Formal Opening Slated Tuesday

A symposium of music and dance featuring original compositions by Tech students and faculty will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Music auditorium by the Department of Music at the formal opening of the recently completed Music building.

Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of the Music department, expressed the hope that this idea of a concert of original compositions can be made an annual affair, perhaps inviting high school and college students in this area to attend, and giving awards for the best compositions. The symposium will be open to the public.

Special guests will be Tech students and faculty, out-of-town musical directors and local persons active in music.

The program, which is arranged in sections for Tech Madrigal Singers, the Glee clubs, Tech Choir and individual performers in instrument and voice is as follows:

Southwest conference officials slammed the door to Tech for the second time in three years in a meeting of the conference committee at Dallas today. The conference voted not to increase its membership.

Dr. J. W. Davis, faculty athletic chairman, and DeWitt T. Weaver, athletic director, presented Tech's bid for entry in the annual Southwest conference business session.

Colorado Governor Graduation Speaker

Dan Thornton, a Lubbock High School graduate and a Tech-ex, will speak at the Tech graduation exercise May 26 in Jones stadium. Thornton, governor of Colorado, attended UCLA after leaving Tech.

The Rev. Robert E. Goodrich, Jr., pastor of the First Methodist church of Dallas, will be the principal speaker at the Baccalaureate services to be held at 8 p.m. Sunday, May 25, also in Jones stadium.

All seniors expecting to graduate must be cleared by their divisional deans by Monday. They must have checked all courses for graduation, paid the $5 graduation fee, and filled in forms in the placement office by Monday.

Council To Adopt Next Year's Budget

Adoption of a budget for 1952-53 will be the main item on the agenda for a regular Student council meeting at 7:15 p.m. Monday in Ad206, said Bob Schmidt, president.

Other business will include an evaluation of the new procedure on class cuts, setting dates for activities next fall, including the official out-of-town football trip, and election of a representative to the athletic council.

Allocations to campus organizations and student enterprises are included on the budget adoption.

It was Tech's second try in three years. They were turned down in the initial attempt and the conference was closed to applicants for the three year period.

TU Backed Tech

The fact that Tech had entered another application was brought to light about a month ago when Texas university's board of regents announced publicly that they would back Tech in the forthcoming meeting.

This was followed about three weeks later by an announcement to the same effect issued by Texas A&M officials.

For the time being, Tech will remain a member of the Border conference. Future plans for re-application are not known at this time.

SWC Teams Played

Tech has been playing Southwest conference teams for years, sometimes meeting as many as five in one season. Its record has been respectable and in some instances remarkable. Last year, for example, Tech beat Texas Christian, the Southwest conference champ.

Tech officials were not bitter and stated that apparently the Southwest conference was simply not ready for Tech at this time.

Southwest conference members include Baylor, Arkansas, Rice, Southern Methodist, Texas, Texas A&M and Texas Christian.

Twenty ROTC air force cadets received awards Thursday afternoon during drill for outstanding

Ag Judging Team Finishes Seventh

Tech's dairy cattle judging team rolled up 2,780 points to place seventh in a dairy cattle show last weekend in Kansas City, Mo.

The team ranked second in judging of Guernsey and Milking Shorthorn cattle.

Iowa State College won first place in the meet with a total of 3,108 points. There were 11 teams entered in the contest.

All four members of Tech's team placed in individual judging of cattle. In the Milking Shorthorn division, Carl Menzies, second sophomore, ranked third and Charles Browning, Burleson sophomore, placed fifth.

In the Guernsey section, Roy Miller, Friona junior, was sixth and Spencer Norwood, Burleson sophomore, rated eighth.

The team left last Friday and returned Wednesday. They were accompanied by Roy L. Neely, team coach and associate professor of animal husbandry.

Texas Tech's Typewriter Thefts Remain Unsolved

Police still have not found clues as to the identity of thieves who took six typewriters from campus buildings on the night of April 25.

Five typewriters valued at $695 were taken from the government, speech, and military departments. A machine belonging to Capt. A. E. McCook, associate professor of Military Science and Tactics, also was stolen.

Cadet Col. Robert G. Schmidt, Lubbock, was presented the annual award for the outstanding senior air force ROTC cadet.

The award for the outstanding junior air force cadet went to James McMillan, Dallas.

Military excellence ribbons were presented to five basic air force cadets. Award winners were William Anderson, Lubbock; Herbert Brannon, Enstace; Larry Hanners, Lubbock; Johnny Meyers, Ft. Worth, and Richard Zeech, Lamesa.

'As You Like It' Closes Saturday

"As You Like It," the speech department play currently giving Shakespeare a boost in the eyes of Tech students, will be presented Saturday in the last performance in the Speech auditorium.

The play is the last to be directed by Miss Cecilia Thompson, assistant professor of speech, before she leaves to complete her doctorate at the University of Iowa.

Any remaining tickets may be obtained upon presentation of the student activity book. Price to the general public is $1.

Performances are scheduled for 7:30 and 8 p.m. Saturday.

Annual Freshman Picnic To Be Held Wednesday

The annual freshman class picnic will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday at Buffalo Lakes, says Elmer Wilson, class president.

Upperclassmen are eligible to attend if dating a freshman. Each couple should bring their own picnic lunch. Recreation will include swimming, volleyball and other sports.

Alvino Rey Dance Tickets Sell Fast

Tickets for the most elaborate Junior-Senior prom in Tech's history are going fast, according to Dick Witte, junior class president.

Juniors are selling tickets for the dance to be held next Friday at Lubbock Country Club, which will be one of the concluding semi-formal events of the year.

Alvino Rey, his "talking guitar" and orchestra will furnish the music for the semi-formal prom. The 34-year-old Rey is known as one of the most versatile musicians in the business. He is considered a fine jazz artist and a "musician's musician."

Decorations for the prom are being donated by Wakefield's Flowers, Witte said.

The dance will last from 8 p.m. until 12, and dormitory hours will be extended to 1 a.m. for the girls who attend, he added.

Ticket prices are $1.25 for couples and $3.00 for stags.

Giuseppe di Stefano to Present Final Artists Course Concert Monday Night

Giuseppe di Stefano, Metropolitan Opera company tenor, will appear on the final Artists course program of the year at 8 p.m. Monday in the Lubbock high school auditorium.

Di Stefano makes his first Lubbock appearance on his fourth American concert tour. He is one of the most popular Met singers, and this year celebrates his fifth anniversary as leading tenor of the opera company, singing in "La Boheme," "Traviata," "Manon" and "Rigoletto."

He has been in such high demand by the Metropolitan Opera that it has been necessary to change the date for his Lubbock appearance three times.

The popular singer's American tour comes after a number of record-breaking performances in opera at Rio de Janeiro and in Italy.

Tech students will be able to see the performance on presentation of their activity books or auditors receipt. Prices for adults are $1.80 and other students $1.50.

Contract for engraving of 1953 La Ventana was awarded to Southwestern Engraving company of Dallas.

Printing contract for the yearbook was granted to Economy Advertising company of Iowa City, Iowa. Both companies received contracts last year.

A called meeting was set for 5 p.m. Wednesday in J204, when the photographic contract for La Ventana will be awarded and routine business discussed.

Seniors Choose Gift for New SUB

Seniors have accepted a recommendation by the senior gift committee that the 1952 gift fund of approximately $570 be used to aid in financing a conduit for the public address system of the new Student Union building, said Mary Byars Turner, chairman.

Miss Turner stated that the conduit would cost about $1,000. The committee will propose that next year's senior class add the necessary amount for purchasing the gift. Also it will recommend that a report be made to the Student council each year by the senior gift committee of proceedings in selecting a gift.

A third recommendation will be that each senior class investigate available funds and make use of them throughout the year.

Members of the gift committee are Miss Turner, Martha Butler, Peggy Carter, Jerry Freeman and Dudley Montgomery. Dan Pursel, recreation hall director, was consultant.

Tom Gregory, 1951 textile engineering graduate and former employee of Bemis Bag company, Bemis, Tenn., is now working at production control for Texas Textile mills at Waco, Tex.

Want a Toreador? . . .

Publication of The Toreador will be suspended during the summer months this year due to lack of funds to cover printing costs.

Announcement of the decision was made Wednesday at a meeting of the publications committee. The present allotment from the summer recreation fund was considered too small to continue publication of the paper through the summer.

While printing and engraving costs have spiraled during the past two or three years, The Toreador's allocation has not been increased in proportion. At present the school newspaper receives 69 cents per student for each semester of the regular school year. This amount is not sufficient to cover expenses.

The Student council indicated its desire to see The Toreador continue full-scale publication by voting funds to aid in covering expenses during the last three weeks of this semester.

An allocation from the student activity fee of $1.25 per student will assure publication of The Toreador next fall. This figure does not seem unreasonable in comparison to the amount received by other college papers in Texas.

A survey conducted by the department of journalism of Texas Christian University three years ago disclosed that three semi-weekly student college newspapers in Texas received allotments from student activity fees as follows:

- Southern Methodist university—$1.25 per student per semester. (Out of a $12 student activity fee.)
- Sam Houston State college—$1.50 per student per semester. (Out of a $10 student activity fee.)
- North Texas State college—$1.80 per student per semester. (Out of a $15 student activity fee.)

Italian Tenor Will Take Lead On Last Artists Course Show

By PAT JOHNSON
Toreador Associate Editor

Techsans who attend the operas in Dallas this weekend will have a chance for a second listen to the tenor who sang the role of Rodolfo in the Saturday matinee of Puccini's "La Boheme."

Monday night, Giuseppe di Stefano, Metropolitan Opera company soloist, will be presented on the concluding concert of the 1951-52 Artists Course series.

The 29-year-old Italian will probably sing a few of the numbers he has recorded for one of the nation's record companies. Di Stefano has recorded a group of Sicilian folk songs and operatic pieces of Verdi.

The young singer has been receiving good critics' reviews in his fourth American concert tour foretelling an excellent performance in his first Lubbock appearance. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. and will be held in the Lubbock High School auditorium.

Hear ye, hear ye seniors! Students who expect to graduate on May 26 must be cleared with their deans by Monday.

This clearance includes final checking of courses for graduation, including correspondence courses, payment of graduation fees, filing forms in the Placement office, etc.

"Big D" has another drawing card besides the operas this weekend. The Southwest conference meeting—'nuf said.

Dan Pursel, Recreation hall director, is still looking for students to work on nine committees in connection with the new Student Union building.

The new gathering place is slated for occupation by the fall term and committeemen are needed to make the activities of the recreation spot a success.

Persons are needed to carry through plans on entertainment, dance, social, finance, movies, square dance, house, hospitality and games.

It would be an excellent opportunity for students to be of service to the campus while they are having fun.

BACKTALK

Dear Editor:

This may not be worth space in The Toreador, but here goes, anyway. It needs airing somewhere.

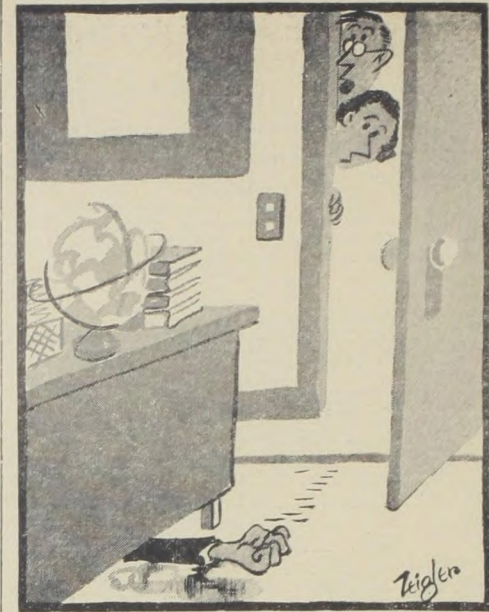

During this semester the question of whether to admit national sororities and fraternities to the campus has come to a vote, or will soon do so, in the social clubs. Concerning just who should vote on this question, it seems to me that an injustice is being done to the student body as a whole.

The office of the Dean of Women has stated her position as favoring the decision of the question by a majority of the social clubs, alone, because the "National" issue is considered to be routine club business, and independents do not customarily vote on club affairs. However, the dean expects the Greeks to help Tech as a whole, by furnishing incentives for better scholastic averages, gaining "prestige" with other colleges, etc. The dean's assistant said that the entire student body WOULD vote if no clubs were organized. Should the fact that a certain group of students would join the sororities or fraternities, as a body previously organized, give that group the sole right to decide whether the college should have the national affiliations?

Campus organizations who affiliate will close their present identity and traditions, retaining only for a year or two their former individual membership. The standards for membership will then become those of the nationals.

Since the proposed admission of Greeks to the campus is thought by practically everybody to be likely to affect the entire campus for years to come, why not let ALL the students on the campus decide the issue. Let's send a petition to the board of directors that represents the wishes of all of us, on this matter which will affect all of us.

"Like I always said, you could get away with murder in his class!"

Tickets for Prom Sold At Old Milk Wagon

By JOHN NORCROSS
Toreador Editor

Tickets for the annual Junior-Senior Prom, to be staged next Friday night in the Lubbock Country club, are now being "dispensed" from an ancient milk-wagon located in the center of the Circle.

Junior class officials who thought of the idea seemed to have hit the jackpot, since tickets are going fast. Only 500 date tickets, priced at $1.25, were printed since the country club will only accommodate about 1,000 persons.

Booked to play for the annual dance is Alvino Rey, famous "King of the Guitar," and his orchestra. If you haven't already purchased tickets for the prom, you'd better head for the wagon.

Here's a must on every student's list—the speech department's production of "As You Like It." It received a very favorable review on its opening night. The cast was described as giving a "stellar performance." In fact, several persons attending the first night performance said the play could hardly have been better with a Broadway cast.

Tickets for the remaining nights may be obtained without charge in the speech building or from members of the cast. So don't miss this year's last speech play. You will probably go away feeling much kinder toward Shakespeare.

As you may have noticed, two pages in this issue have been devoted to news and feature stories concerning the opening of the new Music building.

The department will show off its new quarters in a formal opening celebration Tuesday. All students have been invited to attend the open house.

On the Monday following the formal opening of the building, Tech's Festival Chorus will present an oratorio in the recital hall. "Elijah," by Mendelssohn is a choral work of gigantic proportions, a big undertaking for any chorus.

The Festival Chorus is open to all students interested in singing, whether they are music majors or not. Ira Schantz states that in this year's chorus are students from all divisions. He also reports that, oddly enough, every student seems to like working with classical music, even though they may not have thought they would.

About The Campuses

The caretaker of the Baylor theater at Baylor university was awarded a gold loving cup at the theater's annual spring banquet. The "Oscar" is given to a person outside the theater organization who has done the most for the theater during the year. The caretaker has been with the department five years.

Trinity university of San Antonio will move to its new 107-acre campus near Alamo stadium May 13. Moving vans will parade in style from the present site, the former University of San Antonio campus. A "Miss Moving Day" will be elected by the students.

The first free all-campus Rogues' ball was recently presented by Delta Chi of Stanford university. Dress for the ball was appropriate to the theme. The men wore slouch hats and shoulder holsters and the women wore low-cut blouses and slit skirts.

A recent poll made at the University of Texas asked what students thought was the most common fault among teachers. The answers were about the same, except the one that stated "too much psychic trauma and insolence toward students."

The annual Kappa Delta Heaven and Hell party was celebrated at the University of Tulsa recently. The front room of the lodge represented heaven and the sunroom resembled the devil's abode. Angel-food ice cream and devil's-food cake were served.

Every college has its own annual days for some special purpose and at Colorado School of Mines they have "Pants Day," when pledges of the engineering societies attempt to capture the pants of all active members. When they get them they throw them up in the "pantries" out of member's reach. Members ignore all snide remarks, such as "The company commander quite resembles a majorette, doesn't he?" or "oh, look how bony the major's legs are!"

Summer Session Program Outlined

Tech's music department is planning to conduct band, choir, and orchestra schools during the summer, for college, high and junior high school students, says Prof. Raymond Elliott, coordinator.

Dr. D. O. Wiley, Tech band director, will conduct the band school, which is scheduled from June 5 through July 2. Tech has held band school for the past 18 summers. There will be three concert and marching bands, and classes taught by specialists in woodwind, brass and percussion instruments. Marching and twirling technique will also be taught. Dr. A. A. Harding, conductor emeritus of the University of Illinois bands, will be guest conductor.

The choir school, which will begin June 9 and continue through June 21 for high school students, and June 19 through July 2 for junior high school students, will be directed by Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of Tech's music department. Professor Elliott will assist him.

Voice Instruction Offered
The Tech summer school choir began in the summer of 1951. Class voice instruction for each section of the choir, and singing experience under well-known conductors are two of the courses offered this summer. Mrs. Elois Elliott, coordinator of music for Lubbock schools, will direct the junior high choir.

The orchestra school will start June 5 and last through June 18. It will be directed by Joe Had-

Those who visit the beautiful, new Music building Tuesday will see a structure planned in a remarkable way for studying and teaching music.

This large building has three levels, the first floor being partly below ground. The walls are made of volcanic tile. An air space of an inch is left on either side of the inner walls, which are finished with acoustical plaster. This helps make the rooms soundproof, states Raymond Elliott, assistant professor of music.

Music studios are grouped in suites on the second floor. Every precaution has been taken to make these soundproof also. Floors are covered with cork, walls and ceilings with acoustical plaster and celotex. The stained birch doors are extra thick and have rubber strips around them. At the bottom, strips are automatically pushed to the floor when the doors are closed, making them so tight that no sound will go through.

Recorder In Studios

All studios are equipped with a portable wire recorder so that a recording can be made and transmitted to the recording room without the student and instructor having to leave the studio. Each studio contains a new grand piano.

Each lecture room has a new piano and record player in it. One room contains seven pianos and seven dummy keyboards, enabling 14 students to work at the same time. There are 12 practice rooms for use of students, containing pianos.

The spacious library has a section with shelves made for records, and space for music books and reading tables. It is paneled in birch. Three listening rooms adjoin the library in which students may listen to certain compositions and read the score at the same time.

Offices On First Floor

Offices for Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of the music department, and Dr. D. O. Wiley, band director, are on the first floor. A choral library joins Dr. Hemmle's office and a band library joins Dr. Wiley's office. The recording room is also on this floor.

Choral and band rooms are on the first floor, which makes loading equipment onto busses easier, Elliott says. The rooms are decorated in shades of blue and tan. Each is connected to storage rooms for uniforms and instruments. Heat for these rooms is radiated from pipes in the floors. Two new grand pianos are in the choral room. Portable racks help minimize the handling of choral music.

Music from the band and choral rooms can be recorded in the recording room, then played back into the music rooms.

The upper rooms are heated by forced air. Lockers in the halls provide places for students to store books and instruments.

Fee Scholarships Open to Musicians

Scholarships offered by the department of music provide payment of the applied music fees. The scholarships have been established by the SPEBSQA, the Lubbock Symphony association, Lubbock Music club, Allegro Music club, South Plains Music Teachers association, and the Seagraves Music club. The scholarships included are both instrumental and vocal.

Students may also benefit through the work opportunities in music offered by St. Paul's Episcopal church, and string students above the freshman level are offered opportunities to teach strings in the Lubbock Public schools.

Auditions for 1952-53 awards will be held in the Music building early in June. For further information contact Dr. Gene Hemmle, department head.

Student and Faculty Composers Plan To Present Original Works Tuesday

By TIPTON MILLER
Toreador Staff Writer

Student composers will have their works presented for the first time as part of the dedication program of the new Music building at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The original compositions range in style from impressionistic to the neo-classic of today.

Compositions by music faculty members will also be presented at the dedication program. These are largely in the vocal field, ranging from church music to the lighter vein of the Fred Waring style. They will not all be first performances.

Courses Offered For All Students

The music department at Texas Tech, while providing courses in technical music, has not forgotten those students who do not major in music but who are interested in some musical training.

Any student on the campus can get private instruction in voice, piano, band or an orchestral instrument. Tuition fees have been lowered, beginning Sept. 1, 1952, to $30 a semester for two private lessons a week.

Class instruction in any of these forms of music is also available to the non-music major free of charge, beginning on the same date.

Choral organizations of the music department are all open to non-majors, and most of the members of the Tech Choir, Tech Men's Glee club, Festival Chorus and Madrigal Singers are not majors, according to Dr. Gene Hemmle, head of the department.

Tech Band is another organization made up largely of non-music majors. Its members are chosen by try-outs, for which any student is eligible. The music department is planning to sponsor an orchestra soon which will be selected from both music majors and non-majors.

The department offers four special courses to elementary education majors to prepare them to teach music to young children in school. It has other courses which are taken by majors in other fields to help them with their work or with their leisure time activities.

For the student who does not care to play an instrument or sing, who loves music, the department offers a special course in music appreciation, called "Introduction to Music Literature."

Dr. Hemmle stresses the fact that the general student taking a course in the music department does not have to compete with music majors.

inspired by the Henry Van Dyke poem of the same name. Her accompaniment figure is based on skips of fifths, while the melody shows an influence of the whole-tone scale. Chromaticism is used in chord resolutions.

Sammie Corley's "Mandoline" was inspired by the poem "Fetis de Galantes" by Verlaine. This composer's aim was to fit the music in a semi-modern mood, using chords based on fourths. "Mary Had a Little Lamb," also by Corley, is a modern arrangement of the well-known nursery rhyme.

Charles Davenport's "Allegro" is written in sonata form to present contrast between a humorous main theme and a heroic sub-theme. The main theme is expanded to form the short "scherzando" section, which is followed by reiteration of the heroic theme in the tonic.

Writes For Fun

Mariellen Garner says that her "To a Katy-Did" is a short work written "merely for fun and entertainment." It was inspired by the poem of the same name.

Neva J. Keeseecker describes her "Mandoline," a solo for alto See COMPOSERS, Page 6

Department Sees Fast Enlargement

The Department of Music has grown so rapidly in the past three years that it has undergone a complete reorganization, and the faculty has been tripled.

In the revision of the curriculum, a Bachelor of Music Degree is now offered with four majors; also offered is a Bachelor of Arts degree. A major leading to a graduate degree in Music Education has been approved by the Division of Graduate Studies.

During this period of growth three major choral organizations have been established, along with numerous small ensembles. Choral robes have been purchased for these groups. Another feature is the regular student recitals that are presented.

In the new $300,000 Music building that has just been completed, record and choral libraries have been established. The band and orchestra libraries have been enlarged, and over $40,000 has been spent for new instruments.

MUSIC FACULTY—Well-versed in all phases of music, Tech's music faculty has represented the college in a number of musical activities throughout Texas and other states during the current school year. Left to right, they are: Back row—Raymond Elliott, Robert Dean, Ira Schantz, D. O. Wiley, Joe Haddon, Herbert Colvin; Seated—Miss Mary Jeanne van Appledorn, Gene Hemmle, Mrs. Myrtle Dunn Short.

Festival Chorus Will Present 'Elijah'; All-Student Cast Featured in Oratorio

"Elijah," an oratorio by Felix Mendelssohn, will be presented by the Festival Chorus of the Tech music department at 8 p.m. Monday, May 19, in the recital hall of the new Music building. Ira Schantz, music instructor and director of the chorus, announces. Seventy-nine students will be featured in the production, with ten taking solo parts. The oratorio will be the first to be presented in the new recital hall, Schantz states.

Green To Sing Title Role

Cecil Green, baritone, will sing the title role of Elijah in the oratorio, which depicts the life of the famous Biblical prophet. Other soloists will be Nancy Davis, Dorothy Guinn, Marjorie Hendrick and Shirley Sears, soprano; Marjorie Scales and Rosemary Sprague, contraltos; Don Anders and Claude Hedspeth, tenors; Bob Northington, bass.

Providing accompaniment for the choral work will be Miss Mary Jeanne van Appledorn, pianist, and Herbert Colvin, organist. Both are music instructors.

Written In 1846

Composed in 1846, "Elijah" is one of the two most famous oratorios ever written, Director Schantz says. Handel's "Messiah" is the other.

No admission will be charged for the performance, which will be open to the public.

Music Organizations To Be Sponsors Of Opening Ceremony for New Building

Sponsoring dedication ceremonies at the new Music building next week will be four music organizations. Tau Beta Sigma, Kappa Kappa Psi, Mu Phi Epsilon and the Men's Music fraternity have all played a major part in getting the building ready for a formal presentation to the public.

Many students outside the music department are unacquainted with these organizations and their functions. Kappa Kappa Psi and Tau Beta Sigma, which are the band fraternity and sorority respectively, are of long standing on the campus.

Began 15 Years Ago

The chapter of Kappa Kappa Psi, whose current president is Bob Reitz, was organized approximately 15 years ago. Tau Beta Sigma, headed by Marjorie Asbill, is about three years younger. These national organizations are made up of band students who have a one-point average.

Mu Phi Epsilon is a national professional sorority which is open to women majoring or minoring in music and who have a two-point average. Two public concerts are sponsored each year. Under the leadership of Miss Joyce Carthel, president, Mu Phi Epsilon is in its first year as a national affiliate.

Youngest Group

The Men's Music Fraternity, youngest of the group, is as yet unaffiliated with any national organization. This fraternity is open to men interested in and participating in music activities on the campus. Plans are now underway to affiliate with the national professional music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha (Sinfonia). Paul Laverty of Midland is president.

These organizations hold as their common purpose the promotion of friendship among music students and the encouragement of performance of music in this area. Their main project this year has been the preparation of the Music building for the coming dedication.

voice, as an attempt to apply methods of the music of today "in a unity that presents pleasing sounds." Some of the intervals in the vocal line may be called irregular. In accompaniment, she has made use of the fourth and seventh chords with chromaticism being very evident.

Louis Ward explains his "Crystal Ball" as "an impression of a Japanese doll in a brilliant red silk kimono, encased in a tiny transparent crystal filled with billowing, glowing, pink fog, all in a purple suspension. The crystal glows brighter and brighter until it bursts into a myriad of shimmering colors."

Dr. Gene Hemmle, music department head, says that his "Sonnet," a composition leading from one written during late adolescence, is impressionistic in style. The whole tone scale is employed, with little attention given to routine progressions.

Herbert Colvin, instructor, says that his "Four Madrigals" were composed at Boulder, Colo., in the spring of 1949. The music shows a trend in style toward the work of Ralph Vaughan Williams and other recent English composers. The Tech choir will sing his "Psalm 100."

Miss Mary Jeanne van Appledorn gives Shakespearean poetry as inspiration for her "Under the Greenwood Tree" and "Blow, Blow Thou Winter Wind." There is no direct influence of any preceding styles, she says. Some counterpoint is used at the fifth in the latter composition. Her "Cellano Rhapsody" is a chamber work for cello and piano. In the recitation sections, it recalls the Hebrew melismatic characteristics found in the music of Ernest Black.

"Contrasts," also by Miss van Appledorn, is an early work for piano solo comprising a Vivo, a rapid display of rhythms and arpeggios; the Lento, a slow piece with some melodic counterpoint; the Moderato, and experiment with sonerities in which a major triad is placed on top of a minor triad.

"Thanks be to God," "Thou Art the Christ" and "Consider the Lillies" are from the sacred cantata, "Thou Art the Christ" by Raymond Elliott, assistant professor. The words for his "God of the Universe" and "Fisherman Luck" are by Dr. Van Chandler, Texas poet. Elliott says these were done "for the fun of creating," his desire having been to express through the conventional harmonic idiom the mood or spirit of the text.

The class in form and composition in which most of the student work was done, was added to the music department's curriculum last fall. This is the first instance of musical composition from classroom study by students of Tech.

Ivan Hicox, 1951 petroleum engineering graduate, is working for Plymouth Oil company in San Angelo.

Prospective Fall Rushees To Sign for Mailing List

Women desiring information on pre-school rush may sign a mailing list posted on the door of room 365, Horn Hall until May 26.

Fall rush week for the five women's social clubs will be held Sept. 7 through 13, a week before the opening of school. Women must participate in all activities of rush week to be eligible for pledging a social club during the fall school term.

"Signing of the mailing list does not obligate a woman in any way," said Jo Ann Applebay, Women's Inter-Club council president. The information is sent to aid the student in deciding if she wishes to participate in rush week activities and pledge a social club.

Student Groups Bring Recognition To Tech in Varied Music Programs

Various musical groups have been instrumental in bringing recognition to Texas Tech, throughout Texas and neighboring states, during the fall and spring semesters of 1951-52.

Appearing in surrounding areas, these groups have presented many interesting and entertaining programs.

Band Tours Area

Tech Band has made appearances at 28 athletic events, four local concerts, and four clinics, two of which were held out of Lubbock. In addition to participating in two parades, the Tech Band has taken part in all convocations at Tech and has performed for six high school bands.

Small ensembles in the band have made 10 appearances in addition to the regular group performances.

Choir Gives Programs

Tech Choir made 13 local appearances in programs before civic groups and in formal presentations, and performed in 10 towns, ranging from Wichita Falls to Amarillo. The choir also appears on all convocation programs at the college. Highlight of the season was their participation in the Christmas concert with the Lubbock Symphony orchestra.

Various ensembles of the choir are The Harmonettes, girls' quartet, (39 appearances ranging from local to out-of-state), The Tech-sans, men's quartet, (22 local and out-of-town appearances), and Madrigal Singers, (31 local and out-of-town performances).

The Festival Chorus, a mixed group, will have presented two

Tech's Leaving May Put Border Loop On Skids

By JIMMIE HENLEY

This column was written before the question of Tech's admittance to the Southwest conference was voted on today.

Tech's athletic significance is surely being brought to light this weekend as Texas Tech looms as a big question in the meetings of three different athletic conferences.

The most significant of these meetings is in Dallas where the southwest conference is expected to enlarge its membership to admit the Raiders.

In Tulsa, Okla., the Missouri Valley conference is awaiting the chance to invite Tech into the MVC should the SWC reject Tech, and in Tempe, Ariz., the Border conference is meeting to consider the admittance of Midwestern university of Wichita Falls. The decision in Dallas is expected to bear on the Border conference enlargement.

Tech has for years been the big dog of the Border circuit, but never before has it been in such a position that every major conference in this section of the nation is very concerned about what the Raiders will do.

"Welcome Out"

The situation could well be summed up thus: while Tech is knocking at the door of the Southwest conference, Missouri Valley conference members have opened their doors and are saying, "Welcome," and Border conference schools are almost hoping that Tech will "get out."

Because Tech has been so dominant in the Border conference for several years, other members would be almost happy to see the Raiders leave. However, the removal of Tech will probably seriously hurt the gate receipts at or at least two schools, Hardin-Simmons and Arizona. West Texas may also be hurt in that competition with Midwestern could not possibly replace the rivalry with Tech.

Balance For MC

But, Tech's getting out of the conference may give the Border circuit more balance than it now possesses. Arizona, Hardin-Simmons and West Texas may dominate the other schools, but both Texas Western, New Mexico A&M and Arizona State at Tempe have shown great improvement in the past few years, and are capable of producing teams that can rival the other three schools, but which could not compete with Tech's growing, university-scale sports operation.

The addition of Midwestern university would give the conference another potentially strong, but presently weak member. However, the addition of Midwestern would hurt Tech, were the Raiders staying in the Border conference, for Tech cannot expect to draw a crowd to see them play Midwestern, NMA&M, Tempe or Flagstaff in football, and it could not hope to win the conference without playing five of the nine members.

The withdrawal of New Mexico last year and the loss of Tech soon, opens the question of whether the Border conference is falling apart.

Arizona might well find themselves benefited by turning toward the west coast, and Hardin-Simmons and West Texas may well find better alignments to give themselves stronger competition.

Tech's loss may well mean de-emphasis of football in the Border conference. It may also mean the straw that breaks the back of the conference.

While Hardin-Simmons is not at the present time actively seeking another alignment, the Missouri Valley meeting in Tulsa may cast their eyes toward Abilene, since Coach Weaver has said that Tech is interested only in the Southwest conference. HSU is quite capable of competing with such schools as Tulsa, Houston and Oklahoma A&M. When Missouri Valley conference members see that Tech is unavailable, they will doubtless look for other members somewhere, since the conference last fall lost two of its strongest members as a result of some rough action in the Drake-Oklahoma A&M game.

No matter in which conference Tech competes in future years, the Raiders may well be expected to decide the fates of two conferences this weekend, and may well cast the mold for a third conference's action.

Tech Swimmers Ducked by Arizona

University of Arizona defeated Texas Tech swimmers 61 to 21 Tuesday in Tucson.

Milt Tucker won the only first place for the Raiders. He took the diving event over Jim Young of Arizona.

Bob Kain of Tech took second places in the 440-yard and the 220-yard freestyles, and Ben Street of Tech took thirds in the 150-yard individual medley and 220-yard breaststroke.

It was the second day Arizona tankers had trimmed the invaders from Tech. Three Arizona team members were double winners for the Wildcats.

Friday night's torrential rains left the Tech track under several inches of water Saturday morning, postponing the intramural track and field meet to May 17.

Kemas will defend their championship next Saturday in the fourth annual intramural track and field meet to be run off at Tech field.

Eleven strong teams will seek to knock the Kemas team from the top. They are the Cherry Pluckers, Doak Hall, Gymmills, Los Cams, BSU Bums, Whirlwinds, Silver Keys, College Club, Centaurus, Wranglers, and Alpha Zeta.

All Tech students are eligible except varsity and freshmen athletes. Any team may enter three men or three teams of men in any event but no man may run in more than five events. About 100 athletes are expected to participate.

The meet is sponsored by the Toreador which present a large trophy to the winning team and first, second and third place ribbons to the individual team members.

Tech physical education majors will act as officials. Timers will be Duane Durham, Bert Goodyear, Paul Nolen and Robert Larrabee. Acting as judges will be Jess Porter, Hudson Routh, Lewis Woodard and Elbert Johnson.

J. H. Bentley will be scorer; Buddy Barron, announcer; Buddy Brock, referee and starter; Cliff Dean, pole vault; M. D. Stevens, shot put; Clayton Stallings, high jump; Edwin Shipman, softball throw, and David Burchard, broad jump.

Three Tech Teams Compete For Border League Honors

Tech's tennis, golf and track teams are at Tempe, Ariz., this weekend attending a Border conference meet. This meet will determine BC winners in spring athletics.

Coach George Scott carried 15 men with him to compete in the track and field events. The Red Raiders finished fifth last year in track and are expected to do better this year.

Last year the golf team finished in sixth place but Wade Walker's golfers are expected to finish second this year. The only BC team who has beaten them this spring is Hardin-Simmons.

Dr. Roy Male's tennis players may have a tough time keeping their third place win of last year. Arizona university is expected to take the title in tennis.

Track entries are Bill Killough of Edinburg, Jerry Fairley of Pecos, Ben Wilson of Lubbock, Ronnie Cordell of Oklahoma City, Ben Hawkins of Lamesa, John Weaver of De Leon, Don Briggs of Muleshoe, Paul Erwin of Odessa, Larry Knight of Breckenridge, Don Covey of Idalou, James Farrell of Amarillo, Dean White of Lubbock, and Earl Hutcherson of Lubbock.

Tech golfers who will compete are G. W. Warden of Levelland, Paul McCully of Fort Worth, Joe Stoltz of Hobbs, N. M., and Jerry Thornton of Fort Worth.

The Tech tennis team consists of David Clark of Lubbock, Buddy Satterwhite of Abilene, Jimmy Burgess of Lubbock and Richard Clarke of Vernon.

Mrs. Emma Ruth Lewis, elementary education, 1949, is teaching in the Lamesa public schools.

All-College Play Slated for Softball

Play will begin Monday to decide the all-college softball champs.

In the first round Black and Bridle will play Sneed hall while Silver Keys will battle BSU. The two winners will play Tuesday for the championship. Games will begin at 5 each day behind the Tech gym.

The Baker company will present a handsome 22-inch trophy to the winners. The trophy must be won three successive years to remain in possession of any team.

First Round Play Finished In Intramural Golf Meet

The second round of the intramural golf tournament is expected to be completed by Monday, according to George Philbrick, head of the meet.

In the first round George Aulback defeated Cash Wilemon, James Eagan beat Hardy Clemons, Jim Conine beat Sam Hawks and David Moorehouse defeated Clarence Barton.

David Clark, Tech Netter, Gets Praise in Magazine

David Clark, freshman tennis player from Lubbock, has received special mention in "The Roundup," monthly tennis magazine published in Houston.

A columnist commented "He is one of the most promising of Texas Junior Davis Cup prospects, albeit a lefty. In a recent team match, Clark defeated Rod Williams (SMU) 8 to 6, 6 to 3."

Varsity Hoopsters Defeat Exes 71-59

Next year's Red Raider hoopsters downed the Tech Exes Tuesday night by a score of 71 to 59, with big Paul Nolen sinking 25 of the Varsity's points.

This game ended Spring basketball workouts for the squad.

Nolen was the standout for the Varsity, using 6 foot 10 inch height to help him drop in 11 field goals and three free throws. Virgil Johnson was second high point man with 10 tallies.

Jack Alderson led the Exes with 18 points and was followed by Irl Brown who picked up 10.

The score was tied at the end of the first period, 15 to 15, but soon the Varsity forged ahead and held a decisive lead of 41 to 25 at the half. The score was 52 to 37 at the beginning of the final quarter.
