

Tech faculty, staff will get pay raises

By DANA MOORE
UD Reporter

Tech faculty and staff members will receive a wage increase for employment performed after Feb. 1 as a result of a wage increase bill signed into law Jan. 30 by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

ACCORDING TO Fred Wehmeyer, vice president for administrative services, employees of the auxiliaries (the Book Store, University Center and residence halls) are also included in the wage increase. However, he said the legislature did not appropriate additional money for special research grants and employees of firms contracted to the university.

Increases are determined by the amount of present monthly wages, Wehmeyer said. For monthly salaries less than $876, the increase is 13 per cent. For positions with monthly rates from $876 to $1,267 the increase is $114 per month.

Positions with monthly rates of more than $1,267 but not greater than $1,935 will receive an increase of 9 per cent and for monthly salaries of more than $1,935, the increase is $174 per month.

The salary increase also applies to all student assistants employed by Tech. The pay scale minimum will be $2 per hour (previously $1.75) and the maximum will be $2.50 per hour. According to Wehmeyer, since the new University minimum coincides with the Federal minimum wage, the sub-minimum wage scales that previously applied to students working more than 20 hours per week are no longer in effect.

ACCORDING TO THE act, all increases are determined on the basis of regular full-time rates. This means employees on a contract salary for a period of less than 12 months or employees paid hourly wages should determine the equivalent monthly rates to find their appropriate wage group.

Wehmeyer said a lot of confusion resulted when employees expected to receive the raises in their Feb. 1 check. As stated in the act, the increase is for employment performed on or before Feb. 1.

ALSO AS A result of the act, the legislature increased the state's contribution toward insurance premiums from $12.50 to $15 per month, Wehmeyer said.

Foreign policy hurt by Congress--Ford

NEW YORK (AP) — President Ford said Thursday that congressional interference in the conduct of U.S. diplomacy is damaging U.S. foreign policy, is self-defeating and violates the spirit of the Constitution.

IN A SPEECH prepared for a Republican fund-raising dinner, Ford called on Congress to restore the bipartisan spirit that marked American foreign policy in the years after World War II.

"In this difficult time the American people expect responsible conduct from individual members of the Congress and from the Congress as a whole, as well as from the President," Ford said.

Ford's foreign policy address was several hours after he carried the battle for his economy-energy program to Wall Street, declaring "we must not fight recessionary problems with inflationary cures."

AT THE fund-raising dinner in honor of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, Ford pointed to several areas in which he claimed Congress has not shown the necessary responsibility in foreign affairs.

Negotiations sponsored by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to settle the Cyprus conflict "broke down because of congressional insistence that military assistance to Turkey be terminated," the President charged.

"This action," he went on, "I am convinced is a self-inflicted wound — it will seriously impair our relations with a valued ally and achieve no benefit whatever."

CONGRESS ALSO jeopardized the benefits promised from the 1974 Trade Act by attaching "an unfortunate amendment" penalizing several friendly nations, he said.

Another amendment to the trade act resulted in the breakdown of an American-Soviet trade agreement, Ford said, by attempting to interfere with internal Russian politics.

"The breakdown of these foreign policy agreements, unfortunately, could cause additional tragic consequences exactly contrary to the intent of Congress," Ford said.

Pointing to the early years of the republic, the President said several experiments of government by committee proved the need for a strong executive to conduct foreign policy.

"CLEARLY, THE Constitution contemplates a political partnership beyond the water's edge and clearly it does not contemplate the day-to-day conduct of foreign military policy, any more than the day-to-day conduct of military operations, by many different voices in the deliberative legislative branch," Ford stated.

Pleading for greater cooperation by Congress, Ford said that "we need non-partisanship in foreign affairs today more than ever before. We need more, not less, credibility and continuity."

In his earlier address to the New York Society of Security Analysts, Ford spoke optimistically of financing the $52 billion budget deficit he has programmed for fiscal 1976.

"I CANNOT SAY the same for a much larger deficit which will result if Congress does not support my recommended $17 billion cutback in previously programmed spending," he said.

As in his foreign policy address at the Rockefeller dinner, Ford told the Wall Street group that "I seek cooperation, not confrontation, with Congress" in meeting energy problems.

He also dealt with the energy question, saying "I seek a coalition of confidence with the new Congress. And there is no area in which this is more critical than in the national response to the crisis of energy ..."

"CONGRESSIONAL ACTION is imperative if the United States is to maintain its international leadership," Ford said.

Committee to pick new Red Raider

The Red Raider (Masked Rider) will be picked through a new procedure, Dr. Dale Zinn, chairman of the Red Raider Selection Committee, said this week.

UNDER THE NEW procedure, Zinn said, all students of junior or senior classification with a grade average of 2.00 or above may apply. Applicants must be an accomplished horseman or horsewoman, must submit an application and a resume to the chairman of the selection committee this year not later than Feb. 28; and must possess the qualities of leadership and personality to uphold the tradition of the Red Raider.

Application forms are available in the office of the dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

Copies of all applications and evaluation forms will be distributed to committee members March 3 and the committee will meet at 3 p.m., March 6, to screen applicants.

SELECTED APPLICANTS will be notified of their selection by letter and it will indicate a scheduled time the following week for an interview by the committee.

Candidates will be interviewed March 12-14; and on March 17 candidates will be notified of time and date for horsemanship evaluation.

The committee's selection will be recommended to Tech President Grover Murray with supporting data for his announcement.

ZINN SAID IT would be the responsibility of the committee to develop regulations and responsibility of the committee to develop regulations and responsibilities for the Red Raider in care and exercise of the horse during the football season.

Next year, the dates for the procedure will be about a month earlier than this year, Zinn said.

The 1974-75 Red Raider was Anne Lynch, senior agricultural sciences major from Dell City. She is the first female student to serve as the traditional mascot who rides the black stallion around the football field to lead the Texas Tech Red Raider players onto the gridiron at all home games.

Members of the committee this year are: Zinn, representing the College of Agricultural Sciences; Feller Hughes, representing the Agriculture Student Council; Dr. John Allen of the Department of Animal Science and Dr. Richard A. Lockwood, vice president, Health Sciences Centers, representing the other colleges; Larry Cunyus, representing the Saddle Tramps; and Johnny Bob Carruth, a former Red Raider representing the Ex-Students Association.

Interest light in SA elections

The lack of interest was also noticeable in the Tech Senate elections. As examples, the SA official said only 15 persons have filed for the 15 Arts and Sciences positions and no one had filed for the College of Education positions.

Persons interested in filing for executive officer or senator positions should obtain applications from the SA Office in the University Center and return them by 3 p.m. today.

Women go to Austin to lobby for ERA

AUSTIN (AP) — Women from across Texas swarmed into the capital Thursday to take advantage of a day in honor of Susan B. Anthony to talk about the controversial Equal Rights Amendment.

THE LEGISLATURE two years ago designated Feb. 15 as Susan B. Anthony Days to honor the New York school teacher who championed the cause of women's suffrage from 1848 until her death in 1905.

But the women came Thursday mainly about the Equal Rights Amendment, which needs the approval of only four more states to become a part of the U.S. Constitution. The ERA would make it unconstitutional to discriminate on the basis of sex.

The day began with a joint session of the legislature where Rep. Sarah Weddington, D-Austin, pointed out to the male senators and representatives the importance of Miss Anthony's work.

"SLIGHTLY MORE than 50 years ago your wives and daughters could not have voted for you," Ms. Weddington said.

Following the joint session, the nine female members of the legislature and the Representatives' Wives Club sponsored a reception where talk of the ERA flowed.

Marjorie Schuchat of Dallas, field secretary for Texans For ERA, said, "I think the ERA will be ratified by the necessary number of states by April in spite of anything the Texas Legislature may do."

Anti-ERA forces have said they will seek legislation to rescind the legislature's 1973 ratification of the ERA.

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, said, "I sure get a lot of mail on the ERA. It seems like everyone wants continuous action."

Coverage of Bell lawsuit criticized by company exec

LUBBOCK (AP) — A top Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. executive said here Thursday news media accounts of a $29 million lawsuit against the company have become "a campaign of vilification."

"IF A NEWSPAPER can froth at the typewriter, that's exactly what happened," C. L. Todd, head of Bell's San Antonio area, said of news stories from San Antonio.

The suit was filed in San Antonio by ousted Bell executive James Ashley and the family of the late T. O. Gravitt, head of all Bell operations in Texas before his suicide last autumn.

Included in the suit are allegations of wiretapping, maintenance of a political slush fund, and improper influence of public officials by awarding contracts to businesses with which they are associated.

"TELECOMMUNICATIONS service is the only thing we sell. If we could not guarantee the privacy of communications the value our only product would be decreased, if not destroyed," Todd told a Kiwanis Club meeting.

Freshman Council problems, potentials discussed

By BABS GREYHOSKY
UD Reporter

When the Student Association began having senate elections in the spring, student government leaders decided a board of information was necessary for the benefit of freshmen who had not been enrolled at Tech at the time of the elections. This information board, begun in 1968, was to become the Freshman Council (FC).

ESTABLISHED AS A liaison committee between the freshmen and the senate, the FC was designed to inform the freshmen of student politics and of life styles in their new environment, according to Shannon McWilliams, student adviser for the council.

However, five to six years after the establishment of the Council, a lot of students don't know what it is or what it does; and many freshmen don't even know that an FC exists. This somewhat obscure existence of the Council has caused questions to arise concerning the necessity of such a committee.

This year's FC president, Ronnie Bobbitt, said, "No one knows who we are because nothing is ever publicized about our existence."

Because most people don't hear about council elections, a lot of students who are interested in student government or who would make good members don't ever have the opportunity to run for office, Bobbitt complained.

IN THE ELECTION of council members, one student is chosen from every 250 dorm residents. Another member is also chosen from every 250 off-campus students.

"When I ran for council member this year, two guys ran for two openings," said Bobbitt, commenting on the lack of participation on the freshman's part.

Bobbitt blamed a majority of the problems of the council on lack of organization. "The elections of council members this year wasn't organized; they were held in late October and the officers weren't elected until the middle of November. By then it was pretty hard to start getting things done."

The question then becomes: what has the Freshman Council ever done?

"That's a real problem," said Scott

Robins, arts and sciences senator. "I just haven't ever heard of the Council doing much of anything. The Senate recently raised the funds for the Council from $100 to $275, which isn't going to make that much difference. They really need about $1,700 to get going — but I guess you have to start somewhere."

According to Robins, $60 of that $100 was being spent for a page in La Ventana.

"A PERSON KIND of hesitates about allocating more money to a group whose main priority is getting their picture in the yearbook," Robins said.

McWilliams said that election to the FC is an ego trip for many of the students. "A revised constitution stressing involvement and strict attendance at meetings was never passed. The present council is still working with the same lenient 1968 constitution," McWilliams said.

McWilliams added that, as only an extension of the Senate, the Council gets pushed around a lot. "Right now or more on the job and elected state officials with 12 years or more of service to retire with reduced benefits at age 50, instead of waiting until 55.

Senators rejected an amendment 22-7, to make participation in the retirement system optional for part-time employees, such as legislative aides. Another amendment to prohibit such employees from belonging to the system failed on voice vote.

"TELL ME HOW many 18 or 19-year-olds want to contribute to this thing," said Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, sponsor of the amendments. "They can take it (the money) over to S&L savings and loan and get a better rate."

"I don't think we're doing them a disservice by making them save a little money," said Sen. W. T. Moore, D-Bryan.

"This system must be kept actuarially sound or none of us will have anything," said Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr., D-Paris, in warning Doggett to watch for any amendments in the House.

ONE OF THE other "emergency" measures passed by the Senate was a House-approved measure to permit the State Board of Examiners for Psychologists to spend $8,000 of its own money to administer a February examination.

the Council is trying to break away from the senate and operate as an independent campus organization."

"I definitely think the FC should be separate because it supposedly is the governing body of the freshman class, so it should be a thing of its own," said Bobbitt.

COMMENTING ON THE situation, SA President Bill Allen said, "The Council hasn't really established itself as a good committee. That's partly the reason the senate ignores them."

Both Allen and Robins agreed that conditions could possibly improve if the Senate tried changing its attitude toward the FC.

"Freshmen are a unique group: from high school they're thrust into an all new environment," said Allen. "They don't know what college is all about, and they need some kind of guidance."

ALLEN SUGGESTED the group might work more effectively if, at the beginning of each year, it isolated the major problems of the freshman and dealt with only those.

Two out of three

The word on the new regent appointments to the Tech Board of Regents is that Gov. Dolph Briscoe has decided on two of the three new appointees, but has not reached a decision on the third. According to a reliable University Daily source, who is close to Briscoe, the two who have been decided upon are Lubbock First National Bank Senior Vice President Don Workman and present Dallas Regent Charles Scruggs.

THE THIRD REGENT IS supposedly going to come from downstate, though not even the source would go so far as to guess who the new appointee would be or where he would come from. The only name which has been mentioned regularly from the downstate region is that of San Angelo rancher Walter Pfluger.

However, there allegedly is a debate concerning Pfluger and another interested party, who is also vying for a Board position as well. The name of the other party was not disclosed.

Though the third slot is not locked in at this time, the guess is that Pfluger has the inside track because of his very close personal friendship with Governor Briscoe. However, sources on the other side of the fence are also saying that although Pfluger has the edge, he may not accept the appointment.

The appointments of Regents Frank Junell of San Angelo, Trent Campbell of Houston and Scruggs technically expired Jan. 31, but Briscoe, most likely because of his deliberation, has chosen not to announce the new names to the Board.

The UD source said the Governor may announce the names this week "although that's what they've been saying for the last four or five weeks."

SEN. KENT HANCE'S AIDES also said they had heard no word of any solid appointments. "We've been waiting just like everyone else," one aide said. "We haven't been told anything, although we did hear that people in the Governor's office were a little irritated because The University Daily had been second guessing the choices. It wasn't any big deal. They just thought we (Kent Hance's people) had been releasing names."

Workman, a 1960 Tech graduate, did confirm that he had been asked to serve on the Board, but had not been notified officially of his appointment. "I have met with the Governor and I was asked to serve, but I haven't heard anything yet," Workman said.

Workman also indicated that if he was appointed to the

Robert Montemayor

Board he would be burdened with serving on two boards. "I'm presently serving on the three-member board of the Texas Youth Council. The Council deals with juvenile delinquents and orphan homes around the state, and I really don't know if I'd be able to serve on both boards and do justice to both," Workman said.

"IF THE CHOICE WAS LEFT up to me, I'd continue to serve with the Texas Youth Council ... since they are my first obligation," he said.

However, Workman is serving an unexpired term, as he was named to the TYC after one of the members of the board resigned. He said his term on the TYC expires in 1976.

According to sources, the move to put another Lubbock regent on the Board was to make sure the city was represented after present Lubbock Regent Bill E. Collins' term expires in 1977. The addition of another Lubbock regent on the Board would greatly increase the grip the city has on the University at this time. One regent, who asked not to be identified, said, "It's not a good idea to have another man selected from Lubbock. I think we should have gotten another man from down in Houston or in that area thereabouts. We're going to lose a hold on our ties down there, and at a time when the University's enrollment is tapering off, we need students from downstate to come to school here."

SCRUGGS, WHOSE MAIN INTERESTS lie in the agricultural areas of the University, is the editorial director of Progressive Farmer magazine and was first appointed to the Board in 1971.

Board Chairman Clint Formby said, "I'm not sure when the Governor will make the appointments. I have visited with him, but he didn't say when they'd come."

So as it stands at this point, we may be looking at only a few days. Of course we've been waiting for sometime, but the idea that the Governor has at least narrowed it down to the last choice is good news to me.

Have a good day.

ERA: 'purely emotional'

To the Editor:

I appreciate this opportunity from the editor to state my views on the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution.

Besides increasing the already awesome power of the Federal Government, this bill has never actually been studied closely enough to realize the potential power that would be handed out to Congress; the consequences have not been taken seriously.

Instead of giving more rights and privileges to the much deserving women, the ERA will actually serve to destroy certain points already available for the protection of women. These rights that would be lost are: all alimony laws would be done away with or payment of alimony to the husband would be considered, mothers would no longer have automatic custody of their children under article 4639a, many state labor laws which contain protection clauses for women would be done away with, and finally the probability of submitting women to military service and the draft would occur — just to mention a few.

The sad thing about this current bill is that many of the women leaders are relying too heavily on their purely emotional desires for the ERA's so-called "Equality" instead of realizing the facts — that the ERA will destroy rather than strengthen women's rights.

It seems that this follows consistently the American character of "buy now, pay later," instead of building on the rights that have already been secured. Those are: the 5th and 14th Amendments, the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (discrimination against women in unfair employment practices), the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission, and the Equal Pay Act of 1963. It now seems that the Feminists movement is willing to let those rights go.

I would urge anyone concerned about the potential dangers of this Amendment to sign a form letter against the ERA at the SUB from Wednesday through Thursday.

Fearing unisex restrooms

To the Editor:

I am addressing these comments to the recent series of letters in this column concerning the Equal Rights Amendment. Specifically, I respond to the women and men who fear they have something to lose, such as the right to privacy, if it is ratified.

Nothing conclusive or absolute can be said in regard to the ramifications upon individual privacy prompted by the ERA. However, it is reasonably certain that the amendment will not necessarily lead to intermingling of the sexes in areas heretofore deemed private, such as public restrooms, hospitals, school dressing rooms, and prisons.

The amendment will not become effective for two years after its ratification, and the national and state legislatures are sure to enact laws concerning it in the two-year interim. These bodies, traditionally rather conservative, and ultimately responsible to voters, can be trusted to protect the notions of privacy which society deems appropriate.

There is considerable authority in the Constitution itself for such a legislative position. First, there is still a constitutional doctrine of "separate, but equal." That is, separate public facilities for men and women might be maintained, in harmony with the ERA. "Separate, but equal," as it applied to racial segregation, was struck down by the Supreme Court, because it perpetuated the notion that one race was inferior to the other. However, it is feasible that the doctrine would still be applied to protect ideas as universally accepted in this country as privacy between the sexes.

Second, there is a constitutionally recognized right to privacy itself. At this point, it has not been well-defined; yet, it exists, and must be harmonized with the ERA. That is,

Horn professor irked by UD cartoon

By WARREN S. WALKER
Tech Horn Professor of English

It is regrettable that a university newspaper should stoop to the kind of defamatory cartoon as the one on Turkey which appeared in Tuesday's UD. The stereotype of Turkey (like most stereotypes) misrepresents the facts. As one of only two or three real democracies in the Middle East and as the only Middle Eastern country that has given U.S. substantial support, Turkey deserves better treatment from us.

Behind the current defamation of Turkey in the American press lies much misguided sentimentalism about its current opponent, Greece. The difficulty stems from the fact that we are all, in a sense, Greeks ourselves. The oldest literature read by most of us was written by Homer and Athenian playwrights; our philosophy courses begin with Socrates, Plato, and Aristotle; our form of government traces its ancestry to Athenian democracy. This blinds us to what really happened on Cyprus.

For more than a decade, the Turkish minority on Cyprus suffered from an intense campaign of persecution. Whole communities of men, women, and children were driven from their villages to take refuge in the mountains where they lived in caves. (Check the news magazines of 1964-65 in particular for pictures and stories.) Pillage and murder seemed to be quite acceptable forms of behavior so long as they were directed at Turks. The Cypriot constitution which guaranteed them basic human rights was turned into a farce.

Despite the fact that Cyprus, at the closest point, lies only 40 miles from Turkey but 600 miles from Greece, the Greeks have steadily cherished the dream of ENOSSIS, incorporation of Cyprus to build up Greek military strength there, always with the goal of ENOSSIS in mind. It was quite evident to everyone that ENOSSIS would have denied Turkish Cypriots even a semblance of rights.

THE COUP D'ETAT which overthrew the government of Archbishop Makarios was fanatically anti-Turkish, its leader Nicholas G. Sampson having made his political reputation harassing Turkish peasants and burning Turkish flags. His forces were not only armed and supported by Greece, but also, in some cases, led by mainland Greeks. (Have we forgotten that the American Ambassador to Cyprus was assassinated NOT by Greek Cypriots but by Greek army officers?)

If life under Makarios was difficult for Turkish Cypriots, it would have been unendurable under Sampson. With the threat of genocide far more than a myth, Turkey had no choice but to invade. The wonder is that she tolerated for so long the inhuman and barbarous treatment of the Turkish Cypriot community.

As Congressman George Mahon has observed, the American people are not shown this side of the picture. A large, well-financed Greek lobby in Washington and a sentimental press have skewed the facts so badly that the offender is glorified and the victim defamed.

Equal Rights Amendment: Let's all share the burden

Editors note: Today's "Be My Guest" contributor is a junior management major.

By LOYD L. TURNER
The fundamental issue that under scores (sometimes silently) every discussion of the Equal Rights Amendment, is whether or not women actually DO want the SAME rights as men. The debate may center around the possibility of repressive legislation, or around the classic arguments "I'll have to use a restroom with a boy," or "What if they draft YOUR daughter? Still, these are not the issues. The issue is, was, and remains to be in the future, that, if the ERA is passed, women stand to gain ALL the rights of men, and also ALL the responsibility. But the debate rambles on around topics that simply are not germane to the discussion. FOR EXAMPLE, the plea that if the amendment passes, the government will have free rein to pass all types of freedom-limiting legislation. The basis for this given as the fact that the bill provides for enforcement by "appropriate legislation." The reason for this broad power is because neither Congress nor anyone can foresee where the problems and difficulties will lie in the enforcement. This same reason was the basis for the exact same wording used in the amendment abolishing slavery, Amendment 14 (the due process clause), Amendment 15 (granting of electoral votes to Washington, D.C.), Amendment 24 (the poll tax repeal), Amendment 26 (the 18-year-old's rights bill). All these were enforced with "appropriate legislation." Admittedly, giving eighteen year old's the PRIVILEGE of voting, drinking, contracting, and campaigning, also caused eighteen year old's to become "enslaved" by their subsequent RESPONSIBILITY for poor political choices, arrest for DWI, ability to sign a binding contract, and public concern. These are of course "negating" factors towards freedom in one sense, but freedom is not garnered without responsibility. As another assurance against Congress coming up with outlandish proposals for enforcement, we must look to the fact that we as voters put them there, they are responsible to us, and if they come up with anything as absurd as unisex restrooms, do you really think the American people will let it slide? Why, even here in Lubbock, I think there might be a small-scale public riot. Congressmen may be slow, but they aren't stupid. And besides, unisex restrooms have nothing to do with the bill. No person can prove that separate restroom facilities abridge the rights of any person. ANOTHER FEAR that has been raised is that the amendment may have the power to wrench a woman's child away from her and place it in a Federal day care center. If this was not the case before, the amendment has no such power. The child belongs equally. The government did not have the power before, they will not have afterwards. The bill only gives women the same rights as men, it does not create new constraints for women to live under. The amendment does not give women an artificial elevation, it merely removes the artificial elevation man has held for too long. Both sexes are put down in real terms: they are equal. The main purpose of the ERA is equal rights AND responsibilities. Previous legislation cannot accomplish this, as it was concerned ONLY with additional rights, not accompanying responsibilities. The amendment will equalize the burden now carried mostly by men. No longer should a man be solely responsible for his child through divorce alimony payments. If he takes custody, does the wife pay him? Of course not. So under the amendment, conceivably alimony will be eliminated, and for a good reason. This is not a discrimination question, as it so often is confused to be. This is an equal rights question. Women are already protected against discrimination, this is true, but this protection carries no responsibility. Consider the case of drafting women into the armed forces. Women can vote, women can have equal job opportunity, women get equal pay, but do women want the protection from being drafted afforded them by present laws? I maintain some do, and this is the reason for much of the arguments about the ERA.

Civic Ballet performance features Houston dancers

"An Evening of Dance," presented by Lubbock Civic Ballet and featuring two noted principal dancers of the Houston Ballet, will be presented Feb. 28 at Lubbock High School auditorium.

The program will be presented under the artistic directorship of Ronald Sequoia of the Festival Ballet of San Antonio. It will feature a performance by the corps of Lubbock Civic Ballet, dances performed by members of the San Antonio company and a pas de deux by the two Houston soloists, Soili Arvola and Leo Ahonen. Tickets are priced at $4 for adults and $2 for students. They are now on sale at the office of the Lubbock Cultural Affairs Council at the Chamber of Commerce and are also available from members of the Lubbock Civic Ballet Board of Directors. Mrs. L. Edwin Smith is ticket chairman and she may be contacted at 799-5600.

Tickets will be available Feb. 21-22 at the South Plains

Show scheduled after Tech basketball game

Comedy team 'Edmonds and Curley' here Saturday

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
Fine Arts Editor
"Working in a maximum security prison as a social worker and later in Halfway Houses on the street, I learned very quickly that humor is appreciated by the disenfranchised, but not by those who need it most — the courts, probation officers, and the police. I left the confines of prison walks only to enter into a quasi-prison — the high school."

So writes Thom Curley in a brief resume of his life, and what led him to join Joey Edmonds in a comedy team which the Washington Post called "the best supporting comedy act to hit town since Burns and Schreiber played here several years ago. Tasteful and talented." But the duo are no longer supporting other acts; they're headliners now.

Tech students will be able to experience this unique comedy team in concert Saturday night at 9:15 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom. The late tip-off is because of Tech's basketball encounter earlier in the evening. (In truth, it should be a heck of a night for comedy: first watching Rice play basketball, then seeing Edmonds and Curley.) Tickets are currently on sale — for the concert, that is — at the UC Ticket Booth; cost is $2 for Tech students and $2.50 for non-students, with the prices due to jump an extra 50 cents Saturday when the tickets will only be available at the door.

As mentioned before, Edmonds and Curley played the supporting role for some time. They were the opening act for such stars as Three Dog Night, B. B. King, Dionne Warwick, John Denver, Mary Travers, The Association, Sha Na Na and The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band. They've also made television appearances on the Carson, Cavett, Douglas, Frost, Griffin and PBS Specials shows.

Though they officially became a team Jan. 1, 1969, it has been during the past three years that Edmonds and Curley have supposedly become "the number one comedy team in college appearances." The duo finds the campus setting perfect for "their type show" and have made over 400 college performances in 30 states and Canada.

But it's difficult to write about comedy without first hearing it. So let me share with you a few words from the men who have already heard and enjoyed the humor of Edmonds and Curley:
Carl Reiner (on the Tonight Show): "I'll repeat the name Edmonds and Curley. You're going to be hearing a great deal from them."

Variety (Hollywood): "Edmonds and Curley are two top flight comedians who know what to do with first rate material. Pace is fast and funny..."

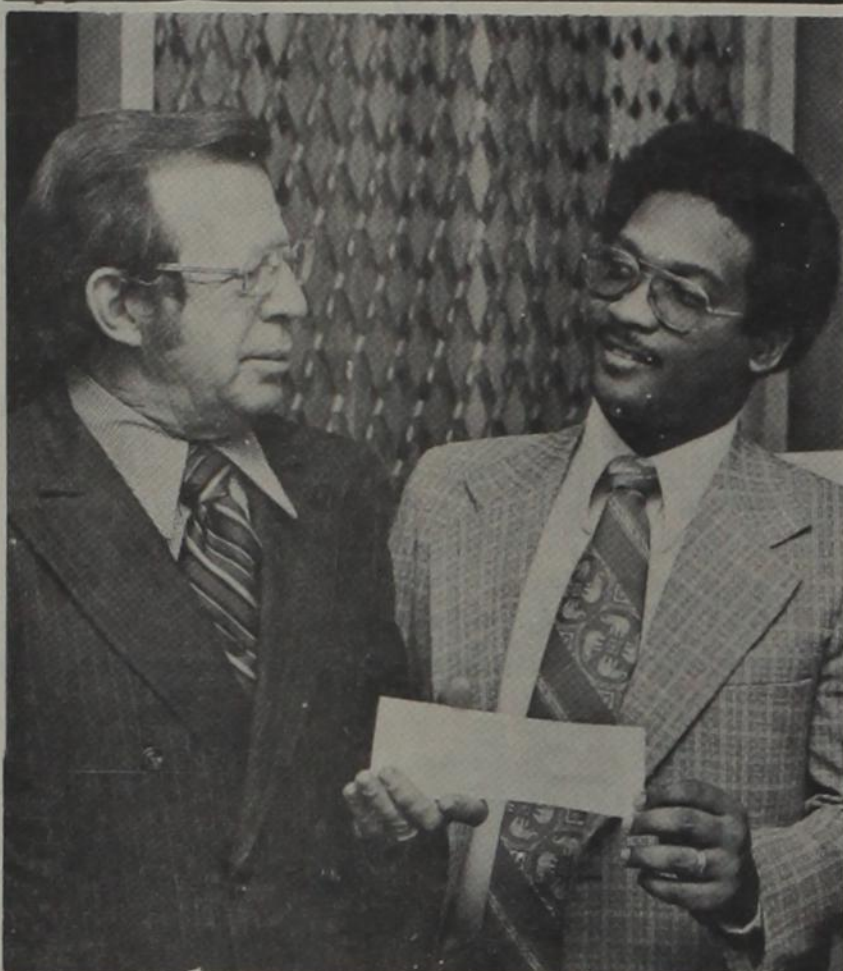

Chicago Tribune: "Joey Edmonds is a funny fellow, and Curley is a demon whiz at making wonderful sound effects that put all the ZAPP! Cr-Runch and POWee into their zany little skits."

Dallas Morning News: "The comedy of Edmonds and Curley is one of the pleasant surprises of the nightclub season. Their act isn't composed of one-liners, but a series of well-constructed vignettes. Joey Edmonds is a fine singer also, otherwise the accent is on comedy and it is finely flavored."

I myself look forward to a fine night of comedy. Those who are still wary (or just in the mood for more laughs) may want to visit the Wiggins Complex for lunch tomorrow ... as I've been informed that Edmonds and Curley will be giving a teaser there at that time.

Edmonds and Curley are being brought to Tech by the University Center Programs Committee.

Engineering grant

Associate Dean Robert L. Newell, left, of Tech's College of Engineering accepts a $2,000 grant from Cities Service Foundation, presented by Leonard Lytle, graduate employment representative for Cities Service Co., Tulsa, Okla. The grant is to be divided equally between the College of Engineering and the Department of Petroleum Engineering. Lytle is at Texas Tech interviewing students regarding future employment with Cities Service Co.

Student teaching applications set

Deadline for accepting applications for student teaching positions for both the fall and spring semesters next year is April 15, according to Dr. Ray Purkerson, Director of Student Teaching.

Number of students requests must balance between the fall and spring semesters. Any student not meeting this deadline will not be assured an opportunity for fulfilling their field experience, Purkerson said.

Tech Museum to feature kinetic art display

A lecture on kinetic art, its origins and development, will open a six-man show Sunday in Tech's Museum.

Here to discuss the use of motion in art, from Roman times to the present, will be Illinois sculptor Konstantin Milonadis, former professor and artist-in-residence at Notre Dame University. His address at 3 p.m. in Classroom A of The Museum will be open to the public at no charge.

Artists participating in the show, in addition to Milonadis, will be James Killy of Benton Harbor, Mich., Ronald Brander of Greenwich, Conn., Robert G. Venn of the Tech Department of Architecture, and Bill Bagley and Francis Stephen of the Department of Art. Milonadis will be represented by five of his wind-activated kinetic sculptures constructed of silver-soldered stainless steel, and a group of pen-and-ink drawings. Milonadis came to the U.S. from Ukraine in 1951. He is a graduate of the School of Art Institute of Chicago and Tulane University. His works have been exhibited in a number of major galleries, including one-man shows at the University of Chicago, State University of New York, University of Miami, University of Illinois and the Sloan Gallery at Valparaiso University.

Killy, who specializes in chain operated sculptures constructed of wood, teaches basic design and sculpture techniques at Lake Michigan College. He will have five sculptures in the exhibit, including two recently completed pieces, "Orbit" and "Circum."

Brander will exhibit an electrically operated sculpture entitled "Happy Days." Brander, who calls himself "primarily a photographer," says that his use of motion in sculpture is "subtle, as it is in my films."

Venn will show a group of manually operated sculptures of wood and steel, including two coin-operated devices, "Bankmobile" and "Your Voice Is Music to My Ears," and a push-about sculpture entitled "Meccanicophant." Bagley will be represented by two of his wheeled sculptures, including the large (12-ft. by 14-ft.) "Wind Wagon" and the equally impressive "Wind Machine."

Stephen will show a variety of intricate pieces, including his "Armageddon Buggy," an electrically operated metal sculpture, and "Traffic Patterns," constructed of steel rods and colored cubes.

The exhibition will remain on display through March 16. Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday of each week and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Ramsey opens here tonight

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
Fine Arts Editor

He made it. He's in town. Really.

Yep, Willis Alan Ramsey — that 23, going on 24-year-old progressive country singer-songwriter out of Birmingham, Alabama — has finally made it to Fat Dawg's Rear, and will be there in concert both tonight and Saturday night starting at 9 o'clock. Never mind the earlier cancellations in January. Never mind the mistaken newspaper ads proclaiming another group as headlining in the Rear. Ramsey is in town.

And if I sound excited, well, maybe my emotion's coming through. For even though he has only one album in release, Ramsey is one of my favorite artists ... has been, in fact, ever since a country kid from Comfort, Texas by the name of Steve Flach grabbed a guitar and started singing Ramsey's "Geraldine And The Honeybee." Really a naughty song. And funny. But even more of Ramsey's music comes across on a more personal scale. His album is truly a combination of the wild and the sweet.

Take for example the opening number "The Ballad Of Spider John." Really a soft and, like most ballads, a very sad song ... and one which a number of other recording artists, including Jimmy ("Come Monday") Buffet, have included on albums. Then there's "Muskrat Candlelight," a song which the pop-rock group America brought to the charts. And a couple of pretty vocals called "Angel Eyes" and my per-

On the wilder, most boisterous scale, there are efforts like "Wishbone" and "Northeast Texas Women." Beer drinking tunes, the both of them. Not at all the type of tunes one would expect to hear from a man who lists as his musical influences "...Woody Guthrie to Bob Dylan, from Al Jolson to James Taylor..." Backtracking a bit on Ramsey's life, he started out as a five-year-old tap dancer, but was "beating on the walls by age seven" so his parents bought him a toy drum set. Two years later, in 1960, his family moved to Dallas. "The first combo I was in there had two drummers, and he was better, so I took up the electric guitar, and played in a series of groups through junior high and high school."

Ramsey tried the college scene twice, both times with hopes of becoming a doctor. But from September 1970 through May of '71, he found himself on the National Coffee House Circuit. It was in the fall of 1970 that he got a break: he met and played for Leon Russell (Leon assists Ramsey on a couple tunes on the latter's album).

The two met at a motel in Austin, and Leon's recording company Shelter Records ended up signing the youth. But Ramsey, who had never been in a recording studio before, "just didn't feel right" because of his inexperience.

About the resulting album: "I wasn't dissatisfied with the album, but I decided not to do another until I knew how to put that sound (the personal, intimate sound he calls his own) over on tape."

Luckily for music lovers, however, he later added "There is a very real possibility we'll be able to get it together within the year."

But Ramsey realizes his name is not well-known and, at the same time, has come to the conclusion he'll make more money with his writing than with his singing. "I'm not a hit-maker and I resent talk about stars. I think America has reached a point where it doesn't need stars, as such. ... No, any money I make will come from publishing, not recording."

Still, it should be a lot of fun at Fat Dawg's anyway. On top of that, let's face it: you're just not going to get that many chances to hear Ramsey in person.

Ticket prices (and tickets ARE being sold in advance) are $3 and Ramsey will start singing at 9 p.m. both nights. Only 130-150 tickets are being sold, so as to make sure those buying advance tickets get seats. Only those holding advance tickets will be allowed in Fat Dawg's Rear before 9 p.m., at which time standing and squeezing room tickets will be sold until, as one Fat Dawg's spokesman said, "we can't get anymore in."

Education council seeking members

Applications for membership on the Student Council of the College of Education are being accepted Monday through Feb. 28, according to Kathy Purifoy, a Council member.

The Council spends most of its time "trying to smooth out problems any students are having with teachers or classes," said Purifoy. The Council is also involved in teacher evaluations and will focus its efforts mainly on Education Week to be conducted in March.

Applications may be picked up in the Student Teaching Office, room 254 of the Administration Building.

Congressman due top honor from media

Congressman Robert W. Kastenmeier, (D-Wis.) has been named the 1975 recipient of the national Thomas Jefferson Award to be presented at Tech.

The award is presented annually by Tech, the Texas Daily Newspaper Association, Texas Association of Broadcasters and the Texas Press Association.

The award goes to the public official who has contributed most during the preceding year to protect the rights of news media to inform the public.

Previous recipients were Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., North Carolina Democrat and chairman of the Senate Committee which investigated the Watergate affair, and Governor Edwin W. Edwards of Louisiana.

The presentation will be made at the Thomas Jefferson Award dinner at 7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 21, a highlight of Mass Communications Week Feb. 16-22 at Texas Tech.

Kastenmeier, a member of Congress since 1958, was selected for the award in recognition of his legislative work in the area of "news source and information protection."

The congressman became the House of Representatives' most articulate voice in supporting the legislative cause for a newsman's shield law. He was chairman of the House Judiciary Subcommittee 3 (known officially as the Subcommittee on Courts, Civil Liberties and Administration of Justice).

His committee conducted hearings on the Shield Law question in 1972 and 1973. Writing for the Washington Post, Kastenmeier said, "The need for such legislation (Shield Law) was argued by scores of hearing witnesses who claimed that forcing reporters to reveal identity of confidential news sources and information would retard the flow of sensitive information to the news media, and in turn, harm the public's right to know. Although it is difficult to demonstrate this result empirically, the subcommittee is convinced that unbridled subpoena power, or threat of such power, would cause certain news sources to withhold critical information necessary for an informed public."

The 51-year-old Wisconsin congressman received his law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1952 and practiced law in Watertown, Wisconsin, prior to his election to Congress.

His first years in Congress marked Kastenmeier as a defender of individual rights. As a member of the Judiciary Committee, he was an outspoken advocate for the strongest possible civil rights bill in 1963, which may be called unrealistic and impractical. A year later, as bloodshed in the South proved the need for stronger guarantees, he was in the forefront of the fight for the historic Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Tickets for the Awards Banquet are now on sale in Room 103 of the Journalism Building from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. Prices are $4 for students and $5 for faculty members. Tickets for luncheons during Mass Comm Week also are on sale at the location. They are priced at $2.50 for students, $3 for faculty members. No tickets will be sold at the door for any of the events.

Concert, club entertainment in spotlight

By WILLIAM D. KERNS
Fine Arts Editor

The flu bug has been striking out at everyone with no exceptions. Including newspapermen. In saying this, I offer at once my excuse and my apologies for not being able to check out more of the entertainment scene this week. In fact, the price of good health being what it is (what with medical bills and all), I'll be lucky to have enough change for a soft drink once I DO get back inside the theatres.

But enough discussions of doctors and epidemics; save that for the TV shows. For this week promises several new openings in concert and club entertainment which is available over the weekend. So let's get to it.

MUSIC:
Have heard some good things about a group presently playing at the Brookshire on 50th, and so thought I'd give them a plug. The group, called Springfire and playing what they call "contemporary folk music," has toured several states doing the hotel-restaurant circuit and is now making its second Lubbock appearance.

Based in El Paso, the ensemble is composed of Jim Stevens on guitar, Denis Rochford on bass and Jim Medford playing piano and organ. They play from 9 p.m.

until 1 a.m. Tuesday through Saturday and from 8:30 p.m. until midnight on Sunday, their day of rest being Monday. Springfire is scheduled to play at the Brookshire through the 23rd of this month; check them out if you get the chance.

Those who prefer a more rowdy atmosphere with their good music may want to head on out to Fat Dawg's Rear tonight and tomorrow night. For that's where none other than Willis Alan Ramsey will be wrapping up a three day gig. Ramsey, whose album is a joy to listen to, has written such songs as "Spider John," "Muskrat Canglelight" (made famous by the group America) and "Painted Lady." And yeah, it may be a weird Valentine's Day present for sure ... but I'll bet the little lady wouldn't mind a Willis Alan Ramsey concert and a couple of beers this year. It'd be different anyway.

Also, tickets are reportedly still available for the three Led Zeppelin concerts on March 3 (in Fort Worth) and March 4 and 5 (in Dallas). The previously mentioned Gordon Lightfoot concert in Odessa, by the way, has been cancelled.

COMEDY:
Last week, the UC brought in Gene Cotton to sing to a disgustingly small crowd of about a hundred people. This week, they're bringing in Edmonds and Curley, a comedy team on the lines of George Carlin and The Smothers Brothers.

Edmonds and Curley have received rave reviews across the country, and will begin their comedy concert at 9:15 p.m. Saturday (the late start being due to Tech's basketball game with Rice that night). Bigger names demand higher prices though: advance tickets are available at the UC ticket booth for $2 for Tech students and $2.50 for non-students. Prices go up an extra 50 cents Saturday and will be available at the door.

Placement center

Interview schedules will be available for signing by May and August 1975 candidates, graduate students, and alumni on Feb. 18 beginning at 12:30 p.m. in Room 211, Electrical Engineering Building, December, 1975 candidates and undergraduates interested in summer employment may sign beginning Wednesday, Feb. 19, at 8 a.m. in Room 252, Electrical Engineering Building.

Art thieves identified

ROME (AP) — Italy's chief art detective reported Thursday that the thieves who stole three priceless Renaissance paintings from the Ducal Palace in Urbino have been identified, and one man has been arrested.

But the three paintings have not been recovered and "may have already been taken abroad," said Rodolfo Siviero, who heads a department in the Foreign Ministry that traces stolen art works in Italy and abroad.

Raiders open second round action

By JEFF KLOTZMAN
Asst. Sports Editor

Tech's roundballers open the second round of SWC play Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum as they host the Rice Owls in their first Saturday home opener of SWC play.

Tech has played three conference matches on the home court this season, all Tuesday night encounters. But in the second round, Tech will be on the road for the rest of the season on Tuesday nights and at home on Saturday.

Just last weekend, Tech journeyed to Houston to duel the Owls in Autry Pavilion and walked away with an 86-60 victory; the Raiders largest win margin of the season. William Johnson was the top Raider, scoring 22 points and pulling down nine rebounds.

Johnson is also assured of staying out of an airplane for a week-end change. Last weekend he made the trip to Houston twice because he had to fly back to Lubbock when his wife gave birth to their first child.

Raider splashers travel to Colorado

By JOE GULICK
Sports Writer

The Tech swim team travels to Colorado Springs this weekend for a dual meet Saturday against Tulane University and a double dual meet tonight against the Air Force Academy and the University of Wyoming.

Last weekend, Tech lost a dual meet to Texas 82-31 and beat Texas A&M 78-35. Tech's dual meet record is now 6-2.

Swim coach Jim McNally feels that the higher altitude in Colorado Springs will play an important part in the meets. McNally also feels that Tech will be swimming against quality non-conference competition.

"On paper, Tulane is probably the strongest team of the three," said McNally. "Their times to date have been better than ours in several events, but they'll be coming up to the altitude, too, so it should be a good meet."

Tech goes against Tulane at 3 p.m. Saturday. Tonight at 7 p.m. they compete in a double dual meet with Air Force and the University of Wyoming.

"Air Force is about the same kind of team as we are. It will be tough for us to beat them, especially up there," said McNally. "I don't really know much about Wyoming, but we've been swimming well and I think our kids will be ready to compete."

Several Tech swimmers are close to qualifying for the NCAA Championships next month, but none have qualified yet. McNally said the times are getting better every meet.

Six Raiders in meet

Six members of the Raider track team will go to Oklahoma City this weekend to compete in the United States Track and Field Federation meet. The meet will be an open competition with any college or individuals.

Head track coach Vernon Hilliard will be taking hurdler Paul Sims, high jumper Bryant Huckaby, and the distance medley relay team, composed of Tony Harris, Wes Stout, Terrell Pendleton and Mark Freeman.

This will be the last indoor meet of the season for the Raiders. They open the outdoor meet season Feb. 22 at the University of Houston Relays in Houston.

Tech devastated the Owls with a second-half zone defense that completely shut down Rice's offensive attack. The game was close until Tech came out in the zone in the first five minutes of the second-half and waltzed away to a 10-point lead. The Owls could manage only 25 second-half points.

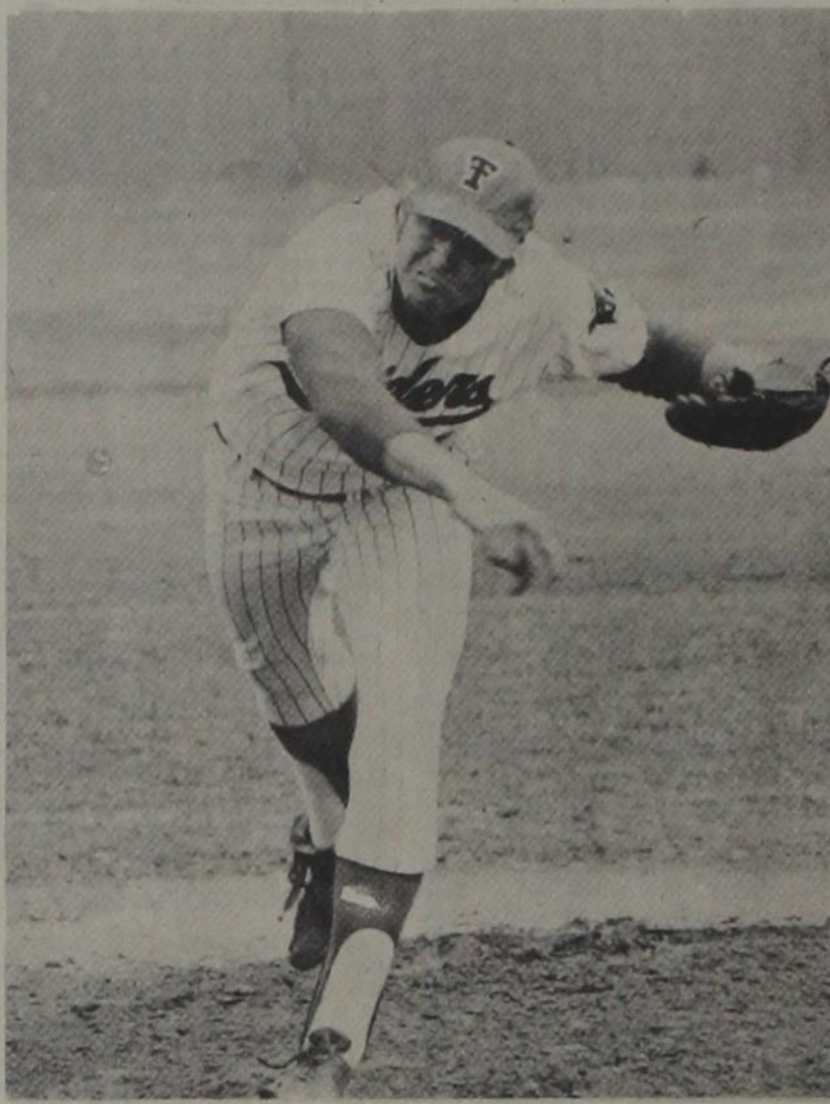

The Owls were led by forward Tim Moriarty who scored 21 points. He was backed by Alan Reynolds who had 12 and Charles Daniels who scored 11.

In Tuesday night action, Rice lost a one point heart-breaker to Texas. Texas' Dan Kruger tossed in six points in the last four minutes of play to lead the Longhorns in a come-from-behind charge.

Tech trounced SMU 74-61 behind the shooting of Rick Bullock, William Johnson, Phil Bailey and Grady Newton.

The Raiders will be looking toward Aggieland out of the corner of their eyes Saturday as the league-leading Aggies and Arkansas Razorbacks battle for the marbles. Arkansas defeated the Aggies last weekend in Fayetteville but A&M's homecourt advantage makes them a favorite.

Tech's Rick Bullock currently leads the conference in rebounding pulling down 79 in the first round for an 11.4

Slinger

Tech ace Jon Davidson releases a curve which the UTEP baseball team will see plenty of today. The Raiders open the season in El Paso this afternoon at 1 p.m. followed by a Saturday afternoon rematch.

average. SMU's Rusty Borquein is second with a 10.2 average. In Tuesday night's battle, Bullock pulled down 13 rebounds while Borquein tallied eight before fouling out.

Bullock is Tech's leading scorer with 134 points against conference foes. Johnson is second with 112 points. Phil Bailey has scored 90 points in the first round while Grady Newton tallied 54 points.

Bullock's conference scoring average is 19.1 per game while Johnson is averaging 16.0 per game. Bailey is the only other Tech player averaging in double figures with 12.2.

Tech's fans will be watched closely Saturday due to the ice-throwing incidents that occurred in the SMU and Baylor games. Cliff Speegle, executive secretary of the SWC, has asked all member schools to warn their fans that ice-throwing will not be tolerated at conference games.

Speegle fears someone may be injured if the crowds aren't brought under control. Tech is one of the SWC schools that promised to take steps to remedy the problem.

Tech fems in tourney

By ANGELA SHEPHERD
Sports Writer

The Tech women's swim team returns to competition after a weekend's rest, as they travel to Fort Worth to compete with a dozen teams in the Texas Christian University Invitational.

Coach Jackie Lambert anticipates competing against the same teams that attended the TWU meet two weeks ago; she listed the University of Texas, A&M and Oklahoma as toughest competitors. She added that Tech should place in the top four.

Commenting on Tech's progress during the last two weeks, Lambert cited Anne Goodman, Diana Burrell and Gail McNally for cutting several seconds off their times.

The Tech coach, pointing out the team's strategy, said, "We've been gearing completely toward the state meet, set for the first of March in Edinburg. We haven't tapered practices for any of the big meets and will continue this program through next week." This promotes maximum times for the swimmers.

The fem cagers, with a 54-29 win under their belts, travel to the University of Houston to try their talents against 30 women's teams from Texas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Mississippi and Oklahoma.

Today at 11 a.m., the team meets Prairie View College, who have good rebounding ability. If victorious, the Raiders would meet Sam Houston (Huntsville) at 6:30 tonight.

Scanning the entries, Coach Karen Ledford said Baylor, the University of Southwestern Louisiana and Memphis State are the toughest contenders.

Head track coach Vernon Hilliard will be taking hurdler Paul Sims, high jumper Bryant Huckaby, and the distance medley relay team,
