Lawyer predicts impeachment of Nixon

By CHARLEY BANKHEAD

UD Reporter A lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) predicted Sunday that the House of Representatives will impeach Pres. Nixon and that information about impeachment proceedings will begin to reach the news media within a month.

Charles Morgan, director of the ACLU's national legislative office in Washington, D.C., made the prediction prior to his speaking engagement at the Tech School of Law. Morgan is currently directing the ACLU's campaign to impeach the President.

"THE ODDS ARE OVERWHELMING that he (Nixon) will be impeached," said

Morgan

Morgan. "I think the House will impeach him by a very wide margin. The only question is whether the people will favor impeachment, and I think they will."

Morgan said he had been in contact with Congressmen and that despite indications of an unwillingness on their part to begin impeachment, the proceedings will be carried out. He also said a recent Roper Poll showed that Americans favor the President's resignation or impeachment by a 2-1 margin.

"It's only a matter of time," said Morgan. "Within about a month, I expect news of impeachment proceedings to begin filtering down to the press. After that, I couldn't predict how long it will be before the actual procedure begins."

WHEN ASKED ABOUT THE ACLU'S effort to impeach President Nixon, Morgan said the campaign is based solely on evidence collected from the President's own admissions.

"We're not interested in Nixon's income tax or his tapes," said Morgan. "We're not looking into the 18-minute gap or even the firing of Archibald Cox. We're only interested in what the President has said.

"He (the President) has said he limited the FBI investigation into Watergate. He has admitted to organizing a secret police in the White House. He has admitted authorizing, for a period of five days-burglary, wiretapping and other illegal activities.

"WHO ORDERED THE CAMBODIAN bombing and kept it a secret and lied about it? Nixon did. And he said if he had it to do over again, he would lie and keep it a secret.

"He can't admit to doing all these things and then say he's not a crook. If you or me had as much evidence against us as was known a year ago about the President, we'd be behind bars right

Morgan said a grand jury investigation could not be the solution to the scandal ("Who do you think is the chief law enforcement officer in the nation? The President."). He said impeachment is a political process and the only way to settle the controversy.

"THE FOLKS WHO FOUNDED the Constitution weren't crazy," said Morgan. "They never expected the President in indict himself. That's why they included the impeachment clause."

Morgan said even if the President denied any wrongdoing and claimed to have no knowledge of the activities of his aides and advisors, the President could still be impeached.

"James Madison said in the First Congress that the President must have power to remove appointees because he is liable to impeachment for their acts because they are his agents. Madison also said the President may be impeached for the wanton removal of meritorious officers, and I think Archibald Cox probably falls into that category.

"ANDREW JOHNSON WAS IM-PEACHED and tried for the removal of appointees, and during the trial he said he had to remove them because he was libel for their actions."

The ACLU director said President Nixon had tried to become a king and had almost made it. Morgan added that unless the President is brought to trial, he will have proven himself to be above the law.

"A lot of people have said, 'All presidents do those kinds of things,"" said Morgan. "But I'll guarantee this: if the President is not impeached and brought to trial, the next president will do the same things Nixon has done and get away with it.

"Other people have said that getting Agnew was enough. But to compare what Spiro Agnew did with what Richard Nixon did would be like comparing the charges against a chicken thief with those against Jack the Ripper."

MORGAN SAID THE PRESIDENT, by withholding tapes and other evidence, is slowing the initiation of impeachment proceedings. But he added that Congressional committees investigating the scandals are actually the first steps toward impeachment, and the information gained by the investigators will be used in the proceedings.

"If the President wanted to bring things to an end and stop prolonging the situation, all he has to do is drive his limousine to the back of the White House, dump the tapes in the trunk, and then, if he can find some gasoline, take the tapes over to Capitol Hill."

"I think a lot of people have been watching too many Perry Mason movies," said Morgan. "They keep expecting someone in the back of the courtroom to stand up and say, 'I did it! I did it, and I'm glad!'

"But it just doesn't happen that way. This is the real thing, and the guilty people aren't going to turn themselves in that easily."

History-making subpoena orders President's appearance at trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) - President Nixon was officially subpoenaed on Monday to testify in the Ellsberg burglars case.

The subpoena, requested by former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman, ordered the President to appear in a Los Angeles courtroom Feb. 25 and again April 15.

Suprior Court Judge Gordon Ringer, who ruled that the President is a material witness in the trial of Ehrlichman and two other former White House aides, signed the subpoena at 2:10 p.m. (PDT.) It was the first time in U.S. history that a state court judge had ordered personal testimony by a president.

Ringer took six days to finalize the legal form of the subpoena after agreeing last Tuesday two requests by Ehrlich-man's attorneys. The White House has said the President will resist the subpoena on constitutional grounds. The request for his appearance was granted to Ehrlichman, Nixon's former top domestic adviser, who wants the President to testify in his defense.

The judge's clerks said the subpoena will be sent by registered mail to the Washington, D.C., Superior Court, which may hold a separate hearing into the matter of Nixon's materiality as a wit-

Under the code covering out-of-state witnesses, the Washington judge to whom the case is assigned as the option of either ordering the subpoena honored or quashing it.

Ringer said he will be available to hear arguments in Los Angeles if the President chooses to challenge his order.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren has said Nixon's attorneys "will recommend to the President that he respectfully decline to appear ... on constitutional grounds" and that Nixon will heed the advice.

Nixon is sought for testimony about the formation of the secret White House investigative unit known as The Plumbers. Ehrlichman, G. Gordon Liddy and David Young, all plumbers' unit members, are charged with burglary and conspiracy in the 1971 break-in at the Beverly Hills office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Ehrlichman is additionally charged with perjury.

Ringer, in granting the request last Tuesday, said he is convinced the President is a material witness in the case. Nixon has publicly acknowledged that he approved formation of the plumbers and assigned them to plug leaks of secret information such as the Pentagon Papers.

Terminology changes seen in Texas divorce statutes

By JAN MCDERMOTT UD Reporter

Divorce laws in Texas have undergone some changes in the last few months. Most of the changes have been primarily in terminology, according to Mike Sanders, a Lubbock attorney.

Residency requirements for obtaining a divorce have been revised. The law now reads that a person must live in Texas for six months and in the county for 90 days before filing for a divorce. Previously, the requirements were one year in the state and six months in the county.

In an attempt to avoid discrimination, the spouses in a divorce are equal in the eyes of the court in regard to acquiring custody of the children. The party to whom the children are awarded is now referred to as the managing conservator rather than the custodian. The other spouse is given specific visiting rights and is known as the possessory conservator. Under the new law, both maternal and paternal grandparents can be named possessory conservators, in addition to the parent, Sanders said.

In establishing grounds for a divorce, Texas is a no-fault state, Sanders said. This means that a divorce can be granted if there is an "irreconciliable conflict of personality with no reasonable expectation of reconciliation," he said. It is a civilized approach to divorce which makes it unnecessary for spouses "to drag one another through the mud in court," Sanders said.

Recrimination and condonation have been abolished as defenses under the new law. Recrimination refers to a case in which the party filing for the divorce charges his spouse with adultery. If the defendant could then prove that the filing party was also guilty of adultery, the case would be dismissed and the request for a divorce would be denied. This practice is no longer legal.

Condonation occurs in connection with charges of physical abuse. If, after such abuse occurs, the couple resumes bed and board, the abused person is considered to have condoned his spouse's behavior, and again, a divorce would be denied, Sanders explained. The new statute permits a divorce to be granted even if condonation has occurred, he

One effect of the new law is to require the attorney for the party filing for the divorce to notify his client's spouse that counseling is available to him. In this way, the couple may have a chance to be reconciled, Sanders said.

Most of the new laws have been practiced in Texas for the last four to five years, said Sanders. But the new statutes spell out more clearly the rights, duties and obligations of the parties involved in the divorce proceedings. This is the first time the common practices of the past have been formalized into laws, said Roy Bass, another Lubbock attorney.

UT Board of Regents okays liquor sales in student union

By CHUCK LANEHART UD Reporter

While the Tech Board of Regents was busy nixing an alcohol policy for Tech dorms Friday, the University of Texas Board of Regents was approving the sale of mixed drinks, beer and wine at The Texas Union, UT Austin student center.

The decision was part of a $6 million package okayed by a board vote of 8-1, said News Editor Susan Winterringer of The Daily Texan, UT student newspaper. The regents approved construction of a $3 million addition to the existing Texas Union, construction of a new $3 million Union East and a planned first-of-a-kind student lakeside area on Lake Travis. Winterringer said alcoholic beverages will be sold at all three sites.

Alcohol in UT dormitories was approved by the regents early last fall. Winterringer said as of last semester, UT administrators had received no complaints about the dormitory alcohol policy.

Before the Texas Union can begin selling liquor, however, it must receive an okay from the Austin City Council to bypass a city ordinance prohibiting sale of alcoholic beverages within 300 feet of a public school. "The indications are that it is pretty certain we can get the city's approval," Winterringer said.

Proceeds from liquor sales will be used to improve The Texas Union dining service, which has been losing money in recent years.

Manager free on bond after film confiscation

Theatre manager Curtis Castro was released on $500 bond Monday after being arraigned on charges of exhibiting obscene matter following confiscation of the movie "Deep Throat" Friday night at the Flick Theatre on 19th Street.

Castro was charged with a Class B misdemeanor with a possible penalty ranging up to 180 days in jail or up to a $1,000 fine, according to Lubbock Assistant District Attorney Tom Sawyer.

The arraignment took place in Judge E. H. Boedeker's County Court-At-Law No. 2.

Among property confiscated by police Friday night were two 16-millimeter projectors and five small projectors which were in one-man private booths. The booths, along with speakers, wiring, tickets, and the night's receipts were also taken by the police.

Castro expressed no surprise regarding the confiscation.

"I was expecting to get hit," he said. "I took everything out I wanted before showing the movie. Even the projectors are leased."

The raid occurred after two Department of Public Safety intelligence agents viewed about 30 minutes of the film and then obtained the search warrants.

Editorial.

. . . Until proven guilty

First "Last Tango" and now "Deep Throat" - what next? Last summer's Supreme Court decision on pornography has left the country in a chaotic state — a chaotic police state in many communities. Crusading law enforcement officials in "cleancut" American communities are ridding their respective towns of "smut" and "filth" and ejecting book dealers, theater managers and even ticket girls associated with the vending of explicit sexual material.

And Lubbock is one of those cities that is conducting its own crusade against pornography...or at least District Attorney Alton Griffin is. Griffin lost his well-publicized battle against "Last Tango." Perhaps he feels that he can make it with "Deep Throat."

While one can argue indefinitely the pros and cons of the Supreme Court's ruling, and of pornography in general, one aspect of Lubbock's most recent porno raid cannot be condoned.

Lubbock police confiscated everything they could get their hands on in Friday evening's raid on the Flick Theater projectors, tickets, receipts, small private-viewing projectors, speakers, wiring — the entire works. The confiscation follows precedence set in recent Fort Worth confiscations. The "trick" in confiscating all equipment is that it prevents the theater owner from continuing showing films — any films — at his theater. With the lengthy delays in courtroom hearings (up to six months in Lubbock), the theater manager is, in effect, put out of business while awaiting trial.

He cannot continue to show films.

He cannot continue to earn a living while awaiting court action on his pornography charge.

With the presumption of innocence in our court system, it seems unfair that Lubbock police are allowed to put a man "out of business" without a trial or adversary hearing. They have, in effect, already tried, convicted and sentenced a theater owner without ever entering a courtroom. If the manager is eventually convicted, he is sent to jail. If he is not convicted, he is faced with court costs and mounting bills bills that could not be paid off as long as his "business" is out of operation. Confiscation of one film is one matter, but confiscation of all equipment to prevent the showing of ANY film, is inexcusable harassment.

Fortunately, the voters that can rectify these crusading tactics do have the opportunity to voice their opposition to Griffin's methods at the ballot box.

Mr. Griffin is up for reelection...

Food for peace or war?

WASHINGTON - The Food for Peace program, established to feed the hungry of the world, has been perverted into a Food For War program in Southeast Asia.

This sinister change has been manipulated quietly by the National Security Council. Of the $1 billion worth of food that is shipped abroad for the needy, the NSC has insisted almost half should go to bolster the military strength of Cambodia and South Vietnam, according to classified documents.

Elsewhere, the food is sold through regular commercial channels to alleviate shortages and prevent hunger. The United States foots the bill, treating it as a low-interest loan to be repaid over a long period.

But in Cambodia, President Nixon gave the Lon No1 regime special permission to use up to 80 per cent of the proceeds from the sale of American food for "common defense" and "internal security." In South Vietnam, the Thieu regime is permitted to spend a full 100 per cent of the food proceeds on military buildups.

Classified documents show that the President started off this fiscal year with a reasonable request for $30 million to finance Food for Peace shipments to Cambodia. But bit by bit, the White House requests ballooned to $173 million and are likely to go higher.

Even more food aid has been earmarked for South Vietnam, although the jump in the request has been less

While most food aid to the two embattled countries has been in rice, the documents show that 175,000 metric tons of wheat will be supplied by next July. Yet the wheat shortage at home has pushed up the price of bread to 50 cents a loaf and has forced the United States to import wheat at exhorbitant prices.

For years, the Food for Peace program, along with the Peace Corps, has won friends for the United States among the world's poor. We have seen burlap bags of grain and boxes of cereal, with big "USA" markings, going into impoverished villages.

But in the besieged Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh, one of our informants witnessed a different scene, not far from a camp where hundreds of refugees complained of food shortages. He counted 50 trucks filled with bags of U.S. rice lined up outside a military warehouse. Instead of feeding the starving refugees, it was going for Army rations.

Asthma bonanza

A Senate subcommittee has found that a national fund drive for asthmatic children has raised almost $10 million, but spent only a miserly 14 per cent to help sick youngsters. The rest has gone for fat salaries and expenses for fundraisers, plus a promotion campaign to sell a book by a director of the Asthmatic Children's Foundation. In hearings beginning this week, Sen. Walter Mondale's

Children and Youth subcommittee plans to probe children's charity drives which use the sympathy of contributors for children to line fundraisers' pockets.

Mondale's investigators have already discovered that the Asthmatic Children's Foundation, whose main office is located in Miami Beach, raised $9.9 million over the last decade, purportedly to aid youngsters who are wheezing and sometimes dying from breath-robbing asthma.

The foundation's solicitations tell of the "many children in our residential treatment centers" and include touching pleas for funds to help those "who will not be at home this Actually, the Mondale probers found only about 50 or so youngsters are under full-time care in the foundation's treatment centers. The same solicitation urges contributors to buy a three-dollar book by a foundation director, Dr. Harold Abramson.

What the solicitation does not say is that 86 per cent of the money contributed for asthmatic kids has been used for "fundraising activities," mostly salaries and expenses.

Over $7 million has gone to a Chicago fundraiser named V. H. Giesler & Co., a Mondale staff report shows. Giesler, when queried by Mondale's sleuths, explained that it takes money to raise money.

The hearings this week will also include advice from well-run foundations on how costs can be kept to a minimum so that the children can get most of the contributions.

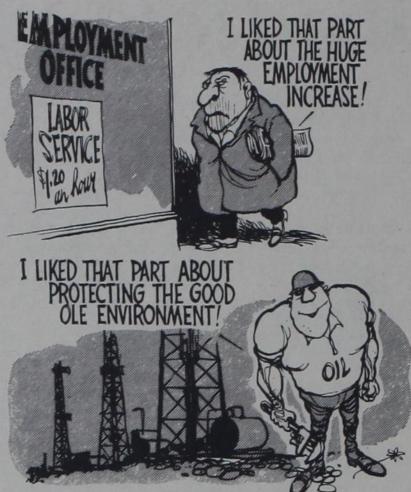

Mondale is also seeking ways to let the public know which charities are doing the best job. In the coming months, Mondale, a former crusading attorney general in Minnesota who exposed corrupt charities there, plans to probe more children's foundations.

Already, he has found evidence that donations to other charities have been used to buy luxury items for fundraisers, pay $50,000-a-year salaries, provide hidden compensation through insurance deals and pay for visits by fundraisers to

Disputes writer's criticism of Ritchie

To the Editor:

In response to the letter written concerning Maj. Steve Ritchie in the UD — I would like to make some statements.

It is obvious that the writer of this letter is a very uninformed, naive person — with alot of childish misconceptions about the state of the world we live in and reality in general.

To be radically against the military for their part in fighting a war is ridiculous to say the least. Wars are not created by the military - but it is the men serving in our armed forces who must fight and die in these wars in which they have little or no control.

Mr. Spears stated that Maj. Ritchie was 'militant,' a 'self-avowed killer' and 'has helped to terrorize a country' and thus should not be allowed on our University campus. It's strange that, after also serving his time in Vietnam, Mr. Spears does not consider himself a militant, or a self-avowed killer. But then I imagine Mr. Spears has a good reason for his part in the Vietnam War.

It's also hard for me to understand that Mr. Spears can make gallant accusations in a letter, but in a small informal meeting with Maj. Ritchie, he had absolutely nothing to say no questions — no accusations — NO COMMENTs at all. Could this be just a little hypocritical??

It is naive to believe we will never fight another war and what's so incriminating about being patriotic or laying your life on the line for your country?

Mr. Spears stated again incriminatingly, that Maj. Ritchie had shot down five MIG's. Does Mr. Spears know what a MIG is? It is a fighter aircraft - created with one purpose: to destroy other aircraft - in this type of combat - two men, two aircraft - it's either one or the other.

Maj. Ritchie did more than his share in the Vietnam War. One does not win the nation's second - highest award for

Maj. Ritchie said himself how the military had no control over their job in the war — and he has already put in his papers requesting retirement from the Armed Forces, and desires so strongly to help remedy this situation, that he will be trying for election to Congress, representing North

Only by changing foreign policy, and restricting treaties and other commitments can wars be avoided. Maybe Mr. Spears should open his eyes to what is really going on.

Planetarium show 'shocking' presentation

To the Editor:

On Jan. 20, 1974 four friends and myself went to the Moody Planetarium for the presentation "Man and the Universe - The Cosmic Connection." There was an admission charge of 50 cents for students and 75 cents for general. We were all anxiously awaiting an interesting program about the Universe, but were utterly shocked by what the presentation was.

We were told a story in the same fashion as a first grade teacher reading a story to a group of six year olds. But I believe the story would have been better if it had been told by the teacher. The woman we sat over an hour listening to was so ill-prepared that it was pathetic. She stammered, stuttered, and said a few "uhs" and "ahs" when she couldn't find the right word — which was all too frequent. Overall, the presentation was less than amateurish. And instead of a professional type presentation directed toward adults, we were presented with "home style" slides, and given a far from smooth lecture on how we could be compared to a raisin in a batch of raisin bread dough (the location of earth in relation to other planets).

My question is why couldn't the Tech Museum afford to hire a more experienced lecturer? Surely the Museum is not so low on funds that this could not be done. With a full house, the Planetarium would take in approximately $60 a show. Can this money not be used to find a more experienced lecturer and give the people a better presentation?

Bob Dylan's best in years; Joni Mitchell up to snuff

By F. DAVID GNERRE Fine Arts Writer

'Planet Waves' is the best new Dylan album in years. The vocals are strong, the words are right and the Band's backing is terrific. And the record stands up well after repeated listenings, good news for consumers faced with spiraling record costs.

"Going Going Gone" highlights side one. Robbie Robertson's electric guitar playing is almost painfully sparse and economic. The lyrics paint a portrait of desperation effectively despite some forced rhymes (edge-ledge, etc.). Dylan's delivery is outstanding; he emphasizes the last word of "I've just got to go" as if it were second nature.

'Dirge" highlights side two and transcends everything else on the album. The sparing guitar-voice-piano arrangement produces a stark setting that fits the bitter, pessimistic lyrics. This is not the tender Dylan of "Never Say Goodbye"; to the contrary, hearing the bite in his voice when he sings "It's a dirty, rotten shame" brings to mind the Bob Dylan of old. He even tosses in some anti-progress and antitechnological sentiments for good measure.

Cropping up now and then are references to the artist's past. One song, "Something There Is About You," is obviously autobiographical and as such quite engaging. Much more intriguing, though, are things like the phrase "baby blue" popping up in the last line of "Never Say Goodbye."

Coinciding with the LP's release, Dylan's 21-city tour with the Band is now in full swing. By Feb. 14, over 658,000 people will have paid up to $9.50 each to see him perform; 5 million others who mailed in ticket orders will end up with refunds. What does it all mean? Just this; Bob Dylan must again be considered a major force in American popular muisc.

"He was sitting in the lounge of the Empire Hotel . . . " The first time I heard "Raised on Robbery" come on the radio, I thought it had to be none other than Bette Midler, the boogie-woogie queen of the Seventies. Soon, however, Joni Mitchell's voice and phrasing became clearly recognizable. No matter, "Raised on Robbery" is a fine song, one that brightens the airwaves every time it is played.

Joni Mitchell has a knack for depicting common, often down-on-their-luck characters in most delightful manner. "Barangrill" (from "For the Roses") is a primary example of how the ordinary can be made warm and humorous. "Raised on Robbery" has much the same effect, although it relies more on narration than description. And it certainly is refreshing to hear a "folkie" give such an energetic performance.

"Court and Spark" is the name of the album containing "Raised on Robbery." Considering the overall excellence of its single and the LP that preceded it ("For the Roses"), this new album is not quite up to snuff. Tunes like "Help Me" seem plain and uninspired, while tunes like "Free Man In Paris' deal less successfully with the same themes that ran through Ms. Mitchell's last LP. A sort of joke track, "Twisted," does not come off well either.

In all fairness, some of the material is good: both "People's Parties" and "Court and Spark" are standouts. But as an album, "Court and Spark" is too inconsistent to be regarded as an exceptional effort. The cover isn't even as good as the last one, and I'm still trying to figure out how Cheech and Chong found their way onto the LP.

Personally, when I want to hear Joni Mitchell, I'll stick with "For the Roses."

By WILLIAM D. KERNS Fine Arts Editor

As old Blackie Sherrod might have put it: Scattershooting, while wondering why the Foreign Press Golden Glove Awards Presentation was televised "live" a week late in Texas cities.

Well, the movies are finally arriving at a more rapid clip than the old "one at a time." First off, today is the final day you'll be able to see Zero Mostel in RHINOCEROS. Written by Eugene Inoesco, the play-turned-movie is yet another twoday offering of the American Film Theater. Showtimes are at 2 and 8 p.m. with the admission price being $5 for the evening performance. It will play at the Fox Theatre.

In this film, Mostel recreates the performance that won him a "Tony" Award as best actor of the year. Ionesco, a master of the "Theatre Of The Absurd" is dealing with the themes of alienation, morality and dehumanization in this work. In the course of the story, the characters are caught up in an epidemic of people turning into horned pachyderms. Only one holds out against the trumpeting herd.

"Rhinoceros" was directed by Tom Horgan, whose stage successes include 'Hair," "Jesus Christ Superstar," and "Lenny." Another "Hair" alumnus, composer Galt Mac-Dermot wrote the music for "Rhinoceros." Co-starring with Zero Mostel are Karen Black and Gene Wilder.

As long as we're on an animal kick, let me mention that the original, uncut version of KING KONG is making yet another return to the Backstage Theatre on Wednesday. This is one of the best movies ever made, especially when it comes to animation and special effects. Try to appreciate it ... not just laugh at it. Take into consideration when the film was made - for it is indeed a classic.

Also opening Wednesday are a couple bigger, new films. The first is SERPICO, starting at the Cinema West. Al Pacino plays the title role of a cop who exposes corruption within the New York City Police Department. Pacino has received many accolades, and will most probably receive an Academy Award nomination for his performance. This is the last movie on my personal list that I believe has even a chance of upsetting my favorite for the Best Actor award, and Pacino will have to be very, very good to do so. My favorite? Why, none other than Jack Lemon in "Save The Tiger." The film is easily forgotten because it was released so early last year. But it was a fine one, and I've seen nothing in the following 11 months that comes close to matching Lemmon's performance. At least, not yet.

Also opening Wednesday is DAY OF THE DOLPHIN, starring George C. Scott. I can't believe this film is being hidden away at the small Arnett-Benson theatre, for it, too, is one of the year's finest. I saw this film in Denver over the Christmas holidays, and loved it so much I went back and saw it again the very next day. It's beautifully filmed and acted, and a superb statement on the nature of man. I cannot recommend it highly enough. Please don't let it pass you by; it may not be booked for long.

Thursday night will see the curtain go up on the Lubbock Theatre Centre's new offering: THE EFFECT OF GAMMA RAYS ON MAN-IN-THE-MOON MARIGOLDS. Reservations are now being taken, with reduced admission prices for students. If you're tired of movies, this should tide you over until the University Theatre's production of OKLAHOMA! starts on February 22nd. More on both plays will be published later.

Those of you who have been asking over and over about THE EXORCIST, take note. At last report, the theatres were still bidding on it, since Warner Brothers is asking an exorbitant rental rate. I for one hope the film arrives soon, if for no other reason than to squelch the rumors certain people are passing about how it is filmed with "trick" frame cutting. I've seen the flick, and there's nothing tricky with the editing; director Billy Friedkin simply pulls out all the stops and scares the ever loving hell out of you. The film is not even slightly over-rated.

To tell the truth, I'm really not looking forward that much to seeing it again. I don't relish being THAT affected by a movie another time. But be advised: if you're interested in reading William Peter Blatty's novel (and you will be, after the movie) buy it now. When I left Denver, every book store in the yellow pages was sold out of the novel. Believe me, there'll be a rush here after it opens. Also, if you read the book first, it may ease the shock ... but I doubt it. I really doubt it.

Probably one of my favorites of the Christmas films hasn't even been booked here yet to my knowledge. The film is THE PAPER CHASE, a superb motion picture about the freshman year of a Harvard law student played by Timonthy Bottoms. John Houseman is almost a shoo-in for an Academy Award for best supporting actor for his performance as a law professor in the film. Look for it.

Guess I'll end today's rap session with a question. If a friend in Denver had bet me that DEEP THROAT would never play Lubbock, should he have to pay up since it played here ... for fifty minutes? Or, as the song says, I wonder who's watching her now...

Conference basketball games. Betas best Dynamo, claim soccer crown

By TERRY HELGREN Sports Writer

The Betas have returned as the all-University champs in intramural soccer by defeating the Dynamos 1-0 in the championship game.

The Betas concluded their regular season play with a 4-0 record and captured second place in the Fraternity I division. During the playoffs they received a bye in the first round of action and defeated the Phi Delts 1-0, and Sigma Chi "A" 1-0.

Dynamo also posted a 4-0 regular season record with wins over the Betas "B" 1-0, Arabs 2-0, and the Nads 1-0 in the playoffs.

In the all-University game the contest was hard fought with both teams held at a standstill. In the second period the Betas were given a break with a hand penalty charged against the Dynamos. The infraction occurred in the penalty area, giving the Betas a free kick from the front of the goal. At this point Craig Holmes of the Betas kicked the ball over the Dynamo goalie for the winning point.

The Betas found the competition rough this year with over in front of a noisy crowd than a 30 teams in the running but managed to return the all-University quiet one. And contrary to many trophy to their team for the second consecutive year.
