Sharp Increase Is Reported In Federal Income Tax Collections For New Year

Portion Of Housing Act Expires Soon

Loans On Improvements And Equipment Must Be Made This Month

Expiration of Title No. 1 of the Federal Housing act on April 1 may provoke a mild wave of modernization work by local home owners, household and building material dealers said Tuesday.

Under the terms of Title No. 1 of the act, which automatically expires the first of next month, loans may be used to repair, alter or improve a home, farm, church, school, manufacturing plant, hotel or any type of property or to purchase and install any kind of approved equipment or machinery which included almost anything of a permanent nature.

For Furnishings, Repairs
A survey Tuesday morning showed that most of the FHA loans here under the first title have been for purchase of equipment and furnishings for homes. Some have been for painting and repair work.

The act provides that anyone may secure a loan who has a regular income large enough to enable him to repay the loan conveniently over a reasonable length of time. The borrower must be able to make a few other simple obligations.

The second part of the housing act will not be affected. This portion of the act carries for loans with which to buy or build property and carried with it a mortgage on the property involved. Some few of this type of loan have been handled by banks and the First Federal Savings and Loans association in Big Spring.

Tech's Band Gets Ovation

Musicians Present Varied Program In Monday Night Concert

Texas Technological college's band of fifty pieces demonstrated why it is being called one of the best school organizations of its kind in a first-rate concert at the municipal auditorium Monday night.

Although a comparatively small crowd headed the program, the band received a hearty ovation. Under direction of D. O. Wilby, the aggregation presented a varied program, with selections ranging from military marches to modernistic themes and overtures.

The band departed from its scheduled program to present, for the benefit of school businessmen present, the selections that will be used in Class B and C divisions of the West Texas high school band contest to be held in Big Spring on April 17 and 18.

The program opened with a march, "His Honor," which was followed by the overture "Rosa-Maria." Dickson played as solo "Rigoletto Fantasy," and the band presented as the modern touch "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" and "Headlines—A Modern Rhapsody."

The second part of the program included a medley of Southern airs, "Memories of Stephen Foster," a flute solo, "The Whirlwind," a euphonium solo, "Fantasy of Concert" and the concluding symphonic poem, "The Universal Judgment."

Traveling by bus, the band members arrived here Monday afternoon from Lamesa, first concert stop on a week's tour of this section. Programs were scheduled Tuesday at Midland, Odessa and Wink.

HEARING TOMORROW

Rail-Truck Application Is Before Commission

ABLENE, Mar. 17.—A hearing before the Texas railroad commission of the Texas & Pacific Motor Transport company for application to inaugurate a coordinated rail and truck service will open here tomorrow.

The hearing, fourth scheduled on the application, originally was set for today, but was postponed one day.

The Transport company is seeking a permit for service between Abilene and Big Spring, using trucks to ship freight from those bulk centers where it is shipped in rail carload lots.

First Totals Show Gain Of 45 Per Cent

Solons Hope New Tax Bill May Be Trimmed Due To Higher Revenue

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17. (AP)—The treasury today reported income tax collections for the first sixteen days of March as $281,753,982, representing a gain of 45.4 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

These receipts boosted total collections for the year to $361,428,990, or 45.6 per cent greater than last year.

House congressmen, struggling to work out a $792,000,000 revenue bill, were hopeful that increased income levies might enable them to curtail the money-raising program.

Dread Process Levy
Some pinned hopes of avoiding new excises on processing for this session at least, on the possibility that final income tax payments might exceed treasury estimates.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill, Washington, of the House Ways and Means tax sub-committee asserted it "would help a lot" if income tax returns "show a very great increase over estimates."

"We don't have to go to processing taxes, but we shall have to go somewhere to get the $792,000,000," he said.

The sub-committee already has agreed tentatively on seeking $620,000,000 of extra federal income through a levy on undistributed corporation earnings and income taxes on profits converted into dividends, but has reached no conclusion on where to get the remainder of the money needed.

While estimates based on budget calculations placed the final March income tax yield at a probable $428,000,000, some treasury authorities said privately the figure would be nearer $480,000,000, or even $500,000,000. Last March the total was $241,907,000.

Returns in Texas Show A Substantial Increase
By The Associated Press

A sharp increase in the number and amount of income tax payments was reported throughout Texas Tuesday. The deadline of banking returns was Monday midnight.

Frank Scofield, collector of internal revenue for the southern district of Texas at Austin said 21,500 taxable returns had been filed, compared with a total of 24,400 last year.

Scofield, whose district includes southern parts of the state from El Paso to Waco and Beaumont, said he believed cash receipts, which are one-fourth of the tax, will be $2,400,000 more than last year.

Collector W. A. Thomas for the northern district of Texas at Dallas expected approximately $6,000,000 returns. This would be 12.5 per cent increase over last year's total of $5,300,000, he said.

At Houston, Deputy Collector C. G. Huddleston said about 20,000 returns had been received there so far. This is the greatest total in many years, he asserted.

TAKE EXAMINATIONS

Seventeen Are Quizzed By Resettlement Adm.

Resettlement administration examinations for district No. 12 were underway Tuesday at the high school building.

Listed to take the tests, which contained both clerical and general questions, relating to re-settlement, were 17 persons from West Texas and eastern New Mexico towns. Five of the applicants were women.

Big Spring is one of the headquarters cities for the district which embraces Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado.

Owens, Porch And Barnaby May Be Midway Trustees

O. A. Owens, Alva Porch, and Neal Barnaby will be appointed trustees for the Midway common school district, Miss Anna Martin county superintendent, indicated Tuesday.

They received most votes in an unofficial election held at the school Monday afternoon by the superintendent. They will succeed John Porter, Pat Wilson and L. P. Leslie, respectively. Leslie resigned his post and Porter and Wilson moved from the district. Thirteen received votes in the Monday balloting.

Over 250 Here For Baptist Gathering

Local Church Host To First District Convention

Over 250 Baptist workers from more than two score churches in this section of West Texas assembled in Big Spring Tuesday morning for opening sessions of the first convention for the district 8 unit of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. The district includes the Big Spring, Lamesa and Mitchell-Scurry associations.

The convention will continue through Wednesday, concluding at 4 p. m. on that day. In addition to the meetings today, services will be held this evening. The Fourth Street Baptist is host church to the meeting, and that church's pastor, Rev. W. S. Garnett, who also is president of the convention, is directing the program.

Conferences
Sunday school conferences and reports took up most of the morning session Tuesday, following the opening song service led by Ira M. Powell, devotional by Rev. J. J. Gentry of Lamesa, and the talk of welcome and response by W. C. Blankenship of Big Spring and Claude Crain of Midland.

The morning program was concluded with a BTU address by R. A. Springer, state BTU president, and a missionary sermon by George J. Mason of Dallas.

General theme of the convention program is "Cooperation," and a layman's address on the cooperative program was given this afternoon by Rev. W. C. Harrison of Odessa. W. M. U. and laymen's conferences were scheduled for the remainder of the afternoon, beginning at 3 p. m.

Sermon Tonight
The sermon climaxing the program this evening will be delivered by Rev. Lawrence Hays of Snyder. An address by Miss Ann Hasselting Stalworth, state young people's leader, special music by Mrs. Ira M. Powell of Big Spring and

Sportsmen In Meet Tonight

Officers To Be Elected And Delegates To Austin Named

Members of the Howard county chapter of the Game and Fish Protective association and other sportsmen of this city and county were urged Tuesday by B. J. McDaniel, head of the organization, to attend a meeting today at 8 p. m. from the Settles hotel.

Election of officers and other business is to come before the body, said McDaniel.

Delegates to the Texas Wildlife conference, convening in Austin March 27-28, will be selected by sportsmen today. Dr. P. W. Malone, a member of the local organization, is a director for the state wildlife council.

Last year the local chapter promoted the first live raven sheet on record and was instrumental in trapping thousands of the destructive fowls. Months later it was responsible for several hundred Mexican bob whites being turned loose in Howard county.

The students also inspected The Herald plant during the afternoon.

Germany Will Send Envoys To Meeting

To Discuss With League France's Charge Of Pact Violation

LONDON, Mar. 17. (AP)—Germany today agreed to send delegates to London to discuss with the league of nations France's charge that the reich had violated the Locarno treaty. The German delegation expects to be ready to start work Thursday.

As the league council went ahead with its effort to end the bitter European controversy, Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff of Russia violently attacked Reichsfuehrer Hitler in a speech before the league of nations council, charging that Hitler was using his oft-stated fear of Russia "merely as a smoke screen for aggression being prepared against other states."

League officials believed the council would adopt a joint Franco-Belgian resolution indicting Germany for infringing the treaties of Locarno and Versailles by tonight and adjourn without discussing punishment of the reich.

German Equality
Agreement was reached last night to convene the council committee of 13 Wednesday for an attempt to bring settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war. Augusto Barcia, Spanish foreign minister, insisted that the negotiations to halt the East African conflict should begin at once while all members of the committee are gathered at London.

Germany received assurances she can sit at the council table with full equality. But a second condition Adolf Hitler raised as a price of his acceptance of an invitation to be represented at the council sessions was rejected.

The council firmly rejected Hitler's demand that it take up his peace proposals substituting for the Locarno pact, along with the question of his violation of Locarno.

Park Work To End On Friday

CCC Unit To Be Transferred To Lubbock On March 25th

Work on the scenic Mountain State park will end Friday, V. J. Eckelkamp, technical service superintendent, said today.

With all authorized projects completed, the CCC enrollees are engaged in clean-up activities this week. Walks connecting the buildings on top the mountain have been surfaced and the four buildings (pavilion, concessions, latrine, and caretaker's cottage) have been pronounced finished.

The CCC unit, consisting of 60 world war veterans, will be transferred to Lubbock March 25. J. C. Kell, regional inspector for national park service, spent the week end here checking over the park. He said no word of a caretaker for the local park had been received by him.

DALLAS GOOD WILL DELEGATION TO BE HERE ON APRIL 14

Dallas good will trippers, on their 36th annual tour, will be accompanied by the popular Early Bird orchestra of radio station WFAA, H. W. Stanley, director of trade extension, said here Tuesday.

Stanley was enroute to Dallas from the valley where he has been for several days.

The special train carrying approximately 70 Dallas businessmen will arrive here at 10 a. m. on April 14 and will spend one hour in this city.

Among those in the Early Bird orchestra will be Russell Koch, xylophone soloist, who spent part of his boyhood in Big Spring; the Gumble Bros trio, Alex Kesse, musical director for WFAA, and Jimmie Jeffries, master of ceremonies for the unit.

Wm. S. Davies Is A Candidate For City Commission

William S. Davies, known to most people as "Uncle Billy," Tuesday became a candidate for the city commission.

He filed his application for a place on the ballot with City Secretary H. W. Whitney.

A long time resident of Big Spring, Davies has closely followed the activities of the city. At one budget hearing, he was the only private citizen present. He has been a frequent, interested visitor at commission meetings.

He joins with C. E. Talbot, R. V. Jones and Victor Mellinger, incumbents, in asking for one of the three places to be filled in the election Tuesday, April 7.

Cotton Acreage In Howard County Due For Big Increase

Gain Foreseen Unless Govt. Control Plan Is Perfected

A sharp increase in the amount of land planted to cotton in 1936 unless some government control program is effected was foreseen by members of the county home demonstration council and council for county agent in a report on a recent meeting.

The group estimated that 102,400 acres would be planted to cotton if some specific farm program was lacking. The figure represented little less than two-thirds of the number of acres estimated to be in crop land for the year.

300 Estimates
Occasion for the prediction was the drafting of a preliminary report for program planning purposes in Howard county. More than 300 persons submitted estimates, all of which were averaged for the report which reconciled surprisingly with established figures.

The report was divided into two parts, one for estimates for 1936 without a farm program and the other for recommendations for the year. The councils suggested increases in every division except that of cotton where a drastic curb was urged.

In the matter of farms, the group estimated 1,000 for the county next year but recommended that the number be boosted to 1,085. Estimated acreage in crop lands was pegged at 163,000 while the needed amount was set at 170,719.

Acreage
Next year, without any definite program, there will be 15,474 acres to plowable pasture, 1,820 to corn, 21,000 to grain sorghum, and 15,000 to grain and sweet sorghum. Recommendations, in order, were 15,500 acres, 2,000 acres, 20,000 acres and 16,500 acres.

According to the councils, 102,400 acres will be planted to cotton in 1936 without a program whereas they believed that $4,516 to the money crop of this county would be sufficient. In this connection they were practically unanimous in declaring that only about 50 per cent of total crop land should be planted to cotton.

They recommended an increase over estimates of 250 acres of annual legumes (peas, beans, etc.), 1,500 of wheat, 750 of oats, 870 of barley, and 192 of rye.

To the amount of land left for garden and truck, they suggested an increase of 1,845 acres.

Road Boosters Here April 6

Broadway of America Motorcade Will Make B'Spring Stop

H. W. Stanley, director of trade extension for the Dallas chamber of commerce and president of the Broadway of America association, said here today that the annual Broadway motorcade, enroute to the convention in El Centro, Calif., would pass through here the afternoon of April 6.

Midland will be an overnight stop for the motor caravan.

Convention dates are April 10-11. On April 12 Texas and Broadway of America day will be proclaimed for the exposition at San Diego.

At the present time there are no contributing members in Big Spring. Midland has 29 members.

MAY SOLVE HOLDUP

Payroll Robbery Linked In Arrest of Ten

NEW YORK, Mar. 17. (AP)—Police today anticipated the solution of the $427,000 armored pay-truck holdup here two years ago, in the arrest of seven men and three women in an Upper West Side apartment.

The officers seized rifles, shotguns, pistols, thousands of rounds of ammunition, and a short-wave radio transmitter.

SHRINE DESTROYED

Father Coughlin's Building Razed by Flames

ROYAL OAK, Mich., Mar. 17. (AP)—Fire today destroyed Father Charles Coughlin's original Shrine of the Little Flower, with damage estimated at $30,000.

The new half-million-dollar shrine not yet completed, was not damaged.

The famed radio priest agreed that faulty wiring was the cause of the blaze.

Program To Be Operated In Five Regions

Administration Work Goes Forward As Appropriation Advanced

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17. (AP)—Secretary Wallace today warned farmers that the necessity for developing a national farm program will cause the AAA to modify and possibly reject some of the recommendations made at the four regional conferences recently.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17. (AP)—Secretary Wallace today warned farmers that the necessity for developing a national farm program will cause the AAA to modify and possibly reject some of the recommendations made at the four regional conferences recently.

Division of five regions for the administration of the new soil conservation-subsidy program.

Directors of the old AAA commodity sections were named regional directors of their respective divisions.

The commodity sections, which operated cotton, wheat, cotton-hog and tobacco programs, were discontinued under the new setup.

Cobb Southern Chief
The new director of the Southern division, including South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Texas and Oklahoma is Cully A. Cobb, former director of the cotton division.

The senate and house conferees on the independent offices supply bill coincidentally agreed to senate additions of $440,000,000 for the first year's operation of the farm subsidy law. Senator Byrnes of South Carolina, one of the conferees, said an effort will be made to get the bill to the White House before the president starts on his southern cruise Thursday, the day when AAA officials had planned to begin field operations.

To Go Ahead
Today's developments indicated the new program may be launched almost on schedule. Delay had been threatened yesterday when the senate-house conference could not agree on the farm relief appropriation.

President Roosevelt yesterday signed into law a resolution making funds available for completing records and operations under the cotton, tobacco and potato control acts, which congress repealed because they were auxiliary to the invalidated AAA.

Cemetery Aid Plan Talked

County Court Favorable To Program for Buying More Land

County commissioners court Monday responded favorably to a suggestion from leaders in the local cemetery associate to cooperate in the acquisition of more land for the cemetery.

Since there was no definite proposal before the group, no action was taken but members of the court expressed a willingness to cooperate. Those interested in the association indicated that they would meet with city commissioners in the near future.

The local cemetery situation is more acute than most realize. Only a small amount of space is still available in the New Mount Olive cemetery and the older units of the burying ground are filled.

CAMPBELL BEATS OUT ANOTHER 'JINX'

RETURNS TO CLEVELAND OUTFIELD

By PAUL MICKELSON (Associated Press Sports Writer) NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 17 (UP)—Bruce Campbell is big-league's baseball proof that you can't keep a good man down...

Yet, unless some sensational rookie unexpectedly pops up to wrest his place away from him, the same Bruce Campbell will patrol right field for Steve O'Neill's Indians this summer...

Strangely enough, Campbell believes his winning fight against spinal meningitis saved him from serious eye trouble. A short time before he was stricken, he was advised by an optician that he needed glasses badly...

Campbell was hitting .325 when he was stricken in Detroit on August 4. His loss was a severe blow to the Indians.

Catcher Frank Pytlak, Shortstop Bill Knickerbocker and Outfielder Earl Averill, all of them lost for important periods last season, all appear set for a big year. Averill, who almost lost a finger in a fire-cracker explosion, said his wound healed nicely.

SCHOOL ENTRIES IN PENN RELAYS PASS 300 MARK PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 17 (UP)—More than 300 colleges, prep and high schools have accepted invitations to compete in the 42nd annual University of Pennsylvania relay carnival, on Franklin field, April 24 and 25.

Georgia and Indian of the Southern and Western conferences, respectively, returned acceptances along with two new entrants, Texas State Teachers college and St. Augustine's college, the latter of Raleigh, N. C.

SOFTBALL FANS CONVEGE AGAIN Softball team managers and fans have been asked to attend another meeting at The Herald office tonight 8 p. m.

At tonight's meeting an effort will be made to get enough teams lined up for two league seasons.

Jim Rocknagel was elected president of the softball association last week and Vernon Whittington secretary.

Gene drove from the 69th needing to beat par by three strokes to gain a tie. His tee-shot carried close to 265 yards on the 455-yarder. He pulled out his No. 4 wood and cracked the ball straight to the cup for his now famous "double eagle." He was picked up three strokes on one hole!

That coup left Gene needing only pars on the remaining holes to gain a tie—and he parred them. Next day he defeated Wood in the playoff, 141 to 149, to take first money of $1,500 in the $5,000 event.

Invitations for the Augusta event are issued to all reigning and former open and amateur champions. Aside from those, the qualifications for entry depend upon showings made in the Open, the Amateur, the P. G. A., and two or three sectional championships of national importance.

In the field will be Sam Parks, U. S. Open champion; Johnny Elvold, P. G. A. champion and leading money winner of 1935—in addition to Smith, Jones, Little, Sarazen and Wood. Approximately 67 invitations were sent out.

"This is a tournament," says Sarazen, "where all the boys try to finish ahead of each other. It is not just another of those pleasant little winter opens. It's next to the national—and right up against it."

DiMaggio To Make Bow With Yanks Tossed His First Contract Back To N'York

NEW YORK, March 17. (UP)—The advance notice of Joe DiMaggio, the coast youngster who makes his big league bow with the New York Yankees this spring, have placed him on the well known "spot," but at the same time, no rookie ever found such a ready-made spot awaiting him if he has the goods to deliver.

The Yankees are badly in need of a hard-hitting outfielder. Their efforts to land one by trading with other American league clubs failed to produce the right man, so their young star, Joe Judge, of the San Francisco Joe Judge Team, of San Francisco, is the other side of the plate but Manager Joe McCarthy is likely to be satisfied if Joe comes through with his share of line drives which land safely in the vast left field area.

Hoag a Problem In the past the Yankees have had fair luck with their coast league purchases. Bob Meusel, Mark Koenig, Lefty Gomez, Frank Crosetti and Tony Lazzari learned their baseball lessons in California before starring in the New York ivory. Colonel Ruppert has had his disappointing experience, too—disappointment of the Yankees.

Young Joe hit .299 for the San Francisco Seals last season, hitting .46 doubles, 17 three-baggers and 34 home runs. He batted in 131 runs with his 269 hits and scored 171 runs himself. He is a right-handed hitter, but that really doesn't matter much, for he is definitely a line buster. Of course, the short right field fence in the Yankee stadium is inviting to a man batting from the moon.

Hoag has a marvelous throwing arm and looked good on those infrequent occasions last season when he was sent out to pitch in batting practice. It is interesting to note that the Yankees have been unusually lucky with Italians from the coast. Lazzari and Crosetti of the present day squad are the colorful Ping Bodie and Delighted Yankee rooters with his hard hitting and amusing antics.

JONES TRIES AGAIN TO CAPTURE THE MASTERS Bobby Will Make His Third Comeback Effort

By KENNETH GREGORY (Associated Press Sports Writer) AUGUSTA, Ga., Mar. 17. (UP)—Can Gene Sarazen repeat? Will Horton Smith come through again? Is Bob Jones ready for his first triumph since his retirement? Will the amateur Lawson Little give the pros a battle?

These are a few of the questions arising with the approach of the third annual Augusta national championship golf tournament, April 2-5. The competition waged here among the masters of the greens and fairways is second only to the National Open as a drawing card for golf's big names.

Jones inaugurated it in 1934 with the announcement that he would return to competition in this event annually. Smith won first tournament at Sarazen's blaze his way to victory with a sensational finish last year.

The "comebacks" of Jones, who retired in 1930 after winning 13 national titles, climaxed by his British-American "grand slam" that year, found the former emperor of golf far down the line—tied for thirteenth place in 1934 and dead-locked for twenty-fifth a year ago.

Jones, the co-designer of the Augusta course with the late Dr. Alister MacKenzie, apparently is ready now for his first big effort since his retirement. He has been turning in plenty of sub-par cards and only recently swung over the Augusta layout in 67 strokes, five under par, using his famed putter, "Calamity Jane," the old war club that always gave him confidence.

Modestly, however, Bob says he's doubtful of getting anywhere in this year's competition, attributing his recent par-shattering scores to "luck rather than skill." Little, the new monarch of the world's amateurs—winner of the British and American amateur crowns the last two years and victor in 31 consecutive matches in the fastest simultaneous comparison was not a contender in 1934, but he led all the amateurs in all but five of the money players last year.

That "Double Eagle" Craig Wood, the betting blond from New Jersey, has been the hard-luck competitor of the first two Masters tournaments. In the inaugural his three-under-par 285 was beaten by Horton Smith's 284. Last year Wood tossed the 72 holes in 282 and waited on the clubhouse veranda for the few late four-ones to finish. Sarazen was among the late ones, with the only chance to overtake Wood.

Gene drove from the 69th needing to beat par by three strokes to gain a tie. His tee-shot carried close to 265 yards on the 455-yarder. He pulled out his No. 4 wood and cracked the ball straight to the cup for his now famous "double eagle." He was picked up three strokes on one hole!

That coup left Gene needing only pars on the remaining holes to gain a tie—and he parred them. Next day he defeated Wood in the playoff, 141 to 149, to take first money of $1,500 in the $5,000 event.

'Co-Ed' Water Carnival Plan

Men and Mermaids Head For Olympics—By Way Of Chicago CHICAGO, Mar. 17. (UP)—One of the final tests of America's greatest men and women swimmers before the selection of the United States Olympic team is on the program for April 1-4 in Chicago.

It's a "co-ed" water carnival for the first time in A. A. U. history. The men and women swimmers will compete separately.

The event will be staged in the spacious tank of the Lake Shore Athletic club and the Olympic over-lookers will be on hand for a preview of the talent that will seek to win back international swimming supremacy from the Japanese next summer.

Sponsors say 21 championships will be wide open to attack in the 4-day period. Along with all the big names of the American tanks on hand, the management expects the added incentive of Olympic year and a possible bonfire to Berlin to act as a lure for newcomers.

The well-knowns among the men include Jack Medina, fastest freestyler in America; 17-year-old Adolph Kiefer, whose back stroke has made him the most talked-of nator of the day; Peter Fick, New York; the Spence brothers; Elbert Root and Dick Degner, both from Detroit and both diving champions; Ralph Flanagan of Miami; Jim Gilhula of Los Angeles, and Dan Zelar, Northwestern university.

The Lake Shore club has a big delegation ready for the try at the titles in the home pool—and Olympic glory later.

The feminine contingent is headed by Katherine Rawls, who will try to dominate the women's events as she did last year in winning three championships. Others include the comely Eleanor Holm Jarrett, the Kiefer of the girl back-stroke artists; Lenore Knight Wingard, holder of the women's 220 and 500-yard free-style titles; Erna and Elizabeth Komp of New York; Dorothy Poynton Hill, Cleveland; Eckert and Marian Mansfield of Chicago, and Helena Tomaki of Detroit, the real "dark-horse" threat.

DECK FLIES 2,000 MILES SAN FRANCISCO, Mar. 17. (UP)—A pintail duck banded near here and then shipped to the island of Molokai, Hawaii, was later shot at Los Banos, Calif. Its course over the sea was more than 2,000 miles.

Miss Sue B. Mann, deputy state superintendent, was much improved Tuesday at a local hospital where she is suffering from a serious cold infection. Miss Mann's home is in Alpine.

Osborn Names Three At any rate, his slant on America's prospects in the coming Olympic games in Berlin are enlightening.

The three leading American jumpers in the Olympic finals should be Cornelius Johnson, Ed Burke and Walter Marty, if the latter can get in shape following his recent hernia operation," says Osborn. "The fourth American is a toss-up among Spitz, former N. Y. U. star; Threadgill of Temple university; Rushforth, Utah; Murphy of Notre Dame; Hirth of Stanford and Good of California. Of course, upsets may happen and any of the jumpers listed may have a good day and make the team.

"The foreign athletes in the Olympic running high jump finals should include Metcalf of Australia; Kotkov and Pessenko of Finland, with Weinkopf and Martini of Germany having possible chances of beating out the first three named and the third American entered, Gehmert of Germany and Bodoss of Hungary have outside chances of coming through for a place."

Osborn did not hesitate to name Cornelius Johnson, the California negro, as the present, and the best of high jumpers. About the future of high jumping, Osborn is of the opinion that there is certain to be a slight increase in height attained by the average jumper, due more to the fact that there will be more athletes in competition under more and better trained coaches, than any other cause. And the records are likely to continue to climb for the same reasons.

As to the effect foreign climate and conditions in general are likely to have on the showing of American athletes competing in the Olympic games in Berlin, Osborn says:

"The climatic conditions should not greatly differ from those to which our boys are accustomed. The environment will be very similar. By environment I mean conditions of the track, take-off, etc., because of the well known fact that the Germans excel or try to excel in whatever they do."

ing money winner of 1935—in addition to Smith, Jones, Little, Sarazen and Wood. Approximately 67 invitations were sent out.

Balkans Give Backing To Olympics Hungary, Yugoslavia to Send Large Teams

VIENNA, March 17. (UP)—Opposition to the Hitler regime has had little or no effect among Balkan States in regard to participation in the Olympic Games in Berlin this year.

While Austria and Germany are engaged in a sports war which may end in a boycott by Vienna of the games in the Third Reich, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria are showing unusual interest in preparing to fight for the world sports honors in the German capital.

Among the Danubian states, probably the greatest enthusiasm for this year's games is being evinced by Yugoslavia and Hungary. The Budapest Olympic Sports committee declares that it probably will send the largest sports contingent to Berlin that has ever represented Hungary at an Olympic gathering.

Hungary to Send 150 Owing to the high cost of transportation to the Los Angeles games, Hungary sent only 73 representatives, whereas the contingent which goes to Berlin will be twice as strong. At present, the estimated strength is almost 150.

The Olympic Games authorities in Yugoslavia, where the Sokol movement is producing such promising athletic material, say they do not believe international political quarrels should be permitted to interfere with amateur sport.

In its eagerness to send the largest possible choice of sporting talents to Germany, the Yugoslavian Olympic committee has called a nationwide sports day for June 7, the proceeds of which will be used to help defray the cost of transportation and other expenses of the team, which will number 110, including 80 Sokols.

In this manner, Yugoslavia hopes to have a larger sum available than at any time before to help its Olympic competitors.

As in Hungary and Yugoslavia, National-Socialism is a powerful issue in internal politics in Rumania, due to the large numbers of German-speaking nationals and Jewish citizens. The country, however, will not permit this to interfere with its Olympic preparations.

Speaking of his own team, Frisch said he was "quite proud of the way our players performed in Cuba. True, we lost a couple of games, but they were against good teams that came through with some sensational plays. Our players were hustling every minute and the four games in Havana did them a great deal of good."

"We got some mighty fine conditioning on this trip. The work of LeRoy Parmelee in his first competitive play with the Cardinals was particularly noteworthy. In five innings, he allowed the Cubans only three singles. "The Havana series also indicated that the team is rapidly rounding into shape defensively. In the 37 innings we played in the four games, the Cardinals made only three errors."

Frish's popularity was enhanced by his laudatory statements about Cuban baseball players and fans after the Cardinals played a four-game series here in March. Frisch said he had found the Cuban ball players well schooled in both the fundamentals and fine points of the game.

"The great enthusiasm of the Cuban fans as evidenced by the enormous crowds which turned out to see our games also added to the interest of our trip," the manager said. "It was truly a pleasure to play before such large crowds that were so genuinely enthusiastic. The Cubans are great ball fans. They seemed as familiar with the performances and records of our team as the people in the United States."

Edwards was one of the Kiewit club scholarship holders.

"SLIM" HARRIS VISITOR HERE "Slim" Harris, pitcher with Orono in the Permin Basin baseball league last year, was here today attempting to make playing arrangements with a club for the '36 season. He has only one game for Orono last year.

Austin Plans A Big Event

AUSTIN, Mar. 17.—Led by the governor of Texas, the University board of regents, the mayor of Austin, and other high state officials, the Round-Up Parade on April 3 will be the most spectacular Centennial celebration Austin will see.

University organizations are now working on their Centennial floats for the parade, and other Texas colleges and universities have been invited to enter their floats.

This Round-Up, on April 3, 4, and 5, is the seventh annual spring homecoming for University of Texas ex-students. The first was held in 1930 to celebrate the opening of work in the gymnasium, first building to be constructed under the student-ex-student plan of financing.

Chuck wagons, saloons, gambling dens, and many another scene from the early life of Texas will be portrayed in the floats of this 1936 parade. Practically all campus clubs and organizations will enter, competing for the prizes which have been offered for the best floats of several classes.

In direct charge of the parade, Dean Arno Novotny has appointed Frances Mueller of Austin and Frank Hark of Henrietta as student chairmen. They have appointed 75 students to committees in charge of the several phases of the parade. Chairmen of these sub-committees are Gus Levy of San Antonio, Gladys Matson of Rockdale, Nanine Simmons of Mexia, Mary Kate Crow of Galveston, Bob Ragan of Fort Lavaca, Ivey Cobb of Richmond, Marilee Kone of Austin, Billy Murray of Abilene, Fannie Lee Harvin of Fort Worth, Charles Seay of Dallas, Katherine Pittenger of Austin, Ben Munson of Denison, George Johnson of San Antonio, Bill Bergman of Austin, Bill Hall of Temple, and Tom Currie of Austin.

AUSTIN, Mar. 17 (UP)—Texas has been presented to the world in pictorial panorama with publication of an official Centennial map by the state highway department.

The map, printed in colors, has been in production more than a year. Officials said they expected about 3,000,000 copies would be distributed. It is the first illustrated highway map published by the department.

The map carries approximately 160 photographs depicting typical scenes from all parts of the far flung state. The pictures were selected from several thousand assembled under supervision of highway department engineers.

Photographs of Texas' historic missions, including the famous Alamo, and highway scenes are grouped around the face. Others showing the state's recreational, industrial, agricultural and scenic advantages are printed in and around a large lone star on the back.

Seven colors were used in printing. The six flags that have flown over Texas and a march, "Texas Over All," are in the title corner. Under the flags, printed in true colors, is a brief history of Texas. The things for which Texas is most noted, vast cotton and wheat fields, huge forests, cattle ranges, oil fields, are strikingly portrayed in novel, back page photographs. Views of the state's hunting and fishing mecca dot the page.

An unique shot was turned in by a West Texas division engineer who obtained a flashlight picture of a coyote standing on a small rise howling at the moon.

The flavor of West Texas is revealed in a photo of a group of cowboys gathered around the chuck wagon for a midday snack and by unusual photographs of the area's scenic wonders, including extraordinary shots in the Big Bend county and the Grand Canyon of the Rio Grande.

The spirit of the Panhandle is captured in views of wheat fields that reach to the horizon and by scenes in the Panhandle gas fields, nature's gigantic gas reservoir.

Photographs of the East Texas oil field, the largest in the world, oil plantations and pine forests carry East Texas' message. The coast, seaports, the border, and the lower Rio Grande valley are abundantly represented in rare photographs.

The map will be distributed free by the highway department. The only restriction is that it may not be used for commercial or advertising purposes.

'GOSPEL RIDERS' TO LIVE AGAIN DURING CENTENNIAL YEAR

Protestant missionaries on horseback with holstered pistol and rifle across their laps brought order and culture into the wilderness of Texas 100 years ago. These horseback riding preachers of scriptural gospel rode out of the east and into the west. In one saddle bag was a Bible, the other carried a "snack" to eat, a change of shirt and behind the saddle draped a blanket roll.

In log cabin or under the shade of a giant tree these riders of the gospel exhorted for hours to the mere handful of colonists who dared to venture out for the "meetin'." In those days the "parson" who couldn't sermonize at least two hours without pausing for breath was not considered to be much of a preacher.

Church meetings were not common. A foreign government looked with displeasure upon the spread of evangelic faiths among the colonists and often the meetings were secretly held and only upon invitation was attendance possible. Most of the colonists boasted of a family Bible, but these were brought from hiding to be read behind closed doors.

Then came the battle of San Jacinto and to Texas came religious and political freedom. General Sam Houston's victory over Santa Anna, Mexican president-dictator, opened the way for spiritual development and from that day to this religion has advanced steadily with the commercial and industrial growth of the state.

On the grounds of the Texas Centennial exposition will be the $50,000 Hall of Religion in which the lore of the "gospel riders" will be placed. Twelve halls within the building will be used for exhibits which will tell the progress of religion and culture the state has made since Alvarez de Pineda and his Spanish conquistadores planted their flag on Texas soil, in 1519.

TEXAS CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION RADIO BROADCAST SUNDAY

"Tall" as well as true stories about Texas and its 1936 Centennial exposition will feature Carverth Wells' third "Exploring America" radio broadcast of the season, Sunday, March 22.

Wells, internationally known reporter and explorer who makes truth sound stranger than fiction, is conducting his present series of programs for Continental Oil company and may be heard over twenty of the nation's largest stations.

A member of the famous "Chuck Wagon Gang" of Wichita Falls, Wells has announced that he will describe the Lone Star state's size, history and vacation attractions in the humorous style of the typical Texan.

EDMUND LOWE HAS DUAL ROLE IN FILM AT THE RITZ TODAY

Two new and different Edmund Lowes are to be seen in "The Great Impersonation," the Ritz theatre's feature for Tuesday and Wednesday. In the exciting exposure of what goes on behind the scenes of war preparations, Lowe plays two roles. Best known for his portrayal of fast-talking, wisecracking smooth guys, he departs from these roles in the dramatization of the E. Phillips Oppenheim novel.

Lowe plays the international adventurer, Leopold von Ragenstein, who is willing to take any man's life for money; he is also Edward Dominey, an alcoholic Englishman who is worthless and helpless, what happens when the two, who were once college chums, meet in Africa, constitutes a surprising plot development.

Valerie Hobson and Vera Engels play the women in the lives of these counterparts. Development of the story concerns the two men's part in an international plot.

Florence Day Members Hear President Speak

Why Gulf is the Gas for March

"Kept in Step with the Calendar"

THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE

GULF

SURE AND IT'S almost the middle of March—the month the old thermometer makes an average jump of 5 to 13 degrees. The Moral? ... That your gas should be made to fit the season! If it isn't, you're not getting all the mileage you should. ... Switch to That Good Gulf today. It's specially refined to suit the season. Because it's "Kept in Step with the Calendar"—all of it goes to work, none of it goes to waste!

Utilities Act To High Court

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17—A fresh controversy over the constitutionality of new deal legislation reached the supreme court Monday in a request for a ruling on the public utility holding company act. The court met in brief session, utility holding company act. Decisions are pending on two other Roosevelt administration laws—the Guffey coal control and but handed down only two decisions of restricted significance and a list showing what new appeals they had decided to entertain or ignore. Thereupon the justices adjourned until March 30.

Statistics make uninteresting reading, but there is one set—that compiled on traffic accidents and their cause—that should be thoroughly digested by every individual. The insurance company's report is an exhaustive one, laying the basis for the direction of safety campaigns. What caused serious accidents last year? As in the past, excessive speed was the grim reaper's best friend, accounting for 31 per cent of all accidents in which persons were killed and injured.

Chief problem is cotton. First planting already has begun in the south and prospects are for a bumper crop. This year, the agriculture department has no power to compel reduction of acreage. The program is wholly voluntary. Last year it was not. Any planter who grew a surplus of cotton could not market it without paying a tax. The same was true of tobacco—but not of wheat, corn and hogs.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Vignettes of the town: One of the gratifying aspects to "Love on the Dole" is that virtue does not triumph over villainy, thus saving the play from old-fashioned melodrama. Of New York streets, 3rd avenue remains the raggedest at night. Haunted by the "L," its shadowy pillars toss unholy fantasies along the walls and the furtive steps of bat-like creatures beat airy tattoos on the pavement. Despite its melodramatic setting, however, the cops remain a bored lot. "Nothing ever happens," they yawn, "haven't had an arrest in three weeks."

Ten Guides Offered Job Hunters

'Have Something to Say and Say It' NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UP)—With thousands of youths looking for jobs and many more to join them upon graduation from schools and colleges in June, Ralph R. Wolf, senior placement assistant at the Yale university bureau of appointments, cites ten rules for getting a job. They are: 1. Find out what you want to do. An employer doesn't care what you're interested in. 2. Study yourself. What have you to offer a prospective employer? Remember, getting a job is largely a matter of "selling yourself."

Chapter 32
FLANS

"I know," said Bobby quietly. "I shall have to leave to-day, of course," said Frankie presently. "Yes, I suppose you will. How is she—Mrs. Basington-french, I mean?"

"She's collapsed, poor soul. I haven't seen her since we've found the body. The shock to her must have been awful."

Bobby nodded.

"You'd better bring the car round about eleven," continued Frankie. "Bobby did not answer. Frankie looked at him impatiently.

"What's the matter with you, Bobby. You look as though you were miles away."

"Sorry. As a matter of fact—"

"Yes?"

"Well, I was just wondering. I suppose—well, I suppose it's all right."

"What do you mean—all right?"

"I mean it's quite certain that he did commit suicide."

"Oh!" said Frankie. "I see. She thought a minute. "Yes," she said. "It was suicide all right."

"You're quite sure? You see Frankie, we have Moira's word for it that Nicholson wanted two people out of the way. Well, here's one of them gone."

Frankie thought again, but once more she shook her head.

"It must be suicide," she said. "I was in the garden with Roger when we heard the shot. We both ran straight in through the drawing-room to the hall. The study door was locked on the inside. We went round to the window. That was fastened also and Roger had to smash it. It wasn't till then that Nicholson appeared upon the scene very suddenly."

"He'd left a stick behind earlier in the afternoon and had come back for it."

Bobby was frowning with the process of thought.

"Listen, Frankie. Suppose that actually Nicholson shot Basington-french—"

"Having induced him first to write a suicide's letter of farewell?"

"I should think that would be the easiest thing in the world to fake. Any alteration in handwriting would be put down to agitation."

"Yes, that's true. Go on with your theory."

"Nicholson shoots Basington-french, leaves the farewell letter, and nips out, locking the door—to appear again a few minutes later as though he had just arrived."

Frankie shook her head regretfully.

"It's a good idea—but it won't work. To begin with, the key was in Henry Basington-french's pocket—"

"Who found it there?"

"Well, as a matter of fact, Nicholson did."

"There you are! What's easier for him than to pretend to find it there?"

"I was watching him—remember. I'm sure the key was in the pocket."

"That's what one says when one watches a conjurer. You see the rabbit being put into the hat! If Nicholson is a high-class criminal a simple little bit of sleight-of-hand like that would be child's play to him."

"Well, you may be right about that, but honestly, Bobby, the whole thing's impossible. Sylvia Basington-french was actually in the house when the shot was fired. The moment she heard it she ran out into the hall."

"If Nicholson had fired the shot and come out through the study door she would have been bound to see him. Besides, she told us that he actually came up the drive to the front door. She saw him coming as we ran round the house, and went to meet him and brought him round the study window. No, Bob that she and waits to be eaten by a snake without doing anything about it."

"What could she do?"

"Houses of things," said Frankie vigorously.

"Well, I don't see it. She's got no money, no friends—"

"My dear, don't drone on as though you were recommending a case to the Girls Friendly Society."

"Sorry," said Bobby.

"There was an offended pause."

"Well," said Frankie, recovering her temper. "As you were, I think we'd better get on to this business as soon as possible."

"So do I," said Bobby. "Really, Frankie, it's awfully decent of you to—"

"That's all right," said Frankie, interrupting him. "I don't mind being interrupted the girl so long as you don't drel on about her as though she had no hands or feet or tongue or brains."

"I simply don't know what you mean," said Bobby.

"Well, we needn't talk about it," said Frankie. "Now my life is that whatever we're going to do we'd better do it quickly. Is that a quotation?"

"It's a paraphrase of one. Go on, Lady Macbeth."

"You know I've always thought," said Frankie, suddenly digressing wildly from the matter in hand, "that Lady Macbeth incited Macbeth to do all those murders simply and solely because she was so frightfully bored with life—and incidentally with Macbeth."

A'S SON-IN-LAW

"What the Sam Hill have I let myself in for now? Here I thought I was stepping out in Washington society—"

"The house—guest of the ambassador from San Azucar—"

"An I wake up? Find myself locked in my bedroom in the—"

"The embassy!"

"If you'd seen her that night when I first went to the Grange!" he said. "She was crazy with fear—and I tell you, Frankie, she's right. It's not nerve or imagination about anything like that. If Nicholson wants to marry Sylvia Basington-french, two obstacles have to go. One's gone. I've a feeling that Moira's life is hanging by a hair and that any delay may be fatal."

Frankie was sobered by the earnestness of his words.

"My dear, you're right," she said. "We must act quickly. What shall we do?"

"We must persuade her to leave the Grange—at once."

Frankie nodded. "I tell you what," she said. "She'd better go down to Wales—to the Castle. Heaven knows she ought to be safe enough there."

"If you can fix that, Frankie, nothing could be better."

"Well, it's simple enough. Father never notices who goes or comes. He'll like Moira—nearly any man would, she's so feminine. It's extraordinary how men like helpless women."

"I don't think Moira is particularly helpless," said Bobby.

"Nonsense. She's like a little bird

Texas Rangers Using 'Six Guns' Just Like In The Good Old Days

Captain J. W. McCormick. He aims "to be practical."

the action one of the most remarkable pieces of law enforcement in Ranger history.

The gang was reported to have so terrorized the country that property values had declined. McCormick said no one ever would know how many persons had been murdered over a long period.

Forty Go To Prison

Captain McCormick and two assistants moved into the San Augustine area, arrested all members of the gang and obtained penitentiary punishment for forty.

He didn't kill anyone in this exploit, but he had "to lay awake nights figuring ways to avoid it," he says.

On one occasion the captain grabbed a gang leader by the coat collar and kicked him across the town's main street in the view of the assembled populace.

At the end of the campaign, the citizens of San Augustine presented McCormick with a pair of silver-mounted six-shooters—single action—and a ruby-studded belt.

Mr. E. F. Willis spent Tuesday visiting relatives in San Angelo.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wooten and son left Sunday for Dallas, accompanied by Mrs. M. K. House, who went as far as Fort Worth to attend the Fat Stock show. The Wootens expect to go on to Crystal City from Dallas and attend the spring carnival.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Savage are making a business trip to San Antonio. They will return the last of the week.

Mrs. Joe Cleve is spending the week in Midland on business.

Mrs. Ben Carter and her mother, Mrs. Bardwell, are spending the week in Dallas.

When expecting trouble, he frequently carries a third pistol in a shoulder holster and a fourth in a coat pocket, and sometimes takes along a sawed-off shotgun and a couple of rifles.

"There are some things you learn from experience and not in schools," he said, explaining his habits of armament.

"I aim to be practical."

He is remarkably fast in pulling a gun, fellow Rangers say; and others probably would so testify, if they could.

The captain drew two guns recently when he exterminated a gang in the East Texas piney woods. Gov. James V. Alfred termed

 "Gentlemen," said General Philip Sheridan on one occasion, after the Ladies had retired from dinner, "shall we drink like gentlemen, or like beasts?" "Like gentlemen," was the somewhat indignant answer. "Then," said Sheridan, "we shall all get drunk—for beasts know when they have had enough."
 Precisely! But it is in the somewhat dangerous process of trying to discover exactly how much one can take, that the habit of drinking is likely to become fixed.

Chain Of Concrete Turns River Force Into Controlled Energy

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Mar. 17 (UP)—Deep in the heart of the Old South in the rock-rimmed Tennessee valley, thousands of workers are building huge man-made mountains of gray concrete.

The Tennessee river, for decades a destructive flood scourge, is being harnessed by a $255,000,000 chain of dams which is transforming its once destructive power into controlled energy. Near the Tennessee forests where Daniel Boone blazed trails into a wilderness the dams are rising. Two have been completed and four more are under construction.

Starting with the wartime Wilson Dam as a nucleus, TVA today is building additional dams which will end the menace of destructive floods in the valley for all time.

Wilson dam at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was begun in 1918 and completed in September, 1925, at a cost of $46,950,000. When President Roosevelt signed the TVA act in May, 1933, engineers immediately drafted plans for construction of additional barriers which will harness the Tennessee and its tributaries, insure navigation from Paducah, Ky., up the 650 miles to Knoxville, Tenn., and create almost inexhaustible reservoirs of power.

Wheeler Dam Next
 Norris dam, named after Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, step-father of TVA, is complete. Wheeler, Pickwick, Gunterville and Chickamauga are under construction—Wheeler dam will be finished this fall.

TVA is planning a sixth huge dam—Hiwassee in North Carolina, midway between Murphy, N. C., and the Tennessee state line. It has not been authorized, but with its power program validated by the U. S. supreme court, TVA momentarily is expected to give the go-ahead signal.

Norris dam, fourth largest concrete barrier in the world, was declared completed March 4, and probably presents the clearest picture of what is envisaged by the engineers who are making the prodigious dreams of TVA an actuality.

It is located on the Clinch river, about 80 miles above its junction with the Tennessee and about 25 miles northwest of here—a $59,000,000 barrier to provide a constant supply of water for the power generators at Wilson dam far below.

DRIVERS' LICENSES MORE POPULAR THAN '36 TAGS FOR AUTOS

Tuesday morning there were six drivers for every car on the basis of licenses issued by the tax collector-assessor's office.

Approximately 6,500 people had obtained operators licenses while only about 1,000 had secured 1936 license tags for their cars.

Office employees estimated that when the deadline is passed April 1 there will have been more than 1,000 cars registered and 10,000 operators licenses issued.

Colorado Project Not For Power, Secy. Ickes Says

WASHINGTON, Mar. 7 (UP)—Secretary Ickes today denied the contention of Texas power companies that the $20,000,000 lower Colorado river reclamation project was designed for hydro-electric power generation primarily.

"It is a flood control and irrigation development, and power is only incidental," he said. Power companies are seeking to block the project, recently obtaining a court order to halt work.

WILL ASK DISMISSAL OF INJUNCTIONS ON TEXAS RIVER WORK

WASHINGTON, Mar. 17—Victorious in two early skirmishes, the government began preparations today for a final attack on utility companies seeking to stop work on two Texas river projects intended to afford flood control irrigation.

A justice department official said government attorneys would ask dismissal on March 25 of a temporary restraining order the District of Columbia supreme court granted seven Texas utility companies preventing further government assistance in construction, rather than permit a temporary injunction to be issued as has been their custom in 60 other cases.
