

LSD most popular on black market; most difficult to obtain at Tech

By RICHARD GRIFFING
UD Reporter

"Of all the drugs on the black market at Tech, the most popular is acid (LSD)." So said two drug dealer-Tech students in separate interviews over the weekend.

"It's also the most difficult thing to get right now," said one dealer. "I don't think there is any being manufactured around here right now, so you just have to sit back and wait till somebody comes up to you and says 'Hey, I got some acid.' It's really hard to get."

According to both men, most of the LSD that shows up on campus comes from Colorado. "BOULDER (COLO) is probably the best place near here to score acid. It's as easy to get up there as grass is down here. It's everywhere," said one dealer. "Guys will come up to you on the streets and sell you a thousand hits for maybe $400."

The term "hit" refers to the individual doses of the drug. Both dealers who talked to The University Daily had recently purchased sheets of "blotter acid", a form of LSD that is dropped onto blotter paper and sold in small squares. Blotter acid is reputed to be the "most pure" type of acid available. But in reality there is no such thing as pure acid available. One dealer explained why.

"No acid is really pure. Its an economic thing. If you have X amount of acid, and you want it to go farther, you simply dilute it with something. Sometimes it's speed (methedrine or dexedrine). Other times it's belladonna or strychnine. That's why I generally steer away from anything but blotter acid. It may not be pure, but it's the best you can get," said the dealer.

THE PRICE of individual hits of acid when it finally reaches the consumer is $2 to $2.50. The wholesale cost will vary between 40 cents a hit to $1.50, depending on the volume bought and the availability at the time of purchase. "I just bought 100 hits for $1.50," said one dealer. "I'll probably sell them for $2.00 apiece. That way I'll make a little money and still have a good supply left for myself."

"It's not a matter of popularity. It's a matter of supply," said one dealer. "We could sell every bit of it we could get our hands on right here at Tech. But right now it's hard to get."

The penalty for sale of LSD is 2 to 10 years in prison. When asked about their feelings about the risk they take, one dealer replied, "It's very simple. We just don't get caught. The best and really the only way to deal any drug is strictly to personal friends. If you're cautious, you can get away with it."

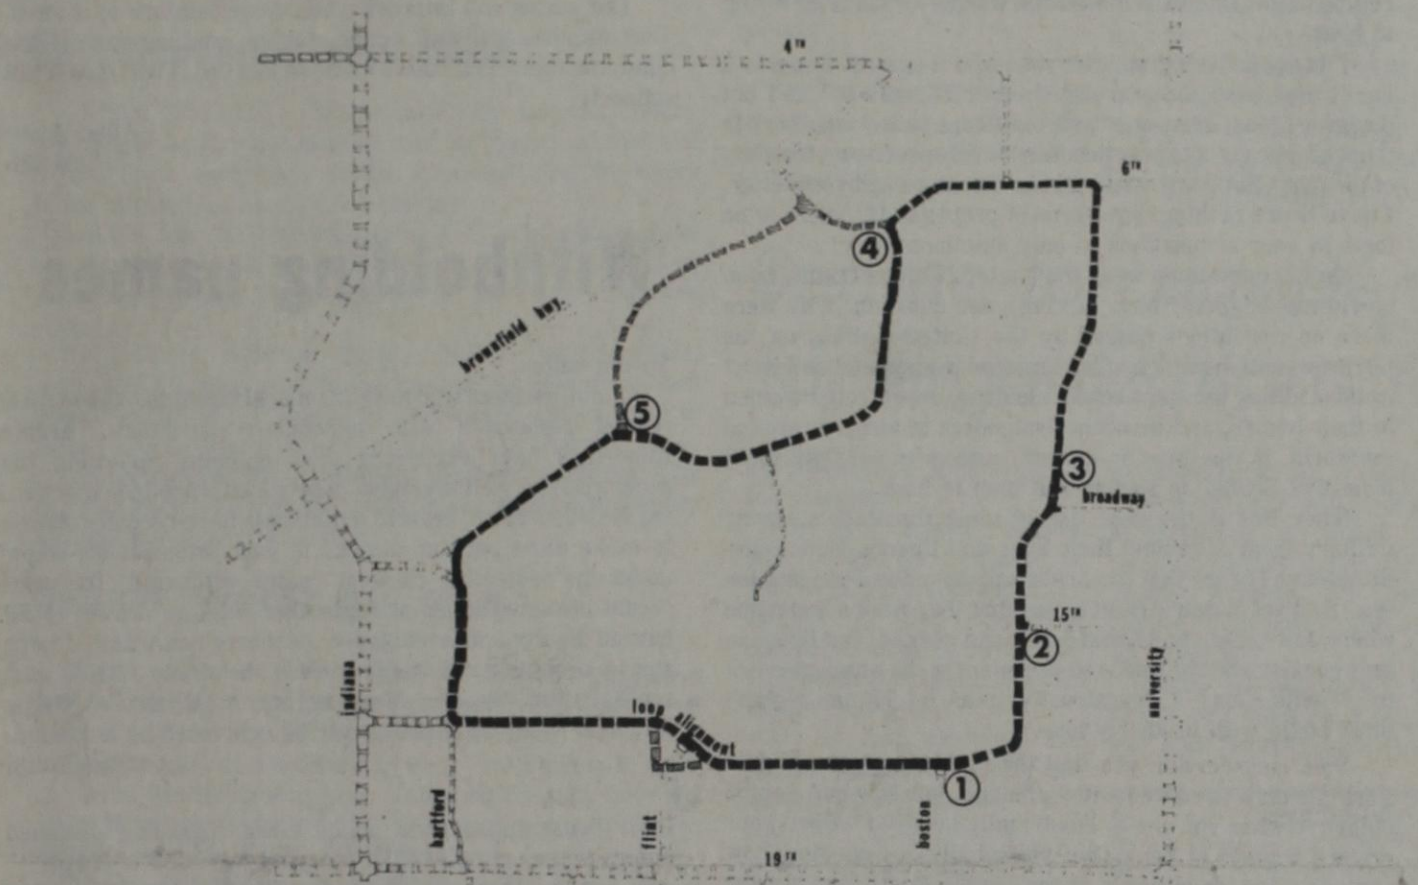

lots and 60 spaces will be removed from dorm parking areas.

Phase one of the project will begin repaving work at Boston Avenue, 6th Street, 15th Street and a small section of Flint Avenue.

Campus loop system underway

By JAY ROSSER
UD Reporter

Repaving of 15th Street at University Avenue has begun, marking the start of what will eventually be an inner loop system around the Tech campus, according to Glenn Barnett, executive vice president at Tech.

According to information released by the Office of Landscape Architecture, the majority of the streets within the campus were designed to accommodate vehicles with a maximum weight of eight tons. Currently the university trash disposal system requires the use of trucks weighing in excess of 20 tons.

The increase in weight of the vehicles has caused the deterioration of most of the older streets and requiring constant patching of the streets.

THE LOOP should cut down on long-term maintenance costs, Barnett said. He added it would eventually lead to a more pedestrian - oriented campus rather than a vehicle - oriented one.

The plans put out by the landscape architect's office state the new loop will affect relatively few parking spaces. All on-street parking will be removed "to improve pedestrian safety and allow better traffic movement," according to the architect's release.

A total of 35 on-street parking spaces will be affected, 28 spaces will be removed from faculty - staff parking

THE UNIVERSITY will gain some of the parking spaces it is losing in other areas. Thirty reserved spaces will be gained by expanding and redesigning the area presently used for faculty - staff and administrative parking on the south side of the Administration building. An additional 125 visitor spaces will be gained with the addition of a multi-use parking area south of the Student Union-Music building. Fifty dormitory parking spaces will be regained by expansion of existing parking lots behind Gordon-Bledsoe dormitory.

Barnett said the idea to construct the loop has been under consideration for quite some time on the Tech campus. Final plans for the loop were drawn by the Office of Landscape Architecture at Tech, Barnett said.

The proposal was presented to the Tech Board of Regents at their May 16 meeting, but was tabled because they felt not enough information was presented to vote on the issue.

THE OFFICE of Landscape Architecture presented final plans for the loop to the regents at the Aug. 1 meeting and issue was passed.

The funds totalling about $180,000 were given to Tech by the state legislature for maintenance, according to Barnett.

Privacy act requires students' permission for Tech professors to post grades publicly

By IRA PERRY
UD Reporter

Tech professors who post grades following tests must have their students' permission to post the grades under Tech's interpretation of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, according to Dr. Leonard Ainsworth, associate vice president for academic affairs.

The act, which went into effect on college campuses throughout the nation this summer, defines which student records kept by an educational institution can be released without the consent of the institution's students or any individual student concerned.

Ainsworth said the act did not significantly change Tech's policy concerning posting grades. Tech is operating under a policy developed in 1971 by the executive committee of the Faculty Council.

UNDER THE POLICY, professors can post grades, but if they do so, students must be given an opportunity to object to having their individual grades posted, Ainsworth said.

Professors should have written permission before grades are posted, Ainsworth said.

Ainsworth said it is left up to each individual professor to determine the manner in which grades will be communicated.

If grades are posted, Ainsworth said, the grades must be posted in such a way that each student's grades are identifiable only by the student concerned.

WHEN ASKED whether social security numbers and special codes used by some professors were in compliance with the policy, Ainsworth said he was unsure.

"For all practical purposes, I think it would be all right," Ainsworth said. "If the numbers are all mixed up on a sheet, in a class situation I don't think anyone else would notice a student's number."

Ainsworth said he thought a code might be better.

"If a professor chooses to use a unique numbering system where one student would be number 101, and another would be number 102 and so on," Ainsworth said, "I think it would be all right provided it was done in such a way that only the student knows his number."

AINS WORTH SAID codes which use a straight numbering system matched with the letters of the alphabet might not work if a student could determine someone else's grade by knowing who was ahead of him alphabetically.

Monty Davenport, senior associate vice president, said he also was unsure whether or not social security numbers would be considered as "personally identifiable information" under the law.

"I don't know that it's a violation of the law," Davenport said, "I thought we had stopped it altogether (posting grades). We really don't have an interpretation on that. These are relatively new laws, and about all we have on them is someone's interpretation. They haven't been tried in court much yet."

DAVENPORT SAID Tech had considered a policy under which grades would not be posted in any fashion.

"It's just been a part of a general movement of students having more rights," Davenport said. "I'm uncomfortable about this, especially if anyone doesn't want their grades to be seen by anyone else and they're posted."

Several departments have distributed approval slips to students as a solution to the problem.

The student can sign a statement authorizing use of his social security number for grade posting. Students can refuse to sign the statement. Absence of a signed statement is considered non-approval.

In a random check across campus Wednesday the University Daily found five computer print-outs showing grades by social security numbers.

Two teachers of the five responsible for the classes said they had asked for permission to post the grades.

Teachers said few students asked that their grades not be posted, and they posted the grades as a convenience to the student.

Group plans red tape cutting center

By GEORGE JOHNSTON
UD Reporter

Students who have gone through the experience called the "Tech Shuffle" with their administrative problems will soon find help, according to Bob White, chairman of the Student Association Red Tape Cutting Center Commission.

The commission composed of White, Terry Wimmer, Charlie Longaneckel and Kristi Koch, is working on a red tape cutting center to help students with academic problems, White said.

However, he said, the commission has not written a formal proposal to be presented for approval.

IF A STUDENT has an academic problem, he can call the center and get information on the appropriate administrative official or staffer to see, White said.

"In most cases," he said, "it is not the fault of the administrative official, but that the student doesn't know who to go to. Usually, the official doesn't know where to send the student either."

The center will also maintain a roster of all social and cultural events both on and off campus to help students know what is happening, he said.

"IF A STUDENT wants a different date other than a night club or movie, he may call and hear a recorded message of the events in town," White said.

Another purpose of the center, he said, is to confirm or deny the validity of a rumor a student might hear.

Many times there are rumors that classes will be dismissed and students need to know if these rumors are true, White added.

WHITE SAID he wants the center to be a joint project between Tech and the SA, with funding to be split between the university and the SA.

Before the SA can fund the center, he said, the student Senate must approve the allocation of funds.

Students will be hired by the SA president and a university official to work part-time in the center, White said.

THE CENTER, he said, will operate five hours a day, five days a week, he said.

Ricky Alexander, SA president in 1973-74, was one of the first to see the need for a red tape cutting center, White said.

However, he said, any student who has been on campus for any length of time and gets the "Tech Shuffle" will see the need for such a center.

White said he wants the center to be in operation by next spring.

However, the commission might run into problems concerning office space and funding of the center, he said.

"Of course, those are the same problems you have when you try to start anything new on campus," White added.

Washington (AP) - Youths experimenting with marijuana at an earlier age are contributing to an alarming upswing in the nation's drug abuse problem, the government reported Wednesday.

Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, told reporters he was quite alarmed about the growing use of marijuana among young people.

He speculated that use was increasing because marijuana is more readily available now and because of the "contagious phenomena" that challenges nonusers to follow their friends' example.

The institute released four new surveys costing $2.2 million that indicated:

-Marijuana use among 12 to 17 year olds almost doubled between 1972 and 1974.

-Fifty-five per cent of the three million high school seniors in the class of 1975 experimented with illegal drugs, and two thirds thought marijuana use should be legal or only a minor violation.

-About 300,000 of the 19 million young men aged 20 to 30 years used heroin within the last year, another one to two million used other illegal drugs and seven million smoked marijuana.

Registration deadline near FRIDAY IS A DEADLINE for anyone interested in having a new and modern state constitution. By that date, the County Texas-Assessor-Collector must have received applications from non - registered voters for them to cast a ballot in the November 4 constitutional revision election.

Secretary of State, voters do not have to turn in an application if they are presently registered, or if they have voted in a primary or general election since 1972.

Locally, for non-registered voters, applications are available in the Student Association office. Registration officials there hope to have all applications turned in by 3 p.m. Friday.

They are also warning that some students have incorrectly filled out their forms, and unless their forms are corrected, they will not be able to vote in the election.

IT WOULD BE UNFORTUNATE if someone did not vote simply because he failed to register in time. And it would be even more unfortunate if someone could not vote because of errors in his application.

The new document is a tremendous improvement over the old document.

The present constitution is more of a codification of bills than a true constitution. It was approved in 1866, and since then, it has been amended 220 times. By contrast, the Constitution of the United States, written in 1787, has been amended twenty-five times since its adoption.

Basically, the new constitution would establish a more effective and efficient state government. The proposed revision would condense the document into 11 articles of about 17,500 words, as opposed to the 63,000 in the present document.

SOME OF THE HIGHLIGHTS of the new constitution would be strengthened executive and legislative branches. The governor would hold more power over state agencies. Annual legislative sessions would be required. The judicial system, presently split between civil and criminal branches, would be unified.

In order to vote for the new constitution, however, voters first have to register. And unless they meet the Friday registration deadline, they will not have anything to say about the new constitution.

Pedestrian safety signatures needed

"WE THE UNDERSIGNED, being residents of the City of Lubbock, respectfully request an investigation toward the improvement of pedestrian safety on the perimeter of the Texas Tech University Campus."

So goes a petition circulated on campus by the Student Association. The reason? On September 13 and September 18, students were injured by automobiles while crossing University Avenue.

On October 7, Student Association President Bob Duncan will appear before the Citizen's Traffic Commission, and ask for the installation of crosswalk lights synchronized with the traffic lights.

He deserves the support of the student body, in the form of petition signatures, when making this request.

ANYONE WHO HAS driven on University Avenue knows the present system of flashing warning lights is inadequate. A remedy is needed.

Otherwise, it is only a matter of time before we have a fatality at the crosswalk, not just an injury.

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Senator Buckley vs. New York

NEW YORK'S CONGRESSIONAL delegation is scandalized by one of their number, Senator James L. Buckley, who has outraged precedent by behaving honorably, which is, roughly speaking, the opposite of behaving politically. The Congressional delegation wants Washington, D. C., which is short-hand for Duluth, Abilene, Ft. Lauderdale, Bridgeport, Atlanta, and Boise, to guarantee the maturing bonds of the City of New York. Guaranteeing the bonds means making up the deficit, because the revenues being generated by the City of New York are insufficient to pay the obligations undertaken by the City of New York. Senator Buckley, in a word, is being vilified for declining to encourage other Americans to subsidize New York City's extravagance and mismanagement. A few observations:

1. There is in my opinion no reason at all to believe that the people of New York City are as outraged as their politicians. The people of New York City are over-taxed as it is, and there are no complaints heard more frequently among them than against the extravagances of their own officials. These have been contented in part because of the usual inertia of the voters, in part because somehow the money has materialized for all those extra services and all that welfare and all that tuition-free guaranteed admission to city colleges. If the bonds go into default, it will mean very simply that economies will have to be effected. The people of New York are bound to benefit in due course from any move that relieves them of the insidious burden of profligate spending.

2. A senator demeans the office if he considers it his primary function to wage a form of guerilla warfare against other states in the union, the purpose of which is to take as much of the money that belongs to people who live out of state as he can, in order to spend it at home. A senator especially demeans the office if he considers it his duty to invade states poorer than his own, for the benefit of his own state.

3. A United States senator, as distinguished from a lobbyist for New York City, has some responsibility to mediate the consequences of his vote. Any guarantee by Washington, D. C. of the obligations of New York City instantly encourages other cities — and quite rightly so — to demand similar guarantees. And we revert to the old phenomenon of what I have called a sky black with criss-crossing dollars. The people who win those wars are the people with political muscle. That they should also think of themselves — as most New York congressman have got into the habit of doing — as the world's most conspicuous humanitarians, is accepted by people with stronger stomachs than my own, and lesser minds.

4. Representative Edward Koch, who prides himself on his own independence, now says of his colleagues in Congress, "We should be acting as a delegation and speaking with one voice." I find no sanction in American history, in the Constitution, in the Bill of Rights, or in the work of Edmund Burke, Thomas Jefferson, John Stuart Mill, or Oliver Wendell Holmes to endorse the generality of Mr. Koch. Translated, his statement says: "When we guys in New York get together to steal from other Americans, we ought to do it unanimously, since that way as individuals we are less exposed." Mr. Koch makes a demagogic but dangerous crack about Senator Buckley's previous residence in the neighboring State of Connecticut. Demagogic, because he never made such a reference to the previous residences of Senator Robert Kennedy. Dangerous because Connecticut pays out $1.54 for every $1.00 it receives from the federal government in welfare, whereas New York, which is wealthier than Connecticut, pays out only 98 cents for every dollar it receives.

5. FROM ALL OF WHICH we must conclude that Senator Buckley is living up to the promises he made to the people who elected him: to guard the federal system, to preserve the independence of the states, to speak the truth as he sees it. I am grateful to Mr. Koch for not proposing that such sentiments should be declared unconstitutional, though if they were, it would certainly relieve us at least of the burden of most Congressional salaries.

Letters

Rational acts needed in Mid East

To the editor:

This is in response to Mr. Issam J. Meri's letter which appeared in the University Daily on Monday, Sept. 29, 1975. It seems after reading Mr. Meri's letter that he was vainly attempting to 'brainwash' the populace of Texas Tech with very biased statements. I would have been ready to listen to what he had to say if he had presented the other side in comparison with his. It makes me wonder, what is he trying to hide?

I do not believe that "everyone who is against Israel is a liar?" But, why did you use the word "against" and not disagree? Must everyone "side" with one side or another? Is it not a basic right to practice freedom of speech and freedom of thought? But from reading your literature and your letter, I have heard nothing, but words of propaganda. There is no logic in your accusations — only emotional fury.

On his quotations from the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, I have but only one question. Why were there no resolutions passed by the United Nations on the terrorists actions which killed innocent women and children? Actions killing innocent school children, unprotected women in their homes, and innocent bystanders in airports around the world. If you have an honest cause, why not fight for it honestly? Soldier to soldier and man to man.

Since this is the case, Israel must maintain a strong military front to protect their lives and liberty. How many times have I heard that the Arabs will drive the Jews into the sea? And yet Yassir Arafat states that they want a Palestine where Jews, Christians, and Arabs can coexist. But how can they coexist when hatred is so prevalent in the atmosphere of the Middle East? A "constructive plan for human rights" must begin with brotherly love.

Yes, I agree with you that the problems in the Middle East can only be solved with rationale, but how can you be objective when you are so emotionally involved? When your problems begin at home, but are blindly disregarded, how can you solve the situation in the Middle East? You are the future of the Middle East and one fact you must face — the state of Israel is here to stay. Don't fight your parent's battle and hates, but look to the future and fight your individual battles, then will you be strong.

standing athletic accomplishments, but how are we to measure academic success and potential for growth? The University of Texas and Texas A&M have a Permanent University Fund, established by the legislature for their needs. We need funds to improve our assets also. Tech has students from every part of this state, and we should have the educational and vocational opportunities of the other schools.

Our status will improve when the legislature so desires. That requires political action, tactics, and support. If the change of name is a viable tactic to this end, I will give it full support.

Withholding names

To the editor:

I admire those who have the moral strength to have their names associated with unpopular convictions. Arabic minorities have expressed their opinions regarding the recent Dayan visit and have done so with public conviction. On the other hand, several individuals have recently chosen to make more popular attacks in your letters-to-the-editor under the protective cloak of "name withheld." The most recent unsigned letter of September 30 is an affront to all human dignity and intelligence, Arabic or nonArabic. I have strong ambivalent feelings toward the whole middle east conflict, but, Mr. (or "Mrs.", or Ms. or whatever) Name Withheld — my mind will never be convinced by a coward.

Chuck Smith

P.S. Please make your policy clear regarding unsigned letters-to-the-editor. Would you print any kind of trash? All letters must be signed. If, after meeting that requirement, a person wishes to withhold his name, I will honor that request. Letters provide an opportunity to spread opinion. If a reader wishes to regard that opinion as "trash," that is his privilege. —Bob Hannan

Ford carries out pledge

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — President Ford, carrying out a pledge to continue "prudent and practical" travels around the country, urged a group of small city Midwestern mayors today to lobby hard with Congress for an extension of the general revenue sharing program.

Meeting with 33 mayors from four states in a hotel ballroom here, Ford noted that the program is due to expire at the end of next year. Under the program, the federal government transfers billions of dollars to state and local governments annually.

Ford said that some in Congress would delay, modify or scrap the program, and he urged the mayors to "work on your representatives and members of the Senate to push for action."

"Don't be complacent. Get organized ... we cannot afford to get caught napping," the President said.

House kills pay raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House on Wednesday killed an 8.66 per cent pay raise for members of Congress, federal employees, and others, thus upholding the 5 per cent increase recommended by President Ford.

The raise, which went into effect immediately, goes to senators and representatives, federal judges, the vice president, Cabinet members, top government officials, federal white collar workers and military personnel.

The cost of the 5 per cent raise is estimated at $2.3 billion, compared with the $3.9 billion cost of the larger increase.

Ford had said the higher raise was inflationary.

Car insurance may jump

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The price of a car insurance policy would jump by as much as $43 a year for the typical motorist if the State Insurance Board approves rate increases recommended by its staff Wednesday.

Overall, the staff recommended a 17 per cent average statewide increase in private passenger car insurance rates, which would add $112.8 million to insurance company revenues.

The industry, however, urged a 24.9 per cent increase, worth $165.4 million in additional income. Its spokesmen said some companies are paying out millions of dollars more to satisfy claims that they are receiving in premiums.

Board chairman Joe Christie said the board would make its decision by Oct. 15, with new rates to take effect with policies written or renewed on Jan. 1.

Senate rejects gas plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican effort to remove federal controls from the price of domestically produced natural gas was rejected by the Senate today.

The vote against a proposal by Sen. Paul Fannin, R Ariz., indicated Republicans and gas state senators may have the strength to win a more gradual removal of price controls, as advocated by the Ford administration.

The gradual phase out of controls would mean higher prices, but the increase would not be so sharp as under the Fannin amendment.

The Ford administration contends that higher prices are necessary to reverse the decline the natural gas production.

Oil man pleads guilty

By MIKE SHANAHAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Armand Hammer, one of the wealthiest oil men in America, pleaded guilty Wednesday to illegally concealing $54,000 in contributions to the 1972 reelection campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon.

Hammer, 77, also acknowledged an extensive attempt to cover up the source of the cash after the contributions were investigated by the Senate Watergate Committee in 1973.

Chief U.S. District Judge William B. Jones Jr. freed hammer with no bond and said he would set a sentencing date later.

At one point during a tense courtroom hearing, Judge Jones said unless Hammer acknowledged the possibility of spending a maximum three years in prison, the guilty plea wouldn't be accepted.

Vast knowledge exists at touch of the dial

By DEBBI WHITNEY
UD Reporter

Dial here, dial there, dial anywhere. If you ever have an urge to use the phone but don't have anyone in particular to call, there are seven different numbers you can call in Lubbock to receive information ranging from religious needs to how the fish in the area lakes are biting.

Numbers can be found for Dial-A-Devotional, Dial-A-Fish Fishing Report, Dial-A-Forecast, Dial-A-Prayer, Dial-A-Thought, Tel-Med and the University Center Dial-An-Event.

Bob Evans, minister of Education Outreach at Calvary Baptist Church which sponsors Dial-A-Devotional, said they receive calls at 763-1135 from people seeking spiritual assistance at least once every 10 minutes. Staff members from the church record a different prayer each week which is played over the phone.

"THIS PROJECT is well worth the money put into it, which can be seen by the number of people who call here about their spiritual needs," said Evans.

A representative from Southwestern Bell estimated that the cost of putting in a recording line such as these lines would vary from $20-$100 a month. She added that some have cost more than $100, such as the horoscope line that is no longer in existence. In that case, a separate line, each costing $14.50 a month, was put in for every zodiac sign.

Tel-Med is a series of about 250 pre-recorded messages on health issues such as smoking, birth control, venereal disease, and sexuality, according to Mike Webb, assistant project director for West Texas Health Systems. A person can call 747-3131 and ask for the tape he wants to hear. At the end of the tape the caller is told other places he can call for further assistance.

Webb said 10 to 15 community organizations and institutions sponsor Tel-Med.

"Ours was the first Tel-Med in Texas, and the concept is growing," he added. Tel-Med will be celebrating its first anniversary Wednesday.

Calling Dial-An-Event, 742-6200, will inform the caller of all University Center events for the coming week and all major events on campus. Students on the programming committee at the UC record the tapes which tell about things such as UC films of the week, speakers, and free university registration, according to Mack Andrews, assistant director of the programs office.

Dial-A-Fish Fishing Report, 799-6333, gives information on which fish are biting, which type of bait to use and reports for all the area lakes.

You can find out the day's weather report by calling Dial-A-Forecast (828-6677) which is recorded at 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. daily. It is sponsored by a local drug store.

Dial-A-Prayer, 744-4021, gives recorded prayers over the phone for the interested caller.

The thought for the day will be relayed to you by calling 763-7238, the Dial-A-Thought number.

Senate to consider budget for organizations tonight

By GEORGE JOHNSTON
UD Reporter

The Tech Student Senate will consider final passage of the student organizational budget at the regularly scheduled meeting tonight at 8, according to Julie Martin, senate president.

At its last meeting, the senate approved all of the budget except for the Tech Forensics Union, which was listed to receive $8,200 to be used for travel to forensics tournaments.

The union was removed from the budget because some senators felt it received too much money for the amount of members it has.

THE SENATE will also consider a resolution in which the senate asks the Lubbock City Council to investigate the improvement of crosswalks on streets surrounding the campus.

Martin said the resolution has been declared an emergency situation and the resolution will probably be considered on final passage tonight.

Usually, a resolution must go through three separate readings before it is passed.

THE SENATE will consider a resolution in which the senate criticizes University of Texas officials for their manner of choosing the new UT president.

In other possible action, the senate will consider a bill in which the senate authorizes a referendum election concerning the University Center fee increase.

If passed, the bill will authorize a student referendum concerning raising the UC fee from $5 to $10 a semester in order to facilitate improvement of the UC's operations.

Voter address may be wrong

Students who think they put the wrong address on their voter registration card when they registered at the coliseum are urged to come by the Student Association office in the University Center and make corrections by Friday, according to Julie Martin, SA vice president for internal affairs.

Martin said about 100 students put their home address instead of their Lubbock address on the card and they must make corrections by Friday if they wish to vote as Lubbock residents in the November Texas Constitutional election.

Students who have already registered will receive their voter registration cards by Nov. 4, she added.

Students who have not registered have until Friday to do so if they wish to vote in the November election.

Who was that big bull?

There was little merriment on the sidelines Saturday night as Tech coach Steve Sloan (upper left) was initiated into the Southwest Conference by big brother Darrell Royal and his band of burnt orange bulls. Tech did make a couple of big plays during the course of the evening (above) as this fumble recovery by Fred Shussler. But for the most part, all the Red Raider fans could do (lower left) was watch as their heroes were trampled.

Ecomet Burley, Tech's middleguard, takes time to pause and refresh while his offensive teammates try their luck at moving the ball against the rugged 'Horn defense. Unfortunately, the rest was a brief one and Burley was back in action watching sophomore sensational Earl Campbell nose his way into the end zone for yet another Texas score.

Picadors shoot for 17th straight against Shoats

By RANDY HICKS
UD Asst. Sports Editor

Last week Coach Tommy Limbaugh upped the Tech freshman football squad's unbeaten string to 16 games as the Pics downed the Ranger Rangers 27-7. The win was the first for Limbaugh since coming to Tech and he was pleased with the victory.

"Well, I was pleased with the overall effort of the team," Limbaugh said. "I thought they showed good aggressiveness for an opening game.

"I was kind of disappointed in our kicking game," he said, "But that was no surprise considering we hadn't even worked on it.

"RIGHT NOW though," Limbaugh said, "Our defense is ahead of the offense."

Tonight the Picadors will face the Arkansas Shoats at 7:30 in Jones Stadium. According to Limbaugh the Shoates have one of the finest freshman teams ever.

"They (Arkansas) had a real good recruiting year," he said. "This is the best freshman team they have had in a few years."

"We won't have any trouble getting up for this one," he said. "This will be the biggest crowd most of them have ever played in front of."

"WE FEEL that the Shrine cause is more important than the game itself. We have tried to stress the motto (Strong legs run so that weak ones may walk) and we all hope for a strong turn-out."

While the Pics were beating Ranger last week, the Shoates were pounding Oklahoma State 30-7.

"They played extremely well," Limbaugh said. "Their offense and defense looked real good. They had over 400 yards offense. Jim Howard rushed for 137 yards on just 23 carries."

"We're just about the same size, but they have bigger backs."

COACH LIMBAUGH will go with Mike Farst as the starting quarterback but he will split duties with Mickey Elam. The running backs will be Rick Sims and Andy Berlinger. Mike Gaddy will start at flanker.

Travis Mileur will go at center while David Stevenson and Richard Weaver man the guard slots. At tackle will be Bubba Bless and Walter Bond.

The tight end duties will be split between Ed Koester and Karl Biggs while Howie Lewis and Travis Tadlock will alternate at split end.

On defense Tom Dunlap will start at noseguard. At tackles will be Greg Mahoney and Max Minter. Olan Tinsdale and Willie Young will be at the ends.

Greg Wooddell and Larry Martin will start at linebacker while Mike Patterson, Deanie Lewis, Dave Pearson and Johnny Quinney head the secondary.

Drum majors...

Always the star of the show, Khiva's drum and bugle corps drum major will make his annual staggering appearance tonight in the ninth annual Khiva Shrine Bowl game between the Tech Picadors and the Arkansas Shoats.

...And clowns

Clowns of different shapes, some happy and some not so happy, will try to bring a little joy to the fans who attend the annual Shrine game. Proceeds from the contest benefit Shriner Hospitals for Crippled Children and Shriner Burn Institutes.

Strong legs run tonight in Khiva Shrine Bowl

By RICHARD DAY
UD Sports Writer

Strong legs will run so that weak legs may walk in the Ninth Annual Khiva Shrine Game at 7:30 p.m. in Jones Stadium pitting the Tech Picadors against the Arkansas Shoats. All game proceeds will be given to the 22 Shrine Hospitals for Crippled Children which have given free treatment to more than three million children for severe burns. Over $30 million a year is spent for these treatment centers.

Authorities say that severe burns to children, unless properly treated, are our country's greatest unmet medical need and call burns the largest single hazard of childhood. The Burns Institutes of the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children have a three-fold purpose to save children's lives and restore their bodies through intensive care to prevent the crippling effects of severe burns; to undertake research in burns therapy and to advance medicine's ability to care for and treat children with violent burns; and to instruct medical personnel in the care and treatment of burned children.

TREATMENT is given to all children of all races and creeds, without cost to patient, or parent. The west Texas chapter of Shriners, Khiva Temple, use airplanes at no cost to the patient or parent to transport children to Houston for treatment. At the Houston hospital Dr. Dwaine Larson has discovered more treatments for burns than anyone in history. Dr. Larson, whose discoveries are not used worldwide, is also responsible for the plane services. Through all these new discoveries, today, many children can be saved that three years ago were hopeless cases, doctors say.

Picador Coach Tommy Limbaugh, feels that this is a tremendous opportunity to assist in helping crippled and burned children as well as a chance to see two traditional foes in action.

The game chairman will be Noble Jack Strong of Lubbock and for the second consecutive year, Potentate of the Shrine of North America, U. C. Sterquell Jr., will attend. Eight girls from Tech, sponsored by various fraternities and sororities will be in competition for the title of Shrine Bowl Queen. The winner will be the girl who collects the largest amount of donations for the Shrine Hospitals.

ESTIMATED attendance at the classic will be 35,000 but

Shriners hope that at least 50,000 come and fill the stadium to capacity.

Director of publicity for the Shriners, Mel Lisman, says a walk through one of the treatment centers is truly amazing. Every child smiles and seems so thankful to those who are so graciously helping them into being a useful person again.

Lisman added that the Shriners are thankful for the opportunity to sponsor the hospitals that treat the children. Besides financial support, the Shriners sponsor blood drives in which anyone may contribute. In the past, Tech fraternities and sororities have been faithful to donate blood to these who are in desperate need of it. Burn treatment requires a tremendous amount of extra blood.

Admission price for adults is $2.50 with children admitted for $1. Tech students, faculty and staff will be admitted on their Tech ID.

THE HISTORY OF SEX IN THE CINEMA

UC Ballroom

Can you shoulder it?
Command a platoon of 46 Marines? Or pilot a four million dollar, 1400 mile-per-hour Phantom? At the age of 22 or 23, that's a lot of weight on any pair of shoulders. Face it—it's more responsibility than most men will know in their whole lives.
If you want to go for it, you can begin leadership training at Quantico, Virginia, next summer. And if the Corps thinks you can handle the job, you'll be a lieutenant of Marines the day you graduate from college.
Talk it over with the Marine officer who visits your campus:
Ask a Marine

Discuss your opportunities as an officer of Marines with Captain Tim Foreman on the 6, 7, and 8th of October in the University Center between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. For more information Call 762-7487 or come by the Marine Corps Officer Selection Office at 4210 B 50th St.

'Less than beautiful'

Museum looks for everyday items

You're moving! Uncle Henry died, and you're assigned to sort out his keepsakes in the attic. What will you ever do with the "treasures" you inherited from Great Aunt Gertrude? There is a place for almost anything in this world, and an 1892 typewriter, a carved mantel clock made by the Ingram Company in Bristol, Conn., and an Edison phonograph all have found niches at The Tech Museum.

Patrick H. Butler III, curator of history at the museum, is looking for additional items — particularly those that ranchers might have used in the 19th and early 20th centuries. He is developing an exhibit, to open Friday, including some of the items already donated to the museum. There is on hand a spindle cradle, musical instruments including a mandolin and an autoharp, a wooden washing machine and a carpet sweeper. There are some kitchen chairs and some elegant parlor furniture.

"None of the houses at the Ranching Heritage Center at the museum is completely furnished authentically, however," said Butler, "and we're anxious to pick up the workaday items. We want the less than beautiful, the practical, everyday pieces, and these are the hardest to find."

So often, Buter said, people throw out the items they worked with and keep the items they believe the most beautiful. He said the museum needs beautiful examples of useful furnishings of the past, but most of all, the curator is looking for the clothing worn daily, the furniture ranch hands used and the hand-made pieces which are short on looks and long on usefulness.

His October exhibit is called "Life on the Ranch — An Unfinished Picture." It will include items already collected for the Ranching Heritage Center and will also include lists of items needed.

Among these are: For chuckwagons — dutch ovens, a bean pot, coffee pot, wood water barrel, tin plates and cutlery, kerosene lamps and lanterns, wagon bows, a tool box, wagon seat, bed rolls, wagon sheets, a large rope, a pair of horse stakes and pot hooks; For houses — furniture, washing machines, ice boxes, stoves, sewing machines and sewing tools, bed linen, flour sacks or tea towels, rugs, carpets and drapes used before 1915, examples of needlecraft including unfinished work, folk art, clocks, lamps and lanterns, wash boards, cooking and table ware, pails; Outdoor items — knives, grinding and sharpening tools, carpenter's and blacksmith's tools, lawn mowers, branding irons, guns, reloading equipment, farm vehicles, saddles, bells, windmills, halters, leathergoods, field equipment; Clothing — particularly work clothing for men including boots and chaps of any period, ladies' collars, hairpieces, jewelry, trims for dresses, and children's clothing including hats, shoes and socks; Miscellaneous — musical instruments and sheet music, cameras, phonographs and records, stereopticons and slides for them, bicycles, dolls, pocketwatches, ink pens and wells, telegraph equipment, bottles, medicine boxes, toilet articles, smoking pipes.

The museum is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. There is no charge for exhibits.

Microbalance theory aids measuring watches, alcohol

The electric watch you're wearing and the alcohol you may or may not have on your breath can be measured by the same means. This discovery was made by Dr. W. H. King Jr., who is speaker at today's seminar on Piezoelectric Crystal Microbalance Theory and Practice at 3 p.m., room 111, Science Building. King is now a Research Associate in the Mechanical Division of Exxon Research and Engineering Company. Fundamentals of Quartz Crystal Microbalance will be presented in the light of quartz crystal resonators. Some specific users will be shown with slide material and live demonstration stated advance information.

Dr. M.A.K. Lodhi, professor of physics said, "Tech students are working on the microbalance theory this year and have asked King to speak in conjunction with the study." According to Dr. David Bonner, chemical engineering professor, King made his discovery accidentally while helping his son with a scout project. "When a piece of quartz is sliced in a certain angle and two pieces of electric wire are attached, vibrations occur. This is the structure to which electric watches are made. King discovered placing a drop of liquid on the structure gives a type of measurement for frequency. This frequency can indicate the amount of alcohol in one's breath," Bonner said. "King is experimenting with this discovery for uses with the Exxon Company. He is in hope of finding many uses of his discovery," Bonner said.

George C. Scott and William Devane in Fear On Trial

Xerox is proud to present a major television special starring George C. Scott and William Devane. "Fear On Trial" is the gripping dramatization of the true story of John Henry Faulk, a CBS broadcaster who was unable to find work because a group of self-appointed arbiters questioned his beliefs and his patriotism. In the 1950's and early 1960's, the hysteria of Communist witch-hunts, defamation and blacklisting drove teachers from their jobs, forced ministers from their churches and put performers and writers out of work. "Fear On Trial" is the story of one man who chose to fight back.

First campus chapter in nation Tech gets Cancer Society chapter

Tech's campus will be the first in the nation to have an official chapter of the American Cancer Society (ACS). Alpha Chi Sigma, the organizational name of the chapter, will meet Oct. 13 at 7 p.m. in X-12. Jay Lowe, Tech student instrumental in setting up the chapter, has been involved in volunteer work for the ACS for five years. He has traveled around Texas doing a total of 213 shows to promote youth involvement for ACS. Dr. Betty Tevis, associate professor in women's physical education, will sponsor Alpha Chi Sigma.

Alpha Chi Sigma, established to educate the public, work in patient services and with cancer crusades, will be a branch of the Lubbock ACS. "Through education of the public, the death rate can be cut by 50 per cent with early detection and treatment," McDavitt said. Alpha Chi Sigma will abide by official laws of the national ACS. However, students involved in the campus organization will determine their own rules. Membership is voluntary and does not require dues.

English designed for writing teachers

Not everyone who can write can teach writing and that is why English 4336 is being taught. "Almost everyone learns to write at some level of competence, but most people take writing skills for granted," said Dr. Vivian Davis, assistant professor of English and editor of Southwest Multiethnic Newsletter. "Too many education students can graduate from college without taking any writing courses," Davis said. Tech offers a course taught by Davis to help prospective teachers learn to teach writing. Teaching teachers how to write based on content and style is the goal of "Teaching English in Secondary Schools," Davis said. In freshman composition, students have difficulty stemming from high school where writing isn't stressed. "If it is emphasized, it is in the traditional way of grammar," Davis said. Davis said composition is taught from the following model: A student writes a paper, the teacher writes down individual errors and gives it back to the student. The student then corrects the errors. The teacher assumes that if a student corrects his mistakes he knows not to do it again. The writing procedure is entirely mechanical.

Wayne Dickey, coordinator of the Lubbock Public School System, said high school writing courses as they are currently being taught, are adequate. "Public schools satisfy demands more than universities," he said. The high school seniors who "place out" (receive credit by exam) of freshman composition courses avoid being taught by an inexperienced student assistant in college, he said. High schools have switched over to the quarter system. Nine quarters of English will be required. This is divided into three departments: language development, literature and composition, and communication Media, according to Dickey. Dickey said the student will be better prepared in English with more choice of grammar and composition courses. "The quarter system gives the student the right to determine his courses and the responsibility of choice is self-directed," Dickey said. "No program in any college in the nation gives a person a major in expository writing," said Davis. In the new course, Davis emphasizes pre-writing (observation), rapid writing (writing entirely by words and phrases) and revision. Editing is also included. Although not a completely new course, Davis is using a different approach this fall, she said. "Most students think if they can teach grammar, children will write better or if the teachers grade everything, the child will write better. Research does not support either notion," said Davis. Writing is more related to oral language skills than it is to grammar and mechanics," said Davis. Language teachers, according to Davis, have to be highly skilled to meet the needs of the secondary student. English 4336, an advanced course, is according to Davis, one way to solve the problem of teaching writing.

Asheville honors native son

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Nearly a half century after the novel "Look Homeward, Angel" enraged this mountain city, Asheville is honoring the author, native son Thomas Wolfe.

The city starts celebrating the 75th anniversary of Wolfe's birth today with four

UC acquires new color video monitor, player

The University Center (UC) received new color video equipment recently, announced James Andrews of the UC Films Committee.

The equipment, which will be used for color video programming, includes a monitor and cassette player with an automatic rewind and playback.

"With the old black and white player, someone had to be there every hour to rewind the film," Andrews said.

Money for the equipment, which cost about $2,200, came from the UC Programs fund, according to Andrews.

Programs like the Lone Star Music Festival, football games and the Speaker Series will be filmed and - or recorded then played in the University Center, said Andrews.

The old black and white equipment will be used off and on; however, it has become obsolete, Andrews said.

"More things are done in color now," he said.

days of exhibits and theater presentations adapted from his novels. Wolfe scholars from several Southern universities will discuss his work.

And those few, who remain from Wolfe's days as a young man in Asheville and Chapel Hill, will reminisce about the man who wrote so intensely about life and who died at age 37 at the height of his career.

"I think one of the functions of this whole celebration is to draw back to Wolfe so much of the attention he deserves," said Prof. Michael Gillam of the University of North Carolina at Asheville.

Wolfe's fame as a novelist began with the publication in 1929, of his first and best known work, "Look Homeward, Angel." He also wrote three other major novels, two of which were published after his death.

"Look Homeward, Angel," written primarily in New York, centered around the Gant family of Altamont, "a strange family of Southerners," as they were identified in a contemporary review by the Asheville Citizen. The main character, Eugene Gant, was a thinly disguised caricature of Wolfe himself.

The other characters, many of whom were displayed in a harsh, unflattering style, were drawn so closely from Wolfe's memories that many in Asheville saw themselves in the characterizations.

'World's largest indoor collegiate rodeo'

Rodriguez to sing for rodeo

Tech's Rodeo Association, (TRA) will sponsor the world's largest indoor collegiate rodeo at Lubbock Municipal Coliseum Oct. 15-18, according to Mike Calfin, TTRA president.

A highlight of the 29th annual event will be country-western music by Johnny Rodriguez. Rodriguez, a native Texan, will perform each night of the rodeo.

"There'll probably be a packed house," said TTRA member Kandy McWhorter, "because every rodeo Johnny Rodriguez has performed at this year has been sold out."

Also appearing at the rodeo will be Walt Garrison, former running-back for the Dallas Cowboys. He will be on hand to sign autographs and greet rodeo fans, Calfin said.

The Hardin - Simmons

University Cowboy Band and "Six White Horses," a girls precision horseback riding team will perform.

Approximately 400 men and women will compete in all National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association approved events, Calfin said.

Men's events will include bull-riding, steer-wrestling, team roping, calf-roping, bareback and saddle-bronc riding. Events for women will include barrel-racing, goat-tying and break-away roping. Tech's rodeo team will be chosen from among TTRA members by Dr. Roy Allen, sponsor.

Last year's team finished second in the Southwest region and sent eight members to the national finals in Bozeman, Mont., Calfin said.

Rodeo stock producer will be Harry Vold and announcer will be Hadley Barrett. Bob Romer and Quail Dobbs will perform as rodeo clowns.

Performances begin at 7:30 nightly. Tickets are $2, general admission, and $3, $4, and $5 for reserved seats. They may be purchased at any western store in Lubbock.
