Polls show Ford, Carter still close

By the Associated Press

The race between President Ford and Jimmy Carter is so close that no lead for either man could be perceived in nearly half the states Monday, making the election too close to call.

Carter still led in electoral votes in a final state-by-state survey by The Associated Press but neither man was certain of enough votes for victory. And in many cases the margin for Carter or for his opponent was thin and uncertain.

TWENTY-FOUR STATES with 237 electoral votes were rated as tossups in the survey. Carter was seen as leading in 15 states and the District of Columbia for 210 electoral votes, and Ford was ahead in 11 states with 91 electoral votes.

The winner needs 270 electoral votes. The AP survey is based on independent polls where available, or on the consensus of experienced political observers, campaign and party officials and reporters covering the campaign.

THE FINAL ELECTION eve survey reflected a shrinking of Carter's lead since a similar AP survey last week. Carter's early lead in the popular vote had also all but disappeared, according to the major independent polls. Both the Harris and Gallup polls found Ford and Carter within a point of each other in the popular vote, a difference within the pollsters' margin of error.

In the survey conducted last week, Carter was perceived as leading in 22 states plus the District of Columbia for 295 electoral votes, which would have been 25 more than the 270 needed.

A key change away from Carter in the electoral category came in Ohio, where he had been considered a leader but which now rates as too close to determine a leader. Ohio's 25 votes are considered critical to the election.

ALSO NEWLY in the tossup column instead of in Carter's were Maryland with 10 electoral votes, Montana with 4, New Jersey with 17, North Carolina with 13, Oklahoma with 8, and South Carolina with 8.

The President, on the other hand, moved into the leadership position in 45-vote California, formerly a tossup, and lost Michigan from safe to tossup. But the margins were not large and the consensus was more guess than certainty.

Three other states formerly leaning to Ford but now too close to call are Maine with 4 electoral votes, Oregon with 6, and Virginia with 12.

CONTINUING AS too close to predict were crucial Illinois with 26 electoral votes and Indiana with 13. These are now joined by New Jersey, a state the Democrats think they need to win, and Michigan, one Ford needs badly.

Also adding to the anxiety of both camps is the close call in other big states, such as California where Ford now has the lead, and Texas where Carter is rated slightly ahead. These and a number of other states retain the potential of going either way, depending on variables from undecided voters to the weather.

Both Carter and Ford appeared on each of the three major television networks in 30-minute election-eve broadcasts. It cost them $300,000 apiece, and the programs were essentially reviews of what they have said before, spiced with scenes of their campaigns and their crowds.

THE FORD PROGRAM included a brief statement, in effect a summation of his basic campaign speech, boasting of an America strong and on the move, claiming economic progress and promising more to come.

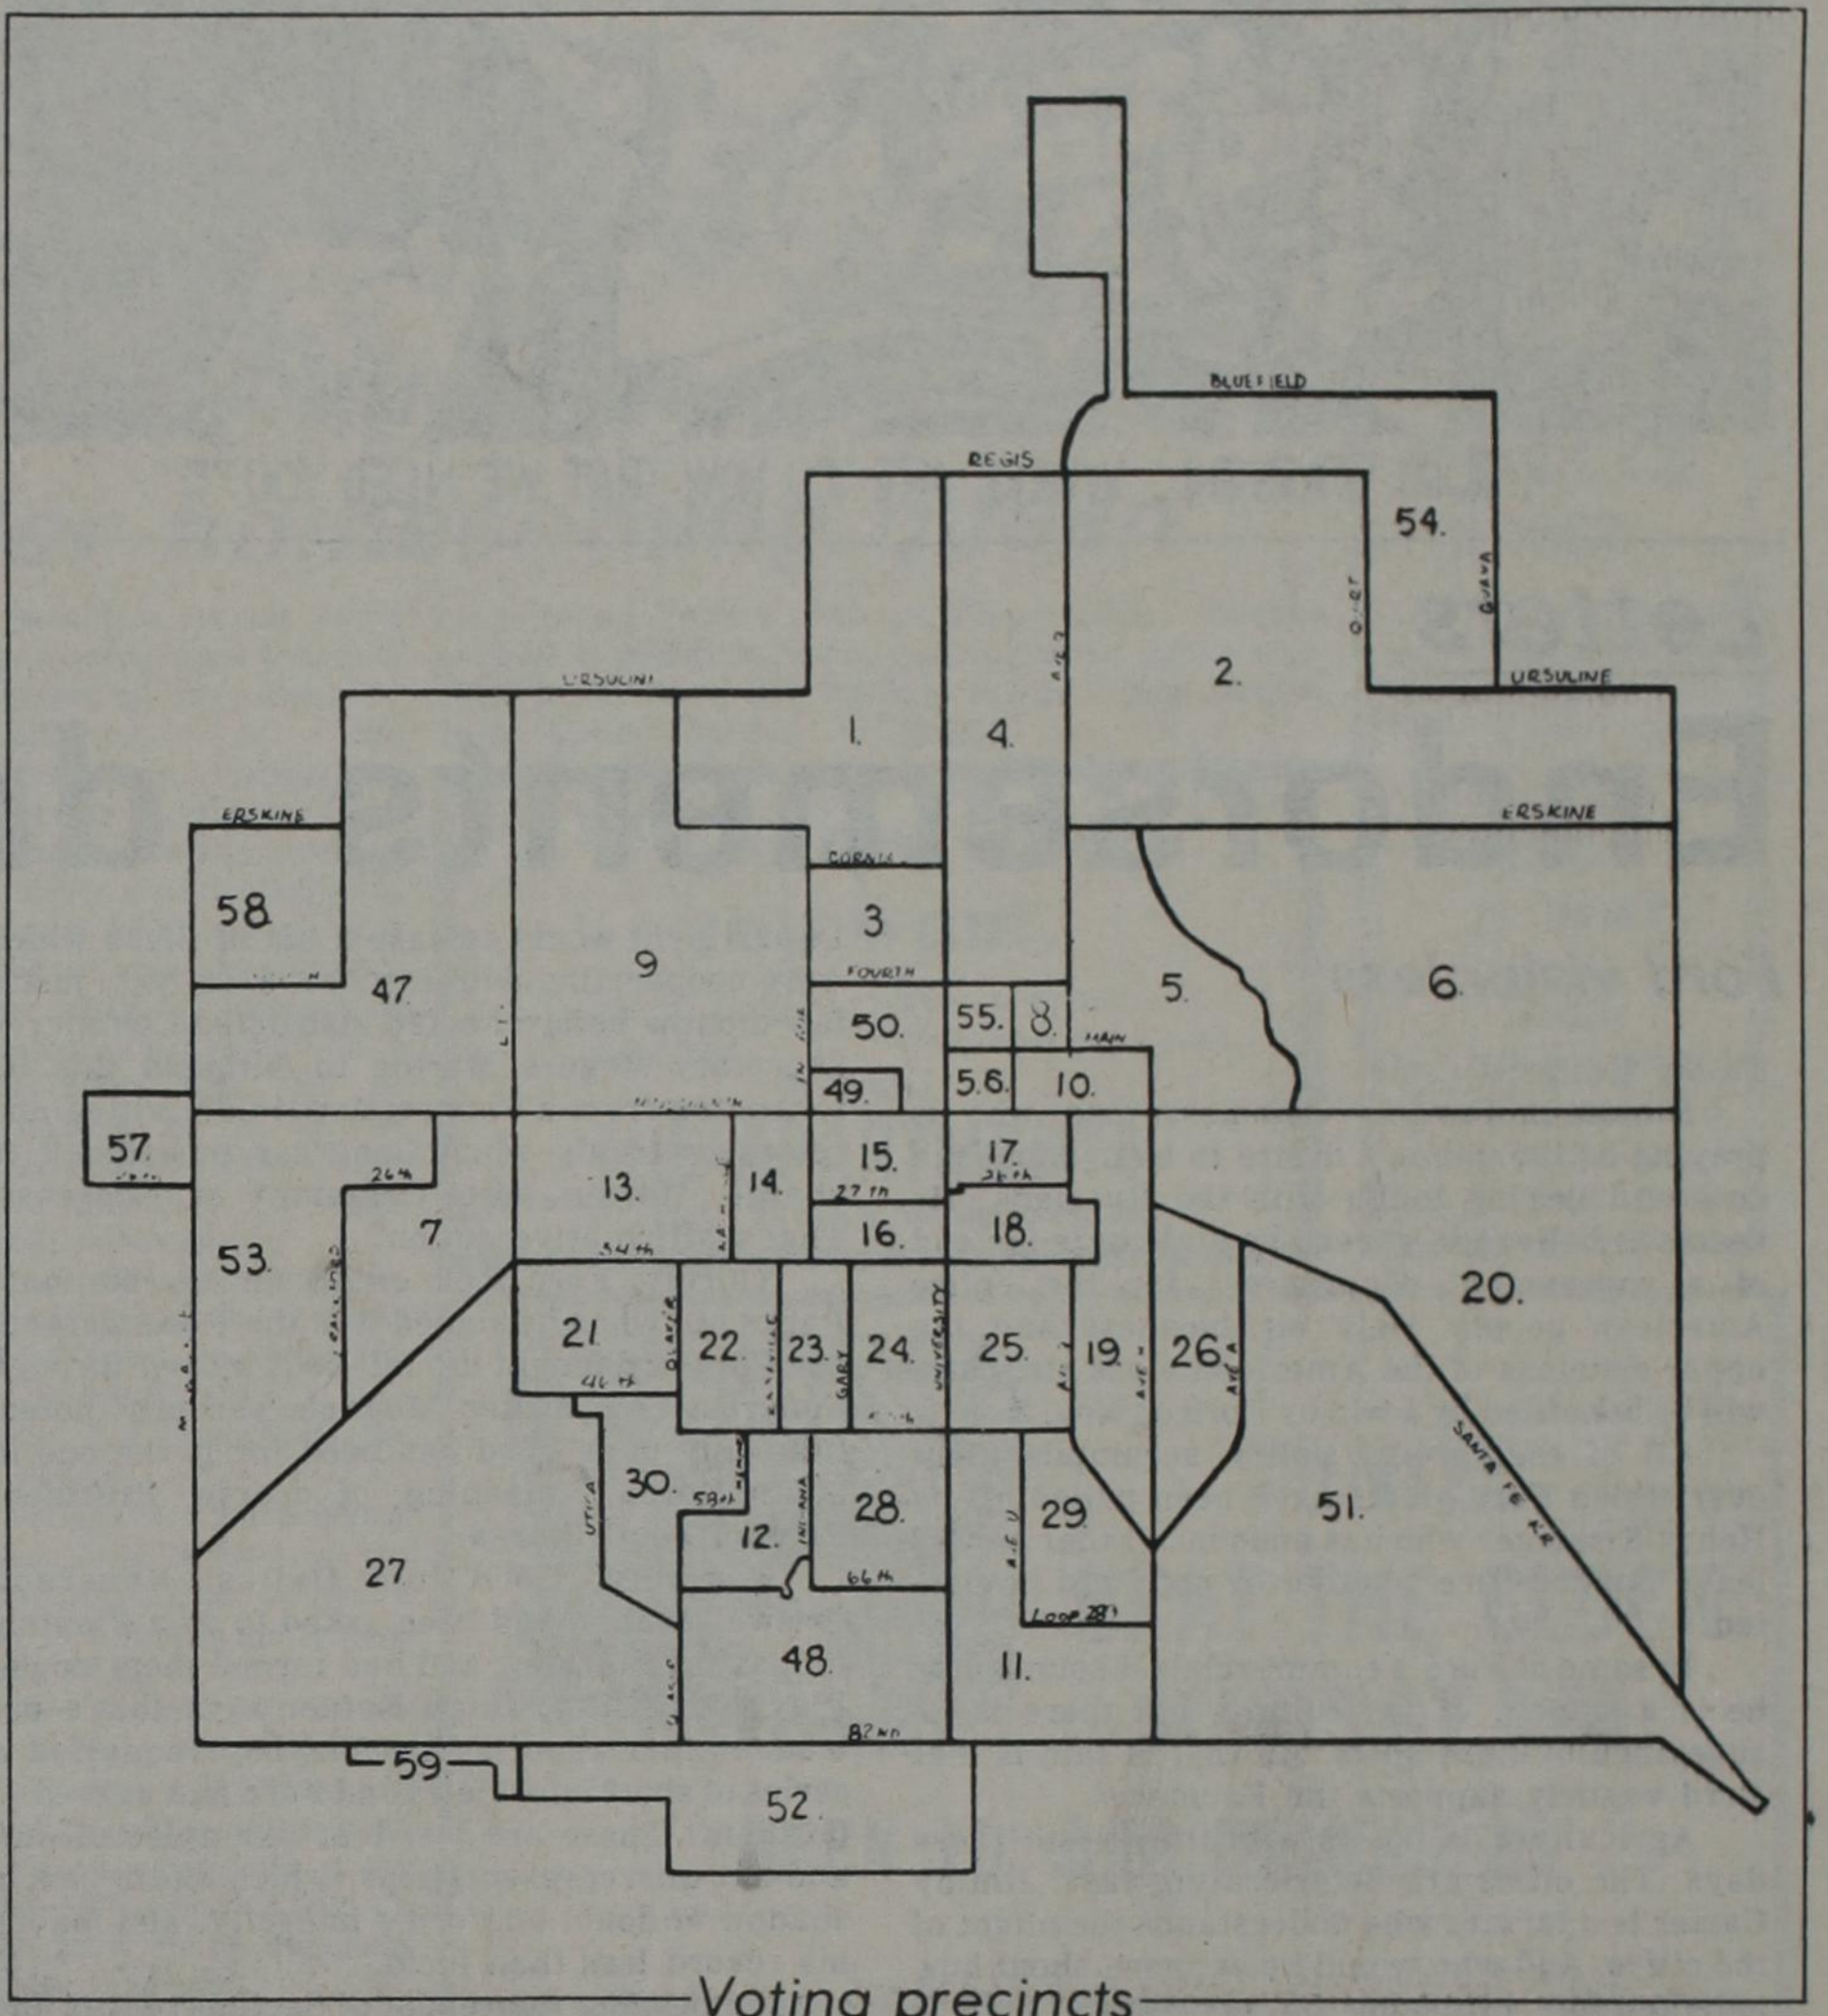

In it, the President said once again that he will recommend a personal income tax cut, through an increase from $750 to $1,000 in the personal exemption. "...on Jan. 3, when Congress comes back, I will have the tax reduction proposal on their desks," he said.

"We have a lot of things to do," Ford said. "But we are in shape to do it now that we are over the hump of the tough last two years. So we come to the final round in this election. I want your prayers, as you gave them to me two years ago. But I would hope that you would confirm me this time by your ballots."

THE CARTER broadcast was a tape already shown in three major states. It shows Carter in the study of his home in Plains, answering questions posed by citizens on the economy, defense and other issues.

In the South, where Carter began, a broadcast commercial urged voters to stick with him on "the most important day of our region's history..."

"On Nov. 2, the South is being readmitted to the Union," the ad said. "If that sounds strange, maybe only a Southerner can understand ... years of course anti-Southern votes and unfair comparisons. Only a Southerner can understand what it means to be a political whipping boy. But then, only a Southerner can understand what Jimmy Carter as President can mean..."

Though no one in this part of the state would question the need for increase supply and quality of water, various political organizations are split on whether the voters should pass two resolutions regarding the state's future water programs.

SA hunger drive focuses on campus

By DEBBI WHITNEY
UD Reporter

A starving child in Bangladesh may have a second chance at life if Lubbock citizens answer a plea for help in the Student Association-sponsored World Hunger Drive.

The drive, which started last week and will end Friday, will be directed toward the Tech campus this week with collection tables set up in the dorms and in the University Center.

Tentative goals of $10,000 for Lubbock and $15,000 for the Tech campus have been set.

Funds raised will be used to set up a work program for a Bangladesh village. The program's goal is to allow villagers to be self-sufficient by the end of 1977.

Program administration will be handled by the Foreign Mission Board in Richmond, Va. As a non-profit agency, the Foreign Mission Board has no overhead costs or administrative salaries, so all money collected goes directly to the Bangladesh village, according to drive officials.

The board has already sent $1.2 million in non-military aid this year to underdeveloped countries, officials said.

In November 1970, 500,000 Bengalis died from typhoon waters in what has been termed the 20th century's worst natural disaster. Funds are used to aid the country in recovering from the disaster, officials said.

Water Development Board (TWDB) to issue 1400 million in new water development bonds.

Concerned with water quality, proposition No. 2 would amend the state constitution to allow TWDB to issue $100 million in bonds. The money from the bonds would be loaned to cities to match federal funds for sewage treatment plants.

According to James Rose, executive Proposition No. 1 would amend the Texas Constitution to allow the Texas director of the TWDB, the agency acts like a bank, loaning money for projects otherwise not feasible.

The cost of the projects will be recovered without long range cost to the state, Rose said.

The White River Municipal Water Authority is an example of a TWDB project.

Rose said that at the rate the fund is being committed to various projects, the entire current fund will be exhausted by the end of 1979.

Authorizing the issue of more water development bonds has met with strong opposition by a group known as No New Taxes for Texas, according to Kent Hance, state senator.

"They feel proposition No. 1 would be like issuing a blank check to the Water Development Board," Hance said. "But they support proposition No. 2, though it is financed in the very same way."

Hance said the proposition's passage is hampered by the amount of money involved.

"When the public looks at the proposition, they just see the money," Hance said. "They don't realize that the amount $400 million is only a loan. At most it would cost the state $8 million," Hance said. "Compare $8 million to 12.8 billion budget to solve the state's water problem."

Hance said the propositions definitely would not have been passed if the election had been held a few months ago, but publicity of the propositions has made him term the chances for the success of the propositions as "real close."

Organizations to work with elections

Several campus organizations will be working with the election today at several polling places throughout the city.

Freshman Council members will be at the Student Association (AS) office today to provide transportation and answer questions from voters, according to David Beseda, SA external vice-president.

BESEDA SAID the Freshman Council have a map of voting precincts in order to tell voters where their polling places are. Students who need rides to the polls or have any questions should call the SA office at 742-3631.

College teachers concerned over recent tenure policy

By KIM COBB
UD Reporter

Texas Association of College Teachers (T.A.C.T.) members are reacting unfavorably toward the Texas College Coordinating Board's recent study paper on academic freedom and tenure, according to Frank Wright, T.A.C.T. executive director.

"We think it's a severe come-down from the 1967 policy," Wright said, referring to the board's study paper. Coordinating Board members adopted Policy Paper 1, the current standard for academic freedom, tenure and responsibility in 1967.

WRIGHT, RECENTLY in Lubbock to speak on issues of concern to higher education during the forthcoming session of the Texas Legislature spoke of specific threats to higher education, anticipating how they would be dealt with by the legislature.

Wright commented on selected resolutions passed by the T.A.C.T. House of Delegates concerning the Coordinating Board's study paper in a University Daily interview.

The T.A.C.T. resolutions reaffirm the group's support of the principles of academic freedom and tenure as stated in the board's Policy Paper 1. T.A.C.T. members are calling for broad faculty representation in hearings and discussions concerning any revision of Policy Paper 1.

T.A.C.T. MEMBERS have also

Young Democrats will be working on the election in east Lubbock carrying people to the polls and conducting a telephone campaign at Democratic headquarters, according to Andre Lafalle, Young Democrats vice-president.

Terry Hodges, Young Republicans president, said his organization will also be providing rides for voters. Young Republicans will be going door to door today to remind people to vote, Hodges said.

UNITED MEXICAN AMERICAN STUDENTS (UMAS) will also be working in east Lubbock taking voters adopted a resolution calling for the extension of tenure as set forth in Policy Paper 1 to those state-supported colleges and universities that do not yet accord tenure.

Policy Paper 1 was scheduled to be reviewed five years after its adoption, Wright said. T.A.C.T. members, as well as other members of the academic community, suggested to the board that a review of the policy be made to strengthen the policy's position on dismissal of faculty in cases of financial exigency.

An appointed Coordinating Board committee made a few minor, but important suggestions for changes within the policy, Wright said. The changes were to be made concerning de facto tenure and points within the current policy which have been challenged by the courts, he said.

"IT CAME UP as a normal procedural matter," Wright said. A public hearing on the proposed revisions produced widespread support from most, but a few dissenting opinions from junior college presidents, Wright said. The junior college presidents claimed the policy was developed for senior colleges and should not be applied to them, Wright said.

Coordinating Board members named a three-man ad hoc committee to study possible revisions of Policy Paper 1. Based on the opinion of the Texas at-to the polls, according to Robert Diaz, UMAS president.

When voting, in today's general election, voters should present their voter registration certificates, though it is not required.

If a person does not have his certificate, his name should be found on the voter registration rolls at the precinct box where he is supposed to vote, according to a Lubbock County Tax Assessor's office official.

TECH STUDENTS REGISTERED to vote on campus will vote in precinct 49 or 50. Precinct 50 ballot box will be in the University Center, while the precinct 49 ballot box will be in the Old Extension Building.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Students not apathetic

Tech students are not apathetic. Anyone who witnessed the enthusiasm at the Texas game last weekend can attest to that. Students showed they do care, they do have spirit and they can win, or do anything else they want to, if they set their minds to it.

Students have another chance today to prove dead wrong those who say Tech students are apathetic. Just as Tech is often dismissed as a second class school as compared to the University of Texas, student voters are often dismissed as second class, "don't-give-a-damn" citizens.

Tech rode into Saturday's game with an impressive record. Unfortunately, Tech students go to the polls today with a not-so-impressive record. Once again low voter turnout is predicted for the Tech campus. If Raider fans get so upset over an editor's predictions, why can't they get upset over the dire predictions of a low voter turnout?

Tech voters can pull it off, just as the football team pulled it off Saturday.

It's the same song today that it was Saturday. This time the words are "Vote, Raiders, Vote."

Endorsements draw responses

Ford visionless

To the Editor:

President Ford is visionless man who is preying on the public's desire to hear about tax cuts and getting tough with the Russians. He seems to believe in govern-by stalemate instead of a government of progress for the entire American people. Only big business and the upper echelons of the American class structure will be benefited by a win by Ford on Nov. 2.

All of the foreign policy accomplishment over which Ford gloats have been pulled off by Henry Kissinger who has announced that he will leave public office whether or not Ford is elected.

In some of Ford's commercials it sounds like he is a saviour of agriculture, but there is no substance to these spots. All that is said is that Ford vaguely supports the Farmer.

Agriculture is not in a healthy state these days. The cities are deteriorating fast. Jimmy Carter is a farmer who understands the plight of the cities. And who would know more about how to solve the problems of agriculture than a farmer. Carter is a man of vision; a man who wants an open government responsive to the people. Look at the past. Think about the future. P.S. Voting for McCarthy is political suicide.

Bill Campbell

Carter best, brightest

To the Editor:

I feel that your endorsement of Gerald Ford for the Presidency of the United States requires a rebuttal. You base your endorsement of Ford on the logic that he has the job, and Jimmy Carter has not convinced you that he should have the office. I would simply counter that I support Carter because Ford has not persuaded me that he should retain the Presidency. Let us remember that Ford was not elected to the office, but rather was chosen by Richard Nixon to replace Spiro Agnew. The shocking Watergate scandal thrust Ford into office.

The only real accomplishment I can attribute to Ford is his avoiding another Watergate. With his refusal to release his tax returns (which reportedly show that he claims to have lived on $5 a week as a Congressman) and with the revelations of his accepting all paid golfing weekends from a U.S. Steel Company lobbyist, I am not so certain about his integrity.

In your editorial, you state, "Whereas Carter's campaign reeks of inconsistencies, President Ford stands on a clear record." Let's examine how clear that record is. Firstly, Ford says that Carter's hurt the United States. James Schlesinger, Ford's former Secretary of Defense, reported recently on ABC's Issues and Answers that Ford himself wanted to enact a 10 billion dollar cut in the defense and backed off only when Ronald Reagan criticized him.

Secondly, Ford said that he had taken "affirmative action" against the Arab embargo against American companies with Jewish interests and promised that the Commerce Department would release a list of firms which were cooperating with the Arabs. In fact, just a few months before he had instructed Commerce Secretary Rogers Morton to withhold this information from a Congressional Committee and released it only when Congress threatened to charge Morton with Contempt of Congress. That's affirmative action?

Thirdly, Ford took credit for the National Parks bill when he signed it in the Rose Garden, but Ford had fought the bill as it moved through Congress. As Walter Mondale recently noted, "the only park Ford has been for is the one in South Korea," meaning, of course, President Park of South Korea.

Fourthly, Ford told Dallas' Reverend Criswell that he had been asked to do a Playboy magazine interview and had turned them down. Playboy's editor, Hugh Hefner says that's not true. Hefner reports that Playboy requested a series of short interviews and Ford had agreed to do them! These are just four examples of out-and-out misrepresentations, which again cast a shadow of doubt on Ford's integrity, and leaves his record less than lucid.

Concerning the repeal of Section 14-B of the Taft-Hartley Act, the Editor of the University Daily is in error in reporting that it "would require workers to pay tribute to a union to hold a job." Even a cursory investigation of the facts would reveal that there are non-union shops in states that don't have right-to-work statutes. A repeal of 14-B would not mean instant unionization of Texas. What would happen is that factory workers could petition to hold an election to decide the union question. If a majority of workers voted to unionize, then the factory would become a union shop, if the workers voted the union down, then it would continue as an open shop. It is interesting to note that in states that do not have right-to-work statutes, the wage levels are significantly higher. Clearly, these statutes work to the advantage of the manufacturer and to the disadvantage of the wage earners. All Carter has promised to do is to sign the bill if it passes Congress.

There is another telling item on Ford, i.e., his veto of the Strip Mining Bill. This was a very reasonable bill which would have required strip miners to restore the land they had mined after they were through. The bill was endorsed by the mine workers union and virtually every environmental group. When the choice came to dollars-and-cents for the mining companies or a better environment for all Americans, Ford chose the special interests and vetoed the bill.

These are many of the reasons for my opposition to Ford. I believe that these issues are important and are delineating. There are an equal number of positive reasons that I am for Jimmy Carter. I certainly could begin by registering that he is a thoughtful and prayerful man; that he believes in the dignity of all men, not just the powerful. I believe that he brings out the best in us, and not the worst in us. People have had some difficulty in conceptualizing Carter because he is both a visionary and a pragmatist. This seeming contradiction is not a contradiction at all, but a dedication to consistent belief in the fundamental goodness of man.

He is the best and he is the brightest. When he asks why not the best?, he brings to mind the George Bernard Shaw quote, "Some see things as they are and ask why; I see things as they should be and ask why not?"

I encourage you to vote for Jimmy Carter for President.

Ward supported

To the Editor

The significance of this year's elections are more important to Texas Tech than ever before and as concerned students and faculty we need to voice our interests at the polls. An increasing number of Tech students have been registered during the last six months and if a large number of these voted we could determine the outcome of several elections.

Texas Tech and Lubbock are entering a trying time in regards to many issues and we are desperately in need of representation that will work with us and for us.

Roy Ward, representative candidate for District 75-A, is a person that I have had the pleasure to work with throughout my tenure in office and I am fully supporting him in his bid for office. Mr. Ward has expressed interests in the students at Tech long before he was involved in his campaign for office and has always voiced concerns for our needs. The sincerity, dedication, and desire expressed by Roy Ward will enable him to best work for the needs of both Tech and Lubbock. His interests in our problems and a sincere desire to help are certainly encouraging in light of representation Lubbock has previously had.

Legislation concerning the possible establishment of nursing, pharmacy, and veterinary schools will be brought before the legislature this year. The financial problems affecting our medical school are also of paramount importance and we definitely need someone who is willing to work hand in hand with us to find equitable solutions to these problems. Roy Ward can and will do these things for us.

So when voting today be sure and keep Tech in mind and vote for Roy Ward, District 75-A.

American cynicism

To the Editor:

In response to the Griggs' endorsements, I wish to comment on what this Presidential election may say about each of us. If Gerald Ford is elected, it will be the result of two factors. The first is Big Business's Big Money, of course, in amounts most of us would consider incredible, but which are minute compared to what Big Business stands to lose under any fair tax system.

Note of appreciation

To the Editor:

We would like to express a note of appreciation to Intramural Director James Teague. Mr. Teague managed to arrange for the Co-Rec Flag Football All-University game to be held in Jones Stadium. Due to numerous conflicts the game was officially scheduled to be played on a regular intramural field; however, upon request Mr. Teague worked through these difficulties to satisfy our wishes. It is no wonder that TECH has one of the top intramural programs in the nation.

NEWS BRIEFS

Britain calls on leaders

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - Britain has called on black and white Rhodesian leaders to meet informally Tuesday to discuss fixing a target date for black majority rule and legal independence for the breakaway British colony.

"I hope that the meeting will be held tomorrow afternoon," said British diplomat Ivor Richard, chairman of the five-day-old Rhodesian settlement conference.

Through the weekend and Monday, Richard had been pressed by each of the four black nationalist leaders to set a 1977 target date. This would be sooner than the two-year target to which Prime Minister Ian Smith said he agreed during U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's southern African shuttle in September.

GOP governors could expand

WASHINGTON (AP) - The fraternity of GOP governors has a chance to expand Tuesday for the first time since becoming virtually an endangered species in 1970. And so has the sorority of Democratic women governors, now numbering one.

There is no way, politically or mathematically, that the Republicans can regain their late 1960s dominance of executive mansions. The field is too sparse, with only 14 contests for governorships now held by eight Democrats and six Republicans.

Republicans are expected to win the biggest prize, Illinois.

City water not abnormally hard

By MOLLIE KIRK
UD Staff

Although some Tech students have complained about the hard water in Lubbock, the water is not abnormally hard, according to Claudia Miller, chemist for the City of Lubbock.

Lubbock water has 260 gallons of hard chemicals per million. This is considered moderately hard, Miller said. Dr. Dan Wells, director of water resources at Tech, believes that Lubbock water is abnormally hard. Cities that treat the water for hardness set 70 gallons per million as the goal, Wells said.

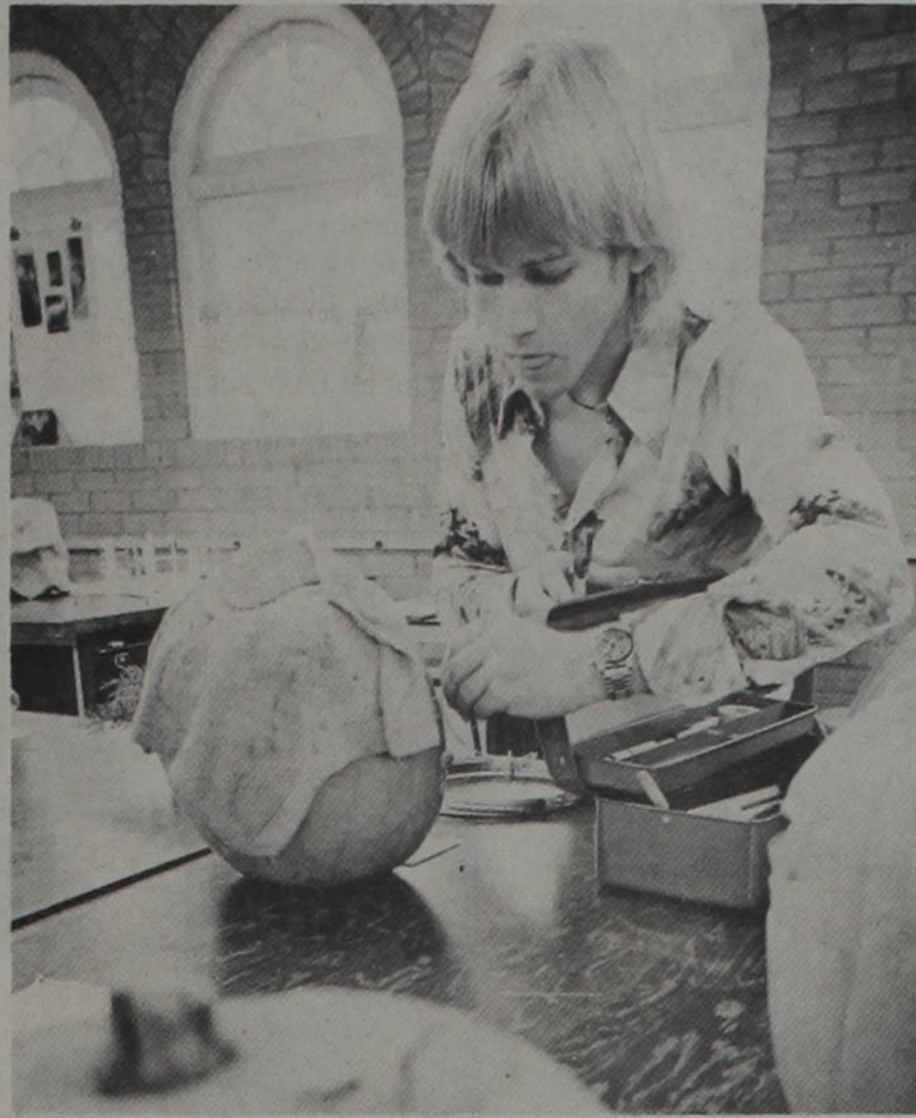

Most of Lubbock's water comes from Lake Meredith, close to Borger, approximately 150 miles from Lubbock. However, in the summer when more water is used, some water is brought from wells close to Muleshoe, 80 miles from here. The well water is slightly less hard than lake water, Miller said. Magnesium sulfate is the most prevalent hard chemical in the Lubbock water, Miller said. Magnesium and calcium, another chemical in the water, react with soap to form a scum. This might account for complaints that hard water leaves the skin dry, Miller said.

The city of Lubbock does not treat the water for hardness. According to Miller, a method to remove some of the hardness is available, but it is so expensive that it would not be practical for the city of Lubbock to use.

Commercial water softeners are available for home use. Several water softening companies service Lubbock. A spokesman for one of the companies estimates that 15 to 20 per cent of the homes in Lubbock have water softeners.

Commercial water softeners replace the magnesium with sodium sulfate, which is actually salt. Miller expressed the feeling that this may be worse for a person's Housing change studied

On-campus housing for sophomores may no longer be required if data being studied by Tech administrators indicates a need to change the current housing policy.

Cliff Yoder, assistant vice president for auxiliary affairs, said the administration is considering a change in the housing policy. However, a decision regarding a change will not be made until Yoder has enough facts compiled to submit to the University Board of Regents. Yoder said at least another 30 to 45 days will be needed before any recommendation will be made to the administration.

Projected growth rates of this university must be studied as well as the financial effects such a change might have on housing's financial position.

Davis named to sociology association

Emory G. Davis, Tech assistant professor of sociology, has been elected by the Executive Council of the American Sociological Association to serve as a member of the Committee on the Status of Racial and Ethnic Minorities in Sociology. Davis will serve a three-year term, beginning Jan. 1, 1977.

Davis had earlier been invited to attend the committee's meeting in New York Aug. 31 - Sept. 2.

He is editor of the Multi-Ethnic Newsletter for the Minorities Committee of the Southwest Sociological Association.

Special Services helps all who meet its requirements

By KAREN THOM
UD Staff

Two misconceptions keep Tech's Special Service program from being as effective as it could be, according to Shirley Wells, acting director of the program.

Special Services can help any United States citizen who meets the low income criteria established by the U.S. Commissioner of Education, or who is physically disabled or who has limited English speaking ability, Wells said. The student must be accepted or already enrolled in Tech.

"Most people think it's an ethnic minority program but anyone who falls in one of these three categories is eligible for our services," Wells said.

Another service offered by the program is counseling. Seven counselors are on staff now, Wells said, to serve students with any personal, career, academic, or financial problems.

Billy Childers is the program counselor and the other counselors are upper classmen and have at least one year of experience. The program serves about 300 students each school year, Wells said.

Many students feel it is unnatural to discuss a personal problem, Wells said. "They often feel awkward discussing these problems with anyone other than a close friend, while others keep their problems inside, causing them to become too anxious and thus creating a problem with their academic performance," she said.

The tutoring program, headed by Mary Batrice, is the most used of the services. "The main thing special services does is try to keep students enrolled in school," Wells said.

Application deadline nears for homecoming queen

Candidates for this year's homecoming queen have until Wednesday to submit an application to the Homecoming committee, according to Cotton Cave, spokesman for the committee.

"Any student enrolled for at least 12 hours and having a junior or senior classification may apply for homecoming queen," Cave said. "The candidate must also be sponsored by a student organization on campus and have at least a 2.0 overall grade point average."

Cave also said that candidates must be able to attend all homecoming activities and are required to submit two wallet size photos with the application.

Voting for homecoming queen will be held in the University Center on Nov. 9 and 10. The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Five finalists will be announced in The University Daily on Nov. 11. These five finalists will participate in pre-game ceremonies at the Tech-SMU game on Nov. 13. The queen will be announced at the ceremonies.

Applications for homecoming queen are available in the Saddle Tramp office, located across from the Tech Police Station in Building X-99. Anyone desiring more information may call the Tramp office at 742-3895.

George Mahon:

He knows us and we know him. And, thanks to him, our interests are well represented in Congress. He's doing a lot for the people of West Texas, and he can do a lot more next session when a new farm bill must be written, new energy and oil legislation is coming up, and there'll be new efforts to make free enterprise more free.

Suzuki strings

Suzuki string concert set

A performance by the famed Suzuki Tour Group (consisting of 10 children and six adults) will highlight the two-day Suzuki String Festival, sponsored by the Tech music department.
 The concert will be held in the new UC Theatre at 8:15 tonight. Tickets for the show are $4.
 The Shinichi Suzuki method focuses on violins. It assists children, particularly, in musical training and development. The method involves one lesson a week with an instructor, group teaching and learning at home by imitation with one of the child's parents (who also has had musical training).

 Preceding tonight's concert will be a workshop for local students of the method. Registration for the workshop starts at nine and the class will last from 10 to noon in the UC recital hall. Dr. Masaaki Honda will work with the participants. All those wishing to attend in the workshop must be Suzuki students. Fees for participants are $5 and observers may attend for $10. Albuquerque string instrument craftsman Don Robertson will hold a repair workshop from 2 to 5 in room 110 of the Music Building.

 Then, the Suzuki Tour Group's performance will follow. Also, the children's instrument, including a violin that is one-sixteenth the size of a regular one, will be on display.

More SMU troubles: Mustang linebacker David Bostick quits

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sportswriter

DALLAS (AP) — Senior linebacker David Bostick quit the Southern Methodist football team Monday after he was informed he was being demoted to the second-string, Coach Ron Meyer announced.

"Knee and thumb injuries had affected his performance and we moved other personnel ahead of him," said Meyer. "It was basically David's decision. He has been nicked up and decided he wanted to get well and make a career in baseball."

Meyer said Bostick's decision shouldn't "be blown out of proportion. He was hurt we were not doing better and decided with himself."

BOSTICK, WHO was recruited by former SMU Coach Dave Smith, did not start last Saturday's 36-0 loss to Texas A&M.

Meyer emphasized he was not trying to run anybody off, saying "I'll never turn my back on a senior. But the player who deserves to play will start."

Sophomore Putt Choate was moved ahead of Bostick at linebacker.

Meyer said such seniors as quarterback Ricky Wesson, offensive tackles Wayne Simpson and Jim Duggan, and safety Mark Howe would continue to start.

SMU takes its 2-6 record against Rice 2-5 Saturday in a Southwest Conference that Meyer calls "so important."

"IF WE CAN beat Rice it will give us a tremendous bounce into our last two games against Texas Tech and Arkansas," said Meyer. "I really think we're going to win our last three games."

"If we go 3-0 it will be dynamite to our program," added Meyer.

He said that realistically SMU's program was still three years away from being competitive.

"By 1979 we should have an outstanding team," said Meyer. "Of course, schedule-wise we've got to grow up quick."

He said "By 1979 I hope we can lineup more times as the pre-game favorite."

The dry look?

Swimmers prepare for opener

By JON MARK BEILUE
UD Sportswriter

While everyone's attention is focused upon the gridiron, Texas Tech swimmers are preparing for their opening dual meet of the season with the University of Arkansas, Nov. 5 and 6.

Coach Jim McNally, dean of Southwest Conference coaches is optimistic as he begins his 18th year as head coach.

"I'm excited about this year," said McNally. "We have 19 swimmers who really want to get after it. We have several top notch swimmers."

McNally said that this year's squad is the smallest team he has ever had but there is more overall quality this year than ever before.

TWO OF THE "top-notch" swimmers include Ed Graviss, sophomore, and Eric Muehlberger, junior.

Graviss holds four all-time Tech records in the 200-500-, 1,000-, and 1,500-meter freestyle.

"We have the potential to do pretty good," said Graviss. Muehlberger surprised everyone by winning the SWC championship in the 100-meter backstroke as a freshman. Muehlberger, according to McNally, can do a lot of things.

McNALLY IS also high on Chad Eckhart, senior, whom he terms as a real leader. Eckhart swims the 400-and 200-meter individual relay.

SMU is once again favored to capture the SWC crown. The Mustangs own about as many championships as Jimmy Carter has teeth. They have won the conference title 20 out of 21 years including 19 championships in a row.

After SMU, McNally tabs Texas followed by Houston.

"There should be a real fight for fourth between Tech, Texas A&M, and Arkansas," said McNally.

THE TECH swimmers have lived a spartan life since Sept. 28 when the Raiders began fall workouts. The distance swimmers are required to swim 8,500 yards daily — roughly 4.8 miles. The stroke and sprint swimmers cover between 5,500 and 6,000 yards, plus weight training each day.

From Nov. 8 until the Christmas holidays McNally and assistant coach Jeff Helms will drill the Raiders twice a day.

"Our swimmers must be dedicated," said McNally in an obvious understatement.

If that's not enough, the Raider swimmers will hit the pool three times a day beginning Dec. 30 until school resumes in mid-January.

McNally explains the necessity for the numerous practices, "If we want to be competitive we must out-work, out-coach and out-recruit our opponent. We beat people by quality workouts." McNALLY SAID that at a recent team meeting the Tech swim team adopted the motto: "Make Something Happen." So when Tech hosts Arkansas Nov. 5 and 6, Tech coaches are hoping "something" will materialize.

The Tech women's basketball team faces its first competition tonight at 6 p.m. in a scrimmage against South Plains College in the Women's Gym.

Coach Susie Lynch said the scrimmage should provide a good opportunity to analyze the Raiders' strong and weak points.

"We want to get a look at everybody on the bench," said Lynch. "We have only been working out for a month, and we would like to see if we can get our offense clicking. We are not too sharp on our timing on offense yet, so hopefully we can work on that and on the fast break."

Lynch also said she plans on having a fast defense.

"We want to be able to run a bunch, and to be able to press effectively. I think the girls are in good enough shape to do that," said Lynch.

The squad has several returning players, among them Jill Owens, Terri Dixon, DeeAnn Galloway and Carol Dudensing. Lynch also named scholarship athletes Carla Schuette, Cheryl Grier, Evelyn Munoz and Dudensing as outstanding prospects and players from whom she is expecting many good things.

Lynch said this year's team has an abundance of talent and this year's squad should definitely improve on last year's season record of 14 wins and 16 losses.

The Raiders have one more scrimmage before their regular season gets under way Nov. 23 against Angelo State University.

ABILENE — The Tech tennis team participated in the Abilene Halloween Tennis Tournament last weekend and almost finished at the top.

Mame Bevers and Tresea Williams advanced to the finals in doubles competition before falling to Jana Hanks and Ann Layman of Midland College, 6-0, 6-3.

In single play, Bevers reached the semifinals before losing to number two-seeded Jamie Bowen from TCU, 6-2, 7-5. Tech's Carla Weathersby lost in the third round to Layman, 6-3, 6-3, and Tresea Williams also was eliminated in the third round by Bowen, 6-4, 6-4.

The Raiders' next competition is against UT-Permian Basin at the Lubbock Raquet Club Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.

Injuries mount

By FRED HERBST
UD Sportswriter

Although the list of walking wounded was long after Saturday's encounter with the University of Texas, Tech coaches are encouraged, expecting quarterback Tommy Duniven to be available two weeks from now, against SMU.

Sophomore center Travis Mileur, who snapped punts, extra points, and field goals, is the most seriously injured player. He will be lost for the remainder of the season with a knee injury. Mileur was operated on Sunday.

"It happened on the third punt," said Mileur, who crawled from his hospital bed to witness the "shaving" of coaches Dockery and Limbaugh Monday afternoon. "It was on the line of scrimmage and somebody cut me."

According to Sloan, offensive linemen Greg Mahoney, Joe Walsted and Kenny Thiel will all try their hand at snapping for punts this week, with Sloan deciding on one for the TCU game.

Mileur wasn't the only center sidelined as starting snapper Terry Anderson was also injured. Anderson although improving, is questionable for the TCU contest.

Defensive tackle Kim Taliaferro along with linebacker Gary McCright are definitely out for the game, while linebacker Don Kelly is questionable.

With linebackers McCright and Kelly on the injured list, outside linebacker Mike Mock will practice at middle linebacker this week.

Also, freshman defensive tackle David Hill will suit up this week replacing Taliaferro on the travelling squad.

Injured freshmen Sam Bailey and James Hadnot, fullback and tight end, respectively, "will probably be able to play (against TCU)," Sloan said.

Part-time Palomino

Tech Head Student Football Manager John Lautenslager became the first manager ever to participate in a Raider Game. Not to be confused with his younger brother Greg, who is a member of the track team, John's talents extend around and outside of the football team.

Royal hits 'Cheap touchdown'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Jones fumbled at the Texas 38. Texas got "body on body" in shaking off its blocking slump against Texas Tech, but the offense still gave up two "cheap touchdowns" in Tech's 31-28 victory, Coach Darrell Royal said Monday.

Royal told his weekly news conference second-team quarterback Ted Constanzo had earned a starting job in guiding Texas 64, 72, 60 and 66 yards for touchdowns.

Although freshman fullback Jimmy Johnson, subbing for the injured Earl Campbell, scored three times, he will remain No. 2 - behind senior Jimmy Walker, who has been injured and run only once for five yards this season.

Royal said, "It verified what we already knew. He really executed. He's a scrambling type quarterback who turns losses into wins."

"He was pitching when he should have pitched and was keeping when he should have been keeping."

ASKED TO compare Allison and Houston's Danny Davis, whom Texas will face this Saturday, Royal said Davis is a "good passer and an excellent runner. He doesn't have quite as much experience as Allison has."

He said Houston is stronger physically on defense than Tech.

What's a Lautenslager?

By SCOTT KELM
UD Sportswriter

Who, what, and where is a John Lautenslager?

Who: Lautenslager is a senior microbiology major from Dallas.

What: He's the head student manager for the football team.

Where: He can be found in just about any kind of nook and cranny.

Lautenslager, after being recruited as a trainer by LSU and Centenary, decided upon Tech as the place to go, and has led a vivid life since his arrival on campus.

Says Raider Defensive Coordinator Bill Parcells: "I've never had anyone like him." Which can be taken two ways. (Lautenslager works with Parcells and the defense.)

Lautenslager's saga started with his sophomore year. Quickly he found out the life of a manager has some risks.

While taking snaps from then center David Dudley, Lautenslager dislocated a finger.

Then, after the season ended, the streaking craze came about. The night Tech set the Official World Record, Lautenslager was no where to be seen. He neither agrees with or denies this feat, its just that he was unaccountable for that evening.

Lautenslager is not at all a modest person.

"I led my high school (Dallas Bishop Dunne) baseball team in hitting my senior season. I was one-for-one," he said.

Lautenslager also once "stood in" for a football player during bed check. Because he's a tad skinny (Larry Isaac terms Lautenslager as "The Thin Man"), he had to stuff some pillows under the bed to impersonate the player.

During the spring of his sophomore year he accomplished yet another strange feat. While participating in a football weight training program, Lautenslager found himself being paired in the boxing portion against Brian Hall. Not far into the match, he went down for the count, with a nice shiner to show for his troubles.

As Hall put it, "John is a better manager than a boxer."

As a football manager, Lautenslager and the other managers must drive the equipment to all out-of-town games.

Lautenslager remembers the strangest of all his trips so far.

"We were coming back from Arkansas, driving in Oklahoma about 5 a.m. and I was driving, the only one awake in the van. All of a sudden we came upon a bridge with an overturned trailer on it. I swerved on two wheels and luckily missed it. Also on that trip, we stopped to get gas and discovered only a half gallon of gas left in the van. The next gas was about 200 miles away."

Lautenslager never really blossomed until the spring of his junior year.

He participated in the spring game this year, playing at the defensive back and flanker positions.

"I wanted to take it out on those who complain of too much starch in their jockey straps. Also I am indebted to Coach (Steve) Sloan for life for allowing me to play," said Lautenslager.

This summer Lautenslager took it upon himself to paint the tunnel from the varsity dressing room to the ramp leading to the field. "It's called Organized Confusion," says Lautenslager. (The painting consists of numerous circles, ending finally in the letters td, which mean getting it all together.)

Sloan terms Lautenslager "talented." The weekend before last he was overheard to say, "John will be painting the sidewalks of New York some day."

Lautenslager relates on his job, "I put in between 45-50 hours per week working with football. I'm used to work though, back in Dallas I've recently worked as a security guard and in the emergency room at Parkland Hospital. I thrive on excitement. This job has given me a chance to have a scholarship pay for my education."

TEXAS' LINE of scrimmage "blocked well, especially Rick Ingraham and Billy Gordon," Royal said.

"There was marked improvement, body on body, and there were good holes for our running backs to run through."

He said Texas backs averaged 5.6 yards a carry and that "normally will win for you."

The offense, however, cost Texas two touchdowns, Royal said, as quarterback Mike Cordaro threw an interception that Tech returned to the Texas 12-yard-line and halfback Johnny "Lam"

It just stands to reason that a Democrat could work more easily with other Democrats and obtain important committee assignments than a member of the minority party. I will be in a position to better serve District 75-A and maximize Lubbock's influence in the Legislature."

Vice President and General Manager of Resthaven Memorial Park and former associate minister of First United Methodist Churches in Lubbock and Corsicana and business manager of the First United Methodist Church in Fort Smith, Arkansas.
