WASHINGTON By Paul Mallon

BUDGET

The Treasury will soon espouse the cause of the sales tax either publicly or privately. It will also possibly neglect to place any obstacles in the path of beer. Undoubtedly it needs both to balance the budget.

That much has been confidentially decided by the boys who run that Administration department. The decision after looking over the completed condition of the Federal till. They could think of no other suitable ways to raise the needed revenue.

BEER

The Treasury statisticians are convinced that even a 3 per cent sales tax would not be enough to balance the budget. That is why they have been led to toy privately with a beer tax.

They figure a tax of $8 per barrel on beer would raise around $300,000,000. That is a conservative guess. It does on a tax of 3 cents per pint providing a certain number of states permit sales. The question of how many people will go on making home brew, also considered in that estimate. Even with legalized home brewing would be cheaper, but not so good.

GUESSEERS

Much hullabaloo will be raised over Mills being so sadly asked in his estimates of what the last tax bill would bring. It will amount to a public hanging of Mills in Congress. There is no question about his having been away off. There is a question how much he is to blame. It is clear now that the Treasury could not foresee the course of business during the last year. Neither can it do any more than guess what business will do to June 30. The life of a Treasury expert is hard.

RETICENCE

There are good reasons why the Treasury may choose not to blurt out all its ideas in public. One is that the Democratic house must share the responsibility for initiating revenue raising measures. It may prove to be better politics to let the Democrats decide how the budget should be balanced.

OUTLOOK

The heart-beats of business suggest to the wise men of Washington that we may have a comparatively strong final quarter for the year. Production is predicted to run about 15% above last year. So far it has been averaging about 30 per cent below on the year. Cotton mill activity is figured to show an improvement over all of 1931. Automobiles are expected for better things. Production has been running far behind sales.

TREATY

The St. Lawrence waterway treaty will be ratified some day—but not now. The private trend of the Senate open hearings continues strongly.

BIRTH NOTICE

Fight For Control Of Corporation Operating American Airways Ends In 'Draw' Under Agreement Terms

NEW YORK (UP)—The fight for control of the fast-growing country-wide air line network of Aviation Corporation apparently ended today in a draw just as business gists were maneuvering their millions for the scheduled proxy battle at the stockholders' meeting Dec. 21. A statement telling of a proposed settlement was issued jointly by La Motte T. Cohn, president of the corporation, and L. B. Manning, executive vice-president of the Cord Corporation, representing E. L. Cord, the young automobile manufacturer who declared war on the

BUSINESS UP 31 PER CENT

Still making remarkable gains in a period when many other businesses are just commencing to emerge from comparatively dull activity, American Airways for the month of October experienced a gain of thirty one per cent in passenger and a five hundred and a gain of thirty one per cent in express over business in the same month of last year, information received here by Jesse Maxwell, local representative, from La Motte T. Cohn, president, shows. Passengers carried in October of this year totaled 7,922 as against 6,022 of the same month of 1931, while express amounted to 14,924 pounds against 2,431 pounds last year. Mileage flown by American Airways planes increased approximately 32,000 miles, the October 1932 mileage being 896,747 miles as compared with 844,579 miles in October 1931.

present management and announced his intention of wresting control for himself. The agreement was made known within a few hours after Cohn had filed a million dollar libel suit against a Cord supporter and Cord had boarded a fast trans-continental express train at Los Angeles, en route east to take personal charge of the proxy fight. The joint statement said: "It is proposed that the board be reduced to fifteen in number, one-third to be selected by the present board other than the Cord interests."

700 Million Cuts Partially Offset Amortization And Interest

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Hoover Saturday slashed the federal budget to an extent he believes will reduce appropriations by $550,000,000. In a statement issued after a special cabinet meeting he said that "reductions of appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1 were settled at about $700,000,000."

These cuts, offset by "partial increases" of uncontrolable items such as interest and amortization on the public debt and tax refunds.

WASHINGTON (UP)—After an extraordinary cabinet meeting called by the president to discuss the budget, the Treasury Department figures would be sent congress "considerably lower" than the $4,135,000,000 submitted last year. Mills added that he had informed Chairman Byrnes of the house appropriations committee the administration would "submit estimates you will find hard to reduce."

County Given $3,019 R.F.C. Relief Funds

W. T. C. Officials Hand Out Checks Saturday At Midland

Howard county and Big Spring were Saturday given $3,019.91 of the federal relief work funds to be expended charity through labor. At a meeting of several counties in Midland Saturday morning C. T. Watson, chamber of commerce manager, and a member of the local distributing committee was given a check for the amount this section will receive. Bond must be made and attached before the check will be honored. It was stipulated.

Not one cent of the money may be expended for charity, except through labor. It was definitely stated. This means that Big Spring and Howard county will be forced to raise their own charity funds. The committee distributing the funds, C. T. Watson, Shine Phillips, E. J. Mary, E. V. Spence, and Judge H. R. Debenport, must, under provisions of the loan account for the amount and purpose of each expenditure.

D. A. Bantzen, West Texas Chamber of Commerce manager who has had a prominent part in obtaining funds for West Texas towns, said judicious spending of funds will have a bearing on the next grant if more is available. The West Texas chamber is under bond for all checks distributed in its area. The local application was made by the Big Spring chamber. Funds will not be divided by the city and county but work will be partitioned out by both the city and county to be paid for out of the common fund.

No money may be expended for materials, for medicine, or as strict charity. It was stipulated. Labor is the only means of sharing in the sum. Leon Goodman, Midland mayor, welcomed visiting representatives. Houston Harte, plat president of the W. T. C. C., urged communities to take part in the beautification program of the West Texas chamber and suggested that labor be created along this line for expending funds. Harte said money spent in this manner would be of lasting value.

Will Rogers Appears As Tramp At Ritz Today And Monday

'Too Busy To Work' Latest Comedy Play

Tramp Searches Country For Family Lost During World War

Will Rogers, frequently described as the best known personality in America, the intimate of kings and queens and the companion of captains of industry, comes to the Ritz Theatre today and Monday in the role of a tramp.

The picture is "Too Busy To Work," his most recent Fox production. It tells the story of a penniless vagabond, who searches the country far and wide in the hope of finding his wife and daughter and the man who stole them while he was fighting for his country in the World War.

Eventually, he stumbles upon his daughter and the "other man" and learns that his wife has since been dead. The action he takes is, perhaps, not what the ordinary man would do under similar circumstances.

In the greater number of his screen portrayals, Rogers has enacted the role of a father. In real life he is the ideal type of father bestow of every comfort on his three children: Will Jr., Mary and Jimmy, the youngest of the troupe, everything except a telephone.

Rogers refuses to have a telephone in his home, though he has every other requirement of a modern residence.

The celebrated war and humorist is as afraid of a telephone as he is of evening clothes. There is a phone in his dressing room, a pretentious bungalow at the studio, but he seldom answers its ring.

"I just don't want to be bothered," is the way he explains his strange obsession.

Rogers employs a secretary who occupies an office in a downtown Los Angeles building and she makes all of his engagements and attends to most of his personal affairs.

"Too Busy To Work" prepared for the screen by Philip Klein and Barry Connors, is based on Ben Ames Williams' widely read story, "Jubilo." The cast supporting Rogers includes Marian Nixon, who directs the leading feminine role; Dick Powell, a recent sensation in "Blessed Event"; Frederick Bur-

Tom Tyler's Strength Seen In Queen Play

Herculean Western Star Play In 'Single-Handed Sanders'

His reputation as the strongest man in pictures is greatly augmented by Tom Tyler in "Single-Handed Sanders," his latest Monogram Western, which comes to the Queen Theatre next Thursday for a run of one day only.

In "Single-Handed Sanders," Tom is cast as an honest blacksmith who comes to the aid of the Wyoming homesteaders and acts as their leader when the safety of their farms and crops are threatened by a gang of unscrupulous cattlemen.

Opening with a thrilling chase across the plains on the driver's seat of a careening stagecoach, "Single-Handed Sanders" launches immediately into that action for which the Tom Tyler series is famous. The picture contains some of the best fight scenes that Tom Tyler has ever presented to his many fans.

Supporting Tom in this thriller are such players as Robert Manning, brother to William Seiter, famous director, Margaret Morris, former Wampas baby star, G. D. Woods and John Elliot, who have distinguished themselves in such Monogram successes as "Mother and Son," "The Montana Kid," "Oklahoma Jim," "Galloping Thru," and "Two-Fisted Justice." Snowball, colored radio entertainer, and Hank Bell and Lois Bridge.

"Single-Handed Sanders" is distinguished by splendid direction and Joseph's photography, and is without doubt one of the most thrilling action Westerns of the year. Charles A. Post directed.

'Four Blind Mice' By Donald Joseph (Frederick A. Stokes Co.)

"Four Blind Mice" is a continuation of the Lucius Deering novel which the Lucius Deering about which Mr. Joseph writes so poignantly in "October's Child."

This novel picks up where the other left off—with the death of Lucius' mother, it tells of the boy's marriage and conflict with life.

Mr. Joseph is doing what few other novelists of the south have thought of—he is preserving what still exists of old southern civilization that remains in the Civil War did not destroy, with all its artificiality, its emphasis on detail, its complete absorption in a bygone day. One has the feeling that the author sees as it is and at the same time loves it. His love makes it impossible for him to create it as the fashion is nowadays; and his vision makes it impossible to sentimentalize too much.

He makes us see but he does not make us feel. That is partly due, one suspects, to his writing of things too close to him. A Southern gentleman would naturally be restrained in the matter of exhibiting feeling; the inhibition is one of tradition.

Mr. Joseph's style is a little too rich; his book resembles a southern garden where almost every flower is overwhelmingly fragrant. Implicitly in this one thing would be desirable; it would also improve his philosophy.

The most quotable paragraph in the book is the following comment on life: "What man of flesh and blood, young and involved with life, can be proof against the flattery of his friend's hand upon his arm, and the honest voice of a friend who can not stay the flight of time. His resource is in proportion to the other's resignation; his confidence in himself matches the other's despair."

The story of "Four Blind Mice" is of a man who loved a friend and loved a woman. Neither completely satisfied him and neither understood him entirely. His happiness and his unhappiness between the two furnishes the plot upon which Mr. Joseph carries further his characterization of Lucius Deering.

"FRONTIER TIMES" December Charles Goodhart is the famous frontiersman whose picture appears on the cover of this issue. A reprint of the splendid article concerning him that appeared in the Southwest Review concludes the issue. Its title is "Scouting with Goodnight."

The account of an interview with the oldest living ex-slave in Texas is the first article. Other interesting articles are "Voting in Texas Elections," Captain Sterling, "Jules Kott, Pioneer" and "Capt. Hudd, ex-Ranger."

'Bill of Divorcement' Ritz Feature For Coming Week

John Barrymore's Acting Attains New Heights; Billie Burke And Katharine Hepburn Play

John Barrymore's inherent ability to project himself into a dramatic character; to let that character completely transcend his own individuality; to interpret it down to the last fine shade of mood and thought and feeling—that ability is possessed by no other actor on the stage or screen today.

So says George Cukor, one of the foremost American authorities of the theatre, a successful stage director, and the guiding power behind two of the season's greatest screen successes: "What Price Hollywood" which starred Clarence Bennett and "A Bill of Divorcement" the screen feature at the Ritz Theatre for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Barrymore's presence with Billie Burke, Katharine Hepburn and others in "A Bill of Divorcement" prompted Cukor's observation.

Many noted critics agree with Cukor that this new picture gives the great Barrymore opportunity for the most magnificent performance of his career; an opportunity of which he makes the most.

In so doing the new picture tops Barrymore's long series of screen triumphs; notable among them "Grand Hotel," "State's Attorney," "Arsene Lupin," "Svengali," "Moby Dick," "The Man From Blankley" and others vivid in screen history.

Barrymore's part in "A Bill of Divorcement" is unlike any other in his long experience. The screen adaptation of Clarence Dane's famous stage play has given him a role of extreme tenderness and sympathy, one that, through his inspired interpretation, arouses every fine emotion of the human soul, Cukor declared.

"Never in all my experience, have I seen such a fine performance," this noted director stated. "Barrymore brings to the role of the returned war-torn, broken soldier, a delicacy of feeling, a tenderness born of long suffering impossible to describe by words. The flair of romance is there, the strength of a dominant figure is retained or, rather, is made to live. For Barrymore, fine true artist that he is, has painted upon the responsive canvas of his own personality a new being form a page of inspired drama."

Maynard And Ruth Hall In Western Film

Girl's Spanish Ancestry, Southern Charm Help Make Thriller

The fire and spirit of her Spanish ancestors, plus the charm and beauty of the South, make Ruth Hall one of the most popular leading women in Hollywood today.

Miss Hall plays the leading feminine role opposite Ken Maynard in "Dynamite Ranch," at the Queen Theatre Friday and Saturday.

Miss Hall was sublimely unaware of the fascination of motion pictures during her school days in Tampa, Florida, her birthplace, until the "Hell Harbor" company, under the direction of Henry King, came down there. She was given small bits to do in this picture, and there the trouble began.

After the company left to return to Hollywood, Ruth went to the state college for women at Tallahassee, but she could not settle down to the routine of an A. B. course. The love of the "kisses" was in her veins.

She finally persuaded her mother to let her go to California and try her luck in pictures. She did extra work to familiarize herself with sets, makeup and the camera, and, too, because she wouldn't ask anyone to help her. Then she was given bits. Paramount gave her the ingenue lead in "Monkey Business" with the four Marx Brothers, and Warner's followed this up with a contract she played with Joe E. Brown.

Few Days Remain To Take Advantage Of Tax Extension

Little more than a week remains for taxpayers to take advantage of the semi-annual payment plan now in operation. Tax Collector Loy Acuff said Saturday.

County and state taxes may be paid in half and half installments provided the first half is paid in not later than November 30, said Acuff. Last year, when the plan was new, more than 100 took advantage of it. This year scarcely a dozen have thus far split payments. Second payment must be made by July 1 of the following year under the plan, it was announced.

Taxpayers returning taxes in lump sums have until February without being delinquents.

Mr. R. C. Hatch has returned from Abilene, where he attended the Baptist state convention. Dick Hatch, R. D. Hatch and Happy Hatch went to Lubbock Saturday morning, where they will visit for several days.

Talullah Bankhead Appears With Robert Montgomery In 'Faithless' At R & R Queen

Introducing Talullah Bankhead and Robert Montgomery—Hollywood's newest combination of screen lovers. They appear together for the first time as co-stars of "Faithless," which plays Tuesday and Wednesday at the Queen Theatre.

Miss Bankhead—was borrowed from Paramount to play the feminine lead in this drama of the penniless rich, based on a story by Mildred Cram. It is her first engagement away from the studio which brought her from the London stage to screen stardom.

To add luster to the occasion, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer selected Robert Montgomery for the jaunty hero of the story. Montgomery recently appeared opposite Marion Davies in "Blonde of the Follies." He has also played leading man to Norma Shearer, Greta Garbo and Joan Crawford, and stood forth in his studio's opinion as the personality best suited as a "playmate" for the exotic Miss Bankhead.

This combination brings together two stars who suggest in the public mind the sense of smartness, which the story of "Faithless" requires. It is a romantic tale of two young members of the "idle rich" who become stepchildren of the depression, and find themselves suddenly struggling in the whirlpool of present-day economic adversity.

Good Supporting Cast
A talented cast supports the stars. Included are Hugh Herbert, Maurice Murphy, Louise Clouser Hale, Anna Appel, Lawrence Grant and Henry Kolker. The picture was directed by Harry Beaumont, who has proved himself an expert on dramas of modern youth with such hits as "Dance, Fools, Dance," and "Unashamed."

Slaton Falls Before Steers 31 To 6 In One Of Fastest Games Staged On Local Field

Richbourg Gains More Than 200 Yards From Scrimmage; Visitors Threaten Repeatedly But Falter Near Enemy Goal

The Big Spring High Steers, making their best appearance of the year before less than four hundred fans, defeated the Purple and White Slaton High Tigers here Friday afternoon 31 to 6 in one of the fastest games ever played in Steer Stadium. Combining the long runs of Henry Richbourg, who circled the visitors' ends for more than two hundred yards from scrimmage during the afternoon behind excellent interference, with the aerial attack that has featured their play of the last three games, the Bovines outscored the visitors 5 touchdowns to 1 despite the fact that the Purple backs ripped the Steer forward wall to shreds in midfield and four times advanced within the shadow of the Big Spring goal posts. Mass interference, with Morgan, Smith, Martin, and Koberg in the major roles, enabled the Bovines to break two touchdowns during the day, and to send Richbourg scurrying through the Slaton secondary for gain after gain. An aerial attack, with Morgan on the throwing end and Schwarzenbach outstanding among the receivers, scored three of the locals' touchdowns. Only eight punts were lated during the afternoon as both teams displayed a driving offense that resulted in an avalanche of first downs. Anderson, Gassaway, and Bickerstaff, fleet, hard-hitting Slaton backs, tore through the Steer forward wall out of double wing back formations for numerous gains, and were constant threats to score. Slaton's touchdown came as the result of a 14-yard run by Anderson. On a reverse Hennigan was untouched as he made extra point. Late in the opening quarter Sanders caught the first of a series of passes he was to snag during the game. He made a brilliant run to score. Try for extra point was not successful. In the third quarter Compton again got loose, and by brilliant running, slid off tackle and through the secondary for more than forty yards and a score. Try for extra point went amiss. Sanders caught a long pass down the right side line after repeatedly hiding out and was downed four yards from the goal. O'Neal took it to six inch line on the first play and barely went over on fourth down. His pass to Liberty was good for extra point. It was a see-saw affair in the last quarter, both sides threatening. They will meet for the last time Tuesday afternoon.

perfect interference for a touchdown. Morgan tried to run the extra point but failed. Big Spring 25 to 6. Johnson returned the kickoff to his own 33 yard line. Bickerstaff and Anderson made a first down and Anderson made 10 yards on a reverse play after Bickerstaff had been spilled for a 2 yard loss by Vines. Anderson kicked out on the Big Spring 12 yard line.

Townsend Flashes Fred Townsend, substituted for Richbourg, engineered a Big Spring drive that was culminated when Armes intercepted a pass on his own 43 yard line. Townsend made 12, 11, and 4 yards in succession and then drove out of bounds for no gain. Townsend made it first down on the 50 yard line on the next play and made 5 and 3 yards after Swatzy had picked up three yards at tackle. Morgan passed to Coots for a touchdown but the play was called back and Armes intercepted Morgan's pass on the next play. Anderson and Gassaway made two consecutive first downs but Flowers spilled Gassaway for a 3 yard loss and a low punt was knocked out of bounds by Armstrong on his own 39 yard line. Townsend and Morgan made it first down and Townsend made 14 yards on two running plays. Morgan passed to Cordell for 11 yards, Swatzy fumbling the backward lateral but covered on the Slaton 19 yard line. Morgan passed to Swatzy for a touchdown on the next play. Swatzy missed goal.

From their Richbourg went for a touchdown. The Steer back tore off 20 yards on the first play with Koberg clearing the path, and then made 9 yards on the next play. An incomplete pass forced Morgan to punt. Richbourg gained 17 yards on the exchange when Schwarzenbach made a beautiful 23 yard return of Anderson's punt. Richbourg made five yards around right end, and then circled the left wing for a touchdown. Morgan carried out the offensive half-back after a wall of interference had enabled the Steer captain to circle the end. Then Richbourg twisted out of the hands of Johnson and reeled an additional 20 yards across the goal line. Morgan's try for point was blocked.

Slaton, with the wind at their backs, elected to kick and the Bovines marched down the field from their own 41 yard line for another score. Two five yard penalties failed to stop the drive immediately after Schwarzenbach had returned the kickoff, Morgan passing to Dean for 12 yards, Richbourg gaining 5, and Koberg passing to Richbourg for five more and first down. A running play failed to gain, a pass was incomplete, and a five yard penalty set the Steers back to midfield but on the next play Morgan and Schwarzenbach combination clicked for 21 yards and another first down. Richbourg tore off 3 and 4 yards on successive plays, and another pass to Swatzy made it first down after Richbourg had been spilled for a loss. Richbourg and Swatzy picked up a yard in two plays, another five yard penalty was levied against the Bovines, but the Morgan to Swatzy pairing was good for a touchdown. The Steer quarter took the pass in the flat zone and stepped across the goal line. Morgan missed the extra point.

Slaton responded immediately with a 71 yard march for a touchdown. Bickerstaff, Johnson, and Anderson, together with a 5 yard penalty against the Steers, made it first down, and Bickerstaff and Gassaway paired together for 10 yards to advance the ball to the Big Spring 33 yard line. Waldrep came around on an end around play and Gassaway hit center for a first down on the 20 yard stripe. Bickerstaff, Johnson, and Gassaway made it first down with the aid of a five yard penalty. Gassaway was thrown for a 4 yard loss, and Anderson went over right tackle on a double reverse for a touchdown. Johnson missed the extra point.

Steers Counter The Steers immediately countered with a 56 yard drive across the goal line. A backward lateral on the kickoff, Morgan to Harris, brought the ball to the Big Spring 44 yard line. Richbourg reeled off 30 yards in three plays, and then picked up 16, 4, 2 and 9 in succession. The Steer captain was halted on 2 plays, Harris failed to gain, and on the fourth down Morgan passed to Richbourg for a touchdown. Morgan passed to Schwarzenbach for the extra point.

state that Baugh was one of the best passers and best blockers in the state. He was named to no newspaper and upon occasion will be no more such a statement. At least one fan was delighted with the Slaton-Big Spring contest. Wilburn Barcus, former Waco fan, was heard by almost everyone in the stands explaining the spin formations that the Tigers were displaying. Another Tiger team, Waco, was the first to introduce the spin successfully in Texas. The smallest crowd of the season turned out for Friday's game, and those who remained away missed what was probably the fastest game ever played in Steer Stadium. Only eight times during the contest were the two clubs forced to punt as each team displayed an offensive that advanced the pig-

Follow These Rules When Cooking and Save on Your Gas Service! 1. The burners should be clean and adjusted to give short blue flames; yellow flames deposit soot. 2. If the tips of the flames are below the cooking utensil, the transfer of heat is not efficient. If the utensil is placed low on the flames, so that it touches the pale-blue parts, poisonous gases are produced. The best results are obtained when the outer parts of the flames touch the utensil and spread out slightly. 3. Most of the heat transferred to a cooking utensil comes from the higher parts of the flames; consequently, short flames use gas more efficiently than long ones. In order that short flames may be used, the burner should be close to the utensils. If the burners are more than 1 1/4 inches below the utensil, the gas company should be consulted about having them raised. 4. It is wasteful to allow the flames to lick up around the sides of the utensil. The size of the flames can always be reduced by partly closing the gas cock. 5. A solid lid between the flames and the utensil reduces the transfer of heat; consequently, gas ranges should be equipped with grid tops or skeleton lids, and the flames should be applied directly to the utensils. 6. Flames should be protected from side drafts. EMPIRE SOUTHERN SERVICE CO. Big Spring, Texas

Slogans—And Facts!
ENGLAND, as everybody knows is pushing an energetic campaign to persuade all Englishmen to buy only articles which have been made in England. As a part of this campaign, the slogan "Buy British" is stamped on every letter that passes through the British post office.

But it developed not long ago that the machines which stamp the letters bear the label, "Made in the U.S.A."

And that, after all, is about the way things are apt to happen in any such campaign. It is all right to insist that you will buy only goods made in your own locality, but if someone from far away offers you better stuff for the same price, you are likely to buy from him and all the slogans in the world aren't going to stop you.

Mrs. Bishop Entertains For Her Niece

Mrs. Jake Bishop entertained

ual date-nut pies and coffee were filled with rice and tied with pink and white ribbons.

At the close of the evening while the prizes were being distributed, the lovely handkerchiefs were presented in a pink and white basket to the honoree.

Miss Johnson made high score and was given a silver bread tray which she gave to the prospective bride. Miss Shive's gifts was a set of Maderia pillow cases.

Mrs. J. A. Coffey and Miss Gertrude McIntyre sent gifts but could

Women Enlist In Red Cross Drive On Distress

Little Sarah Jo Thrush tries on a dress made from Red Cross cotton in a chapter production room, where Miss Jeanette Racoonin is one of several hundred volunteers sewing garments for the needy. In the bins behind her are thousands of men's shirts and children's garments to be made up and given away. At right, Miss Mabel T. Boardman, secretary of the chapter, whose leadership several hundred thousand women are making clothing for the unemployed.

OW shall 500,000 bales of Farm Board cotton be converted into clothing for the unemployed and needy, was an urgent question confronting the American Red Cross when Congress voted the raw cotton act that purpose to use Red Cross in December.

Congress also had laid 85,000,000 shels of Farm Board wheat upon the Red Cross doorstep, beginning at March, and the great relief organization had conquered the task of putting flour and bread from this wheat into the homes of 3,500,000 of the nation's needy families. The wheat distribution continues and it is estimated that the free flour will be exhausted until the late spring of 1933.

Cotton presented a complex problem, but the Red Cross swung a large staff of workers into the job, and by October 1 had distributed more than 30,000,000 yards of cotton cloth to more than half of the chapters or counties of the nation. Thousands of women volunteered to make the cloth into garments for school children, for men and for women. Dresses, underwear, men's shirts, boys' suits all were flying from the sewing machines.

Following up the Red Cross prepared to give trousers, overalls, jumpers, knickerbockers, underwear and stockings and socks for all the families.

Without the work of the women who volunteered as seamstresses, and the thousands of men and women who helped give flour, clothing and other direct relief, in the name of the Red Cross, these useful aids to the unemployed would not have been handled so promptly, nor reached so many people, Red Cross officials say.

In the administration of 9th wheat and cotton, the Red Cross will expend an estimated $450,000. Funds from the Red Cross treasury will be used. Every Red Cross membership in the annual roll call from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day will help toward meeting these costs.

Chairman John Barton Payne has characterized the relief emergency facing the Red Cross this winter as the greatest it has had to meet since the World War, and has appealed for the support of every citizen.

West Texas Cactus Shown In Native Rock In Window

A clever bit of West Texas scenery has been captured inside the north show window of the Cunningham and Phillips drug store in the Settles hotel.

The window pictures many things—a hunter stalking a deer on a mountain just about as bare of vegetation as those in the Big Bend country; a variety of Texas and Mexican cacti, and the Mexican pottery which the store sells.

The window was the idea of J. D. Holl of the store. He called in Nat Shick for consultation and Shick, a professional photographer, took the pictures in the center of the window and the man's hands with the blinking lights.

In this rock, two dozen cacti appear to be growing. An orrery were stuck there by Mr. Shick (who got only one splinter in his hand). Close observers will notice that the deer is approaching a small spring of water.

The left-hand ram has three curls to his horns. The horns measure 26 1/2 inches from ntip to tip. Both heads are part of the lighting system of Shick's back yard.

Some of the small cacti in pots me from Old Mexico. Many of the others are native of this section. Cactus plants go especially well with the Mexican pottery and the store does a big transient trade in these items. The window is to call attention to the tourists that both cactus and pottery are sold.

Gems of Peril

by HAZEL ROSS L'AMLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Old Mrs. JUPITER, wife of the millionaire automobile manufacturer, gives an engagement dinner and dance for her secretary, MARY HARKNESS, who is to marry DIRK RUTHER, blue-blooded young lawyer.

Mary receives a telephone call from her scapegrace brother, EDIE, saying he is in trouble and must see her. The honor is strictly guarded against "gate-crashers" because Mrs. Jupiter is wearing the famous Jupiter rubies.

Mary arranges for Edie to be admitted secretly. When she goes upstairs to meet him she finds Mrs. Jupiter robbed and murdered in her room. Seeking Dirk, she finds him with CORNELIA TABOR, his childhood sweetheart. Dirk advises her to keep silent about Edie until he can locate the boy.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER V

It was Dirk's voice—tired, rather, but blessedly his. Mary went weak with joy.

"I've got word of the person we were speaking of," he said. "I'll see you at three o'clock. Can you be ready to wait for me?"

"Oh, Dirk, of course! Then it's all right? Everything's all right?"

"I don't know," he heaved.

"I haven't... with him! Better not say anything to anybody yet. Well, I'm going home and get some sleep now, and I'll be around for you at a quarter of three, sharp. See you then."

The relief Mary had felt at first gave place to a new, more oppressive fear. If he had had good news, or even the hope of some, he would have told her. He had meant to be comforting, but the effect of his words was just the opposite. She was really alarmed now.

The telephone rang again. She picked it up wearily. It was another reporter.

"Yes," she told him automatically.

"Inspector Kane will see you here at 11 o'clock. Mr. Jupiter will be present also. No, there will be no other interview. Mr. Jupiter is very tired and has been ordered to bed."

"But it's half-past 10 now," an outraged voice complained. "I'm in Hackensack, New Jersey!"

"Well," Mary permitted herself the rare luxury of flippancy. "that's what you get for it!" She hung up. What a way to talk—she must be getting light-headed!

The phone shrilled again even as she hung up. She walked away and let it ring.

Three o'clock. If she could just keep her own counsel until then. Somehow she could not bear to face Mr. Jupiter with the knowledge of what she was holding back. So far there has been nothing—noting! There was something—not much, perhaps, but something. She would feel better when the strain of waiting was over, when Mr. Jupiter knew.

She was almost fatalistic about it now. She knew that sooner or later someone would interrogate Bessie, if they had not already done so, and that in all probability Bessie would tell frankly about the side door she had left unlocked at Mary's request. She ought to speak to Bessie.

But something held her back. Pride, of a sort. She could lie herself but she could not ask Bessie to lie. Intrigue with a house-maid would be humiliating at best. Perhaps Inspector Kane was so busy he would forget about Bessie. But as she passed the library door she saw Kane there with Mr. Jupiter and the lawyer, talking with a fourth man who had his back to the door. She recognized with a start that it was Tom, the chauffeur.

Tom was shaking his head with great positiveness.

"I'd take my oath on it," he said, "that it was the same car. Three times it came in and went out the circle in the space of half an hour."

"You'd know it, wouldn't you?"

"I would. A black body with aluminum trimmings and aluminum hood. Mr. Jupiter called our attention to it, that's why I noticed it. A guy was driving it but I didn't see his face."

"Anybody in it?"

"Somebody that I could see."

The detective made a rapid note. "Lorimer. Special body?" The chauffeur nodded.

"All right. Tom, you can go. As an afterthought he called after him. 'That man around, the one that was with you?' Tom disclaimed all knowledge of Bessie with an indifferent shrug. 'Probably sleeping. You want to see her?' The faint accent he placed on the word 'her' indicated that in his opinion this would be a pure waste of time.

"Never mind," Kane said. "I'll see her presently. You talk to her last night? She say anything to you?"

"Dumb as an oyster," Tom shrugged. "She don't know the time of day."

"All right," said Kane absently. "I'll get around to her after while. Now where are those reporters? Let's get them out of the way."

The group of newspapermen waiting in the diningroom, where sleepy-eyed servants had laid a buffet supper at Mr. Jupiter's order, were ushered into the library.

This map shows the towns in and adjoining the Cuban province of Camaguey (shaded area), which bore the brunt of the tropical hurricane which caused an estimated loss of 1,300 lives and caused property damage of $10,000,000. The entire province of Camaguey was reported in ruins. Most of the dead were drowned in a tidal wave that swept the port of Santa Cruz del Sur.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
Debt Negotiations

On November 10, that is on Thursday of last week, the first of the debt payments after the end of the moratorium fell due. It was a sum of $44,920 owed by Greece.

The payment was not made. That same day Hungary notified the Treasury at Washington that it was not able to buy the dollars necessary to make its next payment on December 15. Simultaneously Great Britain and France addressed notes, differing in language but identical in substance, to the Secretary of State. These notes do not announce a default or threaten a repudiation; they ask for a reconsideration of the debt agreements and a suspension of the payments due on December 15 while a new settlement is being negotiated.

The President has asked the British and French requests. It was inevitable that he should do this. For while the decision as to what to do about the December 15 payments falls within Mr. Hoover's term of office, the decision about suspending the next payment involves the much greater question as to whether the United States will consent to negotiate a revision of the whole debt settlement. The British and French are not asking merely for a suspension of the next payment but for a suspension in order to negotiate a new agreement. Therefore, the question is not whether the creditor will give the debtor more time but whether he will reconsider the terms of the debt.

In approaching the problem it is desirable to have in mind the essential facts about the history of inter-governmental indebtedness since the war. Fortunately, a thoroughly reliable American study of the question is now available in a volume just published by the Brookings Institute under the title "War Debts and World Prosperity." This book brings together in convenient form material which has hitherto been scattered about in all sorts of official documents. It is the indispensable source book of the debate which will be carried on for months to come.

The most illuminating conclusion which emerges from a study of the history of war debts is that the United States has from the beginning been lending its debtors the money to pay their debts. The record discloses the fact that the system of governmental payments has never worked at any time.

The first period lasted from April 1917 to September 26, 1919. During this time the Allies borrowed most of the money involved in these debts and paid the interest punctually out of the money they borrowed. In September, of 1919 the Treasury, under the Administration of Mr. Carter Glass, grew tired of this system of pyramiding the debt and granted the debtor nations a moratorium of three years.

The second period lasted from September 26, 1919, to May 1, 1923, in the case of Finland, and to May 2, 1926, in the case of Yugoslavia. The British resumed payments beginning June 19, 1928. The Italians began, November 14, 1925, and the French beginning April 29, 1926. The four or seven year period was the first moratorium. It was initiated by the Wilson Administration and was carried on for as much as five years by the Harding and Coolidge Administrations. During the time no money was advanced to the debtor governments by the Treasury, no considerable amount was advanced to the debtor nations by American investors, and ably expect the refining and marketing branches of the business to improve." Of the railroad-truck fight, Ipaty said: "Fair and reasonable regulations are necessary for carriers that use the highways. But the tendency is to go beyond this and impose restrictions in the name of regulation when the real purpose is economic. The nonsense of certain limitations as to weight, dimensions and load, and the sinister purpose of the sponsors, must be apparent at a glance."

He asserted the present state tax on gasoline averages four cents a gallon in the United States, with an additional federal tax of one cent, making a total of about 100 per cent on the wholesale price of the product.

"Last year the states alone collected directly in gasoline taxes $536,000,000, while the net earnings of the industry were worse than nil. One company reported to its stockholders a net loss of $9,000,000, while it had paid $40,000,000 in gasoline taxes.

"I have just seen a chart and mathematical computation showing that if the trend of these taxes and gasoline prices continues, it should be continued until 1935 the tax rate will average 5.88 cents per gallon and the retail price of gasoline will be 85 cents a gallon below nothing.

"It has been discovered that enterprises but unscrupulous persons charged with payment of the tax were deliberately evading this obligation for profit to themselves. This practice grew and has continued to grow until this tax evasion has become a national racket comparable at least with other bootlegging which has soiled our national escutcheon."

At the close of his year's service as president, Beatty addressed approximately 3,000 members gathered from all parts of the nation for the Institute's 13th annual meeting. Beatty, former general counsel and president of the Texas Company, laid the blame for tax evasion and demoralization of the oil markets on excessive, discriminatory gasoline taxes.

Gasoline Bootlegging Comparable As National Racket To Any Other Form Declares President Of A.P.I.

HOUSTON (UP)—Gasoline bootlegging was described by Amos L. Beatty, president of the American Petroleum Institute, as a "national racket comparable at least with other bootlegging which has soiled our national escutcheon."

Beatty, former general counsel and president of the Texas Company, laid the blame for tax evasion and demoralization of the oil markets on excessive, discriminatory gasoline taxes.

At the same time, he saw a spark of hope in the past year's developments in the petroleum industry, saying "our industry has made progress during the year and is still headed in the right direction."

He hailed the Texas company's passage of a "market-clearing" conservation law as "the outstanding achievement of the year."

"The oil industry has an opportunity to operate rationally so far as this state is concerned," said Beatty. "Oklahoma and Kansas have their houses in order and have not for some time permitted the physical or economic waste of oil."

"There is a fair balance between supply and demand we may reason-payments be reviewed" or the French request for "further study." These are friendly requests from friendly governments whose record of financial integrity is quite as good as our own.

It is inconceivable that Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt should refuse them a reconsideration of the problem and a suspension of payments in the interim. For while there are many difficult points to be decided on which there is room for differences of opinion, there should be no difficulty whatever about recognizing the necessity of a new examination of "the whole matter."

Clearly there is a problem here which cannot be dismissed. Clearly, there is a fundamental difficulty in the inter-governmental debt structure. Just as clearly the United States cannot refuse the British request that the regime of debt

Independent Oil Men Called Again For Tariff Fight

TULSA, Ok.,—Sounding protest of the domestic producer, major and independent, as the principal theme, the Independent Petroleum Association of America opened its annual meeting here Monday.

Russell B. Brown, chief counsel, told the association he feared the next Congress may repeal the revenue act which now provides for levies on petroleum imports and substitute a sales tax for it. He urged continuation of the fight for an oil tariff or an import tax to aid the American industry.

The committee on policies and program reported, urging activity in seeking correction of the tax evasion evil, reduction of state gasoline taxes, use of gasoline tax funds strictly for highway maintenance or construction and restriction of crude oil production to balance demand.

one-third by the Cord group, and the remaining one-third to be independent prominent men mutually agreed upon by the two groups. All matters at issue will be resolved by the new board and litigation ended.

Cord, manufacturer of the Auburn and Cord automobiles, director of Aviation Corporation, and holder of 30 per cent of the corporation's outstanding stock, had sought the proxies of stockholders to enable him to elect a majority of the board of directors at the stockholders' meeting.

Cord, backed by the banking firm of Lehman Brothers, sought to retain control. He also solicited proxies. Yesterday he filed a million-dollar suit at Abilene, Tex., against the interests of E. P. Hutton & Co., a Wall Street house which had been supporting Cord. Cord alleged that a booklet issued by the brokerage firm seeking Cord proxies contained "misstatements and untruths."

against every action. The jury is supposed to be impartial. Onwardly it is inwardly you can detect three, probable opposition votes which would be a majority of one. The three are Borah, Glenn and Wagner. They have not announced their positions and may change if later developments warrant.

Only one friend of the treaty stands out on the committee. He is Walsh of Montana.

NOTES

The Drys privately hoped to play the sales tax against the beer tax in Congress but the Treasury figures will prevent that strategy. Instead, it will help the two to go hand-in-hand. The big three for the Cabinet, Owen Young, Newton Baker and John W. Davis are supposed to be reluctant to serve for personal business reasons. The pre-occupation of big men in their own businesses and the necessity for distributing cabinet jobs geographically will make final choices a tough task. Four years ago Mr. Hoover issued virtually the same warning against cabinet speculation as was issued by Governor Roosevelt. "You can't stop people from thinking and talking about these things."

cently voted constitutional amendment Blankenship indicated the "fury" of the teachers was to mold public opinion to raise money for the schools by other means than an ad valorem tax. Teachers must help themselves if they are to be helped, he said. He condemned business men for demanding high school and college graduates for employees and failing to support the schools. In pleading for cooperation in solving the problem he concluded, "Let's look at the whole truth and be satisfied with nothing less."

Accepts Conditions
Dr. Gray philosophically accepted present conditions saying the time would come when those who failed to do their best would "regret discounting opportunities." After urging all teachers to join with the association in furthering its program he launched into a discussion on education as a state function. Perpetuity of the state rests on the soundness of its education. He quoted Woodrow Wilson to the effect the state should support fe-

Every Cosden Oil Company Employee Joins Howard County Red Cross

Cosden Oil company employees of Big Spring have enrolled 100 per cent in the annual Red Cross Call, according to J. A. Bodie, of the Cosden company, who has acted as collector of memberships in that organization. Every employee of the company, said Mr. Bodie, was very anxious to do his bit in making the annual Red Cross roll call a success this year. E. J. Mary, superintendent of the Cosden company here, is happy over the fact that his employees have joined this worth-while movement, saying that his company and employees always stand ready to lend whatever assistance they can in any undertaking, for the good of the community.

Glasscock County Sends First Man To Prison For Murder

GARDEN CITY — Glasscock county, organized 29 years ago, sent its first man to the penitentiary for murder Friday.

Guillermo Jaso, a Mexican, was convicted on a charge growing out of fatal shooting of another Mexican, Manuel Gonzales, at a dance last Sunday morning on the Grady Cross ranch. He was given a 5-year term.

Two piercing heart, four plunging through the brain. Any one of the wounds would have caused death, physicians said. The Mexican was indicted within 24 hours after the shooting and his sentence passed four days later.

Accident Details Given By Driver

Charlie Tidwell, who was driving his car, in which he was carrying a party of friends to a funeral service at Bafd, and which was parked near Sweetwater, injuring Mrs. Frank Powell of Big Spring, Saturday gave details of the accident.

The Tidwell car turned over on its side on Highway 1 a short distance east of Sweetwater. It did not go into a ditch as first reported. Mrs. Tidwell said that she had started to drive a Ford coupe with a top down when she was going to pass him. Both cars were moving in the same direction. As he started to pass the car the driver swung it back to the middle of the paving Tidwell said there was a culvert abutment directly ahead of his car and rather than strike it or go into the ditch he applied his brakes and his car fell over on the side.

Mrs. Powell's condition, although serious, was said not to be critical.

Dr. Hob Gray Is Lions Speaker

Goodfellow Fund Plan Put Before Club By Dr. Bennett

Lions Friday heard an address by Dr. Hob Gray, Texas College for Women instructor in education and philosophy and guest speaker at the Howard county teachers meeting here, in which Dr. Gray upheld and pled for loyalty.

Dr. M. H. Bennett spoke briefly for the Goodfellow Christmas fund. The First Christian church quartet, under the direction of Lion E. W. Potter, gave two numbers. Members of the musical unit were Virgil Smith, Steve Baker, H. W. Goodpastor and Potter. Miss Eva Mae O'Neal gave two readings and F. C. Scott two saxophone solos.

Other guests were W. C. Blankenship, L. L. Martin, and Charles Corley. Clyde Waits and E. W. D. Lindley were in charge of the program.

Spring, Saturday gave details of the accident. The Tidwell car turned over on its side on Highway 1 a short distance east of Sweetwater. It did not go into a ditch as first reported.

Mrs. Powell's condition, although serious, was said not to be critical.

Education was no longer an individual matter, according to Dr. Gray. He painted a picture of an educationless generation declaring it would take centuries for the race to recover, because, he said, educational gains already made were based on continuity.

Dr. Gray pleaded for equal opportunities for rural and city school children. Poor communities meant poor tools, and poor schools meant ignorance, he said as he came to his attack on the per capita system of apportionment.

George Gentry, high school principal, introduced Dr. Gray in the evening session. In the afternoon meeting Dr. Gray, besides explaining the importance of the state teachers organization and the wisdom of standardizing seventh grade work in the county, gave his philosophy of teaching.

His philosophy included eight divisions: Power, which he explained as knowledge; humor, or the ability to laugh when the joke was on teacher, or to smile when others frowned, or to discern mischief from malice; industry, giving more than the job demands; open mindedness, to know right from wrong, not to be afraid of new ideas, or not to succumb to prejudices; sincerity, teaching what the teacher believes and living what is taught; optimism, not foolish but rather faith; professional pride, no apologies for being a teacher; and a true sense, which he confessed was better explained as "gumption."

"Horse sense is the ability to put the grease where the squeak is," he said.

"An educated man is one who can do a common thing in a common way," Dr. Gray believed. Regarding life he declared, "Life is a series of absorptions of reflections, and our lives are not measured by years, but by spirit."
