Tech students may find themselves without electricity on campus during the coming summer session unless energy conservation measures are put into practice, according to Fred Wehmeyer, associate vice president for administrative servies.

Unless the university is given an emergency appropriation of $300,000 when the Texas Legislature meets in January, Tech faces a severe energy crunch in the summer months. Utility costs have risen dramatically since Tech put in its request for utility appropriations for the fiscal year ending in August 1977, Wehmeyer said.

THE CONSTRUCTION of new buildings on campus has also increased the drain on utility funds, he said.

"There is no way we can continue business as usual," Wehmeyer said about the impending energy crunch. "Our buildings will be a little cooler in the winter and a little hotter in the summer," he said.

"UNLESS WE have a decrease in consumption there will probably have to be an increase in housing rates," times.

Wehmeyer said. The university cannot use state funds to pay for housing utilities, he said, placing the burden of the cost on the students and their parents.

Plans are in the making to shut down certain buildings on campus after class hours to conserve energy, he said.

Some buildings, such as the Biology Building, housing experiments with plants and animals, must be cooled, according to Wehmeyer. The university will try to concentrate afterhours activities in a few buildings, he said.

"THERE WILL obviously be some personal inconveniences," Wehmeyer said. Faculty members will not be able to use their offices in the evenings or on weekends in most cases, he said.

"We can probably make it until the summer session on the money we have," Wehmeyer said, "but we are acting on the assumption that the extra funds will not be appropriated in case they aren't."

Minority enrollment down

By SUSAN HAMPTON UD Reporter

Tech does not have any recruiting programs geared specifically to the minority student at this time, according to Floyd Perry, admissions dean.

The current recruiting programs at Tech are geared to solicit students regardless of race, creed or color, Perry said.

THE OFFICIAL ethnic enrollment report, as released Tuesday by the Office of Statistics and Reports, shows a decline in enrollment of every minority group at Tech with the exception of American Indians.

The minority enrollment this fall merely dropped in proportion to the over-all university enrollment drop, Perry said.

The minority enrollment, as broken down by each minority group accounted for at Tech, shows the biggest decline by oriental students. from 171 in fall, 1975 to 66 this year.

MARK SCOTT, associate dean of admissions, attributed this decline to the change in admissions in engineering. The new admission requirements calls for a higher level of proficiency in English. Scott said this requirement might be keeping the oriental students majoring in engineering from attending Tech.

"This does not apply to the residence halls," Wehmeyer said. "There will be other conservation measures in the halls," he said. Wehmeyer stressed that temperatures would remain comfortable in the residence halls at all

Younger Carter talks on Playboy interview

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP) - Chip Carter, the son of the Democratic presidential nominee, said Tuesday during a Texas campaign swing his father's comments to Playboy magazine about former President Lyndon Johnson were misunderstood. "If you read the whole article, you'll see that the comments were taken out of context," Carter said.

"Dad said three or four real nice things about President Johnson in that interview, and I have never heard my father say one bad thing about Lyndon Johnson."

Young Carter referred to an exerpt of the Playboy interview where Jimmy

"We're trying to get people who really want to help SOBU," Gulley said. "We want to distinguish between the people who really want to make SOBU work, and those who want to ride on the boat."

DUES, GULLEY SAID, will "show the (Tech student) senate that SOBU is not out just to get money from the senate, and beg for other hand-outs from the administration."

Title IX has prompted another revision in SOBU's structure, Gulley said.

"This year, in order to comply with Title IX in dealing with discrimination, SOBU has opened its doors to all students interested in promoting the purpose of SOBU," Gulley said.

ARTICLE III, Section 1 of the proposed constitution says: "Any student enrolled at Texas Tech University that is interested in the promotion and purpose of SOBU can be a member of this organization."

The purpose of SOBU, according to Guinn, is "to make people aware of different cultures, to form some outlet of expression for black people and to work with the administration."

Gulley said that in addition to constitutional changes, the organization will reassess its goals in other areas as well.

"THE MOST important area that we need to work on in our relationship with Texas Tech University," Gulley said, "is infiltrating the political arena. You can see there's a great need by the results of the FIJI incident."

"Since we're working with the university more closely this year, we want to be sure that our constitution doesn't violate any rules that Texas Tech has set up," Gulley said.

Gulley plans for SOBU to work closer with the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

"They (NAACP) have bits of information that we can use," he said, "and SOBU can help them launch their particular programs whenever there's a need for additional manpower."

"One of the primary functions of my administration," Gulley said, "is to try to have a cross - cultural exchange between black and white students in order that the communication gap which presently exists here at Texas Tech can be bridged."

Economic index drops

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government said Tuesday that the index it uses to predict the future of the economy has dropped for the first time since the start of the current recovery. But a government economist said the drop in the index of leading indicators does not necessarily mean that there will be a decline in the economy.

John W. Kendrick, chief economist for the Commerce Department, said that most analysts consider a three month trend essential before a drop in the index could be interpreted as projecting a general economic downturn.

"Most business cycle expansions have lasted at least three years, so I don't think this one month decrease should be interpreted too negatively," Kendrick said. "It would be very unusual, for the economy to fall out of bed at this stage in the expansion."

The primary cause of the decline was the section of the index which reflects on what President Ford calls the crucial issue of job security.

The Commerce Department said the index fell 1.5 per cent in August, with about a third of the drop attributable to an increase in the layoff rate in manufacturing. This rate rose to its highest level in nine months.

The chicano enrollment at Tech declined from 515 last fall to 479. The black enrollment declined from 346 to 322, according to the report.

Perry said lack of minority enrollment in past years at Tech might also account for the decline.

"Minority students (blacks and chicanos) have a tendency to attend their parent's alma mater," he said. "Prior to 1964, Tech did not accept minority students."

THE MINORITY population for West Texas is low, Perry said, so, consequently, the minority student feels accepted and therefore more comfortable attending a college or university where his own minority group is accounted for in larger numbers.

Scott said the admissions office is currently preparing a special minority recruiting program with the help of minority organizations on campus.

Former funds plague Ford as debate nears

By the Associated Press

President Ford polished his foreign policy image Tuesday and his chief spokesman refused to answer questions about Ford's use of campaign funds in his home district when he was a congressman.

As the President met with the first of a parade of foreign ministers in advance of his foreign policy debate with Jimmy Carter, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen declined to say whether Ford had illegally converted campaign funds to his personal use.

"YOU KNOW THAT I'm not going to answer that question ... because its suggests that there is a need to answer it - that something like that has been charged," Nessen said.

There have been reports the Watergate special prosecutor is investigating whether Ford converted campaign funds to his own use through a local Republican party organization in Michigan while he was in the House of Representatives.

At the same time, Nessen was asked about the President's acceptance of golfing hospitality. He said Ford played on three courses operated by corporations while he was a congressman. Nessen said he does not know if the companies paid the President's expenses.

FORD'S CAMPAIGN funds and golf outings came up as the President met with Hans Dietrich Genscher, foreign minister of West Germany. It was the first of several such White House meetings which are a yearly tradition, but which the White House hopes will underscore the picture of a president busy with foreign policy.

Foreign ministers of the Soviet Union, Britain, France, Italy and other unspecified nations will follow Genscher into the Oval Office as they travel to New York for the annual autumn session of the United Nations General Assembly. Ford also met with congressional leaders to discuss Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Rhodesian peace efforts. THE PRESIDENT encounters Carter in their second debate, this one covering foreign policy, on Oct. 6 in San Francisco. Carter, too, was preparing for the face off, by reviewing the first of several briefing books his aides are preparing.

going to be president." Flu program begins Friday

ATLANTA (AP) — The nationwide swine flu immunization program gets under way Friday in three cities after more than a month's delay caused by vaccine production problems and demands by manufacturers for protection from potential lawsuits over side effects.

A national Center for Disease Control (CDC) spokesman said Tuesday that swine flu shots will be administered to senior citizens Friday in Pontiac, Mich., at a "health fair" in Indianapolis and by the city health department in Philadelphia.

HE SAID the vaccine would be administered in other cities beginning Monday but that it would be up to state health authorities to determine which specific cities.

THE MANUFACTURERS were concerned with the possibility of lawsuits stemming from possible side

Congress hurriedly passed legislation making the government the part of first resort in such suits, which means that the government would field all legal action filed in connection with administration of the vaccine.

CDC spokesman Wendell Bradford said recently that public interest in the immunization program has not been high enough to generate concern that vaccine supplies will disappear too quickly. "I frankly don't believe we'll end up having to turn people away," he said.

IN WASHINGTON on Tuesday, the Merrell National Laboratories of Cincinnati, the largest producer of the vaccine, began shipping 4.5 million doses to 21 states on Tuesday, the same day Parke Davis of Detroit began shipments.

The CDC spokesman said he did not know how large the Parke Davis shipment was. He said Merck, Sharpe and Dohme of West Point, Pa., shipped 1.5 million doses last week.

THOSE MANUFACTURERS and Wyeth Laboratories of Marietta, Pa., have agreed to provide 132 million doses of the vaccine, but the CDC spokesman said the agency is negotiating for more.

The companies have agreed to provide 117 million doses by Dec. 1 and another 15 million doses by January. The flu season generally doesn't begin until December or January.

The mass immunization program was to have begun in July, but was held up by production problems and complex discussions between manufacturers and the government over

White House doctor said President Ford will get his swine flu shot sometime next month.

The nationwide immunization program was set in motion after an outbreak of swine flu at Ft. Dix, N.J., last January. One soldier died of the disease.

Fearing a recurrence of the 1918-19 flu epidemic which killed 20 million persons - 500,000 of them Americans officials recommended the current program, and Congress allocated $135 million for purchase and distribution of vaccine.

THE CDC recommended single swine flu shots for persons between the ages of 18 and 65 and bivalent shots protecting against swine flu and the A Victoria flu strain that broke out last winter - for the elderly or chronically ill.

A CDC committee is to report in October on the advisability of swine flu shots for healthy youngsters, but the agency currently recommends against such shots.

SOBU's black drama group is one way of bridging this gap, Gulley said. The black drama group, Gulley said, will "express black art in different avant garde styles." It will also enhance learning, he said.

SOBU intends to sponsor a Thanksgiving food drive, Gulley said, which will help provide needy Lubbock citizens with food for the holidays.

"We've felt we needed to work with the Lubbock community more," Gulley said.

SOBU will also work with the Texas Tech Programs for Older Texans (TTPOT), he said.

In the spring, Gulley said, SOBU will sponsor a Miss Black Texas Tech Pageant, in addition to Black Week. SOBU is also taking an active part in Tech recruiting, Gulley said. Members are making a recruiting film and will go to some metropolitan areas of the state, he said.

Former Tech student awaits deportation proceedings

By JACK BEAVERS UD Reporter

A former Tech student awaits deportation from the United States behind bars in Lubbock County Jail today following his arrest by University Police (UPD) officers after he allegedly threatened to take his own life and the lives of some of his former professors.

The Middle Eastern ex-student was suspended from Tech last spring as a result of his poor scholastic standing. He allegedly told Dr. Herald Winkler, chairman of the department of petroleum engineering, Friday, Sept. 24, that he felt his suspension came as a result of a failing grade he received in Winkler's course and that he intended to commit suicide.

Later that evening, according to police reports, the ex-student allegedly contacted a colleague of Winkler's and told him that if he could get him back into school "it would save two lives."

UPD detectives were attempting to locate him for questioning Tuesday afternoon when they received a report that the former student was inside Dean of Engineering Dr. John Bradford's office.

After UPD officer and detectives arrested the ex-student it was determined that his student visa and passport had expired.

He was released to U.S. Immigration authorities. The former Tech student is currently being held without bond in county jail as an illegal alien.

On other campuses: strikes, co-ops

Every now and then it is interesting to look at what is happening on other campuses. It always becomes apparent that while universities may have things in common, each is an individual with a personality and problems of its own.

Let's take a look at what has been happening on other campuses:

At the University of Texas (UT) the big news is still the shuttle bus strike. Union shuttle bus drivers have been striking for nearly a month now against Transportation Enterprises, Inc. The union members are picketing all over campus to dramatize demands for wage and cost of living increases. Many of the buses are still running driven by new nonunion employes. There have been reports of bus drivers threatening the picketers with knives and guns.

Most UT students are sympathetic with the strikers and many are boycotting the buses. There are others who would ride the buses if they could but all of the buses are not running.

Either way, the students are the ones suffering and not getting their student fee's worth of bus service.

Harvard University is wealthy. It is so wealthy that until recently it had $370,000 worth of paintings hanging in its president's home. When the paintings were stolen last month, it came out that Harvard hadn't even bothered to insure them, preferring instead to simply take the risk. Yes, Harvard is wealthy. At last tally, its endowment fund--made up largely of gifts from friends and alumni--was valued at $1,321,930,000. Yes, I said BILLION. The figure is equal to the combined endowments of the next three richest schools: Yale, Columbia and Princeton. We won't draw any comparisons with Tech's funds.

The University of Massachusetts stereo coop claims a membership of 800. The co-op operates out of the university center and does an annual $100,000 business selling discount records, tapes and stereo equipment. The nonprofit organization charges members a $5 yearly fee for the privilege of getting discounts of about 30 per cent on purchases. The organization, which is more club than store and whose members are more music enthusiasts than salesmen, also offers members impartial, informed advice on selecting stereo components.

The stereo co-op is interesting in light of Tech Student Association's food co-op which is just getting off the ground. I guess some folks just like to eat better than to listen to music.

Over 25 per cent of the students in agricultural colleges are women, an indication that agriculture is no exception to the rule of changing roles for women. At the University of Florida, College of Agriculture, four of the five top awards recently went to undergraduate women, including awards for the outstanding junior and senior students in agriculture.

Why do you suppose medical students and other hospital personnel are ripping off hospitals' hemostats? Because hemostats, those scissor-like clamp instruments for operating rooms, make excellent roach clips for smoking pot. A spokesman for one medical supply firm said the problem is plaguing hospitals all over the country.

Speaking of marijuana, the president of Eastern Oregon State College recently learned there were marijuana plants growing in the campus flower beds. A group called the Ozone Liberation Front planted the seedlings with two purposes in mind: to call attention to strict state penalties for growing marijuana and to help further the president's campus beautification program. The president is an agronomist.

Yes, each university is unique. Harvard may have more money but I bet it doesn't have an Ozone Liberation Front.

WASHINGTON - "What is the press?" asked Congressman Olin Teague of Texas, in a serious effort to define the scope of the First Amendment at the House Ethics Committe's final hearing on the leak of the Pike Report.

The question is worth asking, but not in the atmosphere of the hearing room: In a disgraceful abuse of power, a committee of Congress threatened four journalists with "prosecution and punishment" for refusing to reveal sources and editorial methods.

The Ethic Committee, split on whether to hold Daniel Schorr in contempt, will not back up its threats. Lawyers on the committee are doubtful that the full House would sustain a contempt citation, and are worried that if it did pass, the citation would be struck down by the Supreme Court, severely weakening the investigative powers of the Congress. IF CONGRESS IS genuinely concerned about national security leaks, it should fill up the holes in its own sieve. But the invitation to the Congress to attack the First Amendment by threatening newsmen with jail came partly as the result of a show of division and vacillation by the press itself. Jimmy Quillan, R-Tenn., proudly pointed to the disagreement within the journalistic community about Dan Schorr's publishing the Pike report in the Village Voice. Some journalists have nitpicked various details of the method of publication, and some publishers have tut-tutted at the lack of prestige of the Voice. Too many editorialists at first missed the significance of all that was at stake, and the congressmen sensed that weakness and moved in. "IF SCHORR DIDN'T do anything wrong," one of the committee members asked me, "Why did CBS suspend him?" More than anything, the action of CBS against its own employee - paying for a lawyer, but then ostentatiously holding its corporate nose - is the display of weakness that permitted this investigation to go this far. It was not always thus. Five years ago, when CBS President Frank Stanton was cited for contempt by a House committee for refusing to hand over what in effect were reporters' notes, CBS Chairman Bill Paley called his affiliates together and gave them strong marching orders: lean on congressmen locally to vote down the contempt citation. AT THAT TIME, CBS also sought the help of the Nixon White House in persuading conservative congressmen to block the contempt move. Surprisingly, the word was passed that the White House was not its usual pressvindictive self in this matter. House Minority Leader Gerald Ford voted against the contempt citation, which was defeated.

Three days after that vote, White House aide Charles Colson granted Dr. Stanton a meeting CBS had been seeking for weeks, graciously accepting his thanks. The meeting was secretly taped; Colson now recalls that most of the tape was virtually unintelligible but that the CBS president more than once assured the Nixon men that "we want to work with you."

As can be seen, when one of its top executives was under fire, CBS was ready to lay the sticks on their affiliates and offer the carrots

Music reviews draw criticism

Misdirected review

To the Editor:

The University Daily has obviously misdirected the Pullen record review to the Fine Arts section where it should have been placed in the Obituaries. He obviously thinks that James Taylor is dead as an artist.

We don't wish to discredit Mr. Pullen as a writer but we are especially displeased with his efforts in reviewing the latest James Taylor lp "In The Pocket."

Pullen seems to think that Taylor has drifted from the "James Taylor of old," yet he states in earlier lines that "Taylor hasn't done any expanding." Pullen criticizes the inconsistency of the album when he (Pullen) himself is inconsistent in his remarks.

Taylor has grown from his simple folksy songs of the past and progressed (like most successful musicians) to a more produced tight sound, using intricate vocal harmonies and an abundance of instrumental backing.

He ignorantly failed to mention the appearance of such stars as Stevie Wonder, Bonnie Raitt, Crosby & Nash, Art Garfunkel, and Taylor's own wife Carly Simon. Wouldn't readers be interested in that?

Pullen has the right to his opinion but we feel that he hardly shares the same views as the Tech community. According to Billboard magazine, "Pocket" was recently one of the top ten selling records IN THE NATION !!! Could it be all that bad? Come on Dougie...

Pullen needs to leave room for the reader to make his own conclusions by stating what the album has to offer and not just cutting it down. Has Doug ever heard of the song "Shower The People"? It wasn't even mentioned in the article. I think it's time for a little re-evaluation. Let's have a little objectivity!

Leon, Mary show

To the Editor:

Why doesn't The University Daily have any fine arts writers? Judging from the review of the Leon and Mary Russell concert, the U.D. badly needs one. (Send Pullen back to sports!). Instead of evaluating the Russells' music, Pullen griped about all the factors which were not their fault the delay in equipment set-up, the pitiful crowd, and the lousy acoustics of the Lubbock coliseum. The show itself was professional and exciting. Rarely has Lubbock witnessed such power and concentrated energy in a live performance. Anyone who was near the stage knows that Leon was anything but laid back. It must have broken Doug's heart that Leon didn't play a Grand Funk favorite for his encore! Thanks to Pullen's consistently bad taste and big mouth, real stars are less likely to come to Lubbock, and Leon and Mary Russell certainly won't ever come back.

BUT WHEN ONE OF its newsmen dared to publish a minor-league version of the Pentagon papers - after first using portions on the air, and making the text available to CBS for publication - suddenly CBS lost the taste for all but the most formal battle.

In the Schorr case, CBS Chairman Bill Paley saw the chance to rid himself of the only newsman who followed up the story - broken by a former CBS news president - of Paley's longtime cover arrangements with the Central Intelligence Agency.

And so Schorr was taken off CBS, encourageing some congressmen to believe he must have done "something" wrong.

AFTER CONGRESSMAN Quillan's riproaring "newspapers come and go, but our country remains forever" blast at a fundamental freedom in the name of security, there should be no joy atop the fortress at Black Rock. Bill Paley - who resolutely forced Ed Murrow out of broadcasting, and tried to silence Howard K. Smith - might be having second thoughts about where his suspension of the annoying Schorr has led.

To conservatives who enjoyed harassing journalists seen to be liberals, as well as to those who are seriously concerned with protection of national security, let me suggest this answer to "What is the press?" The press is the countervailing power built into our Constitution that is the best defense against all other powers.

In the near future, the only countervailing power to the liberalism of Speaker-to-be Tip O'Neill and Majority Leader-to-be Hubert Humphrey might have to be a critical press. If Ford should lose, we could hardly expect help from the former governor of Georgia who called a senator after the publication of the Pentagon papers to urge, in his words, "the enactment of federal legislation that would make news organizations criminally liable."

Syrians battle guerrillas

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Artillery shells set mountain side villages afire Tuesday as Syrian troops and Christian forces launched an offensive against leftist Lebanese and Palestinian guerrilla positions east of Beirut. The military action touched off a verbal duel between the Egyptian and Syrian governments.

Isolated ground clashes were reported, but there was no sign of a major battle or infantry push. Christian commanders said Syrian armored units were advancing slowly in five columns and speculated that the slow advance was to allow the Palestinians to retreat without a bloody showdown.

Palestinians, however, claimed it was the beginning of an all out Syrian attack to crush the leftist alliance.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat charged that the Syrian attack was an attempt to destroy the Palestinian movement and shatter Arab efforts to end the war. He warned that Syria "will never escape the punishment of history.'

Prisoner talks progressing

HOUSTON (AP) - The U.S. ambassador to Mexico expressed hope Tuesday the United States and Mexico can complete negotiations by Dec. 1 on an exchange of prisoners.

Ambassador Joseph John Jova told newsmen the negotiations are progressing very well, but some constitutional problems remain to be resolved.

"I'm hopeful the negotiations can be finished before the end of the Echeverria administration," Jova said.

President Luis Echeverria of Mexico is to be succeeded Dec. 1 by President elect Jose Lopez Portillo.

Jova said claims of mistreatment and sometime torture of American prisoners in Mexican jails must be balanced with the allegations of mistreatment of illegal Mexican aliens in the United States.

Athletic recruiting at Tech-students play a big part

Recruiting is a big part of Texas Tech athletics and students play a big part in Tech recruiting.

The Saddle Tramps and the Raider Recruiters influence many prospective athletes to decide on Tech as the place to display their talents.

Applications are now being taken from girls who want to be Raider Recruiters. Applications can be picked up in the Saddle Tramp office in room X-99, and the applications must be turned in by 5:30 Friday afternoon. All applications must be accompanied by a current photo of the applicant.

"A girl has got to be knowledgeable about Texas Tech, she's got to be able to think on her feet and she's got to be free on Saturdays and Sundays to even begin to fulfill the requirements," said Saddle Tramp Larry Cunyus, who is acting as program chairman.

Mike Mock and David Kuydendall are among the Tech football players who feel the student recruiters do a great deal in supporting Tech athletics.

"When I came to Tech as a prospect I was very impressed with the girls and the Saddle Tramps, and I still feel that the Saddle Tramps are a tremendous organization," said Mock.

"I visited Utah and found no one really cared about football," Kuydendall said, "I came to Tech and went to a basketball game and found that Tech students, and the city of Lubbock as a whole, were very interested in sports. Moreso than other places that I visited."

Kuydendall added, "It (student recruiting) is a main factor in people choosing to attend Tech, and it makes a big difference to guys with lots of offers."

The Raider Recruiters work with the Tramps in giving the prospect a view of what student life is like at Tech. The students work might include a tour of campus, a look at the academic community, and whatever area the prospect happens to be interested in.

Tech recruiting coordinator Mike Pope says that the student recruiters can find out many things about a prospect that the coaches are not able to do. The coaches do not go to class or know much about the social life of college students.

The students can tell the prospect what the social aspect is like, and many times can show the prospect what Lubbock night life has to offer.

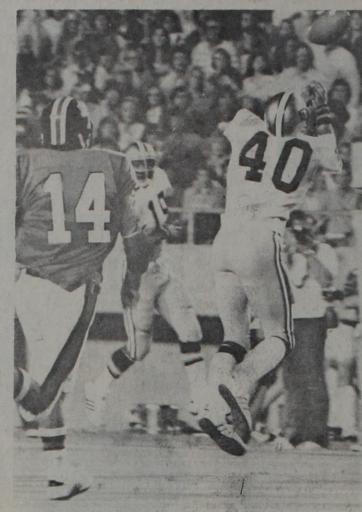

The recruiters work year-round with the various prospects, calling them and writing letters. The athletic department pays all the expenses and coordinates the activities.

"Basically, they (the recruiters) just try to sell the athlete on Texas Tech," Cunyus said. "We are the only school in the Southwest Conference that has any organized student drive like this, and it's really paying off, but we still need the people for this year."

Pope emphasized that the girls are not used as a dating service. The recruiters are matched with prospects either from the same town or with prospects whose interests correspond with those of the recruiter.

Pope said, "We don't tell the recruiters what to say to the prospects. We only want the recruiters to be natural, and to cover the areas that might be a factor in getting the prospect to choose to come to Tech."

Raider Recruiter applicants will be interviewed on Oct. 16, and may obtain further information by calling the Tramp office at 742-3895.

Bellard sees tough road for Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) - Texas A&M coach Emory Bellard figures he will have a tough psychological job getting his team ready to play Illinois this week, but that's nothing new.

"It's a tough job every week because of the calibre of competition," Bellard said. "The way football is now, you have to be ready to play every week. Any team we have left can beat Texas A&M, and we can beat any of them. But it's going to be a tough fight every week."

"Illinois has a fine football team," Bellard said. "Defensively they are big, aggressive and play a complex scheme.

"Illinois had a lot of bad breaks against Baylor, and Baylor was strong enough to take advantage of them. I know we're going to have a tough chore."

Of the bright spots in the loss to Houston last Saturday, Bellard said. "Defensively we didn't play that bad. We made three bad mistakes. Jimmy Dean and Robert Jackson both played extremely well. Tank Marshall had his best game of the season."
