Cabinet Shift Shows Churchill Not To Retire

LONDON (AP)—A wholesale reshuffle of the British Conservative government brought seven new members into Prime Minister Churchill's Cabinet today.

They were not sure of his plans but thought he might stay on hand until late time Thursday or Friday. Durward Lewter, Howard County agent, who supervised the feeding of the calf, planned to leave Kansas City for Dallas Tuesday morning to be on hand while the Howard County 4-H entries are set up in the State Fair. Judging starts there on Thursday and Howard County always is regarded as a top threat for the steer title.

Along Liverpool's five miles of smoke-stained docks about half the 17,500 longshoremen refused to work ships. All Birkenhead's 2,000 dockers walked out.

Agitation to tie up Southampton, port of great transatlantic passenger liners, spread among dock workers there. The 83,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth, inbound from New York, increased speed in order to berth early.

Temporary dockers began unloading thousands of tons of tomatoes and bananas at Dover. Six ships, diverted there from London, were worked by an emergency labor force.

The waterfront strike spread after dockers at Liverpool and Birkenhead voted last night to quit work in support of the two-week-old London strike.

By COLIN FROST
LONDON (AP)—The advertisement read "Wanted—mother No. 2. In about 18 months, according to doctors, mother No. 2 might become mother No. 1."

Mrs. Kathleen Ford, 42, explained today her husband, Jack, placed the ad in a shop window with her loving approval. Mrs. Ford has tuberculosis. Doctors give her 18 months to live.

And, she said, "before I die I want to know there is someone to take my place as mother—and perhaps as wife."

STORY BRINGS DELAYED BLAST

HOUSTON (AP)—Police arrested a 20-year-old man on a drunk charge. The man told police they'd better let him go. He said he'd left a truck containing 20 gallons of nitroglycerin parked just outside the city and a slight jolt or failure of the cooling unit could cause a terrific explosion.

Candidate Case Defends Sister

NEW YORK (AP)—Republican senatorial candidate Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, in the defense of his sister, said she was not the purveyor of a "left-wing study group."

He pictured his sister as an account of "confused and neglected" but said he asked Director J. Edgar Hoover to look into it.

Because he didn't hear from Hoover, he said, he concluded "there was nothing to this sister story." His speech did not identify the "left-wing study group."

Shivers Forces Organize For '56 Convention

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN (AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee today expanded its statewide organization to push plans for a conservative Texas delegation to the 1956 national presidential convention.

In an unprecedented action, Chairman George W. Sandlin of Austin named 31 advisors who will work with the committee in the grass-roots efforts by Gov. Allan Shivers to maintain firm control of party affairs.

The advisors included such top political figures as Claude Gilmer of Rocksprings, former speaker of the Texas House of Representatives and leader for the Democrats for Eisenhower organization in 1952.

Sandlin also announced another brand new gimmick in Texas politics: the committee itself will meet every 90 days between now and May, 1956, when the state presidential convention will pick delegates to the national convention.

Shivers has made it plain that he wants Texas to send a conservative delegation to the national convention. He said he would like to see Texas but for all 48 states.

Also among the advisors named today were Howard Hartzog of Port Lavaca, former member of the Legislature; H. B. Block of Marshall, longtime conservative Democratic leader in East Texas; Howard Carney of Atlanta, former state senator and secretary of the Board of Regents of the University of Texas.

Swollen River Routs Many From Homes

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP)—Flood crest of the rain-swollen Ohio River passed this city today, causing little damage. But it swept on downstream threatening other communities after chasing thousands from their homes in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia.

The State Highway Patrol reported at 9 a. m. that the river was stationary here at 37.55 feet, about a foot and a half above flood stage.

The river crested at Wheeling, W. Va., at 44.7 feet yesterday, that city's biggest flood since March 5, 1945, when the Ohio reached 47.3 feet.

The patrol said it did not have to evacuate any families in the Marietta area, although some 25 families had moved out of the lowlands to higher ground. Merchants in this southeastern Ohio city of 16,000 hoisted stocks from basements to upper floors, and several roads were closed. Some schools along the river were closed because of flooded roads.

At Parkersburg, W. Va., the river stood at 36.7 feet this morning, was rising at the rate of a tenth of a foot per hour against a flood stage of 36 feet.

At Pomeroy, Ohio, the river was at 38.8 feet, rising a tenth of a foot an hour. At Dam 28 below Huntington, W. Va., the river stood at 38 feet, rising at the rate of 5/8-inch of a foot an hour against a flood stage of 50 feet.

The final flood threat is expected at Dam 22, about midway between here and Huntington, W. Va., where the river is scheduled to crest at 45 feet tomorrow. Flood stage is 44 feet.

Flood damage at Wheeling was estimated in the millions by Col. J. L. Person, Ohio River division engineer.

More than 400 families left homes in Jefferson, Belmont and Monroe counties in Ohio over the weekend as rain water sent over Pennsylvania mountains by Hurricane Hazel filled the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers. Those rivers form the Ohio at Pittsburgh. The Ohio crest at that point Saturday night was 32.5 feet—more than 5 feet above flood level—but damage reportedly was light.

Col. Person credited flood control systems installed above Pittsburgh with saving that city some 80 million dollars.

Without these controls the flood would have been one of the greatest in the history of the Ohio, he said.

THE UNITED WAY

Fourth Street Paving To Begin In Near Future

The Fourth Street highway artery through Big Spring is beginning to take shape, and indications are that paving should begin in the near future.

Curbing and gutter has all been installed on the eastern segment of the city highway, with only a few blocks left to go. However, another layer of base must yet be installed all along the eastern section of the city highway. This layer is due just as soon as the curbing and gutter work has been completed.

The west sector of the highway is not progressing so rapidly as the east. Quite a bit of the base material has been laid, but installation of curbs and gutters has been lagging. It is expected that curbing will be poured after all curbs on the east approach are completed.

Indications are that the eastern half will be completed and possibly paved before the western segment.

All preliminary cuts have been completed, and the roadbed has been graded throughout. Some of the bridge supports have been poured on both the eastern and western sides of the city, and the portion of Highway 80 on the west where the two one-way arteries will join has been prepared for widening.

Pavement has been taken up at the intersection of Fourth and Rannels so that the dips will be removed during paving. The portion of Fourth Street in the downtown area will be topped in the same manner that Third Street was last year, assuring a newly paved highway through the entire city.

Heredity Ruled Out In Cancer

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
NEW YORK (AP)—The fear that cancer runs in families is not borne out in a study reported today at the annual meeting of the American Cancer Society.

This analysis finds little evidence that you inherit much chance of getting cancer.

The study was made by Dr. Douglas P. Murphy and associates under auspices of the Gynecean Hospital, University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, aided by grants from the Commonwealth Fund.

They studied nearly 10,000 female relatives of women who had cancer and others who did not. The cancer patients had either cancer of the breast or uterus, the two most common sites of female cancer.

They did not find that cancer, in any sites in general, occurred with any unusual frequency in relatives of women who had cancer of the breast or uterus.

The relatives of women who had breast cancer didn't have more breast cancer than relatives of women free of that kind of cancer.

They did find some statistical evidence, not strong, that cancer of the uterus might be more common among relatives of women with uterine cancer.

Summing up the study, Murphy said, "If heredity plays any role in influencing the frequency of cancer in blood relatives it would seem to be a very small one."

Three Vehicles Overtaken, Three Cars In Collision

Three vehicles overturned and three others were involved in a collision on highways around Big Spring during the weekend, Highway Patrol and sheriff's officers reported today. No one was hurt.

The three-car collision occurred 2.3 miles west of Big Spring at 1:30 a.m. today.

The Highway Patrol said cars operated by Phillip Otis Ritchey, Monahan, and Prentiss Morrison Rainey, Big Spring, sideswiped a detour just west of the city limits on Highway 80. Ritchey's car then collided with an auto operated by Michael T. Arrigan, Webb Air Force Base.

Ritchey was traveling toward the west and the other two cars were moving eastward at the time of the mishap, the officers reported. A Nalley ambulance was summoned, but no one was injured. Most of the damage occurred when the two cars sideswiped.

Sheriff Jess Slaughter said Buck Jones, Fort Worth, was operator of a pickup which overturned about 5 a.m. today on Highway 80 near the eastern Howard County line. Jones was alone and was not hurt.

Highway Patrolmen reported that James Scott of Taylor was operator of a car which overturned 15 miles from Big Spring on the Lamesa Highway Sunday afternoon. They said Charles Andrew Frazier, Denison, was driver of a car which overturned Sunday morning, also on the Lamesa Highway, 10 miles from Big Spring. Neither was injured.

A hit-and-run accident on West Highway 80 was reported to police Sunday about 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. R. B. Davidson, 1808 Settles, told officers that her car, a 1952 Pontiac, was struck by another vehicle which was not stopped. The driver of the other car, a 1952 Plymouth, was headed in the direction of Colorado City, she said.

Glasscock Burglars Take Everything, Even Kitchen Stove

GARDEN CITY — Burglars took everything, including the kitchen stove. Officers Monday were investigating the theft of household goods and fixtures from the Glen Rileys ranch home here as well as loss of $20 from the Garden City High School.

Although they couldn't be sure when the materials were taken, the Rileys reported loss of a cook stove, a lavatory, commode, and table. Burglars also made an attempt at stealing the refrigerator, but apparently it was too heavy. The ranch home, which has been vacant, is 16 miles west.

During the weekend, possibly about the same time as the Rileys' loss, burglars broke through a window and tore off the door to Supt. W. A. Wilson's office at the high school. They got away with $20 in cash. Rangers joined Sheriff Buster Cox in the investigation.

Churches Ignore Chamber Offer

Not a single Big Spring church has taken advantage of the Chamber of Commerce's offer to furnish $50 for construction of six floats. The first six churches to call the Chamber and ask for the donation will qualify, said Miss Edith Gay, secretary. A flat $50 check will not be given this year as last, however.

Churches constructing floats can buy up to $50 in materials and send the bill to the Chamber, or they can charge the materials to the Chamber, it was announced.

Fort Worth Man Says He Was With Hagler In Vehicle

FORT WORTH (AP)—A Fort Worth man today said he was with David Hagler in the late afternoon of the day Hagler said he left here for Oklahoma.

John Smith, 47, told a Star-Telegram reporter that Hagler tried to hire him as a driver on a trip out of town in a station wagon. This was late Saturday afternoon, Oct. 9, the day Hagler says he left for Oklahoma.

Hagler, 36, charged with murder, contends that he got drunk in Fort Worth that afternoon, picked up some men as drinking companions and ended up in Southern Oklahoma, dumped from his station wagon and robbed.

One of the men he says he picked up was Smith. Hagler says he met Smith and another man in a downtown bar. Smith, he says, needed a ride to his home in Arlington. Hagler offered to drive him there in his station wagon.

Together with the other man he met in the bar, Hagler says he drove Smith to Arlington and left him at his home. Then, he says, he and his other drinking partner met a third man in a bar near Grand Prairie.

It was this man, paired with the drinking companion from the Fort Worth bar, who robbed and stole the station wagon, Hagler contends. The station wagon was found burning Oct. 10, with a charred corpse of a man inside.

Smith Monday disputed Hagler's story on several points. He gave this account: "I did not meet Hagler in a bar. 'I met him on a street corner—Main and 15th, I believe—while waiting for a red light. He struck up a conversation and then said he was looking for a driver."

"He said he wanted someone to drive for him on a trip out of town—to several places. He didn't mention Oklahoma."

"I told him I had a job and home here and couldn't do it. I said all I wanted was a ride home to my place in Arlington."

Hagler said he would give him a ride and the two walked to a station wagon parked nearby. A man was sitting in the front seat.

"I didn't have any reason then to look at him very close. He was about Hagler's age, I guess, and I think he was wearing khakis or something like that."

Hagler, Smith said, looked as if he had been drinking. "But he sure wasn't drunk."

Neither was the other man, he said. The three or them drove to Arlington. "Nobody said much. I didn't hear Hagler call this other man by any name."

Johnson Suggests Eisenhower Drop Out Of Campaign

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—A ranking Democrat suggested yesterday President Eisenhower withdraw from the congressional election campaign.

Otherwise, asserted Senate Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), the President could find "himself plunged by his fellow Republicans into one of the worst smear campaigns in history."

The Texas told a Democratic rally a last-ditch smear campaign is being readied by Republicans in three states—Montana, Washington and Wyoming.

Democrats will win in those three states "as long as the campaign is centered on the issues," Johnson said. "But the Republicans have one card left to play. It is the irresponsible talk that the Democratic campaign involves left-wingers and that a Democratic Congress would be a left-wing Congress."

He said such veteran Democratic senators as Georgia's Walter George and Richard Russell, Virginia's Harry Byrd and Arizona's Carl Hayden would have top committee chairmanships in a Democratic Senate.

"Is there anyone who thinks they are left-wingers?" he asked.

father of two small boys, wears braces on his legs as the aftermath of a mine explosion in France during the last war.

Only last week, a top state Democratic official had privately admitted that he thought Stringfellow's opponent, Walter K. Granger, had little chance of beating the congressman.

And yesterday, there were many who were still inclined to believe—privately—that Stringfellow could win anyway if left on the GOP ticket. A number of Republican leaders indicated they felt this to be the case, but said they were still doubtful as to which way they would decide on the question of allowing him to run.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) said he thought Stringfellow "still is a disabled veteran who has established a more or less normal life through a display of great courage and hard work. . . I have not lost my faith in him."

Sen. Arthur V. Watkins, the Utah Republican who headed the McCarthy censure committee and who was with Stringfellow when he made his public statement Saturday, said, "It takes a big man to do this."

Democrats were silent yesterday and efforts to locate opponent Granger were fruitless. The only comment came Saturday from Democratic State Chairman Milton L. Wellenmann, who expressed sympathy for Stringfellow but added, "I don't think that the man should represent by asking to be elected to Congress."

Teamsters Go Back To Work In New York; Employers Sign Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Truck traffic flowed into New York City at a normal rate today amid indications that united employer resistance to a general pay-hike strike of drivers in the metropolitan area was over.

Police at the vehicular tunnels from New Jersey said big and little cargo carriers were moving "without any evidence of a strike," and were carrying all types of merchandise.

At the headquarters of the AFL-Brotherhood of Teamsters, a number of truck owners were lining up to sign separate contracts.

The morning developments marked a swift change from the situation last night when a spokesman for the trucking firms predicted a lengthy strike, unified resistance to the drivers' demands, and filing of a 10-million dollar damage suit.

The strike began Saturday, but its full effectiveness was not expected until start of the business week today. Only deliveries of food, fuel and similar essentials were exempted from the shutdown.

First indications the paralyzing threat to the city's commerce might be over came when police reported normal truck traffic at the entrances to the city and the absence of any teamster pickets in the area.

Earlier, the employers' chief negotiator, Joseph M. Adeltz, had said that the only hope for an end to the strike lay in federal mediation.

mist, said of the employers' proposed suit:

"We consider this an act of desperation on their part to stop the collapse of their resistance and to prolong the strike. They hope to scare many of the operators from signing . . ."

BUT HE LOVES IT

Young, Growing Moose Isn't Ideal Family Pet

CLINTON, N.C. (AP)—Young Barney is getting downright pampered—and brother, does he love it.

And the Marvin Mayfields probably have the fastest growing family, pound for pound, in North America.

The family consists of Mary, his wife, three little girls, one little boy and one not-so-little moose, Barney.

Mary found Barney when he had been in this world about one week.

The little bull moose was lying alongside a road near this interior British Columbia community 200 miles north of Vancouver, too weak to stand. The mother was nowhere in sight.

Mayfield had to make a choice. Should he take the baby moose or should he leave it there to die? He knew if he took the little moose the mother, in keeping with the law of the wild, would have nothing more to do with her baby after it had been touched by human hands.

Mayfield decided to take the little guy. He loaded him into his truck. At home, he and his wife first fed Barney with a bottle and then from a bucket.

Now Barney, six months old, is just like one of the family.

At 5 a.m. the eldest Mayfield daughter always goes out to milk the cows. Invariably the little Mayfield boy tags along and, as is the habit of small boys, leaves the kitchen door open.

Barney doesn't miff the chance. In the house he goes, eating anything he can lay a tooth to in the kitchen. The davenport is the next stop, sort of an after-breakfast nap.

Mrs. Mayfield recalls the time she mixed up a big batch of pancake batter and set it on the sideboard only to have Barney gobble it up.

No hay for Barney.

But he really goes for milk. He guzzles six gallons a day. Vegetables and fruit help fill up the empty spots, plus what he can scrounge in the kitchen.

Mayfield has a fenced-in pasture near the house and that's where he will try to keep Barney when he grows horns, just in case some trigger-happy hunter shows up in the neighborhood.

One thing worries Mayfield. Barney is a growing boy . . . oh, moose . . . and his 300 pounds just about blots out the davenport when he's resting now.

What, asks Mayfield, is going to happen when Barney adds the 700 more pounds necessary to fill out the frame of a full-grown moose?

When the strike began, the Teamsters Union figured more than 23,000 drivers would be involved. Since then, however, the union has announced signing contracts with a number of firms that have agreed to the teamsters' terms.

They include three big food chains.

The union figured these signings would return 8,000 to 10,000 strikers to their jobs today.

Adeltz discounted the importance of these signings and said the union's estimate of the number of workers to go back to their jobs was exaggerated. "These reports," he added, "are a form of propaganda to stamper our people. There will definitely be a strike Monday morning all along the line."

Seven companies that signed contracts were named in the damage suit announced by Adeltz and Atty. Herbert Burstein. The suit, to be brought in behalf of nine operators, also names the Teamsters Union, its international president, Dave Beck, and 7 of the 12 striking locals.

The suit accuses the union of unfair labor practices and failure to bargain in good faith. It charges that the union and the companies that signed contracts conspired together to "seize and steal" business from firms holding out against union demands.

The union has insisted on a 25-cent hourly package increase. The employers' highest offer was a 10-cent package. The union rejected this as well as an employers' offer to submit the whole question to an arbitrator.

Hourly wages now range from $1.77 for helpers to $2.21 for drivers of trailer trucks.

The seven trucking firms named in the announced suit were the McLean Trucking Co., Gerosa Hauling Co., H. C. Bohack, A & P Food Stores, Riss & Co., Branch Motor Express and Century Trucking Co.

Adeltz said they also will be sued for violating an employers' agreement to sign no separate contracts.

David Kaplan, a top teamster leader and the union's chief econo-

mist, said of the employers' proposed suit:

The Rev. W. A. Criswell, Dallas, is to be the principal speaker.

Billy Graham's song leader, Cliff Barrows, arrived last night to lead Brotherhood music.

A feature of the initial Brotherhood session will be a report by Ryan on his recent 12,000-mile tour of South American mission stations operated by the Southern Baptist Convention.

The Rev. James N. Morgan of Fort Worth is president of the BGCT.

Tools Lent No Aid In Burglary Attempt

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Employees at the Greyhound bus garage told police a neatly dressed man wanted to buy a back saw from them. They loaned him a back saw blade on condition he return it.

This he did some time later, and promptly borrowed a crow bar. The crow bar hasn't come back yet.

Police said later some thief had tried unsuccessfully to break into a supermarket—directly across the street from the garage.

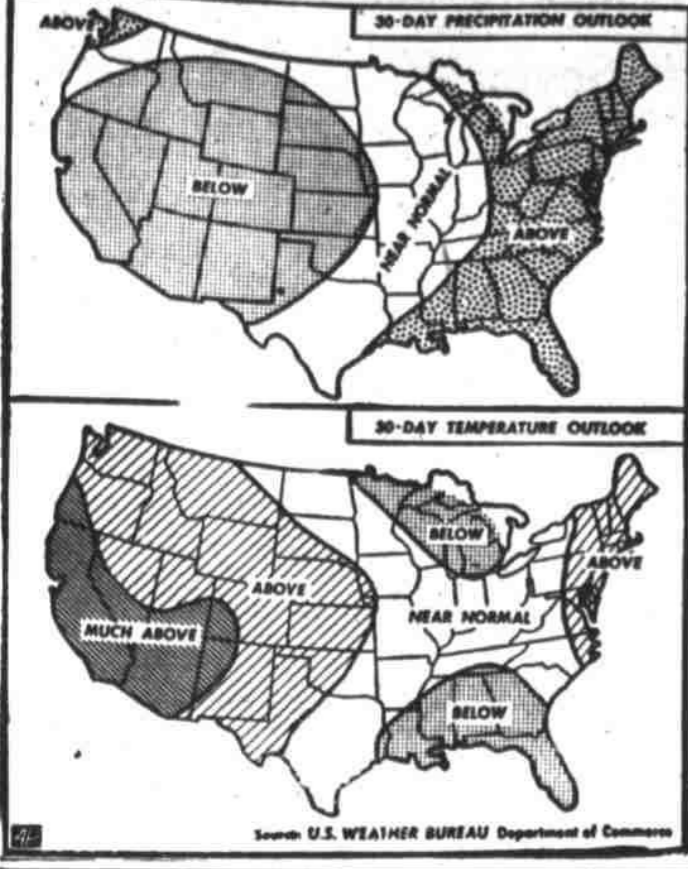

Officers surmised the borrowed tools might have been used since crow bar marks were found on a door.

Two Of City's 13 Funds Show Considerable Gains

Two of the City of Big Spring's 13 funds showed considerable increase in cash balance during September. Four others had slight balance jumps, while the other seven showed decreases.

Cash balance of the swimming pool and park system fund rose from $4,991.12 to $6,073.84 during the month, and the parking meter fund jumped from $11,174.81 to $13,081.87.

A small increase was noted in the cash balance of the general fund, which rose from $1,786.29 to $2,163.45. Total receipts during the month were $66,909.82, but expenditures were $66,909.82.

Cash balance in the general fund is expected to rise considerably this month, however, with the collection of new taxes.

Another slight increase was in the special account insurance fund, which rose from $170.13 to $172.71 in cash because of interest on securities, which total $295.04. Available fund total is $1,167.75.

The Fourth Street escrow fund rose from $2,310.13 to $2,507.58 because of a curb and gutter payment, and the storm sewer bond fund saw a cash rise from $1,123.55 to $1,286.09 because of interest on securities. The securities made $64,071.39 available in the fund.

The water and sewer system construction fund dropped in cash balance considerably during the month due to payments of $25,876.95 on the treatment plant and water line material. The decrease was from $108,573.97 to $82,697.02.

However, the total available in the fund is $257,343.52, as there are $174,646.50 in securities held by the city.

Another heavy drop came in the water and sewer system revenue fund. The balance slid from $54,979.35 to $37,116.93. Expenditures were $58,402.52 and receipts were only $70,540.10. Of the expenditures, $25,000 went to the general fund.

Bonds retired during the month totaled $1,000, and interest paid amounted to $80. The Interest and Sinking Fund as a result of the payments and some transfers dropped slightly from $39,888.61 to $39,388.81.

The street improvement bond fund dropped from $11,293.15 to $10,706.65; the cemetery fund slid from $119.53 to $112.03; and the garage fund had a decrease ranging from $9,250.03 to $9,234.87.

The airport fund also lost money during September. Receipts were only $597.30 while expenditures were $1,064.07. The balance dropped from $4,144.28 to $3,077.51.

The swimming pool fund increased during September because of golf fees and swimming collections, source of income not expected to yield much money this month.

Actually receipts from parking meters were $3,247.22. Total receipts in the parking meter fund were $3,817.57, and expenditures were $1,910.51, part for paving work.

The union figured these signings would return 8,000 to 10,000 strikers to their jobs today.

Adeltz discounted the importance of these signings and said the union's estimate of the number of workers to go back to their jobs was exaggerated. "These reports," he added, "are a form of propaganda to stamper our people. There will definitely be a strike Monday morning all along the line."

Seven companies that signed contracts were named in the damage suit announced by Adeltz and Atty. Herbert Burstein. The suit, to be brought in behalf of nine operators, also names the Teamsters Union, its international president, Dave Beck, and 7 of the 12 striking locals.

The suit accuses the union of unfair labor practices and failure to bargain in good faith. It charges that the union and the companies that signed contracts conspired together to "seize and steal" business from firms holding out against union demands.

The union has insisted on a 25-cent hourly package increase. The employers' highest offer was a 10-cent package. The union rejected this as well as an employers' offer to submit the whole question to an arbitrator.

Hourly wages now range from $1.77 for helpers to $2.21 for drivers of trailer trucks.

The seven trucking firms named in the announced suit were the McLean Trucking Co., Gerosa Hauling Co., H. C. Bohack, A & P Food Stores, Riss & Co., Branch Motor Express and Century Trucking Co.

Adeltz said they also will be sued for violating an employers' agreement to sign no separate contracts.

David Kaplan, a top teamster leader and the union's chief econo-

mist, said of the employers' proposed suit:

"We consider this an act of desperation on their part to stop the collapse of their resistance and to prolong the strike. They hope to scare many of the operators from signing . . ."

The general cargo strike affects metropolitan New York, all of Long Island, New Jersey as far south as Trenton and New York state up to Poughkeepsie.

When the strike began, the Teamsters Union figured more than 23,000 drivers would be involved. Since then, however, the union has announced signing contracts with a number of firms that have agreed to the teamsters' terms.

They include three big food chains.

A Bible Thought For Today—

Very aged people remember childhood days with great clarity. Memory is eternal. We should store up glorious memories of noble deeds. "Remember the days of old." —Deut. 32:7

Words Can Be Devastating When Twisted Or Improperly Applied

Mr. Wilson is not the first man in public office to use the wrong words to illustrate an idea, and he won't be the last. From the disastrous "rum, Romanism and rebellion" of an elder day someone is always putting his foot in his campaign. Like a good many of his predecessors in the unfortunate knack of verbal misprision, Mr. Wilson is no part of a politician—which is certainly no reflection on him. A real, practicing politician would never have used dogs and people for purposes of invidious comparison. It was his third mischance in the misuse of words. The first had been when he told a Senate committee examining his fitness for secretary of Defense that what was good for General Motors is good for the country. As the New York Times writer James Reston points out, if Mr. Wilson had reversed the order and said what is good for the country is good for GM, nothing would have come of it. Mr. Wilson later explained that that was what he had meant to say. Later, at a critical moment in the U. S. effort to get France to accept EDC, Mr. Wilson threatened to pull U. S. troops out of Europe. The effect on the French contemplating a Europe without U. S. backing confronted by a rearmaged Germany, can only be imagined.

Mr. Reston recalls the time Dean Acheson pulled a monumental blooper. Acheson said he would not turn his back on Alger Hiss. If Acheson had said he never kicked a man when he was down instead, nothing would have come of it. No politician was a guilty of blasting James G. Blaine's hopes of the presidency with his "rum, Romanism and rebellion" remark. Instead, it was a minister, the Rev. Samuel Dickinson Burchard (1810-1891), pastor of the Murray Hill Presbyterian Church in New York City. Six hundred ministers of all faiths had called at Blaine's hotel to assure him of their support. The man who had been picked as spokesman did not show up, so the Rev. Burchard was delegated for that chore. In the course of his remarks he said: "We expect to vote for you next Tuesday. We have higher expectations, which are that you will be the President of the United States and that you will do honor to your name and to the high office you will occupy. We are Republicans and don't propose to leave our party and identify ourselves with the party whose antecedents are rum, Romanism, and rebellion. We are loyal to our flag. We are loyal to you." That's how Grover Cleveland was elected President of the United States first time.

Vision, Work And Faith Are The Magic Ingredients For Industry

Judging from the number of communities represented at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce industrialization district meeting in Big Spring last week, the question must arise: just how interested are our cities and towns in this matter? Regardless of what they say, claims of a burning yearning for more industries must be regarded as something to fill up space in the annual Chamber of Commerce program of work when cities or towns won't even take time to send a delegation to hear some solid suggestions on the subject. Too many communities are like too many people—always ready to stand up and proclaim a willingness for industry to shower upon them but seldom ready to do any serious work or sacrifice to bring it to pass. The series of conferences held in Big Spring and several other West Texas points did serve to bring some salient facts into clearer focus. One is that there is no simple, easy short-cut to gaining industry. Like other good things they are the product of work which persists in the face of multiple false leads piled upon myriad disappointments. They are the result of systematic appraisal, both of resources and of prospects. They are the fruits of enlightened selling. The most pertinent lesson of all is that the surest and best way to have more industry is to develop it locally. Those who have vision enough to see potentials must have faith enough to back their judgment. While not always cited in point, stories were related over and over of small industries in West Texas which battled to become established, found they could mix it with the giants in their field, and succeeded admirably. If there are many industries to fall casually in the area, they likely will fall where localities have demonstrated industry can flourish.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs Close Contest Looms In Ohio, But Voters Not Much Concerned

CLEVELAND — In the face of what appears to be yawning apathy on the part of most of the public, Republicans and Democrats of Ohio are trying to stimulate interest in a political campaign involving a Senatorial contest crucial for the future of the GOP. To lose the Senate seat occupied until a year and a half ago by the late Sen. Robert A. Taft, Mr. Republican himself, would be a severe blow. The consequences of such a defeat would be greater, in terms of prestige and influence, than in any other Senatorial race. As of now, the contest between Rep. George Bender, Republican, and Sen. Thomas A. Burke, Democrat, appointed to the Taft seat, is close. This is admitted privately by Republican managers, which is one reason they have brought Vice President Richard Nixon into the state, not once but twice, to try to get the Republican organization working intensively behind Bender. For politics of both parties the competition has been stiff. First there was the excitement of the Cleveland Indians' triumph in the American League. This was followed by the World Series, a disaster that left Clevelanders numb and quite indifferent to the face of mere politicians. Then for months a sensational murder charge involving the death of the wife of Dr. Samuel Sheppard has held the headlines not only here but throughout the state. Dr. Sheppard's trial begins on Oct. 18 and it will offer tough competition for the speeches of candidates who are not in themselves spectacular figures. Many old-line Republicans look back nostalgically to the campaign of four years ago. Taft was running for re-election to a second term with his ardent supporters determined to roll up an impressive vote as a springboard for a Presidential nomination then clearly on the horizon. What is more, Taft was approaching the peak of his political career, with all the skill and the force of character and brains that were his. His Democratic opponent four years ago was "Jumping Joe" Ferguson, a popular vote-getter for state offices but a setup for Taft with his towering national reputation. Ferguson had an added handicap in that he was in such a tight embrace by organized labor that he looked very like the stooge candidate he was accused of being. Taft got 1,654,000 votes, a majority of 431,000 over Ferguson's 1,214,000. Impressive as was Taft's majority, many observers were almost as impressed by the large total give so weak a candidate as Ferguson. In a contest with Mr. Republican. As a vote-getter Bender cannot, of course, be mentioned in the same breath as Taft, whose devoted follower he was. Bender's career has been one of extraordinary ups and downs. As a youngster he was an ardent crusader for Teddy Roosevelt and the Bull Moose party. At 23 he was the youngest candidate ever elected to the State Senate, a flaming liberal and a fiery speaker. Then in 1931 he was indicted on charges of embezzlement and perjury in connection with $22,750 which was part of a fund solicited for the Constitutional Law Enforcement League that Bender had promoted. He was acquitted in a trial that drew wide attention. After the acquittal the Cleveland Press said editorially: "Bender's attorneys chose to portray him as a big-hearted irresponsible playboy, without business sense and without any sense of moral responsibility concerning the use of other people's money. In this way they convinced the jury that he did not willfully 'steal' the money he took or willfully subscribe to the gross errors he signed. He could not commit these wrongs willfully, they argued, because he always thought he was doing right. "They saved Bender from conviction. But at the same time they demonstrated beyond any doubt that he is not a fit person to be entrusted with the administration of public property or public funds." The role of goodhearted playboy has ever since been Bender's identifying trademark. At national and state conventions he leads the band and the cheering section and his boundless affability has no limits. Elected six times as Congressman-at-Large from Ohio, he is much better known throughout the state than his opponent. Burke is, in fact, very slightly known outside of Cleveland where he was four times elected mayor before his appointment to the Senate following Taft's death. His record as mayor was widely applauded for the constructive measures he took for the city. A sober and earnest man, he is being prodded by some of his followers who believe a much more aggressive campaign is essential. But for all the passion of appeals from party leaders on both sides of the fence, the campaign thus far seems to have stirred hardly more than a mild breeze.

Specialists On Juvenile Delinquency Unable To Agree On Cause Or Cure

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate group has dug into teen-age crime, drinking and drug addiction to see what makes juveniles delinquent. Next it takes a look at television programs of violence and horror. Beginning tomorrow, a subcommittee will open hearings on TV. It plans to call sociologists, psychologists, producers of programs, sponsors, actors, station managers and network officials. For more than a year this subcommittee, headed by Sen. Robert C. Hendrickson (R-NJ), has held hearings around the country on various phases of juvenile delinquency. It hasn't reached any general conclusions yet, or general solutions. It has received a lot of advice and opinions from specialists on juvenile delinquency, who don't agree among themselves on the cause or cure.

The Senate group is sure of one thing, although it's hardly news. Juvenile delinquency is nationwide. In 1953 about 385,000 juveniles were brought into court, and for every one brought to court three others had been picked up by police. Last year juveniles under 21 accounted for 47 per cent of all arrests for larceny, 68 per cent of all auto theft arrests and 35 per cent of all those arrested for rape. "When we talked of juvenile delinquency a few years ago," Hendrickson has said, "we were thinking mostly of youths in the 18 to 21 age bracket. Now we're finding serious crimes committed by children from 12 to 15 years."

The basic cause? He attributed it to "lack of love and affection and kindly discipline in the home." But Chicago's prosecutor, John G. Gutknecht, said, "When the woodshed comes back, we can forget the jail." He advocated stiff spanking. A New York writer, Albert Deutsch, said parents are doing a better job than their ancestors did with them. A husband-wife team at Harvard Medical School, Doctors Sheldon and Eleanor Glueck, told the subcommittee they found after a 10-year study of 500 delinquents and 400 nondelinquents that: Fifty per cent of the mothers of the delinquents had a history of criminality; 62 per cent of their fathers drank to excess; 66 per cent of their families had no systematic way of handling finances; 60 per cent of their parents did not love each other; 90 per cent of their families did not care what the neighbors thought of them; 70 per cent of their families never had any recreation as a group; and 60 per cent of them came from broken homes. In Los Angeles the subcommittee was told some doctors were selling youngsters benzodrine tablets in big lots at a big profit. A parade of witnesses in San Francisco told the subcommittee juvenile drinking was a big problem. George R. Reilly, chairman of the California State Board of Equalization, said too many California adults drink too much and depend on official agencies to care for their children. When the subcommittee went to New York to ask questions about comic books which feature tales of horror and violence, Dr. Fredrick Werthem, senior psychiatrist of the City Department of Hospitals, said: "It is the good child who is tempted and seduced by the comic books." But the senior psychiatrist at Bellevue Hospital, Dr. Loretta Bender, said she saw no great danger to children's minds from blood and thunder comic books.

Both Godfrey, La Rosa Have Survived Parting

NEW ORK (AP)—A year ago tomorrow Arthur Godfrey fired singer Julius La Rosa, the first man ever to lose his job on a television screen in full view of millions. The incident quickly blew up the biggest tempest in video's brief history. Startled by the storm he had created, the red-haired king of TV performers sorrowfully explained why he had dismissed La Rosa, the young Navy veteran whose career he had launched. His reason: "Julie" lacked what Godfrey called "for lack of a better word—"humility." This explanation merely fanned the controversy. Humility? What was humility? A nation wondered whether Arthur himself had set any course records in humility. Broadway Cassandras—and some network executives, too—feared both "the great Godfrey" and his protege would be hurt badly by their public airing of private differences. They figured Arthur would end up with a big dent in his famous chin, and that La Rosa would make a fast buck out of the notoriety, then disappear from show business. It hasn't worked out that way at all. Both Arthur and Julie have survived the parting, and time has even soothed the ulcers of a few CBS vice presidents. What kind of a year has it been for the two principals? Well, Godfrey lost and regained his air pilot's license. Financially, he didn't do as well as General Motors, but seems in no danger of having to sell apples on street corners. La Rosa, on the other hand, has earned $360,000, more than 10 times the $35,000 a year he was making with Godfrey. The money came from recordings, TV guest appearances and a nationwide night club and theater tour. Julie averages about $7,500 a week for night club engagements, $5,000 for one night stands and pulled down $43,000 for two weeks at the Chicago theater, where he had a percentage deal. I reached La Rosa by phone during a stopover at the Chicago airport the other day and asked him how he felt about Godfrey now. "I realize that if it weren't for him, I wouldn't be where I am," he said, "but I can't quite feel toward him as I did before. But I am honestly grateful to him."

'Viva Zapata' Movie Banned By Filipinos

MANILA (AP)—The Philippine army has banned showing of the Hollywood film "Viva Zapata," starring Marlon Brando, in Cebu City and other provincial towns on grounds it tends to endanger the security of the state. The film, which was shown in Manila recently after an earlier ban, deals with the life of a Mexican revolutionary general.

World's Seven Wonders Existed For Period, But Not For Today

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald, — Editor's Note. How often, as you traveled along some distant and unfamiliar road, has your eye been arrested by a sign which reads "the eighth wonder of the world." Chances are the thing of marvel would please in comparison by the original "seven wonders." Chances are, too, the owners can boast of that comparison because, of the original seven wonders, only two still exist in whole or in part. Ask a friend how many of the original list he can name. Chances are he can recall only one or two. Consider him very informed if he can remember all of them. They are, and not necessarily in the order in which they came into being: (1) the vocal Memnon; (2) the pyramids; (3) Ptolemy's lighthouse; (4) the Hanging Gardens of Babylon; (5) the Temple of Diana; (6) the Tomb of Mausolus; and (7) the Colossus of Rhodes. Only one of the original two statues of Memnon still exists and it is located on Greek territory. In time past, an air of mystery surrounded the 70-foot high structure because from it would emit a curious sound in the early morning, a sound that resembled a cry. The sound was supposed to be a response by Memnon, son of the Dawn or Eos, to his mother. Investigation proved it to be merely the passage of air through the pores of the broken, reddish sandstone, due to the changes in temperature at sunrise. The pores were later sealed. The pyramids, of course, are tombs built for the Pharaohs of Egypt. The lighthouse built by Ptolemy Philadelphus in 200 BC on a long, narrow rock in the harbor of Alexandria a mile off shore remains one of the marvels of all time. Bigger than the pyramids, it had huge mirrors in it for use as reflectors for ships at sea. At night, a great fire burned atop it. The fabulous Hanging Gardens of Babylon, five in number, were built by Nebuchadnezzar. They consisted of sun-dried brick terraces, each raised 50 feet above the other to a height of 250 feet. A winding staircase led to the queen's paradise on top. The gardens contained the rarest and most beautiful plants in all the world. The Temple of Diana, located at Ephesus, boasted columns of porticos 60 feet high, was 450 feet in length and 220 feet wide. Consisting of white marble, it was elaborately adorned with gold and filled with statues and other works of art. It was finally destroyed by the Goths. The Tomb of Mausolus, king of Caria, was built by his grief stricken wife and was so elaborate the common name of mausoleum was derived from it. The Colossus of Rhodes, which actually was a huge statue of Apollo straddling the harbor at Rhodes, rivaled our Statue of Liberty in height. Earthquakes, fires and time itself have severed to destroy most of the original "seven wonders." —TOMMY HART

Voters Elect Individuals, And They Establish Own Leadership

Whenever we go through a political campaign, one side or the other attempts to gag free discussion by raising the issue of unity. The argument runs that if we talk badly about each other, the British, the French and the Indians, to mention only three peoples, will assume that we are disunited. The assumption is that the British, the French and the Indians have never before heard of an American election which is slightly more polite than a British election. When Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman were in the White House, their adherents liked the word, unity, and it was the Republicans who enjoyed attacking the Democratic administrations, which is what an opposition exists for. Now that Dwight D. Eisenhower is in the White House, the Republicans want every argument hush-hushed for the sake of unity. Nothing can be more dangerous to a free society than unity synthetically developed by social pressure. Those who complain about conformity ought to look into this attempt to make the whole American people accept the suppression of free debate during an election campaign so that the British, French and Indians, to say nothing about the Russians and the Red Chinese, will believe that we are not disunited. If the argument for unity was wrong in the Roosevelt and Truman administrations, why is it right in the Eisenhower administration? First of all, the American people never elected anybody to leadership. In accordance with the Constitution, they choose a president and vice president, senators and representatives. Ours is a representative republic operating with limited powers, authorities, duties, obligations and limitations by that Constitution. In fact the Constitution does not set up any system of political parties, in no manner recognizing that they exist. Each person elected is chosen as an individual. Constitutionally he is in no manner bound to adhere to any program announced by a political party and some of the great figures in our history never did abide by decisions made by them. For instance, the elder Robert La Follette was elected as a Republican but he acted according to his conscience. In the current generation, Senator Wayne Morse was elected as a Republican, became Independent, and now says that he will vote with the Democrats in the organization of the Senate. He has not been censured or expelled from the Senate nor have the Republicans of Oregon driven him out of their party. It probably is practical for a senator or a representative to stick to the decisions of his party caucus, and when a number of men join together, someone will lead and others will follow. Under the American system, the one who leads need not be president of the United States. Certainly William Borah was a leader when he was a United States Senator, but Warren G. Harding was not the leader when he was president of the United States. In the recent Congress, Senator William Knowland announced that if Red China were seated in the United Nations, he would resign his formal leadership of the Republicans in the Senate and fight to withdraw the United States from the United Nations. Was Knowland disciplined for such a rebellious statement? He was not nor could he be. He had been elected by the people of the sovereign state of California to represent them, not to follow a leadership. His responsibility is to the people of California, not to a party caucus or to any individual who may sit in the White House. What becomes of this concept of obedience to leadership, if the citizens, who choose to vote in the current election, give the Democrats a majority of the Senate and the House of Representatives or in one of them? Surely the Democrats will not follow a Republican president. Herbert Hoover experienced that when he was president and he knows how difficult such a situation can be.

Austin Recollections—Raymond Brooks Political Playback

The serial drama of "Senator Cook" was played out in the Texas Legislature over a span longer than Amos and Andy have been on radio. It started as light comedy; it wore on to become pathetic, finally, a sardonic travesty on what they refer to as dignity of the Legislature. Miss Annie Cook, member of a prominent Texas family, a tall, severe spinster, operated one of the early correspondence schools in Austin. The University set up its correspondence courses, and the idea grew upon her that the state had seized her business enterprise. She asked the Legislature to recognize her claim. I think the original idea was to restore the correspondence education program to her, but it turned to the idea of compensation for something which had been taken from her. This teacher went back to a second Legislature, and another, and still others. Members pretended to be interested, and maybe there were a few who saw some basis of compensating her, or creating a state service in which she might continue her activities in the field of education. House and Senate members got in the habit of introducing bills to create a state agency which she would head, or to provide a state position she would fill. In some distorted sense of humor, there were always a few who would encourage the aging, grey-haired woman, into belief her claim would be recognized. Actually, one session of the Legislature passed a purported bill creating an extension-correspondence division she would head. It was intentionally defective in form and meaningless, but day after day she sat in the galleries, waiting the action of her state's Legislature which to her meant justice. After the session, it was up to the governor to explain to the aging woman that the bill meant nothing. But her hopes lingered. She came back to other sessions, frail, finally needing a cane to walk, always hoping someone would see she had a just plea, and would right what she believed a great personal wrong. She became known as "Senator Cook" early in her unique crusade. She liked the title. In her later years, she still hopefully consulted members, and they mostly double-talked her along in what in retrospect seems incredible calousness. Finally "Senator Cook" became too feeble to haunt the legislative halls. Eventually, time shut the door on the longest, and in many respects the most remarkable sidelight of legislative proceedings; one in which none of the surviving players can look back with pride. Do-It-Yourself! Easy, Till You Try

By ANNE LE FEVER
Do-it-yourself! PHOOEY! I've been reading so many articles on doing it yourself that I made a believer of me. That is, I believed it was almost possible to start after breakfast and turn out a Duncan Phyfe dining table in time to use at dinner that evening. Well — I almost believed it. Anyway, I did believe that I could make the necessary repairs in the small tables that support my garbage cans. Saturday afternoon armed with a saw, a hammer and a can of nails of varying sizes, I started to work. There was certainly no resemblance between me and the smiling woman usually doing the work themselves. In the first place, they are always immaculate in a dainty housedress and they are surrounded by stacks of lumber cut to exactly the right measurements. They look as if they are daintily tapping with a hammer or gracefully running a paint brush back and forth over their well-made product. Let me tell you that I can't work like that. I have to get on what must be my "home uniform" — blue jeans. They aren't immaculate, either! Then as for tapping lightly on the nail — that won't work, either. I tried that on one of the legs of the first table I went to work on, and the leg fell off. I guess it would have shattered if I had put force behind the blow. After I had replaced the leg, I decided I'd have to brace all of them. I didn't have any of that pretty wood they use in "those pictures," so I tore up a shelf that once supported an air-conditioner. Of all the rusty nails that came from the table and that brace — and all of them bent! Do you know of any scrap-iron buyer that would like a supply of nails? After I began nailing things together, I knew why the nails were bent! I don't believe it is possible to get a nail to go in straight. Then when they do go in, they won't come out and try again — Oh, well, just let the crooked things stay in!

THIS IS GOOD EATING

SKILLET TOMATO-BEEF SAUCE
Ingredients: Three tablespoons olive or peanut oil, 1 cup finely diced onion, 1/2 cup finely diced green pepper, 1 pound ground beef chuck, 1 can (1 pound and 12 ounces) tomato puree, 2 large cloves garlic (peeled and crushed), 1 1/2 teaspoons dry, coarsely crumbled oregano, 1/2 teaspoon dry, coarsely crumbled basil, 1/2 teaspoon brown gravy coloring sauce, salt and pepper.
Method: Heat oil in 12-inch skillet; add onion, green pepper and ground beef. Mash beef with long-handled two-tined fork until it loses its red color. Add tomato puree, garlic, oregano, basil, gravy coloring and salt and pepper to taste. Cook slowly for 20 to 30 minutes; stir often because sauce is very thick. Makes a generous amount of sauce for 1 pound of spaghetti. Serve the spaghetti and sauce with grated Parmesan cheese. Use with the following foods:
Skillet Tomato-Beef Sauce
Spaghetti
Green Salad
French Bread
Fruit and Cheese
Beverage

Celeste Holm, star of the new CBS-TV "Honesty, Celeste" series, wears artificial lashes occasionally for a dramatic effect. She tells how to apply them so that they'll look natural.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY There's Time, Place For Artificial Lashes

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Celeste Holm has won success in motion pictures, on the stage and on radio. Now she's branched into television and stars in the new series called "Honesty, Celeste."
I talked to Celeste the other afternoon at CBS. She was wearing a beautifully tailored dress and I told her I liked it.
"I think clothes have such a powerful impact on personality," Miss Holm confided. "Sometimes, when I'm very tired, I don't feel right in a dress that usually gives me a lift when I wear it. I believe in the emotional response to colors. I wouldn't think of wearing a red dress until I felt that my personality and vitality could match so strong a color."
"And I think make-up should be coordinated with the type of dress you are wearing. It's silly to do the same thing to your face whether you're in sport clothes or evening dress."
"With a really dramatic gown I like to wear artificial lashes but I put them on so that they do not look artificial."
I asked Celeste to tell me more about this.

Two Leftists Win In Jordan

AMMAN, Jordan (U)—Two leftists won parliamentary seats in Saturday's bloody balloting in Jordan. Their strength was attributed largely to anti-Western feeling among Palestine Arab refugees who blame the West for their expulsion from that part of Palestine that now is Israel.

Reports here said the violence accompanying Jordan's first elections under a new system permitting authorized groups to campaign as political parties, left eight persons dead and more than 44 wounded.

(In Damascus, Syrian press reports last night said 25 persons had been killed and 300 wounded during electoral clashes in Jordan. The reports said a night curfew and strict censorship had been imposed in Amman.)

One extreme leftist, Abdel Qader es Saleh, won his seat in Nablus, 30 miles north of Jerusalem. He was supported by a pro-Communist national front but ran as an independent. Although referred to here as the "first Communist ever elected in Jordan," Saleh is not a legally designated Communist since the party is outlawed.

The other leftist, Rashad Maswadeh, won in Hebron. He also had the backing of the national front.

With results in from half the 40 contests, progovernment independents had won 17 seats and the opposition had taken 3.

Missing Girl, 5, Turns Up Safe After Long Trek

OKANOGAN, Wash. (U)—A hardy 5-year-old girl who trudged 20 miles in 20 hours through the wilds of north central Washington wandered safely into a ranch yard 50 miles north of here yesterday as an army of men sought for a trace of her.

The first words of little Joyce Abel as she entered the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Wanger were: "Was Mommy worried?"

The Wanger ranch is 20 miles southwest of the home of Joyce's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Abel from which she wandered Saturday while playing.

As hopes dimmed yesterday that Joyce had survived the freezing night she walked, tired but unharmed, into the Wangers' yard and told of traveling downhill through the darkness across rock-studded fields and grassy plains.

After she was reunited with her parents, a family friend said, "She's not as tired as most of the searchers; she was dressed in fresh clothes by 10 a.m. and ready to start playing again."

Hurt Driver Brings His Bus In Safely

WELLS, Nev. (U)—A Salt Lake City bus driver brought his Greyhound bus safely into Wells last night although bleeding from a knife wound in the side.

The driver, D. H. Stump, told authorities he was stabbed by an elderly passenger who apparently went berserk when he told the man he couldn't leave the bus on lonely Pequo Summit, 20 miles east of Wells on U.S. Highway 40.

Stump said the passenger slashed an unidentified passenger on the hand who attempted to intervene, and then stabbed Stump in the side. In the turmoil that followed, Stump said, the man escaped.

Neither Stump nor the unidentified passenger was said to be hurt seriously.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

Windmills of this type still pump water in Holland.

AMSTERDAM — After a quick trip across southern Germany, I have reached one of my favorite countries. Good old Holland is famed for the brave fight made by its people against the sea. By building dikes and pumping water they have provided dry land for themselves.

For many centuries the chief pumps were windmills. Modern engines are used nowadays for much of the pumping, but the old-fashioned Dutch windmills, with their huge vanes or sails, remain in use. They still pump water, using the wind for power without any service cost.

I asked a young Dutchman about the windmills which a person sometimes sees with open spaces all over them.

"I don't see how the wind can make those wheels turn," I said.

"You are right," he replied. "The canvas covering is taken off when the owner wants his windmill to rest. He puts on the canvas again when there is work for the windmill to do."

When artists use big-sailed windmills to indicate a scene in Holland, they are true to life. When the people are shown with wooden shoes, on the other hand, there is a mistake of a sort. Some Dutch people do wear wooden shoes, but only a small proportion.

Many of the country folk, and almost all the people in Dutch cities, wear LEATHER shoes. So far, in Amsterdam, I have failed to observe wooden shoes on a single person.

In a past year I made a visit to Volendam, a fishing village, and there I saw that most of the residents had wooden shoes on their feet. When these people visit the big city of Amsterdam, they commonly wear leather shoes.

Tomorrow: Importance of Amsterdam.

Ex-Husband Held In Double Slaying

LOS ANGELES (U)—James Merkuris is in jail today awaiting arraignment on charges of murdering his former wife and her second husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Forbes.

Merkuris, 40, was brought here from Arkansas yesterday. He lost a fight against extradition following his arrest by FBI agents in Hot Springs.

He denies knowledge of the double slaying in which Mr. and Mrs. Forbes were shot to death in their ceramics shop Sept. 20.

Police say Merkuris has been identified tentatively from pictures as the man seen leaving the ceramics shop about the time of the slayings.

HOLLYWOOD (U)—Actress Ruth Hampton, 20, and television singer Byron Palmer were married yesterday at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan G. Palmer.

Ex-Felon Charges Missouri Prison 'College Of Crime'

ST. LOUIS (U)—A young ex-convict, wearing a black mask to conceal his identity, charged yesterday the Missouri State Penitentiary is a "college of crime" where he learned to "crack a safe."

The man, called "Mr. X," made the statements on a radio-television show (KWK, KWK-TV) while appearing with a panel of St. Louis crime officials.

His identity was kept secret to protect his family.

The ex-convict, who was still serving part of his three-year sentence when a destructive riot broke out at the prison recently, told the panel poorly prepared food, idleness and too much reliance on stool pigeons by prison authorities were factors leading to the riot.

Four men died as a result by the riot, 31 others were injured and damage was estimated at three million dollars.
