

Raindrops keep...

Where are the raincoat and umbrella when you need them? Though some students had all the rain gear with them through a soggy week, others relied on convenient trees, books and plastic for protection. Others simply carried their shoes and enjoyed it. Weather forecasters are optimistic, however, predicting clearing skies and temperatures in the 60-70 degree range for Saturday night's opening football game. ## SA president calls for fee reallocation

BY DEBBI WHITNEY
UD Reporter

Some services funded by the student service fee should receive allocations from some other fund, according to Student Association President Terry Wimmer.

Wimmer said in his State of the Student Association Address last week that the estimated revenue from student service fees is $1,255,826. Twenty services are provided from the money, but Wimmer feels the services do not provide a sufficient number on the amount of money spent.

EACH STUDENT is charged $2.10 per credit hour for the fee up to 12 hours with anyone enrolled in more than 12 hours paying a $25 total.

Students paying the $25 are entitled to all student services. Anyone enrolled in less than 12 hours is entitled only to certain services, the number proportionate to the amount of money the student pays.

The Student Senate receives $49,725 of the fee income which Wimmer said is allocated to operational costs, programs such as the housing guide, senate operations such as various committees, academics and dues. The SA also has an approximate $5,000 for a reserve fund, which is mostly left for the following year's SA to use.

THE SA also controls another $24,000 which is allocated to various campus organizations. The SA budget and finance committee this week has been reviewing applications from organizations requesting subsidy.

The organizations' requests approved by the committee will go before the Student Senate for approval by majority vote next week.

Wimmer said he cannot see the student service fee as the source for the income for some of the services presently subsidized.

"STUDENTS ARE getting suspicious about where their money is going, and they have reason to be," he said.

Wimmer feels women's athletics, which receives $155,000 from the fee, should be subsidized from somewhere else because not enough students benefit from the service. Wimmer said he is not being prejudiced, but he does not think women's athletics deserves the proportion of money it receives from the fee.

The student identification card system which receives $19,000 could also be reconstructed, Wimmer feels. He said the Tech Bookstore only provides the cover for the cards, so photography costs and processing must be paid for through student services. Wimmer feels another business might pay for the entire process to get the advertisement space on the cover.

WIMMER MENTIONED checking into exactly what the $250,000 intercollegiate athletics reserve fund is used for and if it should come entirely from student services.

The University Theater receives $18,500 out of the fee, Wimmer said, but students still have to pay to see theater productions.

Wimmer said he will express his feelings to the student service fee advisory board composed of Dr. Robert Ewalt, vice president of student affairs, and seven students. Wimmer hopes next year's budget will allow for more services which go directly to the students.

State aid for hospitals sought by local district

By NAN BURK
UD Reporter

Representatives of the Lubbock County Hospital District (LCHD) were in Austin this week to push for state aid for primary teaching hospitals throughout the state.

Harold Coston, LCHD executive director, and Joe Stanley, LCHD board member, joined representatives from five of the seven teaching hospitals in the state to urge a house subcommittee to support state funding for the financially troubled teaching hospitals.

"THE LOCAL TAXPAYERS are picking up the tab on these teaching hospitals," Stanley said. "Teaching costs are being paid for through county tax base funds."

The hospital representatives are asking for approximately 25 per cent of the teaching hospital's operating costs be paid by the state.

The bill will be sponsored by Sen. Chet Brooks when the legislature convenes in January, Stanley said. Brooks sponsored the bill last year.

"The bill was approved by the senate," Stanley said. "But it didn't get out of the house last year because it was so late in the session and there were not enough funds to cover the expenses."

STANLEY SAID if the bill comes to the floor of the house and senate early enough, there should be no problem passing the legislation.

"I don't think there will be any hangups," he said. "The bill should come out of committee and go to the floor for a vote fairly quickly."

The hospital representatives told subcommittee members that although the benefits from teaching hospitals—namely, qualified physicians—are spread throughout the state. But the costs of the operation of teaching hospitals are borne by local taxpayers.

"IT COSTS about 41 per cent more to build a primary teaching hospital than it does to build a general hospital," Stanley said. Larger rooms, additional copies of x-rays and lab results and other factors account for the cost differences.

Mao Tse-tung dead at 82

TOKYO (AP) — Chairman Mao Tse tung died Thursday, plunging China into an uncertain political future and leaving a gaping hole in the leadership of the world's most populous nation.

As if anticipating a power struggle for Mao's mantle, the Central Committee of the Communist party issued an appeal for unity.

In a statement, the committee pledged to "carry on the cause left behind by Chairman Mao."

The No. 2 man in the party has been Hua Kuo feng, 57, regarded as a compromise candidate between the quarreling radicals led by Mao's widow, Chiang Ching, and the moderates led by followers of the late Premier Chou En lai and his protegee, ousted Vice Premier Teng Hsiao ping.

But the succession to the chairmanship was uncertain and severe jockeying for power had already been going on for some time. The official Peking People's Daily recently hinted of "armed struggle" between the two factions, although no reports of bloodshed have surfaced.

The 82-year-old Mao died at 12:10 a.m. — 12:10 p.m. EDT Wednesday — the Hsinhua news agency said. He had been ill for some time and had acted more as a mediator in China's affairs than a day by day boss of the country. Hsinhua said no foreign governments or groups would be invited to send representatives to a memorial rally set for Sept. 18.

The new agency did not give the cause of death or say where Mao died. American and other recent visitors to China reported he was frail and had trouble speaking. Medical experts who studied film of his recent appearances said he showed symptoms of Parkinson's disease.

President Ford, who conferred with Mao for almost two hours last December, said in Washington that his death was "tragic," and called him a "remarkable and very great man."

Stanley said if the bill passes, state funds probably would not be allocated until after the teaching hospital opens. The hospital is scheduled to open in September, 1977.

The LCHD has received an $8 million loan from the state and a $1 million grant to help finance the Med School.

But the Med School will begin operations with a large deficit if state aid is not received.

STANLEY SAID teaching hospitals throughout the state are facing similar financial troubles.

"We all have joined together to ask the state to help us defray costs of operating primary teaching hospitals," Stanley said. "We just want the state to come through with a portion of the operating costs."

Representatives from Bexar, Harris, Dallas and Lubbock counties attended the subcommittee hearings this week.

SA to conduct probe of University Police

By JACK BEAVERS
UD Reporter

Quality and Efficiency of the University Police Department (UPD) will come under close scrutiny soon as investigation by the Judiciary Committee begins of Tech's Student Association (SA) David Ratliff, committee chairman, said Thursday.

The investigation is the result of an 83-hour study of the UPD conducted by SA Senator Ron Hutchinson last spring. Hutchinson and Ratliff have spent most of the summer conducting a preliminary investigation by gathering information and records necessary to the current investigation.

RATLIFF SAID the committee will attempt to evaluate the efficiency and quality of service of the UPD by comparing its operations with police departments of other major Texas universities, and determine how effectively the UPD acts with the money and equipment it is provided.

"We are especially interested in soliciting student feedback in the form of complaints or suggestions concerning the University Police Department," said Ratliff. "So what myself and my committee members are going to try to do is to make ourselves as accessible as possible," he said.

"We are establishing a telephone complaint system so that we can compile a complete and justifiable set of records to base the investigation upon," said Ratliff.

STUDENTS WISHING to contribute to the investigation may call the Student Association offices between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays at 742-3631.

"We want to assure everybody that we will maintain the strictest confidentiality in this matter. We will do all we can to protect the student's anonymity," Ratliff said. "All we ask is that they give us their name and their phone number so that we can contact them if we need more specific information relative to their complaint," he said.

"But we do want the students to help us out with this investigation. If the telephone phase folds up we're really up a creek," Ratliff said.

"WE'RE GOING to proceed with this investigation very carefully," he said. "We're going to be especially cautious when it comes to dealing with any allegations against individual officers," Ratliff said.

"The worst we can do is to come up with a fair evaluation of the department's service and give the administration something to work with," Ratliff said.

Couples replacing images of dorm mother, father

By TERRI CULLEN
UD Reporter

Moving into the dorm, freshmen are given literature explaining dorm and campus rules. An explicit rule says that members of the opposite sex are not allowed in the rooms except during visitation. What can residents do when they see a member of the opposite sex walking into the head resident's apartment with a set of books and leave dressed in shorts and carrying a tennis racket?

The movie image of the dorm mother or father is being replaced by young couples who are only a few years older than the residents in the dorm. Of the 17 dorms on campus, six have either a young married man or woman serving as the head resident.

"GUYS SITTING in the lobby must wonder who this guy is who can walk in and out while they sit and wait," Grace Strano, Gates head resident, said speaking of her husband. The 22-year-old head resident with dark, waist-length hair said her husband enjoys living in the dorm. "He's the only guy in a building full of girls," she said laughing.

Tom Musick, Wells head resident, said his wife will not eat in the cafeteria without him.

"It's awkward for her to eat in an all-boy situation," he said. "Some of the things guys do shock her."

"SOME GUYS don't know who I am yet," Musick said. "I'm 23, yet, I know I look 18. A couple of guys after seeing me with my wife, have later, when I'm alone, asked me where my girl friend is."

Privacy is something the head residents agreed was hard to come by. With room changes over, telephones have stopped ringing at odd-hours and, according to Strano, things should get quieter.

Marla Hands, Knapp head resident, said she is always there to help, yet she wishes little things could be brought to her during her office hours. Hands and her husband, Saint Lawrence (He is having his name changed because Larry Williams is too common,) have only been married for two months.

WITH A front door that opens into the lobby and their bedroom wall against a resident's room, Musick said their privacy depends on dorm activities. "The mornings are the quietest," Musick said. "Because our air conditioning makes a humming sound, we aren't really bothered unless the noise outside is really loud."

Being married is advantageous to a head resident, according to the Wells head resident.

"IF I WASN'T married, I'd need a real close friend to talk to and relate to," Musick said.

Once a month, head residents are given a weekend off. Mary Sousa, Stangel counselor, said she and her husband use those weekends to get away from it all. The weekends, she says, help her keep her head together.

Handis said she does not want to be looked at as a mother image.

"Look at me," she said, "do I look like the mother image?" Handis, dressed casually, has dark, curly hair and her fingernails are usually painted either metallic blue, metallic green or frosty panda.

"THE GIRLS here are adults whether they like it or not," she said. "I want to help them be responsible for their own lives and become independent — not play mother."

Steve Maher, Carpenter head resident, said being a head resident is a working challenge.

"Over the years," he said, "I've seen a person go from a momma's boy to an individual person with his own ideas."

SAINT LAWRENCE said he thinks the term head resident is too authoritative. He suggested the term be changed to experienced resident or head friend.

"The term head resident can put up barriers and discourage warmth," he said.

Though there are advantages to being only a couple of years older than residents, disadvantages do exist. Handis said she has been asked to turn down her stereo because it was too loud. Even when she was listening through earphones the music has been heard in the hall, she said.

During a recent panty raid at Knapp Hall, Saint Lawrence stepped onto his balcony to see what was happening. Two roommates looking at Handis window became concerned when they saw a guy on the balcony near the window. The incident was reported to Handis.

Maybe by the next panty raid, the hall residents will not be startled by the appearance of their head resident's husband.

Conferees approve tax cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate House conferees approved a far reaching bill Thursday night that assures tax relief to individuals and businesses through 1977 but sharply raises the tax on wealthy investors.

The basic individual tax cut extension would be worth about $180 a year to a typical family of four.

In addition, the measure would completely overhaul the gift and estate tax laws; provide special tax benefits to working parents, the elderly and a host of industries and simplify the tax filing process.

The bill, three years in the making, now goes to the House and Senate for final consideration.

The compromise measure, when extension of the individual and business tax cuts is disregarded, would raise federal revenues by $1.6 billion in 1977, dropping to 1984 million by 1981.

Thus, the bill easily meets congressional budget targets for the 12 month period that begins on Oct. 1.

Miss America: a masochist's dream

Alabama, Alaska, Arizona ... no, that is not ad for Uncle Sam's 7-Up cans.

It's a roll call, probably the most famous roll call in the country, introducing 50 of America's "most beautiful and talented" women.

It's September's song: the time to view beauty, intelligence and poise, the time to see more film clips of Atlantic City, the time for Bert Parks to work — it's the Miss America Pageant.

AS MUCH fun as I make of the pageant every year, I can't stand to miss it. Watching Miss America is a masochistic addiction similar to watching the Academy Awards. Every year I tune in to see my favorite lose.

So much has already been said about the pageant and it's worthiness — it's exploitation of women, its dishonest judging — badmouthing it any more would be like hacking away at deadwood. But here's some more hacking, anyway.

In all honesty, I love to watch the show, and I've had my share of dreams of wearing the crown and cape, carrying the scepter and waving into the television cameras. But after the girl is named, I realize the only thing I've really gotten out of the show is learning to name the states — in alphabetical order.

THE CONTEST is really just another symbolic gesture by the American people to search for the "ideal."

But in order to be chosen the "ideal," the contestant needs to be at least five-seven, cannot be from the state the current winner is from, and, as Johnny Carson contends, must have three names (i.e. Kitty Litter won't make it, but Kitty Ann Litter is a cinch).

For most people, watching attractive girls (even other girls can admire beauty) isn't so bad. But watching 50 girls with the same shape, hairstyle, walk and ambitions can get to you. Sometimes I wonder if the same girl isn't being introduced, wearing a different outfit and state name tag.

THEIR HOBBIES are always traveling, meeting people, cheerleading and smiling.

None of them have average American ambitions. Usually college coeds, they have triple majors (in combinations like horticulture, engineering and deaf education), and they're all dedicated to helping the poor and handicapped. By now we shouldn't even have any more poor and handicapped with so much help floating around.

The talent often varies, but the particular presentation in each category is always the same: the singers sing an outdated song and the dramatists do that same scene from "Gone with the Wind" where Scarlet is vomiting in the turnip patch.

WITH ALL the similarities, it's a wonder the judges can tell the girls apart.

If we're going to be so adamant about choosing a girl to represent the country, she should at least be chosen for the qualities she has managed to develop on her own, not those that have been a combined effort of manager, costume designer, makeup consultant and talent coordinator.

A girl shouldn't have to be subject to a year's worth of grueling work to make herself look like the other 49 contestants who are going through the same grueling work to look like her.

THE CONTEST could have some honest merits if it required the girls to present themselves, not the selves they've been molded into.

So much money goes into finding, producing and selecting an "ideal," the final product should be able to contribute more to the country she represents than just orange juice commercials.

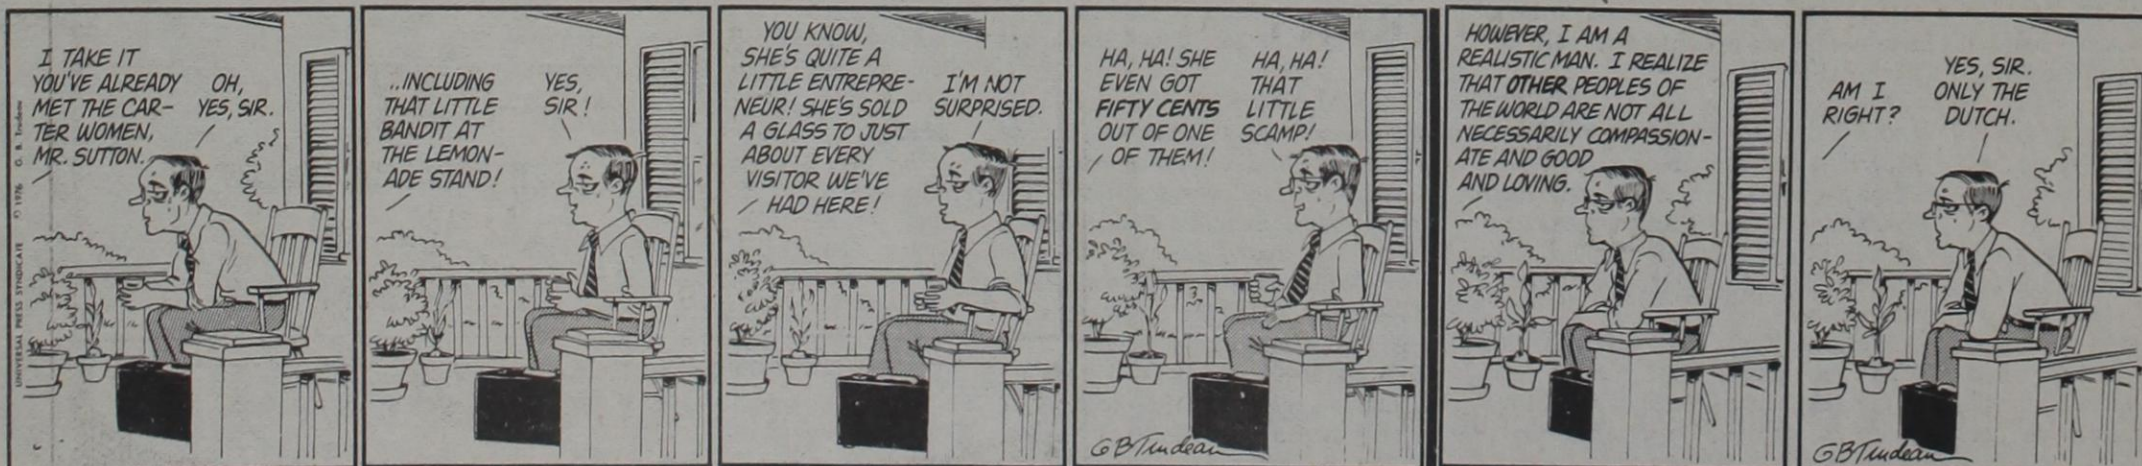

But then, if the contest were done right, it wouldn't be nearly as much fun to watch. And if it weren't for the Colorado game tomorrow, I'd be glued to my set, in anxious anticipation.

Usefulness of SA Court questioned

Until last summer, I had no idea what a Student Association Supreme Court was, and I am still wondering exactly what it does.

The court's purpose, according to SA President Terry Wimmer, is to rule on the constitutionality of Student Senate legislation and to serve as the last appeal board in election disputes.

Wimmer said, however, that cases rarely come before the court.

LAST YEAR, Wimmer said, the court was to be used as a traffic violation appeals committee, but the idea never worked out. The court also possibly was to be used as a voice box for students with complaints against other students or student organizations, but Wimmer said the idea was too difficult to instigate because of the number of cases that would come before the court.

The biggest problem with the court, Wimmer said, is that no one knows it exists and that it is not recognized by many SA members or Tech's administration.

WIMMER SUGGESTED in an interview earlier this year that he would like to get the court involved in more activities, but he said the court is the SA judiciary committee's responsibility now.

The committee has not made any suggestions concerning the court's duties yet.

The court members, one chief justice and four associate justices, are selected by the SA president unless he does not meet the deadline for selection. The decision is then left to the judiciary committee.

SINCE WIMMER could not meet the selection deadline, the committee has been interviewing applicants this week. Because only one person had applied for the court on Tuesday, the application deadline was extended to Thursday.

I can hardly blame students for not applying for a position that has no purpose.

Since the need for a grade appeals board has been greatly stressed by Wimmer since he was elected, why couldn't the court serve that purpose? With a few set restrictions on what kind of appeals would come before the court, I think the board could be a successful operation.

Surely the SA can find a practical use for the court. The members go through too much, taking applications and interviewing applicants, to select members to a court that currently has no purpose.

MOMENT'S NOTICE

Nurses fear career damaged

AUSTIN (AP) - Nurses told a House subcommittee Thursday they feared that a University of Texas regent decision wiping out the central nursing office here could destroy nurses' chances to operate outside hospitals.

Barbara Frank of Houston said the dissolution of the nursing system office, effective Sept. 1, was part of a "last ditch effort" by "some doctors in organized medicine" against expanded roles for nurses.

"We should be educated to function as a thinking practitioner, not just carry out manual skills," she told the subcommittee on medical education.

Regents voted March 26 to dissolve the central office here, which had 27 employees, and to have each of the six schools of nursing in the system administer their own affairs.

The schools are at El Paso, San Antonio, Galveston, Houston, Austin and Fort Worth.

Ford challenges defense cuts

(AP) - President Ford today challenged Jimmy Carter's proposals on defense cutbacks, saying they would make it "impossible to maintain a defense adequate to maintain our freedom and the freedom of our friends."

Following Carter by a day in speaking to the B'nai B'rith national convention, Ford said his Democratic opponent's defense policies would force the United States to depend on "a nuclear strategy of massive retaliation" that would invite a major crisis with allies.

Carter, meanwhile, continued criticizing Ford for conducting his campaign from the White House rather than getting out to the country.

Ford, he said, "has not been a leader."

Carter wants Chinese first

(AP) - Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter said Thursday he would rather have China's new leaders visit the United States before any trip he might make to Peking as president. A Ford administration spokesman scoffed at the statement.

The death of Chairman Mao Tse tung brought an expression of confidence from President Ford that the improved U.S. China relations Mao helped create "will continue to contribute to world peace and stability."

Carter said that although it is too early to assess the impact of Mao's death "it is important for us to take full advantage of the opportunity for freindship with China."

Tramps offer ticket service

Tech students who have not secured a ticket for Saturday's football game may attempt to do so by calling the Saddle Tramp office before 5 p.m. today. Names of callers will be placed on a waiting list.

Individuals who have tickets for the game and have decided not to attend will be able to call the office and leave their phone number and the number of tickets they wish to sell.

Saddle Tramps will then contact, on a first-on-the-list basis, those students who have called to purchase a ticket.

There will be no direct sales out of the Saddle Tramp office. Instead, buyers will be given the number of a seller and will have to contact that person on their own.

For future home games, students may also buy and sell ticket draw coupons through the Saddle Tramp office. Calls will be taken from 9 a.m. Monday to 12 noon Thursday during the week before each game.

The Saddle Tramp office is located at 6th Street and Boston Avenue in Building X-99. The phone is 742-3895.

Home provided for geese

LOVELOCK, Nev. (AP) - Bill Milich operates a home for wayward and handicapped geese.

Those big, graceful Canadian honkers fleeing the cold climes stop on southern treks to rest for a while or spend the winter on Bill's familiar pond.

They have a better chance there than they would if they were flying in front of the sights on his favorite 16 gauge shotgun.

Bill has been mothering geese for years. Come fall, the honkers move southward through the spacious valleys in Pershing County and light on the Milich property. He often feeds them on his front lawn.

"There are times when maybe 400 geese will fly over here," he said, waving his arm to the sky. "People stop on Highway 80 and cause traffic jams just to watch the birds."

Milich is a sportsman, a conservationist first and one of the state's most highly touted goose hunters second.

He has a license to raise the honkers and to raise some other game birds. But his favorite is the goose. He has a federal Fish and Wildlife license to do his thing.

Why does a hunter spend so much time as he does to hunt and kill fowl, then also take the time and care to raise them?

Tech visit set by Carter

Jack Carter, oldest son of Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter, will be in Lubbock Tuesday to help open Democratic Headquarters in Lubbock and to meet informally with Tech students.

Carter will conduct a one-hour question-and-answer session in the UC Coronado room at 4 p.m.

At 6:30 p.m. Carter will attend a banquet for the Food and Fiber Institute at the Lubbock Country Club.

Salisbury speech slated

Pulitzer prize-winning journalist Harrison Salisbury will speak on "Partners for Peace or War: USA, USSR, and China" Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the UC Ballroom.

Salisbury has traveled to the Sino-Soviet border several times since the 1960s. His dispatches from the border pinpointed mounting tensions between Russia and China.

He was the Russian correspondent for the New York Times after joining the newspaper in 1949.

During the Vietnam War, he traveled throughout Southeast Asia for the New York Times.

In 1967, Salisbury went to North Vietnam with the approval of the U.S. State Department, and his reports during the visit made front page headlines.

Salisbury is regarded as an authority concerning conditions on the Asian continent. During his career, Salisbury has served as Associate Editor of the New York Times, and moderator of the CBS Morning Show.

While working at the Chicago Bureau of the United Press during the 1930s, he covered the trail of Al Capone.

Salisbury is serving as President of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, which is composed of artists, writers and composers eminent in their fields.

Examination deadline extended

The deadline for credit-by-examination applications for History 231 and 232 has been rescheduled to Sept. 15, according to Paul Woods, history department professor.

Applications may be picked up in the Social Science Building, room 119.

The examination, which is free to all Tech students, is scheduled for Oct. 9 at 8:30 a.m. in the Social Science Building, rooms 112 and 117, Woods said.

On Your Case

"What's the most common problem Tech students encounter?" is probably the most common question I'm asked. Most people think apartment disputes are the only student legal hassle, but I've met several thousand students who would dispute that claim.

Yet, there is no denying that apartment questions provide a consistent work load for the legal aid office. Most are seasonal, September, January and May. Move-in; move-out time.

Q: What are the most frequent complaints students raise about apartments?

A: Unrefunded security deposits, unkept promises and failure to do maintenance and repair.

Q: What is the Texas law on security deposits?

A: Owners must refund deposits within thirty days or provide written justification of deductions. Failure to do so is evidence of bad faith subjecting the owner to a suit for three times the amount of the deposit withheld, $100.00 in punitive (punishment) damages, court costs and attorney's fees.

Q: How can I improve my chances for a deposit refund?

A: Make sure agreements pertaining to deposit refund are written. Read, ask questions if confused; and keep a signed copy. Inventory the apartment upon moving in. Draw damage to the attention of the owner and have it noted in writing. Inventory-condition forms are helpful. If the manager refuses to inventory, secure nonroommate friends as witnesses to the condition of the apartment. Do the same upon moving out. Do not just leave the apartment. Refund keys, and leave a proper forwarding address.

Q: What if the owner keeps my deposit?

A: Firstly, don't blow it off. Secondly, quickly come to the legal aid office. Several options are available. In most cases, an attempt will be made to negotiate a settlement. Many Lubbock owners respond, some notoriously don't. Small claims court and the Assistant Attorney General for Consumer Protection are two other possibilities.

Q: What should I not do or?

A: Angrily handle it on your own. In reason there may be profit!

Q: If I receive a partial refund, should I cash it?

A: No, not if you are dissatisfied. Cashing a partial refund usually signified acceptance of the owner's compromise offer.

Q: May I deduct the deposit from the last month's rent?

A: No. The law specifically prohibits it and doing so could subject you to a law suit.

Q: Doesn't the law require owners to keep deposits in separate accounts and pay the interest earned to the renter?

A: No.

Q: What can I do to help avoid unkept promises?

A: Keep them to a minimum; reduce them to writing. If an apartment needs massive work, get it done before you move in. Be sure the owner spells out in a lease clause what he promises to do and set a deadline for having it done.

WSO accepts male pledges

Tech's Women's Service Organization (W.S.O.) will be accepting men pledges this semester, according to Sherry Franz, president of WSO.

The decision, Franz said, was brought about by the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare's Title IX prohibition against discrimination on the basis of sex in federally assisted education programs or activities.

W.S.O. will not change its name, Franz said. "We will assume a wait-and-see attitude as to men wishing to join," she said.

W.S.O. will sponsor a soft drink party Wednesday in the University Center Ballroom at 7:30 p.m. for students.

Journalism

workshop set

More than 250 high school student journalists are expected to attend the annual Journalism Day workshop at Tech Saturday.

Key speaker for the workshop will be Stephen Carlson, chief yearbook judge for the National School Yearbook - Newspaper Association, a J-Day sponsor. Carlson teaches at Arizona Western University.

Instructors and professors from Tech's mass communications department, the other J-Day sponsor, will supervise many of the practical journalism sessions: News writing, Steve Monk and Janace Ponder, University Daily (UD) advisors and faculty members; photography, Darrel Thomas, chief UD photographer, and Herschel Womack, photography instructor; broadcasting, Dr. Dennis Harp, telecommunications professor; and advertising and business management, Ralph Sellmeyer, journalism professor.

Q: Can't verbal agreements be binding?

A: They can be, but they are often tough to prove.

Q: What about maintenance and repair?

A: Make sure the lease gives the owner that responsibility and a time in which to do it; otherwise, it is usually your problem.

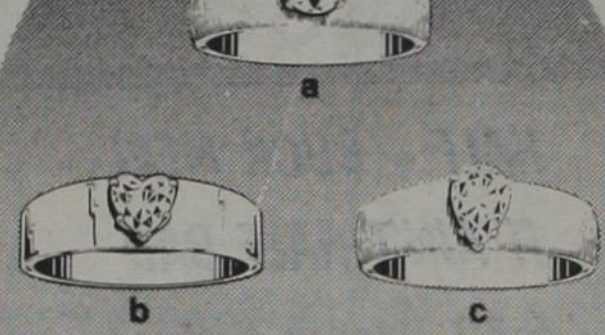

Q: May I withhold rent for failure to do maintenance and repair?

A: No. Texas does not have a rent withholding statute.

Q: What cardinal rules should renters remember?

A: Keep signed copies of all agreements. Carefully shop for apartments checking condition, prices and location, and check with the Better Business Bureau, Lubbock Apartment Association and your Tech legal aid office before you rent.

Boston schools reopen quietly

BOSTON (AP) - Schools over the resentment," said Jerome Winegar, headmaster of South Boston High School, at the end of Wednesday's ordered desegregation.

Buses dropped off black pupils without incident in the racially troubled white neighborhoods of South Boston and Charlestown.

HOWEVER, IN Hyde Park, another white area that had unrest during the first two years of school integration, a group of about 20 white youths heaved rocks this morning at a city bus. No injuries were reported.

Recitals set for new hall

The new music department recital hall is in the UC-Music Building Complex.

Equitation class set

Tech students who have never ridden a horse may have the opportunity this spring, according to Dr. Max Lennon, chairman of the animal science department. For students unfamiliar with the term, equitation is the art of riding. An equitation class is one in which the rider only is judged. Consequently, the horse cannot be blamed for the rider's mistakes. Dr. Martin McIntyre, chairman of the P.E. department, said, "This is a beginning riding class. We want to start out small and start it right."

Equitation classes, according to McIntyre, hopefully will be available to Tech students the spring or summer term of 1977. James Heird, Tech's horse specialist, said the lab fee will probably be high but comparatively inexpensive for the quality of instruction. The exact fee has not been cited, but when both departments agree, the information will be made available to the students, McIntyre said. The lab fee covers upkeep and initial payment of the horses and the tack purchased. Tack, which includes bridle, reins, saddle, and other miscellaneous equipment will be furnished.

The animal science department plans to purchase approximately 15 horses. The problem, Heird says, is to find horses which can be ridden both English and Western style. The course will offer Hunt seat equitation (English horsemanship) and Stock seat equitation (Western horsemanship). The English style of riding is a faster trot, Heird said.

A high interest was expressed, according to a poll taken spring semester, to add horse riding instruction to the P.E. curriculum. The classes will probably start with two to four sections of 12 to 15 students in each section, McIntyre said.

"The expansion of the program depends largely on the student demand and success of the first semester. I want it to work," McIntyre said.

Distinguished alumni honored

Three former recipients of Tech's "distinguished alumnus" recognition will make presentations to this year's awardees in ceremonies at the university tonight. The 1976 "distinguished alumni" are Howard H. Hinson of Dallas and Dr. Dysart E. Holcomb of Shreveport, engineer-executives in the petroleum industry; Army Maj. Gen. Richard E. Cavazos of Washington D. C.; and Dr. Ewell Hunt, Lubbock surgeon. Former Gov. Preston Smith of Lubbock will make the official presentation to Hinson; Ross Ayers of Austin to Gen. Cavazos; Tech engineering dean John R. Bradford to Holcomb; and Tech Executive Vice President Glenn E. Barnett to Dr. Hunt. Smith, Ayers and Bradford are former recipients of the recognition. The public is invited to the 10th annual "distinguished alumnus" ceremony, according to Wayne James, executive director of the ex-students association. Tickets, at $5 per person, are available at the office of the Ex-Students Association on campus. Reservations may be made by calling 742-3641.

Placement annuals coming

Tech's Career Planning and Placement Center is still awaiting a past due shipment of the 1976 College Placement Annual. The annual, expected to arrive in the next couple of weeks is being detained by flood conditions in the course of delivery, according to Robert Jenkins, director of the Placement Center.

The College Placement Annual is a nationwide composite of companies who are actively seeking resumes from students for specified job openings. The companies are listed in the annual according to both the occupational breakdown and the order of the alphabet. Each company entry lists the company contact's name and address, a short description of the job and the available job positions.

The annual, compiled by the College Placement Council, is financed by company advertisements and by an entry fee each company is charged to have their listing placed in the annual.

The annual will be distributed through the Career Planning and Placement Center to students, preferably graduating seniors, who are registered with the Center. The annual is free of charge to all undergraduate students.

Any interested alumni and graduate students should contact the College Placement Council in order to receive a copy of the 1976 annual. A $5 fee will be charged for anyone who is not an undergraduate student.

Holmes movie review

'Blue Bird:' little more than fairytale

Never has so much time, effort and expense gone to the execution of a fairy tale. "THE BLUE BIRD," (now playing at Winchester) is little more than a fantasy. The tale involves the never-ending search for the blue bird of happiness.

The movie begins with this opening cliché and plummets into a bottomless pit. Set back in the days of all fairy tales, "The Blue Bird" opens with the children of a woodcutter, Mytyl and Tytyl. Resembling a Hansel and Gretel team, the kids get into trouble and are sent to bed without any supper. Dreams follow and it's off to fantasy land.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR stars as the mother in real life and the transposed character of Maternal Love and Light in the fantasy. As Light, she leads the children through several escapades in search of the elusive bird. Together the group, accompanied by such entities as Fire, Water, Sugar, Milk and Bread (who knows why) travels through Memory Land and Future Land, each time cornering a bird only to have it escape.

Eventually the entourage comes across the Palace of Night, with symbolism intact, and bravely enters to confront a devilish Jane Fonda. She warns them to leave but our hero Tytyl stands his ground and opens the mysterious doors. An army of ghosts which looks more like F-Troop than anything else, and all sorts of mean old monsters abound, but they good guys press on in their endless quest.

The plot is weak. This tale has been told in countless forms over the years and is really sort of tiring, though without the ton of mistakes enclosed herein, it might have been salvaged.

WHY DOES the little girl have a British accent and the little boy sound very American? They are supposed to be siblings, not exchange students. And the scenery changes back and forth from realistic to that of a high school production. The effect is obviously supposed to be surreal, but comes across as terribly amateurish and ineffective. It almost looks as if the whole scene should be changing rather than just the scenery.

Several characters are introduced during these scenery shake-ups, most of which would have been better off had they remained in the woods. Trees talk and dogs and cats are personified, all of which is allowed in dreams, but none of which adds to the movie. Of the main characters, only Tytyl, played by Todd Lookinland, kid brother of Mike Lookinland of the "Brady Bunch," is decent. His role is fairly tough, especially when dealing with emotions but he handles himself well. Mytyl, his sister is quite another story. She's a cute kid, but has no feeling for emotions and comes off as rather melodramatic, which is the last thing you need in a story of this sort. Will "Grandpa Walton" Geer appears as a grandfather but his role is insignificant.

Elizabeth Taylor is the controlling character. It is she who leads the children along their journey. As the mother in real life she is okay, but as the goddess of Light or whatever, she is somewhat inconsistent, even for a fairy godmother. Her voice exemplifies her inconsistency as she moves from carefree to serious, and always in the wrong places.

THE CAT, another rather crucial role, is played by Cicely Tyson. She handles the role well, but the character is inconsistent. One minute she's goody-goody and the next she's scheming against the kids. Cats are supposed to be mysterious and unfaithful, but she is forced to go a little too far. The result is confusion.

And how come, all of a sudden, the kids are walking in the same bright, beautiful sunlight they have been in all movie long, and they get cold? It's lovely. How could it be cold?

distraction. In the end, we learn where

Misuse of CB annoying, deadly

(AP) - Good neighbors outnumber bad apples on the CB channels, but police say misuse of citizen band airwaves can be annoying—and sometimes deadly.

An Associated Press national survey of state and local police indicates that for the most part the estimated 6 million CBers in this country have been helpful. And the police say this even though CBers are fond of reporting highway patrol cars trying to catch speeders. Police say that practice results in traffic slowing down.

BUT THERE have been grim incidents: —A woman kidnap victim was killed by her abductors after CBers interfered with a ransom drop.

—A vigilante posse of citizens band operators chased the wrong truck for 75 miles thinking it had sideswiped another vehicle.

—A PENNSYLVANIA man shot another CB enthusiast after an argument on the air over use of a channel.

—In California, officers monitoring the CB network found that during a civil disturbance those involved were using CB radios to protect their flanks.

Florida Highway Patrol Sgt. Paul Gracey said citizens band operators are becoming an increasing influence on law enforcement operations—both good and bad.

"LIKE EVERY OTHER part of life, some people abuse CB radio," he said. Mostly, "they report traffic congestion, disabled vehicles, accidents and extent of injuries. It can save three minutes getting to the scene. It doesn't necessarily save any one's life, but it does get help sooner, and you don't know what might have happened."

But he added, "There are some sick ones who make false accident reports."

"The big problem with CBers is overreaction," said David Arnold, a New York State trooper. "They overreact and get all excited in an emergency situation. But I don't think they are a nuisance."

"THE DAY we start making arrests on the basis of CB transmissions is the day we'll be in court for false arrests." In Idaho recently, a CB operator whose camper truck was sideswiped by a pickup, broadcast a description. The result was a 75 mile high speed chase which ended when police intervened. The CB chasers were chagrined to find they had been pursuing the wrong truck. The pickup driver was charitable enough not to press charges, police said.

"We've had a few isolated incidents where they were playing vigilante," said Al Brockway, assistant police chief in Helena, Mont. "One involved a person allegedly using foul language on the air, and some CBers took it on themselves to find this person. A fight ensued and it turned out it was the wrong man."

As for the use of CB radios directly in criminal activity, police differ on their effectiveness.

Volleyball team in tournament

BY LISA BURGHER
UD Sportswriter

"We're going for all the marbles."

With that positive thought firmly planted in their minds after two weeks practice with Coach Janice Hudson, members of Tech's volleyball team begin tournament play this weekend in Las Cruces.

The tournament, hosting teams from Tech, Sul Ross, UTEP, Eastern New Mexico, New Mexico State and the University of New Mexico, starts at 7 p.m. tonight and the finals will be played Saturday afternoon.

Hudson, in her second year as coach at Tech, said she will be looking for signs of "concentration under pressure" from her players this weekend.

"I want to see what we can do under pressure," she said. "I'm not looking for skill as much as mental toughness."

HUDSON ALSO said that mental let-downs are the team's weakest points.

"We've worked so much on service receive because that's where we always break down," Hudson said. "We get ahead of ourselves and start thinking about what happens next and as a result we give a poor relay to the net. Service receive is defensive and we have to be defensive before we can be offensive. I want to see some continuity of play this weekend."

Tech's volleyball squad, in preparation for this tournament and the upcoming season, has been practicing under Hudson's watchful eye. Building toughness in the body and the mind seems to be the main goal, but Hudson said that the players do most of the work, not the coach.

"I hope I have a lot of influence over what and how they think, but I have very little to do with how they play the game," she said. "I don't feel that players should be playing for a coach, especially at the college level. Players should play for themselves and for each other. When a coach allows herself to let her players play for her, she's just setting herself up to get smashed."

"MY JOB," Hudson said, "is that of an analyst. The players learn the skills themselves." This weekend should give an indication of how fit, physically and mentally, the Tech team is. Hudson said Sul Ross will probably be the strongest team aside from Tech. But Hudson, always looking ahead, has no doubt of "We're coming back winners." the outcome this weekend.

Civitan opens

DALLAS (AP) - Two-time champion Kathy Whitworth and two players who have never won here, Sandra Palmer and Judy Rankin, share the favorite role as the 21st $50,000 Dallas Civitan Women's Open begins Friday on the 6,336 par 36,3672 Brookhaven Country Club course.

Miss Whitworth has won once on the tour this season. She was champion in this charity tournament in 1968 and again in 1973.

Miss Palmer, winner of her last two starts at Denver and Springfield, Ill., was runner up to Carol Mann here last year and once before in 1970 behind Betsy Rawls.

Miss Mann bypassed the Civitan because of a back misery. Joanne Carner, winner here two years ago, also is absent.

Tech versus the bottom ten

Tech may be playing a bunch of teams rated in the top 20, but they also play four teams rated in the bottom 20, as rated by Steve Harvey of United Press International. Those being No. 6 Rice, No. 11 Houston, No. 17 TCU, and No. 20 SMU... Pentagon (Army, Navy, Air Force) was ranked 16th... Tech frosh footballer Edwin Newsome was a member of the Houston Madison mile relay team that tied the national high school record of 3:11.8.

L. A. Ram quarterback James Harris is out for six weeks with a fractured right thumb... Cornelius Green, waived by the Cowboys was picked up by Seattle... Former Cowboy and Rice Rodrigo Barnes has been released by St. Louis... Arkansas back Jerry Eckwood pleaded innocent to charges of stealing a potted plant...

Oiler Tody Smith is considering suing New York columnist Dick Smith for libel. Smith (Dick) accused Smith (Tody) of pulling a gun on teammate Greg Bingham during a practice scuffle.

San Diego pitcher Randy Jones is making $65,000 this season. Now that's cheap labor... Former Ranger Frank Howard now manages the AAA Spokane, Wash. team... Elliot Maddox has been reactivated by the New York Yankees... The Yankees have picked up Cesar Tovar, the former Ranger... As of Aug. 29, the Rangers were 68,514 ahead of last year's attendance. The Rangers have a bad year and still draw, while the Astros have a respectable year and draw poorly... The Rangers almost bought Oakland's Sal Bando, but the deal fell through when Texas refused to pay $600,000 over the next four years for his services.

Texas' All-SWC first-baseman Mickey Reichenbach is not enrolled in classes this fall, a victim of grades says Austin source Jim Dawson. According to Dawson, "Robert Schaeffer (Midland High) is expected to take his place... The Cincinnati Reds have used 357 pitchers in 140 games... This prompted Houston announcer Gene Elston to call the Red's AAA farm club as "the Indianapolis arm farm"... Ferguson Jenkins is recovering nicely following surgery for a torn Achilles tendon... Tiger catcher Milt May has been taken off the disabled list... Former Raider shortstop Ronnie Mattson finished the season at the Philadelphia Phillies Spartanburg, S.C. farm club. According to Mattson's agent, Lubbock businessman Daryl Anderson, "the Phillies have told Ronnie he will get a good shot at AA next year." Tech-ex Ruben Garcia, after starting the season with the Kansas City Royal's AAA club, ended the year in AA.

Former Raider footballers are helping out as graduate coaching assistants this fall. They are Rufus Myers, Selo Ramirez, Tommy Lusk, Davis Knaus, Gary Bartel, and Charlie Beery... Former wide receiver Ricky Bates is coaching in Arlington... Former tight-end Pat Felix is with the phone company in San Antonio.

Tech student sports information assistant Alfred White was in an ABC-TV movie, "The Woman in Box 359," this summer. ## Modified draft chances better

NEW YORK (AP) - With the National Football League almost certain to appeal the ruling against its college draft, representatives of the owners and players agree that the chance of a modified draft has been improved.

U.S. District Judge William B. Bryant ruled in Washington Wednesday that the stocking of 28 teams with the nation's collegiate talent, the NFL's current system, is illegal because it violates antitrust laws.

Bryant said the draft is, in effect, an agreement among NFL club owners "that the right to negotiate with each top quality graduating college athlete will be allocated to one team, and that no other team will deal with that person."

"This outright, undisguised refusal to deal constitutes a group boycott in its classic and most pernicious form, a device which has long been condemned as per se a violation of the antitrust laws," the judge continued.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, expressed delight at the ruling and suggested it might spur the owners to be more conciliatory in future talks aimed at achieving a basic labor agreement with the players' union. Sargent Karch, executive director of the NFL Management Council, the owners' bargaining team, said the decision produced optimism.

Bryant, he said, had expressed the opinion that if an agreement on a draft were to be part of a basic labor pact, it therefore would be exempt from antitrust action. And Karch said Bryant stated that the draft should be a mandatory part of any collective bargaining. Garvey publicly has taken the opposite viewpoint in both instances.

Quarterbacking: Big If for Buffs

By FRED HERBST
UD Sports Writer

Coach Bill Mallory is entering his third year at Colorado, and his coaching philosophy has had enough time to take hold. That philosophy: DEFENSE!

Noan for his defensive prowess at Miami of Ohio, Mallory has stressed defense during his short tenure at Colorado.

While coaching at Miami, four of his five teams finished in the top six nationally in total defense, so it only figures that some of this defensive know-how would carry over to Colorado. And it has.

IN MALLORY'S first season, the Buffs defense went through the process of transition and finished last in the Big Eight.

Last year, however, with the immediate help of several junior college players, the team advanced to fourth in total defense. And according to coaches, the '76 unit looks capable of moving up another couple of notches.

Defense is first in Coach Mallory's mind, but he certainly has not forgotten the offense, not in the least. In fact, his charges led the conference in total offense, and that's quite an accomplishment with Nebraska and Oklahoma in your circuit.

Following what has been described as the Buffs' finest recruiting season ever, Mallory feels his players can make a legitimate run at the Big Eight, if (and the ifs are usually killers), if he can find a signal caller that can move the offense, consistently.

Inheriting the job of last year's total offense leader (in the Big Eight) David Williams, will be senior Jeff Austin, who saw limited action as William's backup last year.

"JEFF IS an excellent passer," CU quarterback coach Dwight Wallace said. "He throws more of a variety of passes than David (Williams) did ... Jeff can throw it hard, lob it over a linebacker, or float it when he has too."

Austin's weakness lies in the running. The coaches compare his running style to that of a fullback, and whether a fullback running as quarterback will be effective remains to be seen.

"Jeff is a big (6-4, 211-pound), strong kid, but he isn't as nifty as David (Williams) was," Coach Wallace said.

Austin's smoothness has also been a question mark. "I've gotta improve my fundamentals," Austin said. "Things like getting my timing down and riving the offense smoother. I've got to be more consistent."

CONSISTENCY is a big element, and the kind of game Austin has could be the key for Tech. If he makes normal rookie mistakes (although a senior, he is essentially a rookie) the Raiders could be in the position to pull an upset.

Waiting in the wings, should Austin fail, is the former Colorado high school star Jeff Knapple, who has transferred to the Buffs after one year at UCLA.

One thing that is set on the Colorado offense is Don Hasselbeck at tight end. The Colorado folks believe they have an All-American at the position, and if the 6-7, 250-pound end has any kind of season like the one predicted by CU, he could be your All-American tight end.

Last season, Hasselbeck caught 23 passes for 235 yards, and he is certain to get more than his share of Buff passes thrown in his direction.

FLANKING Hasselbeck will be senior wingback Emery Morehead, who hauled in 14 passes last fall. Moorehead will also be asked to carry the ball more than he did last year.

At split end this fall there has been an intense battle for the starting job, with senior Billy Waddy edging out sophomore Steve Gauntly for the job. Both could be in the game at the same time however, as each one has practiced at the wingback position.

The group attack will be spearheaded by senior tailback Tony Reed, who rushed for 722 yards and five TD's last year. Reed's partner in the backfield is senior Jim Kelleher, who powered through the line for 455 yards last year.

Sophomore fullback James Mayberry, will back up Kelleher. Mayberry, who is 5-11, 200-pounds, runs the 40-yard dash in 4.5 and has been one of the bright spots in preseason scrimmages.

The going may be tougher for the offensive backs this season, as Colorado has had to revamp its interior line. Big holes, left behind by graduating All-Americans Mark Koncar and Pete Brock will be hard to replace.

THE LINE will center around big Leon White (6-3, 272) who has been switched from his guard position of last year, to the tackle position. Sophomore redshirt Matt Miller (6-6, 275) will man the other tackle position.

Steve Hakes (6-2, 239), junior, returns at one guard position, while newcomer Dave Griffen (6-3, 245), sophomore, has gotten the starting nod at the other guard slot. The vacancy at center will be filled by junior Willie Brock (6-3, 253).

Defense, Mallory's forte, is expected to be stronger than last year. And while the defensive secondary is tabbed as "superb" and the linebacking corps is "experienced," the defensive line only returns one starter from last season — senior Charles Johnson at middle guard.

With the loss of 293-pound giant Jackie Thornton (due to academic ineligibility), the defensive tackle positions have been filled by sophomores Ruben Vaughan and Gary Hartling.

AT DEFENSIVE end will be two small (by Buff standards) players — sophomore Stuart Walker and junior Randy Westendorf. Each weigh 196 and 191 pounds, respectively.

The linebackers will be led by senior Bart Roth who was in on 140 tackles a year ago, more than any returning Buff. At the other linebacker position, will be senior Bill Muxlow.

The secondary (which has no one who runs less than 4.5 in the 40-yard dash, will be bolstered by the return of three regulars senior Mike Spivey (Apache), senior Horace Perkins (cornerback), and senior Mike Davis (safety). At the other cornerback will be junior Odis McKinney.

The kicking game returns the two men who performed the duties in Stan Kileski and Pete Dadiotis. However, the kicking game which was a problem last year looks to be unimproved.
