Cast Your Ballot

LAST year 164 students voted in the election of publications officers. There were 1,429 people in school. Well, what about it? Are you going to do any better than that this year? Or do those figures mean anything to you?

A number of students have shown their interest already by filing petitions for candidacy for the various offices. It seems likely that there will be at least two candidates for every position, so there is going to be some choice at least. If half a dozen or more students are interested enough to aspire to one of the publications offices, perhaps it isn't asking too much to urge the rest of the student body to go to the polls and indicate which one they'd like to see in each place.

Maybe you don't think you have any choice. Maybe you just don't care who runs your newspaper and your annual. Undoubtedly, though, a majority of the students want The Toreador every week and La Ventana every spring. And if you want to read your publications, perhaps you want them to be the best. Stop and think that the editor of your campus weekly can have some influence in college affairs. Remember that the better your annual the more pride you'll have in it as the years go by. And think that your publications officers are to serve you, so that you may as well have something to do with who they are.

The student constitution was framed so that you could have something to do with the naming of officers. You have the privilege to vote, but it is more than a privilege. As a student it is your duty to see that student publications are as good as they can be.

If you don't know the candidates, ask somebody who does. Ask the candidates themselves what they stand for, and find out which one would fill the office as you think it should be filled. If there is only one candidate for a certain office, vote anyway. Only by voting can you show yourself worthy of a part in Tech's self-governing student body.—J. G.

Did It Pass You By?

AFTER weeks of singing blissfully, "Time waits for no one, it passes you by," you stop short in your tracks and think, "What a dope I've been." Suddenly the sad realization comes—you know what it means. For four and a half months you have been playing bridge, cutting class, practicing the good neighbor policy, and now for that round with Mother and Dad over grade reports.

It's too late to do anything about it now, except, of course, to offer the stereotyped excuses which probably sound familiar to your parents. That's all over, but now a new semester stares you in the face. What are you going to do about it? You can study as you go and be prepared when you have to face the ordeal of exams next time or you can wait and rely upon cramming and praying—of course, with the liability of the same thing happening again.

Somebody's luck didn't hold out so well the past semester. For proof of this, all you have to do is make a visit to the registrar's office and take a peek at the unusually long flunk list. Sad news, but true, nevertheless.

Although we aren't proponents of a group of "book worms," we do contend that a little more work and a few less excuses would help many make the grade. If students would spend a short time daily studying instead of waiting until the day of reckoning, they would find a decided increase in the number of grade points on their record.

In view of the fact that these are only suggestions, they may be taken for what they are worth. But no one will argue the point that wasted time can never be recaptured—True to the song, it really waits for no one—so make the most of it.—V. M. & B. D. R.

Learn By Doing

BOOK knowledge and experience go hand in hand. One without the other is worth very little. Educators at Tech are beginning to realize this and are incorporating actual experience with classroom training.

For several years the home economics division has provided their students with the opportunity to live in the home management house, a place where each girl receives training in managing a home. She studies theories in the classroom and then puts them into practice.

The education department places its future teachers in the public schools of Lubbock to give them practice in applying their education courses. This has proved successful in that the student teacher is supervised while she is learning to teach.

The foreign language department has taken up the modern visual aids for instruction in the Spanish courses, and will later use this method in other languages. These aids include new illustrated textbooks, pictures, posters, motion pictures, skits and plays, radio and phonograph recordings. A newspaper, C'est Kif-Kif, gives French students a chance to gain practice in writing and reading French fluently.

The advanced marketing class in the division of commerce offers a wonderful opportunity for its students. Two afternoons a week are spent in touring local business firms. In this manner the students see their textbook theories unfold.

The division of agriculture provides a farm for its students. The boys raise stock, eggs and have stock judging contests here on the campus.

The department of journalism has its publication, The Toreador, for students to receive training on. Until the war brought on a decrease in enrollment, some students received part of their training on the Avalanche-Journal.

Other departments might take note of the above examples and incorporate such training into their curriculum. Students will be better prepared to fill positions in the various fields upon receiving their degree.—L. H.

Texas Tech girls are wondering how they can get acquainted with some of those cute lieutenants who seem to be taking the town.

Everyone hates to say goodbye to BETTY COPE when she leaves for California to work. We'll miss you, Betty, but think about us every once in a while.

MARGIE HACKBARTH and HERMAN QUINUS seem to have a bad case of the taffy. How about it, you two?

JEAN PEELER does not like the idea of ROYCE BLANKENSHIP'S working nights in Levelland—but 30 miles isn't too far away.

Wasn't MARY NIXON surprised when she met someone who knew someone she knows? Small world is right.

The welcome mat was dusted off, also, for PAUL HASKINS. It's good to see you back, Paul, and good luck in the Navy.

Congratulations are in order to BILLY JOHNSON and ESTELLE DE BUSK, who have decided to give it another try.

BILLIE LOU THOMPSON and LEE RAY SWIM have been dating quite frequently since the silence of rush week ended.

Say, we want to know who has been shortchanging BARBARA BLANKS and DUDLEY SUE DINDWIDIE'S beds. Any confessions?

At the mention of T. KIRK MAY'S name, MARIAN BENSON goes starry-eyed. It seems that Kirk is coming back to Lubbock the 16th and Marian can hardly wait.

Everyone (including B. WHITE) was glad to see LEE STUART, and old Techsan, back in Lubbock for a short visit.

DOROTHY BROWN was certainly glad to see WOODY BAKER when he returned from Big Spring last weekend.

Seen around town — BETTY HUCKABEE and a very nice looking sailor. Betty, you've been holding out on us.

OLIVER RAMSEY has certainly been playing the field lately. And we thought you had settled down to one, Oliver.

Tech is always glad to welcome back cute little BEVERLY GRAFA, only this time she came back to get all of her things and head back for Fort Worth, where she plans to work.

WILEY BRASSSELL and PEGGY WILLIAMS have been seen around the avenue and the bookstore which looks like more than just casual coke dates.

There is no shutting up "Snookie" Bell about her corporal whom she visited in Kansas between semesters.

Ex-Techsan ENS. ROBERT M. KEASLER, just returned from overseas, and SARAH COOKE, who graduated in January, married Wednesday in Fort Worth at the Episcopal church. Keasler was a Silver Key at Tech and Sarah was a member of Ko Shari social club.

Does Hugh Monroe really spend half the night in IVAN TUCKER'S room writing love letters to RUTH ANTHONY?

Just who does VIRGINIA ANTHONY like, TROY CALDWELL or that "cute" soldier she has been seen with lately?

Do ED BLEDSOE and MERRILYN SNIDER go steady or do they just go together all the time?

Just what is the connection between JIMMY WILLIAMS and FRANCES KING. She has his pin, but the Count never hears of their being together.

HERBA JORDAN, SUE OSBORN, WALTER SCHLINKMAN, and RUSSELL BIRDWELL make a "cute foursome."

According to recent rumor, ROSEMARY JONES, a transfer from Kansas, is simply a dream girl with a wonderful personality. Welcome to Tech, Rosemary.

BATTLE REPORT TO ALL HANDS

EVERY seaman and officer aboard our Navy's fighting ships instantly hears the call to action, follows the battle's progress over a special type of announcing system made by Western Electric.

On carriers the entire crew, topside and below deck to oilers and ammunition passers, can hear first-hand accounts direct from the pilots themselves on how it went "upstairs."

Meeting the communication needs of our armed forces requires all available manpower and manufacturing facilities. That's why telephone equipment cannot now be built for civilian use. After the war, Bell Laboratories' scientists and workers at Western Electric will turn again to their peacetime jobs of designing and making telephone equipment for the Bell System.

1945 Raider Football Schedule Released This Week

Techsans Challenge Nine "Name" Teams

The strongest football schedule Texas Tech's Red Raiders have ever played has been lined up for 1945 by Athletic Director Morley Jennings.

Never in the history of the college have so many "name" grid teams been challenged by Tech in the course of a single season.

With Baylor university returning to its place on Tech's schedule as the Bears take up intercollegiate competition again after a two-year layoff, all Southwest conference teams except Arkansas and Southern Methodist will be represented. "Breathers" have been virtually eliminated.

Biggest triumph for Athletic Director Jennings, who came to Tech in 1941 faced with the problem of getting the important teams of this section to take on Tech, possibly was the acquisition of Texas university as an opponent.

The Raiders and the Longhorns have never clashed on the gridiron, although Tech has sought games with the state's biggest college for years. Perennially strong, the Steers are perhaps the biggest obstacle for Dell Morgan's gridders in 1945.

Tech will play five games at home in 1945. The Raiders will open on Sept. 22 with a night game against a team which has not yet been selected. On Oct. 13, Orange Bowl Champion Tulsa university will clash with Tech in Tech stadium. This is the first time a Tulsa team has played in Lubbock. The Techs have played in bowl games for the last four years.

On the next weekend, Oct. 20, Baylor will be the opponent. The Bears whipped Tech 14-7 in 1942, the last meeting of the colleges. West Texas State college is on the list for Oct. 27. Tulsa, Baylor and West Texas State are all night games.

The final home game will be against Texas Christian on Nov. 10, which will probably be the date of homecoming this year.

Other games on the card pit the Raiders against Texas A&M in San Antonio, Texas university in Austin, Rice institute in Houston, Oklahoma A&M in either Stillwater or Oklahoma City and New Mexico university in Albuquerque.

Many times in the past great Texas Tech football teams have not received their due share of national recognition because of their weak schedules, since sports experts judge a football team not upon how many teams they defeat, but on the caliber of their opponents. This year, playing a rugged schedule as representative as that of any Southwest conference team, for example, Tech will have an opportunity to shoot at national headlines virtually every weekend.

War-time manpower shortages do not make the football situation at

Cagers To Meet Lobos In Gym

Red Raider quintet returns to the home courts Saturday night, after playing two road games and a couple at LAAF, to face a tough double-header with the New Mexico Lobos.

Raiders invaded New Mexico a few weeks ago, dropping two games. The Lobos won the opener 47 to 39 and downed Tech 57 to 41 in the second. New Mexico is one of the best college teams in the Southwest and to date has not been beaten by a college team. They have only lost one game this season which was to a service team.

The Raiders played LAAF Wednesday night, but the sports page went to press before the final scores were returned.

The cagers met West Texas State Buffaloes Tuesday, January 29, losing the opening game 66 to 38. Jiggs Jackson looped 12 points as high scoring man and Jay Kerr accounted for nine tallies. Don Grove and Costin Bufkin tied for a score of six points each. The following night the Buffaloes won the tussel 55 to 43.

Seven Golden Gloves Champions Named

Lubbock's annual Golden Gloves boxing tournament closed Saturday night at Tech gym with seven 1945 District Champions named before a crowd of 2,000 persons.

One title remains to be settled, awaiting a ruling from Fort Worth officials after it was found that the winner of the middleweight division, Kenneth Glasgow of Petersburg, also had won the Amarillo district boxing mele.

Eighteen bouts Thursday night and nine more Friday night set the stage for Saturday night's championship matches and the cream of the crop—16 boys who had battled their way to a rousing finish—fought for the 1945 District Golden Gloves bouts in Fort Worth Feb. 14 to 19.

Hardy L. Sorkin of Lubbock Army Air field won a quick decision over Procter Burnett of Texas Tech in exactly seven seconds Thursday night, and another bout listed on the opening card went to Darrell Carpenter of Texas Tech on a default from Hollis Black of Petersburg. No reason was given for the default. Burnett was in the light heavyweight division and Carpenter in the lightweight classification.

Friday night's battles featured one knockout, three technical kayoes, four close decisions and a pleasing exhibition to a crowd of more than 1,800 fight fans. Five titleholders in the novice division were crowned. The other matches assured one of the best nights of boxing in the entire tournament of the finals Saturday night.

The first three fights on the menu Friday night were settled by the kayo route with the fourth winding up on a close but unanimous decision.

Lonnie Balch, Lubbock lad fighting in the 135-pound class, opened Friday night's bouts by taking on Carpenter. After Carpenter had rallied at the end of the first round, Balch wasted no time in coming back with everything he had in the second tussle. Both were almost exhausted but Carpenter was the worse off of the pair. Referee Bo Sexton stopped them in 1 minute 55 seconds of the second round, the decision going to Balch.

Billy Gillum, Tech entry in the 135-pound class, won his match over Lubbock's Bullock by forfeit but met Joe Wilson of Lockney in an exhibition that had the crowd on its feet. Wilson took everything Gillum could toss at him for two rounds; then there was a turn-about as the Lockney lad had Tech's entry bouncing off the ropes in the third bout. No decision was given.

Finale of the night saw Vouch of Petersburg and Texas Tech's Glynn Stinnett battling it out in an open 175-pound elimination struggle.

Vouch was going strong in the first round but hurt his knee and was an easier target for Stinnett's right and left swings. In the second, Stinnett was slightly ahead, and in the third round both boys clinched at every opportunity. The decision of the judges went to Stinnett.

Saturday night's finals saw a clean knockout. Lubbock's Balch, putting Tech's Gillum to sleep in the first round, took the spotlight for the quickest performance of the night but it was the heavyweight and light heavyweight matches which had the fans standing.

The all-championship finals got under way slowly. Jackie Driver of Tahoka and Van Brookshire of the same community opened up the night's struggles, with Driver winning easily the flyweight title. In the second slugging contest, A. L. Hodge of Tahoka tangled with Lubbock Army Air field's Oscar Duron. Both were about evenly matched until the third round when Duron had Hodge against the ropes. The decision, though close, was unanimous.

The third battle of the night for top honors in the bantamweight division had Wiley McCarty chalking up a decision over Bobby Scott of Tahoka. Scott was no match for veteran McCarty who has won the title off and on for the past several years.

The fourth fight of the night was the one in which the outcome was undecided. Kenneth Glasgow of Petersburg was found to have won in the Amarillo district which disqualified him, and his sparring partner, Leslie McNeely, was ill. The judges decided to ask Fort Worth for a ruling on who should receive the honor of representing the district.

The fifth fight, in the lightweight division, was one of the best in the entire tournament. Featuring Lubbock's lone winner, Lonnie Balch, with Tech's Gillum, the bout was over in the first round. Balch knocked Gillum out in one minute, and was proclaimed as the new lightweight champ.

Another knockout on the night's menu was chalked up by Tahoka's Duane Vaughn in the featherweight tussle with Grady Haynes of Seymour. Vaughn's hand was raised as the new featherweight titleholder in 1 minute, 21 seconds of the initial round.

Petersburg's entry, Ralph White, and LAAF's Vern Sims tangled for the welterweight title in the seventh fight. Sims definitely had the advantage in the first round, but White managed to send him to the canvas in the second and third. Decision went to White.

The night's finale featured LAAF's Sorkin and Texas Tech's Stinnett, fighting in the light heavyweight class. They seemed evenly matched in the first round, but in the second, Sorkin suddenly dropped Stinnett with a left hook good for the count of nine. The Tech fighter came up for more and was on the canvas again at the end of the round in the third. Stinnett hung on as Sorkin pounded him all over the ring. The judges' decision went to Sorkin for one of the more impressive performances of the entire matches.

The champions of the 1945 District Golden Gloves boxing tournament, in the order in which they won their titles Saturday night, are as follows: flyweight, Jackie Driver of Tahoka; heavyweight, Oscar Duron of Lubbock Army Air field; bantamweight, Wiley McCarty of Littlefield; middleweight, undecided; lightweight, Lonnie Balch of Lubbock; featherweight, Duane Vaughn of Tahoka; welterweight, Ralph White of Petersburg; and light heavyweight, Hardy Sorkin of LAAF.

Bert Kahn, K. N. Clapp and Judge DeWitt Landis judged the bouts. Bo Sexton refereed.

Tech athletic department enlisted the cooperation of seven Lubbock firms in presenting prizes of $15 in merchandise to each winner of a final bout and $10 in merchandise to each loser. Business houses which participated were: Dunlap's, Sears and Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Hemphill-Wells, Hanna-Pope, Levine's, and Walton's department stores. Winners also received a pair of blue and gold boxing trunks and losers were given red and white trunks.

Clytus Parris of Wilson, civil engineering student, '39, now employed by Standard Oil company of Indiana and living in Chicago, visited friends on the campus Wednesday while on vacation. He is a former president of the student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

MORLEY JENNINGS
Athletic Director

Tech particularly bright for 1945, as Coach Dell Morgan will readily inform you, but the trend toward the most powerful schedule possibly reflects Tech's growing importance as a ranking football power. In postwar years, when more experienced gridders return from the wars to make the Raiders once more a menace on the gridiron, Tech possibly will have won a permanent place on the schedules of the kind of opponents the Raiders want to meet—the best and the most powerful.

Next fall's schedule is a good example of a bigtime football schedule, and a fine bid for national football laurels.

As the schedule now stands:

Sept. 22—Open. (A night game will be scheduled.)

Sept. 29—Texas A&M at San Antonio.

Oct. 6—Tulsa university at Austin.

Oct. 13—Tulsa university at Lubbock.

Oct. 20—Baylor university at Lubbock.

Oct. 27—West Texas State college at Lubbock.

Nov. 3—Rice institute at Houston.

Nov. 10—Texas Christian university at Lubbock.

Nov. 17—Oklahoma A&M at Stillwater or Oklahoma City.

Nov. 24—New Mexico university at Albuquerque.

Former Raiders Return To Tech

Texas Tech cage squad got a big boost by the return to school of Ernest Hawkins, regular starter from Lamesa, who was on the court for the Wednesday night game this week.

Alerted for an early call to Naval Air crew training, Hawkins left shortly after Christmas holidays. The program shut down and he was placed in reserve to await future call. He was told that the call might come within a month or at the end of six months, so he has returned to Tech with the hope of finishing the season with the Red Raiders. Hawkins will be a welcome addition in the Saturday night tussle with the powerful New Mexico Lobos.

Another addition with good promise is Malcolm Mitchell who was on the Red Raider football team in 1943. Mitchell is from San Angelo. He has been very promising during workouts.

Another break for Polk Robison's boys is the steady improvement of Gene Hardey's knee, which was injured during football season.
