Immunization Awareness Month Proclaimed

July has been proclaimed Immunization Awareness Month in Texas. Throughout this month, the Texas Department of Health and local health agencies will sponsor a variety of events to help educate communities about free or low-cost immunizations for children.

"The Texas State Dept. of Public Health is an important provider of immunizations for Muleshoe and Bailey County and will observe Immunization Awareness Month locally," said Joan Head, director of the local office. "Our activities include immunizations on Tuesdays, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Wednesdays and Thursdays from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. at our office located at 118 West Ave. C. in Muleshoe. We will also have a clinic every 3rd Wednesday from 1 to 7 p.m. at our office. The clinic has hired a special nurse to come and give these immunizations."

Dr. David R. Smith, Texas Commissioner of Health, said, "We have tried to make it impossible for any Texas parent to plead ignorance as the reason his or her child is unimmunized. But ignorance is only one of the problems. Logistics -- the geographic availability of vaccinations at sensible hours for working families -- are still a problem."

By age two, only 30 percent of Texas children are fully immunized, half of the national average. Vaccinations are expected to cost about $57 million, a fraction of the expense of treating the diseases.

Governor Ann Richards in April signed into law a childhood immunization bill that requires all Texas children, except those with a religious conflict or medical contraindication, to be immunized against contagious diseases such as measles, mumps and diphtheria. Doctors and hospitals will now be required to review children's immunization records. Families will be asked to pay for the administration of the vaccine. If the family is unable to pay the administrative fee, vaccines will be administered free of charge. State law already requires children to be immunized against diseases like measles, mumps, diphtheria, whooping cough and polio as soon as they enter school. But many children under age six have not been vaccinated.

"As a pediatrician, I have seen too much of the senseless tragedy associated with failure to vaccinate children against thoroughly preventable diseases," Dr. Smith said. "It is long past time for us to have all but wiped out such devastating disease as measles, yet within the past five years, more than 4,400 Texas children under five years of age have had the disease -- including 14 who died from complications of measles."

"Let's hope that the added momentum of Immunization Awareness Month will renew this state's determination to finally defeat the diseases against which we have had vaccines for decades," the commissioner said.

Nick Black, Rotary Guest

Do you believe in Black Magic? If the answer is yes you should have been at the Rotary Club meeting at noon Tuesday.

"Does anyone in the audience have a dollar bill," Nick Black asked as he prepared to float a lady, one of his Magic Acts. Upon receiving the dollar bill, Black proceeded to make it (dollar bill) float in mid air.

In his next act, Black ask Richard Murphy to assist him. Using a book and page that Murphy had selected, Black proceeded to tell him the page number he, (Murphy) had selected, as well as the first and last word on the page.

Bill Moore was the next one to get caught up in the act. Two scarfs were tied together, by another Rotarian, and after the knot was secured, the scarfs were placed in Moore's pocket. Black then removed the scarfs, with the attendance. If you would like more chances to win the prize, you may purchase additional tickets at $4.00 each.

original knot being untied and retied with an article of clothing.

In his last act, Johnathan May, a fifth grade student volunteered to help Black with a Card Trick, with the help of Sam The Physic Snake from South Carolina.

Black not only took his Magic Act to the Rotary meeting, but asked the club to sponsor the Magic Show at a later date, on a percentage basis. He explained that the show lasted about one hour and twenty minutes, and he liked to have audience participation as much as possible.

David Tipps called the meeting to order at noon Tuesday and Kidd Castleberry led the pledge.

Terry Hutto led the group in singing "Vive le Rotary" and "Battle Hymn Of Republic."

Everyone was reminded that if

'No new taxes' is good for Texas

The people of Texas said they wanted government to live within its means. They said they wanted us to do more with less. They said, in no uncertain terms, "No new taxes!" We heard your message loud and clear.

On June 17, 1993, I signed into law the general appropriations bill for the 1994-95 biennium. It is truly a budget of both austerity and achievement. Just as important as what we did to meet the needs of Texas, is what we did not do. We did not raise taxes. This budget meets the basic needs of the people of Texas with no new taxes.

This is an impressive achievement when you remember that when the Legislature convened in January newspaper headlines told us we were facing a $7 billion budget shortfall. Sacrifices had to be made, but I believe the will of the people has been achieved.

Everybody likes to talk about making government lean and mean...and you hear a lot of election year rhetoric about the tax and spend policies of one political party versus the other. Usually this no-new-taxes notion gets more lip service than real results.

But the fact of the matter is that passing this austere budget took a concerted effort by Democrats and Republicans alike. While gridlock and finger-pointing may prevail in Washington and other states, Texas once again showed that we can cut government and deliver on this most fundamental promise.

The leadership of Lieutenant Governor Bob Bullock and House Speaker Pete Laney helped us hold the line on taxes. Senator John Montford and Representative Rob Junell led the way in the Legislature. Comptroller John Sharp once again showed us many cost-cutting measures that have helped us cut spending.

With limited growth in state revenues colliding with burgeoning court orders and federal mandates, budget decisions were extremely difficult and often painful. But this budget was written in the most open and thoughtful process in the history of the state.

It began in January when my office presented the Legislature with a fair 'budget' proposal, Working for Texas, that maintained critically needed services, made new investments where needed and balanced the books without raising taxes. Over $250 million of our money-saving initiatives from Working for Texas have been incorporated into this budget.

This budget authorizes an expenditure of $70.1 billion in total funds for the 1994-95 biennium. This represents an increase of 5.5 percent per annum, the lowest growth in the overall state budget in over 30 years.

Through the efforts of our Office of State-Federal Relations, and other key state agencies, Texas will receive $19.8 billion in federal funds. That's an increase of more than $4 billion from the record level projected with passage of the 1992-93 budget.

My administration will net for Texas $38 billion in federal funds, an increase of almost 70 percent from the previous administration.

Some other highlights of this budget bill include:

*Funding to provide immunizations for every child in Texas;

*Funding to make our streets safer through the addition of 22,000 new state jail beds and 1,000 new prison beds;

*New initiatives to provide higher educational opportunities along our Texas border area and throughout the state;

*A benefits increase for our retired teachers and state employees, plus funds to preserve current state contribution levels to our teachers retirement pension system;

*Restoring funding for critical health and human service programs.

All of this will prove to be the rest of the country that Texas is a great place to do - or bring - business. And we did it all...with no new taxes.

HEALTH NEWS

Hand Washing - Americans spend more than $20 billion alone each year fighting infections. However, one of the easiest ways to avoid infection is often the most forgotten - hand washing. Just a small amount of water, soap and time can prevent a much larger problem that could be costly to cure.

"Hand washing can seem like such an easy everyday chore, but it's important that it be done in the proper manner," said Charlotte Wheeler, R.N., C.I.C., infection control nurse specialist at Methodist Hospital.

Proper Technique - The proper way of washing is to wet your hands with water and apply soap or detergent to your hands and rub vigorously for at least 10 seconds to suspend the microorganisms (germs). Then, rinse all soap away to remove as many germs as possible.

The water temperature should be comfortable enough to rinse thoroughly. Most people soil their clean hands immediately after rinsing when they turn off the water faucet, which can harbor germs. The water faucet should be turned off with the hand towel.

Because hand towels carry germs, use paper towels to dry your hands when a family member is ill. Also, use the paper towel to turn off the faucet.

There are several areas on your hands that need to have some special attention: around your cuticles, in the creases of your hands and beneath your fingernails. When is the best time to wash? - There is no way that you can keep your hands germ free at all times, but there are several critical times to wash, Wheeler said.

- Always wash:
- *Before you handle or eat food;
  - *After you visit the bathroom;
  - *After changing a diaper;
  - *After smoking;
  - *After handling uncooked food (especially meat);
  - *After handling money;
  - *After blowing your nose, sneezing or coughing into your hand;
  - *After playing with a pet; and
  - *After handling garbage.

Crops Up and Growing on Show Site

The first stages of preparation are finished and the crops are up and growing at the Farmer-Stockman Show site outside of Lubbock, where the first working farm show in Texas history will be held this fall on October 12-14. Approximately 600 acres of cotton, corn, and grain sorghum are beginning to mature at the City of Lubbock farm, just east of Loop 289 on Farm Road 835 (East 50th Street).

Squares are developing on approximately 200 acres of irrigated cotton, which Farris Hightower, show manager, called, "so far, some of the best cotton I've seen." The production cotton will be harvested while thousands of farmers look on during the show.

By the third week in June, about 120 acres of production-acreage corn that will be used in the show's field demonstrations had grown to an average of 58 inches. It was planted on April 13. Insects have not been a problem on any of the crops so far, and the corn even has a strong population of beneficials.

Grain sorghum varieties were planted on production acreage June 1, and the first signs of a strong yield are beginning to show on the 240 acres planted. Harvest, tillage, and planting demonstrations will be held during the show on the sorghum plots, as well as the cotton and corn production acreage.

The Farmer-Stockman Show will also feature a 56-acre exhibit field where the latest machinery, seed, pesticides, equipment for irrigation and livestock production, buildings and many other farm products will be shown.

As farmers in the area know, spring weather has been somewhat dry this year, but both pivot and row water irrigation will be used to ready the crops by show time in October.

Show visitors can expect to see the latest in conservation tillage techniques and a wide variety of educational exhibits provided by the Soil Conservation Service, the Forest Service, Texas Tech and Texas A&M Universities as well as several other agencies. Test plots will be located nearby, where seed companies have planted and will show their latest corn, cotton, grain sorghum and alfalfa varieties.

Utilities, electricity and telephone services have been installed, and Bermuda grass will be planted, providing a natural walkway for visitors to inspect the different features of the show.

The show is sponsored by Texas Farmer-Stockman, a Farm Progress publication. It follows in the successful pattern of the Farm Progress Show, the nation's largest farm show held in the Midwest each year, and Husker Harvest Days, held in Nebraska.

During the three-day event, show hours will be from 7:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. each day. A camp ground area will be available for self-contained units. Show admission will be $3 a day for adults or $5 for a three-day pass, and those under 18 will be admitted free. A courtesy shuttle will be operated from the nearby Lubbock Municipal Airport.

Mexico Promises Huge Market For East Texas Lumber

While an array of problems have diminished logging in the Northwest, East Texas stands poised to capitalize on growing timber markets in Mexico.

Mexico's rapid 2.2 percent population growth translates into a need for an additional 1 million to 1.5 million housing units per year, fueling a demand for imported lumber.

"A million or more new housing units means a big demand for lumber. East Texas could fill that demand," said Kelly Bell, forestry specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Bell, who is based at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center at Overton, recently helped organize an international forestry products symposium in Houston.

The Mexican construction industry largely relies on adobe and ferroconcrete, but it needs lumber for doors, windows, interior finishing and beams. Because of clear-cutting and lack of a reforestation program, Mexican timber is in short supply.

"Mexico can't meet domestic demand," Bell said. "The country is facing a severe supply shortage."

The East Texas timber industry, with its vast production potential, stand practically at Mexico's front door. Meanwhile, the northern spotted owl and federal regulatory policy have stalled timber harvesting in the Northwest United States.

"Almost 50 percent of the Northwest's forests are federally owned and therefore the focus of environmental regulation," Bell said. "The key difference is that here, in East Texas, 93 percent of the commercial forests are privately owned, and management is not subject to public review."

All these factors add up to opportunity for the East Texas economy, according to Bell.

Exactly how big is the opportunity? It's hard to say.

Mexico's future need for lumber will be huge. U.S. exports of lumber could help offset the $2.3 billion in fresh vegetables, coffee live animals and fresh fruit that Mexico sells to the United States annually.

East Texas mills produced 1.7 billion board feet of lumber and timber products in 1991. If properly managed, East Texas, with its 12 million acres of commercial pine forest, could supply this volume yearly--indefinitely.

"With an aggressive reforestation program, East Texas could build an expanding timber economy and maintain a healthy forest ecosystem," Bell said.

There are many details to be ironed out before East Texas can begin supplying Mexico's timber needs. First, business networks must be set up.

"It's a government-industry effort on both sides. Trust is an intangible, yet invaluable factor at this time," Bell said.

Second, Bell hopes to improve the ability of East Texas mills to supply the products Mexico needs. Dimensional sizing and standards are different in Mexico. Texas mills and Mexican consumers will have to adapt.

"In the United States, a 2-by-4 measures 1 1/2 inches by 3 1/2 inches. In Mexico, a 2-by-4 is 2 inches by 4 inches," Bell said.

Because mid-size East Texas mills are more likely to adapt to different specifications, Bell sees these operations as the first to capitalize on any new export opportunities. He sees an opportunity for Texas A&M University as well.

"We've gotten in on the ground floor. We hope to help establish the business networks, provide the technology and maintain the market," he said.

In late May, Bell and other Texas timber experts will meet with their Mexican counterparts in Durango City, Mexico, for a Mexico-Texas forestry conference. A follow-up symposium has been slated for November in Mexico City.

Better Business Bureau Report

Summer is officially here, and that means lots of hot weather here on the South Plains. To help protect your air conditioner and keep it running in good order all summer long, it's best to have it serviced at least once a year. This small amount of maintenance can prevent a major problem from developing later. Your air conditioner will work more efficiently and will keep you and your family more comfortable all summer long if it's been properly maintained. You may even decide to enter into a maintenance agreement with a local contractor. A maintenance agreement, or service contract, usually allows for one routine inspection per year as well as emergency repair service when you need it. Before signing a maintenance agreement be sure you have read and understand all the terms of the contract. The Better Business Bureau has a booklet called FACTS ABOUT CENTRAL AIR CONDITIONING that is available upon request. For your free copy send a self-addressed, business sized envelope to 1206 14th St. #901; Lubbock, Tx. 79401.

P.T. Barnum once said, "There's a sucker born every minute." The Better Business Bureau would like you to prove Mr. Barnum wrong. Every week the Better Business Bureau receives calls from consumers who have been suckered by door-to-door scam artist into buying everything from cleaning agents that don't clean to magazine subscriptions that they never receive. You can protect yourself from these scam artist by following these simple guidelines: 1) When approached by a door-to-door salesman ask to see his peddlers permit. If the salesman cannot produce a permit obtain his name and description and inform the police; 2) Don't buy on impulse, if the salesman is legitimate he will be happy to give you the name and address of his home office and come back after you have had time to think about the decision.

They Hide, We Seek

Did you ever play hide and seek as a child? Some of our career politicians in Austin are still playing it, and playing it well. When you see a problem in government that just never seems to get solved, look, and you can bet there are subsidized constituencies benefiting from the status quo. We call them special interests.

The recent school finance crisis is a good example. Our Governor, Lt. Governor and much of the leadership in the legislature said the school finance crisis was about money. If it was about money, the legislature could have solved the problem in one day by dedicating the $500 million in annual profits from the lottery to solve the $400 million school finance problem.

On May 1, Texans made it clear that they were not happy with the educational system in the state. Most people agree that a first-rate education for Texas' children depends more on how we spend money, rather than how much we spend.

The special interests in Austin and in the local school districts are siphoning the dollars taxpayers give to educate our children. Today our public schools employ almost as many nonteachers as teachers, and on the average, pay nonteachers more.

Texans believe that their children deserve a first-rate education. They want true reform. We are tired of shell games from our politicians.

Did you know that when the current school finance plan was analyzed, it was found that the legislature failed to put in enough money to cover enrollment growth and cut the state's basic allotment per student by $100. Under the new plan, 80 percent of the school districts will have to increase their taxes.

Now we learn that the numbers showing how each school district would be affected by the school funding bill were available before the bill was voted on? The insiders in Austin withheld the real numbers from the legislature, the media and the public so the school finance plan could pass.

Did you hear about this? It was never announced, debated or even admitted.

The insiders have their own agenda. It is a never-ending soap opera. The characters and circumstances change slightly, but you can tune in any time and see the same plot line.

Successful businesses have been forced to downsize and become more efficient over the past few years. But the largest employer in Texas, the state government, has grown to enormous proportions. Career politicians are continually pushing towards a bigger and more powerful state government. The budget for the state has increased some 60% in the last four years. If the state were a corporation, there would be shareholder action suits and good folks demanding their leaders' heads.

When we turn the spotlight on Austin, we see that state government is controlled by insiders whose number one concern is staying in power. The spotlight didn't show which funding plan was better than others, or help the children of Texas obtain a first-rate education. When the lights came on, we saw little bureaucrats scampering about with tidbits of information designed to fool the public into believing that new taxes were needed to solve the problems.

No one seems serious about down-sizing state government and making it more efficient. We see an on-going demonstration of power plays by elected officials who have forgotten that their first and most important responsibility is to serve the people of Texas.

In this case insiders wanted to pass a school finance plan, any plan, and cut off the bright lights illuminating their hidden agenda.

Remember, if you see a problem hanging around for years, look for the special interest constituencies. Insiders think they are invisible. They think they can hide from the voters permanently. But eventually we will seek them out.

Money Talk

One of the more exciting trends in the stock market is the emergence of what I call No-Load Stocks (TM).

Most investors are familiar with no-load mutual funds. These are funds that can be purchased directly from the fund companies without paying a sales fee.

Interestingly, there is a very small but growing number of companies which allow investors to buy their stock directly from the company, even for initial purchases.

The emergence of No-Load Stocks (TM) could be the catalyst for much broader participation in the stock market by small investors.

Cox - Maxfield United in Marriage

Wedding vows and rings were exchanged between Stephanie Cox of Muleshoe and Kyle Maxfield of Sudan on Saturday, May 22, 1993, at 4:00 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Muleshoe, Texas.

The bride is the daughter of Reagan and Marilyn Cox of Muleshoe. The groom is the son of Rodney and Debbie Maxfield of Sudan.

Conducting the ceremony was Rex Boyles, minister of the Sunset Church of Christ in Lubbock. Stephanie was presented in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin formal wedding gown.

It has a pearl and iridescent sequin trimmed sweetheart neckline with dripping pearl ropes. The fitted bodice and dropped "V" waist were covered in lace appliques trimmed with pearls and iridescent sequins. The same lace appliques covered the puff-topped sleeves, with dripping pearl rope over fitted sleeve, ending in a sequin covered point on her hand. The gown was backless with a large bow below waistline atop a 9-1/2 foot train edged in pearl and sequin covered lace. The fingertip veil edged in pearls fell softly from a band of sequins and pearls.

The bridal bouquet was fresh gardenias, white roses, and stephanotis amid draping ivy. The bouquet rested on a white Bible with a white Irish linen handkerchief from England tucked inside. The handkerchief and the six pence worn in the bride's shoe were a gift from Ronnie and Sandra Schroeder of Amherst.

For "something old" Stephanie wore a wedding band belonging to her great-grandmother, Gladys Glenn. "Something new" was her dress and veil, "something borrowed" was two cancons from Kendra Durrington and Michelle Estrada; and "something blue" was her garter, handmade by her mother.

The stained glass windows of the church each had a glass goblet holding a candle with a crocheted doily supplied by the bride's Grandmother Cox. The pews had large purple floral bows carried through to the front on a large bouquet of purple irises with asparagus greenery flowing from a large handled basket and two like bouquets to each side with large hand crocheted doilies draping from tables. Standing behind tables were two 5-1/2 foot pedestals designed and built by the bride's father of lumber from the mother of the bride's childhood homeplace. Those pedestals were topped with large three wick white candles and flanked with asparagus greenery.

An a capella group, Connie Sawyer, Terry Swart, Kyla Howell, Jeremy Sanders, Greg and Ruth Lance, Katie Hufstelder, and Jason Harris, sang: "I Can't Help Falling in Love With You", "Let it be Me", "The Twelfth of Never", and "Household of Faith" while guests were being seated. "Heirlooms" to usher in grandparents, and "Somewhere in the World" to seat parents. The wedding party entered to "This is the Day the Lord Has Made". Between the Bride and Groom saying "I do" and exchanging of the rings, the group sang "Cross My Heart". The couple exited to "In the Still of the Night" and the group ended with "May the Lord Bless You and Keep You".

The bride came down the aisle to "Here Comes the Bride" on the chimes by Margie Harmon.

The matron of honor was Marleea Crittenden, the Bride's sister. The second matron of honor was Kendra Durrington, and bridesmaids were Shaylee Harper and sister of the groom, Nichole Maxfield. They wore two piece dresses with long fitted skirts made of purple with jade trim and a bow in back. They wore rhinestone, heart shaped ear clips, a gift from the bride, and carried white orchids.

Jarod Bellar served as best man. Groomsmen were David Davis, Chris Harper, and the grooms uncle, Alvin Ray Mills. They wore black tuxedos.

Lynnsay Crittenden, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long full dress made of purple floral fabric matching the pew bows. The ring bearer was Jacob Crittenden, nephew to the bride. Ushers were Tom Walker and Brandon Cox, brother of the bride. Registering guests was the bride's cousin, Fawn Guinn. A large bow tied around a bunch of bluebonnets grown and dried by the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Nix, lay on the registration table.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall. The bride's table was covered with a white moire tablecloth and an iridescent runner tied in a bow on each end. Crystal appointments were used. The cake was three tiered, topped with a matching gazebo holding bride and groom on a bicycle. Toasted pecans, white chocolate covered strawberries, and purple punch were also served. Servers were Paige Pitts and Kimberly Harris.

The groom's table was covered in a jade moire tablecloth and overlaid with an ecru crochet cloth. A copper and brass coffee service, brass flatware and gold rim ivory china was used. German chocolate cake was served. A silk arrangement of jade and purple flowers was the centerpiece, with a framed picture of the bride and groom in their "Aggie" jerseys. The servers were Heather Hufstelder and Misty Maxfield, cousin of the groom.

The guests, upon entering the reception, visited the food table. Silver and brass was mixed holding little smokies, buffalo wings, crackers, a block of cheese, vegetable sticks, and dip. A large fruit spiral of assorted fresh fruits and melons, designed and made by the mother of the groom, served as the centerpiece. Serving was Michelle Estrada, cousin of the bride. A video of the couple's life played during the reception.

Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Travis Bessire, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Yerby, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bellar, Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Fisher, and Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Mayes.

The Bride is a 1990 graduate of Muleshoe High School and the groom is a 1990 graduate of Sudan High School. They both are presently attending Texas A&M. Stephanie is getting a degree in Special Education. Kyle plays football at A&M and his major is Kinesiology. They live in Bryan, Texas.

A "Fiesta de Amor" was given for the couple by Doyce and Janelle Turner and J.D. and Julie Cage in the Cage's home on March 19, 1993. Family and friends were invited and enjoyed good food and a fun evening.

A bridal luncheon was given by Sandra Schroeder and Sue Bessire on May 21, 1993, at the Bessire's home.

Diocesan Youth Rally Held in Lubbock

More than 1,000 teens and youth group sponsors are expected to take part in Youth Rally '93, according to Paul Florez, director of youth ministries for the Catholic Diocese of Lubbock, sponsor of the annual gathering.

The rally, scheduled for June 26 and 27 at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center featured fellowship activities, speakers, workshops, worship services, music ministers and a dance. The $20 registration fee covers all costs including, a catered evening meal and a souvenir tee-shirt.

Participants are advised to bring their own sack lunches, with soft drink or juice.

"The theme for this year's youth rally is 'Live the Faith, Share the Story,'" said Florez. "Like the rally logo asks, 'Are you willin' to walk that walk and talk that talk?' The world is hungry for the Good News of Jesus Christ. And the church must help satisfy that hunger. Not just by preaching, either; but by witnessing to the life and love and joy that is ours when we dedicate ourselves to the Lord.

"Our teens aren't the 'church of the future,' as some might say. They are just as much a part of the church today as anyone else. And they, too, must be inspired and enabled to contribute to the work of evangelization. That's what the rally aims to do -- inspire them to get involved and teach them ways to do the job."

The youth rally also serves as a time of preparation for those who will be traveling to Denver for World Youth Day activities in mid-August. Almost 500 teens and sponsors from South Plains churches will be among the hundreds of thousands taking part in the event, which will be highlighted by a visit from Pope John Paul II.

When asked about his expectations for the trip, the pope said he was expecting young people from the U.S. and all over the world to meet him in the Rocky Mountains. He said he hoped the experience will give youths from North and South America "a good renewal of hope" which could in turn help the cause of peace in the world.

"Although on a much smaller scale, that's what the Diocese of Lubbock youth rally does, too," said Florez. "It gives the teens and adults who attend it a renewed hope. Each year we've had it we've heard people say they were so glad they came. It strengthens their faith."

Host Families Sought For International Students

Heritage Center Welcomes International Visitors

More than 70 visitors from outside the United States have included the American Quarter Horse Heritage Center & Museum on their itineraries while visiting Amarillo during the first six months of 1993. This figure only takes into account those tourists signing the guest registry at the admissions desk.

"The American Quarter Horse breed has been gaining in popularity around the world for many years, and now we're extremely proud that our international neighbors want to learn more about the breed and the American Quarter Horse Association when they travel in the U.S., as well as rake in the Southwestern culture that surrounds Amarillo," noted Jim Pfluger, Senior Director of the American Quarter Horse Foundation and Heritage Center & Museum. He added that international travelers often are drawn to historic Route 66 and stop in Amarillo and visit the Heritage Center.

Twenty-six guests helped make Germany the country with the largest number of representatives visiting the Heritage Center, while Canada was second with 10 visitors. Other countries represented in the registry included Brazil (6), England (5), South Africa (5), Italy (4), Israel (3), Sweden (3), France (2), Japan (2), Switzerland (2), Australia (1), Belgium (1), Denmark (1), Hong Kong (1), and Spain (1).

The Heritage Center and other Amarillo attractions are anticipating a significant upswing in the number of international visitors this summer, as thousands of travelers will stop in Amarillo on their pilgrimage to see the pope in Denver in August.

Located along I-40 East at Quarter Horse Drive, the Heritage Center showcases the history and modern activities of the American Quarter Horse and is open daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. For additional information, call (806) 376-5181.

An Ounce Of Fireworks Safety Is Worth A Pound Of Cure

John Adams foretold Americans' fondness of fireworks on the Fourth of July. Benjamin Franklin forewarned to consequences: fire.

Founding father John Adams predicted that Independence Day would be celebrated through the centuries with pomp and parade, games and sports, bonfires and illuminations. Americans still celebrate with illuminations--fireworks, to modern generations. So the Texas Commission on Fire Protection recommends that Texans follow the advice of another founding father, Benjamin Franklin: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Each year, Texas suffers from fires caused by people handling fireworks carelessly. In 1992, Texas fire departments reported 641 fireworks-related fires, an increase of more than 200 over 1991.

"Many parts of the state had wet weather during 1991, so that year's count was very low," said State Fire Marshal Ernest A. Emerson.

The over-all chairman for the event this year has been Arline Phelps. The set design and construction is being done by Dale Hughes assisted by Guy Wiley and Susan Anderson. The sound and lighting will be handled by Jeanne Cox; Costume managers are Betty Jo Beaty, Patsy Chance and Billye Jones; Hair Design and Make-up will be handled by Pat Young and Jackie Scoggin.

Ticket sales have been handled by Hazel Gilbreath, Mary Crane, Carol Cox, Joylene Costen, Billye Jones, Glenda Dale and Chuck Smith; ushers were secured by Phil Kent; Programs were prepared by Larry Parker, Pat Prater and Missy McClure; Publicity was handled by Pat Prater and Phil Kent; and posters were prepared by Susan Anderson.

"With two or three weeks of hot, dry weather, Texas could easily exceed the 1992 number, perhaps even as high as the 1,000 fireworks fires we had in 1990."

Firework devices create very high temperatures when they are set off, and they can stay hot enough to start fires for many hours, Emerson explained. He added that many fires could be prevented if the consumer simply read and followed the directions on the fireworks packages.

The Texas Commission on Fire Protection recommends the following tips to prevent fireworks-related fires this Independence Day.

*Follow local fireworks laws. Most cities ban fireworks within the city limits. It is usually illegal to even possess fireworks.

*Set off fireworks only in open, calm areas. Stay away from dry grass and brush, trees, houses, automobiles, and power lines.

*Keep a bucket of water handy. Cool used fireworks with the water. Pour water on small grass fires and on fireworks that don't discharge properly.

*Attend a public fireworks display, operated by licensed professional pyrotechnicians.

*Follow John Adam's advice to celebrate with games and parades. Consider organizing a neighborhood sports tournament or pageant.

For more information on fireworks safety and fire prevention, contact the local fire department or the Texas Commission on Fire Protection, P.O. Box 2286, Austin, Texas 78768-2286.

NEWS FROM LARRY COMBEST

$1.4 million in federal funding for a project cosponsored by U.S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) to desalt West Texas drinking water from Lake Meredith was cleared today for action on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives. Today's action finalizes the preliminary funding level approved by an appropriations subcommittee.

"We are on our way to improving our drinking water, thanks to the combined work of four Members of Congress over five years in partnership with the water-sharing cities of Canadian River Municipal Water Authority," said Combest. "The bitter taste may now be diluted, instead of continuing to downgrade the quality of drinking water in the Canadian River that flows into Lake Meredith."

Each day, 90 tons of salty brine pour into Lake Meredith from an underground salt formation. The Federal Bureau of Reclamation plans to drill a number of wells to intercept the brine before it reaches the river and then dispose of it by deep-well injection. According to Water Authority Director John Williams, once the salty water is diverted, freshwater flow from the Canadian River and rainfall into

Lazbuddie Plans July 4th Family Fun Day

A Family Fun Day will be held at the Lazbuddie Football Field on Sunday, July 4th at 1 p.m.

Just in case you get hungry, Grilled Hamburgers, Corn-On-The-Cob, Corn Dogs and Watermelon will be available at the concession stand.

There will be an E.M.S. Volleyball Tournament, co-ed teams of four. Contact Debbie Weir at 965-2302 for more information.

If you would like a good old fashioned Horseshoe Pitching Contest, it will be available also.

You may contact Nicky Nickels at 965-2175 to enter. Everyone is asked to take their lawn chairs and relax.

There will be homemade ice cream, a dunking board, water balloon games, dart throwing games, stick horse roping, bicycle and tricycle races (children need to bring their own bicycles), mini water park with parental supervision, and much more.

Glass containers and alcoholic beverages will be prohibited!

For more information contact Carolyn Scott at 965-2188 or 965-2137.

Lake Meredith over time will dilute the salt in the downstream water supply.

"I thank our members of Congress, and Congressman Combest in particular, for helping to push this project to the point of funding," said Williams. "It is very important that we get started because the salt continues to pour into Lake Meredith, bringing chloride levels up to between 430 and 440 milligrams per liter--very salty and undesirable. Our communities are having to use up their groundwater reserves unnecessarily to dilute the salt content of their drinking water. As it is, we will still have a lake full of salty water, depending on time and the Good Lord's sending us more rainstorms."

Combest noted that the federal government's involvement occurs because the underground salt formation is located in both Texas and New Mexico. While the federal government will fund a portion of the drilling construction.

Alcohol Leading Cause Of Holiday Accidents

The Fourth of July is one of the most highly celebrated of all holidays throughout the United States, and rightly so.

This occasion should be remembered as should be celebrated, because of the rights and freedoms that each of us possess.

We are also reminded this time each year that far too many will not have much to celebrate in this great State of Texas. Trooper C.B. Baiza of the Texas Department of Public Safety, states,

"At least 50 percent of all traffic deaths are alcohol related and during this holiday many people will celebrate by consuming alcoholic beverages."

"We urge those that drink to plan their celebrations and to always have a sober driver behind the wheel of their automobiles, if the automobiles must be used."

"For everyone to remember, if you drink, don't drive--if you drive, don't drink. Become a responsible person, if you are going to drink, help us protect you, as well as the other people, on our state streets and highways."

"Remember to obey all traffic laws and use that little piece of insurance that is lying right beside you, buckle that safety belt. It costs no money and only takes about two seconds to insure yourself."

Abernathy Chamber of Commerce Annul Flea Market

Sightings of Elvis may be reported in Abernathy Saturday, July 3.

As part of the Abernathy Chamber of Commerce annual flea market, Jimmy Sanchez Jr. will be performing his impressions of The King at 11 a.m. He was the winner of the Elvis impersonating contest at last year's flea market.

The festivities begin at 9 a.m. with a flag ceremony in front of the city hall. Local scouts will be doing the honors.

Set-up for the flea market will begin at 8 a.m. with booths opening at 9 a.m. Booths for tie-dyed clothing, face painting, wood crafts, ceramics and homemade ice cream have been rented.

Market booths can still be rented. The 10 by 10 booths are $25 for inside and $20 for outside. To rent an inside booth call Peggy Burger at 298-2581; to rent an outside booth call Carol Dillinger at 298-2316.

Music will be provided throughout the day. Tonya Taylor will be performing at 9:45 a.m. and fiddler Tim Zuber will begin at 10:30 a.m. Local talent includes Barbara Amerson and Ruth Naron.

At 11:45 a.m. there will be a preview of the Abernathy Ex-Student Association's Womanless Wedding. The preview will be on the stage on Main Street. The actual wedding will take place in the Abernathy High School auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased from Abernathy ex-students.

The Women's Division Chamber of Commerce will hold a drawing for a night out in Abernathy. The winner will receive a free night's stay at the Abernathy Inn, a dozen red roses from Abernathy Floral and Gifts and a dinner for two at Cano's Steakhouse.

The Abernathy Lions Club is sponsoring a dunking booth which is popular with all age groups. Of interest to middle and high school students will be a slam-dunk contest.

The event will include several activities for the kids while parents visit the flea market. There will be an egg toss contest, darts, basketball toss, bean bag toss, pony rides and other booths specially designed for youngsters.

Actors Playhouse

An evening of theatre in Atlanta is the grand prize in a fund-raising drive by Actors' Playhouse, a new Lubbock theatre organization.

Visitors to the Actors' Playhouse booth during the Fourth On Broadway street fair can register to win an all-expenses-paid trip for two to Atlanta to see a play at one of America's finest professional theatres. Winners will be chosen in a drawing at the end of the day July 3, 1993. Registration costs $1 per ticket.

The prizes have been donated by American Airlines, Premier Travel and Actors' Playhouse. Several other prizes also will be given away.

Opening in September 1994, Actors' Playhouse will be a permanent repertory company providing both full-time and part-time employment for South Plains theatre artists. Its goal is to become a regional professional theatre along the lines of the Dallas Theatre Center and Houston's Alley Theatre.

A location for Actors' Playhouse will be announced at a future date. Auditions for the repertory company are tentatively scheduled for spring of 1994.

The organization's officers are Don Cotten, president; Martin Harms, vice-president; and Rose Dickson, secretary-treasurer. For more information, call Ralph Willingham at 792-4037.

News from Baylor College of Medicine

HIV-infected patients can be categorized by the severity of their illnesses, much as doctors rate the conditions of newborn babies, says an AIDS expert at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"With babies, you use the Apgar score, which rates heart rate, respiration, muscle tone and other factors to determine how healthy a baby is at birth," says Dr. Linda Rabeneck, an assistant professor of medicine at Baylor. "We have developed a similar clinical staging system that allows us to determine the health of HIV-infected patients at any given time, and the likelihood for progression to full-blown AIDS."

Such information is necessary, says Rabeneck, because current guidelines by the Centers for Disease Control tell doctors whether their patients have AIDS - not at what stage patients are in the course of the disease.

Rabeneck and colleagues developed a staging system which goes beyond CD4 count (or T4 cell count), a standard measurement of HIV progression.

"AIDS patients are usually told that their T4 cell levels - the cells that comprise the immune system - give an accurate picture of how rapidly they are progressing to AIDS," Rabeneck said. "But looking at CD4 counts alone doesn't take into account the presence of opportunistic-related illnesses, which add important information."

Like the Apgar score, Rabeneck's group used a point system to grade three medical conditions common in HIV-infected patients - a serious throat infection known as oral thrush, night sweats, and decrease in CD4 counts. "We picked these three because they are easy to recognize or measure, and are not likely to be confused with other conditions," she said. "For instance, if we had used skin rashes as a condition, it may have been confusing because there are many types of skin rashes and many causes."

Rabeneck reexamined medical records for 176 HIV-positive patients seen at the Special Medicine Clinic at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Houston. She looked for the time at which oral thrush, night sweats and drops in CD4 counts first appeared, and charted the patient's progress to full-blown AIDS.

The analysis, funded by the Veterans Affairs Health Services Research and Development, Houston Field Program, included patients seen from January 1986 to December 1990.

"We found that by factoring in oral thrush and night sweats along with CD4 counts, the prediction of when a patient would progress to AIDS was improved," said Rabeneck.

Such information is crucial to researchers who need to be able to group patients according to illness severity, and important to patients who may want to have a better idea of how the disease is progressing.

Rabeneck emphasizes that she only tells a patient such information if asked.

"It gives them a ballpark idea of how far along they are," she said. "AIDS patients often have a lot of sick friends and are very well informed. They like to know where they stand."

Patience and delay achieve more than force and rage.

Survey Shows 86 Percent Of Executives See Increased Use Of Temporaries Compared To Three Years Ago

With the strength of the economic recovery still unclear, businesses have been turning to temporary help in record numbers in order to support their "core" employees and enhance competitiveness. In fact, a new survey of executives reveals that 86 percent believe temporary help usage has increased compared to just three years ago.

The study was developed by Accountemps, the world's largest temporary staffing service for accounting, bookkeeping, and information systems professionals. It was conducted by an independent research firm which polled 150 executives from the nation's 1,000 largest companies. They were asked, "In your opinion, have companies increased or decreased their use of temporary employees compared to three years ago?" Their responses:

Increased	86%
Decreased	8%
Stayed the same	5%
Don't know	1%

"Companies have found that through the use of temporaries, they can be responsive to changing economic conditions and workload demands, while maintaining an efficient staffing level," said Max Messmer, chairman of Accountemps. "Temporaries are being used to assist existing employees during peak periods and to minimize layoffs of 'core' employees when business suddenly turns down."

Among executives who thought the use of temporary help was rising, the average increase was placed at 21 percent.

"This growth in usage at virtually every corporate level provides benefits to candidates as well as organizations," notes Messmer. "Job candidates can use temporary assignments to evaluate prospective employers as they search for permanent jobs. In fact, many temporary assignments result in offers for full-time employment."

There are more than 150 Accountemps offices in the United States, Canada, and Europe.

Morales, Methodist Hospital Reach Agreement In Lawsuit

Texas Attorney General Dan Morales on Thursday, June 3, 1993, announced an agreement with Methodist Hospital of Houston in which the hospital will begin providing charity health care to indigent and uninsured patients and Morales will dismiss the state's lawsuit against the hospital.

"There is much to be happy about, not only in Houston, but across the state, in regard to the availability of health care to poor Texans," Morales said. "Methodist Hospital will begin shouldering some of the burden of caring for Houston's poor. And, the Legislature has passed a bill that makes Texas the first state to hold non-profit hospitals accountable to the public for the millions of dollars in tax-exemptions they receive. It requires tax-exempt hospitals to provide community benefits that include charity care."

Morales said Methodist has committed to provide Houston with charity care over and above that required by the new law. Methodist has agreed to use the highest standard under the law, which is expected to result in approximately $19 million in charity care and unreimbursed Medicaid for the Houston area in 1994. The hospital also will donate $250,000 to the Harris County Hospital District Foundation for indigent care. It will establish an endowment in the amount of $5 million for indigent care and is expecting a donation of an additional $4 million from another Houston foundation.

The lawsuit against Methodist, filed in 1990, alleged the hospital failed to provide charity care in an amount sufficient to warrant its status as a tax-exempt, charitable hospital.

"It is unfortunate that in Texas tens of thousands of persons are uninsured and have to rely on overburdened public health systems," Morales said. "However, public hospitals cannot bear that burden alone. Non-profit hospitals also have a duty to care for the poor because of the public subsidies they receive through tax-exempt benefits."

"This legislation, drafted by my staff and sponsored in the Legislature by Sen. Rodney Ellis of Houston and Rep. Glen Maxey of Austin is one answer to the health care crisis in this state. There are more than 100 charity hospitals in Texas that now will be providing millions of dollars in additional health care to our poor."

COTTON NEWS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

By Shawn Wade

Producers who've experienced a natural disaster on their 1993 cotton and feed grain acres have several options for offsetting the effects of such an occurrence through the USDA Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG).

Producers of cotton and feed grains can review the different alternatives at their county ASCS office. They can then determine what can be done to maintain crop acreage bases for USDA commodity programs and recover lost income due to a natural disaster.

In general producers have two options. The first is to request prevented planting credit from the county ASCS office, generally within 15 days after the established final planting date for the crop. The second is to file a "failed acreage" report with the county ASCS office within 15 days of the occurrence of the disaster and before physical evidence of the crop is destroyed.

The prevented planting and failed acreage options allow producers to protect their crop acreage bases and offers various ways for a producer to recover lost income from the primary crop.

On fields that have been approved for credit as either prevented planting or as failed acreage producers may devote this acreage to any other crop. Such acreage, commonly known as a "ghost" crop will not be recognized for any commodity program purpose.

Producers who received "failed acreage" credit will be eligible for deficiency payments on those acres. Producers who received a prevented planting credit, however, will NOT be eligible for deficiency payments on that acreage.

Acreage approved for prevented planting credit will be allowed to be withdrawn from a producers 1993 Acreage Reduction Program (ARP) contract without penalty.

In some cases producers of feed grains and cotton also have the opportunity to chose alternate ways of designating and replanting disaster affected cropland through "0/92" and "50/92" provisions which allow underplanting of the program crop while earning deficiency payments. The 0/92 (wheat and feed grains only) and 50/92 (cotton and rice only) options also allow the planting of certain non-program crops on these acres.

Cotton producers enrolled in the 1993 ARP can report in 50/92 using the prevented planting provision.

For more information about prevented planting and "failed acreage" options producers need to contact the county ASCS office.

The arrival of rainfall across the High Plains has brightened prospects for the area's 1993 cotton crop considerably according to Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers (PCG).

PCG notes that the general rain that everyone has been looking for still hasn't arrived. Fortunately, scattered showers during the past few days have proven very beneficial to many areas. The prospect of more rainfall over the weekend also bodes well for the area crop.

Most assessments of the 1993 crop point to one of the best starts in several years. As the beginning of summer approaches the area reaches what is normally the end of the "heavy weather" season that accounts for the majority of the area's cotton acreage losses.

Get A Safe Bronze Glow Without The Sun...

If you want a bronze glow that's safe for your skin, stay out of the sun this summer and hit the bottle. That is, a bottle of artificial tanning cream.

"The only truly 'safe' tan is the kind you rub on your skin," says Dr. John Wolf, chief of Dermatology at The Methodist Hospital in Houston. Don't be fooled into believing the artificial color on your skin is actually a base for a deeper, darker tan. "Artificial tanning creams offer no protection against the sun's damaging rays," says Wolf, "so be sure to apply sunscreen or sunblock before you head out into the sun."

Wolf says a suntan is simply a sign of damage to your skin, so he strongly discourages anyone from deliberately "tanning". But, he does have advice for those who insist on worshipping the sun. Go slowly, use a sunscreen with an SPF of at least a 4, 6, or 8 and when you've got the tan you seek, use a sunblock that will offer the maximum protection.

However, not everyone will spend their summer days spread on a beach towel soaking up the sun as they darken and damage their skin. Many people find themselves under the sun in the garden, on the golf course, at a picnic, or just cruising in a convertible. In fact, 75 percent of the damage done by the sun's rays happens during our every day activities.

"Everyone, regardless of their skin tone, should use a sunscreen with an SPF of at least 15 everyday," says Dr. Wolf. If your goal is to completely block out the sun, an SPF of 30 is recommended.

If you're going swimming or playing a sport, choose a sunscreen or block that won't easily wash off in the water or with perspiration. A wide-brimmed hat is a good shield, but most clothing will not act as a barrier between the sun and your skin.

Sunlight damage is increased by wind, heat and humidity and during the hours of 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. when the sun's rays are the strongest.

Once you think you've covered yourself with sunscreen, Dr. Wolf advises checking a few other 'out of the way' and often missed places.

"Your ears, nose, lower lip, neck, shoulders, feet, and in some cases, the top of your head should be protected too," Wolf explains. "Those places are the most common spots for the development of malignant melanoma, a potentially fatal form of skin cancer."

Melanoma may appear as a dark brown or black spot that is usually irregular in shape and color. The appearance of a new or changing mole should prompt a visit to a doctor so it can be examined, especially if it pops up suddenly or is painful, itching or bleeding.

Wolf says it's never too late to start taking precautions to save your skin, but it's best to start as early as possible. "Teach your children to make a habit of using sunscreen," says Wolf, "much of the sun's damage happens before a person reaches the age of 25."

The Methodist Hospital's Cancer Program is the third largest in Texas in terms of newly diagnosed patients seen each year.

Report From The Better Business Bureau

Informercials are paid commercials which often resemble talk shows or news broadcast. This relatively new way of advertising has increased in popularity and is often easily identified by the view as being a commercial. Some are identified throughout the program as being a paid advertisement; however others are hard to detect. Many of the products advertised deliver what they promise, but some have been investigated by the Consumer Protection Division of the Texas Attorney General's office for deceptive advertising. The Attorney General offers these steps to take before buying a product advertised in an informercial: 1) Make sure you can receive a full refund if not completely satisfied with the product and keep a copy of the phone number and addresses in case you need it later; 2) Be wary of products with "miracle health claims", if promises seem unrealistic, they probably are' and 3) Check it out with your Better Business Bureau or Attorney General's office.

Credit cards allow you to buy things now and pay later. They are offered by banks, retail stores, gas companies, airlines, and travel entertainment companies. You may be tempted to accept an offer in the mail to get a credit card regardless of what your credit rating is. Or, if you do not have any credit you may be tempted to accept a mail-order offer to help build your credit. Your Better Business Bureau would like to warn you about mail order credit cards-they are sometimes not what they claim to be. Some companies are offering a credit card with no cash down, no savings account, even if you have bad credit or no credit. These companies even go so far as to have look-alike logos that appear to be a Visa or MasterCard. These cards are for a credit card that is only for credit purchases in their catalogues and generally the merchandise is not what it appears to be either. Before you get involved with a credit card by mail offer, call your Better Business Bureau at 763-0459 for a report.

Strength Comes In The Struggle

There is no victory without struggle. If we are not destroyed or embittered by trouble, we are almost always made stronger by having faced it. The strange truth is that one of the surest ways to handicap a man for life is to be sure that he never suffers in any way, never learns about hardship and struggle firsthand.

Focus On Faith
Curtis Shelburne

Beth Landers tells the story of a man who found the cocoon of an emperor moth and took it home so he could watch the beautiful creature emerge. She says, "One day a small opening appeared, and for several hours the moth struggled but couldn't seem to force its body past a certain point. Deciding that something was wrong, the man took scissors and snipped the remaining bit of cocoon. The moth emerged easily, its body large and swollen, the wings small and shriveled."

She continues, "He expected that in a few hours the wings would spread out in their natural beauty, but they did not. Instead of developing into a creature free to fly, the moth spent its life dragging around a swollen body and shriveled wings."

And she explains, "The constricting cocoon and the struggle necessary to pass through the tiny opening are God's way of forcing fluid from the body into the wings. The 'merciful' snip was, in reality, cruel. Sometimes the struggle is exactly what we need."

The same thing is, of course, true in our own lives. It may well be that too much ease deforms a man by cutting short his development. It is often through struggle that God gives us victory.

James' words, then, are true: "When all kinds of trials and temptations crowd into your lives, my brothers, don't resent them as intruders, but welcome them as friends! Realize that they come to test your faith and to produce in you the quality of endurance. But let the process go on until that endurance is fully developed, and you will find that you have become men of mature character with the right sort of independence" (James 1: 2-4, Phillips).

That's God's wisdom!

Curtis Shelburne is the minister of the 16th & D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Preparing for the future

We parents are very careful to teach our children thrift and industry so that like this little girl they begin early in life preparing for the future. We sometimes are not so careful though to point out that there is a great deal more to the future than "a penny saved is a penny earned" or "early to bed and early to rise makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

We need the Church to remind us about the real values of life and to help us teach our children what life is really all about. Your nearby Church will be glad to answer any questions, religious or otherwise, you have about your child's spiritual training. The Sunday School is maintained to help you help your children. Use it!

Is something wrong with your life--an inner restless dissatisfaction? The answer to every human problem comes only from God our Maker. He alone can forgive and reassure. Through the church God has committed the provision and proclamation of His forgiveness and redeeming love. Without a church relation no one is securely related to God. Everyone should be in the Church and the Church is everyone!
