

Freshmen dorm hours challenged, under review by administration

By ROGER FEHR
Staff Writer

Tech Legal Counsel Carlton Dodson said in a University Daily interview Thursday that he would make a recommendation to the administration concerning abolishment of freshmen women's hours in the "relatively near future and possibly today (Friday)."

Dodson said Clifford Yoder, Tech housing director, had initiated discussion "about a month ago" about the discrepancy between freshmen women having hours and freshmen men not having hours.

At that time Dodson suggested "we (university) probably ought to equalize the matter," he said.

If women's hours are changed, it would come this summer, Dodson said.

He said Yoder suggested no action should be taken until the end of the semester because all room and board contracts and the 1972-73 catalogue committed the university to the present system.

Dodson said there was a slight possibility that in order to equalize the situation, men's hours might be established. He indicated, however, he would not recommend this course of action.

In a Freshman Council straw vote two weeks ago, freshmen voted 503 to 11 for the abolishment of women's hours.

Recently, Shannon McWilliams, sophomore adviser to the council, suggested the council file suit against the board of regents and Tech President Grover Murray for discrimination against freshmen women.

Daniel Benson, attorney for the council, said Thursday a civil suit was one avenue the council could follow, and he felt such a suit had a "good chance" in court.

However, Benson said he did not think litigation would be necessary because "the administrators realize there is a need for change."

Such a suit could be based on the "equal protection clause" of the 14th amendment to the U.S. Constitution, Benson said.

The clause states: "No state...shall deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Dodson said he did not think the equal protection clause could apply in this instance but that other legislation did.

He said federal legislation taking effect in March will "put universities in the same position (regarding civil rights) that industry has been in since 1965."

Tech has been in contact with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to clarify the ramifications of the civil rights legislation.

The administration is also discussing whether the $5 fee women with self-determined hours pay for night guards is discriminatory, Dodson said.

He said the fee's abolishment is under consideration.

The Freshman Council, after being informed of Benson's outlook on the administration's position, decided Thursday to take no further action until after the administration acts.

Texas seeks review of abortion decision

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill asked the U.S. Supreme Court Thursday to reconsider its Jan. 22 decision nullifying the state's abortion law.

Hill's written motion for a rehearing in Washington, D. C., was submitted by Asst. Atty. Gen. Ric Stover.

The motion urges two grounds for rehearing:

—The high court "erred in substituting its social beliefs for the judgements of the Texas legislature."

—The court "erred in failing to extend to unborn children protection, equal to that of the mother, under the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment of the United States Constitution."

Hill said theologians, philosophers, lawyers and physicians disagree on when a fetus can be considered "human."

"For the court to enter the controversy and to deny that the Texas statutes have any 'rational relation' to a valid state objective' is simply to accept as rational those philosophies comports with the court's views, and to condemn as irrational all others," Hill said in his petition for rehearing.

He contended that a fetus "is a 'person,' within the meaning of the Constitution and its amendments, and is entitled to be protected equally with the life and health of the mother."

"The state's abortion statutes relate logically and rationally to the state's objective-preservation of fetal human life and preservation of the mother's health," the attorney general said. "Surely the prevention of the extinguishment of the life of a human fetus is a 'valid state objective.' The embryo is a fully potential human being from the moment of conception."

Only rarely has the high court granted a rehearing and changed its decision after issuing a ruling.

Young residents tell story of Archer City after movie

By MARCIA SMITH
Staff Writer

"Anarene, Tex. is physically moribund; its shabby stores, windswept, desolate streets and bleak main highway mark it as one of those way stations that American civilization left behind on its long push West."—Newsweek.

"It's a town that could never be mistaken for a wholesome place to grow up in. It's the smallest, bleakest, boringest kind of flatlands town—the kind that has only one street with businesses on it."—New Yorker

Although Anarene hardly sounds like the ideal vacation spot, the fictional town has become immortalized through the highly popular "The Last Picture Show."

Based on Larry McMurtry's book by the same name, "The Last Picture Show" was filmed for the most part in Archer City, Tex.

Receiving an Academy Award nomination for best motion picture of 1971, the film has brought fame to both McMurtry and Archer City.

McMurtry, who co-authored the screenplay with Peter Bogdanovich, director of the film, dedicated "The Last Picture Show" to "my home town."

Due to the age discrepancy, the young people of Archer

City do not know McMurtry personally.

"I've heard a few things about him, like that he was different from other kids his age. He developed pictures while the other guys were playing football. He wasn't disliked, just ignored," commented Cindy Martin, Tech freshman and life-long resident of Archer City.

"I knew Larry's brothers real well. We used to play a little basketball with him. He has his doctorate in English and did teach at Rice. I believe he owns a bookstore in Virginia," added Eddie Trigg, Tech sophomore from Archer City.

"'The Last Picture Show' is a masterpiece. It is not merely the best American movie of a rather dreary year; it is the most impressive work by a young director since 'Citizen Kane,'"—Newsweek Filmed in black and white, the movie is concerned with two young men who grow into manhood in a small Texas town in the Fifties.

Sonny (Timothy Bottoms) and Duane (Jeff Bridges) must deal with loneliness, sexual ignorance and confusion about their aims in life without benefit of adult guidance.

Oscars went to Cloris Leachman and Ben Johnson for their supporting roles as the neglected coach's wife and the heroic Sam the Lion, respectively.

The movie, "Hud," starring Paul Newman and Patricia Neal, was based on an earlier McMurtry novel, "Horseman Pass By."

At the time, some of the Archer City townspeople said they felt the story was aimed at them.

However, it didn't stir as much controversy as "The Last Picture Show" has.

"Since 'Hud' was filmed in Claude, Tex., it didn't involve the town directly," suggested Martin.

Although "The Last Picture Show" received predominantly favorable reviews from most of the major magazine publications, many Archer City residents took a different position in regard to the movie, according to Martin.

"There were those who were afraid that the movie would give the town a bad name. Others were more in favor of it because the picture brought money into the town."

Lonnie Maag, freshman journalism major from Archer City, explained, "the people who were against the movie had no right. The school board voted to let the filming take place there and the city council went along with them. The Baptist preacher, a Baptist deacon and the Archer City High School principal were the main objectors—the preacher never even saw the movie."

The older people in the town were afraid that their kids would think that they had done those things (depicted in the movie). Also, I'm sure some of them hadn't seen a movie in a while and were shocked at the new freedoms allowed to movie-makers."

In response to the local criticism, McMurtry wrote to the editor of the Archer County News. He offered to publicly debate his critics. They never answered his offer. "I think they remembered what a good debater he was in high school," suggested Martin.

If Robert Altman's genius in 'McCabe and Mrs. Miller' was to create in time and space the birth and burgeoning of an entire town, Bogdanovich describes with equal brilliance its decline and death."—Newsweek

"There is nothing to keep people in Archer City. We have no industries to bring people into town. Oil and cattle ranching is the town's main economic source. It's true that kids leave there right after graduation," commented Martin.

"Archer City won't ever completely die because Wichita Falls is so close by. People will live in Archer City to escape high taxes and for the benefits a small town can offer," added Maag.

All three—Martin, Maag and Trigg—agreed they like small-town life. "It's nice to know everyone in town and it's a great way to bring up kids" was the general opinion.

With Wichita Falls only 25 miles away, Archer City residents have the advantages of both a small town and a larger city. Dating and shopping are usually reserved for the more cosmopolitan Wichita Falls.

"A town called Anarene did exist at one time. It was a very small town about 10 miles from Archer City. Although it once had a school, a store, a filling station and a railway station, there's nothing left but a few old railroad ties now," explained Martin.

In constructing the fictional Anarene for the filming of the movie, several problems developed.

First, the Royal Theater, the only movie house in Archer City, exists only in part—the interior scenes were shot in nearby Olney, Texas.

The hospital scene was filmed in Olney, and the swimming party scene was shot at the Grecian Health Spa in Wichita Falls.

A local grocery store was redone to serve as the all-night cafe.

Sam the Lion's pool hall was actually an old domino hall (called "The Club"); now it is a tourist attraction called the "Anarene Club."

"People would come to see the pool hall and steal dominoes for souvenirs. The owner got wise and started selling them for $1 each," commented Jerry McWhorter, senior marketing major from Archer City.

"In my opinion, the filming of 'The Last Picture Show' in town was the most exciting thing that has ever happened in Archer City. Others might argue that winning the state championship in football in 1964 was better," added McWhorter.

Rumors abound in Archer City about who's really who in McMurtry's novel.

Did he know a Sonny? A Duane? A Jacy?

The story goes that the tax collector in town, a man by the name of Bobby Stubbs, was the basis for the character Sonny.

"I think that's because in the copy of the book that Larry sent to Stubbs, there was a note that said something to the effect of... To Bobby—thought you'd get a kick out of this," suggested McWhorter.

Trigg added, "I've heard that something like the affair between Sonny and the coach's wife did take place, but the woman wasn't necessarily a coach's wife."

Bobby Sheen, the host of the nude swimming party in Wichita Falls, is rumored to be Bobby Burns of the L. T. Burns Estate in Wichita Falls, an oil-producing company which hires many workers from Archer City.

"Larry definitely intended to write about the people in Archer City, but I think he took several characters and combined them to form each character," McWhorter said.

Many Archer City locals had bit parts in the movie. Trigg was one of the boys in the back of the pick-up truck at the beginning of the picture.

"I tried out for a speaking part but Bogdanovich said that my voice was too deep."

Maag was one of the high school football players; Martin and McWhorter's sister, Jan, were in the film as members of the school band. Maag's father, John B. Maag, had a speaking part in the movie.

"His line was something like 'It stands to reason. The sheriff said he did it.' He wrote it on the back of his hand so he wouldn't forget it," his son said.

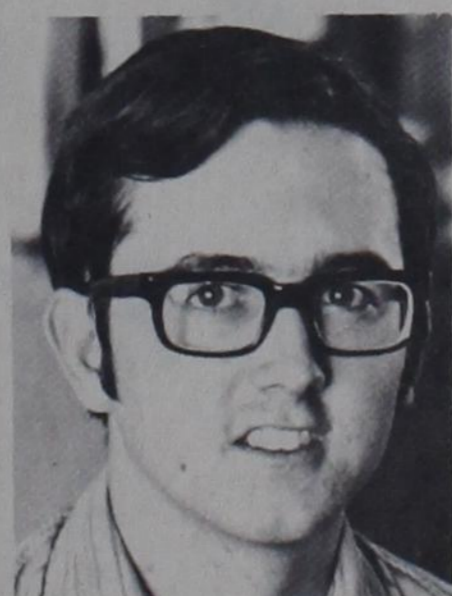

The elder Maag hadn't read the book prior to accepting the part in the picture. "He was ashamed after seeing the movie that he had been in it. He wouldn't have accepted it if he had known what the movie was about," said his son.

Today, Archer City, with a dwindling population of 1,800, attracts visitors from all over the country.

According to the townspeople, these people come in their Cadillacs to take pictures of the pool hall and the "picture show."

The problems of student politicians...

By LAYLAN COPELIN
Editor

Today, the last day to file for Student Association elected positions, the UD will convey the problems of student politicians — past and present.

This year's senators, mostly no-name newcomers, swept all but seven incumbents out of office last year with the battle cry: "Throw the bums out."

Everyone knew who the enemy was last year. In fact, it was a liability to have been a senator during the "Big Top Circus." Many student politicians ran their campaigns on one theme: "I have NEVER been connected with student government."

But the upcoming election poses a different problem.

In a year when senators' names are no longer household words or their mugs no longer peer from every other Friday's UD, the incumbents suffer a severe case of "what-hisnameitis."

No doubt Buddy Warren's legislators from the budgeting and finance committee could point with pride to the amount of student money they divided among campus organizations in numerous "secret" meetings.

Other senators might relive their part in Polly Kinnibrough's minority which successfully bottlenecked student appointments to university committees for months. And then lost their cause to their fellow senators.

In September, Internal Vice President Jim Nader told the senate, "When you initiate action on a program, follow it through to the end. Good or bad. If you don't like the end, then don't accept it in any way."

Instead, Nader and the senate contented themselves with record-breaking half-hour meetings with little action or initiative—good or bad.

Some student politicians will escape worrying over past action (or lack of same). They will choose graduation rather than re-election.

Greg Wimmer, a seasoned senator before he ascended into the presidency, will never have to explain why he ignored an almost unanimous senate vote NOT to accept the administration's legal aid program without litigation. And why, by early September, he called for a referendum on the legal aid issue because "the (month-old) senate does not represent the students."

Voters will never get to ask those questions. And the senate, intimidated into early stages of impotence, never asked.

Wimmer will never explain why the UD had to spearhead the organization of the Memorial Circle rally and propose the student alternative he later mumbled to the Board of Regents.

Wimmer will never explain to 350 students who rallied in freezing weather why he chose to hunt quail that night, rather than rally with his constituency.

In the upcoming election, Techsians must look for politicians who will bring new answers to old problems. Student government has marked time long enough.

...or Why SA presidents should not hunt quail

More tournaments due

Debaters capture six firsts

By ROGER DEAN
Staff Writer

The Tech debate team has taken first place in six of the 14 tournaments it attended this year as well as three second places. The team has also placed within the top eight standings at all of the tournaments.

According to Vernon McGuire, the team's faculty sponsor since 1965, the squad this year is one of the finest in the past four years. "We have the largest number of excellent freshmen that I've ever seen, as well as a number of fine upperclassmen," McGuire said.

The debate team will have the opportunity to participate in the National Debate Tournament district competition this year, on March 16-17. The top eight teams, chosen from the 25 participating schools from Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas, will compete in the national tournament in Annapolis, Md.

The Tech debate team went to the national tournament in 1968 and 1970.

Tech will also compete in the Novice Nationals April 5-7. The competition, which is for outstanding freshmen, will be the second time a Tech team has qualified to attend.

will hand out bike registration cards from 12:30-1:30 p.m. Fridays and from 10:30-2:30 p.m. Saturdays.

Cards will be distributed today and Saturday in the Murdough-Stangel and Wall-

Gates lobbies.

Cards will be distributed Feb. 23 and 24 for Chitwood, Weymouth and Coleman in the Chitwood-Weymouth lobby; for Gaston, Wells and Carpenter in the Wells-Carpenter lobby; and for Gordon and Bledsoe, in front of the dining hall.

March 9 and 10, WSO members will be in the Hulenclement lobby. Horn and Knapp will register in the Knapp lobby, while Doak-Weeks and Sneed registration will be handled in the Doak-Weeks lobby.

A make-up date for dorm residents and registration for off-campus students is planned at a later time at the University Center.

Information necessary for registering a bike, includes the serial number, make type, wheel diameter, color, classification of girl's or boy's and pertinent personal information.

A die to stamp a "Double T" on the bike will be available during registration. This stamp has been developed as part of a program of Southwest Conference schools to locate stolen bikes and facilitate prompt return to the proper campus.

General orientation sessions for prospective resident assistants for Tech residence halls will be in the University Center Mesa Room at 3 p.m. today. Applications and job descriptions will be distributed at these times along with a short orientation program with a question and answer panel session. Applicants need to attend only one meeting. It is essential that applicants attend one of the meetings to be considered for a resident assistant position for the 1973-74 academic year.

The resident assistant position in Tech residence halls is a student position and students are selected on the basis of talent, enthusiasm and concern which they demonstrate for the position. A 2.15 overall grade point average prior to and during employment is required. Applicants should possess leadership potential and a working knowledge of residence hall living. Residence in a Tech dorm for at least one semester is required.

Work schedule for a resident assistant is flexible and varies from one residence hall to another. Resident assistants are compensated at an hourly rate for the time they work. Payment of room and board is the responsibility of the individual resident assistant.

For further information contact Dr. Wade Thompson, assistant director of housing, at 742-6211.

Seven Techsans chosen for TISL all-star game

By JEFF KLOTZMAN
Sports Writer

Seven players from Tech's 1972 soccer team were selected to participate in the Texas Intercollegiate Soccer League All-Star game Saturday in Austin on the University of Texas campus.

Capturing all-star honors for the Techsans this year were goalie Bill Jacks, full-back Tom Vaughn, full-back John Spiegelberg, full-back Tom Jarmon, half-back Carlos Pinada, center-forward Geoff Harley and right forward Tom Schutz. Harley was head coach for the Raiders this past season while Spiegelberg served as his assistant.

The all-star contest will be the highlight of the TISL annual spring meeting. Representatives from all TISL member schools will be present for the meeting which will discuss rules and goals for the 1973 season.

Spiegelberg and Schutz won't be strangers to the all-star contest because they have played in every past season contest since the league was formed three years ago and it will be the last time Spiegelberg represents Tech as a soccer player. Schutz still has two years of eligibility left.

Harley, also playing in his last soccer outing for the Raiders, will be back next year to assume his duties as head coach.

Saturday's all-star contest will pit the best players in north Texas against those in south Texas. Tech, SMU and the University of Texas at Arlington will provide the bulk of the players for the North attack while Texas provides most of the South's strength.

As the Tech football coaches are in the process of finding new talent for future years the soccer team is also involved in the same task. Filling the spot of head recruiter for the kickers this year is Tom Schutz who is looking for new talent to add depth to the team which will be weakened by the loss of Spiegelberg, Harley and Alfredo Guzman. Schutz, speaking on recruiting said, "We have great hopes for next year in the way of improvement of the younger players and the recruiting of new ones. It is most important to us now to find the talent on the Tech campus and get them to practice."

Center fullback Tom Vaughn is among seven Tech soccer players who will be in Austin this weekend participating in the Texas Intercollegiate Soccer League all-star game. See story at left.

Sophomore Kim McClintock goes high in the air for two points in the Picador's recent win over West Texas. McClintock is currently the leading Picador, despite his lack of size. See Jeff Klotzman's story below.

Slim Kim McClintock rips cords in usual weight-watcher fashion

By JEFF KLOTZMAN
Sports Writer

Kim McClintock has a weight problem that most dieters wish they could bemoan. At 6-5, 180, the sophomore roundballer from Dumas has a build that would compliment a guard but he has always had success at the forward position.

McClintock's lack of weight is causing havoc in his rebounding game. "When I guard a guy like Gene Kaberline (Tech varsity forward), I'm almost knocked off balance when we go up against each other. As a matter of fact, the last time I faced Kaberline in practice he almost ran over me."

What McClintock lacks in weight he makes up for in scoring. He currently leads the junior varsity scoring derby and his average is increasing with every outing. Against Western Texas Junior College Tuesday night, McClintock grabbed high points honors with 31 tallies.

When asked what he contributed to his scoring ability he stated, "I guess I just put the ball up more than anyone else. Most teams have tried to defend us by using a zone and that is what I like to work against. A zone lets me get off a corner shot which I can usually sink. I will put up a 15 to 20 foot baseline shot nearly every time if I am in the open."

Since McClintock is a better than average shooter he is concentrating more on his rebounding and defensive play. His main problem has been acquiring the urge to go to the defensive boards. "I have a tendency to watch too much when I should be trying to get a rebound," he said. "The defensive boards are especially hard for me because everyone is in there fighting for the ball and it is hard to fight off bigger players and get position."

Tech girls in state tourney

Three Tech women have advanced to the State Badminton Tournament which gets underway this weekend on the campus of Sam Houston State University in Huntsville.

By being runners-up in District I competition last weekend, Tech's Trudy Davis and doubles' partners Cathy Bacon and Patty McColl won the right to go to state.

Davis lost in the finals to a University of Texas at El Paso player. Bacon and McColl also finished second behind UTEP.

Techsans Terri Campbell and Pat Tydenan took fourth place in district play and did not qualify for the state tournament.

Baseball spring training may be delayed

By EDSCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Executive Board of the Major League Baseball Players Association will discuss Friday an owners' offer which it is expected to pass on to the entire membership, an action that probably would delay the official March 1 opening of spring training.

The board, comprised of the 24 club representatives, was scheduled to meet with Executive Director Marvin Miller at a midtown hotel starting at 11 a.m., EST.

"There has been...feeling expressed that this matter is of sufficient importance to be taken to the entire membership," said Miller, who added that such an action would take from two to three weeks because the players are scattered all over.

Action on three-year proposals covering the pension-benefit plan and the Basic Agreement, which covers active player-owner dealings, could be taken much faster if many of the Tech netters to open season

The Red Raider tennis team begins the season Saturday, hosting New Mexico State in a dual meet on the Tech courts at 1 p.m.

There will be six singles matches and three doubles matches in the meet. Tech will enter Walter Hammerick, Stanley Morris, Jerry Smith, James Chisholm, John Moffet, and Sid Clements in singles. The doubles teams will be Chisholm-Moffet, Hammerick-Morris, and Smith-Clements.

players were in camps for early spring training, Miller said.

The American and National Leagues announced last week that early training, which is by invitation and involves mainly pitchers and catchers, was being delayed because of the negotiations.

Miller termed the action an illegal threat of a lockout and

Raiders set for Owl plucking in Houston Saturday

By EDDY CLINTON
Sports Writer

Tech's Red Raider basketball express, in high gear and heading into the home stretch, travels to Houston for an engagement that the Raiders hope will keep them atop the Southwest Conference (SWC) basketball derby.

The Raiders, currently 8-1 for the conference campaign, will tackle Rice, a team they defeated earlier 65-51.

But, as is usual in the conference, the home team, Rice, will play a different style of game in their own gym.

For the Owls, the question will be whether they can stop Tech's inside play and crack the tough defense that the Raiders have displayed thus far this year.

The Raider defense has allowed an average of only 66.5 points per game and has improved on that figure in conference play by allowing only 64 points per contest to rip the nets.

Spearheading the Tech defense has been the wide-open play of senior Ed Wakefield and sophomore William Johnson.

In the last outing against TCU, Wakefield collected a game high 14 rebounds while Johnson, starting in place of Ron Richardson who was ill, hauled in 10 rebounds and was the game's leading scorer with 20 points.

The point of concern for the Raiders is the condition of Richardson who was forced to sit out the Frog contest because of the flu. Should Richardson be forced to sit out the Rice game, it would give the Owls the height advantage under the boards.

to play, the starting nod again would go to Johnson, who has played the role of super-sub this season.

Although not listed as a starter this year, Johnson has logged considerable playing time and ranks third on the team with an average of 10.4 points per game in conference play. The Houston native is fourth on the team in rebound average by hauling in 6.5 rebounds per game.

Joining either Richardson or Johnson in the lineup will be Rick Bullock, Wakefield, Don Moore and Richard Little.

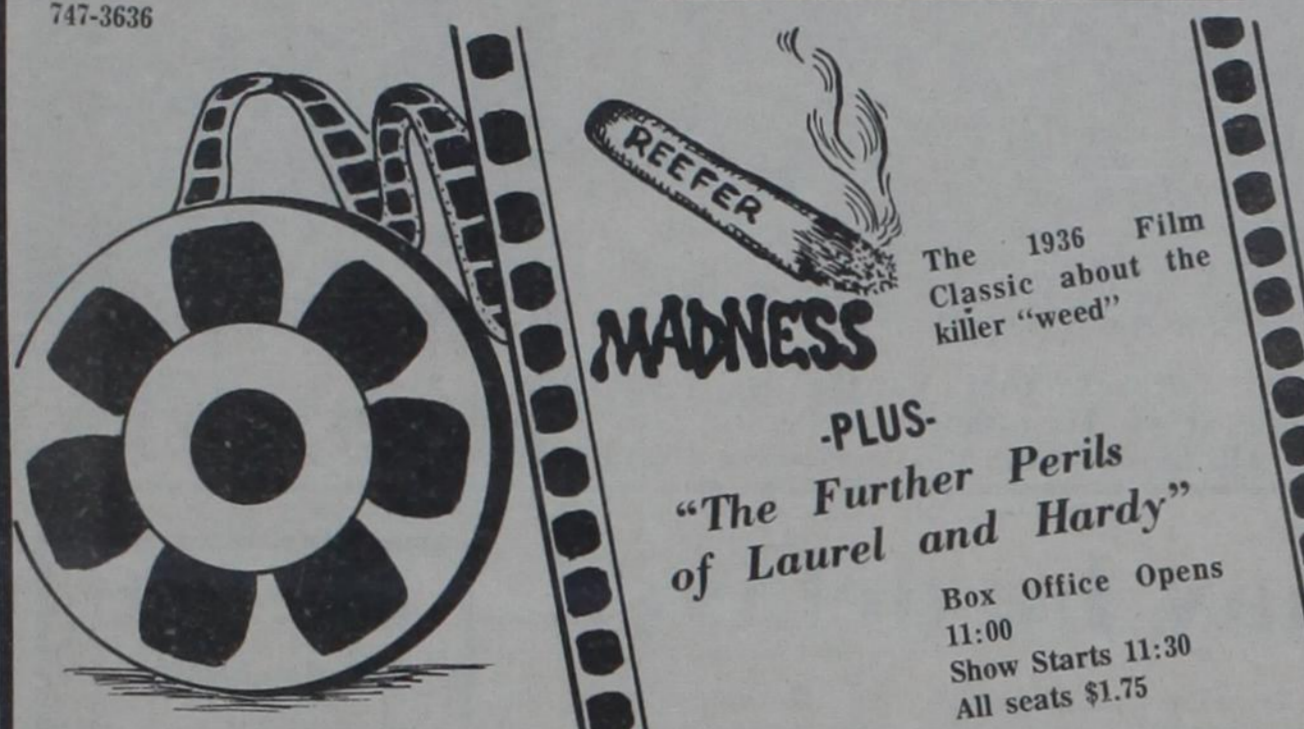

Little is currently hitting 10.2 points a game; Wakefield has upped his scoring average to 9.7 and 8.4 rebounds per contest, and Moore is averaging 6.5 points a game.

The Owls will start Scott Fisher and Tim Moriarty as guards, Perry Gaudet and Steve Emshoff as forwards and Mark Wherle as center.

Elsewhere in the conference, SMU, just one game behind the Raiders, will travel to Ft. Worth to play TCU, Arkansas will travel to Waco to play Baylor and Texas and A&M will square off in Austin in a televised contest Saturday afternoon.

Raider swimmers host weekend meet

The Tech swimming team hosts Texas Saturday in a Southwest Conference (SWC) dual meet at the Tech pool, as the season winds toward its finale at the SWC meet in three weeks.

The Longhorns bring a talented, depth-laden squad into the 2 p.m. battle, led by former Olympic champion Felipe Munoz and a host of others. Tech coach Jim McNally expects Texas to be strong in every event.

"Texas was beaten badly by SMU (72-41), but I don't think that was indicative of their strength. They were not swimming their best swimmers in every event, and a few were injured. They have the best team they've had in years, mainly because of increased depth," said McNally.

Texas has five individuals with the top times in the conference in their events. Breaststroker Munoz and Bob Rachner not only lead the SWC, but are also ranked in the top ten nationally, and the 'Horns 400-Yard Medley Relay is nationally ranked.

Both teams are trying to reach their peak for the March 1-3 SWC meet, to be held in Fort Worth at the TCU pool.

The Raiders enter the Texas meet with a 5-3 dual meet record.
