1000 Cattle To Be Bought In Howard

Buying Program To Be Resumed In This County

Cattle buying, when it is resumed in Howard county, will be pushed to quick completion. Approximately 1000 head will be bought in Howard county. Perhaps twice that many have been listed with the county agent's office, but the figure is by no means accurate and is somewhat inflated. This is principally because many cattle owners have sold stock originally offered to the government when the first cattle buying program was stopped with the announcement that it might not be resumed. Within the past ten days about 300 head of cattle have been brought here from Borden and Glasscock counties and have been shipped.

State Park Board Chairman Asks Big Spring To Acquire 22 Acres

Land Located In Middle Of Scenic Park

Says If Land Is Not Acquired Local Project To Be Completed In 60 Days

D. E. Colp, chairman of the Texas State Parks Board, in a letter addressed to Thompson R. Richardson, superintendent of the CCC camp in Big Spring, requested that efforts be made to acquire the twenty-two acres on top of Scenic mountain as soon as possible. He said that if the land could be acquired the program with "the necessary changes" to complete it by April first, would go forward, otherwise the department will revise the program which will be completed within sixty days.

The letter follows: "United States Department of Interior, National Park Service, State Park Division, Austin, Texas, November 22, 1934. Mr. Thompson R. Richardson, DSP No. 2, Big Spring, Texas. Dear Mr. Richardson: I just returned to the office and in reply to your wire of the 20th, which Colonel Whiteaker read to me over long distance phone yesterday, but I wanted to wait until I returned to the office, hoping to have some other information I had asked for by that time, but it is not here yet.

"We are going to request that you ascertain if possible quickly if Big Spring will acquire the 22 acres on top of the mountain. If so, we will go ahead with our program with the necessary changes to complete it by April first, otherwise we will revise our plans and ask Washington's approval of same to curtail this program to what we can finish it within about sixty days.

"I have been thinking since your wire was received yesterday. I could be in Big Spring Saturday, and thrash this matter out in person but some other matters have come up, that looks like it is going to be necessary for me to go in other direction and I will have to until the latter part of next week. However, it is still possible I may be there Saturday, but hope you will not lose any time in getting a definite answer on the 22 acres because we are certainly going to revamp this program and we want to do it quickly.

"Yours sincerely, "D. E. Colp, "Chairman Texas State Parks Board." The twenty acres alluded to by Mr. Colp is the property of W. P. Edwards of this city, and is located on the northeast portion of the 200 acres belonging to the state park system of Texas. A recent bond election was called by the city commission for the purpose of purchasing this acreage, together with approximately 400 acres, but was defeated by a scant majority of 13 votes.

Mr. Richardson told the Herald Saturday night that he would get in touch with proper authorities early Monday to see what arrangement could be made to get the land requested by Mr. Colp.

Yucca Tree Preserved For Future

Photo by Thurman When Lester Fish of Big Spring was given the giant Yucca tree on the property of the Texas & Pacific Railway, corner of Second and Scurry streets, recently, he had the large plant moved to the home of Albert M. Fisher in Edwards Heights, where it was transplanted. The tree was lifted out of its security by Ollie Williams Trucking crew with the aid of a winch and carried by truck to the Albert Fisher home. The above photo shows the tree after being pulled out of the ground and hoisted into the air, ready to begin its voyage. In the group are, left to right: B. B. ## Fear Reprisal Of Assassins On Delegates

Apprehension Felt For Rumanian And Czech Ministers At Parley

GENEVA, (AP)—Police reinforcements crowded into Geneva Saturday upon receipt of information that terrorists sought to assassinate foreign ministers of Rumania and Czechoslovakia, because they opposed revision of the Versailles Treaty. Hotels and railroad stations were thoroughly combed for the suspects. Uneasiness was the outcome of the recent Marseilles assassinations and more recent Yugoslava accusations against Hungary. The Saar plebiscite continued to be regarded as Europe's principal danger point. Renewed reports came to league authorities concerning alleged escape of Nazi from Hitler's control and their contemplation of a Putsch in the Saar.

"This should be done at least once each year from a sanitary standpoint," said Leeper, "but think how much more pride you will have in your city if every yard, curb and alley were entirely free from weeds and rubbish." He pointed out that it would be impossible for the city to do this and pleaded for "us to have civic pride enough to get our city cleaned up regardless." Boy Scouts will distribute literature to every house and business house in town before the campaign opens. It will be the first clean up campaign Big Spring has had in many months.

Leaders See Best Christmas In 5 Years

WASHINGTON—Business leaders have informed the Department of Commerce that this year will see the best Christmas in 5 years, for the American business man as well as for the public. To begin with, the public will have $300,000,000 more to spend this year than last.

Merchants were hopeful that 40 per cent more would be spent for gifts alone this year than last. The reasons for their optimism were found in improved conditions all along the line. They said they expected this year's Christmas business to raise retail sales to $30,000,000,000 for 1934, approximately $5,000,000,000 more than the total for 1933.

Farm Proves Big Success

Irrigated Truck Garden Pays Well At Kerrville

KERRVILLE (UP)—Three of the farm projects in this section where irrigation was used to thwart the drought have reported success. K. A. Holokamp of the Cypress Creek community, Kerr county, made enough from an irrigated truck garden to pay for a $500 engine used to pump water. Among his most prolific crops were 3,000 pounds of Irish potatoes from a half-acre plot.

At the Kerrville city farm, efficient from the sewer disposal plant was used for irrigation. Two cuttings of hay from a four-acre tract of Sudan grass yielded one and a half tons to the acre, and harvest time for a third cutting is near. A six-acre crop of heggari brought an offer of $50 per acre. One hundred head of sheep fed with crops grown on the place yielded a wool clip of 800 pounds and added 64 lambs to the flock.

Sixteen acres that were part of a huge irrigation project operated by Jim Barnes and Lucas Linn on the banks of the South Llano river in Kibbie county, yielded 7,500 bushels of tomatoes and were expected to yield another 13,000 bushels. Five acres planted in Lima beans had produced 175 bushels which averaged 90 cents per bushel. Green peppers, planted on six acres, had yielded 800 bushels and brought 85 cents. Six acres also given over to green beans had produced 125 bushels which brought $2.35 per bushel.

(Special To The Herald) SILVER CITY, N. M.—The Eastern New Mexico State Teachers' College Greyhounds, coached by Tiny Reed, kept their record clear Saturday when they tied Silver City Teachers College, 7 to 7.

The Greyhounds outgained the Teachers two hundred yards, and penetrated the Mustang ten-yard line five times.

The Greyhound secondary, led by Howard Swartzie of Big Spring, kept the stands in an uproar, and Reed's spectacular end runs were a feature of the game.

Wood, Pony express, carried the ball over for a touchdown and kicked goal.

Chicot County Game Warden Lassoes His Quarry

LAKE VILLAGE, Ark. (UP)—Deer hunting is real sport for Jack Reynolds, Chicot county game warden—he lassoes his quarry.

Whooping like a wild Indian and riding his horse at break-neck speed through brush and over logs following a pack of dogs on a drive, Reynolds swung his rifle to the ground as he passed the camp of some startled hunters and yelled he returned in a few minutes dragging a five-point buck, alive and pawing, at the end of his lasso.

The buck was killed by the hunters. A Little Rock detective sergeant is having the hide, without a bullet hole in it, tanned.

Writer Reviews Tense European Political Mess

BY CONTINENTAL ARGUS

Hitler and the reichswehr have chosen the German generalissimo for the next war. He is a certain Colonel Beck, who makes his headquarters not in the ministry of war but in a big villa on the outskirts of Berlin. He is unapproachable to journalists, and few know who he actually is.

A secret general staff has been formed and is being trained to run the huge German war apparatus. It includes a division for German industry, which has already been completely organized for war production. The directors of all important factories know what they will be called upon to manufacture, and precise orders are filed in the ministry of war. A representative of the general staff officiates in Dr. Schacht's ministry of national economy and has an absolute veto power in all questions of raw-product supply and distribution. The state railways are also under the indirect control of a reichswehr general.

Some months ago this column indicated that a complete file of the personal data of all skilled workmen and specialists was in the ministry of war. Your correspondent learns that a complete set of mobilization orders have been added to it. The regimental assignments for all Sturm Abteilung, Schutz Staffel, "voluntary work service" and policemen have been completed. Their rifles and other equipment have been distributed to the regional armories. The reichswehr will be the officers corps. Insiders estimate the present active strength of Hitler's fully equipped and trained army at about a million.

A big international financier and arms manufacturer expresses the following opinion: "Germany will not wage war unless she can count on the help or neutrality of Poland and Yugoslavia. The raw products and finished munitions which have been stocked up will not last more than a month of intensive fighting. Germany's sole purpose in arming at the moment is to make France afraid of striking into a hornet's nest with a preventive war and to impress Poland and Yugoslavia with the fact that Germany is the coming strong man in Europe. My guess is that that will be true by the law of European ups and downs. How or when, I can't say. I feel sure that there will be no war for the present. If Hitler is still in power in spring there will be real danger."

Silently and efficiently the Nazi "People's Court" has been functioning in Berlin. Without benefit of publicity, some 60 "traitors to the National Socialist ideal" are reported to have been sentenced and executed. Jail sentences up to 15 years have been passed on many more. Most of those tried were Reds.

AUSTRIA—Although the negotiations between the Nazis and the Austrian government have reached no tangible settlement the feeling is growing generally that some arrangement must be made. The present government is divided within itself and conditions are going from bad to worse. Poverty is so acute even among the higher officials that a job is almost a matter of life and death. The fight between the clericals and the Fascist Heimwehr is growing in intensity, and the clericals put a thin veil over their threat to enlist the combined forces of Nazis and Reds against Prince Starhemberg's green-shirted Fascists. Hitler will have a chance to stir up plenty of trouble again when he gets around to it after the Saar plebiscite.

FRANCE—A panicky nervousness is making itself felt in Paris and is resulting in general international tension. Dr. Schacht has, as usual, done his bit. Following a speech in which he accused France of hindering German exports and ability to pay, the entire French press replied that Germany had exported only 40 per cent of her allowed quota during the third quarter of the current year. On the other hand, Germany's imports of raw material had been steadily rising. The country's industrial machinery had obviously been set to work on munitions to the neglect of export commodities.

This blast was helped by the rumor that the French government had instructed the commander of the troops concentrated at the Saar frontier to hold himself ready to go to the assistance of the league commissioners in the Saar in case of a Nazi putch. This scare at-writ of habeas corpus and Sheriff Al Bridwell went to the Bernhardt home and delivered the bride to her husband.

Held In Swindle

While authorities attempted to clear up a purported $54,000 swindle in Chicago, Abraham Karatz, described as a former Minneapolis attorney, was held by police after having been implicated by one of five men taken into custody as an instigator of the alleged plot. (Associated Press Photo)

French foreign policy. There is a strong current in Paris in favor of immediately signing a military treaty with Russia, even at the cost of Poland, and of clearing decks for action. Foreign Minister Laval had the situation well in hand. His resignation sharpens the policy. The entire European press was guessing at Laval's future policy. The circumstances of his appointment as foreign minister obligated him to the Barthelemy program and, according to reports from Paris, had shown no desire to chance any of the points in the program of German encirclement. For the time being he was holding himself out Barthelemy's directives.

The French foreign office was not particularly disturbed by the anti-Italian campaign which has again broken loose in the Yugoslavian papers and threatened Laval's entente. It is obviously a maneuver to threaten France in the Polish manner. Yugoslavia is using her friendship with Germany to get as much out of Italy and France as possible. Belgrade also gets much out of Germany gratis. In event of a crisis, however, there is no doubt in Paris that Francophile and violently anti-German regent Prince Paul and the controlling elements of the country would stick to France, unless, as in Poland's case, France took an unbending attitude toward Belgrade and joined Italy, which too is not likely to happen.

Whether it will be possible to bring Italy and Yugoslavia together permanently cannot be said yet. Mussolini wants the entente, but it's a question whether Laval with gold and skill will be able to overcome Belgrade's plan to keep Serbs, Croats and Slovenes together by "hating Italy." Even if that is not possible peaceful cooperation for the time being is probable. But if necessary Paris would choose the Little Entente rather than Italy, whose unreliability is notorious.

France did not greet the keel-laying of Mussolini's two new 35,000-ton dreadnoughts with much enthusiasm. They will be by far the most powerful naval vessels afloat, and even the largest French battle cruiser "Dunkerque" could not engage one of them with any hope of success. French naval circles are worrying. They doubt whether Franco-Italian friendship will last as long as the effective life of the ships.

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN, (UP)—Texas Democracy, torn by vicious inter-party strife for 30 years, appears to be entering an era of good feeling.

The Bailey feud has been buried in the past; the Ku Klux Klan issue failed to revive in the last campaign; and James E. Ferguson—himself—has sounded the death knell of "Fergusonism."

"A man can spend all his time hating three persons," Former Gov. Jim explained in announcing that he now is at peace with the world and its politicians.

Allred, too, seems disposed to bury past hatchets. "I want everybody's help," he announced. The ties he trumped upon during his campaign are ceasing to ache.

Without any direct word but by putting two and two together, the state capital has figured out that R. B. Anderson is going to be the king-pin in a brain trust that will push Allred policies.

Albert Hooper is out and about after a tonsillectomy operation. As first assistant he has shouldered the responsibilities of the attorney general's office since mid-summer when Allred took the stump in his successful campaign for governor.

Unless a sales tax can muster two thirds vote in both the house and senate of the new legislature, Texas will not have a sales tax for at least two years.

Rice Owls Removed From List Of Undeclared STEERS TAKE BADGERS

Horned Frogs Rip Gaping Holes

What a time that McCamey game was! Everybody played but the coaches. Along toward the latter part of the game Bristow did everything he could to prevent his boys from scoring any more. He sent a sub in with instructions to talk so as to draw a fifteen yard penalty, and even asked the headlinesman to tell his quarterback to quit trying to score.

Bristow, Gentry and Capt. Bob Flowers left for El Paso Friday night to do some scouting Saturday. That made their second trip to the Border City. They should have a pretty good line on the teams in that section before long.

The Colorado Wolves should be an easy set-up. McCamey took them 21 to 0 and Sweetwater 46 to 0.

The forward pass is a spectacular and fairly successful way of gaining yards on a football field, but Southwest Conference teams still depend chiefly upon the old-fashioned ground game for their touchdowns. Of 108 touchdowns made by the seven conference eleven (eliminating the running back of intercepted passes, kick-offs, punts and blocked kicks) 73 of the markers have been scored on the ground and 33 in the air. The Frogs, with 12 touchdowns from passes, led the field in this particular phase of scoring.

Darrell Lester, flashy Frog pivot man, is coming in for a lot of consideration as all-American timber. Allen Gould, AP sports writer, lists him as one of the outstanding candidates. And the N.E.A. syndicate service has asked for his picture, stating that he is under serious consideration for the mythical eleven.

The Horned Frog football squad of 1935 will have more than 20 let-terms on it. Without knowing exactly who will let this season, it is still safe to predict about 20 returning lettermen for 1935—the largest number a T.C.U. squad ever had. No one can say just how many freshman players will stay in school and be eligible for 1935, but there should be enough of them and remaining squadmen to run the total on the squad up to around 45.

Ben Daniels expects to start his Devil basketball team to working-out some time this week.

Coach Farris Bass' Junior High Bronco team may play the Midland or Marfa junior teams before long.

In Blondy Cross "Top O' Morn Stuff" in the San Angelo Morning News we note where Pat Murphy, Abilene, George Brown of Big Spring, Jim Cantrill of Colorado, Ed. B. Keyes of San Angelo and Arthur (Tonto) Coleman of San Angelo are mentioned as possible successors to the colorful Obie Bristow.

Here are a few interesting facts concerning the Michigan State Spartans, whom the Texas Aggies will play Dec. 8 at San Antonio in their season's closing game. The Spartans' cross country team won the national championship recently for the second straight year over a six mile course. Both Charles W. Bachman, Spartan football coach, and Tom King, his chief assistant, are graduates from Notre Dame and hold law degrees. The Spartan squad is drawn from six states and its schedule this year shows games with teams from six different states. Three of their opponents, Kansas University, Manhattan college and the Texas Aggies, made their initial appearance on the Spartan schedule this year.

Coach John Reid will lose little time in getting his Texas Aggie cagers started in competition once the football situation is packed away for another year. While the Aggie griders are banqueting in Houston as guests of the Houston A. & M. club Monday, Dec. 10, Coach Reid will have his basketball team at Marquette for a tilt with the Sam Houston S. T. C. basketballs. The game will dedicate a new gym in the Leon county town. Coach Reid also is arranging for another game or week to be played during that week, one of which probably will be

HOUSTON, (AP) — The thrice beaten Texas Christian University team struck quickly Saturday, then remained unyielding in the teeth of terrific pounding and beat the Rice Owls, 7 to 2, to remove them from the list of the nation's undefeated.

The Frogs tore gaping holes in the right side of the Rice line and marched 80 yards to a touchdown the first time they had the ball. After that, the game belonged to Rice.

Lawrence dropped back to pass, and almost tackled, managed to make a short toss to Captain Coleman who was standing behind the line. The Frog quarterback ran 10 yards and Mantion kicked goal for the extra point.

Rice would have been blanked but for the Frogs generosity in the fourth period. McCauley punted to the Christian one yard line, and Coleman called for an intentional safety rather than risk the punt.

Indian Off To Rose Bowl

Thornhill's Team Defeats Golden Bears, 9 To 7 Saturday

MEMORIAL STADIUM, California University—Tiny Thornhill's hard-charging Stanford Indians cleared the way for their second trip to the Rose Bowl with a close 9-7 victory over the Golden Bears from California University Saturday.

A great team rose up before the home folks to hold the Red Skins from Stanford for three periods, but the Indians capitalized on several Bear errors to push over a touchdown and kick a field goal.

The California secondary out-charged the invaders during the afternoon, especially during the first half when they accounted for three first downs to the Indians' one, but could not penetrate the Braves goal line until the final minutes of play.

Missouri Wins Moral Victory

LINCOLN—The Missouri Tigers won a moral victory over the over-confident Nebraska eleven Saturday although coming out on the short end of a 13-6 score.

Doped to lose by at least 30 points, the scrappy Tigers rose and smacked the Cornhuskers around and almost scored the biggest upset in the Missouri Valley in years.

Caride's men fought the Huskers tooth and nail but superior strength told the tale and the Big Six champions were able to come out on top.

El Paso High Wins District Four Title

(Special to The Herald) EL PASO—El Paso high school won the undisputed championship of District 4 in the State Interscholastic league race here Saturday by defeating Austin high of El Paso, 18 to 2.

Kenneth Heineman and Armando Cisneros scored 2 El Paso touchdowns on line plunges after continued marches half the length of the field and Heineman passed to Davis, reserve back, for 13 yards and the other El Paso touchdown.

Austin was given a safety in the second quarter when Heineman was downed back of his goal line after he had received a punt.

Wilson Defeats Jimmie Murphy

Benny Wilson, tough Abilene wrestler, proved too much for Jimmie Murphy Friday night and defeated the Irishman with two straight falls.

Wilson took the first in eleven minutes with a hammer lock and the second in three and one-half minutes with a short arm scissors. King Kong Kodrick took a sea-saw battle from Blondy Chrane with two out of three falls.

The "little giant" took the first in ten minutes with a body slam, but Chrane applied a top body pin in 19 minutes to win the second fall.

Kodrick won the match after thirty minutes of furious grappling with a body slam and top body pin.

two goals from placement was all that saved them from a shutout when they ran into the stiff forward wall of the invaders.

Locals Breeze Thru Enemy 46-13

The Big Spring Steers practically cinched the 1934 District 3 grid crown Friday afternoon by rolling over a small and weak McCamey Badger team, 46 to 13.

Coaches Bristow, Brown and Moffett used every sub they had and even replaced Neel during the third quarter with Jimmy Ford, midget back from Ben Daniels' Jr. Devil team.

In spite of the fact that McCamey managed to put over two touchdowns, the Herd was never pushed and managed to check the invaders almost at will.

The McCamey forwards proved a little stubborn at times against the Steers' subs, but they seldom stopped the locals. The Big Springers, from end to end including all the backs, had an easy time and handled their positions well.

The visitors gained a little ground in the latter part of the game when a passing combination, Trodgen to Harding, clicked a few times.

Badger Center Injured On the second play of the game, Herman Rogers, Badger center, was taken out with a badly injured knee.

Shortly thereafter the locals tallied when Cordill shook loose on the Badger thirty-eight and made a beautiful weaving run to pay territory. His first try for point failed, but the play was called good.

McCamey's left half, L. K. Trodgen, made a beautiful punt along toward the latter part of the first period. He skipped back to pass but was boxed in and got off a punt that was good for 72 yards, rolling out on the Steer nine yard tripe.

As the second quarter opened the Steer's quickly drove to the McCamey five yard line and Hure went off left tackle to score. Cordill failed to convert.

Two or three minutes later Neel took the oval back to the enemy five. He had good interference on the run. On his next attempt Neel went to the one marker on a short end run. Hure fumbled a bad pass from center but recovered. Neel made a thrust at the left side of the line but failed to gain. Hure took the leather and scored over center. Neel failed to kick point, and went out of the game in favor of Jimmie Ford, young junior player, who played a good game all of the time he was in.

Before Bristow could rush his substitutes back into the game, the Badgers scored early in the third frame. Trodgen shot a pass to H. Green who was downed on the Big Spring fourteen by Ford. Green took another pass but fumbled on the goal line, recovering. Beichel failed to gain on his first at-tempt at the line, but smashed thru on the second to score. Trodgen passed to H. Green for the point.

Start Steady Drive Immediately afterward the Bovines started a steady drive down the field that resulted in another touchdown. Near the goal line, Hare lateraled to Cordill who went across, but the play was called back. Hare banged through center for another tally and Cordill converted.

Big Spring got touchdown minded as the fourth period opened and scored on the third play. Neel, with splendid blocking by Hare, galloped around left end and down the sideline to score from his own forty-three. It was a fifty-six yard run. Cordill added point.

A few plays later Cordill cut back over tackle from the Badger 37 and ran for a touchdown but the play was called back. From the two goals from placement was all that saved them from a shutout when they ran into the stiff forward wall of the invaders.

The remains of a great team took a six point lead for three periods but could not stand the fourth period rushes of the Wild-cats.

Flowers Scores On Pass A half dozen plays later Neel placed a nice aerial to B. Flowers, who marked up another six points. Neel's try for point was no good.

Just before the final gun the Badgers started an air attack that worked long enough to get a touchdown. H. Green took a pass from Trodgen near the Steer goal line and Green got across.

An official error cost Big Spring one touchdown. Cordill slipped across the goal line but the referee was a little too quick on the whistle.

Michigan Has More Worries

Texas Aggies At Fast Pace

Prepare For Turkey Day Clash With The Longhorns

COLLEGE STATION (Sp.)—Priming themselves for their most important game of the season traditionally, the Texas Aggies will hit a heavy pace in practice Monday and Tuesday as final preparation for their Turkey Day battle at Austin with the University of Texas Longhorns. To many Aggie fans, a victory over the Longhorns stamps the season a success, no matter what the result of the other games during the season might be.

As a result of the historical background of the Aggie-Texas clash, which shows thirty-nine Cadet-Steer battles behind it; more than 20,000 spectators, the state's largest football crowd of the year, are expected to attend. Tickets in the Aggie section will be on sale here until Wednesday, although mail applications cannot be handled after Monday, according to E. W. Hooker, Aggie athletic council secretary.

For the Aggie cadet corps, the game will be a corps trip. The corps, however, will not parade through the business section of Austin the morning of the game as was originally planned. In final "twelfth man" preparations, the Aggie seniors will hold their traditional "elephant walk" Wednesday afternoon and the entire student body will follow this that night with the annual bonfire yell practice which always precedes an Aggie-Texas football game.

A large number of Aggie fans are expected to make their trek Austinward as early this year in order to attend the Aggie and Longhorn freshman game Wednesday.

With eleven days for rest and practice from the Rice game until the Texas tilt, the Aggies expect to be at their best form of the season and at virtually full strength for the Steers. Only two players, Wilbert Randow and Bob Connelley, can be numbered on the injury roster as being definitely out of the lineup for the game. Randow, a back, hasn't played since early October, and Connelley, an end, since the Arkansas tilt the first week in November.

The Aggies will set out for the game site Wednesday but will stop en route at Taylor for a workout and a night's lodging.

Long, hard drills have served somewhat to improve the Aggie offensive which has scored only three touchdowns and a field goal in five conference battles to date. Particular attention has been paid to forward passing, not only to increase the amount of yardage the Cadets can gain but also to prevent a recurrence of the pass interceptions and runs of more than 50 yards with which the A&I Javelinas, Centenary Gentlemen and Rice Owls scored touchdowns against the Aggies. Several maneuvers also have featured the defensive work as a number of touchdowns, not to mention other long gains, have been scored against the Aggies by passes this year.

Francis Schmidt's Team Scores At Will Against Invading Iowans

COLUMBUS—The charges of Francis Schmidt scored at will against the invading Iowa eleven Saturday and reassured their followers of one of the strongest teams in Ohio State's history when they defeated the visitors by the count of 40-7.

Phases played the larger part of the Buckeye's attack and the invaders failed almost completely to stop the great attack of the Ohioans.

The ancient Statue of Liberty play accounted for one of the Buckeye's touchdowns.

The Ohioans, with Saturday's forty points, have scored a total of 297 points, holding their opponents to 34.

A defeat by a homecoming Illinois eleven is the only blot on their record this season.

Notre Dame Rises To Great Heights Before 80,000 Fans

YANKEE STADIUM, New York—Before 80,000 roaring fans, the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame rose to extraordinary heights Saturday to hand the Cadets from the Hudson their second defeat of the season, 12-6.

The lads from South Bend smothered Texas Jack Buckler to stop the mainstay of the Army ground gaining department.

The Indians tallied midway of the initial quarter, set back to watch the Soldiers tie the count, and then opened up again with a great aerial attack to down the Davidsonmen.

Passes accounted for all three touchdowns of the afternoon, Bill Shakespeare zipping the first into the hands of a Notre Dame wingman and Pliney doing the tossing for the Mick's second counter.

Buckler was not entirely stopped during the afternoon, for he faded back during the second quarter and waited for an Army end to clear himself, then flipped the pigskin into his arms for the Cadet's lone counter.

Colorado Wolves Here Thanksgiving

The Steers will wind up their district grid campaign Thanksgiving when they entertain the Colorado Wolves here.

Colorado, by far the weakest team in the sector, should prove nothing more than a good workout.

The other Turkey Day bout will be between the San Angelo Bobcats and Sweetwater Mustangs at Sweetwater.

The Concho team will be a good favorite to wind up in second place in the district.

FEDERAL MEAT CANNERY HERE TO RESUME OPERATIONS

Plant To Get Allotment Of Drought Cows

Crain Pleads For More Funds With Which To Buy Additional Stock

Resumption of operation of the federal meat cannery here was announced Saturday by County Administrator R. H. McNew.

Production from the cannery ceased here more than a week ago when the supply of government bought cattle was exhausted and no more were available.

McNew said that between 1,000 and 1,500 head of cattle will be shipped here or bought within the county and assigned to the plant as a November allotment.

This will be sufficient to run the plant until early December when operations will again halt unless more cattle are shipped in to be processed. Production will be started soon after cattle are received.

In less than four months of activity, the plant here processed more than 1,250,000 cans of meat with a loss amounting to far under 1 per cent.

Bulk of the output is stored here. Crews are still engaged in labeling the cans. About 80,000 cans have been distributed in this immediate district.

Announcement that all meat canned in local canning plants of the Texas Relief Commission will be distributed as a non-priced commodity to relief roll families has been made by E. A. Baugh, assistant director of the commission.

The new order was issued as a means of moving canned meat from the local canning plants. Under previous regulations, local canned meat was priced. On the other hand, meat from the 21 government canneries in Texas has been distributed unpriced. Relief clients naturally took the unpriced commodity.

The Big Spring plant is a federal cannery and has turned out an unpriced product.

AUSTIN—C. Z. Crain, head of the commodities distribution department of the Texas Relief Commission, went to Washington last week to ask federal relief officials for funds and an additional allotment of cattle for carrying on the government beef canning program in Texas during December.

"We need $2,000,000 to finance the program and between 50,000 and 75,000 head of cattle to keep our plants going through the last month of the year," Crain said.

He said he would ask federal officials to ship cattle remaining in the state from the government buying program to state canning plants rather than have them diverted to other states.

Crain declared cattle in the western part of the state are in a serious condition and he predicted that from 50 to 60 per cent of the 1,500,000 head in the region from the northern Panhandle to the Rio Grande would be lost if they are not shipped out of the area. He said he would recommend another emergency buying program in the area to authorities of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Football may be a young man's game on the field, but on the sidelines, in the coaches' seat, the old men seem to be doing very well. Leading the game of football into its wildest passing era are Bob Zuppke, Illinois; Pop Warner, Temple; Andy Kerr, Colgate; and Jock Sutherland, Pitt.

Interscholastic League Offers Wide Variety Of School Contests

The Interscholastic League of this county offers the schools this year a wide variety of contests, according to Walker Bailey, recently elected Director General of the organization for the current school year.

"No other extra-curricular activity," he said, "engages the interest and stimulates endeavor along helpful lines more than the contests which are scheduled for the county meets. Here we have an activity for practically every child. There is opportunity for participation in fifteen different fields, both athletic and literary, ranging from the third grade on up to the last year in high school.

Twenty-Eighth Annual Christmas Seal Campaign To Begin Dec. 2nd

As the opening feature of the twenty-eighth annual Christmas Seal campaign and in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning of the sanatorium movement in the United States, the National Tuberculosis association has arranged a coast-to-coast broadcast Sunday, December 2, from 10 to 10:30 p. m. (E. S. T.).

Dr. Francis B. Trudeau, son of the late Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, "Father of the Sanatorium Movement," will be the speaker on the program. He will present the Christmas Seal message for the 2,000 affiliated tuberculosis associations throughout the country. The campaign is conducted between Thanksgiving Day and Christmas and the funds obtained by the sale of the seals at a penny each finance a program of free nursing, serving clinics, rehabilitation, education, tuberculosis testing of children, x-rays, social and medical research.

Both of the nation's radio favorites, the golden-voiced Jessica Dragonetti and Larry Ross, have volunteered their services as their contribution to the campaign, and will sing a duet as the feature event of the program. The other stars who are contributing their talents are Rosario Bourdon, noted conductor; Frank Banta and Milton Rettenberg, pianists; and Jacques Malkin and his Quintessence Ensemble. The ensemble which is unique in the musical field, is being heard this season for the first time in America. The artists in this unusual group play instruments of the 16th and 17th centuries, some of which never have been heard previously in this country.

Julius Schuirman plays the desous de viole, a violin with six strings; Youry Blatin plays the viola da gamba, an instrument similar to a cello, but with twelve strings; Leo Small plays a two-manual harpsichord; Benjamin Feinblom plays the bass de viole, an instrument of three strings midway between the cello and the double bass; and Jacques Malkin, the director of the group, plays the fourteen stringed viola de'amour.

The National Broadcasting company, as its contribution to the campaign, has arranged for a WJZ network and will put the program on the air from the famous 8-H studio in the R.C.A. building, New York City, which is the largest broadcasting studio in the world.

Your fee before December 15, 1934, as that is the closing date for payment of the basketball fee. See that your school is eligible to participate in the coming tournament by paying your fee before it is too late. Also the closing date for payment of the interscholastic league fee is January 15, 1935.

Old Timers To Mingle With Youngsters

AUSTIN, (SpL)—Grey-headed grand dads who used the push and pull system of football forty years ago will mingle with the spry youngsters of the 1934 team on Thanksgiving Day here as the entire University of Texas combines efforts to hold one of the most colorful Homecoming Days in many years.

The dashing halfback of 1914 will go to the game to see if the loose-hipped 1934 star can compare with his own performance a score of years ago; the star guard of '18 will tell his wife or grandson that the guards of today do not play the rugged game that he did in days gone by; and for one more day stars of yesterday and today will spin their yarns and review their hardest games.

To insure a great homecoming crowd of exes and former gridiron heroes the athletic council has taken several steps. Special invitations have been sent to the group of more than 1000 "T" men who have worn the Orange and White of Texas on the field of sports combat down through the years.

Besides special meetings and the football game there is included in the program of the day a reunion dinner to be held at the University commons at 5:30 on the afternoon after the game. At this dinner the 1914 team will be the guests of honor and Coach Jack Chevigny, now Longhorn coach, will be presented to all the old timers.

Numerous special attractions are being planned by the various committees in charge of the entire home-coming day program, and from university authorities a welcome goes out to all ex-students over the state.

When it's "round-up time in Texas"—an old familiar song sung by cowboys of the plains, long before the debut of the modern hotel. Then their "round-ups" were held in the great open spaces. The old "round-up" continues today as it did then, however there is another kind of "round-up" now which is equally familiar to cowmen, the "get-together" which they stage at various Hilton Hotels. Most any day you can see these pioneers of the plains hobnobbing with one another, talking over old times in the coffee shops and lobbies of our hotels. ### Wine At White House Recalls Lavish State Dinners Of Years Long Past

By BESS FURMAN
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Wine is coming back again to the 16 Bacchus and bacchante figuring of the famed mirrored centerpiece which has reflected a century and a quarter of White House state dinners.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has decreed prohibition repeal in official social standing at the White House with the serving of light American wines at state dinners this season.

Her ruling of "not more than two wine glasses" at each plate may seem somewhat scanty to the gilded-bronze figures of Bacchus and bacchantes, for they've seen, reflected in mirror-depths, six wine glasses in a row.

Purchased by Monroe
The phrase "and champagne with every course" usually was added to descriptions of these six-glass state dinners. And many's the time those old figurines have stood there patiently, holding up small bouquets of flowers, through a 29 course dinner.

Since that centerpiece, titled a "surround de table" in the old bill of lading, was purchased in Paris by Monroe in 1817, part of a huge shipment refurbishing the White House after the British burning, 27 Presidents and their guests have gathered in state dinners.

Crossing the ocean with the centerpiece, made up in the wine motif with garlands of fruits and vines as well as the figurines, was a shipment of 39 cases containing 1,200 bottles of champagne and burgundy for President Monroe.

Jefferson Lavish Host
But Monroe's consignments were modest compared to the earlier ones of Jefferson, who showed signs in the White House of that lavish hospitality which caused him in his old age to be "eaten out of house and home."

Records show that Jefferson spent $10,855 in his eight years as President for wines purchased in Spain, Portugal, Italy, Germany, Hungary, and France.

And part of the fame of Dolly Madison as hostess rested on the rare old wines she served. Of this administration, one commentator wrote: "Quality of the wine seems to form the chief topic after the removal of the cloth and during the dessert."

For years and years, following Monroe, wine went along with New Year's receptions, now ruled out altogether, and with all the spectacular executive functions, levees, receptions, balls.

Ball At Season's End
Essential business, too, had its social touch. John Quincy Adams, receiving a committee of mail contractors, served cake and wine and the fitting toast was: "Success to you all through highways and byways."

"A most magnificent bride's cake and sparkling champagne" awaited the guests at the wedding reception for the second Mrs. Tyler and a bail for 2,000 closed the Tylers' social season, causing one guest to write: "It is said this entertainment cost the President near two thousand dollars. Wine flowed like water. When will Washington see the like again?"

Six wine glasses, 29 courses, were said to be the custom in the Grant administration, when, one writer recorded: "The average state dinner cost about $700. Special dinners to distinguished visitors cost twice that sum. The dinner to Prince Arthur cost $1500 without including wine and other beverages."

Claimed For Temperance
However, the Grants were also claimed as temperance trail blazers by the woman crusaders in that cause, one of them recording: "General Grant, in traveling around the world, was an abstainer at banquets of kings and nobility; also Mrs. Grant, when mistress of the White House, banished intoxicants on New Year's day, not only from her own table, but thru personal influence, largely from the cabinet circle."

Next came the Hayes administration with Frances E. Willard and her W.C.T.U. scoring their greatest White House triumph, with a First Lady who "not only turned her glass upside down, but also allowed no alcoholic liquor to be served at White House social functions or diplomatic dinners."

Unveiling a life-sized portrait of Mrs. Lucy Webb Hayes presented by the W. C. T. U. to the White House in 1881, and still in the gallery of Presidents' wives there, Miss Willard said: "Think of what it means to the total abstinence cause when the First Lady of the republic, instead of cherishing intoxicating liquors as an emblem of hospitality, kindness and good will, banishes them from cellar, sideboard and table as enemy to her home and the guests to whom she would do honor."

But by Harrison's time, it was "wine like water" at state dinners once again and a bowl well filled with champagne punch at all receptions. Southerners got their whisky-and-sodas; total abstainers turned down their glasses. Teddy Roosevelt grew the famous mini-bell the cause of jeeps. Guests clustered close around the Taft and Wilson punch bowl.

Then along came the World war, prohibition — and 16 Bacchus and

NEGRO HELD FOR DOUBLE SLAYING

Phillip Jones, 25-year-old negro, was held under heavy guard in jail at Richmond, Va., after authorities announced he was confessed to the slaying of two young girls of Clifton Forge, Va., Alice and Ellen Hill. With Jones is shown his wife. Their tenant home was burned to the ground as racial feeling ran high in Clifton Forge. (Associated Press Photo) either the right or left pocket—and take their choice—is reported here to be a very serious one.

Immediate business stimulation from within or higher taxes to pay for increased public works have been laid down as the alternatives.

This hasn't made the headlines but you can find quotes to back it up if you will read recent speeches by Donald Richberg and Jim Farley closely.

Ratios—
 A hurry and scurry is quietly on in the veterans administration and the federal relief administration to round up some estimates of the number of distressfully needy World War veterans. Such statistics are going to have a vital bearing on the forthcoming cash bonus fight but up-to-date figures are lacking.

Back in the spring of 1932 the house ways and means committee got the last official dope on this subject. Congress at that time primarily was trying to learn whether the 50% bonus "loans" granted in February 1931 had stimulated business through a tossing of any noticeable amount of money into trade channels.

Estimates were then made of the relative number of employed and unemployed veterans who took their 50% together with what they did with the money. Census bureau data and field inquiries of the veterans' administration were used. The table closest averaging all data follows:

	Per cent of total	Number	Amount of loans obtained
Unemployed:
Distressing circumstances	20	400,000	$109,587,065
Non-distressing circumstances	5	100,000	40,221,706
Total unemployed	25	500,000	$301,108,831
Employed:
Money spent for—
Personal and family needs	40	800,000	$321,774,130
Investments and savings deposits	20	400,000	160,387,065
Purchase of autos (purpose undetermined)	8	160,000	75,452,826
Expenditures in no practical benefits	7	140,000	56,310,472
Total employed	75	1,500,000	$603,326,493
Grand total	100	2,000,000	$904,435,325

The survey of 1931 concluded: "This study reveals that a large portion of the funds obtained were used by the veterans to liquidate indebtedness previously incurred rather than placed in trade channels which would stimulate business. This fact, it is believed, may be considered as one of the primary reasons why the release of such funds did not stimulate business activities to the degree which might have been reasonably expected."

Since 1931 another 1,500,000 veterans have cashed their bonuses to the limit, leaving only about half a million still holding out for full settlement in 1945.

Also, three years ago the government estimated the unemployment ratio of the national male age group 20 to 64—which would include virtually all ex-service men—at 17.7 per cent. It is slightly higher today.

Goat—
 An inevitable aftermath of any election is for the losers to start shouting for the lifeblood of various of their erstwhile leaders.

Up in Massachusetts the Republicans are blaming a large measure of their defeat on National Committeeman John Richardson. They say he must go before the GOP can ever hope to come back in the Bay State. And here's the secret. They aren't really shooting at Richardson at all. They're aiming at Herbert Hoover—who, it would seem, already has had his share of knocks. Richardson was hand-picked by Mr. Hoover as Massachusetts committeeman in 1932 over William M. Butler, the Coolidge holdover, and the Bay Staters insist the Hoover spectre hung heavy over the last campaign.

Works—
 Federal Housing administration scouts are bringing back one hopeful report. "Those who have been on the road recently say the big insurance companies are having a lot of the property on which they hold paper—and that runs into big figures—repaired and modernized."

The answer would seem to be that the potential new building operations under FHA auspices threaten to undermine values of existing insurance company property holdings. This doesn't matter FHA mad as all. They're only concerned in getting the building industry started and if a threat works as well as a promise its okay by them.

Fleas—
 Kingfish Huey Long, who wants to extend his Louisiana empire to embrace the whole United States, claims he is truly thankful for his political enemies. When he thinks of them he says he is reminded of the story about the merciful backwoodsmen who got worried about the number of fleas on their houn' dogs and very painstakingly eradicated the little nippers. "And do you know," says Huey, "after that those dogs just weren't any good. All they wanted to do was curl up and sleep in the sun. That's the way with me. If I got all the political fleas off me, I wouldn't be worth a damn."

Notes—
 John J. O'Connor of New York holds a strategic place in the Speakership fight—he may be in a position to throw it to Byrns or Rayburn in exchange for house leadership. Tugwell and Dr. Copeland square off for a scrap over the drug bill. Revenue from sugar falls off while the consumer pays more. The state department is wary of complications between the League of Nations and Gran Chaco belligerents. Nation-wide telephone probe portends federal regulation of rates.

NEW YORK
 By JAMES McMULLIN

Frozen—
 Three important corporations have recently been successful in floating security issues direct to investors without benefit of investment bankers or Securities Act registration. The situation has the investment houses up in the stratosphere.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was the outstanding example of departure from established channels. This corporation has arranged to meet a $90,000,000 debenture maturity with $45,000,000 in short-term bank loans, $8,000,000 in cash and $37,000,000 in new debentures marketed privately to less than 25 investing institutions—mostly insurance companies. The Securities and Exchange commission has ruled that a sale restricted to less than 25 investors is not a public offering—therefore is not subject to Securities Act requirements.

This is by far the largest piece of private financing yet arranged. Mr. Walter Teagle's regret that "a public offering involving registration could not be considered" is taken at its face value. The law requires audit to qualify for registration—which could not have been completed in time to meet the refunding date.

Standard of New Jersey—in common with most large corporations—prefers a wide distribution for its securities rather than a limited number of powerful investors but in this case it couldn't be arranged without more trouble than it was worth.

The other two offenders against investment bankers' sensibilities were Consolidated Gas of Baltimore—which sold $15,000,000 in refunding mortgage bonds direct to large investors—and Consumers Power, which sold $5,000,000. Both these corporations have a high credit rating and found it easy to interest a few subscribers for large amounts.

Investment firms rate no commissions on deals like these and the freezing of potential income hits them where it hurts. Their answer will be to press for amplification of legal registration requirements. They will stress the point that the public is debarred from participating in really good issues while being invited within the law to participate in untested promotions.

All this points to drastic amendment of the Securities Act. The SEC is known to be favorable. Note that $45,000,000 bank loan item in Standard of New Jersey's arrangement. Such commitments would never have been made if the company hadn't felt that public financing will be possible on much easier terms before the loans expire.

Weight—
 W. Averell Harriman—Chairman of the Union Pacific board of directors and ex-head of New York State's Blue Eagle set-up—swings a lot more weight in the revised NRA than most people realize. You haven't heard much about him lately—but you will. His job as NRA administrative officer gives him plenty of power backstage. Insiders say he's more important than all of Clay Williams' Industrial Recovery Board put together.

The informed do not rate Harriman a heavy-weight—but the prestige of his office plus his natural conservatism are counted on to steer the new NRA on a course which big industry will approve.

Steel—
 The steel industry's decision to preserve its code even if NRA does a fadenist testifies to the effectiveness of government-inspired self-regulation. The code has given the steel makers a rest from their worst nightmares—cut-throat competition. All the Iron and Steel Institute pre-code meetings combined never accomplished one-tenth as much.

The informed credit chairman Myron Taylor of U. S. Steel with having done much to sell the code to his associates. He's also rated unusually liberal in labor relations. He doesn't exactly see eye to eye with the Federation of Labor—but his enlightened attitude contrasts sharply with that of the Carnegies and Fricks in the past.

The fact that the steel industry has been able to climb back almost to 30% of capacity without benefit of rail and motor orders is attributed chiefly by New York to stable price conditions fostered by the code. Experts predict a gain to 40% within two months.

Telephone—
 The informed remark that Walter Gifford was quite correct in stating that American Telephone and Telegraph is not afraid of a federal inquiry. The corporation isn't pleased at investigation prospects but "fear" would be much too strong a word to describe its reactions. Lower rates would be annoying but not progress.

Paul A. Walker of the Federal Communications Commission is the biggest mosquito in A. T. & T.'s mush. It's understood he considers all utilities guilty until proved innocent. He will need—and ask for—a large congressional appropriation for the telephone inquiry—perhaps as much as $750,000.

State—
 New York state Democrats aren't as happy as they might be despite their control of both branches of the legislature. Reapportionment has turned out a headache instead of a delight.

On a population basis Manhattan should lose representation. That may be O. K. with Jim Farley but Tammany doesn't care for it. A bitter wrangle is in prospect while Republicans chortle.

But there's one thing you can bank on. The 17th State senatorial district will be altered out of recognition. It elected a Republican—Joe Baldwin—three weeks ago in the heart of Manhattan and all factions of the Democracy agree that such lese-majeste must not be permitted again.

Sidelights—
 Watch new Congressman Vito Marcantonio—Mayor LaGuardia's protégé from his old district. He's due to be active in the progressive bloc. New York harbor is filled with barges of scrap iron destined for Japan. Skeptics wonder whether it will come back in the form of bombs.

And one of them was black.

NICODEMUS AND THE LITTLE BLACK PIG One of the illustrations from Inez Hogan's "Nicodemus and the Little Black Pig." Miss Hogan is the author as well as the illustrator of this charming addition to her justly famous "Nicodemus" books.

Winter Brings New Children's Book With Charming Stories

No matter what adults think about the kind of books present day writers turn out for them, there is no occasion for children to complain. Every year the children's books grow more and more attractive and appealing. Every year adds to the number of classics for future generations to enjoy.

Every year does not have to be enough to read to enjoy turning the pages of his own book. Many stories are told almost entirely by pictures, with the aid of just a few words to carry on the intervals of the story.

NICODEMUS AND THE LITTLE BLACK PIG

By Inez Hogan (E. P. Dutton and Co.) This story for all lovers of pictures (no age limit) is the third of the Nicodemus series. There may be some Big Spring children who know them—Nicodemus and the Hound Dog; Nicodemus and his Little Sister.

Nicodemus is a little darky—prototype of Snowball, in Mrs. Thomas's stories, except that he is a much younger pickaninny. And does he have experiences? In this story he has discovered a black piglet in a white litter. He and the little pig have such a class color relationship that he tries to steal the pig.

Every page carries the story onward by means of pictures. The author draws the pictures and tells the stories, making the illustrations and print dovetail perfectly.

What especially pleases mamas and papas and aunts and uncles is that Nicodemus is a series. It solves gift-giving so nicely. The books are inexpensive and one can add to the collection every year or at birthday parties, certain as selecting a type of book with which the child is familiar and sure to enjoy.

"ROBIN ON THE MOUNTAIN"

By Charlie May Simon (E. P. Dutton and Co.) Robin is a story for boys and girls who are old enough to read their own stories.

The scene of the story is laid in the Ozarks—a mountainous region that seems to be coming into its own in literature. It is a colorful place and offers countless opportunities for romantic stories. One would expect something entertaining from an author who knows the Ozarks, and the author does; she is a native.

Poseum Kingdom is the name of the town and Robin's sisters are named America and Thankful. They fight fire, flood and find a homestead. They have animals for friends—in short they live on paper the exciting adventures of life that children do in their imaginations.

The book is written for boys and girls from 8 to 11 years. It can be read to precocious youngsters under eight. It is a tale that adults themselves will even read through for their own entertainment.

"FRONTIER TIMES"

December This number opens with an interesting account of Spanish attempts to civilize Texas Indians, written by Marjorie Rogers. Another article deals with memories of Mrs. Ruth Clarinda Jett who collaborated with her son, T. J. She tells of Texas from the year 1842 up to the time of the Civil War.

More about Big Foot Wallace is included in an account of his hand to hand fight by J. C. Duval. Several stories of the pioneer ranchers in Texas and the Southwest add variety to Indian fighters' tales.

Mr. Hunter makes an interesting announcement on his editorial page. He announces that he has sold the Bandera New Era, of

Recreation School To Be Held Here

Representatives From Rural Communities Already Registering

A rural recreation school is being sponsored by the County Home Demonstration council Friday, November 30, and Saturday, December 1. There are no charges. Three meetings a day are being planned 10 a. m., 2 p. m., and 7 p. m. All meetings at the Big Spring High school auditorium.

The program will consist of relay games, grand marches, sing-songs, folk games, active games, quiet games, charades, and entertainment for large or community picnics.

The council invites the P. T. A.'s, the churches, schools and Home Demonstration clubs of each community in Howard county to send four representatives who can attend all six meetings. The delegates will be responsible for carrying these programs to their respective communities and to conduct recreation in their communities when requested by the group they represent.

The leaders of the school will be two couples, husbands and wives, from McLennan county, where Miss Parr worked before coming west. They are Mr. and Mrs. Straus and Mr. and Mrs. Humberston. They will arrive Wednesday afternoon and be Miss Parr's guests.

The following have already registered for the school: Lomax: Mrs. A. J. Stallings, chairman of the council in 1934. Miss Verna Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Powell.

Sells Story Series Mrs. T. C. Thomas Draws On Childhood For Clever Darky Sketches

Local Writer

Mrs. Theo C. Thomas, well-known wife of one of Big Spring well known "newspaper" editors, has sold a series of short stories to Newteller Story Magazine, a new magazine just being launched by the R. and R. Publishing house at Portland, Oregon. Her pen name is Jessie C. Thomas.

Other Big Spring writers have sold fiction, but Mrs. Thomas is the first resident to sell a series.

The series centers around three little negro boys, Snowball, his brother Skeeter and his willow little friend Sparaske who is always getting him into difficulties. The first story is called "Yistiddy's Papers" and concerns an attempt to sell yesterday's papers. The title of the second and third, subject to change however, are "The Rancid Note" and "Tough Egg and Scared Bunny."

This little darky actually existed, said Mrs. Thomas. He once delivered groceries to her house and lingered so long to play with her little son and his friends that when ever Snowball was missing too long from his job the grocer invariably called her house.

In an interview with a Herald reporter Mrs. Thomas told why she has chosen darkies for her characters.

"I was born on a plantation," she said, "in an old southern Colonial home near Albany, Ga. The large house, with its huge columns rising upward past a little balcony to the roof of the porch, stood in the midst of endless acres of cotton, which included a regular community of negro slaves."

"More vividly than any other recollections, I remember tales of those darkies told by my mother, a grand-daughter of a slave owner. These memories include darkies gathering in the front yard of the big house singing, dancing and playing the banjo to entertain 'dey white folks'."

"One incident I remember especially well. My aunt, then a young and mischievous girl, was visiting the plantation. She would rather play a joke than eat. The upper story of the house was not in use and all the upper windows were reinforced with iron bars. The darkies all 'jes' knew 'dem upstairs rooms was haunted'."

"One night when they were gathered about in the yard singing, playing banjos and guitars, there was such a sudden hush that one could hear the whipporwills calling across the cotton fields. At the top of the wide stairs, which ended near the wide opened front door stood a ghostly apparition in white."

"Before the opened-mouthed, awe-struck peering darkies could gather their wits, the 'ghost' came floating down the wide stairs with a heavy chain rattling behind. Pandemonium broke loose, and across the moonlit cotton fields raced a flock of panic-stricken darkies, shouting, praying and calling on the Lord."

"The song writer who wrote 'In the evening by the moonlight' We could hear those darkies singing' must have had some such experience at this one."

"Although my parents left the old plantation when I was quite small, all of my childhood has been spent in some part of the South where most every white child has been rocked by an Aunt Jemina negro mammy."

As far back as Mrs. Thomas can remember, she has had the urge to write. When her son was thirteen and in high school she found herself in a university town, Norman, Okla. She wanted to be a poet and the university taught verification.

WINS PRIZE She enrolled as a student only to learn that verification was an advanced English course which one could not take until many other English courses were taken. For four years therefore she studied English, literature and journalism. Although she won a $25 inter-collegiate prize for a limerick verse by this time, she lost her desire to be a poet.

She was urged by her teacher there to write prose, especially fiction. A little negro story, written as an assignment in a short story writing class was printed in the University magazine and later brought her $10 when it was published in the Sunday edition of the Atlanta Georgian.

Her efforts still slanting toward fiction, she won later a $75 prize given by a utility company each year to the student in advanced feature writing who wrote the best series of essays on public utilities and their problems. Mrs. Thomas believed she won this prize only because she wrote the series in fiction, creating characters which in themselves presented and solved the various utility problems.

For the past two years Mrs. Thomas has been studying the writing of the short story under Mr. Walter Harbin, professional critic and teacher of the writing of the short story. It was under his teaching and guidance that the series of the Snowball stories were begun and sold.

Mrs. H. F. Howard, editor of Newteller Story Magazine, wrote to Mrs. Thomas regarding Mrs. Thomas's stories: "Thank you for introducing us to Mrs. Thomas' work. I would like to add that her story is better than 60 per cent of the manuscripts we receive. We should like to receive more of them."

Mrs. Thomas has made her home in Big Spring for the last six years, residing at the Alta Vista apartments.

Returning From Europe, He Pleads For Monetary Stabilization CITES DANGER OF WAR Calls U. S. Outlook Good; Would Refine New Deal

NEW YORK—Walter Lippmann, special contributor to the New York Herald Tribune, returned from Europe yesterday full of dark forebodings. He was optimistic about the United States, but he described the whole continent of Europe as suffering from a gnawing organic disease of the body politic from which war may result at any time.

Such an end to the continental deflation is the only method I see by which the class war, which rages openly or is held down by autocratic violence, can abate, and with it the pressure of desperate peoples for policies that, if pursued to their logical ends, must mean another general European war.

SCOUT NEWS

While all scouts are preparing for the district jamboree scheduled for December 7, rumblings grow that the jamboree date may be shoved back.

Reason is Big Spring success in football. The Steers will probably have to go to El Paso for a game December 8 and about half of the town will probably follow them. Scouts are as football minded as the next boy. So it is entirely probable that the dates will be shoved back a week or even two weeks should Big Spring win at El Paso.

Another Board of Review will be held Monday 7:30 p. m. from the First Baptist Church basement. Only two boys appeared before the board for review last Monday. W. C. Blankenship, chairman of court of honor activities, called another board meeting to give other boys an opportunity to have their tests reviewed in order that they may get badges at the district jamboree. All scoutmasters are urged to have boys ready with tests to appear before the board Monday evening.

District Commissioner Clarence Day is vacationing now and will be out of town for about two weeks. Clarence is going to put a little of his scouting knowledge to practice and will rough it in the mountains for a few days.

J. Y. Robb has announced that a show will be given Thanksgiving morning with groceries being charged for admission. Scouts have volunteered to distribute the groceries thus collected. Needy families will benefit.

Many troops in this district are preparing to stage Christmas good turns and further aid destitute families.

Troop Meetings

Troop No. 1—The meeting was opened by the roll call. Plans were made for the district No. 1 Jamboree which is to be held soon. Methods of cooking steaks and stew were discussed. There was a recital in the auditorium of the high school. We meet upstairs in the high school and at 8:30 p. m. to see the recital. Nina, scout, is a new boy and two officials were present. Reported by Sam Atkins, scribe.

Troop No. 2—The weekly meeting was held at the Methodist church instead of the city park as had been expected. Seventeen boys were present. Scoutmaster Jack Cummings and Troop Committee-man Lee Rogers were also present. William Gottlieb, operator of the Department of Commerce radio station, was introduced by Mr. Cummings. Mr. Gottlieb, former Navy man, gave an enjoyable talk on various signals and signaling between ships during the world war. He offered to help new boys to become proficient in signaling. It will be especially good for the new patrol being organized of only twelve year old boys.

Dues were collected and patrol meetings were held. A new game was played and Dr. Rogers dismissed the meeting by leading in the Scoutmaster's Benediction. Reported by Ray Wilson.

Troop No. 3—The troop opened its regular weekly meeting with a game. After the game, Scoutmaster D. J. Wright discussed the District Jamboree which is to be held December 7, a date the National Jamboree which is to be held in August next year. After the discussion there was a few more games and then the troop was dismissed. Reported by Frank Wentz, scribe.

Troop No. 4—The troop started its weekly meeting with a small attendance which finally reached twenty. Two officials, the scoutmaster, Assistant Scoutmaster James Hipps, were present. The scoutmaster introduced a new helper who probably will become an assistant, Red Bryant, formerly a scouter in Rising Star.

The game was opened with a few songs and after announcements and presentation of a 10 year program medalion won by the troop, patrol meetings were held. Signaling, the central meeting theme, was practiced in the general assembly. A new game was played and thoroughly enjoyed by the troop.

Many Influences Determine The New Millinery Mode

Whether you believe that you look best in brimmed hats or berets, the Fall millinery mode allows you ample choice. Both are equally smart; it remains merely to decide which is most appropriate to your features and the coats and dresses which are included in your new wardrobe.

The beret is more prominent this fall than it has been for many seasons. However, it is far removed from the flat little pancake, beloved of school children and Paris students, which used to be called berets. The new types are large, soft and drapy, cleverly manipulated to prove becoming to every face, offered in many interpretations. One of the smartest styles took its inspiration from a man, the popular Prince of Wales, whose every change of costume affects the fashion world. The Scotch tam-o-shanter which he wears when in Scotch costume has been modified so as to create a tam with a decided forward sweep over one eye. This style is equally smart in velvet or gay plaid wools.

Paris Favors Berets
Not to be outdone by a mere man (even though he is a prince) the millinery designers of Paris all presented variations of the beret in their collections. Mlle. Martine endorses the wide, flat forward pointed. Descat created an octagonal pointed beret lifted up at the top. Patou's berets frequently are of the tricorne type. Other versions, endorsed by all the leading designers, include wide flat, round berets (frequently stitched for interest) and turned-up versions that suggest the popular Breton sailor hat. In general, the berets are soft and drapy and can usually be manipulated to please the wearer's fancy and her profile. Don't say brimmed hat is being neglected. This, too, appears in many fascinating new guises. There are many sport hats of the fedora type, undoubtedly tracing their origin to a man's fedora with its created crown. However, these are far removed from the mannish fedora of the famous "Camel ad" and are decidedly feminine in their soft brims and cleverly turned crowns. Another borrowed masculine fashion is the hat that resembles a derby with a shallow crown and rolled brim. Little winged feather trims are often used, destroying completely any suggestion of the masculine. These derbies are said to be inspired by the Second Empire fashions which also influence many dress designs.

The "Profile" Hat
You'll hear much talk of what is known as the "profile" hat, which means a hat cleverly designed to show one's curls at the back and side. In order to do this it is usually necessary for the back of the hat to be lifted on a bandeau which hugs the head. By lifting the side and back line the milliners succeed in thrusting the front of the brim forward in a dashing manner.

Feathers Are Back
Feathers are back again, no doubt about that! We don't mean drooping plumes and elaborate feather trims. We refer instead to dashing trimmings in the form of wings and bird's heads or tiny ostrich tips, sometimes gilded, which add just the right trimming touch to toques and derbies and similar styles.

Just as the millinery silhouette offers variety, so do the fabrics which interpret it. The brimmed hats, particularly those of mannish inspiration, are of soft felt (in plain or scratched effects), hairy felts, soleils, chamoles felts, velours. Many velvet and tulle types are also seen to harmonize with dress fabrics. The berets appear in every conceivable fabric, including felts and soleils, softly shirred or stitched velvets and satins, many lightweight woolsens and herring ribbons. Those tiny little millinery modes which are worn with dinner or evening gowns may be of such intriguing fabrics as sheer lace or net, elaborately tucked and shirred, or of velvet combined with lace, net or soft, metallic fabrics. Some hats appear in supple, lightweight furs such as broadtail or stonned kid.

CHAPTER 43 STRAIGHT TALK

Lon had asked her to understand if he did things that seemed queer at the moment, Marian re- membered. Well, this certainly seemed queer, but why wasn't she accorded the same trust?

"Too bad you couldn't join us at dinner," Silver said. "We had a grand time, didn't we Lonny?"

"Umph," grunted Lon.

"Indian for yes," Silver chuckled. "We went over to San Francisco, drove around by the Peninsula, then came back across the ferry."

"Think I'll suggest to Max that we try that," she said and was rewarded by feeling the car swerve dangerously as Lon jerked the wheel.

"Oh, don't take Max seriously," Silver countered, "he falls for every girl he sees. I had him on my hands for a while."

"And of course you couldn't afford to waste your time on a man without money," Marian flashed back. "To bad you didn't realize he was to make a fortune on 'Silver Slave.' Hollywood paid him an amazing price for his picture rights."

"I thought you said you'd trust me," said Lon.

Marian felt she must say something. She couldn't let Silver see how deeply wounded she felt.

"One of these little see America first trips," she suggested. And added silently, then Lon hasn't been home, he must have telephoned the house and May told him where to find me. What was all that rubbish he had talked about a business conference with McSwain? Mentally she tabulated the time it would have taken for such a trip, with dinner included.

"There's nothing clandestine about us, is there Mr. Casad?" continued Silver.

"There's no reason for anything clandestine," Lon barked.

Marian felt her scalp tingle, fore- runner of anger and she mustn't allow her anger to control her.

"Oh really?" Silver forgot her pique in her interest in Hamlin's finances. "How much?"

Marian conquered a desire to say, "The last time you asked that question, it was about Lon." Instead she said as though she had lost all interest in everything, "I don't re- member that he named the actual amount; I recall about it."

As they neared Lonian Lodge, Marian leaned across Silver and spoke to her husband.

"Mind dropping me here?" she asked. "I'm sure the Wakas want to get home."

Lon turned into the driveway. "Don't bother about coming up, I can walk from here," she said.

The car stopped with a savage grinding of brakes. Marian stepped out and locked back.

"Night, Silver," she said, and to Lon, "don't hurry home on my account."

"Good night, Marian," Silver answered, then, "say, by the way, where is Hamlin stopping?"

Marian looked at her, and laughed.

"Silver," she chided, "haven't you had enough experience with men to know you should concentrate on one at a time," and she scurried off into the darkness.

As she mounted the hill her anger mounted with her until by the time she reached the house, she wished she had turned on the two of them, and told them what she thought of them. Trust Lon? She'd trust no man with Silver.

IN CONFERENCE ON MONEY

And Hamlin, that was the second time Lon's jealousy had frustrated her attempt to help him through the man he seemed to hate.

She dispatched May and Waki, let Hero run to the hill top and back, then took him indoors and sat down to wait for Lon. And as she waited her anger burned down to grey ashes of despair.

Silver had seen her talking to Hamlin. Would she realize the significance of that conference? Knowing that no one but Hamlin knew what had happened that night in Reno, would she with her alertness to her own danger, know what was in the air?

"Why did I tell Lon not to hurry?" she asked herself, "I must see him, we must talk this over. If Silver tells her father... but maybe she won't see him before next week end... and maybe she's talking to him right now. He'll know what I'm up to. He'll know right away that I'm trying to reach London."

She heard a car coming up the drive, it would be Lon for no one else had a key to the padlocked gates. Only apprehension for his safety was in her mind now. She heard the garage door slam and Lon's quick, determined footsteps coming towards the house.

"I believe we owe each other explanations," Marian corrected. "I don't see that," he returned evenly.

"I do," she smiled at him. "You left here early today to go to Mc- night in Reno, would she with her alertness to her own danger, know what was in the air?"

Suddenly Marian knew perfectly well what Lon would reply. He would say, "I thought you said you would trust me." And he did.

Strange, Marian thought in a flash of consciousness that melted many things, that Lon invariably seemed to remember and resent every look, however innocent, she had cast at Hamlin; how he persistently refused to see anything strange in his constant willingness to be Silver's foil, and yet flew in a tantrum the moment he saw his wife even in the company of an other man.

If she had been making a husband to order, certainly she would not have included this characteristic. But Lon was Lon—and she loved him.

"I didn't think you'd misrepresent things when I said that," she answered him.

Centennial Constitution To Launch Texas On Second 100 Years Favored

AUSTIN, (UP)—A centennial constitution to launch Texas on its second hundred years of progress is in high favor here.

The state legislature will meet Jan. 8, 1935, and can call a constitutional convention in mid-summer. The convention can submit its "new deal" constitution to a referendum in the early fall and have it working by 1936—Texas' centennial year.

The proposed new constitution would be the seventh for Texas. Its advocates seek a new view of taxes with heavier levies on privileges and intangibles and lighter burden on farms, homes and ranches. They want greater home rule; elimination of duplicating tax bodies, shorter cuts to justice, both civil and criminal—a constitution to meet the "forward-looking" thought growing out of the depression.

Former governor Pat M. Neff sounded the call for an entirely new constitution in 1922. He proposed to give Texas a new outfit "from hat to boots." Amendments were not adequate, said the Bible-minded governor as he quoted: "No man seweth a piece of new cloth into an old garment."

The Democratic party fell in line. Their platform called for a constitutional convention. Representatives Lee J. Roundtree of Bryan, and J. E. Quail of El Paso proposed a referendum on it. The house by resolution sought one; the senate killed it by a tie vote.

The constitution of the Texas Republic was discarded in 1845 for a new one thought more suitable for statehood. Praised by Daniel Webster as "the best of American state constitutions," it lasted only until the strife of the Civil War days. The war between the states and its reconstruction period resulted in new constitutions in 1861, 1865 and 1869. The present constitution was adopted in 1876. None of its framers still lives.

Today's constitution, however, is but a battered fragment of the document of 1876. Sixty-one amendments, adopted by popular vote, have changed it piecemeal. The people by vote have rejected 67 other proposed changes. Eight were rejected Nov. 6, 1934.

Agitation for a new constitution has met quick opposition. Defeat of all offered amendments in November is cited as proof that the people are not able at this time to decide on a constitution. Others fear the prohibition issue.

Procedure for a new constitution is simple. The legislature calls the convention, decides how many delegates shall attend, and how they shall be chosen. The convention drafts the constitution and the people vote for or against it in referendum.

Drouth Forces Coyotes Many Miles For Shelter

ABERNATHY (UP)—Coyotes ranged farther this year than ever before known as drouth that swept West Texas cut down their food supply, according to several old-timers.

There has been an unprecedented killing of coyotes this year, according to O. D. Cardwell, Post-game warden and hunter.

"Where a coyote used to range over a small area, he now goes for many miles, even close to farm houses," he said. "I guess they have killed more stock this year, too, because they were hungry."

Hankins' Family Has 6,000 Votes

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (UP)—It'll look like a democratic convention when the Hankins family holds its celebration next July 4.

There are 6,000 voters in the family, which claims to be the largest family in Arkansas, and all of them are democratic. There isn't a republican member in the family, no member has ever been in the penitentiary, there isn't an old maid in the tribe and only one bachelor on record.

Frank Hankins, 91, of Pine Bluff is the patriarch of the family. He has 12 children.

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY GATHER

HUGE GRAPEFRUIT McALLEN (UP)—A huge grapefruit 19 inches in circumference was one of the outstanding displays at the annual Lower Rio Grande Citrus Growers' Show here. Joe Alex, buyer for the McAllen Fruit and Vegetable company, found the big fruit in the orchard of Mrs. Grace G. Ellis, south of McAllen.

DEERING, Mo. (UP)—Students at Deering High School know how many feathers a chicken has because one of them, Vernon Davis made an accurate count. The question of a chicken's feathers arose at the University of Texas Faculty Women's club. Smoking there was unheard of. At a reception Miss Millay, focus of attention, kindled a cigarette. The president was shocked. Smoking is now allowed.

Small Rabbit Chokes Rattlesnake To Death

TAYLOR (UP)—The story of a small rabbit choking a 15-year-old rattlesnake to death was told here by Albert Schram—and he had the evidence to prove that his story was true.

In a clump of trees Schram found the skeleton of a six and a half foot snake with 15 rattles. Clinging to the snake's jaw bone was the skeleton of a rabbit.

The rabbit, apparently, while being swallowed by the snake, had hooked his teeth into the side of the snake's jaw. The snake couldn't swallow his prey and the rabbit couldn't escape.

in a classroom session. Guesses ranged from 10,000 to 100,000. Davis killed a chicken and made the count. He said it was 8,537.

FD Tree Belt For Rain Idea Of West Texan

Subject Was Discussed At Irrigation Congress Held In El Paso

KERRVILLE, (UP)—President Roosevelt's tree belt for rain is an old idea for plainsmen of Texas. Back in 1904 it was the subject of extended discussion at a national irrigation congress held in El Paso.

Then Editor William T. Little of Perry, Okla., outlined practically the same plan as that now being undertaken by the Department of Agriculture with a $15,000,000 fund.

A wind break, Little reported, will delay evaporation over an area sixteen times as wide as the break is high. Theoretically a series of 30 foot board fences placed 480 feet apart in the dry belt would do the trick.

Dr. W. P. Webb of the University of Texas, author of "The Great Plains," details many rain making experiments in the Southwest. Recently experiments over Waxahachie, Texas, were made with explosives carried in an airplane. A premature explosion destroyed the plane and experimenter.

Maj. R. G. Dyerforth experimented with explosive balloons near San Antonio in 1892. C. W. Post of breakfast food fame had experiments carried on in Michigan and in West Texas; and the Texas & Pacific railway had extensive explosive experiments at Thurber, Texas in 1911. No fund heretofore has been available to give the tree barrier plan a trial on a scale sufficient to judge its results.

Band Members Cause Rukus

Texas U. Band Adopts 'No Food, No Music' Policy

AUSTIN (UP)—Orange-clad members of the University of Texas band have adopted a "no food, no music" policy concerning out-of-town football trips and have created a dilemma which may require the attention of the Board of Regents.

For several years the school athletic council has paid the train fares of bandmen on trips away from home, but have not favored the idea of bearing any more of the expense. Before the recent T. C. U.-Texas game in Fort Worth the band voted as a unit against making the trip unless the council footed the bill, hotel, food, taxis and all.

Behind the decision was months of argument on which the campus itself was fairly evenly divided. All agreed those who tooted it up for their dear old state were entitled to some consideration. Moreover, students thought new uniforms should be furnished. Those now worn are becoming shabby and only 35 suits are available for 110 band members.

Wyoming Wants Black Hills

RAPIDS CITY, S. D. (UP)—Wyoming, through the Newcastle Chamber of Commerce in a letter to the Rapid City Chamber of Commerce, has invited the Black Hills to leave South Dakota and become a part of the adjoining state, pointing out that there would be a fair exchange of gold and oil.

A letter from Web Hill, of the Newcastle chamber, to the Rapid City organization said: "We hear that you Black Hills fresholders are having a hard time in being a part of South Dakota, so why not launch the movement to become a part of Wyoming, where you will be appreciated. Moreover, we have the oil (for hard surfaced roads) and you have the gold, so let's go."

The embarrassment to the Black Hills for the dusty roads leading to it is obvious to Wyoming, Hill commented. He added that "this suggestion seems preposterous, but who knows what fruit it may bear?"

The invitation recalls a meeting held in Deadwood, in 1877, when Black Hills citizens attempted to form their own state or territory, to be called "The Territory of Lincoln." At that meeting it was charged that the territorial governor had failed to recognize the Black Hills and that crime and disorder were rampant and that no judges, public officers, or protection had been provided.

Bargain Day

Many housewives watch for special sales days in the purchase of household necessities, food, clothing, home furnishings, and other items. It is never necessary to "go shopping for GAS", for—

Every Day Is Bargain Day for GAS

As examples of the every day bargains available, you can buy . . .

- ... a week's supply of hot water for less than the cost of a package of cigarettes . . .
- ... warmth and comfort in the living room on crisp mornings for the price of a yeast cake . . .
- ... gas to cook breakfast, lunch and dinner for the whole family, for less than a bottle of soda pop . . . and many others, all at bargain prices.

GAS IS CHEAP!

The figures on your GAS bill show only the cost of so many cubic feet of GAS delivered to you . . . they do not measure the value of the service. The GAS service you receive is worth more than you pay for it.
