ranked ninth out of 11 teams in the meat judging contest. Third places were won in lamb grading, lamb carcass judging and pork carcass judging contests. Members of this team were Bill Ricketts, Grand Prairie, who rated third in lamb judging; James N. Thorton, San Saba, fifth in pork judging; Volney Hildreth, Aledo; and Fee. Fred W. Boren, assistant professor of animal husbandry, accompanied the group.

Smoker Will End Membership Drive

Tech Military association's membership drive will end Tuesday, according to Jim Howell, president.

Membership drive will conclude with a smoker in the Extension auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Program will include "refreshments, a film of the Baylor vs. Tech game, cigarette girls and an assortment of jokes," Howell continued.

"All cadets who think they would like to become associated with the organization are urged to attend," Howell said. Students eligible to join are ROTC cadets who are in good standing.

Objective of this organization is to foster fellowship, unite different parts of the ROTC, sponsor social functions and be of service to the school.

Deadline Is Set For Photo Proofs

"Students who have not picked up proofs for their La Ventana pictures are urged to do so immediately," said Dick Brooks, editor.

If students do not decide on pictures for the yearbook soon, the staff will have to choose the prints used in the annual.

Students who did not pay for a picture during registration, but who want a photo in the yearbook, may pay the studio at the time the pictures are made.

Deadlines for proofs to be returned are Thursday, sophomores; Nov. 1, juniors, and Nov. 10, seniors. The freshman deadline was Thursday.

The studio is located at 1211 College ave.

High School Students To Attend Saturday Conference At Tech

Approximately 1,000 high school students from the Panhandle and South Plains will attend a Student Activities conference Saturday at Tech, according to Dr. P. Merville Larson, chairman of the conference.

A general session in the Aggie auditorium at 9 a.m., with a welcome by J. Roy Wells, will begin the conference. James G. Allen, dean of student life, will speak on "Student Organization on the College Campus, Are They Worth It?"

At 9:55 p.m. the session will adjourn with students divided into sectional meetings. In the journalism division Charles M. Rogers, superintendent of Amarillo public schools, will speak on "The Value of Student Publications to the School." Bluford B. Hestir, director of the Texas Interscholastic League Press conference, will report on the Silver anniversary year of the Press conference.

Students Asked To Help Gather Bonfire Material

Collection of scrap lumber for the Homecoming bonfire will begin Monday at 7 p.m. south of the gym, according to Joel Werther, Saddle Tramp committee chairman.

Students wanting to help gather material are urged to meet with the group every night. Anyone knowing the location of fairly large amounts of scrap lumber, wood, paper boxes, or having a pick-up truck that can be used for hauling, are asked to notify Werther at Sneed hall.

Saddle Tramps will guard material to be used in the bonfire, it was announced. Lumber will be stacked in the open space north of Men's dorm IV.

Speech Highlight

A highlight of the speech section will be a panel discussion concerning children's theaters lead by D. M. Howell, Lubbock high school, assisted by Jack Cogdill, Plainview Junior high school and Billie Hutchings, Pampa high school. The interscholastic one-act play contest will be discussed by Bruce Roach, director of the contest, from the University of Texas.

Extemporaneous speaking students will hear talks on the preparation of the speech and a round table discussion of problems in extemporaneous speaking. Dr. Larson will give a speech entitled, "Is Oratory a Lost Art?" Those interested in radio will attend a session with Dr. Wallace Jackson of Tech. N. E. Thompson of KFYO, Lubbock, will speak on "Radio and You."

Three Discussion Groups

Three discussion groups in journalism will be held from 10:50 to 11:45. Mimeographed newspapers, make-up and typography groups will be lead by Miss Mabel Hare, Panhandle, J. Russell Heitman, Tech, and Lloyd A. Whitfield, Tech, respectively.

The afternoon session for the journalism section will include a talk by Culver Hill, advertising manager of Hemphill-Wells company; group discussions on yearbooks, newspaper editorial pages, news gathering and news writing and features, and two groups on newspaper and yearbook production.

A debate to be given by Lubbock and Amarillo debate teams will be analyzed by a critic's panel, composed of Waggoner Carr, state representative, and Hugh A. Anderson, professor of economics at Tech.

Sessions on declamation, interpretation and speech therapy will end the conference.

Museum Association Meeting Features Ranch Supper, Indian Fashion Show

An Indian style show highlighted the twenty-third annual meeting of the West Texas Museum association Thursday according to Miss Ina Bacon Museum secretary.

A board of directors meeting was held in room 101 of the Museum at 5 p.m. with Dr. Sam G. Dunn, president, presiding.

A ranch supper is scheduled for 6 p.m. in Aggie grove.

Following the supper a program was presented in the Museum auditorium. This program began with a welcome address by Dr. Dunn. After this officers for the new year were elected.

An Indian fashion show was presented by Frederic H. Douglas, curator of native art at Denver Art museum. This collection of Indian dresses has been shown in over 50 cities to art schools, fashion groups, colleges and museums. Douglas was narrator for the show, giving background on each tribe represented.

Represented were 32 authentic Indian costumes which are made from buckskin, wool, silk and cedar bark.

"There may be larger Indian collections, but this one is considered the most comprehensive, representing a greater variety of tribes and types of clothing, than any other in the United States," Miss Bacon said.

Mrs. Grace Goodwin of Lubbock sang "From the Land of the Sky, Blue Water" and "Pale Moon" during intermission of the fashion show.

Song, Ex-Techsan Writes From Korea

Thousands of miles and 18 years separate Mrs. Laura Song of Seoul, Korea, from Tech campus, but even in these troubled times she still keeps up her correspondence with Dean Margaret Weeks, head of the home economics division.

Mrs. Song, a 1933 graduate of Tech, formerly taught home economics in Ewah college at Seoul. It is the largest womens' college in Korea.

"Last year in December we had to get out of Seoul, so Sung Soo, my boy, and I left and came to Pusan," she wrote. "I cannot tell you all the hardships we have met so far, but I am thankful we are still alive."

In describing the life of the children of the country she added, "They have to study in the mountains or the coast side which is pitiful. Sung Soo has to walk four miles to school each day."

Dean Weeks said that this is the first letter she has received from Mrs. Song since the Korean war began.

New Music Club Selects Officers

An organizational meeting for men interested in music was held Oct. 13 to discuss possible membership in Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, a national honorary music fraternity.

Tech Men's Music club was chosen as the temporary name.

Paul Laverty was elected president; Tim Magness, vice-president; Ned Hardin, secretary; Bill Brewer, treasurer; Hubert Waddill, reporter-historian, and Hardy Clemons, parliamentarian.

Dr. T. Smith McCorkle, province governor of Phi Mu Alpha and dean of fine arts at Texas Christian university, will visit the Tech campus Tuesday to discuss chartering the chapter.

The last open meeting is set for 1 p.m. Saturday in X3B to plan a meeting date. The club is open to men students who are enrolled in any music course.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 22...THE WOODPECKER

Woodrow almost bit off more than he could chew when he tackled the cigarette tests! But he pecked away 'til he smoked out the truth: Such an important item as mildness can't be tossed off in a fleeting second! A "swift sniff" or a "perfunctory puff" proves practically nothing! He, like millions of smokers, found one test that doesn't leave you up a tree.

It's the sensible test... the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke—on a day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've enjoyed Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Wanted—A Vital Alma Mater . . .

A school song is a vital thing, uniting thousands of students into one, expressing in music the emotions few people can put into words.

For this reason it seems a pity that when Tech students jump to their feet at the first strains of the Matador Song they are not standing for our school song, that our official anthem is seldom played and is little known on the campus.

It was rather painful to watch the reactions when the official school song was played at the last convocation. A few students got to their feet immediately, the rest struggled up slowly with puzzled expressions on their faces.

We decided to conduct an unofficial poll for our own interest and the results were rather surprising. In reply to the question, "Can you tell me the name of the official school song?", every freshman interviewed answered either, "I don't know," or "The Matador Song, isn't it?" About two-thirds of the upperclassmen questioned answered, "Well, I know it isn't the Matador Song but I'm not sure just exactly what it is."

The school song, for those who don't know, is "Oh, College Mother, Beautiful," sung to the tune of "America the Beautiful."

There were, of course, a good many students who did know what the song was. Of these we asked, "Do you like it?" Most of them answered an emphatic "No," giving various reasons for their dislike.

One reason given was that the tune was too common. Such students would like to have a completely new song written—one with an original tune that could be "all ours."

One student polled liked "Oh, College Mother, Beautiful." Perhaps others feel the same way and would like to have an all-out campaign in which everyone learned the song and we began to use it, to play it on those occasions when we feel the need for an alma mater.

Many students feel, however, that because of the almost universal love for the Matador Song here at Tech, it should be declared the official song. A few would like to have the wording changed somewhat so that it would not be expressive of a fight song and would therefore be more appropriate for solemn occasions, such as commencement.

Can anything be done about the situation? The answer is yes. If a petition containing 100 names were presented to the Student Council, a general election by the student body could be called.

The next question is, what do we want to do about it? We might have a ballot worded something like this:

I am in favor of:

- (A) Retaining the present school song, "Oh, College Mother, Beautiful."
- (B) Changing the school song to the Matador Song.
 - (1) Leaving the Matador Song as it is
 - (2) Changing the wording of the Matador Song.
- (C) Having a completely new song written.

If the vote were in favor of having a new song written, then one or two tunes could be worked out, possibly through the band, and the favorite could be picked in another general election.

But whatever the outcome of such a student poll, Techsians deserve to have an official school song which they love and sing, and which they can refer to with pride to either alums, visitors or freshmen as "our alma mater."

Homecoming Asks Techsians: UT'S "Bevo" Or Army Mule?

By PAT JOHNSON
Toreador Associate Editor

Anyone around Tech have any inventive instincts?

Or would anyone like to "borrow" Bevo from the University of Texas or the Army mule from West Point?

Maybe the campus doesn't need those particular animals, but Techsians do need a mascot. A mascot, as defined by Mr. Webster, is "a person or thing supposed to bring good fortune."

Good fortune is not exactly lacking at Tech this year. If the Raiders haven't won every game, the gridders have brought home enough near-victories to indicate Lady Luck is not frowning on the matador school.

Yet any school can use a morale booster, and a mascot would add a spark of victory to defeat; urge a true win "next time."

Saddle Tramps, men's cheering organization, is starting an all-out campaign to find Tech a good luck figure by Homecoming next weekend.

As the football team is not saddled with such trite names as buffaloes or wildcats, it will take a bit of thinking to produce an appropriate namesake for the Red Raiders.

Such a pleasant task will take the cooperation of the entire student body—but it can be done.

Merchant Asks, Why Not Raise U.S. Flag?

BACKTALK

Dear Editor:

I was very thrilled by the score of the Tech-TCU game, (which could be stated by other Tech students). I am sure that the team did their level best and obtained their most earnest achievements.

I said, "I was thrilled," . . . but was anyone else? Viewing into the situation—back in '48 and '49, a victory for Tech meant something. By this I mean that all students were completely aroused. If any student recalls those days, the procession up College avenue was always followed by the victory yells at the center of the Broadway and College avenue crossing.

Of course, you are going to "shoot back and me" and say, "It's against the laws of Texas to block traffic," (or probably state the constitution). Well, if you will look over Lubbock (including the campus) you will find all types of traffic laws broken every day of the week. But, thinking of that situation—how often is FOOTBALL PLAYED AT JONES STADIUM? Once per week. So what do you think of it students? Let's have some comments.

Sincerely,
Bob G. Crocker

the Student Council office will welcome any mascot suggestions. Suggestions should be made as soon as possible—Homecoming is only eight days away!

Homecoming suggests a subject which should be close to the hearts of Techsians.

The pre-game bonfire.

Collection of scrap lumber will begin at 7 p.m. Monday on the open ground south of the Gymnasium. Anyone who knows the location of bonfire material or a truck or pickup which may be used in collection should contact Joel Werther in Sneed hall.

May we emphasize, gather material with owner's permission. In year's past, overzealous students have caused unpleasant feelings by taking scrap material meant for other things.

Raising of the United States Flag between halves at last Saturday's game brings to mind a suggestion made by Harold Alschuler, Lubbock merchant.

Last fall Alschuler suggested to the Plainsman (Lubbock Avalanche - Journal) that the American Flag be raised at the beginning of each football game while the Star-Spangled Banner is played by the band.

The merchant also said he'd like to see the crowd sing the National Anthem as it is played.

His idea seems like a good one to us. Though nothing came of the suggestion last year, this fall would be a good time to give it thought again.

A flagpole would have to be erected at Jones stadium if the ceremony was adopted for each game. (At Saturday's game the Flag was raised with equipment from the Lubbock fire department.) The Plainsman indicated that since football is a big business here, expenditures for a flagpole and flag would be justified.

In case funds are not available for a flagpole, Alschuler says he will gladly contribute to a flagpole fund and feels sure there are others who will.

Another idea was suggested by Dr. Clifford B. Jones, Texas Tech president emeritus. He said at a game he attended in Colorado Springs, Colo., the lights were turned off during the playing of the National Anthem and fans were asked to light matches or cigarette lighters in the darkness to symbolize torches of freedom.

This ceremony was impressive and inspirational. Minds were turned for a moment to thoughts of our fighting forces over the world. We believe the idea would also prove inspirational for Lubbock football goers—we could try it at least.

As the campus Crusade for Freedom was getting off to a good start last week, officials discovered that all money except pennies had been stolen from several containers at Tech.

We hope college students were not responsible for the theft. It's hard to believe any mature person would stoop to such an act.

If you haven't contributed to the campaign, toss in a quarter or half dollar today.

About The Campuses

One building on the University of Arkansas campus has won a place in the "Believe It Or Not" column. The entrance to the Band hall is on the level with the attic and every day the members go through the attic to get to class.

The building is also undergoing a modernization program and new sound wiring will be installed so the band may broadcast and record direct from the hall.

The University of Arkansas journalism department recently received a $1,000 gift to equip a darkroom which will enable them to offer a photography course. The department had a darkroom but no equipment.

Student Council SPEAKS

Students, we should be proud of our administrators because of their strong belief in student participation in Student Government. Few other campuses enjoy the many extended rights and privileges that we Tech students have.

This privilege is truly emphasized in the many faculty committees that now have student representatives. Texas Tech students are represented on the disciplinary committee, the Artist Course committee, the campus planning committee, the student publications committee, traffic planning committee and student traffic court.

Recently the students at Tech received additional responsibilities through the new student governed Recreation hall program which is further sub-divided into eight important committees headed by students. These various student positions didn't come as a gift but as a definite responsibility.

Students before us have preserved this privilege of student representation by fulfilling their responsibility in a very dignified and satisfactory way.

It behooves each of us as we are called upon to serve in various student capacities to meet the responsibility squarely and uphold the confidence that our administrators have placed in us. In this way we may increase our student representation and student voice in the activities of our rapidly growing institution.

Selective Service Names Test Dates

Applications for College Qualification tests which will be given Dec. 13 and April 24 next year, are now in the local Selective Service office.

Students who are eligible and who intend to take this test on either of the dates should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service board. After receiving the application and information bulletin, the student should fill it out and return it immediately in the envelope provided.

Applications for the December test should be postmarked no later than Nov. 5, according to J. E. Terral, director of test administration.

Results of the tests will be reported to the student's Selective Service board for use in considering his deferment as a student.

SOS — KTTG

This is an SOS to all Technicians who might be interested in working on KTTG, Tech's broadcasting station.

According to Beverly Brandt and Cody Barnett, program directors, disc jockies, announcers and engineers are needed.

The station is located in Sneed hall and is on the air from 7 until 11 each evening.

Alschuler To Give Decoration Award

Alschuler's Men's store will again this year award a trophy cup to the best decorated dormitory during Homecoming, according to D. M. McElroy, executive secretary of Ex-Students association.

The cup will become the property of the dormitory receiving it and will not be rotated from year to year as is the Thomas trophy, he said.

This is the second year that Alschuler's has given an award to the best decorated dormitory and he plans to make it an annual affair, McElroy stated. The cup will be awarded at the ex-student luncheon held at noon Oct. 27 in the Gymnasium. The name of the winner and year won will be inscribed on the side of the cup, he added.

Four Tech ROTC Students Invited To Attend ASC Ball

Four Tech ROTC students have received invitations to attend the annual military ball at Arlington State college, Arlington, on Nov. 17.

Cadets who received invitations are Lt. Col. Coral E. Gillham, Fort Worth; Major Bill C. Powell, Lubbock; Capt. Forrest H. Burnham, Iowa Park and Capt. Frank H. Clark, Fort Worth.

Headline Gives False Idea; Official Commends Students

A headline in Tuesday's Toreador stating, "Bookstore takes loss on checks," was incorrect. The story should have emphasized that out of more than half a million dollars received in checks by the Tech Bookstore in the past year, only $4 was lost due to bad checks.

"This record is due to the splendid cooperation we have had from the student body," said W. C. Cole, Bookstore manager.

MICC PLAY OPENS OCT. 28

Representatives of the Men's Inter-Club council met Monday afternoon to form their schedule of touch football for the year. Play in that league will open Oct. 28.

At 2:30 p.m. on that day Kemas faces Socii, Wranglers play College club, Los Camaradas tangle with Silver Keys and Adelphi engages Centaur.

Games slated in other leagues next week see Dorm III playing Sneed East and Doak hall playing Sneed West. Wednesday West hall faces Dorm III.

Friday the Westminster Student Fellowship plays its first game in intramural touch football against the Baptist Student union while the Unknowns and Dairy Manufactures club engage in another Independent league tilt.

Next Friday Tech Band plays the Unknowns and Dairy Manufactures meet WSF.

Thompson-Ponder Passes Spell Victory For West Hall Over Dorm IV, 13 To 12

West hall capitalized on two early period breaks to go out in front 13 to 0 and then fought off a Dorm IV rally to win 13 to 12.

Dorm IV took the kickoff and ran four plays before the West hall line forced a punt attempt which failed on the 15-yard line.

After two incomplete passes, Wade Thompson riddled the ball to team captain Scotty Ponder for the score.

Moments later, an alert West backfield man intercepted a Dorm IV pass and made a neat 35-yard runback before being caught from behind. Again West had the ball inside the 15-yard line. Again Thompson passed to Ponder for the score; then the two collaborated for the extra point.

Dorm IV's Jack Dyer fought back with timely passing and running to score twice. He passed complete to Albert Wilson, Jim Luker, Burk Roberts and Neil Atchson and added some nice running but couldn't match the early scoring of West.

Intramural Handball Entries Due Friday, Says Philbrick
Entries for intramural handball competition are now being received, George Philbrick, intramural director, announced Thursday.

Entries will be received through next Friday. Play will start Oct. 29.

Dear Buck,

I'm sorry I haven't written you for a long time, but I've been so busy getting started in school plus my visits to the Larrymore Dance Studio, trying to learn the latest dances. In your last letter (year before last) you asked for a picture so I have enclosed one for you in this letter.

I sure wish you were here to take me to some of the campus dances this year. I have been learning a lot of new stuff along with the regular dance steps. You know, if you were here we could take private lessons in ballroom dancing for the price of one. You always were a bit clumsy and bashful about dancing. There is new classes starting all along so if you think you might return sometime soon maybe we can take some together.

Well Buck, think this over and write to me. I sure would like to go to a dance pretty soon. My new hair-do is simply beautiful, as you can see in the picture, so we will really be a hit along with our new dance steps.

Your friend,
Wing

Raiders Seek 2nd SWC Win

By JOHN LEE, Toreador Sports Staff

The Red Raiders left Friday morning for Waco in quest of their second straight win over a-Southwest conference foe.

Tech meets the potent Baylor Bears at Baylor stadium in Waco at 2 p.m. Saturday. Weaver's boys will be shooting for their third win of the young season.

The Raiders had to split into two groups to make the trip. Only one plane was available so the rest of the boys went by bus. Tech has played Baylor 12 times, winning four, tying one and losing seven. The series started in 1929.

At Baylor, Tech will be facing the finest passer they have met this season and probably the best they will meet this year. Larry Isbell has been rated by Coach Weaver as one of the best passers in the nation. Polk Robison, head scout, says Isbell is cocky and can kick the ball a mile.

Isbell, the Southwest conference's leading touchdown passer of last season (15 pay-off tosses), will have ends Harold Riley and Stan Williams as receivers.

Baylor has been named the "team to beat" for the Southwest championship and is rated 10th in the nation in the recent current AP poll.

Tech hasn't defeated a Baylor team since 1946. They did the trick then by a 13 to 6 margin. Tech led the series at that time, four to three. Baylor has won four consecutive times since to boost their lead in the series to its present standing.

Injuries in the Tech camp continue to weaken the Raiders. Two linemen, tackle Marland Ribble and center Don Funk, will definitely be missing from the lineup Saturday and two more "probables," tackle Jerrell Price and halfback Frank Graves, may miss the fray.

Probable starting lineups will be:

TECH	Pos.	BAYLOR
Erwin	LE	Williams
Barrington	LT	Casner
Cockburn	LG	Bates
Phillips	C	Galloway
Barron	RG	Hancock
Davis	RT	Dowden
Crossley	RE	Riley
Arterburn	QB	Isbell
Turner	LH	Carpenter
Cavazos	RH	Schleuning
Welton	FB	Parma

Seaman apprentice Paul M. Nettles, who attended Tech before enlisting in the navy, has been chosen honorman of his recruit training company at the San Diego Naval Training center.

Doak Interception Defeats Dorm III

Sonny Stanford, Doak hall, reached up and deflected a Dorm III pass just enough to allow Ben Street, Doak captain, to get his hands on it and carry it across the goal. That proved to be the game, Doak winning 6 to 0.

Oris Reynolds passed complete for Dorm III four times and made one 40-yard gain on a run.

The Doak hall team was tough in the clutches, intercepting three passes to stop scoring thrusts and turning one into the only score of the game.

University of Texas students heard rumors a Texas cave is bigger than Carlsbad caverns. The cave, called Devil's Sink hole extends some 365 feet down into the Edwards Plateau near Kerrville. It was formed by dripping limestone eating out an underground cavity. Members of the Speleological society explored the cave and one of the things found in the cave was about 4 million bats.

GAINS ALL-AMERICAN MENTION—Tech's big center, Aubrey "Red" Phillips is among 38 candidates listed for All-American honors the Associated Press reported this week. His defensive work against TCU also gained him mention in the AP's "lineman of the week" listings. Tech's Junior Arterburn gained mention among the nation's top backs of the week.

Foot BALL-pointed pennings . . . By Jimmie Henley

The position of football in college has been under fire for several years, but no satisfactory answer to the problem of big time football has been found.

If anyone ever believed that big time football was not professional in nature, he needs only to read the views of Blair Cherry, retired head coach of the University of Texas, and the Very Rev. Hunter Guthrie, S. J., president of Georgetown university, in the last two copies of Saturday Evening Post.

In closing Cherry writes, "I am no longer interested in trying to please the public with a professional show put on by semipro under amateur sponsorship."

But still no answer is given as to the real "why" that football is big. Certainly the public has demanded winning teams, which have pushed the standard ever upward, but why should public opinion control the athletic program of any college?

We feel sure that most schools are like Georgetown where only 72 students of 5,330 students said they are attending Georgetown because of its athletic program.

We believe that Cherry hints at the real base of the problem when he analyzes the situation as "too much emphasis on winning without regard for the facts."

Pressure groups, notably the exes, seem to disregard the facts. Certainly no team can win all its games every year, yet that is expected of many teams by pressure groups.

Perhaps we should attempt to understand why those groups demand eternal victory. Excluding those who have gambling as a motive, the most notable group are those who build their own ego by their alma mater's victory.

They are not different from most Americans, but nevertheless somewhat confused. Modern Americans are basically spectators, depending upon the accomplishments of others for their entertainment. Football is by no means the only field.

The college graduate who fails to get in college what he needs to fairly evaluate football performances in terms beyond victory and defeat, or to fairly evaluate any given situation in its full implications, has missed a great part of what should have been in his college training.

The emphasis upon a "college education" in American life is responsible. The degree, not knowledge, has been set as the aim of four years in college.

College administrations and lack of proper emphasis in American high schools have brought about this situation in which the "college education" has been posed as "the" thing.

It is our belief that really educated college graduates will give a fair evaluation of the situations in which they find themselves, including the fair evaluation of football which Blair Cherry desired while he was coaching.

The best description of last week's work by the Red Raider line came from a friend of ours who is no football player. Said he: "I could have carried a glass of water through the holes they were opening." That is saying a lot, considering the condition of the field at Jones Stadium.

Despite injuries and Baylor's rating, we are choosing Tech by two points.

The association sponsors an annual military ball and an informal military dance. A float is entered in the Homecoming parade and the group participates in halftime activities.

Club officers are Jim Howell, Colorado City, president; Jim Choate, Sweetwater, vice-president, and Joe Ashton, Lamesa, treasurer. Sponsors and a secretary will be elected at the Tuesday meeting.

Students From Texas And Oklahoma Gather For Presbyterian Convention

Presbyterian students from Texas and Oklahoma are holding their annual convention which begins Friday and will continue through Sunday at the First Presbyterian church, 1314 Avenue N.

Saturday events will start at 9 a.m. when students from Austin college lead the morning worship service in the First Presbyterian church. This service will be followed at 9:30 a.m. by an address by Rev. Tom Anderson of the First Presbyterian church of Lubbock.

Discussions will be from 10:45 to 11:45 a.m. James G. Allen, dean of student life at Tech, will lead a discussion on "Can Education Be Christian?" Rev. Don Harris, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lamesa, will speak on "How Do You Get Along With You?" while Charles Petet of Texas university will discuss "Can You Get Along With People?" Lunch will be served to the group at 12 noon in Westminster Presbyterian church, 3321 33rd. An "idea clinic" will follow from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. At 5 p.m. the group will go to Mackenzie park where a chuck wagon supper will be served. The day will close with a party at Westminster church at 8:30 p.m.

Sunday morning worship will be at 9 a.m. in the Tech Museum. The service will be conducted by the student group from Texas A&M. Installation of officers will take place following the worship service.
