Without visible emotion, W. R. Hildreth, 46 year old used car salesman, heard a verdict of death returned against him Thursday 8.15 p. m. for the ice pick slaying of his wife, Docia Hildreth, here October 1.

When the jury returned with a verdict 2 hours and 5 minutes after being given the case, Judge Charles Klapproth warned the crowd which had all day thronged the court room against any demonstration.

Stony silence followed the reading of the verdict. Hildreth sat with unchanged expression, his lips drawn, his face haggard. He said nothing.

T&P Train Strikes Truck At Colorado

Hargrove Injured; Truck Ignites When Struck By Sunshine Special

COLORADO—Ross Hargrove, son of Mrs. R. F. Hargrove of 543 Chestnut street, escaped possible death or serious injury Thursday morning when a heavily loaded truck and trailer being driven by him were demolished in crash with an eastbound Texas & Pacific passenger train at the Oak street crossing. Reports Thursday afternoon by Dr. Harold Lindley, attending physician, indicated that the youth's greatest injury was from shock.

Impact of the crash hurled Hargrove clear of his truck cab and clear of the train, witnesses to the accident say. The trailer, loaded with cake, was demolished and strewn along south side of the tracks. Hargrove and the truck were thrown to north side of the tracks, the latter being dragged several feet before Engineer J. R. Kennedy could bring his train to a stop. The demolished truck was ignited and burned.

After receiving emergency aid at scene of the crash Hargrove was taken to his mother's residence in the care of Police Chief Dick Hickman. He is employed by Chester Jones, Colorado cattleman and had just loaded out with cake from warehouse of the Continental Oil-Cotton Company for the Jones ranch.

"I am not in position to say just how badly the youth is injured," Dr. Lindley told newspaper men just before going to press Thursday afternoon. "I am hopeful, however, that his most severe hurts were from shock, but I have not concluded my examination and will not be known for a time whether or not he sustained serious injury."

Conductor Tom Brigrance in charge of the train, No. 2 due to arrive in Colorado at 8:05 a. m., stopped and held his train here several minutes while details of the accident were being checked by officers and rail representatives.

Presence of a pair of ladies' shoes in debris of the truck caused concern for a time, it being feared that they might have been worn by another passenger of the ill-fated truck.

A niece of Mrs. Hargrove, Aena Farr, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, enroute by bus to Arizona, arrived in town shortly after the accident and called her aunt by telephone. When informed of the boy's injuries, the passenger, a registered nurse, obtained an extension on her ticket and went to personally attend the Hargrove youth.

"Preacher" Wolf, Iraan, brother of Deputy Sheriff Bob Wolf, was here for a short time Friday. He is enroute to Westbrook on business.

J. W. Joiner has moved from Abilene to Big Spring to become associated with Gibson Supply company.

Two Undeclared Southwest Teams Clash In Houston Saturday

Football fans Saturday will have the opportunity of seeing a graphic play-by-play report of the Rice-University of Texas Southwest conference game on the Grid-graph at the high school auditorium.

Both the Owls and Longhorns have very impressive records, and are undefeated in conference play.

So called "experts" have been predicting a hard fought battle between the two teams in spite of reported injuries in the Texas line-up.

There has been some doubt as to whether the great Hilliard will be in the Longhorn line-up, but indications are he will play at least a part of the game. Jack Grey, an end, is also suffering from an injury but may get to play.

The Owls, with victories over Loyola, Purdue, SMU and Creighton, have been looking great in workouts.

Coach Jack Chevigny left with his team for Houston today. The Grid-graph, in some respects, is better than watching the game itself. It shows every play, who made it, yards gained or lost, passes, downs, penalties etc.

The Grid-graph will be erected in the high school auditorium and the game will start at 2:30. Admission will be twenty-five cents.

News Behind The News THE NATIONAL

WASHINGTON By GEORGE BURNO

Serene

Perhaps you have noticed a death of important affirmative news from Washington in the last couple of weeks.

The reason is that the New Deal has gone into a state of suspended animation, until after election day. Word has been passed to mark time until the November 6 results are definitely known.

Any New Dealers so brash in the interim as to start announcing new policies or taking controversial action in connection with those existing probably would wind up in left field without a glove. As they all know this, the team undoubtedly will remain intact.

It was about mid-October that the Democratic statisticians and soothsayers emerged from their struggles with tabulations and the magic crystal to announce that this year's congressional election was overwhelmingly in the bag.

The inner council of strategists promptly decreed that nothing shall be done or said in official Washington that would rock the boat in the remaining few days. The Republican enemy was to be given no new cause to cry out in protest.

So the boys coked their feet on their desks and started a marathon thumb-twiddling contest.

Coming

Although the new five-man board has been occupying General Johnson's chair at N.E.A. amply long enough to get acquainted with all the help, it has yet to make that anticipated pronouncement of broad new policy.

The Department of Justice was all set a little while back to crack down on some die-hard opponents of New Deal legality. Now it develops that further checking is necessary before the recalcitrants are dragged into court.

Down at AAA Secretary Wallace says there is going to be a new crop-regulation program but it hasn't been decided yet just what form it will take. Relief Administrator Hopkins must be chock-full of ideas for carrying the unemployed through the winter but they, too, are still nebulous so far as the public is concerned.

Just one untoward incident has developed to mar the otherwise deadly calm of Washington. That was when Floyd W. Reeves, Personal Director for the Tennessee Valley Authority, appeared before the current Communications Commission hearing with a plan for government operation of radio

Six Criminal Cases Before 70th Court

Judge Klapproth Strives To Clear Docket Before Adjournment

Six criminals came before the 70th district court Friday morning as Judge Charles Klapproth sought to clear the docket before adjourning the short term Saturday.

Divorce pleas were also heard. J. C. Griffith, charged with assault with intent to murder was granted a continuance on his first application for continuance. Jack Nichols, charged with attempted theft, was granted a continuance for the same reason. Case of Raymond Cruz, charged with assault with intent to murder, was also continued.

Buck Oliver, charged with burglary, pleaded guilty and was given a 3 year suspended sentence. Case against C. C. Sikes, however, was continued on motion of the state.

Ynez Yanez, sentenced September 25 to serve 3 years on a burglary charge, was to be brought into court Friday afternoon when Judge Klapproth would also set into force a 4 year suspended sentence hanging over Yanez. The four years must be served in entirety when the two years are completed.

The court was due to hear a motion for new trial filed by the attorneys of W. H. Hildreth, given a death penalty for the murder of his wife.

Municipalities Sound Warning On Relief Load

CHICAGO, (AP)—Representatives of American cities meeting at the convention of the American Municipal Association Friday heard warning of an impending disaster if the present relief load on cities continues.

The warning was sounded by Clifford Ham, field consultant for the association, who said emergency financial policies of the past few years "must end soon" and "financial planning must again become the major objective and local affairs be placed on a more sound and permanent basis."

STALIN GIVES US CLEAR VIEW OF NEW DEAL

Joseph Stalin's remarks about the predestined failure of the New Deal makes interesting reading—not because Mr. Stalin's opinion of Mr. Roosevelt matters particularly, but because his statement forms a sort of looking-glass in which we can get a new slant on the American recovery effort.

For, by stating the communist position
 so clearly and flatly, the Russian leader simply throws our own position into greater relief. By making a blunt declaration of things we do not believe, he helps us see what we really do believe.

The essence of his theory is that the New Deal—or any other effort to improve conditions upon the capitalist foundation—must fail, in the very nature of things.

Unemployment is inherent in modern capitalist society. The ill against which workers protest cannot be cured without putting society on a new foundation.

The division of human beings into exploiters and exploited is fundamental, and the only possible solution is to give the exploited complete control.

It would be hard to find one paragraph which expressed more precisely the exact opposite of the sentiment which animates the New Deal.

We are dedicated, that is, to the theory that the ill that have afflicted us in the last four years can be cured within the framework of capitalism.

We believe that unemployment is not a necessary accompaniment of modern, mass-production capitalism. We believe that the worker and the consumer can be given a decent break without destroying the rights of employer and investor.

We believe that co-operation can be substituted for exploitation in such way as to help all hands and not just one class.

We believe all these things so firmly that we have room for a great diversity of opinions as to the way in which our goal can be reached. Most of the time we overlook the fact that we are actually at a crossroads in our national life.

The Russian leader's remarks remind us that we are making a great fight to prove that the traditional American way of life can be preserved. That is the real stake at issue in the recovery program.

The way the battle is fought—whether via the New Deal or some other kind of strategy—is relatively unimportant.
 The big thing is to prove that we have the intelligence and the determination to win it.

RELIEF FOR U.S. TREASURY

News that the Treasury Department is preparing to continue the task of converting Fourth Liberty Loan bonds into securities bearing a lower rate of interest is a reminder that we have a fine chance, in this way, to relieve the current strain on the federal treasury.

This bond issue originally totaled a little under $7,000,000,000. It bore a 4 1/4 per cent interest when issued.
 Last spring approximately $1,875,000,000 was converted into 3 per cent bonds.

At present some $1,250,000,000 more is being converted into 3 1/4 per cent bonds and 2 1/2 per cent notes.

Now it is planned to convert the remainder of the issue; and it is worth noting that a substantial saving is in prospect. Already something like $33,000,000 a year in interest charges has been saved.

If the whole issue is converted, the annual saving will reach $66,000,000.
 At a time when federal finances are being strained to the utmost, such a saving is well worth making.

BADGERS, BOBCATS BATTLE TONIGHT

Hayhurst Says Team In Top Shape

By BILL COLLINS

McCAMEY—After two weeks of hard drilling in preparation for their one big football game of the year, the Badgers of McCamey high school are ready for the invasion of their arch enemies, the Bobcats of San Angelo high school, on Badger Field here Friday night, and the Badgers are determined to give the Bobcats all they have in an effort to win even though the odds are hopelessly against them, the Bobcats having been rated a five or six touchdown better team than the lightweight Badger aggregation.

However, the dope meaneth not a thing when the Bobcats tackle the Badgers on their own field, and anything may happen in the district 3 conference game Friday night.

The two clubs, along with the Big Spring Steers, are in a three-way tie for the conference leadership, but either McCamey or San Angelo will fall from her high perch in the coming game. It is likely to be a real scrap. The bout is scheduled for Badger Field at 7:30 o'clock with the gate opening at 7 p. m.

All Set

Coaches Marlin Hayhurst and Jim Bardin today pronounced their squad in good condition and stated they were ready for the game which has the appearance of a grudge tilt. One or two minor injuries, sustained in practice, are listed, but the entire first string squad will likely be ready to start.

Hayhurst has considerable confidence in his squad and believes that if the Badgers get in there and fight hard all the way, they have an excellent chance of upsetting the dope and copping the tilt, which would please the local fans as nothing else would. It all depends on just how hard the locals fight.

Members of the local squad have been going through their daily workouts with an added zeal during the past week, and the cry, "Skin a Bobcat," has been echoing across the practice field. The Badgers have been drilled long and hard on the defense this week with the second string team running the San Angelo offensive plays against the regulars. The coaches have a fair defense map- ped out which may cause the West Texas champions considerable trouble on the offense. The Badgers also have several new deceptive plays to pull on the invading Bobcats.

San Angelo is said to have much the heavier and better line with the McCamey club perhaps having the better backfield. However, the McCamey line is composed of a group of battling youngsters who are expected to stay in there and exchange blow for blow with their opponents. The Badgers have always been known as a hard fighting club on any gridiron and no matter what the score, but they can be a great deal tougher on their own playing field and against the San Angelo Bobcats, they can be expected to fight their hearts out in an effort to win.

The two clubs have met on four previous occasions, the Bobcats running up a total of 103 points to the Badgers six with the locals never having scored against San Angelo in San Angelo. The Bobcats have made only one previous appearance in McCamey, and on that occasion they were lucky to come away with a 7 to 6 victory. That game was one of the best ever played in this section, and tonight's tilt is expected to be even better.

Joe Cronin Sold To Boston Red Sox Gets Five Year Contract In Deal

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Joe Cronin, youthful manager of the Washington Senators, was sold Friday to the Boston Red Sox.

Reports of the sale said he was given a five year contract as player-manager.

The famous short-stop was reported sold for a huge cash payment and Lynn Lary, Boston infielder.

Tom Yawkey, owner of the Red Sox, said he paid for Cronin "the largest price ever paid for a baseball player."

Cronin will replace Stanley (Bucky) Harris as the Sox manager.

Ben's Grid Team To Play Midland

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 the Devils mix 'em up with the Midland, Jr. grid team at Steer stadium.

Daniels' smooth clicking machine will be favored to take the visitors into camp handily.

Garcia, fullback and Ford, quarter, have been showing exceptional ability in lugging the leader.

section is expected to be on hand for the scrap this evening. It is a red letter day for McCamey when any San Angelo team plays here. The San Angelo fans and supporters will arrive on a special train about 7 o'clock and will be met at the station by the Badger band and pep squad. Over 400 enthusiastic Bobcat fans, headed by their band and pep squad, are expected to make the trip here. A parade will be staged through the downtown district following the arrival of the special train. The north end of the Badger stadium at the playing field has been reserved for the San Angelo delegation. Plenty of cars will be available to transport the visiting fans to Badger Field for the game.

Hennig Team Plays Tonight

SWEETWATER—Ed Hennig again will send his Sweetwater Pony charges against a formidable foe tonight when they meet the Lubbock Westerners on Texas Tech field in a night game.

The Ponies will enter the game facing almost certain defeat, since Lubbock has the strongest team she has displayed in years. The Westerners have soundly trounced the Ranger Bulldogs, said to be the class of the Oil Belt; spanked the Big Spring Steers with all ease and tied the hefty Abilene Eagles, 7-all.

And the Lubbockites also will be looking back to the two defeats handed them by the Ponies last year and the year before, with a view to avenging them in a great big way.

Hennig and the boys, however, say if they go under, they will do so fighting. The youngsters came out of the Steer mees in fair physical trim and will go into the game in full strength. They have spent this week in hard scrimmages—the hardest week Hennig so ever handed a Pony team—so if consistent work and bulldog spirit mean anything, the Ponies may not be as bad off up on the Plains as it would seem by the record.

Should the Ponies go into the mees displaying the teamwork shown in last Friday's game and get the breaks, the Western clan won't have any walkover regardless of that formidable dope.

Approximately the same starting line-up will be used against the Westerners as was used in the Steer game. Bruner, who scintillated at tackle post, probably will be used there again. He formerly worked at end, Seales, whose work in the past two games has made him outstanding, will fill the other tackle post. Bennett and Taylor will perform at guard and Rosebrough will hover the ball. Parsons and Munday will take the terminal positions and Earnett, Billings, Roy and Sullivan will do backfield duty.

Cochran has a potential all-state totter in White, who has been very potent against all Westerner opponents this season. He is amply aided by veterans

Hill Billies Point For Saturday Game

The West Side Mountaineers, who were victorious in all their starts last season, began practicing this week in preparation for a game scheduled for Saturday with an East Side team.

The Hill Billies have a well balanced team with strength in the center of the line and a fairly fast backfield.

The forward wall will probably be made up of M. Smith, Ia; R. Jones, H; J. Anderson; Hart, C; Bethel, R; Henry, R; R. Anderson, re; O. Womack, pb; C. Smith, hb; C. Jones, hb; and N. Womack, fb.

Chock Jones takes his place in the line as defensive center, but is one of the Mountaineers "white" hopes while on the offensive.

Frogs Dispute Centenary Work

FORT WORTH, (SpI)—Texas Christian University and Centenary college have not been able to date to settle the question of who has the better football team.

In the past there have been two victories for each school and one tie, which leaves the count just about as even as any record could. Each team has scored one shut-out victory over the other and the winnings have alternated.

The Frogs and the Gentlemen first met in 1923, when Bo McMullan was coach at Centenary. His crimson-jeried eleven came to Fort Worth and crushed the lighter Frog team 23 to 0.

The Christians made it one-all when the Gentlemen again came to Fort Worth in 1928, the score being 26 to 14 for the Frogs. The following year, 1927, the Christians made their first visit to Shreveport, only to lose 7 to 3 by a touchdown in the last minute of play.

In 1929 the Southwest Conference champions gave the Gentlemen a 28-to-0 drubbing in Shreveport. Last year the rivalry was renewed and two great eleven's fought to a scoreless tie. The all-time score is 55 to 44 in favor of T. C. U.

This year the odds favor Centenary to take the "rubber" game. The Frogs, handicapped by injuries, will find the going rough against the eleven that whipped the Texas Longhorns last week.

Banquet Given For Steer Grid Outfit

Steer football players and coaches attended a banquet Thursday night given for them by fans of the city.

School officials, coaches and fans made short speeches, and Coach Bristow impressed upon the players the necessity of observing training rules.

Let's find out why Turkish tobacco is so important to a good cigarette

On the sunny slopes of Smyrna . . . in the fertile fields of Macedonia . . . along the shores of the Black Sea . . . grows a kind of tobacco that is different from any other tobacco in the world.

THESE Turkish tobaccos are the only tobaccos of foreign cultivation that are used to any great extent in making American cigarettes.

Turkish tobaccos are famous for their spicy aroma, and a blend of the right kinds of Turkish tobacco with our own home-grown tobaccos is better than any one kind used alone.

In Chesterfield we balance mild, ripe tobaccos grown in this country with just the right amounts of the right kinds of Turkish.

It is by blending and cross-blending these different tobaccos that we make Chesterfield the cigarette that's milder, the cigarette that tastes better.

An inference was established somehow that Reeves was speaking for TVA. Republican quarters waved back and started snoring about the inequities of turning radio into an all-powerful government propaganda mill.

The White House was quick to jump on this one. It was pointed out that President Roosevelt only a short while before had specifically endorsed the present radio setup and commercial broadcasting—the first time an Executive had ever done so publicly. Reeves, it was stated emphatically, was speaking for himself as an individual. Reporters got an impression that the TVA Personnel Chief may not be long in the New Deal world.

Otherwise it's quiet along the Potomac. The hum of activity right after election probably will sound like an aerial armada flying at 800 feet.

Mooney

As a result of the findings of the McCormick-Dickstein committee which has been probing evidence of anti-American activities, insiders predict the next congress will be asked to adopt a bill making it a felony to advocate, either orally or in writing, overthrow of the government by force.

Those who have been following the investigation from coast to coast expect the committee to make such a recommendation an outstanding feature of its report. The proposed law would be patterned after a New York State statute known as the Giltow law which was upheld some year back by the U. S. Supreme court.

In this connection it is an interesting commentary that Volney Mooney, Jr., National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans, served as counsel for the McCormick-Dickstein Committee while it was looking into Communism and Nazism on the West coast. The annual convention of the DAV endorsed such a bill and instructed Mooney to work through all possible channels to have it enacted next session. He seems to have got off to a fair start.

Reunion

It's been old home week at NRA since General Johnson moved his notes to a private office building and started writing memoirs.

At least three of the big-business gentlemen who started out to grow up with NRA over a year ago but found they couldn't get along with the General's much publicized assistant, Miss Frances Robinson, are back doing business at the old stand.

W. L. Allen, chairman of the board of Sheffield Steel, is expected to step in an executive officer as soon as Col T. A. Lynch returns to his army post. Allen was the deputy administrator who guided that original cotton textile code into being.

Arthur W. Whiteside, president of Dunn & Bradstreet, is a member of the new administration board. He was the deputy administrator who wrestled the retail code into a state of cohesion.

Robert K. Sizemore from the family that owns R. H. Macey's, once more is a deputy administrator. Curiously enough, Bob first brought Robby here to work for the New Deal. She was a stenographer then, but not for long.

Cooperation

One bit of irony has just come to light in connection with Hitler's Jewish attitude. The state department hears there is no German boycott of the Semites when it comes to parking secret stores of munitions—a Jewish firm in Hamburg with warehouses also in Shanghai being the keepers of a considerable stock of rifles, machine guns and light artillery in violation of the Versailles Treaty.

Our diplomatic sources are probing the report of a secret five-year alliance between Germany and Japan involving east-west cooperation. Germany is supposed to send 600 pilots and aviation experts to Japan in the next six months. Naval experts and munitions specialists also are reported on their way to Japan to render advice. It's a good yarn but the able men who run Japan are not typing up with any gambles as the Nazi setup represents at the present time. As previously stated here, the Chinese-Eastern settlement points the way to operations for any near future.

Notes

Legal sharps have raised the point that $50,000,000 allotted for purchase of land was illegally transferred from the Federal Relief fund. But Relief Administrator Hopkins goes ahead with purchase of "submarginal land" from farmers. Over 1,800 aliens who must be deported according to present law are awaiting action by congress which would give Secretary Perkins discretionary power.

Commissioner McCormick, Immigration Service chief, says these cases were held up at the suggestion of a House committee. Insurance companies holding farm mortgages are pressing for Supreme Court action to determine validity of the Frazier-Lemke law which affects $13,500,000,000 of farm mortgages. The Chesapeake and Delaware Canal is to be deepened as a public works project. Of the $1,000,000,000 allotted to non-federal projects Secretary Ickes has actually spent only $290,000,000.

NEW YORK
By JAMES McMULLIN

Hole

New Deal prestige is seriously at stake in the oil crisis. Unless Administrator Ickes acts P. D. Q. to check the bootleg flow from East Texas federal oil control is headed for a most inglorious flop.

Robert K. Sizemore in a number of states traces directly to the futility of government efforts to clamp down on the hot oil boys. No business group in the country has thumbed its nose at Washington so consistently and with such complete impunity.

Everybody in the oil game knows this and leaders in other industries are beginning to notice it. You hear it said: "One little word from Ickes about what to do—and the oil men do as they damn please." New Deal critics wonder openly whether any of the administration's gestures towards industrial regulation amount to more than imposing balloons—to be punctured at will by individualists bold enough to try.

Informed New Yorkers believe that FDR is in for more grief than

That gives a clue to where he stands on self-government for industry. Big Steel last, encouraging any development that smacks even remotely of more rigid control. Insiders rate it significant that the choice of Stettinius for the post was evidently approved by the administration.

Informed New Yorkers understand that Clay Williams—chairman of the NRA administrative board—and Stettinius are in full accord about what's to be done. A thorough housecleaning is in prospect. It's even possible that the entire NRA staff may be fired en masse—and then those members rehired whose outlook and abilities fit the new picture. No "radicals" need apply.

Keen observers interpret this as one more indication that FDR is going to give business its appreciation in terms of great activity and increased employment if it doesn't want the next congress on its neck like a ton of bricks.

Collapse

The pathetic futility of the gold bloc conference at Brussels was due to a freezing fear of positive action—especially in the banking line—which haunts the participating nations. Each is confronted by rising internal tension and any kind of spark might set off the powder barrel. Therefore the governments are trying to avoid all sparks.

The French desire to win England's favor by remaining on gold as long as possible was also a factor.

Financial insiders learn that Belgium seized the occasion to ask big brother France for another loan—which was refused. Belgium's financial condition is desperate and the cabinet may fall at any time. If it does it will probably take the gold standard with it.

Agitation for devaluation is also making rapid headway in Holland. The secession of either Holland or

Clean-Up

New York conservatives were greatly pleased with the appointment of Edward Stettinius as a sort of personal officer for the revised NRA. His previous service under General Johnson gives him a valuable background and he will be a key man in reshaping the administrative authority to fit industry's ideas.

Note that Stettinius is regularly employed by U. S. Steel—which loaned him for this particular job.

Belgium from the gold bloc would mean the collapse of France's monetary and political house of cards.

India's Toothbrush

LONDON (UP)—Empire experts are mystified by an order for 25,000 toothbrushes for India.

They point out that there are plenty of drug stores in that country to supply the normal wants of the 100,000 white population, while the natives have hitherto used a piece of soft wood to clean their teeth.

This much cheaper and cleaner method consists of breaking off a bit of twig or orange or other soft wood, chewing the end into the semblance of a brush, and vigorously brushing for a considerable period.

So, who wants the extra 25,000 brushes, and for what? It is suggested that perhaps the Sikhs intend to use them to currycomb their beards.

CONSTIPATION

"I am 71 years old and have used Theodore's Black-Draught about forty years," writes Mr. W. J. Vanover, of Rome, Ky. "We are never without it. I take it as a purgative when I am bilious, drowsy and have swimming in my head. Black-Draught relieves this, and helps me in many ways." . . . Keep a package of this old, reliable, purely vegetable laxative in your home, and take it for prompt relief at the first sign of constipation.

Menus Of The Day

"When the night is a huge black bat and the shine of your fire-light is blue, and the lamp wick sputters and the wind goes woo-oo! and you hear the crickets quit and the moon is gray—and on might go the weird chilly chant. Perhaps this pleasant poem-story had its inspiration in the doggerels of the 17th century farmers chanted as they tramped over their acres with lighted torches on All-Hallow's Eve to frighten the goblins away for the coming twelve months. We may stily smile at such superstition, but how many of us would walk under a ladder, change our course when we see a black cat and a few other little idiosyncrasies. Maybe our great grand (and many more great) grandchildren will smile at our superstitions also.

In spite of all of this, it is rather nice to have legends and superstitions and Hallowe'en, isn't it? It gives us a grand excuse to dress up one special day because it is an every-day meal because it is also encourages us to ask the Browns or Joneses over for bridge or for an evening meal, a courtesy we have owed them for some little time perhaps and just couldn't get our spirits up to it. With you and your problems in mind, I thought that these dishes would give you some suggestions. They might be used at luncheon or dinner time, or even at refreshment time.

Mr. Durigan Finds Relief in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Here is his enthusiastic letter: "Am 70 years of age, and for 10 of those years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic.

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse in a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat most any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

For dessert, individual pies are always welcomed. They are made in your muffin tins. In serving them they are best cold with whipped cream or hot with a meringue. Here is a good squash pie to serve:

Rub squash through sieve (2 cups). Combine squash, three-fourths teaspoon of ginger, one-half teaspoon of cinnamon, one-half teaspoon of nutmeg, three slightly beaten eggs, one and one-half cups of thin cream, and a few grains of salt. Pour into pastry lined tin. Bake in hot oven (450 F.) about 25 minutes, or until an inserted knife comes out clean. Cool. Cover with whipped cream and finely chopped nuts. Serve at once.

After a meal full of these suggestions, and pleasant jovial company, I am sure you will not care if the moon is gray, an' the lightning bugs in dew is all squenched away."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.
For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.
If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. You often break out in blotches. You feel aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.
It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.
But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Have a substitute. 25-cent drug stores. ©1931 C. M. Co.

'Mrs. Wiggs Of The Cabbage Patch' Has All-Star Cast

Disregarding small characters in a famous classic is cinematic suicide, says Director Norman Taurog, who has recently completed the direction of Paramount's "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch", coming today and tomorrow at the Ritz Theater and featuring Pauline Lord in the title role and W. C. Fields, ZaSu Pitts, Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor in the principal featured parts.

"In my experience," declared the director, "I have found that the public rises up, en masse, to protest if one of the characters of a famous book is changed in any way from the image they had formed in reading it."

"This creates a need, in the picturization of a classic, of having practically an all-star cast. In Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," for instance, we wouldn't have dared have less capable and famous actors and actresses than Pauline Lord, ZaSu Pitts, W. C. Fields, Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor and the others.

"It isn't so much a matter of box-office draw because 'Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch' is so widely beloved that an audience for it is assured just as it was for

By JOHN SELBY

NEW YORK, (AP)—Stanley Walker is the boy from Lampasas, Tex., who has proved that a city editor can write.

From Lampasas Mr. Walker went to the University of Texas, and after a period spent on the lesser jobs of journalism arrived on the New York Herald Tribune as a rewrite man. It was not long before he was city editor, and finally one of the best known city editors in the land.

He does on occasion sleep in his home in Great Neck, L. I. But he lives in the city room of the Herald Tribune.

Mr. Walker is a man of, to use one of the cliches Mr. Walker disapproves violently, "middle height." He walks rather slowly, ostentatiously, and because he carries his head somewhat forward, he gives the impression of looking up at persons with whom he talks.

Hates "Stuffed Shirts" As ruler of one of the busiest city desks in the world he is deceptively calm. His reporters may fear him, but if so they conceal the fear nobly. He speaks quietly, often in such a low voice he can only just be heard. He hates "stuffed shirts," professional reformers, and endures press agents because he can't think up a scheme to get rid of them.

A year ago this literary city editor wrote a book called "Night Club Era," which told the story of New York's now dimmed night life. Now he has written of something much closer to the Walker heart in "City Editor."

It is his newspaper credo; also it is a history of recent journalism and a textbook for young newspaper people anxious to solve the mysteries of the editorial mind.

MRS. BRISTOW HOSTESS FOR PARTY NAMING SISTER IN LAW AS HONOR GUEST

-Hallowe'en Colors Effectively Carried Out In Accessories And Floral Decorations

Mrs. Obie Bristow was hostess Thursday afternoon at the Settles Hotel for a lovely Hallowe'en bridge party, naming as her honor guest, Mr. Bristow's sister, Mrs. W. E. N. Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have moved to Big Spring from Eldorado, Ark. to make their home.

Floor baskets holding large orange-colored marigolds tied with orange and black bows and table bouquets of the same flower carried out the black and gold in the floral decorations. Pumpkins on the windows added to the Hallowe'en effect. The tallest, luncheon cloths and prize wrappings were in black and yellow.

Mrs. Phillips was presented with a lovely vanity. Mrs. Wilke scored highest for the afternoon and received an electric casserole. Mrs. Ford was consoled for low score with a set of novelty boxes of matches.

At the refreshment hour, pottery vases holding yellow marigolds were placed on each table for cut prizes, including the two tables for tea guests.

Those cutting for the vases were: Mmes. Ellington, Turman, Tate, Johnson, Merrill, Rush, Hardy, Lamb, Edwards and Parsons. A lovely salad plate was served. Ten guests were: Mmes. W. C. Blankenship, Seth H. Parsons, David Watt, B. T. Cardwell and Henry Edwards.

Marian Gordon

by JEANNE BOWMAN

Chapter 18 THE RETURN

Marian continued her laughing. "But Silver is so accustomed to having every man who sees her fall in love with her that she thought you were no exception."

"What a kid," Lon murmured. "How old do you think she is?"

"About your age, I guess; well a little younger, she went to school with you, but if she was married when she was sixteen—"

"She wasn't," Marian reassured him, "and just to relieve your fear of having given a child the wrong impression, she's six years older than I am, which makes her thirty."

"Thirty? Listen, Ian, do you have to go off on some fool yarn?"

"I do, but she's the 'fool yarn.' I have to meet her and go to the hospital with her and you have to go along with us. No, we can't break the news of our engagement until she's through with her interview with Hondon. Your presence will keep her straight, if nothing else will," she concluded enigmatically. "Come on."

"But wait, Ian, look," he drew a small box from his pocket—"that woman has caused me more trouble. I'd planned on waiting for the moon and everything, and . . . but here it is. I bought it after we got in and I couldn't sleep for wanting to put it on your finger so the whole world would know you were spoken for."

He slipped a ring with a single blazing stone on her finger, then with Anne merrily singing in the dressing room to prove she wasn't listening, tried to make up for the lack of the moon.

He succeeded so well that Marian didn't think of Silver, nor of the letter she had placed on the dressing table, intending to slip it into her pocket, until they were near the airport.

They had talked of many things, principally of their honeymoon. "I hope we'll be able to make that without little Cheerio popping up some place. Honeymoons, you know are supposed to be spent all alone."

"With Hero?"

"You mean you want the pup too?" he asked in delighted surprise.

"I do, you know I saw him before I saw you. He was sitting in your car outside the Emergency Hospital. I had the queerest feeling about him, as if, somehow, he should belong to me."

By the time they reached the air terminal, the ship had landed and Silver was busily engaged in posing for new photographers. Seeing Lon, however, she flew to him, smiled at Marian, then linked her arm in Lon's and said, "can we hurry on now?"

"We can," said Lon, and with Marian on his other arm ushered them to the car.

"But I'm afraid I'll take cold," objected Silver as he helped Marian in first.

"Don't insult my car," countered Lon, adjusting the glass sides so no vagrant wind would blight her delicacy.

As they drove along Silver leaned forward and talked to Lon, ignoring Marian completely. Lon answered lightly, good naturedly. He said he was sorry he hadn't been able to wait for her in Reno; regretted she hadn't left her address so he might have advised her he was leaving; was sure her nerves were shattered by the air trip. And then they reached the hospital.

Not until they were ascending the steps of the big gray building where a hushed silence hovered like a pall, did Silver's animation leave her.

Marian saw her look down the long, dimly lighted corridors where nurses slipped along on rubber-soled shoes like wraiths from another world. She heard her catch her breath in a quick gasp, then saw the narrowing of the dark eyes.

Marian and Silver were left alone together as Lon stopped at the Superintendent's office for the written permission to visit Clifford Hondon.

"Listen, Ian," began Silver, "you got me into this, now it's up to you to stand by and see me through."

Marian nodded assent, afraid to speak for fear the relief she felt would tinge her voice. She was not only to accompany Silver to his bedside, but was to be able to prompt Silver on the bed.

"And Mr. Casad," Silver again linked her arm in his as he returned, "you will stay with me, won't you? It isn't as if everything were not over between Mr. Hondon and me, but I can't let him know that at a time like this, can I?"

"It wouldn't be sporting," Lon agreed.

"I just wanted to be sure you understood," murmured Silver, then became silent. They had reached the door leading to Hondon's room. They stepped in. The flowers that had smothered the room with perfume which still lingered, had been removed for the night. The room was barren, a gray-green cell with white woodwork, a white clothed nurse, a white bedstead and a white, silent figure on the bed.

Marian looked at him with awe. This was the man whose life had been saved with a lie.

Tip-toeing, as though they would achieve the rubber-soled silence of the nurses, the three moved into the center of the room, then Lon stepped back to let the two girls go alone to the bedside.

Marian had a vision of Cliff Hondon as she had once seen him, tall, bronzed, clad in the brief blue and white of the Varsity crew, flushed with the victory of that crew and with the realization that the lovely girl at his side was his for the asking.

BRITON SHATTERS AIR RECORDS

Now he lay, his face the color of the flat pad which served as a pillow for his head, his black hair accentuating the pallor. And watching him stood the girl he had had for the asking, and had given up for her asking.

"Mr. Hondon," the nurse spoke softly, "you have guests."

"The faintest flicker of a smile crossed the blue lips. "Show the boys in," he said.

"It isn't the boys this time," the nurse said lightly, "it's a lady."

"Silver . . ." he whispered the word in a voice charged more with emotion than life. "Silver," as if the hope it might be she, were more than he could bear to have frustrated.

Marian felt she was treading on sacred ground. This wasn't her place. She had no right to let any man expose the nakedness of his heart before anyone but the girl he loved. She sought to step back, but Silver's hand closed on her arm like a tentacle.

"What will I say?" she questioned with her eyes, and Marian responded in a feather-tipped whisper — "useless sacrifice! . . . should have explained! . . . hurry and recover so you can talk things over."

Silver released Marian and knelt at the bedside, looking at Lon rather than at Cliff. "Silly boy," she cooed, "why did you try that useless sacrifice? It was wonderful of you. So generous, but if you'd only explained things to me I'd have seen . . . everything differently. I didn't understand. You and Dad have always treated me like a child . . . how could you expect me to know what you know? But forget that. It's all in the past. You will forget, won't you, dear?"

"You said it," he whispered, and the wan, lifeless face began to glow as though the lamp of hope had been lighted behind it.

"Can't stay but a moment now," Silver continued, "but you must hurry and get well. Do what the doctor tells you and the nurse . . ."

Silver flashed a smile up at the nurse, let the smile die and stared with hostile eyes at the girl.

Marian followed her gaze. This was the Nora Reilly Anne had spoken about. She was lovely, typically Irish with dark hair that curled out from under the stiff white cap, the deep red and clear white complexion and the black-lashed eyes of clearest blue. She was looking at Silver with contempt, the eyes fairly blazing their knowledge that she knew she was lying to impress the handsome man who stood near the door.

"Oh, Silver," whispered Cliff, eyes closed, cold hand warming itself on her warm, soft one. "Silver, to even guess you care—"

Silver bent to leave a quick kiss on Hondon's brow and Marian's keen eye detected a grimace of distaste at the necessity. Again her disgust for the girl flamed.

Hildreth

sister, three years of age, down under the house crying. Mrs. Coburn stated that when she met her father, who was dressed in work clothes at the back door of the home, he indicated with his hands as if to say, "She is in there; she needs you," and that her father made the verbal statement, "She is in there." Mrs. Hildreth stated that she quickly to the floor almost in the front door, "with her head turned like she was expecting me" and said, "Bernice, he has killed me this time."
Q—(By the state)—Did you see any evidence of her being killed?
A—Yes, I saw an ice pick in her side.
Q—State again what your mother said to you?
A—She said, "Bernice, he has killed me this time. Get a doctor."
Q—You noticed an ice pick. State the condition of that ice pick?
A—It was right in her hip bone. I tried to pull it out and couldn't.
Q—Was the whole ice pick there?
A—No, just the staff of it. The handle was gone.
Q—Did you find any evidence other than that of her being hurt?
A—Yes, I looked on her chest and found several stabbed places.
Q—Now state how your mother was dressed at the time you found her.
A—She had on a dark Navy blue dress and had had on her hat but it was knocked off. It was lying on the floor near her. She had on white slippers and light hose. A little jacket was lying there by her head.
This latter testimony concerning how the deceased was dressed was brought for the purpose of showing that Mrs. Hildreth, at the time of the homicide, was preparing to go to a moving picture show and that her husband, the defendant, had objected to her leaving. The testimony at this point also shows that Mrs. Hildreth's youngest child, Wilma Jean, was also dressed preparatory to going with her mother.
The witness testified further that upon reaching her mother she noticed six or seven rather small holes in her chest, that the metal part of the ice pick was sticking in near her mother's hip bone and that she found the handle of the pick on the chiffonier in the same room.
The defense did not cross examine the witness.
The next witness for the state was F. L. Austin, who testified he lived a block south and a block east of the home of the defendant; that on the date of the killing he arrived home about 6:05 or 6:10 p. m., and found the doors of his garage, which he stated he usually left propped open, closed and on entering the garage found the defendant, W. R. Hildreth sitting in the garage.
Q—(By the state)—In what condition did you find him (Hildreth)?
A—He had his throat and I noticed one wrist—not know whether both or not—cut. He was not bleeding then; it looked like the blood was clotted. I did not know Hildreth at that time, but he was the man I found.
Q—State in what condition you found him?
A—I found him sitting there. The first thing I noticed was his throat was cut, but it wasn't bleeding at that time and after I lifted him up I could see his wrist was cut. That was the condition in which I found him. He was sitting or kind of laying on the ground.
Q—Did it show evidence he had bled there?
A—Yes, there was about three big spots of blood—puddles of it. He was in a weakened condition at that time. I finally got him up and led him around to Smith and Maupin's. I believe it is, grocery store. I took him to Mr. Maupin's store, but did not know who he was. I went and asked Mr. Maupin if he had a telephone and he said he didn't and I asked him to come out and see who the fellow was as I had found him and didn't know who he was.

Q—Did the defendant have any kind of instrument in his hands when you found him?
A—No. He was holding his hat in one hand and didn't have anything in the other.
The defense did not cross examine the witness.
Maupin's Testimony
Next witness for the State was D. C. Maupin, who testified he operates a grocery business just across the alley from the home of the defendant and the deceased, and that he saw the defendant late in the afternoon in question.
Q—(By the State)—What condition did you find him in?
A—Looked like he was in bad shape.
Q—Did he say anything to you?
A—Yeah, I asked what he wanted and he said an ambulance.
Q—Did you get an ambulance?
A—No, I called the sheriff.
Q—Where was Mr. Hildreth then—inside the store?
A—He was outside on a bench and when I came back from the telephone he said he wanted a drink of water and I started to get it and he got to the wall and I saw he could stand up. When he got in the store I poured out some water and gave him a drink. By that time a crowd gathered and I stepped to the door and about that time the sheriff came in the store and I came right in behind him.
Q—Did he (Hildreth) ask you anything else there?
A—He asked me if I had heard how his wife was getting along.
Q—What did you tell him?
A—I told him I didn't know anything about it.
Q—Had you heard?
A—I had heard some things, but I didn't tell him anything about it.
Q—After the sheriff came there, did you see the defendant at any time—did he have a knife?
A—I saw the sheriff take a knife from him.
Q—Had you seen the knife prior to that?
A—Not in the house. It was on the bench that he had the knife. He had a knife in his hand like he was feeling of it, sitting on the bench. The little blade was open. And then I saw the knife again when the sheriff took it away from him.
Q—Did you see him doing anything with the knife other than having it in his hand when he was outside?
A—I suppose he was scratching the blood off of him, or something. He had it up this way (indicating) as the sheriff told him to take it away from him.
There was no cross examination by defense.
Sheriff Gives Testimony
Next witness was Jess Slaughter, Sheriff, who testified he arrested the defendant at Maupin's store and that at time of arrest the defendant was about three feet inside the store.
Q—(By the State)—When you saw him (the defendant) what was he doing?
A—Had his hand up there to his throat. He had a knife in his hand and the knife was open. He was cutting or trying to cut himself. I grabbed his hand and took the knife away from him.
Q—What kind of cut did he have on his throat?
A—Long cut on the right hand side, saw two inches and two places on the side (indicating) and two places on his wrist. The cut on the right side of his throat was pretty deep. I could see the jugular vein, but it had not been cut, thought it had been cut to the hollow.
The witness then exhibited the knife he took from the defendant and the handle of the ice pick he found on the table in the kitchen at the home of the defendant, the two exhibits, together with the metal part of the ice pick being introduced in evidence by the state at this point in the trial.
The defense offered no cross examination.
Dr. Hoover Testifies
The next State's witness was Dr. T. E. Hoover, who, in response to a question immediately went to the home of Mrs. Hildreth.
Q—(By the State). What condition did you find her (deceased) when you got there?
A—She was on the floor in the front room on her back. She was lying on her back with some blood coming from her mouth. She was complaining of pain.
Q—Did you find any evidences of suffering other than her complaints?
A—I examined her chest there and I found seven small places approximately 2-8th of an inch in diameter, openings in her skin as if from a needle or something, and also protruding from her left pelvic bone about half of the butt of the metal part of an ice pick. I took this metal part of the ice pick over to her (the deceased) and turned the ice pick over to Mr. Jess Slaughter.
The witness testified he did not make a thorough examination of Mrs. Hildreth at the house, but gave her something for pain, called an ambulance and assisted her to the hospital, making a further examination there; that she was much paler after arriving at the hospital and was complaining of pain in the region of her heart.
At this point the defense raised the objection, after the State asked the doctor if Mrs. Hildreth made any statement after arriving at the hospital, and the State then withdrew the question. He testified a stethoscope had revealed intestinal bleeding.
The doctor testified further as to location of the wounds in the deceased's body, which included a wound behind her left ear, eight around her left hip and on the left side of her neck, making twenty in all, and that all the wounds appeared to have been made with the same instrument; that the death of Mrs. Hildreth was caused by internal hemorrhage caused by puncture wounds of the heart and major blood vessels, two of the wounds being in the heart and that

Mrs. Hildreth died approximately 15 minutes after she reached her. No cross examination was offered by defense.
Orville Hildreth Next Witness
The next witness of the State was Orville Hildreth, son of the defendant and of the deceased, who stated he worked at the Ritz Theatre. The State attempted to bring out that the witness helped support the family and that on the date of the killing had invited his mother to attend the show. The defense objected on the grounds that supporting of the family had nothing to do with this case and that any conversation regarding the attending of the show by Mrs. Hildreth were not had in the presence of the defendant. The court sustaining the objections, the witness was excused.
Pauline Hildreth Testifies
Next witness for the State was Pauline Hildreth, 18 year old daughter of the defendant and deceased, who was placed on the stand to prove that the defendant objected to his wife attending the picture show on the date of the homicide. The witness testified that the deceased, with other members of the family, was discussing attending the show, when the defendant entered the room and asked his wife what she said. The witness, Miss Hildreth, stated, regarding a conversation on Sunday prior to the homicide, "We were talking about going to the show and about this time she (the deceased) said they would have a thing about going to the show. Daddy came in and asked mother what she said and mother said, 'yes, you will have a fit if I start.' The show and daddy says, 'wait and see what happens if you go to the show.'" The witness testified further that her mother had planned at noon to go to the show, saying something about going the afternoon of the killing, and that she was in the house at that afternoon at two o'clock.
The defense offered no cross examination.

Mrs. Coburn On Stand
The State's next witness was Mrs. Paul Coburn, who stated she lived near the home of the deceased; that on the date of the homicide she heard some hoisting in the house and she went to the time she got to her back door she met the daughter of Mrs. Hildreth, who in turn called her to the home of her mother; that on arriving at the deceased home Mrs. Hildreth was lying sprawled on her back on the floor and that the deceased "didn't know anything; she didn't say anything." She stated further that she saw no one other than Mrs. Hildreth and the three year old child.
There was no cross examination by defense.
Tells of Wounds
Mrs. A. E. Bell Bentley, testified she had prepared the body and buried her, testifying as to the location of the wounds on the body and stating in all there were 21, all of them being small round wounds.
There was no cross examination by defense.
Son Recalled
Orville Hildreth was recalled as next witness by the state, who stated that he believed his mother knew she was going to die, but this testimony was objected to by the defense on the grounds that the witness stated his own belief and as any statement she might have made was not made in the presence of the defendant it would be inadmissible. The objection was sustained, after the state brought in that the doctor had testified Mrs. Hildreth died 15 minutes after she got to the hospital. The defense further attempted to exclude the testimony brought out by the state that Mrs. Hildreth then said that the father had told the children this. The court sustained the defendant's objection, instructing the jury not to consider the question for any purpose.
The state then asked the following question of the witness:
Q—I asked you if you ever heard the defendant make any threats of bodily injury to your mother?
A—Yes.
Q—Can you place the time when any were made, approximately?
A—I would say—it was a number of times—off and on—I would say not more than a month passed.
Q—(By the state) On a week before (the homicide) what did you hear him tell her?
A—I had heard several—I heard several complaints that she was not to go to the theatre without, it seemed like, his permission—she couldn't go anymore. He had said the night before that if she went, she would probably go away in a box.
Q—You heard that the night before?
A—Yes.
Q—Had you heard him objecting to various times of her going to town or anywhere else leaving home?
A—Yes.
The witness testified that on the day of the killing all the children were at school except Mrs. Coburn, the baby and himself.
Q—State whether or not you had heard him make threats of personal injury to her (the deceased) a week or around a week before this happened?
A—Well, it was a very common occurrence up before this, even.
Q—When were these threats made?
A—Mostly at night time at our home.
Q—Do you know of any occasion at any time prior to the death of your mother when your father did commit an injury upon your mother?
A—Yes. Last April 10th.
The witness testified that the ice pick introduced in evidence previously was not theirs, they having only one ice pick in the house and that the one they used was a pick with a shorter shaft and was filed on the side.
The testimony was introduced in an attempt to show the defendant did not use the ice pick used in the home, but had come prepared with another ice pick, indicating premeditated murder.
There was no cross examination.
Miss Pauline Hildreth was recalled by the state, stating she had never seen the ice pick which had previously been introduced by the state in evidence and that only one ice pick was used in the home,

MICHIGAN SEEKS COMEBACK IN ILLINOIS GAME

Michigan hopes to rise from the depths and spoil Illinois' Big Ten title ambitions in their annual encounter to be played this year at Ann Arbor October 27. The Illini, on the other hand, are confident their tricky pass offense will mean another defeat for the Wolverines. Major cogs in the opposing eleven include Les Lindberg, halfback, and Bart Cummings, tackle and end, for Illinois, and Vincent Aug, halfback, and Capt. Tom Austin, tackle, for Michigan. Critic Praises Excellent Cast In "Mrs. Wiggs Of The Cabbage Patch" Showing At Ritz Theatre

(By LUCILLE RIX)
Those who have read "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" could not have imagined the characters of the story any differently than they are portrayed by the excellent cast that was selected for it. After seeing Pauline Lord in the title role one could not conceive of any one else in the part. She, as the lovable Mrs. Wiggs, shows the faith in life that cheers her household and her neighbors; takes the hardest blows with a smile because she has the love and esteem of everyone who knows her. Into the shanty, she brings the joy of living to her brood of five, never letting them know the pain in her heart for them because she is unable to give them more than her love.
Zasu Pitts in the flirty Miss Hazy, a lovelorn maiden lady, with her large and eyes, wavering voice and ever moving hands Miss Pitts is her usual amusing self. Her mail order husband, portrayed by W. C. Fields, tricked into marriage by a meal cooked by the good friend Mrs. Wiggs, finally takes up culinary efforts himself. His performance is good if one cares for W. C. Fields.
Evelyn Venable and Kent Taylor furnish the romantic interest and are entertaining. As people who live on the right side of the track, they help Mrs. Wiggs financially and she helps them patch up their lovers' quarrels.
The juvenile characters deserve much praise, from the little girl who sends Miss Hazy into nervous spells to the oldest boy who is the breadwinner for the family. Their acting is natural and convincing and leaves one with the feeling that he has actually been with them in their joys and sorrows.
Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch has been awarded the medal as the "family-audience-movie-of-the-month" in the November issue of The Parents' Magazine. It is a picture that everyone can enjoy.

SCIENTISTS BELIEVE LIGHT RAYS MAY AID FARMERS

CINCINNATI, (UP)—Scientists envision the possibility of improving the farmer's economic condition by light rays. Dr. George Sperl, director of the basic research laboratory, University of Cincinnati, disclosed here. In an inspection tour of the laboratory following a meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, he demonstrated to members how gamma rays—the waves between X-rays and ultraviolet rays—are used to change the form of biological matter. The hope of scientists, he said, is to use the rays in creating new types of plants, thus giving the farmer non-competing products for market sale. Already the experiments have been successful in radiating the eggs of fruit flies and John C. Fardoni, associate of the laboratory, has been able to produce fruit with deformed wings.

Hollinger kept several assistants busy picking up discarded pieces as he dressed the steer.

The mattress factory to be operated by relief clients here has been put into operation. Shifts vary from seven to nine during the week. It was also made plain that the products will be distributed only to parties in dire need of the product. Although a large quantity of material is on hand, much of it will be distributed to other points in this district since Big Spring is a district distribution center, Mollweaver said.

Then from the hot veins throbbing, Bribe nature's urgent sobbing, "I Thirst" for He was man with us, And for our sakes He suffered thus.

Association's Stock Is Hiked

MIDLAND—Capital stock of the Midland Production Credit association has recently been increased from $180,000 to $200,000, according to L. E. Layne, acting secretary and treasurer of the association. This increase in capitalization was necessary in order to take care of the increased volume of livestock loans being made and in anticipation of the money crop next season. By discounting all loans with the Federal Intermediate Credit bank of Houston, the association can have total loans equal to five times the amount of its capitalization. Layne said the association is doing business in 30 counties, Midland, Martin, Howard, Glasscock, Reagan, Upton, Crane, Winkler, Ector and Andrews.
