

Currie Is Rodeo Queen

Tech's third annual Intercollegiate Rodeo and "Western Days" got off to a fast start Thursday night when Price Daniel, Texas attorney general, officially opened the rodeo by crowning Miss Barbara Currie, sponsored by College Club fraternity, queen of the rodeo.

Those nominated for rodeo queen were Mary Byers Turner, McKinney; Jane Hisaks, Wichita Falls; Jo Benesch, Amarillo; Joanne Biggs, Beaumont; Jackie Henderson, Eldorado, and Barbara Lu Currie, Garden City.

Daniel arrived in Lubbock by plane Wednesday morning and rode in the rodeo's opening day parade Thursday afternoon.

The rodeo, sponsored by the Rodeo association and Block and Bridle club, is being held in conjunction with Tech's annual Western Days celebration.

Three complete rodeo performances remain to be presented. A performance will start at 8 p. m. Friday, a double-header is scheduled for Saturday—an afternoon session at 2 o'clock and a night performance at 8 o'clock.

There are 16 colleges taking part in the rodeo this year. Some of the most skillful and colorful collegiate cowpokes in the nation are competing for prizes.

A hand-tooled saddle will be presented to the best all-around cowboy, and a silver trophy-belt buckle will be awarded to the top cowgirl. The winning team will be presented an engraved gold trophy.

There are six events for men and two for women in the rodeo. Men are taking part in saddle and bareback riding, bull riding, bulldogging, calf roping and ribbon roping. Cowgirl contestants are competing in barrel racing and goat tying events.

Western Days began officially yesterday morning. Classes have taken on a new look with the appearance of students and faculty wearing western outfits.

A chuck wagon breakfast was held Friday in Aggie grove. The breakfast was followed by a street dance.

Women Will Ask Board For National Sororities

Petitions requesting chapters of national sororities on the campus will be presented to the Tech board of directors by four of the five women's social clubs, says Jo Ann Applebay, Women's Inter-Club council president.

Petitions bearing the names of club members, alums and patronesses are being prepared by DFD, Las Chaparritas, Las Vivarachas and Sans Souci. Ko Shari does not desire national affiliation at this time, Miss Applebay continued.

The request probably will come up for discussion at the next board of director's meeting which is scheduled for 9:30 a. m. May 26 in the office of Tech President D. M. Wiggins. Further action by the clubs and by WICC will depend upon the board's decision.

Tech's men's social organizations will continue discussion on national fraternities at regular meeting of the Men's Inter-Club council at 1 p. m. Sunday in the conference room of the Dean of Student Life.

At that time, presidents of the men's clubs will discuss club reactions to the speaker from the National Interfraternity Research and Advisory council, Gardner Symonds, NIC representative, spoke to members of the eight men's social at the annual MICC smoker April 23.

Vandals Break Building Stones

Little boys must play, but must they play with eight-dollar pieces of stone?

When R. B. Smith, foreman of construction work on the student union building, came to work Monday morning he found the broken pieces of nine ornamental stones intended for the decoration of the building.

The stones were kept in the area between the Recreation Hall and the parking lot behind the Administration building.

Maybe "muscle man" would like to test his strength next by tearing up ten dollar bills.

Dorm Food Allocation Boosted by President

"Food expenditures will be stepped up until the end of the semester," Dr. D. M. Wiggins, Tech president, said Thursday.

Instructions to improve the preparation and handling of food have been given to Miss Shirley Schulz, director of food services. Menus for the remainder of the semester have also been readjusted.

The action was taken following the presentation of a petition to Dr. Wiggins by three spokesmen, Cody Barnett, Fort Worth junior; Jess McIlvain, Pecos sophomore, and Keith Brock, Friona freshman representing 203 boys living in Tech dormitories.

In the petition the quality and palatability of the food was said to "have become so low as to render it almost inedible."

The petition also stated that a food basket bought a year ago would have cost $7.21 at wholesale prices and can now be bought for $6.48. Tech students are paying $5 per month more for room and board than they did a year ago, and the dormitory system buys its food at wholesale prices.

Campus Looting Unsolved; Additional Theft Uncovered

Police have been unable to discover further information in the theft of five typewriters from campus buildings last week.

Another typewriter, belonging to Captain A. E. McCook, associate professor of military science and tactics, was reported missing Thursday morning.

The machine was not missed sooner because Capt. McCook has been out of his office since the time of the theft last week.

A Natural Death . . .

Last year the Tech Chamber of Commerce died a natural death from lack of student interest and participation. At that time few Techsians seemed to realize the potential importance of such an organization to the college.

However, a handful of students who had faithfully supported the chamber of commerce still maintained that the organization should be re-established on the campus, perhaps under a new setup. We agree that there is a definite need for the services of a chamber of commerce. It is also clear that a complete reorganization is needed, to assure that the new club would not suffer the fate of its predecessor.

One idea advanced which seems workable is to establish the new chamber of commerce as a luncheon club. The group would meet twice a month for a luncheon session, at which speakers and entertainment would be featured. With membership open to all interested students, the organization would serve to promote Tech in much the same capacity as the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce promotes the city.

An executive board meeting separate from regular luncheon sessions would eliminate the need for lengthy business discussions at the noon meeting.

If concrete plans are made this semester for formation of the new organization, the group can begin at once next fall to contribute its vitally needed services to the school.

Campus Swirls in Mad Rush As Graduation Weekend Looms

By PAT JOHNSON
Toreador Associate Editor

Procrastination has done it again!

With only 24 days remaining until Graduation day and only 16 left until "dead week," the Library has become the most popular place on the campus.

Persons who said early in the semester, "Now, I'm going to start this report early," are overflowing the place.

Oh, well such is the life of college students—never do until tomorrow what you should have done three weeks ago.

Remark overheard at the Forum Fashion parade Sunday: "Isn't it funny how a fashion show brings out a bunch of 'clothes horses' who try to out-do everyone including the models."

The student body might well take a tip from the women of the campus.

In the course of the women's softball games which are now being played, we have yet to hear a disgruntled remark made about decisions of umpires and referees.

A wee bit different from the prevailing mood witnessed at the spring's basketball games. Perhaps the college should have women represent the school in intercollegiate games. It might cut out some of the audience boo participation. Just an idea.

End-of-the-year activities are beginning to fall fast and furious upon us.

Not the least of these events is the annual Junior-Senior Prom May 16. The class will have a name band play for the affair and it will be held at the Lubbock Country club.

Admittance fees will be low in comparison with other dance bands which have invaded the city. Upperclassmen should take advantage of these low prices to dance to a name band, Alvino Rey and his orchestra.

The Junior class has worked hard to give the seniors a big send-off before they face the cruel world. And too, there were rumors last year that if the event continues to lose money it will be discontinued. So, don't fill up your calendar of events to exclude the possibility of attending the dance, May 16.

The advent of convertible weather has cast a spell of spring fever over the campus. We're glad the Infirmary doesn't isolate persons with this highly contagious disease. We would be afraid of the consequences. Classes would probably have to turn out because there would be no one to attend. Humm—wonder how we could get the malady declared a contagious disease.

About The Campuses

Students in general disapprove of smoking in the classroom, according to results of the latest ACP National Poll of Student Opinion. Greatest objects were freshmen and women; greatest objection was that it was irritating to non-smokers. The poll's results:

Approve	29 per cent
Disapprove	58 per cent
No Opinion	9 per cent
Other	4 per cent

No comment was made on what the "other" means.

A new definition for Spring is given by the Varsity News of Detroit U. It is called "one of the greatest tests of human will-power." New Article Blames Colleges for Apathy

By JOHN NORCROSS
Toreador Editor

In a letter this week from the editors of Mademoiselle magazine, we were informed that the controversy over an article in the January issue, "Have College Women Let Us Down?", is still raging.

It seems the article, which we commented on several months ago, inspired a picket line at Radcliffe, a Syracuse committee on student apathy, editorials and comments in many college papers, radio broadcasts and hundreds of letters from college girls all over the country.

New fuel for the battle has been added by an article in Mademoiselle's May publication entitled "Have the Colleges Let Us Down?" The author is Pamela Taylor, who has a personal interest in the situation, since she has three children in college.

Approximately one out of every three letters received by the magazine blames the college system for what the first article termed "the withering away of intellectual adventure." Teachers were accused of "over-cautious attitudes" and failing to "establish in the student's mind rapport between her studies and her life."

Letters also indicted parents on the grounds that they "have unwittingly brought up children to worship false gods, have set them before totally distorted standards that quash individuality and healthy mental development."

One young woman wrote: "In general, the American colleges fail their women undergraduates in the most important function of all—they do not teach them to think.

Students had no objections to offer. Said one, "It stimulates school spirit." And another remarked, "After all this is a University—not a high school!"

Volleyball games get a little rough sometimes at San Angelo college. Recently a player hit the ball high into the air to set it up, miscalculated, and broke a huge light globe into about 100 pieces. Six boys in the general vicinity of falling glass headed for cover. Play was resumed when the glass was swept off, but several boys who had been playing barefooted suddenly decided to put their shoes on.

leges fail their women undergraduates in the most important function of all—they do not teach them to think.

Mrs. Taylor's point of view on colleges is that they provide "a natural climate" only for the small minority of girls who are aiming for a profession, and are born scholars. In the jumble of academic courses "the colleges have let down the great majority who will work after graduation, deal with people, marry, have children, take part in the civic life of their community. They have failed to relate to living what they teach."

She declares that what the college woman needs in learning to meet the complicated demands of present day life and achieving emotional and personal independence is direct guidance from qualified teachers in their social lives and on social issues. "But in far too many classrooms," she charges "the professor still lectures endlessly, while each unanswered question and misunderstanding point piles up in the student's mind and blocks by just so much more the possibility that she will carry much away with her."

Mrs. Taylor believes "the tide has definitely turned in the direction of a method of instruction that only very small colleges can attempt completely and suddenly . . . but it is on the move; each year sees the general theory of one or more courses tied to the particular experience of the student."

In the meantime, she adds, "If a young woman goes through four years of college passively, unconcerned with her own stage in maintaining the security she seems to value, without much zeal for causes or intellectual excitement, the failure is not hers entirely.

"As an undergraduate she is still potential material, a useful and happy citizen in the making. If she has been just educationally processed, with a system that has produced no spark, has given her neither education to use as a tool nor intellectual stimulation to use as a refreshment all her life, the college has failed HER."

Techsan Thinclads Splash To Second in Abilene Meet

Tech's cindermen came in fourth and a half noses behind McMurry to place second in a triangler meet held Wednesday on a rain-wind-and-hail-swept track in Abilene.

The McMurry Indians, running on their home track, collected 60 1/2 points while the Red Raiders picked up 55 1/2. The third team in the meet, Hardin-Simmons, got 34 points.

Tech had to rely on second, third and fourth places to collect most of its points as McMurry took seven first places, Tech four firsts, and Hardin-Simmons three. All three schools tied in the high jump.

Raider trackster Bobby Hawkins of Lamesa was high-point man for the meet with 14 1/2 points. He was the only Tech man to break the tape in any of the events as he won first in the 440-yard dash, 880-yard run and ran anchor man on the winning mile relay team.

Don Covey of Idalou took Tech's only first place in the field events as he leaped 23 feet 7 inches to win the broad jump. Hawkins tied for first in the high jump.

The best event of the afternoon was the 880-yard run in which two Tech men, Hawkins and John Weaver, came into the home stretch practically matching strides for the last 60 yards amid falling hail. In the last yards Hardin-Simmons' Doyle Brunson nearly edged his way in between the Tech men, but couldn't muster the speed needed and came in third. Ben Wilson of Tech was a few yards behind Brunson to place fourth.

Basketball center Paul Nolen hurled his first discus in a meet since his freshman year to pick up a second place for Tech with a throw of 126 feet. This throw was good enough to beat the toss of the other Raider discus man, Pete Rinaldi. Tech full-back from Orange, N. J., who had just finished grid workouts.

The Red Raider makeshift mile relay team finished way out in front as anchor man Hawkins finished about 70 yards ahead of second-place McMurry. The team was composed of Bill Killough, Weaver, Wilson and Hawkins.

Other Tech second places were taken by Don Briggs of Muleshoe in the pole vault, Jerry Fairley of Pecos in the 100 and 220-yard dashes, and Jim Farrell of Amarillo in the high hurdles.

Tech hurdler Earl Hutcherson didn't compete in the meet because of a pulled leg muscle.

Writer Says SWC Needs Raiders For SWC Prestige

By JIMMIE HENLEY
Toreador Guest Writer

ONLY ONE WEEK SEPARATES TECH FROM THE SOUTHWEST CONFERENCE??

That is the big question facing Tech athletic department just as spring football practice has closed with prospects for a great season next year, and probably an even greater one in 1953.

One thing is certain, the spring drills have shown whether the Southwest Conference votes Tech in or leaves her at the door again—Tech is headed for greater things in football.

Just what is Tech's chance of gaining admission to the conference. On the day that the University of Texas Board of Regents voted unanimously in favor of a resolution for admitting Tech, Coach DeWitt Weaver said that he did not know of a single school that would oppose Tech's admission.

That is certainly a new slant from the three opposing votes cast in 1948 when Tech last sought admission. Although all the votes were burned immediately after the secret ballot was taken, it is generally believed that the University of Texas was at that time opposed to Tech's admission.

If UT was at that time opposed to Tech, and if the same schools that voted for Tech would again vote for the Raiders, then Tech is certainly assured of entrance to the conference. Only five votes (Continued on Page 8)

Final Scrimmage Ends Spring Work

The Raiders ended spring training Wednesday with a rough scrimmage session between offensive and defensive teams composed primarily of freshmen and sophomores.

Coach DeWitt Weaver turned most of his first team members loose and sent them to the show for a well-earned period of relaxation, ending the 1952 spring workouts one day early.

Weaver was sure that he could have used one more session, but (Continued on Page 8)

Freshman, Sophomore Judging Contests Will Be Held on Tech Campus May 17

The 26th annual freshman livestock judging contest and the third annual sophomore judging contest will be held May 17, according to Palmer Willis, president of Block and Bridle.

The freshman contest is open to students who are enrolled in animal husbandry 131 but have not enrolled for animal husbandry 231.

The sophomore contest is open to students who are enrolled in animal husbandry 231 but have not enrolled in animal husbandry 312 or 313.

The entry list for both freshman and sophomores is on the bulletin board of the animal husbandry department and must be signed by 5 p.m. Tuesday.

The high individuals in each division and the entire contest will be honored at the annual Block and Bridle banquet where they will receive medals and other awards. Their names also will be placed on the Block and Bridle judging honor roll.

The contest is sponsored by the Tech chapter of the National Block and Bridle club.

'53 La Ventana Needs Staff Artist

La Ventana, 1953, needs a staff artist.

The job, which will entail designing and drawing the cover and all inside art work, has until this year been designated as art editor. A nominal salary is paid for the work, Bert Goodyear '53 editor, said.

Students interested should apply at J205 any afternoon from 2 to 5 p.m. before May 9. They should either bring a sample of their work, or arrange for the editor to see some.

Other staff members have been selected, but names will not be released until approved by the publications committee May 14.

Goodyear requests that all staff members and all students interested in working on the annual meet at 5 p.m. Thursday in the La Ventana office.

Six Dairy Manufacturers Are Back for Field Trip

Six senior dairy manufacturing majors have returned from an annual field trip to visit dairy plants and farms of 15 Texas cities. Those making the trip were Morris Chambers, Bobby Headen, Robert Hicks, Dudley Price, LaMoin Howerton and Jack Phillips.

four games, while playing six games with top foes that spread the Raiders' name in bold type across the papers of the nation.

But, inside the conference the other members could maintain the customary dog-eat-dog check on the Raiders to keep their own names in the limelight, as other members knocked out the much heralded Texas A&M team of 1951.

It has almost reached the point where Tech does not have to worry too much if it doesn't get in the conference, except for finances.

Financially, however, Tech needs to be a member of the Southwest Conference to carry on its program of athletics. It can easily make more money playing SWC schools, because of the better brand of football played in the conference.

De-Emphasis Not Dumb
An Austin sports writer has said: "If the Southwest conference schools want to really de-emphasize football as some circles have demanded, the biggest initial step would be to take Tech and Houston U. into the conference, thus practically eliminating the nationally recognized intersectional battles. It's something to consider."

Obviously, it would reduce the number of games conference members could play with other top teams in the nation. But as the Fort Worth Star-Telegram recently pointed out editorially, such intersectional games are no longer needed, for the conference has established itself as one of the

2,500 Techsans Flock to Dorsey Concert in Gym

Approximately 2,500 persons joined Texas Tech Gymnasium Wednesday night to hear the sentimental gentleman of swing, Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra. The first show given at 7:30 p.m. attracted about 1,000 persons and the last show at 9 p.m. found a crowd of 1,500 listening to the famous band.

Frances Erwin, Dorsey's female vocalist from Amarillo, sang "A Guy Is A Guy," "Little Rock," "Adelaide's Lament" and several other songs for an appreciative audience.

Three featured instrumentalists for the evening were the lead saxophone player, the drummer and the lead trumpeter. They were accompanied by the rest of the orchestra. A new male vocalist introduced by Dorsey sang "That Old Black Magic."

Other songs played by Tommy Dorsey and his orchestra were "Song of India," "Hambone," "Boogie Woogie," "Keel High" and his familiar theme song, "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You."

top circuits in the nation.

But, perhaps Fred Williams of the Austin American is right about the de-emphasis. We think this is just the kind of de-emphasis that is needed in college football.

Having the number one team in the nation, plus several players on the All-American teams of all the "experts" actually does nothing for a college, while good competitive football does.

Where most critics of power football have missed the boat is in the place they give football. Some think it has no place in college. Some think of it only as an expensive publicity organ, hence, the aim at "top team of the nation," etc.

Actually football is the thing around which college loyalty is built. It has no justification as a character building tool, which in most cases it isn't; it is not justifying as a means of body building or physical training, which it is only to a very small degree. ITS MAIN JUSTIFICATION IS THE PSYCHOLOGICAL CONTRIBUTION TO COLLEGE. IT is the only thing around which students, faculty and alumni of any university can rally.

Students in foreign languages, government, mechanical engineering and agricultural economics have nothing in common on any other grounds than football.

Yes, Mr. Williams, restricting Southwest conference competition to the southwest would doubtless be de-emphasis, but it is the only kind of de-emphasis that will maintain the better parts of football, while getting rid of some of the undesirable aspects of the rather corrupted game.

SWC Membership No Gift
When the vote is taken next week, Southwest conference members cannot be expected to generously bestow a place to Tech. Tech will become a member only if SWC members think that the Raiders can contribute something valuable to the conference. Surely they will not fail to see what may be gained by admitting Tech.

Los Cams to Hold Picnic

The annual picnic dance will be held by Los Camaradas social club from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Saturday night at the Party house in Mackenzie State park. The dance will be preceded by a barbecue at 6 p.m.

State BSU Opens Spring Conference Here With Talk By Tech's Dr. Jones

The annual spring planning conference of the Texas Baptist Student Union opened this morning at First Baptist church here with Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president of Tech, giving an address "From the College Point of View."

Dr. Jones is the past faculty representative for the state BSU council.

Morning Session
Convening the morning session today was James Dent, Tech junior chemistry major from Plainview and past president of the Tech BSU.

Registration for the conference started Thursday night at the Baptist Student center. Friday night the Tech BSU will be host to the visiting delegates at a banquet in the lower auditorium of the First Baptist church. Theme of the banquet is "Spring comes to West Texas."

Dr. Nichols Speaks
Following the banquet the annual missions service will be held with Dr. Buford Nichols speaking. Dr. Nichols is a former missionary to China, having left when the nation was taken over by the Communists. He is presently teaching Bible at Baylor University, waiting to return to mission work with Chinese speaking people in Java later this year.

At the mission meeting the student summer missionaries will be introduced. There will be six students representing the Texas BSU in foreign missions this summer.

Each year the BSU sends out college students to do missionary work during the summer months in foreign countries. This summer students will do mission work in Alaska, Hawaii, Mexico, Cuba and Nigeria, West Africa.

preferred to count the Saturday exhibition given during the coaching clinic as a full session in order to escape any possible criticism.

The final practice lasted an hour and a half with the offensive team running various plays which saw standouts in the backfield such as James Odum, Rick Spinks, Myron Salter, John Matlock and Bill Tankersley breaking loose for long gains.

The defensive team showed up extremely well in spots with Richard Duke, Joe Toppa, Bobby Lambert, Joe Taylor, Malcolm Young and Bill Waters drawing praise.

Weaver said that on the whole he was well pleased with the spring drills. He said the Raiders were a lot further along this spring than they were this time last year, but the squad still needs a lot of work, particularly on offense.

"What we do next year will depend a lot on the players' mental attitude," said Weaver. "If they think football this summer and stay in shape, we could have a good season. If we win two of the first three games, we will be in good shape."

The first three games are against West Texas here, in the opener, and at Rice and College of Pacific.

Also on the program are Rev. Sterling Price, pastor of the University Baptist Church in Abilene; Dr. Floyd B. Chaffin, assistant to the executive secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas; and Dr. Carl Bates, pastor of the First Baptist church of Amarillo.

Wayland Choir to Sing
Music will be furnished by the Wayland BSU Choir under the direction of Al Wilson, and the Wayland Words, another choir from the Plainview college.

Numerous conferences for the various phases of BSU work will also be held throughout the two-day meeting.

Leading the conference is Dr. W. F. Howard of Dallas, director of the Texas BSU and a member of the Tech Religious Emphasis week team last fall.

Student Injured In Freak Mishap

A freak mishap on the campus late Thursday brought minor injuries to Olen Wilson, junior arts and sciences student from Amarillo.

Wilson suffered cuts and abrasions when the horse he was riding crashed into an auto driven by Coy D. Orr, sophomore arts and sciences student from Littlefield. Orr was not injured.

Apparently becoming excited when blinded by the sun, the animal tried to jump the car and landed on the hood. Wilson was thrown to the ground. The horse received severe flesh cuts as its front legs crashed through the auto windshield.

Wilson was rushed to Lubbock Memorial hospital, where he was reported in good condition Friday morning. Damage to the auto, a 1950 Chevrolet, was heavy. Owner of the horse, which was to have been ridden in the rodeo, was Clayton Ross, Lubbock.
