Abattoir In City Subject Of Mr. Spence

Farmers Could Sell Here Without Having Car Lots Of Cattle. City Manager E. V. Spence addressed the members of the Business Men's Luncheon Club Wednesday on the subject of a public abattoir, suggested by Bruce Frazier several weeks ago in the first of the club series of talks on city needs.

The city were already interested in the project and each was willing to erect one and that Big Spring was fortunate enough to have a veterinarian qualified to act as inspector. All that is needed is a city ordinance if the majority of the people want the benefits from abattoirs, he declared.

The advantage of such slaughter houses, said Mr. Spence in response to questions from the members, is they give farmers opportunity to sell their calves when they do not have enough for a carlot and afford the finest meat without waiting for it to be shipped to Kansas City or Fort Worth and back here.

Building Points The Way

A SURVEY and forecast for the building industry in the United States during the next year, just completed by the magazine, American Architect, indicates that the great building trades are about to emerge from the depression.

The survey shows, for instance, that fully $1,750,000,000 is going to be spent during the next 12 months on new building projects and modernization work.

"The beginning of the recovery period is here," says the magazine. "Building activity begins in steady though slow upward swing during the fall of 1932."

If this survey is correct it is extremely good news. There can be no real revival without a pickup in the building industry and, conversely, if the building industry revives, it can be expected to carry other industries up with it.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS NOMINATE CANDIDATES

BIFFALO, N. Y.—New York republicans in state convention Tuesday fell into step behind Hoover, "Wild Bill" Donovan and F. Trubee Davison in a big parade which they hope will lead them to victory November 8.

To stirring martial music, "Wild Bill" of "the Fighting 99th" otherwise Colonel William J. Donovan, became by tumultuous acclamation the republican candidate for governor of New York.

Davison, assistant secretary of war and himself a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination, withdrew on Sunday in favor of Colonel Donovan, who was nominated amid yells and the thumping of big brass drums for lieutenant-governor.

By acclamation also the convention adopted a 2000 word endorsement of President Hoover's stand on prohibition.

George Z. Medalle, United States attorney for the southern district of New York, was given the third top place on the state ticket—the nomination for the United States senate.

Before adjourning the convention sent to President Hoover in Des Moines, Iowa, a telegram stating that "one of the strongest New York state tickets in years" had just been nominated.

MARKETS ABROAD

Has Busy Day

The president's address, his first campaign speech since accepting the renomination, climaxed a day of busy markets.

With Mrs. Hoover beside him, he appeared a dozen times upon the rear platform of his special train as it rolled across Illinois, and into Iowa, his birth state. Police estimated his audiences as ranging from several score to 12,000.

In a nine-mile drive through the streets of Des Moines he was accorded a white shower of torn paper and ticker tape.

In the Des Moines coliseum, where was standing room only in the 10,000 seat auditorium, and in the Shrine Temple and on the capitol plaza, where the president appeared later before overflow crowds, police estimated his listeners at several thousand. He spoke briefly at both places, before attending a reception of Iowa editors at the Port Des Moines hotel and departing for his train to start the return trip.

At the Shrine Temple, where he said his receptions had convinced him that Iowans were "loyal hard working republicans," a voice from the audience called out: "and democrats too." "They too are welcome to our fold," the president replied.

Refers to Garner

Mr. Hoover listed proposals he said were initiated in the democratic-controlled house of representatives "under the leadership of the gentleman who has been nominated the democratic candidate for vice president and thus these measures and policies were approved by their party."

The president named "a program of park barrel legislation in the sum of $1,300,000,000," the bonus bill, the "creation of sheer fiat money," a bill to "destroy the effectiveness of the tariff commission" and a "price fixing bill."

"All this," he asserted, "undermined public confidence and delayed all the efforts of the administration and which he had placed in action to save the country."

"These measures representing the dominant democratic control brought discouragement and delay to recovery. That recovery began the moment when it was certain that these destructive measures of this democratic-controlled house were stopped. Had their program passed it would have been the end of recovery. If it ever passes it will end hope and recovery."

"Victory Achieved"

"Do you propose to place those men in power and subject this country to that sort of measures and policies? It is by their acts in congress and their leadership that you shall know them."

The chief executive recounted what he described as efforts of the administration against depressive economic forces, and declared "a great national victory has been achieved."

Twelve Points

In outlining what he called the policies of the republican party, the president listed the following 12 points:

- 1.—Maintenance and possible elevation of the protective tariff on farm products as "the very basis of safety to American agriculture."
- 2.—Revision of the agricultural marketing act, including repeal of the stabilization clause.
- 3.—Creation of a program for the reorganization of agriculture so as to divert lands from unprofitable to profitable use and to avoid

Twelve Points

In outlining what he called the policies of the republican party, the president listed the following 12 points:

- 1.—Maintenance and possible elevation of the protective tariff on farm products as "the very basis of safety to American agriculture."
- 2.—Revision of the agricultural marketing act, including repeal of the stabilization clause.
- 3.—Creation of a program for the reorganization of agriculture so as to divert lands from unprofitable to profitable use and to avoid

Has Busy Day

The president's address, his first campaign speech since accepting the renomination, climaxed a day of busy markets.

With Mrs. Hoover beside him, he appeared a dozen times upon the rear platform of his special train as it rolled across Illinois, and into Iowa, his birth state. Police estimated his audiences as ranging from several score to 12,000.

In a nine-mile drive through the streets of Des Moines he was accorded a white shower of torn paper and ticker tape.

In the Des Moines coliseum, where was standing room only in the 10,000 seat auditorium, and in the Shrine Temple and on the capitol plaza, where the president appeared later before overflow crowds, police estimated his listeners at several thousand. He spoke briefly at both places, before attending a reception of Iowa editors at the Port Des Moines hotel and departing for his train to start the return trip.

At the Shrine Temple, where he said his receptions had convinced him that Iowans were "loyal hard working republicans," a voice from the audience called out: "and democrats too." "They too are welcome to our fold," the president replied.

Refers to Garner

Mr. Hoover listed proposals he said were initiated in the democratic-controlled house of representatives "under the leadership of the gentleman who has been nominated the democratic candidate for vice president and thus these measures and policies were approved by their party."

The president named "a program of park barrel legislation in the sum of $1,300,000,000," the bonus bill, the "creation of sheer fiat money," a bill to "destroy the effectiveness of the tariff commission" and a "price fixing bill."

"All this," he asserted, "undermined public confidence and delayed all the efforts of the administration and which he had placed in action to save the country."

"These measures representing the dominant democratic control brought discouragement and delay to recovery. That recovery began the moment when it was certain that these destructive measures of this democratic-controlled house were stopped. Had their program passed it would have been the end of recovery. If it ever passes it will end hope and recovery."

"Victory Achieved"

"Do you propose to place those men in power and subject this country to that sort of measures and policies? It is by their acts in congress and their leadership that you shall know them."

The chief executive recounted what he described as efforts of the administration against depressive economic forces, and declared "a great national victory has been achieved."

These tiny tender leaves of "spicy" Turkish tobaccos —and just enough of them!

Turkish tobacco sometimes runs hundreds of little leaves to the pound. In cigarettes it is used much as seasoning is in food, for flavor and better taste. You know that seasoning has to be used right... just enough of it, not too much.

Chesterfield puts in just the right amount of Turkish tobacco—the best kinds—Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun. These are not merely blended, but cross-blended with ripe, mellow Domestic tobaccos.

Enough Turkish, not too much—that's one reason why Chesterfields taste better—why they have a delicacy of aroma you do not find in other cigarettes.

CALL of the WEST

CHAPTER XIII

Component of a child. With a jerk she freed the room's head and set him back on his hind feet.

Swergin leaned far out of his saddle and with one huge arm swept Dona clear of her saddle. With the other hand he cut the reins, snatching across the hips with his snaffle. The horse snorted and leaped away and Dona found herself going to the stable in front of Swergin.

Her struggles did not disturb his balance in the least. Grimly he pushed his horse down the trail while Dona obeyed down her warm and leathery side. There was little use in fighting with the big timber boss.

They rode into camp and in the watchman's hut at the main building, Dudley came running down the stairs as the saw them coming. He held up his arms to Dona but she slid to the ground and lay like a dead woman. Whirling on her uninvited rescuer, Dorothy looked black and she saw the light glint from the tip of his nose. With a wicked grin she slipped out with a hand on Swergin's shoulder and a look of warning on her face.

Swergin did not move a muscle as she came toward him. Slowly he turned his head and looked at her. "What are you doing?" he asked.

"I'm warning you," she said. "If you touch me again, I'll have you for my own."

Swergin's eyes widened and he looked at her with a mixture of surprise and fear. "You're a brave little girl," he said. "But you're no match for me."

"I'm not afraid of you," she said. "I'm afraid of the man who shot your horse."

Swergin's face turned ashen. "You know that?" he asked.

"I know," she said. "I saw him. He was a big man with a gun. He shot your horse and then he ran away. I saw him run away."

Swergin's hands trembled. "You're sure?" he asked.

"I'm sure," she said. "I saw him. I saw him run away. I saw him run away."

Swergin's face turned ashen. "You're sure?" he asked.

ture the outlaw but he packed me home," Dona explained briefly. "I agree with him. From now on you stay in camp!" Dudley tried to appear masterful.

"Ad you got the same answer as Swergin?" Dona turned and walked to her father's room.

Asper was awake and very restless. He greeted Dona with a question as she entered. "Have they got Ball yet?"

"No, Dad, but Swergin wounded him and is on his way right now to bring him in. Dona patted her father's hand and pushed him gently down on his pillow. "Remember what the doctor told you—no getting into a fret and no moving around until he says so."

"Bring the doctor!" If Ball were brought in within the next 48 hours, he'll get up and go after him myself. I have a score to settle with that cow puncher!" Asper settled back in spit of himself and a flush of pain crossed his face.

Swergin will bring him in, Dona promised.

When the doctor is to be brought here, understand? I have a lot to tell that coyote. Asper closed his eyes and by still.

Dona sat beside him, a worried frown on her face. He seemed much worse than when she had left him. She hoped Swergin would bring Ball in and end the tension of the situation. Asper slipped into a morbid sleep and Dona walked to the window.

Early Mountain rose high above the town. Swergin's horse was in the timber boss would bring Ball back to camp.

regular session to attend to matters of business. Mrs. Joe Fisher presided.

Mrs. Fisher gave an account of her conversation Monday with Miss Carrie Reeves, district president of the women clubs, who is making a tour of the county. She said that Miss Reeves was greatly inspired by the way clubs were carrying on in places where the women were too poor to pay club dues.

The members decided to give an old-fashioned square dance and box supper which would also be nature of a get-together on Halloween week. Misses Bud Brown, C. K. Brings and Shine Philips were named on this committee.

Details will be announced later.

The matter of forming a county federation, which is Miss Reeves' special project for her term of office, was taken up and discussed; also the opening of the women's exchange. It was agreed that the county club women would be called together Saturday afternoon in the club house to meet with Mrs. Joe Fisher, Mrs. C. P. Rogers and Mrs. E. O. Ellington to settle whether or not they desired to reopen the exchange. Town women who want the exchange are asked to attend.

A special program will be prepared for the November meeting and tea will be served to the county women invited as special guests of the federation to discuss the forming of a county federation.

A nominating committee was named, consisting of Misses C. W. Cunningham, L. E. Freeman and Mrs. C. P. Rogers.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By CURTIS BISHOP

Obie Bristow's "thundering herd" made a peaceful, uneventful debut before the Big Spring populace yesterday afternoon. True enough the score was 24 to 0, and a four touch-down margin, several years ago would have been cause enough for a bonfire celebration. Perhaps we spoiled last year when the Bovines ran wild against such Class B teams and are spoiled.

We know who the proudest lady in the world was last night.

For as long as we can remember Mrs. Charles Koberg has been an ardent football fan. Three of her sons have been members of the local high school squad, and their years of experience span over a decade. During that time she has read the sporting sections, tuned in on national contests, talked football, lived the game with them. We doubt if she has missed over three games in the last seven years.

Her two older sons made the regular lineup. Both were lost in the roles of substitute linemen, and it is doubtful if even once she had cause to boast of their performances. Then Fred took up the duties, for it seemed that a Koberg should always be on the list of second string guards.

Yesterday, however, after ten years the Koberg name was in the glory. Twice in the first quarter Fred Koberg made two touch-downs. He was the man who did the punting, the passing, the one

Roscoe Defeated 24 To 0 By Steers In First Home Game

Fred Koberg Stars For Big Spring; Many Players See Service In Listless Contest

The Big Spring High Steers made their first appearance of the 1932 season in Steer Stadium by defeating the Roscoe High Plowboys 24 to 0 in a slow, unexciting game here Tuesday afternoon.

The purple-clad visitors, out-weighted and weakened by injuries, made a game fight of it against the more experienced, highly favored Bovines, and with the exception of the first and last quarters gained almost an even break. The Steers scored three of the first touch-downs in the first half, and added a fourth score in the final period when a pass to Schwarzenbach brought the ball to the Roscoe one yard line. Richbourg plunged it over.

Whatever honors the locals might have gleaned from their second start of the season went to Fred Koberg, playing his first year in the backfield, and a pair of veteran linemen, Mike Roberts and Dub Coots. Koberg scored two touch-downs in the initial quarter to account for a Big Spring lead that was never overcome, while Roberts and Coots alone of the experienced, bulky line consistently outplayed their Class B rivals.

The Steers scored in the first four minutes of play. Schwarzenbach returned the opening kickoff to the 34 yard line, and Coots took charge of play after Koberg had punted forty yards to give the locals possession of the ball on the Roscoe 26 yard line, downing the safety man in his tracks and covered a fumble on the next play by Jones. Roscoe regained the pigskin on the next play, however.

Anthony intercepting a pass on his own 15-yard stripe, Jones kicked to his own thirty-eight yard line, Richbourg reeled off three yards, and then Koberg went thirty-five yards on a spin play for the first touch-down of the year for the Longhorn. Richbourg's kick struck the uprights and bounded back.

Late in the first quarter the Big Spring halfback galloped twenty yards for a second score. Two rather poor exchanges of kicks in midfield gave Big Spring possession of the ball on the 46 yard line, where Richbourg tore through center for a first down. Koberg kicked to the 23 yard line, and Anthony's return was only to his own 38 yard line. Koberg slipped through tackle for 14 yards, rested a moment while Richbourg made a yard at center, and then scored on a wide end run. Richbourg's try for point was blocked by S. Duncan.

An entire new Steer lineup held the visitors at bay during the remainder of the period. Bob Flowers covered a fumble by Peden after Townsend had kicked to the Roscoe 34 yard line, but the scoring threat ended when Vines dropped Townsend's pass.

Schwarzenbach returned Anthony's punt to his own 34 yard stripe to start the second quarter. Koberg reeled off a first down after Richbourg had picked up but a yard in two tries, and Richbourg made another despite a 5 yard penalty. Cordell let Koberg's pass trickle through his fingers, however, to end the Bovine's threat for the moment.

Coots Tallies Three successive first downs on running plays after the Steers had taken the ball on downs on their own 39 yard line placed the locals within scoring position again. Richbourg broke even on two running plays with the ball on the Roscoe 18 yard line, but Koberg dropped back and passed to Coots for a touch-down. The Steer captain wriggled out of two opponent's hands to slip over the goal line. Richbourg's kick was blocked.

A ragged third quarter found neither team displaying any real ability, Roscoe having quite a bit the best of it and once advancing the ball to the Longhorn 71 yard stripe. Ward covered a partially blocked punt on the Big Spring 24 yard line, but the Plowboys lost a ball on a fumble on the 16 yard strip. Koberg's punt to Long, who was downed on his own forty yard line, brought the ball out of danger. A fifteen yard penalty in the closing moments of the period failed to prevent the Bovines from chalking up two straight first downs. Richbourg making 12 on an end run and a pass, Koberg to Cordell, adding another.

Koberg punted out on the Roscoe 49 yard stripe to start the final quarter. Swatzy returned Anthony's punt to his own 21 yard line, and Big Spring gained 4 yards on the exchange when Koberg kicked to the Roscoe 45 stripe. Swatzy lost 10 yards on an attempted double lateral but Koberg's kick moved the Plowboys back to their own 34 yard mark. Koberg picked up 14 yards after a five yard penalty and Richbourg hit center to make it first down for Roscoe. Coots snared a fumble on the visitor's 40 yard line to place the Bovines in position for their fourth touch-down.

Another Run Koberg reeled off 14 yards after a five-yard penalty before being replaced by Neel, and Richbourg made it first down on the Roscoe 25-yard line. Richbourg made 6 more on a spin play, Swatzy was thrown for a yard loss, and Neel was set back two to make it fourth down and seven. Neel shot a perfect pass to Schwarzenbach who raced to the Plowboy 1 yard line. Richbourg carried the ball over in two plays. The try for extra point was blocked.

Standing out in the visitors' play for the afternoon were Jones, Anthony, and Duncan.

The lineup:

Line	Back	Center	Right Guard	Left Guard	Quarterback	Right Half	Left Half
Coots	Roberts	Byer	Martin	Fletcher	Cordell	Schwarzenbach	Koberg
Swatzy	Duncan	Sloan	Bloeker	Casper	Peden	Graham	Anthony
McMurray	Ward	Kilian	Ward	Smith	Pitts	Kilian

El Paso Woman Who Taught President Of Mexico Defends Him

EL PASO (UP)—President Abelardo Rodriguez of Mexico, who threatens to convert Catholic churches into schools, once attended mass regularly, Mrs. Charles Swaine said.

Mrs. Swaine taught Rodriguez 20 years ago in a Nogales, Sonora, Mex., school.

"I don't believe Abelardo is under the Soviet influence," Mrs. Swaine said. "I don't think that he, personally, wants to close the churches and monasteries. There is some political power forcing him to do it."

"He was one of the brightest students in the class. He was modest and intelligent. His family were ardent worshippers."

"He attended mass weekly and respected the laws of God."

"He will make a good president for Mexico, because he is a clean politician, a good military man and honest."

"Abelardo is well liked in lower California because of his ability as the chief executive there."
